The third positive step of the Salvadoran democratic revolution has been its progress toward protecting human rights, under trying circumstances. Although much remains to be accomplished, the government is asserting more effective control over abuses by its own forces. The military code of conduct, instituted after the October 1979 revolution, is beginning to be more vigorously enforced: 292 active duty members of the armed forces have been turned over to civilian courts for prosecution -- one-half in the last six months; over 600 members of the National Guard alone have been discharged, and officers with known extremist sympathies have been removed from command positions. Each inch of progress has been won in the face of brutal and continuing violence by guerrilla and rightist paramilitary groups hostile to government policy.

Yet, more can be done. Whatever the provocations, murder and abuses by government or any other forces are intolerable and the U.S. will continue to work to help eliminate such abuses. But the greatest obstacle to ending human rights abuses in El Salvador is the civil war itself.

Why do the guerrillas wage a civil war that has already claimed tens of thousands of lives out of a population one-hundredth the size of the U.S.? Why do they claim that bullets rather than ballots are the true choice of the people?

What do the Guerrillas Stand For?

The guerrillas claim to be a genuine popular revolution, but they have done everything in their power to destroy the progressive reforms of the revolutionary government. Only days after the October 1979 revolution, members of the violent Left attacked the new government before promised reforms could even be launched. The new government was not even given a few months chance to institute its democratic revolution in conditions of peace.

Let us be under no illusions as to the nature of the groups forming the violent left. Most of these groups were offshoots of the traditional Salvadoran Communist Party. Once divided, these groups have been reunified, and rejoined with the Communist Party, by arms and logistic support from Cuba and other Communist states as far away as Viet-Nam and Eastern Europe.

The tactics of these groups often consist of terrorizing innocent civilians and provoking violence by government forces in order to radicalize the population. That makes it all the more important for the government to control unnecessary violence by its own forces. But it destroys any claim by the guerrillas that their principal concern is to end violent abuses. If that is their purpose then they are truly destroying El Salvador in order to save it and the massive turnout at the polls on March 28 shows -- more than anything else -- that the people of El Salvador recognize that.

Let us look at the armed Left's program:

The guerrillas call for an undefined "end to exploitation," land reform, a mixed economy, and "restructuring" of the military and the government. But the government has already implemented and gone beyond these guerrilla demands. The fact is that the guerrillas see economic progress as a threat and that is why the "enemies" of the guerrillas include dams and power plants, bridges and buses. Indeed, the major issue at this time, "restructuring" of the government, is precisely the mandate of the newly-elected Constituent Assembly. Yet the armed left sought to block that election.

The absence of concrete proposals for change is itself revealing. The guerrillas and their external supporters seem to want only one thing -- the seizure of power. For this cause -- the guerrillas have murdered scores of Salvadoran civilians, civil defense members, and peasant soldiers. For this they have been willing to bathe El Salvador in the blood of a civil war.

Who Are the True Revolutionaries?

Let us compare the revolutionary government's reforms and the guerrillas' desperate anti-democratic actions.

-- The government has implemented land reform; the guerrillas, like the extreme Right, have worked to disrupt it, knowing that the reform threatens to take away their basis of support.

-- The government has conducted free and fair elections; the guerrillas, conscious of their lack of popular support, used systematic sabotage and violence to stop their fellow Salvadorans from choosing their own leaders.

-- The government is seeking to curb human rights abuses by its personnel. Has anyone heard of guerrillas being charged or punished for the murders they commit? When the guerrillas openly boast over their radio of their "execution" of "informers," has anyone ever inquired who authorized these "executions," how these alleged "informers" were identified and proven "guilty"? There is no concern for the human rights of the guerrillas' victims.

Who then truly stands for the democratic revolution? Those who conduct free elections or those who disrupt them? Those who implement land reform or those who attack it? Those who are trying to curb human rights abuses or those who are committed to terror and Marxism-Leninism? The massive voter turnout on March 28 has given a clear answer.

The Democratic Veneer of Totalitarianism

Some democratic elements have allied themselves with the armed guerrillas of the Left. But the dominant reality is that these democratic forces are small and unarmed and remain at the mercy of armed Marxist-Leninist groups. Ungo's assurance in Managua on March 21, that the guerrillas would not disrupt the March 28 elections testifies to his powerlessness as President of the guerrilla political front.

Over and over again in the twentieth century we have seen this pattern of Communist insurgencies. When guerrillas are struggling for power, their promises are attractive.

This is the young, seductive face of totalitarian revolutions. They offer compromise with democratic elements. But never in this century have unarmed democrats survived as part of a victorious coalition with armed totalitarian groups. When this totalitarianism takes power, it shows its true face. Those who admired its revolutionary struggle must then make lame excuses or find some other, apparently heroic revolutionary struggle to celebrate. The people whose revolution was betrayed must remain and live under tyranny or flee as refugees. We need only look to Nicaragua to see how popular front tactics can be readily cast off once power is achieved.

What is the United States Policy?

What is U.S. policy toward El Salvador? Under both the Carter and the Reagan Administrations the United States has supported political and economic reform efforts of the Salvadoran Government. President Carter accorded economic and military assistance to the embattled Salvadoran Government. President Reagan has continued and increased that aid.

The efforts which the Carter and Reagan Administrations have supported -- land reform, democratization, attempts to curb human rights abuses -- have been realized only in part and, at times, imperfectly. Yet, given Salvadoran history and the attitude of the violent extremes, this movement in itself is no small victory.

As long as the guerrillas in El Salvador continue to wage war against the democratic process, we will continue to aid the government in defending itself. At the same time we will continue to insist on progress in bringing the armed forces under effective command and control and in ending abuses of the civilian population. And we will support our traditional policy goals.

But giving them the assistance they need to defend themselves does not mean that we ourselves need to become involved in their fight. We will not send American troops to El Salvador. This is not wanted by the Salvadoran government, would not serve anyone's interest, and is not needed. What the Salvadoran government needs are the tools to do the job.

We pledge ourselves to provide the Salvadorans with military support to oppose insurgent violence, economic assistance -- which this year will be more than double our military help -- to attack basic problems, and political support to allow a flourishing of Salvadoran democracy. Our approach is comprehensive. We are not blinded by mindless anti-Communism or knee-jerk attachment to military solutions.

We want the violence to end as soon as possible: We call on the guerrillas to agree to end the fighting. And we expect the government to hold out a hand of conciliation and to discuss Presidential and legislative electoral conditions and procedures with all parties and groups, including those not in government. We favor, and will encourage, negotiations to these ends.

The guerrillas, up to this point, appear to believe that they have some intrinsic right to dictate what government the Salvadoran people should have, although they refused to submit to the electorate's judgement, March 28. According to the guerrillas' notion, once the Salvadoran government is "restructured" to their satisfaction, an uncontested referendum on this new government should be held.

We, of course, reject, as has the Salvadoran Government, any scheme to prevent the Salvadoran people from choosing their own government through competitive democratic elections. We want negotiations, but we will never usurp the Salvadoran people's rights. We do not want to see the promising democratic revolution in El Salvador betrayed as we fear may be happening in Nicaragua.

What is the Real Danger to the U.S.?

The consequences of a failure to support democratic elements in Central America are clear and stark -- tyranny and misery for the peoples of Central America and danger for us. We are far better off paying the price now, rather than waiting until the danger is so overwhelming that only the use of American force will protect us.

The threat we face is clear: an expanding coalition of militarist regimes created and sustained by force. These regimes, like Cuba and Nicaragua, export subversion to their neighbors while threatening them with offensive military build-ups. As we have seen in Cuba, these countries lend themselves readily to others' projection of military threats against the United States, our friends, and our strategic interests -- the Canal, sea lanes, oil supplies.

Each successful use of force by these regimes validates and encourages yet another use. Ethiopia followed Angola, Afghanistan followed Ethiopia and Kampuchea, El Salvador followed Nicaragua. When a small country such as Cuba, ninety miles from our shores, uses, or promotes use of, force with success, what does this say to the Soviet Union with nuclear weapons and with more than 3.5 million men under arms? We must avoid permitting the logic of force to play itself out again, validating yet more use of force and intimidation against ourselves and our friends.

It is not just the freedom of El Salvador that is at stake but the international environment in which we live. We cannot allow the process of democratic change to be perverted by external intervention into the dead-end path of armed totalitarianism. That promises only repression and poverty for the people of Central America and war and violence for the people of this Hemisphere.

The President has no intention of sending American soldiers to fight in El Salvador. The real danger to the United States arises not from our measured assistance to the people of El Salvador but from the danger that all of Central America could become a hostile armed camp on the scale of Cuba or, increasingly, Nicaragua. Then the military threat to the United States and its neighbors would become too great to ignore. Then the danger could arise that American forces once again might have to be committed to combat. The best safeguard we have against the danger is to provide the people of El Salvador with the economic and military assistance they need to promote their own development and to protect their own democracy.

What America Stands For

The American people are proud that our country had the first democratic revolution. No American wants to side with a repressive government against a democratic revolution. In El Salvador we are supporting a government that seeks to complete and defend the democratic revolution against violent extremists who masquerade as the forces of order or the vanguard of liberation. No American wants to be in a position where negotiations are spurned. In El Salvador, we support negotiations to ensure free elections that every party can safely contest. No American wants U.S. troops to fight and die in other countries. In El Salvador, we will not send U.S. troops but will help the Salvadorans to defend their democratic revolution. Following this course we will be true to our own democratic revolution.

For the truths the Salvadoran people demonstrated so vividly in their election are our truths too. They showed that ordinary people are capable of self-government. They rejected the false promises of those who would create economic chaos and short-circuit democracy through violence. The democratic revolution of El Salvador is our revolution too.

Following is a summary of activities on the Hill late Wednesday evening and today.

Wednesday

FAA MARKUP. The HFAC completed markup and reported a bill. The bill, which was already unacceptable, was made more so when the HFAC provided, among other things, $1.5 billion in supplemental FY-85 ESF for Israel and concessional FMS terms for Greece. In addition, several amendments were accepted which further cut our military assistance levels. The Committee also approved several punitive aid restrictions on four ARA narcotics offender nations. (DLHolcomb)

State Authorization Markup. The HFAC approved $2.793 billion which is about $32 million below our request. The bill provides "Assistant Secretary" titles for INR and PM. A Solarz amendment imposing Hatch Act-like restrictions on serving Ambassadors was withdrawn after assurances of early hearings. The bill also includes provisions for a Mexico travel advisory linked to the DEA murder, and a consular and passport services fund. (TBleha)

Export Administration Act. The Senate passed its version of the EAA. The full HFAC reported the House version. An amended bill incorporating both is scheduled for the House suspension calendar on April 15 or 16. (JGBurke)

Nominations. The Senate confirmed the nomination of Faith R. Whittlesey as Ambassador-designate to Switzerland. (LRHoppe)

Chile. The full HFAC reported H. Con. Res. 52, a non-binding resolution which recommends continued U.S. opposition to IFI loans to Chile and ending joint military exercises. (JForbes)

Thursday

Nicaragua Vote. Senator Dole introduced a Joint Resolution of approval in the Senate, and has, by unanimous consent, scheduled a vote for April 23. We expect a similar resolution to be introduced in the House when it reconvenes on April 15. (JForbes)

CODEL Cohen. EUR DAS Mark Palmer briefed Senators Cohen and Levin on their upcoming trip to Geneva and the USSR. (LMurray)

Middle East Update. Dick Murphy appeared before HFAC's Hamilton Subcommittee and answered Member questions on the peace process and the Gulf war, including our attempts to interdict chemical weapon ingredients to Iraq. He said the Middle East arms transfer study was unlikely to be completed before May, and that we would consult with Congress before any arms sales. (SWBuck)

COULD NOT UNDERSTAND WHY SHAWCROSS HAS NOT CONTACTED HER AS REQUESTED.

2. DEPOFF REVIEWED STEPS EMBASSY HAS TAKEN TO SEARCH FOR SUBJECTS PER PARA 7 REFTEL B AND ADVISED MRS. BLAKE THAT NEITHER DEPT. NOR EMBASSY HAS ANY INVESTIGATORY AUTHORITY IN THIS CASE BUT MUST RELY UPON THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES TO CONDUCT THE SEARCH. WE ADVISED THAT THE GUATEMALAN ARMY HAD ALREADY SENT OUT SEARCH TEAMS AND APPEARED TO BE COOPERATING WITH THE EMBASSY IN AN EFFORT TO LOCATE THE TWO MEN.

3. DURING MORNING CONVERSATION, MRS. BLAKE ALLUDED TO A JOURNALIST WHO REPORTEDLY SAW HER SON AS LATE AS APRIL 5. HOWEVER, WHEN DEPOFF SPOKE WITH HER AGAIN ON AFTERNOON OF 4/17, MRS. BLAKE SAID THAT THIS HAD ALL BEEN A MISTAKE. SHE HAS SUBSEQUENTLY SPOKEN WITH SHAWCROSS, WHO INFORMED HER THAT THIS INFORMATION WAS INCORRECT.

4. MRS. BLAKE INFORMED DEPARTMENT THAT SHAWCROSS, WHO IS IN HUEHUETENANGO, HAS SENT OUT A SEARCH PARTY TO LOOK FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS. THREE PEOPLE, ACCORDING TO MRS. DAVIS, SET OUT FROM HUEHUETENANGO ON 4/14 ENROUTE TO SAN JUAN IXCHOY AND FROM THERE ON TO NEBAJ IN SEARCH OF THE TWO MEN. MICHAEL SHAWCROSS IS REPORTEDLY GOING TO MEXICO (MRS. BLAKE IS NOT SURE WHERE) TO SEE WHAT HE CAN FIND OUT. SHE ALSO ADVISED THAT THE MAJOR RADIO STATION IN NEBAJ IS BROADCASTING ABOUT THE TWO MEN THREE TIMES A DAY WHILE THE INCA LANGUAGE STATION IS ALSO CARRYING BROADCASTS.

5. THE BLAKE FAMILY HAS REPORTEDLY HAD A CALL FROM ANOTHER FRIEND IN COSTA RICA (PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEER JIMMY ADRIANCE, TELEX ADDRESS SANTA MARIA DE DOTA, SAN JOSE) WHO, ON THE BASIS OF A CONVERSATION WITH FRED MORRIS, A JOURNALIST WHO PUBLISHES A MONTHLY NEWSLETTER ENTITLED "CENTRAL AMERICAN STUDIES", THINKS THAT BLAKE MAY BE WITH THE GUERILLAS. IF SO, IN MORRIS' ESTIMATION, THE GUERILLAS WOULD NOT HARM HIM. MRS. BLAKE NOTED THAT HER SON HAS BEEN WITH THE GUERILLAS BEFORE BUT POINTED OUT THAT HE ALWAYS CHECKED IN PERIODICALLY WITH HIS FAMILY.

6. PCV JIMMY ADRIANCE, ACCORDING TO MRS. BLAKE, WAS ALSO IN NEBAJ ON APRIL 3 TO RENDEZVOUS WITH BLAKE AND DAVIS. BLAKE REPORTEDLY LEFT A NOTE FOR ADRIANCE

INDICATING THAT HE WOULD NOT BE ABLE TO MEET HIM AS SCHEDULED. THE NOTE ALSO REPORTEDLY STATES THAT ADRIANCE WAS NOT TO WORRY BECAUSE BLAKE WAS OFF ON A STORY. REQUEST EMBASSY SAN JOSE CONTACT ADRIANCE TO SEE WHETHER HE CAN PROVIDE ANY FURTHER DETAILS CONCERNING THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE TWO MEN.

7. MRS. BLAKE SUGGESTS THAT FAYE SMITHERS AND DENNIS WEAVER MAY BE ABLE TO PROVIDE SOME INFORMATION REGARDING HER SON'S ACTIVITIES. WEAVER, WHO RUNS A CAFE IN ANTIGUA, LEFT APRIL 17 TO LOOK FOR BLAKE, BUT SMITHERS CAN BE REACHED THROUGH THE PAVA OFFICE IN ANTIGUA (TEL: 0320280). JOE BOCCHIO, A FRIEND WHO IS CURRENTLY IN THE U.S., REPORTEDLY MAY ALSO HAVE SOME LEADS. DEPT WILL ATTEMPT TO CONTACT BOCCHIO [redacted] AND B6
REPORT RESULTS OF CONVERSATION TO POST ASAP. PER POST'S REQUEST, DEPARTMENT IS ALSO ATTEMPTING TO LOCATE MARK CLARK AND WILL REPORT RESULTS OF EFFORTS SOONEST. SHULTZ

SUBJECT: EMBASSY REPORTING PLAN: ELECTRICITY SECTOR

REF: (A) 10 FAM 540, (B) MEXICO 7135

1. SUMMARY: MEXICO'S NATIONAL ENERGY PLAN SETS OUT THE COUNTRY'S GOALS AND ASPIRATIONS FOR THE ELECTRICITY GENERATING SECTOR. IT EXPRESSES THE DESIRE TO DIVERSIFY SOURCES AWAY FROM THE SECTOR'S HEAVY DEPENDENCE ON HYDROCARBONS (OIL AND GAS). ALTERNATIVE ENERGY SOURCES, HOWEVER, ARE NOT PROMISING AND TEND TO BE MUCH MORE EXPENSIVE. FOR MANY YEARS NOW THE FEDERAL ELECTRICITY COMMISSION (CFE), WHICH PRODUCES AND SELLS ALL COMMERCIAL ELECTRICITY, HAS SOLD ELECTRICITY AT PRICES WELL BELOW COSTS. A HUGE DEBT HAS RESULTED. THE GOM NOW IS ADDRESSING THIS ISSUE AND HAS SET A HIGH PRIORITY ON PUTTING CFE ON A SOUND FINANCIAL BASE. SINCE 1982, ELECTRICITY RATES HAVE INCREASED BY ABOUT 335 PERCENT. MEXICO'S MAJOR SOURCES FOR ELECTRICITY ARE HYDROCARBONS (61 PERCENT), WATER (34 PERCENT), GEOTHERMAL (1 PERCENT) AND COAL (3 PERCENT). THE MAJOR USERS OF ELECTRICITY ARE THE INDUSTRIAL SECTOR (56 PERCENT), DOMESTIC USERS (20 PERCENT), AND THE COMMERCIAL/SERVICE SECTOR (17 PERCENT). AGRICULTURE ACCOUNTS FOR ABOUT 7 PERCENT. END SUMMARY.

2. THE NATIONAL ENERGY PLAN (NEP) FOR MEXICO CALLS FOR DIVERSIFICATION OF THE COUNTRY'S ENERGY RESOURCES. ALTHOUGH IT IS WIDELY RECOGNIZED THAT MEXICO WOULD LIKE TO MOVE AWAY FROM ITS DEPENDENCE ON HYDROCARBONS AS THE PRINCIPLE SOURCE OF ENERGY, THE ENERGY PLAN PUTS IT MORE OBLIQUELY. THE NEP WANTS TO ACHIEVE GREATER COORDINATION AMONG THE ENTITIES IN THE ENERGY SECTOR WHICH WILL GUARANTEE THE BEST COMBINATION OF PRIMARY SOURCES AND ENSURES A LONG TERM SUPPLY AT THE LOWEST COST. OTHER POINTS INCLUDE INCREASING THE NATIONAL CAPACITY FOR THE DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION OF POWER PLANTS BASED ON ALTERNATIVE SOURCES, TO SPUR THE DEVELOPMENT OF THERMOLELECTRIC FACILITIES THAT CAN OPERATE ON ALTERNATIVE FUELS AND TO ESTABLISH REALISTIC PRICING. THE ALTERNATIVE SOURCES FOR ELECTRICAL ENERGY ARE HYDROENERGY, COAL, NUCLEAR POWER AND GEOTHERMAL. NON-CONVENTIONAL SOURCES SUCH AS SOLAR, WIND AND BIOMASS ARE TO BE ENCOURAGED ALONG WITH THE POSSIBILITIES FOR COGENERATION.

3. A MAJOR PROBLEM RE DIVERSIFICATION AWAY FROM HYDROCARBONS IN THE GENERATION OF ELECRICITY IS THAT HYDROCARBONS REMAIN ABUNDANT AND COMPARATIVELY LESS EXPENSIVE. THE ALTERNATIVE SOURCES SUFFER FROM HIGHER COST AND REGIONAL VARIATIONS. ABUNDANT WATER, FOR INSTANCE, IS IN THE SOUTHERN PORTION OF THE COUNTRY WHERE MOST OF THE HYDROENERGY OPPORTUNITIES HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED BUT ARE FAR FROM THE AREAS WHERE DEMAND IS STRONGEST. GEOTHERMAL PROSPECTS LAY MOSTLY IN THE NORTHWESTERN AREA

WHICH HAS NOT YET BEEN TIED INTO THE NATIONAL GRID. COAL IS IN LIMITED QUANTITIES AND NOT THE BEST QUALITY FOR GENERATING ELECTRICITY. MEXICO IS CONSIDERING THE POSSIBILITY OF IMPORTING COAL; NO CONTRACTS HAVE YET BEEN SIGNED. NUCLEAR POWER IS ENORMOUSLY EXPENSIVE TO INSTALL. THE ORIGINAL PLAN CALLED FOR ABOUT $463 PER KILOWATT HOUR; THIS FIGURE IS NOW UP TO $2,300. MEXICO HAS TWO UNITS UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT LAGUNA VERDE. CFE NOW ESTIMATES THAT 654 MW WILL COME ON LINE IN MARCH 1987 AND A SECOND 654 MW IN JUNE 1988. THE MOUNTING PRICE TAG AND TECHNICAL PROBLEMS, HOWEVER, MAKE SOME OBSERVERS SKEPTICAL THAT MEXICO WILL HAVE AN OPERATING UNIT BEFORE THE NEXT CENTURY.

4. CURRENTLY ABOUT 25,000 LOCALITIES AND OVER 55 MILLION PEOPLE IN MEXICO HAVE ACCESS TO ELECTRICITY. THE GOAL FOR 1988 IS 30,000 LOCALITIES AND 65 MILLION PEOPLE. STILL BY 1990 A LARGE NUMBER OF AREAS AND PEOPLE WILL NOT HAVE ELECTRICITY. THIS PROSPECT REINFORCES THE NEED TO SUPPORT OPTIONS OF NON-CONVENTIONAL SOURCES. ONCE AGAIN, HOWEVER, MEXICO IS FACED WITH LIMITED FINANCIAL RESOURCES AND IT IS DIFFICULT TO FORESEE FROM WHERE THE INVESTMENT FUNDS CAN COME.

5. IN FACT, ONE OF THE MOST SERIOUS PROBLEMS FACED BY FEDERAL ELECTRICITY COMMISSION (CFE) TODAY IS FINANCIAL. PRIOR TO THE 1965-66 PERIOD CFE'S REVENUES COVERED ITS COSTS AND PROVIDED SOME FUNDS FOR INVESTMENTS. SOME EXTERNAL CREDITS ALSO WERE AVAILABLE FROM THE WORLD BANK, THE EXPORT-IMPORT BANK AND FROM SUPPLIERS. SINCE THIS TIME, HOWEVER, THE ONSET OF ECONOMIC DIFFICULTIES AND CHANGES IN THE GOM FINANCE POLICIES, HAVE PUT CFE IN THE RED. SUBSIDIES DURING THIS TIME WERE MADE EXPLICIT BY THE GOVERNMENT TO SUPPORT INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT AND PROVIDE CHEAP ELECTRICITY FOR RESIDENTIAL AND COMMERCIAL USES.

6. THE NEP RECOGNIZED THAT LOW ENERGY PRICES HAVE LED TO INEFFICIENT AND WASTEFUL CONSUMPTION PATTERNS. IN ADDITION, CFE HAS BUILT UP A LARGE "DEBT" FROM ITS OPERATING DEFICIT. THE PRESIDENT RECOGNIZED THIS FACT LAST YEAR WHEN HE SAID THAT PUTTING CFE ON A SOUND FINANCIAL BASIS WAS ONE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S MAJOR DOMESTIC PRIORITIES. IN FACT THE GOVERNMENT MOVED IN JANUARY TO RESTRUCTURE ELECTRIC RATES SO THAT LARGE USERS PAY MORE. CFE HAS NOT YET ACHIEVED FULL COST RECOVERY IN ITS PRICES BUT MOVEMENT IS BEING MADE IN THAT DIRECTION. CURRENTLY, PRICE COVERS ABOUT 70 PERCENT OF COSTS BUT BY THE END OF THIS YEAR, THE PERCENT WILL BE ABOUT 90 PERCENT WITH 100 PERCENT TO BE ACHIEVED IN 1986. A MAJOR IMPROVEMENT IN CFE'S FINANCIAL POSITION WOULD BE REALIZED IF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ABSORBS ITS DOMESTIC DEBT. THIS POSSIBILITY IS BEING DISCUSSED WITHIN THE GOM BUT NO UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

PAGE 02 MEXICO 08359 02 OF 05 191952Z

FIRM DECISION HAS YET BEEN TAKEN.

7. THE MAJOR SOURCES OF ELECTRIC POWER IN MEXICO IN 1983 WERE THERMAL FROM HYDROCARBONS (61.4 PERCENT), HYDRO PROJECTS (34.4 PERCENT), GEOTHERMAL FACILITIES (1.1 PERCENT), AND COAL-FIRED OPERATIONS (3 PERCENT). TOTAL INSTALLED OPERATING CAPACITY WAS 19,050 MW. FIVE YEARS AGO THE TOTAL CAPACITY WAS 13,992 AND THE RATIOS WERE 64.1 PERCENT FROM HYDROCARBONS, 35.4 PERCENT FROM HYDRO FACILITIES AND 0.5 PERCENT FROM GEOTHERMAL SOURCES. OF THE 36 PERCENT INCREASE IN INSTALLED CAPACITY OVER THIS PERIOD, HYDRO AND HYDROCARBON SOURCES HAVE REMAINED REASONABLY CONSTANT WHILE GEOTHERMAL AND COAL SOURCES HAVE BEEN INCREASED OR ADDED TO THE SYSTEM. THE GOVERNMENT HAS HAD UNDER CONSTRUCTION FOR SEVERAL YEARS A NUCLEAR POWER PLANT AT LAGUNA VERDE ON MEXICO'S GULF COAST, NORTH OF VERACRUZ. THIS FACILITY MAY CONTRIBUTE ELECTRICITY TO THE NATIONAL SYSTEM IN THE LATE PART OF THIS DECADE.

8. IN 1984, INSTALLED CAPACITY GREW TO 19,984 MW, A 4.9 PERCENT INCREASE OVER 1983. OF THE SEVEN FACILITIES ADDED, FOUR WERE STEAM, ONE WAS GAS AND TWO WERE GEOTHERMAL. THE PLANS FOR 1985 CALL FOR AN INCREASE IN INSTALLED CAPACITY OF 1508 MW TO A TOTAL OF 21,492 MW. OF THE PLANTS SCHEDULED TO COME ON LINE THIS YEAR, SEVEN ARE STEAM, TWO ARE GEOTHERMAL AND ONE IS COAL. IN 1986, THIRTEEN PLANTS ARE SCHEDULED, TEN OF WHICH ARE HYDROELECTRIC PROJECTS AND ONE EACH OF GAS, COAL, AND STEAM (GENERATED FROM FUEL OIL). THIS PLAN WOULD ADD ANOTHER 1642 MW TO INSTALLED CAPACITY. IN 1986, HOWEVER, CFE ANTICIPATES RETIRING UNITS CONTRIBUTING 25 MW TO THE SYSTEM SO THAT THE NET TOTAL INSTALLED CAPACITY BY THE UNCLASSIFIED

END OF 1986 IS FORECAST TO BE 23,108 MW. TABLE I BELOW LISTS THE PLANTS WHICH ARE SCHEDULED FOR COMPLETION IN 1985 AND TABLE II LISTS PLANTS FOR 1986.

IN ELECTRICAL GENERATION IN 1985 SHOULD BE IN THE RANGE OF 8 PERCENT.

10. MEXICO HAS HAD MODEST ELECTRICAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMS NOW FOR SOME YEARS ACROSS THE BORDER AT TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA. THESE ARRANGEMENTS WERE MADE FOR CONVENIENCE UNTIL MEXICO BEGAN TO DEVELOP ITS GEOTHERMAL FACILITIES AT CERRO PRIETO NEAR THE CITY OF MEXICALI. THE FEDERAL ELECTRIC COMMISSION (CFE) NOW HAS AN AGREEMENT WITH SAN DIEGO GAS AND ELECTRIC (SDGE) AND SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA EDISON (SCE) TO SELL ELECTRICITY. PRIOR TO 1985, MEXICO WAS SELLING ONLY SURPLUS ELECTRICITY ACROSS THE BORDER, MAKING MEXICO AN OVERALL NET EXPORTER. THIS YEAR, HOWEVER, MEXICO HAS INSTALLED A 110 MEGAWATT UNIT AT CERRO PRIETO TO GENERATE ELECTRICITY EXCLUSIVELY FOR EXPORT. THE EXPORT PRICE FOR ITS ELECTRICITY, OF COURSE, WILL EXCEED PRODUCTION COSTS AND MEXICO WILL HAVE ANOTHER SOURCE OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE FROM AN ENERGY EXPORT. CFE HAS PLANS TO INSTALL ANOTHER 110 MEGAWATT UINIT AT CERRO
UNCLASSIFIED

PRIETO WHICH ALSO WILL BE DEDICATED TO EXPORTS.
COMMENT: SEE REFTEL B WHICH REPORTS ON A RECENT EXPLOSION AND FIRE AT CERRO PRIETO. THIS DEVELOPMENT WILL ALTER CFE'S EXPORT PLANS.

11. SINCE DECEMBER 1982, MEXICO HAS MOVED TOWARD MORE REALISTIC PRICES FOR ENERGY UNITS. (SEE TABLE IV BELOW FOR PRICE HISTORY 1974-85). IN JANUARY 1985, SUBSTANTIAL INCREASES WERE MADE IN ELECTRICITY RATES. THE AVERAGE INCREASE WAS 18 PERCENT BUT DOMESTIC USERS EXCEEDING 50 KILOWATT HOURS PER MONTH WILL BE CHARGED AT A HIGHER RATE. LAST YEAR'S RATE INCREASE WAS 35 PERCENT. THIS YEAR'S RATE INCREASE, HOWEVER, PROVIDED FOR A 2.5 PERCENT PER MONTH INCREASE EACH MONTH AFTER FEBRUARY EXCEPT FOR AGRICULTURAL USERS. THE NEW RATES ARE EXPECTED TO MOVE CFE AWAY FROM THE OVER 200 BILLION PESO (CURRENT RATE OF EXCHANGE IS 223 PESOS TO THE DOLLAR) PER YEAR SUBSIDY BILL AND PROVIDE FUNDS FOR INVESTMENTS DURING 1985. THESE NEW RATES SHOULD MOVE THE SYSTEM TO WITHIN ABOUT 80 PERCENT OF ITS COSTS. SOME FACILITIES SUCH AS THE CERRO PRIETO GEOTHERMAL PLANTS EXPECT TO REALIZE INCOME IN EXCESS OF COSTS. AT SOME POINT YET TO BE DETERMINED THE SLIDING SCALE OF RATE INCREASES WILL PUT CFE OUT OF THE SUBSIDY BUSINESS ALTOGETHER, EXCEPT FOR ELECTRICITY TO WATER PUMPING UNITS FOR IRRIGATION. THESE LATTER RATES CFE OFFICIALS ANTICIPATE WILL BE KEPT WELL BELOW COSTS AS A FORM OF GOVERNMENT AID TO AGRICULTURE.

12. CFE IS AIDED IN ITS EFFORTS BY THE MEXICAN ELECTRICAL RESEARCH INSTITUTE (IIE) WHICH IS A RESEARCH ARM OF THE GOVERNMENT. ALTHOUGH TECHNICALLY AUTONOMOUS, THE IIE RECEIVES ITS BUDGET THROUGH THE CFE. OTHER FUNDS ARE EARNED THROUGH CONSULTING SERVICES AND ROYALTIES. THE IIE HOLDS SOME PATENTS AND LICENSES MANUFACTURERS.

13. IMPORT SUBSTITUTION IS AN IMPORTANT ITEM IN CFE'S PLANS AS IT IS IN THE ENERGY SECTOR AT LARGE. MEXICO IS FAIRLY SELF-SUFFICIENT IN CERTAIN SMALLER ITEMS BUT IS AT A COMPARATIVE DISADVANTAGE FOR THE LARGER TRANSFORMER/GENERATOR ITEMS. NEVERTHELESS, THERE IS AN ACTIVE EFFORT TO ENCOURAGE LOCAL PRODUCTION. AND ALONG THESE LINES THE GOVERNMENT HAS STEPPED UP ITS EFFORTS TO COORDINATE AMONG THE VARIOUS ENERGY ENTITIES IN THE SECTOR TO FOSTER A WIDER BASE FOR PROCUREMENT. SOME CFE

OFFICIALS BELIEVE THAT MORE EFFORT IS NEEDED IN THIS AREA, ESPECIALLY IN STANDARDIZED SPECIFICATIONS FOR SUCH ITEMS AS MOTORS AND OTHER MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT.

14. COMMENT: THE ELECTRIC ENERGY SECTOR IS MAKING PROGRESS TOWARD FINANCIAL VIABILITY. THE CURRENT ADMINISTRATION SEEMS DETERMINED TO MAKE HEADWAY AGAINST DEFICITS AND HAS TAKEN HARD DECISIONS ON PRICING ISSUES. BUT THIS IS A LARGE PROBLEM AND THE EFFORTS WILL HAVE TO BE SUSTAINED OVER A LONG PERIOD.

15. A SUCCESSFUL DIVERSIFICATION EFFORT REMAINS PROBLEMATICAL. ALTERNATIVE FORMS OF ENERGY ARE EXPENSIVE AND WE BELIEVE PROGRESS WILL BE SLOW. THE INITIAL EFFORT PROBABLY WILL FOCUS ON ENERGY SAVINGS EFFORTS TO HELP ADJUST THE ENERGY BALANCE. (DRAFTED:CAKENNEDY) GAVIN

SUBJECT: W/W: NEWS REPORTS ON DAVIS - BLAKE CASE

REF: STATE 117785 (NOTAL)

1. THE SATURDAY, APRIL 20 EDITIONS OF GUATEMALAN DAILIES "PRENSA LIBRE" AND "EL GRAFICO" RAN STRAIGHT NEWS STORIES ON THE DISAPPEARANCE OF AMCITS GRIFFITH DAVIS AND NICHOLAS BLAKE. REPORTERS FROM BOTH PAPERS HAD MADE EARLIER INQUIRIES AT POST WHICH WERE ANSWERED WITH THE PRESS GUIDANCE PROVIDED IN REFTEL. PREVIOUS DAY'S EVENING "LA HORA" CARRIED FRONT-PAGE AFP STORY (DATELINE GUATEMALA) CONCERNING DISAPPEARANCE WHICH MAY BE CARRIED BY OTHER MEDIA INTERNATIONALLY. THIS STORY, ALSO BASED ON EMBASSY PRESS GUIDANCE, INCLUDED NON-SOURCED SPECULATION ON AMCIT DUO'S DESIRE TO MEET WITH GUERRILLAS. OTHER WIRE-SERVICE CORRESPONDENTS' INQUIRIES WERE RECEIVED BY EMBASSY PRESS OFFICER. GOG OFFICIALS, ACCORDING TO ONE REPORTER, ARE TELLING THE PRESS THAT THE TWO AMCITS HAD BEEN WARNED NOT TO HIKE IN AREA OF GUERRILLA CONFLICT BY LOCAL CIVILIAN AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES.

2. ON SUNDAY, MAY 21, THE "PRENSA LIBRE" RAN A RELATED STORY, AN INTERVIEW WITH A PERSON IDENTIFIED AS DAVID LOWE, AN ACQUAINTANCE OF NICHOLAS BLAKE. LOWE IS SAID TO HAVE TOLD THE REPORTER THAT BLAKE WAS LOOKING FOR A STORY IN THE MOUNTAINS OF EL QUICHE, POSSIBLY FROM GUERRILLAS. LOWE ALSO PROVIDED THE PAPER WITH WHAT IS SAID TO BE THE TELEPHONE NUMBER OF THE BLAKE FAMILY IN MAINE - (207) 282-2538 (SIC).

3. COMMENT: THE SUNDAY ARTICLE IN THE "PRENSA LIBRE" LOOKS LIKE A PLANTED STORY. DAVID LOWE IS NOT A NAME KNOWN TO POST. IT IS UNLIKELY THAT A PERSON BEING INTERVIEWED WOULD PROVIDE A TELEPHONE NUMBER IN THE U.S., OR THAT THE PAPER WOULD PRINT IT, UNLESS IT WAS AN ATTEMPT TO COMMUNICATE WITH PERSONS BELIEVED TO BE HOLDING BLAKE OR KNOWLEDGEABLE ABOUT HIS WHEREABOUTS. IT IS LIKELY THIS WAS DONE IN ORDER TO:

A) ADVISE INTERESTED PARTIES OF BLAKE'S INTEREST IN WRITING AN ARTICLE ABOUT THE GUERRILLAS, AND

B) TO PROVIDE A TELEPHONE CONTACT NUMBER THROUGH WHICH THESE SAME INTERESTED PARTIES COULD, PRESUMABLY, TELL INTERESTED FAMILY MEMBERS SOMETHING OF BLAKE'S W/W.
END COMMENT. PIEDRA

SUPPOSEDLY HAS ACCESS TO A HELICOPTER THROUGH FRIENDS OF HIS WHO LIVE IN GUATEMALA. ALTHOUGH NOT OFFERED BY DEPOFF, MRS. BLAKE NOTED THAT IF EMBASSY REPRESENTATIVE WISHED TO MEET THEM AT AIRPORT TO ASSIST, SUCH ASSISTANCE WOULD BE APPRECIATED.

3. DURING TELCON AFTERNOON OF 4/23, MRS. REMEDIOS DIAZ STATED THAT GOFF IS A VERY RELIABLE ATTORNEY WHO KNOWS WHAT HE IS DOING. HE IS WITH PARTY TO PROVIDE PROTECTION AND TO MAKE SURE THAT BLAKES UNDERSTAND AND APPRECIATE EFFORTS THUS FAR TO LOCATE SUBJECTS. MRS. DIAZ ALSO ADVISED THAT SHE TALKED WITH TWO PEOPLE FROM THE ARMY. ACCORDING TO HER SOURCES, THE GUATEMALAN ARMY IS ACTIVELY LOOKING FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS IN THE JUNGLES AND AREA CLOSE TO THE BORDER WITH MEXICO. SHE ADVISED THATTHE ARMY IS ALSO DROPPING LEAFLETS FROM HELICOPTERS WHICH STATE THAT BLAKE'S FAMILY IS LOOKING FOR HIM AND URGING HIM TO CONTACT THEM ASAP. SHE NOTED, HOWEVER, THAT SUBJECTS ARE LOST IN A VERY DANGEROUS AREA.. MRS. DIAZ STATED THAT SHE HAS ATTEMPTED TO CONTACT AMBASSADOR PIEDRA APRIL 23 TO DISCUSS PROPOSED VISIT AND WILL TRY TO TALK WITH HIM PERSONALLY BEFORE FAMILY ARRIVES IN GUATEMALA CITY. SHULTZ

SUBJECT: EMBASSY STAFF MEETING WITH THE BLAKES

1. ON APRIL 25, 1985, EMBASSY STAFF MET WITH MARY BLAKE, HER SON RICHARD BLAKE, JR., EDWARD GOFF, AN ATTORNEY FOR WHEATON INDUSTRIES, AND LUCIEN YOKANA, A CLOSE FRIEND OF NICHOLAS BLAKE, TO GIVE THEM AN UPDATE ON THE INVESTIGATION INTO THE WELFARE AND WHEREABOUTS OF AMERICAN CITIZENS NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS. ALSO PRESENT WERE BRITISH SUBJECT MICHAEL SHAWCROSS, THE GERMAN COMMONLAW WIFE OF GRIFFITH DAVIS, NIKKI LINDNER, AND ANGIE LORI LEGATOR.

2. THE BLAKES MET FIRST WITH THE AMBASSADOR; THE DCM, CONSUL GENERAL AND ANOTHER EMBOFF WERE ALSO PRESENT. THE AMBASSADOR EXPRESSED TO MRS. BLAKE HIS SYMPATHY AT THE DISAPPEARANCE OF HER SON AND MR. DAVIS AND ASSURED HER THAT THE EMBASSY WOULD CONTINUE TO DO ITS UTMOST TO LOCATE NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS. THE AMBASSADOR ALSO STATED THAT THE HIGHEST LEVELS OF THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT HAD EXPRESSED CONCERN OVER THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THE TWO AMERICANS AND PROMISED TO ASSIST THE EMBASSY IN ITS SEARCH FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS.

3. FOLLOWING THIS 15 MINUTE MEETING, THE GROUP MET FOR AN ADDITIONAL THREE HOURS WITH THE CONSUL GENERAL, DEFENSE ATTACHE AND OTHER EMBOFFS WHO HAVE BEEN INVOLVED IN THE SEARCH FOR THE TWO MISSING ANGLES. THE CONSUL GENERAL GAVE A DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THE ACTIONS TAKEN BY THE EMBASSY TO LOCATE BLAKE AND DAVIS, INCLUDING TRIPS MADE BY EMBOFFS WHICH SUCCESSFULLY TRACKED THE MOVEMENTS OF THE TWO UNTIL [illegible] VILLAGE OF ILLANO (AS REPORTED IN GUATEMALA 1823), AND AN OVERFLIGHT OF A GUERRILLA STRONGHOLD BY AN EMBOFF TO DROP LEAFLETS. EMBOFFS PROVIDED BRIEFINGS ON THE MILITARY SITUATION IN HUEHUETENANGO AND EL QUICHE, INCLUDING A DESCRIPTION OF THE STRUCTURE AND ACTIVITIES OF THE GUERRILLA INSURGENTS IN THE AREA.

4. THE DEFENSE ATTACHE STATED THAT ON APRIL 24 THE DEPUTY ZONE COMMANDER IN THE DEPARTMENT OF EL QUICHE HAD REPORTED THAT AN OPERATION INVOLVING BETWEEN 600 AND 800 GUATEMALAN SOLDIERS, IN 15 PATROLS, HAD BEGUN FANNING OUT OVER THE AREA OF QUICHE PROVINCE WITH THE MISSION OF SEARCHING FOR THE TWO DISAPPEARED AMERICANS.

5. THE BLAKE PARTY EXPRESSED CONCERN ABOUT THE SINCERITY OF THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT AND RAISED THE POSSIBILITY OF A MILITARY COVER-UP. THEY ALSO WORRIED THAT IF BLAKE AND DAVIS HAD FALLEN INTO THE HANDS OF THE GUERRILLAS, THAT THEY WOULD BE HELD FOR RANSOM. FURTHERMORE, THE ATTENTION THAT THE LOCAL PRESS HAD FOCUSED ON THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THE TWO MADE THE PARTY WARY OF DEALING DIRECTLY WITH JOURNALISTS. FINALLY, THEY WONDERED ABOUT THE WISDOM OF APPROACHING PERSONS WHO MIGHT HAVE CONTACTS WITH THE INSURGENTS.

6. EMBOFFS RESPONDED THAT THE GOG EFFORTS TO DATE HAD BEEN MOST SINCERE, DESPITE A FAIRLY WIDESPREAD BELIEF ON THE PART OF THE GUATEMALAN ARMY OFFICIALS PERSONALLY INVOLVED IN THE SEARCH THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE BY NOW WITH THE GUERRILLAS. AS FOR A MILITARY COVER-UP, EMBOFFS POINTED OUT THAT IT WOULD BE UNLIKELY THE GOG WOULD COMMIT SUCH A HIGH LEVEL OF RESOURCES TO THE SEARCH WHEN THE ARMY WAS LACKING SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT AND OTHER ITEMS IF THEY HAD ANYTHING TO HIDE. AS FOR DEALING WITH THE LOCAL PRESS, IT WAS GENERALLY AGREED THAT LITTLE WAS TO BE GAINED AT THE MOMENT FROM DIRECT CONTACTS. AS FOR APPROACHING PERSONS WHO MIGHT HAVE CONTACTS WITH THE INSURGENTS, EMBOFFS OBSERVED THAT ANY SUCH CONTACTS WOULD LIKELY BECOME KNOWN TO THE GOG VERY QUICKLY IF THEY WERE ATTEMPTED WITHIN GUATEMALA. ON THIS POINT, THE PARTY AGREED THAT IF SUCH CONTACTS WERE TO BE MADE, THEY WOULD BE BETTER DONE OUTSIDE GUATEMALA, I.E. IN MEXICO CITY.

7. THE DISCUSSANTS AGREED TO REMAIN IN CLOSE CONTACT AND TO INFORM EACH OTHER AS ANY ADDITIONAL INFORMATION BECAME AVAILABLE. THE EMBASSY IS ASSISTING THE BLAKE PARTY IN MAKING DIRECT CONTACT WITH THE MILITARY ZONE COMMANDER IN SANTA CRUZ DEL QUICHE AND WILL ACCOMPANY THEM ON SATURDAY, APRIL 27, WHEN THEY CALL HIM.

8. FOR MEXICO: ONE OF THE POSSIBILITIES WHICH WAS DISCUSSED WAS THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS MAY HAVE TRAVELED DUE NORTH FROM WHERE THEY WERE LAST SEEN, ENTERING MEXICO SOME TIME IN THE FIRST TWO WEEKS OF APRIL. IF THEY DID SO, THEY WOULD HAVE ENTERED SOUTHERN MEXICO (CHIAPAS) WITHOUT INSPECTION BY MEXICAN IMMIGRATION OR CUSTOMS AUTHORITIES. ALTHOUGH THERE IS NO EVIDENCE TO SHOW THAT THIS IS WHAT DAVIS AND BLAKE DID, WE WOULD APPRECIATE YOUR CONTACTING APPROPRIATE GOM AUTHORITIES AND ASKING THEM IF THEY HAVE ANY INFORMATION REGARDING THE PAIR. PLEASE ADVISE.

1. SUMMARY: NICHOLAS BLAKE'S MOTHER, HIS BROTHER, HIS FRIEND AND AN ATTORNEY SPENT MORE THAN THREE HOURS WITH THE GOG ARMY COLONEL IN CHARGE OF THE MILITARY ZONE WHERE DAVIS AND BLAKE WERE LAST SEEN. THE COLONEL GAVE THEM ALL AVAILABLE INFORMATION REGARDING THE GOG'S EFFORTS TO LOCATE DAVIS AND BLAKE. THE BLAKE PARTY DEPARTED GUATEMALA APRIL 29 FOR THE U.S. END SUMMARY.

2. FAMILY AND FRIENDS OF MISSING AMCIT NICHOLAS BLAKE TRAVELED APRIL 27 TO THE MILITARY ZONE (MZ) HEADQUARTERS NO. 20 SANTA CRUZ DEL QUICHE IN ORDER TO RECEIVE A BRIEFING FROM GOG MZ COMMANDER COL. BYRON LIMA ON THE ACTIONS THAT HE HAS TAKEN TO SEARCH FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS. THE TWO AMCITS WERE LAST SEEN MARCH 29 OR 30 IN THE EL QUICHE VILLAGE OF ILANO ALONG THE BORDER WITH THE DEPARTMENT OF HUEHUETENANGO IN THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS.

3. MARY BLAKE (MOTHER OF NICHOLAS BLAKE), RANDY BLAKE (BROTHER OF NICHOLAS), LUCIEN YOKANA (FAMILY FRIEND), AND J. EDWARD GUFF (FAMILY FRIEND AND ATTORNEY FOR WHEATON INDUSTRIES) WERE ACCOMPANIED BY CONSULAR OFFICER, POLITICAL OFFICER, AND THE DEFENSE ATTACHE TO SANTA CRUZ DEL QUICHE, DEPARTMENTAL CAPITAL OF EL QUICHE.

4. MRS. BLAKE OPENED THE INITIAL BRIEFING AT 1015 HOURS BY THANKING COL. LIMA FOR ALL THE EFFORTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE BY THE GOG ON BEHALF OF HER SON NICHOLAS. SHE SAID THAT HER SON WAS A JOURNALIST WHO LOVED GUATEMALA. DURING THIS BRIEFING, RANDY BLAKE EMPHASIZED THAT HIS BROTHER NICHOLAS WAS NEITHER TO THE LEFT NOR THE RIGHT IN HIS POLITICAL VIEWS, AND WAS SIMPLY A REPORTER LOOKING FOR A STORY. RANDY BLAKE SAID THAT A PHILADELPHIA NEWSPAPER HAD PROMISED HIS BROTHER NICHOLAS A FRONT PAGE ARTICLE IF HE WERE ABLE TO BRING BACK A STORY ON THE GUATEMALAN GUERRILLAS.

5. COL. LIMA SAID THAT PATROLS HAVE BEGUN THROUGHOUT THE AREA WHERE BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE LAST SIGHTED. HE SAID CONTACT HAS BEEN MADE WITH GUERRILLA FORCES, CASUALTIES HAVE BEEN SUFFERED BY GOG SOLDIERS, BUT THAT NO INFORMATION HAS YET BEEN OBTAINED ON THE WHEREABOUTS OF BLAKE AND DAVIS. COL. LIMA DID NOT INDICATE THE NUMBER OF CASUALTIES, NOR THE TOTAL NUMBER OF SOLDIERS INVOLVED IN THE SEARCH. THE COL. SAID THAT NO GUERRILLAS HAVE BEEN CAPTURED ALIVE IN ITS RECENT OPERATIONS IN THE AREA, AND THEREFORE THE GOG ARMY HAS BEEN UNABLE TO QUESTION ANY AS TO THE WHEREABOUTS OF BLAKE AND DAVIS.

6. COL. LIMA TOLD THE BLAKE FAMILY THAT IT WAS "MADNESS" FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS TO ATTEMPT TO CONTACT THE GUERRILLAS IN THE AREA, WHO HE SAID HAVE NO RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS.

7. HE SAID THAT BLAKE HAVE THE ERROR OF BELIEVING THE GUATEMALAN GUERRILLAS OF THE EGP (GUERRILLA ARMY OF THE POOR), WHO ARE THE GUERRILLA FORCE IN THE AREA, WERE LIKE THOSE OF EL SALVADOR. COL. LIMA SAID THAT THE GUERRILLAS IN EL SALVADOR UNDERSTAND THE POLITICAL VALUE OF THE PRESS, SPEAK SPANISH AND CAN BE CONTACTED IN THE TOWNS AND HIGHWAYS OF THE CONFLICTIVE AREAS. HE SAID THE EGP GUERRILLAS ARE INDIANS, WHO DO NOT SPEAK SPANISH CORRECTLY, DO NOT SEE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE PRESS TO THEIR CAUSE, AND HAVE BEEN CONFINED TO MOUNTAINOUS AREAS WHICH ARE DIFFICULT TO REACH. THE INDIAN GUERRILLAS HAVE BEEN INDOCTRINATED TO BELIEVE THAT FOREIGNERS ARE COLLABORATORS WITH THE GOG, HE SAID.

8. RANDY BLAKE ASKED THE COLONEL WHAT THE CHANCES WERE THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS WOULD HAVE ENCOUNTERED GUERRILLAS IF THEY HAD WALKED FROM ILANO TO SALQUIL.

COL. LIMA REPLIED "100 PERCENT."

9. THE COLONEL SAID THAT REPORTERS HAVE PREVIOUSLY VISITED HIS HEADQUARTERS TO TELL HIM OF PLANS TO MAKE CONTACT WITH THE EGP GUERRILLAS. HE SAID THAT HIS ADVICE TO THESE REPORTERS HAS BEEN NOT TO ENTER THE AREA, THAT THESE GUERRILLAS ARE "SPECIAL." HOWEVER, FOR THOSE WHO INSIST ON GOING TO THE AREA ANYWAY, HE OFFERS TO SEND AN ARMY PATROL ALONG FOR THEIR PROTECTION. THE COLONEL SAID HE INSISTS THAT THE REPORTERS WEAR ARMY FATIGUES SO THAT THEY WILL NOT BECOME THE SPECIAL TARGET OF A GUERRILLA ATTACK. HE SAID IT WAS UNFORTUNATE THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS CAME TO THE AREA THROUGH HUEHUETENANGO AND WERE THEREFORE UNABLE TO RECEIVE HIS ADVICE.

10. COL. LIMA TOLD THE BLAKE FAMILY THE CHANCES WERE "50/50" THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE ALIVE, AND THAT HE "HOPES TO GOD" THEY ARE. HOWEVER, HE SAID DURING THE SECOND BRIEFING THAT HIS BELIEF WAS THAT THE LOCAL EGP COMMANDER WOULD HAVE KILLED BLAKE AND DAVIS IF THEY HAD MADE CONTACT WITH HIS FORCES. THE COLONEL SAID THE INDIAN GUERRILLAS WILL KILL FOR A CAMERA OR EVEN FOR A PAIR OF PANTS OR A SHIRT.

11. COL. LIMA SAID THERE IS "A POSSIBILITY" THAT WITH "GOOD LUCK" BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE TAKEN BY GUERRILLAS TO THE PLAYA GRANDE REGION OF EL QUICHE ABOUT 50 KILOMETERS NORTH OF SUMAL AND FROM THERE PERHAPS TO MEXICO. THE COLONEL SAID THE EGP MAINTAINS ITS HIGH COMMAND IN MEXICO. HE SUGGESTED THAT IF THE BLAKE FAMILY DECIDES TO MAKE ANOTHER DROPPING OF LEAFLETS, THEY SHOULD INCLUDE THE AREA BETWEEN THE IXCAN RIVER IN HUEHUETENANGO AND THE XACALBAL RIVER IN EL QUICHE, WHICH HE SAID IS A CORRIDOR USED BY THE EGP TO ENTER MEXICO.

12. AT 2115Z THE MEETING MOVED FROM THE BASE OFFICES

TO THE CENTER OF THE TOWN OF SANTA CRUZ, WHERE COL. LIMA NOW MAINTAINS HIS HEADQUARTERS.

13. COL. LIMA SHOWED THE BLAKE FAMILY THE OPERATIONS MAP IN HIS OFFICE. IT DETAILED A FIVE-PRONGED COMBINATION OF PATROLS, THREE TO FOUR PATROLS PER SECTOR, IN AN AREA OF APPROXIMATELY 600 SQUARE KILOMETERS STRETCHING TO THE EAST FROM THE EL QUICHE-HUEHUETENANGO BORDER, THROUGH THE EGP STRONGHOLD IN THE SUMAL REGION, NORTH FROM THE HUEHUETENANGO VILLAGE OF NIKLAJ, AND SOUTH TO THE MILITARY BASE AT SALQUIL. WHILE AT LLANO, BLAKE AND DAVIS HAD RECEIVED AUTHORIZATION FROM THE LIEUTENANT AT THE NEARBY ARMY DETACHMENT OF LAS MAJADAS TO TRAVEL FROM LLANO TO SALQUIL. THE COLONEL SAID THE ROUTE BETWEEN LLANO AND SALQUIL IS NOT THE SUBJECT OF THE CURRENT PATROLS BECAUSE THE GOG ARMY HAS ALREADY PATROLLED THERE SINCE THE DISAPPEARANCE OF BLAKE AND DAVIS.

14. THE COLONEL CALCULATED THE ODDS AT "25 PERCENT" THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE TAKEN NORTH BY THE GUERRILLAS, AND "75 PERCENT" THAT WHATEVER HAPPENED TO THEM WAS DECIDED BY THE GUERRILLA COMMANDER OF THE DISTRICT IN WHICH THEY MET UP WITH THE EGP.

15. COL. LIMA SAID THAT RADIO BROADCASTS THROUGHOUT THE AREA WOULD ALSO BE USEFUL IN SOLICITING INFORMATION ON THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE MISSING ANCITS. IN BOTH CASES, HOWEVER, COL. LIMA SAID THAT THE MESSAGES SHOULD BE SENT IN THE INDIAN DIALECTS PECULIAR TO THE REGION.

16. RANDY BLAKE ASKED FOR DETAILS ON FIGHTING THAT HAS TAKEN PLACE IN THE AREA AROUND WHERE HIS BROTHER WAS SIGHTED, AND WHETHER SUCH FIGHTING MIGHT HAVE AFFECTED HIS BROTHER'S SITUATION. IN RESPONSE, THE COLONEL MADE AVAILABLE TO THE GROUP THE SITUATION REPORT OF HIS MILITARY ZONE FOR BOTH MARCH AND APRIL. THE COMPLETE SITUATION REPORT WAS CHECKED BY THE DEFENSE ATTACHE AND EMBOFF FOR ANY POSSIBLE LEADS IN THE W/W INVESTIGATION. NONE WAS FOUND.

17. COL. LIMA ALSO ALLOWED THE BLAKE FAMILY TO QUESTION AN EGP GUERRILLA WHO HAD RECENTLY TURNED HIMSELF IN TO THE GOG ARMY. HOWEVER, THE FORMER GUERRILLA WAS FROM AN AREA FAR TO THE SOUTHEAST OF THE SUMAL REGION, AND HAD NO INFORMATION ON THE MISSING ANCITS.

18. COL. LIMA SAID THE VILLAGERS IN THE REGION AROUND SUMAL ARE COLLABORATORS WITH THE EGP. THEREFORE, IT IS DIFFICULT TO EVALUATE INFORMATION THEY MIGHT PROVIDE. THE COLONEL ALSO SAID WHEN AN ARMY PATROL ENTERS AN AREA KNOWN TO BE POPULATED, IT GENERALLY FINDS ALL THE VILLAGERS HAVE FLED, OR HAVE BEEN FORCED TO LEAVE BY THE GUERRILLAS WHO, HE CLAIMED, USE THEM AS SHIELDS AS THEY TRY TO ESCAPE FROM THE ARMY.

19. THE COLONEL SAID THE PATROLS WILL CONTINUE, GUERRILLAS ENCOUNTERED WILL BE DESTROYED, AND ALL ATTEMPTS MADE TO QUESTION PEOPLE IN THE AREA ON THE WHEREABOUTS OF BLAKE AND DAVIS.

20. COL. LIMA ALSO OFFERED TO DRIVE THE BLAKE FAMILY TO THE TOWN OF NEBAJ -- A FIVE-HOUR ONE-WAY TRIP BY CAR -- WHICH WAS THE DESTINATION OF THE TWO MISSING ANCITS AND IS THE CLOSEST MAJOR TOWN TO THE SUMAL REGION. THE FAMILY DECLINED THE OFFER. THE COLONEL ADDED THAT HE WOULD BE GLAD TO TAKE THEM TO ANY AREA THEY WISHED TO VISIT WITHIN HIS ZONE.

21. WHEN THE BRIEFING ENDED AT 12:45, THE BLAKE FAMILY AGAIN EXPRESSED ITS THANKS TO COL. LIMA FOR HIS ASSISTANCE. DURING THE LUNCHEON HOSTED BY COL. LIMA THAT FOLLOWED, MR. GOFF SAID TO THE COLONEL THAT AS A VETERAN HE WISHED TO MAKE A DONATION SO THAT THE SOLDIERS RETURNING FROM THE PATROLS COULD HAVE BEER. COL. LIMA THANKED MR. GOFF, BUT SAID ARMY REGULATIONS PROHIBITED SUCH A DONATION. THE VISITORS LEFT THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ZONE COMMANDER AT APPROXIMATELY 1615 HOURS FOR THE CAPITAL.

22. ON SUNDAY, APRIL 28, MR. GOFF ADVISED EMBOFF BY TELEPHONE THAT THE BLAKE PARTY HAD DECIDED TO LEAVE GUATEMALA THE FOLLOWING MORNING, (I.E. MONDAY, APRIL 29) VIA AVIATECA FLIGHT 801 FOR THE UNITED STATES. HE SAID THAT THEY WERE GRATEFUL FOR THE ASSISTANCE PROVIDED BY BOTH THE EMBASSY AND THE GOG. PIEDRA

SUBJECT: MEXICAN GOVERNMENT INTERNAL DEBT

1. ACCORDING TO AN ARTICLE IN "EL FINANCIERO", OVER THE COURSE OF 1984 THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT'S INTERNAL DEBT GREW BY 1 TRILLION 363 BILLION PESOS (ABOUT $8.1 BILLION USING THE AVERAGE GOVERNMENT CONTROLLED RATE OF EXCHANGE FOR 1984). THIS REPRESENTED AN INCREASE OF 32 PERCENT IN THE AMOUNT OF TOTAL DEBT OUTSTANDING AS COMPARED WITH YEAR-END 1983 AND BROUGHT THE TOTAL INTERNAL DEBT TO 5 TRILLION, 600 BILLION PESOS.

2. DURING 1984 THE AVERAGE INTEREST RATE PAID BY THE GOVERNMENT ON ITS OBLIGATIONS WAS 50.2 PERCENT. THIS COMPARES WITH 44.5 PERCENT IN 1983 AND 35.3 PERCENT IN 1982. THUS INTEREST RATES PAID BY THE GOM HAVE RISEN SUBSTANTIALLY OVER THE PAST TWO YEARS AND HAVE BEEN AN IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTING FACTOR TO ON-GOING DIFFICULTIES WITH THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT. DURING 1984 THE GOM PAID 1 TRILLION 866 BILLION PESOS (ABOUT U.S. $11.1 BILLION) IN INTEREST PAYMENTS. THIS COMPARES WITH TOTAL INTEREST PAYMENTS ON MEXICO'S EXTERNAL DEBT OF ABOUT $11.6 BILLION.

3. MEXICO'S INTERNAL DEBT IS DIVIDED AS FOLLOWS: 48.1 PERCENT IN PUBLIC DEBT BONDS (HELD BY THE BANK OF MEXICO); 16.8 PERCENT IN TREASURY BILLS; 29.3 PERCENT DIRECT FINANCING BY THE BANK OF MEXICO; 4.9 PERCENT OWED TO NACIONAL FINANCIERA (THE LARGEST GOVERNMENT DEVELOPMENT BANK) AND 0.9 PERCENT OWED TO OTHERS. ,DURING 1984 99 PERCENT OF THE NEW FINANCING CAME EITHER FROM THE BANK OF MEXICO OR THROUGH THE ISSUANCE OF TREASURY BILLS.

3. (U) FINANCING PROVIDED BY THE NATIONALIZED BANKING SYSTEM HAS ALSO DECLINED MARKEDLY DURING THE FIRST THREE MONTHS OF THE YEAR. IN NOMINAL TERMS THE BANKS PROVIDED 271 BILLION PESOS IN NEW FINANCING SO FAR THIS YEAR. IN REAL TERMS THIS CONSTITUTED A DECLINE OF 18 PERCENT. THIS CONTRASTS WITH A REAL INCREASE OF 131 PERCENT IN FINANCING DURING THE COURSE OF 1984.

4. (C) EMBASSY COMMENT. THE REDUCTION IN RESOURCE FLOWS INTO THE BANKING SYSTEM IS A CAUSE FOR CONCERN. THE PRINCIPAL REASON IS THAT EFFECTIVE YIELDS ON THESE

DEPOSITS HAVE TURNED SHARPLY NEGATIVE DURING THE EARLY PART OF THE YEAR. OVER THE JANUARY-MARCH PERIOD THE ANNUALIZED RATE OF INFLATION WAS OVER 80 PERCENT WHILE EFFECTIVE YIELDS ON SHORT-TERM DEPOSITS WERE 60-70 PERCENT. ANOTHER REASON FOR THE DECLINE IS THAT THE GOVERNMENT IS ABSORBING LARGE AMOUNTS OF RESOURCES TO HELP FINANCE ITS EXPENDITURES. IN ORDER TO DO SO IT IS OFFERING INTEREST RATES ON TREASURY BILLS WHICH ARE SEVERAL PERCENTAGE POINTS ABOVE THOSE OFFERED IN THE BANKING SYSTEM. ADDITIONALLY, CAPITAL FLIGHT HAS BEEN HEAVY OVER THE PAST SEVERAL MONTHS AND THIS HAS MEANT SMALLER MONETARY FLOWS INTO THE BANKING SYSTEM.

6. (C) THE NEGATIVE TRENDS IN BANK DEPOSITS AND FINANCING ARE AN ADDITIONAL SIGN THAT THE MEXICAN AUTHORITIES ARE FACING SOME SERIOUS INTERNAL ECONOMIC PROBLEMS THIS YEAR. IT MAY WELL MEAN THAT THE AUTHORITIES WILL HAVE TO FURTHER INCREASE INTEREST RATES AND BEGIN TO TEMPER PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING TO RECTIFY THE SITUATION. THE CHALLENGE WILL BE TO DO THIS WITHOUT PRODUCING ANOTHER ECONOMIC RECESSION. DRAFTED BY J.V.SWEENEY. BUSBY

Mr. Edward Goff
Millville, NJ 08332

Dear Mr. Goff,

As promised, I am sending my notes on the April 27 meeting with Col. Byron Lima in Military Zone no. 20 Santa Cruz del Quiche. I tried to take notes on as much of the conversation as possible; if you think something is missing, let me know and I'll recheck my notes or consult my colleagues. The name of the other Guatemalan army officer who joined us for lunch is Capt. Joaquin Batres Company Commander. I'll let you know when I do. We are also trying to track down Mr. David Lowe through the Guatemalan press. As of 11:30 a.m. May 2, the military zone at Santa Cruz del Quiche had obtained no new information on Nicholas Blake and Griffith William Davis.

Mrs. Blake opened the initial briefing at 1010 hours by thanking Col. Lima for all the efforts that have been made by the Guatemalan government on behalf of her son Nicholas. She said that her son was a journalist who loved Guatemala. During this briefing, Randy Blake emphasized that his brother Nicholas was neither to the left nor the right in his political views, and was simply a reporter looking for a story. Randy Blake said that a Philadelphia newspaper had promised his brother Nicholas a front page article if he were able to bring back a story on the Guatemalan guerrillas.

Col. Lima said that patrols have begun throughout the area where Blake and Davis were last sighted. He said contact has been made with guerrilla forces, casualties have been suffered by Guatemalan soldiers, but that no information has yet been obtained on the whereabouts of Blake and Davis. Col. Lima did not indicate the number of casualties, nor the total number of soldiers involved in the search. The Colonel said that no guerrillas have been captured alive in its recent operations in the area, and therefore the Guatemalan army has been unable to question any as to the whereabouts of Blake and Davis.

Col. Lima told the Blake family that it was "madness" for Blake and Davis to attempt to contact the guerrillas in the area, who he said have no respect for human rights.

He said that Blake made the error of believing the Guatemalan guerrillas of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor), who are the guerrilla force in the area, were like those of El Salvador. Col. Lima said that the guerrillas in El Salvador understand the political value of the press, speak Spanish and can be contacted in the towns and highways of the conflictive areas. He said the EGP guerrillas are Indians, who do not speak Spanish correctly, do not see the importance of the press to their cause, and have been confined to mountainous areas which are difficult to reach. The Indian guerrillas have been indoctrinated to believe that foreigners are collaborators with the Guatemalan government, he said.

Randy Blake asked the colonel what the chances were that Blake and Davis would have encountered guerrillas if they had walked from Liano to Salquil. Col. Lima replied "100 percent."

The colonel said that reporters have previously visited his headquarters to tell him of plans to make contact with the EGP guerrillas. He said that his advice to these reporters has been not to enter the area, that these guerrillas are "special." However, for those who insist on going to the area anyway, he offers to send an army patrol along for their protection. The colonel said he insists that the reporters wear army fatigues so that they will not become the special target of a guerrilla attack. He said most reporters do not take him up on his offer with those conditions. He said it was unfortunate that Blake and Davis came to the area through Huehuetenango and were therefore unable to receive his advice.

Col. Lima told the Blake family the chances were "50/50" that Blake and Davis were alive, and that he "hopes to God" they are. However, he said during the second briefing that his belief was that the local EGP commander would have killed Blake and Davis if they had made contact with his forces. The colonel said the Indian guerrillas will kill for a camera, or even for a pair of pants or a shirt.

Col. Lima said there is "a possibility" that with "good luck" Blake and Davis were taken by guerrillas to the Playa Grande region of El Quiche about 50 kilometers north of Sumal and from there perhaps to Mexico. The colonel said the EGP maintains its high command in Mexico. He suggested that if the Blake family decides to make another dropping of leaflets, they should include the area between the Ixcan River in Huehuetenango and the Xaclbal River in El Quiche, which he said is a corridor used by the EGP to travel to and from Mexico.

At 1100 hours the meeting moved from the base offices to the center of the town of Santa Cruz, where Col. Lima now maintains his headquarters.

Col. Lima showed the Blake family the operations map in his office. It detailed a five-pronged combination of patrols, three to four patrols per sector, in an area of approximately 400 square kilometers stretching to the east from the El Quiche-Huehuetenango border, through the EGP stronghold in the Sumal region, north from the Huehuetenango village of Mixlaj, and south to the military base at Salquil. The colonel said the route between Llano and Salquil is not the subject of the current patrols because the Guatemalan army has already patrolled there since the disappearance of Blake and Davis. He also said the village of Llano itself is included in the Huehuetenango military zone.

During the second briefing, Col. Lima called the military zone commander in Huehuetenango to ask whether he had obtained any new information on the whereabouts of Blake and Davis. Col. Lima said that the military zone commander had replied no.

The colonel calculated the odds at "25 percent" that Blake and Davis were taken north by the guerrillas, and "75 percent" that whatever happened to them was decided by the guerrilla commander of the district in which they met up with the EGP. Col. Lima said the EGP had a well-organized network of districts and that each district had its own commander.

Col. Lima said that radio broadcasts throughout the area would also be useful in soliciting information on the whereabouts of Blake and Davis. He suggested "Radio Mundial" as one station that could make the broadcasts.

In both cases, however, Col. Lima said that the messages should be sent in the Indian dialects peculiar to the region. Col. Lima specifically mentioned the Indian dialects of Ixil, of which he said there are three kinds, and Kanjobal.

Randy Blake asked for details on fighting that has taken place in the area around where his brother was sighted, and whether such fighting might have affected his brother's situation. In response, the colonel made available to the group the situation report of his military zone for both March and April. The complete situation report was checked for any possible leads in the investigation. None was found. Specifically, no action was recorded in the area from the period March 28 through April 1. On April 2 an army patrol discovered a guerrilla cache in Finca La Vega, a village about nine kilometers south-southeast of Salquil. The same day, an army patrol made contact with guerrillas in Cosonib, about six or seven kilometers south-southeast of Salquil. On April 6, 7, 9, and 21 refugees who had formerly been under guerrilla control came into the hands of the army. None of these refugees had any information on Blake and Davis, the operations officer for Col Lima said.

Col. Lima also allowed the Blake family to question an EGP guerrilla who had recently turned himself in to the Guatemalan army. However, the former guerrilla was from an area far to the southeast of the Sumal region, and had no information on Blake and Davis.

Randy Blake asked Col. Lima what intelligence sources in the region were being used to locate Nicholas. Col Lima said that all available means were being used.

Col. Lima said the villagers in the region around Sumal are collaborators with the EGP. Therefore, it is difficult to evaluate information they might provide. The colonel also said when an army patrol enters an area known to be populated, it generally finds all the villagers have fled, or have been forced to leave by the guerrillas who, he claimed, use them as shields as they try to escape from the army.

The colonel said the patrols will continue, guerrillas encountered will be destroyed, and all attempts will be made to question people in the area on the whereabouts of Blake and Davis.

Col. Lima also offered to drive the Blake family to the town of Nebaj. The Blake family declined the offer. The colonel added that he would be glad to take them to any area they wished to visit within his zone.

When the briefing ended at 1245 hours, the Blake family again expressed its thanks to Col. Lima for his assistance. During the luncheon hosted by Col. Lima that followed, Mr. Goff said to the colonel that as a veteran he wished to make a donation so that the soldiers returning from the patrols could have beer. Col. Lima thanked Mr. Goff, but said army regulations prohibited such a donation. The visitors left the headquarters of the zone commander at approximately 1415 hours for the capital.

I hope these notes are helpful. If we find any information on either Nicholas or Griffith, we will let you know immediately.

Sincerely,

Jason Hyland
Vice Consul

- - - - - - -WASHINGTON, D.C. MAY 8, 1985

- - - - -THE CURRENT STATE OF U.S.-MEXICAN RELATIONS

- IT IS A PLEASURE TO BE WITH YOU THIS EVENING AS A PARTICIPANT IN THE OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL'S U.S.-MEXICO PROJECT.

- I THINK I CAN SAFELY SAY THAT NEVER BEFORE HAVE RELATIONS BETWEEN OUR TWO COUNTRIES BEEN AS IMPORTANT AS THEY HAVE BEEN IN THE PAST SEVERAL YEARS. THAT IS WHY I APPRECIATE THE COUNCIL'S WORK IN STRENGTHENING RELATIONS BETWEEN OUR TWO COUNTRIES IN THIS, THE TWELFTH IN A SERIES OF DINNER MEETINGS ON THIS ESSENTIAL RELATIONSHIP. I CONGRATULATE THE COUNCIL ON ITS INITIATIVE, AND IN BRINGING TOGETHER SUCH A DISTINGUISHED

GROUP OF ACADEMICS, PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SECTOR REPRESENTATIVES HERE TONIGHT.

- IT HAS BEEN FOUR YEARS NOW THAT I HAVE BEEN YOUR REPRESENTATIVE IN THE NEVER DULL UNITED STATES OF MEXICO. NOT A DAY GOES BY THAT DOESN'T FIND THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO DISCUSSING AND INVOLVED IN ONE ASPECT OR ANOTHER OF OUR RELATIONSHIP. THERE IS PROBABLY NO OTHER COUNTRY IN THE WORLD WITH WHICH THE UNITED STATES HAS SO MANY ISSUES TO DEAL WITH AND RESOLVE.

- I NEED NOT RELATE TO YOU ALL THE RECENT EVENTS THAT HAVE PUT OUR OFTEN COMPLEX RELATIONS IN THE NEWS. SUFFICE IT TO SAY THAT BEGINNING IN 1982 WITH THE FINANCIAL CRISIS LEADING UP TO THE SEPTEMBER 1, 1982 NATIONALIZATION OF THE MEXICAN BANKS, THE ECONOMIC SITUATION OF OUR NEIGHBOR HAS BEEN A SOURCE OF CONSIDERABLE CONCERN NOT ONLY IN THE UNITED STATES, BUT IN THE INDUSTRIALIZED COUNTRIES THAT LENT IT MONEY AND IN THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES THAT HAVE BEEN WATCHING TO SEE HOW IT HANDLES ITS DEBT REPAYMENTS.

- THIS ECONOMIC CRUNCH HAS LED BOTH DIRECTLY AND INDIRECTLY TO AN EXACERBATION OF TWO OTHER MAJOR ISSUES WHICH HAD BEEN LYING QUIETLY AWAITING THEIR TURN IN THE LIMELIGHT. I REFER TO THE QUESTIONS OF ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION AND TRADE. A THIRD ISSUE HAS ALSO RECENTLY COME TO THE FORE. THAT IS OUR DIFFERING PERSPECTIVES ON CENTRAL AMERICA IN GENERAL AND ON NICARAGUA IN PARTICULAR.

- THIS EVENING I WOULD LIKE TO DISCUSS CANDIDLY WITH YOU THE MEXICAN ECONOMIC PICTURE AS WE IN THE EMBASSY SEE IT, AND THEN SPEND SOME TIME TALKING ABOUT A SUBJECT THAT UNCLASSIFIED

HAS BEEN VERY MUCH IN THE PUBLIC EYE LATELY: ILLEGAL DRUGS.

- THOSE OF YOU WHO HAVE STUDIED MEXICO REALIZE THAT OUR TWO COUNTRIES HAVE MUCH IN COMMON DESPITE OBVIOUS HISTORICAL AND CULTURAL DIFFERENCES. IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT WE BUILD ON OUR AREAS OF CONVERGENCE AND LEARN TO UNDERSTAND BETTER OUR AREAS OF DIVERGENCE. THROUGHOUT OUR NATION, BUT ESPECIALLY IN THE SOUTHWEST, OUR NATIONS ARE JOINED BY FRIENDSHIP, BY FAMILY TIES, AND BY COMMERCE.

- MEXICO IS THE THIRD LARGEST TRADING PARTNER OF THE UNITED STATES -- AFTER CANADA AND JAPAN. DURING 1984, MEXICO IMPORTED 12 BILLION DOLLARS OF GOODS FROM THE UNITED STATES WHILE WE IMPORTED 18 BILLION DOLLARS OF PRODUCTS FROM MEXICO. MEXICO IS THE LARGEST FOREIGN SUPPLIER OF U.S. ENERGY AND MINERAL NEEDS. TWO-THIRDS OF MEXICO'S TRADE IS WITH THE UNITED STATES.

- BORDER COMMERCE ALONG OUR COMMON 2000-MILE BORDER IS INTENSE, WITH MILLIONS OF PEOPLE CROSSING OUR BORDER FOR COMMERCIAL AND TOURISM REASONS. OTHER MILLIONS OF PEOPLE EARN THEIR LIVELIHOOD FROM CROSS-BORDER TRANSACTIONS. ALMOST 700 ASSEMBLY PLANTS -- MAQUILADORAS -- OPERATE IN MEXICO EMPLOYING MORE THAN 200,000 MEXICANS AND BENEFITTING BOTH OF OUR PEOPLES AND ECONOMIES.

- TWO WEEKS AGO, THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO SIGNED AN HISTORIC AGREEMENT GIVING MEXICO THE INJURY TEST ON U.S.

AT THE SIGNING CEREMONY, MEXICO'S SECRETARY OF COMMERCE HECTOR HERNANDEZ AND THEN UNITED STATES SPECIAL TRADE REPRESENTATIVE BILL BROCK ALSO ANNOUNCED THAT THEIR STAFFS, WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF OUR EMBASSIES, WOULD BEGIN NEGOTIATIONS ON A GENERAL TRADE AND INVESTMENT AGREEMENT -- A SO-CALLED "FRAMEWORK AGREEMENT." THE FRAMEWORK AGREEMENT, IF REACHED, WOULD DEAL WITH TARIFF AND NON-TARIFF BARRIERS, INVESTMENT, AND ADMINISTRATIVE ACTIONS THAT AFFECT EACH NATION'S COMMERCE.

- AS MOST OF YOU KNOW, LAST MONTH MEXICO ALSO SIGNED IMPORTANT AGREEMENTS ON DEBT RESCHEDULING WITH MAJOR AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BANKS. ALL IN ALL, OUR ECONOMIC, FINANCIAL AND TRADE RELATIONS ARE ON AN EVEN KEEL. FURTHERMORE, I FEEL THERE ARE BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT.

- PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID'S ADMINISTRATION MADE CONSIDERABLE PROGRESS IN STRENGTHENING THE MEXICAN ECONOMY DURING 1983 AND 1984. WHEN THE ADMINISTRATION

TOOK OFFICE AT THE END OF 1982, INFLATION WAS RUNNING AT AN ANNUAL RATE OF 100 PERCENT AND IT WAS CONTINUING TO ACCELERATE. THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT WAS EQUAL TO MORE THAN 17 PERCENT OF GDP AS PETROLEUM REVENUES COULD NOT KEEP UP WITH THE ENORMOUS INCREASE IN SPENDING. THE COUNTRY'S BALANCE OF PAYMENTS POSITION WAS WEAK, AND FOREIGN RESERVES HAD BEEN COMPLETELY EXHAUSTED.

- BY THE END OF 1984, TWO YEARS LATER, THE SITUATION REGARDING ALL OF THESE ECONOMIC MEASUREMENTS HAD IMPROVED. DURING 1984 INFLATION FELL TO ABOUT 59 PERCENT AND THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT IN RELATION TO GNP WAS LESS THAN HALF OF THE 1982 FIGURE. ADDITIONALLY, THE COUNTRY REGISTERED A TRADE SURPLUS OF ALMOST 13 BILLION AND A CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS OF ABOUT 4 BILLION. THIS ENABLED THE GOVERNMENT TO BUILD UP FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES WHICH BY THE END OF THE YEAR WERE IN EXCESS OF 8 BILLION.

- AT THE SAME TIME, THE ADMINISTRATION HAS TAKEN A NUMBER OF STEPS WHICH SHOULD HELP STRENGTHEN THE ECONOMY OVER THE MEDIUM- AND LONGER-TERM. PERHAPS MOST SIGNIFICANTLY, THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEBT OWED TO FOREIGN COMMERCIAL BANKS HAS BEEN RESTRUCTURED, THEREBY GREATLY REDUCING AMORTIZATION PAYMENTS OVER THE REST OF THIS DECADE AND CUTTING THE INTEREST RATES MEXICO WILL HAVE TO PAY ON ITS DEBTS. ADDITIONALLY, THE GOVERNMENT HAS SOLD MOST OF THE SHARES BACK TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR THAT IT OBTAINED IN PRIVATE COMPANIES WHEN IT NATIONALIZED THE BANKS.

- THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT RECENTLY ENACTED FINANCIAL LEGISLATION WHICH WILL ENHANCE THE ABILITY OF THE BANK OF MEXICO TO IMPLEMENT MONETARY POLICY AND REDUCE ITS ROLE IN FINANCING THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT. THIS LEGISLATION SHOULD ALSO STRENGTHEN THE ROLE OF NON-BANKING FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS SUCH AS STOCKBROKERAGE HOUSES IN THE ECONOMY.

- FURTHERMORE, THE GOVERNMENT HAS ANNOUNCED THAT IT WILL BE SELLING SOME 236 PARASTATAL COMPANIES TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR AND THAT IT PLANS TO MAKE ADDITIONAL SALES IN THE FUTURE. FINALLY, MEXICO RECENTLY SIGNED THE FINAL YEAR OF ITS EXTENDED FUND FACILITY AGREEMENT WITH THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND.

- NONETHELESS, MEXICO STILL FACES SOME SERIOUS PROBLEMS IN IMPLEMENTING ITS ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT POLICIES. FOR EXAMPLE, OVER THE PAST FEW MONTHS INFLATION HAS BEGUN TO ACCELERATE AGAIN. GOVERNMENT SPENDING REMAINS HIGH AND THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT LOOMS AS A DIFFICULT ISSUE FOR THE AUTHORITIES IN 1985. THE EXCHANGE RATE HAS BEEN APPRECIATING IN REAL TERMS AND IN RECENT MONTHS THIS HAS BEEN REFLECTED IN A WORSENING PERFORMANCE IN THE EXPORT SECTOR.

- ADDITIONALLY, DURING THE EARLY PART OF 1985, SIGNIFICANT AMOUNTS OF CAPITAL HAVE BEEN FLOWING OUT OF THE COUNTRY AND FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES HAVE DECLINED BY MORE THAN 2 BILLION AS A RESULT OF THIS FLIGHT PLUS A SHARP RISE IN IMPORTS. FINALLY, FOREIGN INVESTMENT FLOWS

HAVE BEEN DECLINING STEADILY SINCE 1981. DURING THE FIRST 9 MONTHS OF 1984, FOR EXAMPLE, LESS THAN 200

MILLION IN NET NEW FOREIGN INVESTMENT CAME INTO THE COUNTRY.

- THUS, WHILE THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS DONE MUCH TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE IN ITSELF AND MAINTAIN STABILITY, ITS ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM IS FAR FROM OVER. THE AUTHORITIES ARE TRYING TO DEAL WITH THESE PROBLEMS. BUT GETTING THE ECONOMY BACK ON THE RIGHT PATH WILL REQUIRE A CONCERTED AND SUSTAINED EFFORT OVER SEVERAL YEARS.

- ONE AREA IN PARTICULAR WHERE MORE COULD BE DONE IS FOREIGN INVESTMENT. AT PRESENT, TOTAL FOREIGN INVESTMENT IN MEXICO IS ABOUT 13 BILLION. THIS REPRESENTS ABOUT 4 PERCENT OF TOTAL INVESTMENT IN THE ECONOMY. THIS IS MUCH LOWER THAN THE SHARE OF FOREIGN INVESTMENT IN INDUSTRIAL COUNTRIES SUCH AS THE UNITED STATES, THE UNITED KINGDOM, AUSTRALIA, AND WEST GERMANY.

- DURING THE PAST 15 MONTHS MEXICAN AUTHORITIES HAVE TAKEN SOME STEPS WHICH COULD FACILITATE FOREIGN

INVESTMENT IN THE COUNTRY. THEY ARE NOW, FOR EXAMPLE, ALLOWING MAJORITY FOREIGN OWNERSHIP IN CERTAIN HIGH-PRIORITY SECTORS OF THE ECONOMY; THEY HAVE ALSO REDUCED THE RED TAPE INVOLVED IN APPROVING FOREIGN INVESTMENT APPLICATIONS. WE SINCERELY HOPE THAT THE AUTHORITIES WILL LIBERALLY IMPLEMENT THESE NEW REGULATIONS AND ENACT OTHERS TO FACILITATE FOREIGN INVESTMENT FLOWS IN THE FUTURE.

- SOME OF OUR CRITICS IN MEXICO SEE RED EVERY TIME I MENTION FOREIGN INVESTMENT. WITH REASONABLE MEXICANS, WE CAN RATIONALLY DISCUSS THE ALTERNATIVES -- INCREASE DOMESTIC SAVINGS, REPATRIATE CAPITAL, INCREASE FOREIGN BORROWING. THE ANSWER, UNFORTUNATELY, INVARIABLY COMES OUT THAT FOREIGN INVESTMENT IS THE ONLY VIABLE COURSE OF ACTION.

- BUT THE CRITICS SEE A "YANKEE PLOT" IN EVERYTHING I SAY OR DO IN MEXICO. "FOREIGN INVESTMENT" HAS TAKEN ON BUZZ-WORD DIMENSIONS ALONG WITH OTHERS SUCH AS "INTERVENTION" "PROTECTIONISM," AND "PRESSURE." NOTHING NEW IN THAT, IS THERE? SOME PEOPLE WOULD RATHER MOUTH SLOGANS THAN LEARN FACTS OR THINK ABOUT THE RELATIONSHIP POSITIVELY.

- THE MOST FRIGHTENING ISSUE, BY FAR, WHICH OUR TWO NATIONS MUST DEAL WITH IS THE ISSUE OF ILLEGAL DRUGS.

- THE DIMENSIONS OF INTERNATIONAL DRUG TRAFFIC ARE STAGGERING. ABOUT 38 PERCENT OF THE HEROIN ENTERING THE UNITED STATES COMES FROM MEXICO, AND APPROXIMATELY 30 PERCENT OF THE COCAINE WHICH FLOWS INTO THE U.S. -- ABOUT 20 TONS YEARLY -- EITHER TRANSITS OR IS PROCESSED IN MEXICO. MEXICO NOW RANKS THIRD IN THE WORLD PRODUCTION OF MARIJUANA, AND IT IS ALSO THE NUMBER ONE SUPPLIER OF OTHER DANGEROUS DRUGS (BARBITURATES, AMPHETAMINES, DEPRESSANTS, ETC.).

- THE BRUTAL MURDERS OF OUR SPECIAL AGENT ENRIQUE CAMARENA AND THE MEXICAN PILOT ALFREDO ZAVALA AVELAR ARE PAINFUL EVIDENCE THAT BOTH OUR COUNTRIES ARE ENGAGED IN A WAR WITH DETESTABLE UNDERWORLD ELEMENTS. THE PRESIDENT OF MEXICO, LIC. MIGUEL DE LA MADRID IN HIS SEPTEMBER 1984 ANNUAL STATE OF THE UNION ADDRESS SPOKE AT LENGTH ABOUT THE DRUG PROBLEM; AND, AS YOU WILL HAVE NOTED, THE MEXICAN ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE HAS STEPPED UP ITS EFFORTS IN THE WAR ON ILLICIT DRUGS.

- WE HAVE OBSERVED WITH GREAT SATISFACTION THE RECENT DETENTIONS OF THREE OF THE MOST INFAMOUS DRUG OVERLORDS IN MEXICO AND A NUMBER OF THEIR HENCHMEN. SOME OF THEIR ACCOMPLICES, IT IS PAINFUL TO NOTE, HAVE BEEN MEXICAN LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENTS. THE ARRESTS DEMONSTRATE NOT ONLY THE SERIOUSNESS OF PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID'S COMMITMENT TO FIGHT DRUG TRAFFICKING BUT ALSO, UNFORTUNATELY, THE CORRUPTION THAT MAKES THIS KIND OF ILLEGAL ACTIVITY POSSIBLE. IT IS TOO EARLY, HOWEVER, TO FALL INTO THE TRAP OF SELF-CONGRATULATIONS. WHAT HAS BEEN TURNED-UP IS JUST THE "TIP OF THE ICEBERG."

- THE UNITED STATES, HOWEVER, CANNOT BE SANCTIMONIOUS ABOUT ILLICIT DRUGS. WE HAVE OUR OWN CORRUPTION, AND WE HAVE THE LION'S SHARE OF THE WORLD NARCOTICS MARKET. (PERHAPS, CONSIDERING WHAT DRUGS DO TO YOU, WE SHOULD CALL IT THE "DONKEY'S SHARE.") MORE THAN 20 MILLION AMERICANS USE MARIJUANA (AT LEAST ONCE A MONTH) AND DON'T LET ANYBODY TELL YOU IT'S NOT ADDICTIVE OR DESTRUCTIVE. OVER FIVE MILLION PEOPLE ARE CURRENT USERS OF COCAINE AND DON'T LET ANYBODY TELL YOU IT'S NOT ADDICTIVE OR DESTRUCTIVE. APPROXIMATELY ONE-HALF MILLION AMERICANS ARE HEROIN ADDICTS AND I HOPE NO ONE TRIES TO TELL YOU IT'S NOT ADDICTIVE OR DESTRUCTIVE. ADD TO THESE STATISTICS THE ABUSE OF OTHER DRUGS AND ALCOHOL AND YOU HAVE A FRIGHTENING PICTURE OF WHERE "COLUMBIA THE GEM OF THE OCEAN" MIGHT BE HEADED.

- FORTUNATELY, HOWEVER, NEW STATISTICS INDICATE A BETTER THAN HOPELESS SITUATION. IN THE 1980S THERE HAS BEEN A LEVELING OFF IN THE USE OF DRUGS. YOUTHFUL DRUG INVOLVEMENT HAS ACTUALLY BEGUN TO DECLINE -- LARGELY AS A RESULT OF DETERMINED INDIVIDUAL, COMMUNITY AND GOVERNMENT DECISIONS TO TAKE A FIRM STAND AGAINST DRUG ABUSE AND TO EDUCATE OUR YOUNG PEOPLE ABOUT THE DANGERS THEY FACE.

- PRESIDENT AND MRS. REAGAN HAVE COMMITTED THEMSELVES TO FIGHT ILLICIT DRUGS. JUST TWO WEEKS AGO IN WASHINGTON
UNCLASSIFIED

PAGE 02 MEXICO 09584 04 OF 05 062234Z

AND IN ATLANTA, NANCY REAGAN HOSTED FIRST LADIES FROM 18 NATIONS AT A MAJOR DRUG ERADICATION AND PREVENTION CONFERENCE.

- SRA. DE LA MADRID ACCEPTED MRS. REAGAN'S INVITATION AND WAS A PARTICIPANT IN THIS LANDMARK CONFERENCE ORGANIZED BY PRIDE -- THE PARENT'S RESOURCE INSTITUTE FOR DRUG EDUCATION. WE WISH THEM WELL IN THESE NOBLE EFFORTS.

- THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY ELEVEN COUNTRIES IN THE WORLD WHICH PRODUCE AND EXPORT ILLEGAL DRUGS. THERE ARE OTHER COUNTRIES WHICH ARE USED AS CONDUITS OR "TRAMPOLINES" FOR THESE DRUGS. NONE OF THESE COUNTRIES HAS SAVED ITSELF FROM THE EVIL OF DRUGS ON ITS OWN SOCIETY.

- COLOMBIA IS A RAGING EXAMPLE. THERE THE DRUG OVERLORDS HAVE TYRANNIZED WHOLE REGIONS. THEY HAVE ACHIEVED POLITICAL POWER THROUGH BOUGHT CANDIDATES; THEY HAVE ASSASSINATED HIGH OFFICIALS; THEY HAVE, WITH A CIGARETTE-LIKE LOAD OF POISON CALLED A "BAZOOKA," DESTROYED THE BRAINS OF THOUSANDS OF THEIR CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE.

- ITALY, A CONDUIT COUNTRY, HAS 170,000 HEROIN ADDICTS -- A MUCH HIGHER PER CAPITA RATE THAN IN THE U.S. WHERE, AS I SAID, WE HAVE 500,000 HOOKED ON THAT JUNK. FRANCE IS ALSO SUFFERING FOR ITS INVOLVEMENT WITH DRUGS. SO ARE THE REST.

- BUT WE ARE CONCERNED TODAY WITH THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MEXICO AND THE U.S. WE HAVE A MUTUAL PROBLEM. IF WE ALLOW IT TO FLOURISH IT WILL DESTROY NOT ONLY OUR RELATIONSHIP BUT OUR SOCIETIES.
UNCLASSIFIED

PAGE 03 MEXICO 09584 04 OF 05 062234Z

- NO AMOUNT OF MONEY OR PROGRAMS, HOWEVER, WILL SOLVE THIS PROBLEM -- THIS MUTUAL PROBLEM -- UNLESS THERE IS A NATIONAL COMMITMENT IN BOTH OUR COUNTRIES TO FIGHT. DRUG USE WILL CONTINUE; CORRUPTION WILL ESCALATE; AND MORE BRAINS THAN WE CAN AFFORD TO LOSE WILL BE TURNED TO JELLY, UNLESS OUR PEOPLE -- ON BOTH SIDES OF THE BORDER. WHICH UNITES US -- SAY "BASTA," ENOUGH. UNLESS BOTH OUR NATIONS COMMIT TO THIS CAMPAIGN WE SHALL NOT ONLY NOT FIND A SOLUTION, WE SHALL CONTINUE TO BE PART OF THE PROBLEM.

- IN SPANISH THE WORD FOR NARCOTIC IS "ESTUPEFACIENTE." AMONG OTHER WORDS WITH THE SAME ROOT ARE: "ESTUPEFACTO" MEANING STUPEFIED; "ESTUPEFACCION"

MEANING NUMBNESS; AND "ESTUPIDO" MEANING STUPID. SMART DOES NOT HAVE A COGNATE WORD IN SPANISH; IT TRANSLATES AS "VIVO." I WOULD SUGGEST IT IS TIME WE ALL WERE "MAS VIVOS."

- IN CLOSING, I WOULD LIKE TO SAY A FEW WORDS ABOUT OUR FALLEN COMRADE ENRIQUE CAMARENA (KIKI TO HIS FRIENDS). KIKI WAS BORN IN MEXICALI, BAJA CALIFORNIA. HE WAS RAISED ACROSS THE BORDER IN CALEXICO AND GRADUATED FROM CALEXICO HIGH SCHOOL IN 1966. AFTER SERVING IN THE U.S. MARINES IN VIETNAM -- WHERE HE LOST A BROTHER -- AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES IN CALIFORNIA, KIKI JOINED THE DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION (IN 1975). BEFORE GOING TO GUADALAJARA, HE SERVED WITH DISTINCTION IN FRESNO, CALIFORNIA.

- KIKI PERSONIFIED THE BEST OF BOTH OF OUR NATIONS. HE WAS PROUD OF HIS MEXICAN ORIGINS. HE WAS ALSO PROUD OF HIS UNITED STATES CITIZENSHIP. WE ARE PROUD OF HIM.

- MICA CAMARENA, KIKI'S BEAUTIFUL AND COURAGEOUS WIDOW, RECENTLY WROTE THE CONSULATE GENERAL IN GUADALAJARA EXPRESSING HER THANKS TO ALL HER MEXICAN AND AMERICAN FRIENDS FOR THEIR PRAYERS AND HELP DURING THE TRYING TIMES SHE AND HER CHILDREN RECENTLY WENT THROUGH. WE ARE PROUD OF HER ALSO.

- THE LIFE AND DEATH OF ENRIQUE CAMARENA SHOWS US THAT WE HAVE TO RENEW -- AND INCREASE -- OUR DETERMINATION TO WORK TOGETHER IN FURTHERING A FRIENDSHIP WHICH MUST BE BASED ON MUTUAL RESPECT. IT IS UP TO ALL OF US, MEXICANS AND AMERICANS ALIKE, TO MAKE THE BEST OF OUR GEOGRAPHICAL PROXIMITY.

- THAT IS A SPECIAL CHALLENGE WHICH YOU WHO ARE STUDENTS OF MEXICO ARE ESPECIALLY ABLE TO MEET. DURING THESE PAST FOUR YEARS, I HAVE SPOKEN BEFORE MANY GROUPS

IN THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO. IN ALL OF THESE MEETINGS, I HAVE TRIED TO PRESENT THE TRUTHS IN OUR RELATIONSHIP. IN MOST CASES, I BELIEVE MY AUDIENCES HAVE UNDERSTOOD ME.

- UNFORTUNATELY, HOWEVER, THE PERSPECTIVES OF SOME MEXICANS -- AND AMERICANS TOO -- ARE ENCUMBERED BY A LOT OF HISTORICAL BAGGAGE AND MISPERCEPTIONS. IT IS MY JOB (AND I WOULD HOPE THAT YOU WILL ALSO CONSIDER IT YOURS) TO OVERCOME THESE DISTORTIONS, TO REFUTE THESE UNFOUNDED

ALLEGATIONS -- AND TO DO IT WITH PATIENCE, ACCURACY AND, OF COURSE, AFFECTION.

- THEREFORE, SHOULD YOU COME ACROSS A WILD ALLEGATION SUCH AS, FOR EXAMPLE, THAT MY EMBASSY OR I PERSONALLY ARE LEADING A CAMPAIGN AGAINST MEXICO, (OR FOR THAT MATTER THAT THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT IS TRYING TO DESTABILIZE MEXICO) THAT YOU, IN EFFECT, REQUEST A RHETORICAL WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS. DEMAND TO SEE THE FACTS, THE NAMES AND DATES, BEHIND THE CHARGES RATHER THAN ACCEPTING BROAD GENERALIZATIONS DEVOID OF SPECIFICS. IF THIS STATEMENT SEEMS ODD TO YOU, LET ME ASSURE YOU THAT WE COME ACROSS THESE KINDS OF CHARGES EVERY DAY.

- WE RESPOND TO THESE SCURRILOUS ATTACKS AS A MATTER OF COURSE. AND I AM PLEASED TO NOTE THAT RESPONSIBLE MEXICANS AGREE WITH US THAT THE RELATIONSHIP CANNOT ADVANCE BY SHAMELESS ATTEMPTS TO MAKE THE UNITED STATES THE SCAPEGOAT OF ALL OF MEXICO'S ILLS. THE MESSAGE WE HAVE TRIED TO CONVEY THE LAST FOUR YEARS IS THIS: A MATURE RELATIONSHIP CANNOT BE ACHIEVED BY MAKING ONE OF THE PARTIES A WHIPPING BOY; ABOVE ALL, RESPECT IS A UNCLASSIFIED

TWO-WAY STREET.

- NO LAWYER WORTH HIS SALT WOULD GO INTO COURT ARMED ONLY WITH ALLEGATIONS. AND THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MEXICO AND THE UNITED STATES IS TOO IMPORTANT TO ALLOW THE MERCHANTS OF DISINFORMATION TO DUCK THE RULES OF EVIDENCE.

- IN REPRESENTING YOU, WE WILL CONTINUE TO ASK FOR THE FACTS; DEMAND THE TRUTH; AND INSIST THAT, AS THEY TELL US IN THE ENGLISH COURTS (WHICH ARE PART OF OUR HERITAGE) THAT RIGHT BE DONE.

- THANK YOU. KERN

E.O. 12356: DECL: 5/6/91
TAGS: EFIN, ECON, MX
SUBJECT: MEXICAN ECONOMIC TROUBLES

1. SUMMARY. SINCE THE LAST QUARTER OF 1984 THERE HAVE BEEN INCREASING SIGNS THAT MEXICO IS FACING SOME SERIOUS ECONOMIC PROBLEMS. AMONG THE MAJOR DIFFICULTIES ARE ON-GOING INFLATIONARY PRESSURES, THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, A DETERIORATING BALANCE OF PAYMENTS PERFORMANCE, CONTINUED APPRECIATION OF THE EXCHANGE RATE, DECLINING DEPOSITS IN THE BANKING SYSTEM IN SPITE OF RISING INTEREST RATES, LOW LEVELS OF FOREIGN INVESTMENT, ACCELERATING CAPITAL FLIGHT, AND OVERHEATING OF THE ECONOMY. THIS CABLE PROVIDES A COMPREHENSIVE OVERVIEW OF MACROECONOMIC TRENDS, DRAWN PRIMARILY FROM EMBASSY'S PREVIOUS REPORTING. OUR ASSESSMENT IS THAT THE MEXICAN ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL SITUATION REMAINS DELICATE AND THAT MEXICAN AUTHORITIES FACE DIFFICULT DECISIONS OVER THE NEXT 12-18 MONTHS. END SUMMARY.

2. AFTER MAKING SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS IN ADJUSTING THE ECONOMY DURING ITS FIRST 21 MONTHS IN OFFICE, THE DE LA MADRID ADMINISTRATION HAS FACED AN INCREASINGLY [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

PRECARIOUS SITUATION DURING THE PAST HALF YEAR. ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL PROBLEM AREAS HAS BEEN INFLATION. AFTER REDUCING THE MONTHLY RATE FROM ALMOST 11 PERCENT IN JANUARY 1983 TO LESS THAN 3 PERCENT IN AUGUST 1984, THE RATE OF INFLATION HAS BEGUN TO ACCELERATE SINCE THAT TIME. DURING THE FIRST THREE MONTHS OF 1985 INFLATION HAS BEEN VIRTUALLY THE SAME AS IT WAS DURING THE SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR AND THE COUNTRY IS SURE TO MISS ITS OFFICIAL 35 PERCENT TARGET FOR THE YEAR BY A WIDE MARGIN.

3. EVEN WITH REDUCTIONS IN THE RATE OF INFLATION IN THE COMING MONTHS, INFLATION FOR THE YEAR IS LIKELY TO BE AT LEAST 50-55 PERCENT (AS COMPARED WITH 59 PERCENT IN 1984) AND IT COULD BE EVEN HIGHER UNLESS THE GOM KEEPS A TIGHT LID ON A WIDE RANGE OF PRICE CONTROLLED PRODUCTS. THIS WOULD MEAN THAT INFLATIONARY PRESSURES WERE SIMPLY SURPRESSED (AND WOULD HAVE TO BE CORRECTED IN SUBSEQUENT PERIODS) AND THAT THERE WOULD BE LARGER PRESSURES ON THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT SINCE COSTS WOULD BE RISING FASTER THAN PRICES.

4. THE FAILURE TO MAKE CONTINUED PROGRESS IN REDUCING INFLATION HAS MEANT THAT THE GOM HAS HAD TO ALTER ITS STRATEGY IN OTHER AREAS, NOTABLY INTEREST RATES AND THE EXCHANGE RATE. UNTIL THE LAST QUARTER OF 1984 THE GOVERNMENT WAS ABLE TO REDUCE PROGRESSIVELY INTEREST RATES BUT STILL ATTRACT INCREASING (IN REAL TERMS) MONETARY FLOWS INTO THE DOMESTIC BANKING SYSTEM BECAUSE THE EFFECTIVE YIELDS ON THESE DEPOSITS WERE POSITIVE. HOWEVER, SINCE THE BEGINNING OF 1985 THE FLOWS OF NEW DEPOSITS INTO THE BANKING SYSTEM HAVE BEEN HIGHLY NEGATIVE IN REAL TERMS AND THE BANK OF MEXICO HAS BEEN FORCED TO RAISE INTEREST RATES ON SHORT-TERM TIME

DEPOSITS BY AS MUCH AS 8 PERCENTAGE POINTS. EVEN WITH THIS INCREASE, HOWEVER, YIELDS HAVE REMAINED NEGATIVE COMPARED WITH ANNUALIZED INFLATION RATES FOR THE FIRST THREE MONTHS OF THE YEAR.

5. THE RESOURCES PREVIOUSLY FLOWING INTO THE BANKING SYSTEM NOW SEEM TO BE EITHER FLOWING TO THE GOVERNMENT

UNCLASSIFIED

TO HELP FINANCE ON-GOING HIGH LEVELS OF EXPENDITURES (TREASURY BILLS NOW PAY SEVERAL PERCENTAGE POINTS MORE THAN DEPOSITS IN THE BANKS) OR LEAVING THE COUNTRY IN THE FORM OF CAPITAL FLIGHT. THE SHORTAGE OF LIQUIDITY IN THE BANKING SYSTEM IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE AND THIS COULD SOON BEGIN TO AFFECT PRIVATE SECTOR ACTIVITY IN THE ECONOMY.

6. THE EFFECT OF INFLATION ON THE EXCHANGE RATE IS ALSO EVIDENT. WE ESTIMATE THAT LAST YEAR THE CONTROLLED MARKET PESO, WHICH ACCOUNTS FOR OVER 80 PERCENT OF ALL FOREIGN TRANSACTIONS, APPRECIATED BY ABOUT 15 PERCENT IN REAL TERMS. THE GOVERNMENT ACCELERATED THE DAILY RATE OF SLIDE OF THE PESO AGAINST THE U.S. DOLLAR FROM 13 CENTAVOS PER DAY TO 17 CONTAVOS PER DAY IN DECEMBER. IN MARCH IT WAS AGAIN FORCED TO INCREASE THE DAILY RATE OF SLIDE TO 21 CENTAVOS PER DAY. EVEN SO, THE EXCHANGE RATE HAS CONTINUED TO APPRECIATE IN REAL TERMS. AFTER A PERIOD OF UNDEREVALUATION BEGINNING IN 1982 MANY ANALYSTS BELIEVE THAT THE CONTROLLED RATE HAS NOW BECOME SLIGHTLY OVERVALUED AGAIN.

7. DEVELOPMENTS REGARDING THE EXCHANGE RATE COMBINED WITH

ACCELERATED ECONOMIC GROWTH AND FALLING WORLD PETROLEUM PRICES HAVE ALSO HAD ADVERSE CONSEQUENCES FOR THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS. THE RATE OF GROWTH OF NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS BEGAN TO SLIDE MARKEDLY AFTER MID 1984. DURING THE FIRST TWO MONTHS OF 1985 THESE EXPORTS HAVE REGISTERED SUBSTANTIAL DECLINES COMPARED TO THE SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR. AT THE SAME TIME, IMPORTS HAVE BEEN ACCELERATING RAPIDLY (UP 42 PERCENT FOR THE FIRST TWO MONTHS OF THE YEAR) THEREBY CONTRIBUTING TO A SUBSTANTIAL DECLINE IN THE TRADE SURPLUS SO FAR THIS YEAR. WE EXPECT THIS DETERIORATING TRADE PERFORMANCE TO CONTINUE, AT LEAST FOR THE NEXT SEVERAL MONTHS AND MAYBE LONGER IN THE ABSENCE OF POLICIES TO TEMPER THE RATE OF ECONOMIC GROWTH AND MAKE THE EXCHANGE RATE MORE ATTRACTIVE TO EXPORTERS. AN ADDITIONAL PROBLEM IS THE PERCEPTION AMONG EXPORTERS THAT THE GOVERNMENT DOES NOT REALLY INTEND TO PURSUE POLICIES OVER THE MEDIUM TO LONGER TERM TO BOLSTER EXPORTS. FOR EXAMPLE, EARLY IN THEYEAR THE GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED THE DIMEX PROGRAM WHICH WOULD HAVE ALLOWED

MEXICAN EXPORTERS EASIER ACCESS TO IMPORTS. AFTER MUCH OPPOSITION FROM SEVERAL OF THE MINISTRIES (ESPECIALLY PARTS OF COMMERCE) AND SEVERAL KEY INDUSTRIAL CHAMBERS

OF COMMERCE THE IDEA APPARENTLY HAS BEEN DROPPED FOR THE MOMENT.

8. SO FAR THE INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM SITUATION HAS NOT HAD SERIOUS ADVERSE CONSEQUENCES FOR MEXICO. THE ONLY DOWNWARD PRICE ADJUSTMENT HAS BEEN $1.25 PER BARREL FOR LIGHT CRUDE EXPORTS WHICH ON AN ANNUAL BASIS WILL ONLY COST THE COUNTRY $200-300 MILLION. HOWEVER, THE INTERNATIONAL MARKET REMAINS SOFT AND IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THERE MAY BE ADDITIONAL DOWNWARD PRICE ADJUSTMENTS BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR WHICH WOULD PRODUCE ADDITIONAL BALANCE OF PAYMENTS PRESSURES FOR THE COUNTRY. A FALL IN AVERAGE PETROLEUM PRICES OF U.S. $4.00 OR MORE PER BARREL COULD BE PARTICULARLY DIFFICULT FOR THE AUTHORITIES.

9. WHILE OFFICIAL STATISTICS ARE NOT YET AVAILABLE, IT IS OUR IMPRESSION THAT THE ECONOMY HAS BEEN GROWING AT A VERY RAPID RATE OVER THE PAST 6-8 MONTHS. PUBLIC SECTOR EXPENDITURES AND THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT BOTH INCREASED SHARPLY DURING THE LAST QUARTER OF 1984 AND IT APPEARS THAT THE PATTERN OF HIGH EXPENDITURES WILL CONTINUE AT LEAST DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THIS YEAR, PARTLY IN ANTICIPATION OF THE JULY ELECTIONS. PRIVATE SECTOR ACTIVITY HAS ALSO PICKED UP FROM THE EXTREMELY DEPRESSED LEVELS OF 1983 AND THE FIRST HALF OF 1984. THE NET EFFECT IS THAT THE ECONOMY IS PROBABLY GROWING AT A MUCH HIGHER RATE THAN DESIRABLE AT THIS STAGE IN THE ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROCESS.

10. THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT IS AN AREA WHERE POLICY-

MAKERS MADE GOOD PROGRESS THROUGH SEPTEMBER 1984 BUT THEY NOW APPEAR TO BE ENCOUNTERING IMPEDIMENTS IN MAKING FURTHER REDUCTIONS IN THE RATIO OF THE DEFICIT TO GDP. BETWEEN 1982 AND 1983 THE FINANCIAL DEFICIT WAS REDUCED FROM MORE THAN 17 PERCENT OF GDP TO 8.7 PERCENT OF GDP. LAST YEAR PROGRESS WAS MUCH SLOWER AND THE GOM MISSED ITS 5.5 PERCENT TARGET BY A COMSIDERABLE MARGIN. OFFICIALLY THE DEFICIT WAS 7.4 PERCENT OF GDP ALTHOUGH WE SUSPECT THAT WITHOUT SOME CREATIVE ACCOUNTING PROCEDURES THE REAL FIGURE WOULD HAVE BEEN OVER 8 PERCENT OF GDP. MUCH OF

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

THIS SHORTFALL WAS GENERATED IN THE LAST QUARTER OF THE YEAR. UNDER MEXICO'S IMF PROGRAM THE FINANCIAL DEFICIT IS SLATED TO BE SLIGHTLY LESS THAN 5 PERCENT OF GDP FOR 1985 BUT THERE IS LITTLE CHANCE THAT THIS FIGURE CAN BE ACHIEVED. THE GOVERNMENT STRATEGY SEEMS TO BE TO KEEP SPENDING HIGH UNTIL THE JULY ELECTIONS AND THEN INSTITUTE A MORE AUSTERE APPROACH IN THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. HOWEVER, BY SO DOING THE AUTHORITIES COULD BE RISKING A SERIOUS RECESSION, A PRICE WHICH THEY PROBABLY WOULD NOT BE WILLING TO PAY. MOREOVER, SUCH A STRATEGY PRESUMES A CONTINUING HIGH RATE OF ACTIVITY IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR, AN ASSUMPTION WHICH IS FAR FROM BEING ASSURED.

11. ADDING TO CURRENT DIFFICULTIES HAS BEEN AN ACCELERATING OUTFLOW OF CAPITAL FROM THE COUNTRY. OVER THE PAST FOUR MONTHS WE ESTIMATE THAT MEXICO HAS LOST AT LEAST $2-3 BILLION IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVE
S.
THIS IS A RATE OF LOSS WHICH THE COUNTRY CANNOT SUSTAIN FOR VERY LONG WITHOUT FACING ANOTHER CRISIS. OFFICIAL

RESERVES AT THE END OF 1984 WERE SLIGHTLY MORE THAN $8 BILLION AND THE AUTHORITIES MAY HAVE SOME ADDITIONAL HIDDEN RESERVES. EVEN SO, SHOULD PRESENT TRENDS CONTINUE, BY THE END OF THE YEAR THE RESERVE SITUATION WOULD AGAIN BE VERY TOUCHY. MOREOVER, THESE DEVELOPMENTS COMBINED WITH A SHRINKING TRADE SURPLUS COULD FORCE THE AUTHORITIES TO REVISE THEIR ESTIMATED NET EXTERNAL BORROWING REQUIREMENTS ($1 BILLION) UPWARD, A MOVE WHICH WOULD MAKE MEXICO'S EXTERNAL CREDITORS AND THE IMF QUITE UNHAPPY.

12. TRENDS IN FOREIGN INVESTMENT ALSO HAVE NOT BEEN ENCOURAGING AND DESPITE GOM LIP SERVICE TO THE CONTRARY IT DOES NOT APPEAR THAT MEXICO IS MAKING A CONCERTED EFFORT TO ATTRACT NEW EQUITY FUNDS FROM ABROAD. ACCORDING TO BANK OF MEXICO FIGURES FOREIGN INVESTMENT HAS DECLINED FROM NEARLY $1.2 BILLION IN 1981 TO LESS THAN $200 MILLION DURING THE FIRST NINE MONTHS OF 1984. IN SPITE OF CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IN THE MEXICAN MARKET,

MANY FOREIGN BUSINESSMEN CONTINUE TO REPORT CONSIDERABLE FRUSTRATIONS IN TRYING TO GET INVESTMENT PROJECTS APPROVED.

13. AN ADDITIONAL CONCERN SEEMS TO BE INCREASING

UNCLASSIFIED

DISSENTION IN THE PRESIDENT'S ECONOMIC CABINET AS TO THE FUTURE COURSE OF ECONOMIC POLICY. OVER THE FIRST TWO YEARS OF THE ADMINISTRATION THE FORCES FAVORING CONTINUED ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT (E.G., FINANCE MINISTER JESUS SILVA-HERZOG AND BANK OF MEXICO DIRECTOR GENERAL MIGUEL MANCERA) GENERALLY CARRIED THE DAY. HOWEVER, IT IS OUR IMPRESSION THAT THEIR INFLUENCE MAY BE DECLINING WHILE THAT OF SECRETARY OF PROGRAMMING AND BUDGET CARLOS SALINAS AND FOREIGN MINISTER BERNARDO SEPULVEDA, WHO GENERALLY FAVOR EVEN MORE GOVERNMENT SPENDING, SEEM TO BE INCREASING. THE PRESIDENT HIMSELF IS CAUGHT IN A DIFFICULT BIND BECAUSE, WHILE REALIZING THE NEED FOR ON-GOING ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT, HE FEARS THE POSSIBLE NEGATIVE POLITICAL RAMIFICATIONS SHOULD THE ECONOMY BEGIN TO MOVE INTO A RECESSION AGAIN. FURTHERMORE, AS WITH THE PREVIOUS TWO ADMINISTRATIONS IN MEXICO, HE MAY FACE GREATER PRESSURES DURING THE SECOND HALF OF HIS TENURE IN OFFICE TO PURSUE EXPANSIONARY POLICIES.

14. ALL IN ALL, MEXICO IS FAR FROM OUT OF THE WOODS IN RESOLVING ITS ECONOMIC PROBLEMS AND THE NEXT 12-18 MONTHS COULD BE THE MOST DIFFICULT SO FAR FOR THE AUTHORITIES. THE DECISIONS THEY MAKE DURING THIS PERIOD WILL HAVE IMPORTANT IMPLICATIONS FOR MEXICO'S LONG-TERM ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROCESS (AS WELL AS THAT OF OTHER HIGH DEBT LDC'S). IN RECENT MONTHS DECISIONMAKERS HAVE NOT BEEN PRESSING FOR THE NECESSARY STRUCTURAL CHANGES (E.G., CONTINUED REDUCTION IN THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT,

INCREASING THE RATIO OF EXPORTS TO GDP, OPENING THE ECONOMY, MAKING DOMESTIC INDUSTRY MORE COMPETITIVE, ETC.) AND WE HAVE RESERVATIONS ABOUT THEIR ABILITY TO DO SO OVER THE REST OF THE YEAR.

15. THIS IS LIKELY TO BE A PIVOTAL PERIOD FOR MEXICO. WHILE THE AUTHORITIES HAVE TAKEN SOME POSITIVE STEPS DURING THE 1984 AND EARLY 1985 PERIOD (E.G., SALES OF PRIVATE COMPANY SHARES BY THE NATIONALIZED BANKS, NEW FINANCIAL LEGISLATION, DEBT RESCHEDULING, SALES OF SOME PARASTATAL COMPANIES) WE ARE WORRIED ABOUT THE OVERALL DIRECTION OF THE ECONOMY. THUS ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS

SUBJECT: W/W: CASE OF GRIFFITH DAVIS AND NICHOLAS BLAKE - UPDATE AS OF COB 5/8/85

REF: GUATEMALA 4313

1. SUMMARY: THERE HAVE BEEN NO RECENT DEVELOPMENTS. END SUMMARY.

2. ON THE EVENING OF MAY 3, PRIVATE SECURITY CONSULTANT CARL WEST, WHO HAS BEEN EMPLOYED BY THE BLAKE FAMILY AND FRIENDS OF DAVIS, ADVISED EMBOFF THAT HE HAD LEARNED THERE WAS A "FIREFIGHT" BETWEEN LEFTIST GUERRILLAS AND GOG MILITARY IN THE AREA WHERE DAVIS AND BLAKE WERE LAST KNOWN TO BE. ACCORDING TO WEST, THIS FIREFIGHT TOOK PLACE ON OR ABOUT APRIL 28. FOLLOWING, THREE "GRINGO TYPE" BODIES (ONE WOMAN, TWO MEN) WERE FOUND. WEST SAID HE HAD NO FURTHER INFORMATION, BUT WOULD ATTEMPT TO VERIFY FURTHER THIS REPORT. HE DID NOT SAY WHETHER HE HAD PASSED THIS INFORMATION TO HIS CLIENTS, MRS. BLAKE IN PHILADELPHIA OR MIKKI LINDKEN IN PANAJACHEL, GUATEMALA.

3. EMBASSY HAS THOROUGHLY CHECKED THIS REPORT AND IT APPEARS TO BE COMPLETELY FALSE. THERE WAS NO FIREFIGHT AND THERE WERE NO BODIES.

4. AS OF 1700 HOURS LOCAL TIME ON MAY 7, THE G-2 OF THE GUATEMALAN ARMY, COL. DORANTES, ADVISED THE DEFENSE ATTACHE THAT NONE OF THE ARMY PATROLS IN THE SEARCH AREA HAD DISCOVERED ANY TRACE OF BLAKE OR DAVIS.

5. CARLOS AVILES, THE PROPRIETOR OF THE SMALL HOTEL IN ANTIGUA WHERE BLAKE HAD BEEN STAYING, HAS NOT REPORTED RECEIPT OF ANY FURTHER NOTES. PIEDRA

CG TAYLOR TOLD HIM ALL AVAILABLE INFORMATION WAS CONTAINED IN REFTEL AND HE SHOULD CONTACT CA/OCS/EMR (GOBER). BLAKE SAID THAT IN AN EARLIER TELEPHONE CONVERSATION WITH CARL WEST, WEST HAD SAID HE DID NOT THINK HE COULD PASS AVILES' NAME ON TO BLAKE ON AN OPEN PHONE LINE.
2. BLAKE ASKED WHAT FURTHER STEPS ANYONE COULD TAKE AT THIS POINT. WE REPLIED THAT FOR THE MOMENT ALL CONCERNED COULD ONLY WAIT FOR FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS. BLAKE ASKED WHETHER POST BELIEVED THE TWO NOTES RECEIVED BY AVILES WERE CREDIBLE. AND WAS TOLD THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY BUT THAT IT WAS CURIOUS THERE HAD BEEN NOTHING SUBSEQUENT TO THE TWO NOTES.

RE: DISAPPEARANCE OF NICHOLAS BLAKE

CA- Harty, Maura
Blake Davis

DEAR AMBASSADOR:

THE UNITED STATES EMBASSY IN GUATEMALA VAS NOTIFIED OF THE DISAPPEARANCE OF NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH VILLIAN DAVIS ON MARCH 29, 1985. THEY VERE LAST SEEN IN AN AREA BORDERING THE EL QUICHE PROVINCE IN GUATEMALA. SINCE THAT TIME IT HAS COME TO THE ATTENTION OF THE FAMILY THAT THEIR SON, NICHOLAS BLAKE, [redacted] ENTER INTO THE STATE OF CHIAPAS, MEXICO, VITH OR VITHOUT PROPER DOCUMENTATION. THE FAMILY OF NICHOLAS BLAKE IS EXTREMELY CONCERNED ABOUT HIS HEALTH AND VELL BEING, AND HAVE ASKED ME TO DO VHATEVER IS POSSIBLE TO LOCATE THE VHEREABOUTS OF THEIR SON.

I AM AVARE THAT YOU HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY NOTIFIED OF THIS SITUATION BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT, CITIZEN EMERGENCY CENTER, IN VASHINGTON, D.C.

AS A FRIEND OF THE FAMILY I SHALL BE IN MEXICO CITY STARTING ON MONDAY MAY 29, 1965. WOULD IT BE POSSIBLE TO MEET WITH SOMEONE FROM YOUR STAFF SO THAT I CAN BE BROUGHT UP TO DATE ON ANY INFORMATION THAT YOU MAY HAVE. AT THAT TIME ANY SUGGESTIONS OR IDEAS YOU MAY HAVE AS TO A COURSE OF CONDUCT WOULD BE GREATLY APPRECIATED.

THANKING YOU IN ADVANCE FOR YOUR COURTESIES AND COOPERATION, I REMAIN,

VERY TRULY YOURS,

SUBJECT: THE HOMILY FOR 12 MAY 1985: ROSA CHAVEZ PROTESTS FOR SECOND WEEK IN A ROW AGAINST GUERRILLA KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS

1. SUMMARY: IN THE HOMILY FOR 12 MAY, AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ ANNOUNCED THAT HE HAD DELIVERED THE UNCLASSIFIED

GUERRILLA PROPOSAL FOR PROCEDURES FOR PRIVATE MEETINGS TO PRESIDENT DUARTE FRIDAY 10 MAY, AND SAID THAT HE WAS

AWAITING THE PRESIDENT'S RESPONSE. HE CLARIFIED THAT THE GUERRILLAS AND THE PRESIDENT HAVE NOT YET AGREED ON THE PRIVATE MEETINGS. ROSA CHAVEZ REITERATED THE CHURCH'S REJECTION OF A MILITARY SOLUTION TO THE CONFLICT, AND LAUDED DEFENSE MINISTER VIDES CASANOVA'S MODERATE-TONED SOLDIERS' DAY SPEECH FOR LEAVING SPACE FOR "EVERY SINCERE EFFORT" FOR DIALOGUE. BISHOP ROSA DENOUNCED FOR THE SECOND WEEK IN A ROW THE CONTINUED GUERRILLA KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS AND LISTED THE NAMES OF THOSE STILL HELD BY THE GUERRILLAS. ROSA CHAVEZ CLOSED THE HOMILY BY REMEMBERING MOTHERS DAY, SAYING THAT "THE WOMAN WHOSE SON IS IN THE ARMY IS JUST AS MUCH A MOTHER AS THE WOMAN WHOSE SON IS WITH THE GUERRILLAS." ENDJ SUMMARY.

2. AUXILIARY BISHOP GREGORIO ROSA CHAVEZ REPORTED THAT THE CHURCH IS CONTINUING WITH THE PREPARATIONS FOR THE NEXT DIALOGUE MEETING BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE FDR/FMLN. HE REPORTED THAT ARCHBISHOP RIVERA DAMAS ANNOUNCED IN WEST GERMANY THAT ROSA CHAVEZ HAD GIVEN THE GUERRILLA PROPOSAL TO PRESIDENT DUARTE 10 MAY, AND SAID THAT HE EXPECTED THE GOES REPLY IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS. ROSA CLARIFIED THAT THE GUERRILLAS AND THE GOES STILL HAVE NOT YET AGREED ON THE PRELIMINARY PRIVATE TALKS.

3. NOTING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE PAST WEEK COMMEMORATING THE END OF WORLD WAR II, ROSA CHAVEZ SAID THAT "WE TOO MUST DO EVERYTHING TO PUT AN END TO THE WAR IN EL SALVADOR AND SAY NEVERMORE." HE REITERATED THE CHURCH'S REJECTION OF A MILITARY SOLUTION TO THE CONFLICT, AND LAUDED DEFENSE MINISTER GENERAL VIDES CASANOVA'S UNCLASSIFIED

SOLDIERS' DAY SPEECH FOR ITS "MODERATE TONE" AND ITS DESCRIPTION OF THE GOALS ESPOUSED BY THE ARMED FORCES. ROSA CALLED THE SPEECH ONE "WHICH LEAVES SPACE FOR EVERY SINCERE EFFORT IN SEARCH OF PEACE THROUGH DIALOGUE."

4. ROSA REPORTED THAT DURING THE WEEK OF 3-9 MAY TUTELA LEGAL RECEIVED A TOTAL OF 22 DENUNCIATIONS OF ALL TYPES (ARRESTS, DISAPPEARANCES, AND KIDNAPPINGS, PRESUMABLY INCLUDING THE MAYORS KIDNAPPED BY THE GUERRILLAS), AND RECORDED 20 VIOLENT DEATHS, ABOUT WHICH HE SUPPLIES NO FURTHER INFORMATION. ROSA CHAVEZ THEN DENOUNCED THE CONTINUING KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS BY THE GUERRILLAS IN THE EASTERN ZONE, CITING THE NAMES OF THE 7 STILL LIVING: 1) LUCIO RIVAS, OF NUEVA ESPARTA, 2) ANTONIO

HERNANDEZ, OF SAN SIMEON, 3) FLORENZO AREVALO, OF SAN RAFAEL ORIENTE, 4) CIRIACO FERNANDEZ COREA, OF YOLOAIQUIN, 5) ANTOLIN NUNEZ CANALES, OF EL SAUCE, 6) SANTOS VELASQUEZ, OF SAN LUIS DE LA REINA, AND 7) EDUARDO ARGUETA CASTILLO, OF ALEGRIA. ACCORDING TO THE BISHOP, SIX OF THE MAYORS BELONG TO THE RULING PDC AND ONE TO ARENA. ROSA CHAVEZ EMPHASIZED THAT THE KIDNAPPINGS ARE OCCURRING SOLELY IN THE EASTERN ZONE, AND THAT THE GUERRILLA HIGH COMMAND IS FULLY AWARE OF THE ARCHBISHOP'S CONCERN. "ACTIONS SUCH AS THESE," HE SAID, "DO NOTHING TO FAVOR THE DIALOGUE PROCESS NOR THE HUMANIZATION OF THE CONFLICT."

5. ROSA CLOSED THE HOMILY BY REMEMBERING MOTHERS DAY, WHICH HE SUGGESTED SHOULD BE CELEBRATED BY A REDEDICATION TO RESPECT FOR ALL LIFE. HE SAID, "THE WOMAN WHOSE SON IS IN THE ARMY IS JUST AS MUCH A MOTHER AS THE WOMAN WITH A SON AMONG THE GUERRILLAS. THE WOMAN WITH A CHILD TAKEN PRISONER OR DISAPPEARED IS AS MUCH A MOTHER AS THE WOMAN WHOSE CHILD HAS BEEN KIDNAPPED BY THE GUERRILLAS." HE THEN DECLARED THAT "IT IS ONLY

I called Carl West at 0900 this morning to advise him we had received a cable from the Department saying that Goff was planning on returning to Guatemala. I read him the text of the cable (State 148111), and aksed whether he had anything new.

He did not. He said that he would be meeting with an unidentified source later in the day and would try to meet with me following that. He said that the Shawcross/Legator/Lindken party was still in San Cristobal, Chiapas, Mexico and would be there at least until Friday. He said that Shawcross was wandering around the countryside in southern Mexico to see what he could see.

Dear Ms. Gober:

This will confirm your telephone call to our office this afternoon wherein you advised me of the name and telephone number of the U.S. Consul General in Mexico City, Mexico, namely, Larry E. Lane at 211-0042.

Enclosed herewith for your reference and file is a photocopy of the Authorization which Mrs Blake has given to Mr. Goff. This is translated in both English and Spanish. I neglected to foward this along with his letter of May 14th.

If there is anything you need please do not hesitate to call.

1. ON MAY 11 EMBOFF VISITED THE POSADA DEL REFUGIO IN ANTIGUA, GUATEMALA, WHERE NICHOLAS BLAKE HAD STAYED PRIOR TO HIS DISAPPEARENCE, IN ORDER TO OBTAIN HIS PASSPORT NUMBER. THE REGISTER AT THE POSADA LISTED TWO PASSPORT NUMBERS FOR BLAKE.

2. ON FEBRAURY 2, 1985, BLAKE CHECKED INTO THE POSADA WITH PASSPORT NUMBER E1005068. THE REGISTER SHOWS THAT HE HAD COME TO GUATEMALA FROM EL SALVADOR. ACCORDING TO THE REGISTER, BLAKE CHECKED INTO THE POSADA AGAIN ON MARCH 7, 1985, COMING FROM MEXICO, BUT THIS TIME WITH PASSPORT NUMBER A2188020.

3. THE OWNER OF THE POSADA, CARLOS AVILES, CLAIMS THAT THE FIRST NUMBER, E1005068, IS BLAKE'S REAL PASSPORT NUMBER, AND THAT THE SECOND PASSPORT NUMBER WAS PROBABLY INCORRECTLY COPIED BY AN EMPLOYE OF THE HOTEL. MR. AVILES SAID THAT HE WAS SURE OF THIS BECAUSE THE FIRST PASSPORT NUMBER HAD BEEN ENTERED INTO THE REGISTER BY BLAKE, AND THAT THE SECOND HAD BEEN ENTERED BY THE EMPLOYE WORKING THE HOTEL DESK ON MARCH 7. HOWEVER, THERE IS NO RELATION BETWEEN THE TWO NUMBERS, WHICH ELIMINATES THE POSSIBILITY OF AN ERROR MADE WHILE COPYING THE NUMBER. ALSO, AN EXAMINATION OF THE REGISTER DID NOT SHOW BLAKE'S FIRST PASSPORT NUMBER ATTRIBUTED TO ANYONE ELSE WHO REGISTERED ON MARCH 7, WHICH PROBABLY ELIMINATES THE POSSIBILITY OF THE EMPLOYE ACCIDENTLY SWITCHING BLAKE'S PASSPORT NUMBER WITH THAT OF SOMEONE ELSE.

4. WE ARE REQUESTING THE PASSPORT OFFICE TO INVESTIGATE THE TWO NUMBERS ATTRIBUTED TO BLAKE IN AN EFFORT TO DETERMINE WHICH, IF ANY, BELONGS TO BLAKE. PIEDRA

1. ACCORDING TO INFORMATION MADE AVAILABLE BY GUATEMALAN IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES, NICHOLAS BLAKE ENTERED GUATEMALA FROM MEXICO AT THE LA MESILLA, HUEHUETENANGO, BORDER POST ON MARCH 16, 1985. HE USED TOURIST CARD NUMBER 355875 TO CROSS THE BORDER. A SEARCH OF GUATEMALAN IMMIGRATION RECORDS FOR THE MONTHS OF JANUARY, FEBRUARY, AND MARCH DOES NOT SHOW BLAKE ENTERING MEXICO FROM GUATEMALA, EVEN THOUGH HE SUPPOSEDLY CHECKED INTO A HOTEL IN ANTIGUA, GUATEMALA, ON MARCH 7. ACCORDING TO HOTEL RECORDS, BLAKE HAD BEEN IN MEXICO PRIOR TO MARCH 7.

2. WE REQUEST YOUR ASSISTANCE IN DETERMINING WHEN, WHERE, AND FROM WHERE BLAKE ENTERED MEXICO, AND, IF POSSIBLE, HIS DESTINATION IN MEXICO. WE ARE ALSO INTERESTED IN KNOWING HOW MANY TIMES IN THE MONTHS OF JANUARY, FEBRUARY, AND MARCH BLAKE ENTERED AND LEFT MEXICO. PIEDRA

MEMO TO THE FILES: Davis/Blake

FROM: CON - Philip B. Taylor

SUBJECT: Davis/Blake Disappearance

Col. Stokes called at 1450 from the Huehuetenango Military Zone Commander's office. I read to him Mr. Shannon's memo to the file on his conversation with Rosenfeld and Olson of Amoco.

Stokes checked with the zone commander. The zone commander said he had never heard of the rumor that Davis and Blake had been found. Stokes said that he, and the zone commander, believed that the rumor was false.

I asked Stokes to reconfirm with the zone commander that he would be willing to meet with Goff next week when he arrived from Mexico. Stokes did so during the telephone conversation.

- C) FBIS CHIVA CHIVA PN R 170253 Z MAY 85
- D) SAN SALVADOR 5968 (NOTAL)

1. (C) SUMMARY: IN AN UNUSUALLY STRONGLY WORDED STATEMENT, THE OFFICIAL ARCHDIOCESE NEWSPAPER "ORIENTATION" PUBLISHED AN EDITORIAL 12 MAY (REF A) CONDEMNING THE GUERRILLAS FOR THEIR KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS. THE EDITORIAL THEN WENT ON TO DESCRIBE THE FMLN AS A MARXIST GROUP AIMING TO WIELD POWER IN EL SALVADOR AS THE SANDINISTA GOVERNMENT WIELDS POWER IN NICARAGUA. THE EDITORIAL ASSERTED THAT THERE COULD BE NO SUCH THING AS "CHRISTIAN MARXISM," AND SAID THAT PRIESTS COLLABORATING WITH THE GUERRILLAS WERE ONLY SERVING AS "PROPAGANDA INSTRUMENTS, WITHOUT ANY INFLUENCE ON THE METHODS, DECISIONS, AND SPIRIT OF THE GUERRILLAS." THE EDITORIAL CONCLUDED THAT THE GUERRILLA TACTICS LEAD THE CHURCH TO DOUBT THE SINCERITY OF THE LEFT'S DESIRE FOR PEACE, AND TO QUESTION ITS OSTENSIBLE DEDICATION TO DEMOCRACY. WHEN COUPLED TO AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ' STRONG CONDEMNATION OF THE GUERRILLA KIDNAPPINGS OF

MAYORS IN THE HOMILY SUNDAY 12 MAY (REF B), IT IS CLEAR THAT THE CHURCH IS BEGINNING TO FACE UP TO THE CRIMES OF THE LEFT EVEN IF THIS COMPLICATES ITS ABILITY TO MEDIATE BETWEEN GOES AND THE LEFT FOR THE SAKE OF THE DIALOGUE. END SUMMARY.

2. (U) THE OFFICIAL ARCHDIOCESE NEWSPAPER, "ORIENTATION," PUBLISHED AN EDITORIAL 12 MAY (REF A) UNEQUIVOCALLY CONDEMNING THE GUERRILLAS FOR THE KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS ELECTED IN MARCH. AT THE TIME THE ARTICLE WAS WRITTEN, TEN MAYORS HAD BEEN KIDNAPPED, AND ANOTHER WAS MISSING. THE EDITORIAL CALLED THE KIDNAPPINGS "A VERY CLEAR EXAMPLE OF THE MEANS THAT THE GUERRILLAS HAVE ALWAYS USED TO REACH THEIR GOALS," AND THEREFORE NOT AN ISOLATED, UNREPRESENTATIVE TACTIC. THE ARTICLE ASSERTED THAT THE USE OF THIS TACTIC WAS "BASED ON THE PREMISE THAT THEY ARE ABSOLUTELY RIGHT, AND THUS EVERY MEANS IS VALID TO ACHIEVE THEIR ENDS." THE EDITORIAL ASSERTS THAT THE KIDNAPPINGS HAVE BACKFIRED "DECREASING THE PEOPLE'S SUPPORT" FOR THE GUERRILLAS, AND SERVING TO STRENGTHEN THE CHURCH'S BELIEF THAT MARXISM, "WHETHER SLAVIC, LATIN, EUROPEAN, ASIAN, OR LATIN AMERICAN, IS ALL THE SAME." THE ARTICLE REJECTS THE IDEA THAT MARXISM CAN BE COMPATIBLE WITH CHRISTIANITY IN LATIN AMERICA, SAYING THAT "IT IS BORDERING ON MADNESS TO BELIEVE THERE CAN BE CHRISTIA MARXISM."

3. (U) THE EDITORIAL POSITS THAT "THE NICARAGUAN EXPERIENCE PROVES OUR POINT." IT CITES THE "ABUSES AGAINST THE CHURCH, FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION, POLITICAL PLURALISM, AND HUMAN RIGHTS" AS EVIDENCE THAT THE PRIESTS WHO ARE "COMMITTED TO HIGH POSTS WITHIN THE SANDINISTA GOVERNMENT" ARE BRINGING NO CHRISTIAN VALUE TO BEAR ON SANDINISTA POLICY. "THEIR TASK IS THAT OF ANY LAYMAN AT THE UNCONDITIONAL SERVICE OF A PARTY" AND "JUDGING BY THE PATH ALREADY TRAVELED, THERE IS NO HOPE THAT NICARAGUA CAN BUILD A SOCIETY WITH SOCIAL JUSTICE, LIBERTY, AND RESPECT FOR PEOPLE."

4. (U) THE ARTICLE APPLIES THE NICARAGUAN EXPERIENCE TO THE SITUATION IN EL SALVADOR. IT STATES THAT THE FMLN (IF SUCCESSFUL) "WILL BE THE ARMED BRANCH OF THE REVOLUTION, DOGMATIC AND RADICAL, WHICH WOULD TRULY DECIDE AND DEFINE THE COURSE OF HISTORY." THEREFORE, "THOSE PRIESTS INVOLVED WITH THE GUERRILLAS WILL NOT BE ABLE TO ACCOMPLISH ANYTHING, NOW OR EVER, BY CELEBRATING MASSES IN THE MOUNTAINS AND VILLAGES OF MORAZAN AND LA UNION DEPARTMENTS AND FORMING CHRISTIAN BASE COMMUNITIES. THESE PRIESTS AND THOSE WHO HAVE TRIED TO SWAY SYMPATHIES TOWARD THE SALVADORAN REVOLUTION IN EUROPE BY ESTABLISHING CONTACT WITH POLITICAL, HUMANITARIAN, CULTURAL, AND CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS HAVE SERVED ONLY AS PROPAGANDA INSTRUMENTS, WITHOUT ANY INFLUENCE ON THE METHODS, DECISIONS, AND SPIRIT OF THE GUERRILLAS."

5. (U) IN CONCLUSION, THE EDITORIAL SAYS THAT THESE GUERRILLA TACTICS HAVE CAUSED THE CHURCH TO DOUBT THE SINCERITY OF THE "EXTREME LEFT'S" DESIRE FOR PEACE. IT FURTHER CONCLUDES THAT THE KIDNAPPINGS OF THE MAYORS AND THE MURDER OF ONE OF THEM "FOR PARTICIPATING IN A DEMOCRATIC PROCESS" GIVES "AN ALARMING HINT AS TO THE GUERRILLAS' INTENTIONS," UNDERMINING ANY CLAIM THE GUERRILLAS MAY MAKE AS TO THEIR RESPECT FOR DEMOCRACY.

6. (C) COMMENT: THE EDITORIAL SEEMS COMPLETELY CONSISTENT WITH THE THOUGHT OF POPE JOHN PAUL II: RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE DIGNITY AND FREEDOM OF HUMAN BEINGS, REJECTION OF ANY COMPATIBILITY

OF MARXISM WITH CHRISTIANITY, AND THE CONDEMNATION OF PRIESTLY POLITICAL ACTIVITY AND DISREGARD FOR CHURCH DISCIPLINE. THESE THEMES HAVE BEEN REPEATEDLY ECHOED WITH CONVICTION IN EL SALVADOR BY BOTH ARCHBISHOP RIVERA DAMAS AND AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ. IN HIS HOMILY OF SUNDAY 12 MAY (REF B), THE SAME DAY AS THE ORIENTATION EDITORIAL, ROSA CHAVEZ PROTESTED FOR THE SECOND WEEK IN A ROW (AND, ON MAY 19, FOR THE THIRD) AGAINST THE GUERRILLA KIDNAPPINGS OF MAYORS, GENERATING LOUD PROTEST FROM THE FDR/FMLN THAT THE CHURCH HAD DROPPED ITS NEUTRALITY AND WAS WORKING WITH THE GOES.

7. (U) IT MAY BE THAT THE "ORIENTATION" ARTICLE WAS IN PART SPARKED BY RADIO VENCEREMOS ACCUSATIONS AGAINST THE CHURCH IMPUGNING IT FOR HAVING LOST ITS OBJECTIVITY. THE SUCCESS OF THE DIALOGUE IS ONE OBJECTIVE TO WHICH THE CHURCH HAS LENT ITS EVERY ENERGY, EXHORTATION AND PRAYER. NONETHELESS, THE CHURCH HAS SERVED NOTICE TO THE LEFT THAT IT WILL NOT SUCCUMB TO MORAL BLACKMAIL BY OVERLOOKING OR ACQUIESCING IN THE CRIMES OF THE FDR/FMLN, EVEN IF THIS COMPLICATES THE CHURCH'S MEDIATING ROLE.

8. (C) THE EDITORIAL COMMENTS ON NICARAGUA ALSO REFLECT THE ARCHBISHOPRIC'S POSITION, E.G. IN COMMENTS TO CODEL BOREN MAY 19 - REF D) BUT IN AN UNPRECEDENTEDLY SHARP AND UNAMBIGUOUS FORMULATION. END COMMENT. PICKERING

SUBJECT: Your Meeting with Edward Goff, 3:30 pm, Thursday, May 23

Mr. Goff, the Vice President of Wheaton Industries, arrived this morning after about a week of searching in southern Mexico for Nicholas Blake. We do not know what he learned there.

I will be meeting with Goff at somewhat greater length following this meeting with you. During this brief meeting, you could briefly recap our efforts since his last visit (when he accompanied Mrs. Blake), and may wish to draw on the following talking points:

-- We have stayed in close touch with Carl West, the private security coordinator the Blakes hired to pursue the case.

-- In addition, the Defense Attaché has regularly checked with Guatemalan headquarters for any news of Blake and Davis.

-- Most recently, on May 21 and 22, Col. Stokes traveled to Huehuetenango and El Quiche. He met with the zone commanders in both locations. Unfortunately, none of the army patrols operating in the two departments has found any trace of the missing men.

-- We are sorry it has not been possible to discover what happened to Blake and Davis, but we will continue to be alert to any clue regarding their whereabouts.

-- What can you tell us of your trip to Mexico?

1. SAM BLAKE, BROTHER OF MISSING AMCIT NICHOLAS BLAKE, CALLED POST AT 1538 EDT ON MAY 24. HE SPOKE WITH CG TAYLOR.

2. SAM BLAKE SAID THAT HE WAS CALLING BECAUSE OF A PRESS REPORT (IN PRENSA LIBRE, GUATEMALA'S LARGEST CIRCULATION MORNING DAILY NEWSPAPER) THAT THE GOG ARMY PRESS SPOKESMAN, COL. MORALES PAIZ, HAD BEEN CITED IN THE GUATEMALAN NEWSPAPER TO THE EFFECT THAT ONE OF THE TWO MISSING AMERICANS HAD CROSSED INTO MEXICO AND THE OTHER WAS STILL WITH THE GUERRILLAS IN THE "IXIL TRIANGLE." BLAKE WANTED TO BE CERTAIN THAT THE EMBASSY WAS AWARE OF THE REPORT, AND, IF SO, WHAT WE MADE OF IT.

3. EMBOFF RESPONDED THAT WE WERE AWARE OF THE REPORT AND WOULD BE MEETING WITH COL. MORALES LATER THAT AFTERNOON TO DETERMINE WHAT MORALES HAD SAID TO THE PRENSA LIBRE REPORTER.

4. BLAKE ASKED WHY THE REPORT SHOULD HAVE APPEARED AT THIS TIME. EMBOFF EXPLAINED THAT ALTHOUGH WE COULD NOT BE CERTAIN PRIOR TO SPEAKING WITH COL. MORALES, IT WAS POSSIBLE THAT MORALES WAS ASKED THE QUESTION IN THE CONTEXT OF THE MAY 22 RELEASE OF THOMAS WILLIAM GREENLEY. AS DEPARTMENT IS AWARE, GREENLEY WAS DETAINED BY THE GUATEMALAN ARMY ON MAY 18 ON THE USAMACINTA RIVER (WHICH RUNS ALONG THE MEXICO/GUATEMALA BORDER) IN THE NORTHERN PETEN. EMBOFF EXPLAINED TO BLAKE THAT THE LOCATION WHERE GREENLEY WAS DETAINED WAS FAR REMOVED FROM THE AREA WHERE NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS WERE LAST REPORTED TO BE HIKING.

5. EDWARD GOFF, THE VICE PRESIDENT OF WHEATON INDUSTRIES WHO IS LOOKING INTO THE DAVIS/BLAKE DISAPPEARANCE ON BEHALF OF THE BLAKE FAMILY, IS NOW IN GUATEMALA. THE EMBASSY IS PROVIDING HIM WITH FACILITATIVE ASSISTANCE AND WILL ADVISE THE DEPARTMENT FURTHER REGARDING HIS TRIP VIA SEPTEL. PIEDRA

2. ON MAY 24, EMBOFF CALLED ON COL. MORALES TO REQUEST CLARIFICATION OF THE NEWS ITEM. MORALES SAID THAT HE HAD BEEN MIS-REPORTED BY THE REPORTER. MORALES SAID THAT HE HAD SAID THERE WERE "RUMORS THAT ONE OF THE TWO MISSING AMCITS HAD LEFT GUATEMALA FOR MEXICO AND THAT THE OTHER WAS STILL WITH LEFTIST GUERRILLAS IN THE IXIL TRIANGLE." (NOTE: THE REPORTER HAD CHANGED THIS TO READ "DATOS ESCUETOS," WHICH CAN BE INTERPRETED TO MEAN "UNCONFIRMED INFORMATION.") MORALES WENT ON TO SAY THAT, IN REALITY, THERE WAS NO HARD OR CREDIBLE INFORMATION REGARDING EITHER OF THE TWO MISSING MEN. WHEN ASKED WHY HE HAD COMMENTED UPON THE DISAPPEARANCE AT THIS PARTICULAR TIME, MORALES REPLIED THAT HE HAD ANSWERED A QUESTION PUT TO HIM BY ONE OF TWO REPORTERS DURING HIS RELEASE OF INFORMATION ABOUT ANOTHER, UNRELATED, AMERICAN CITIZEN, THOMAS WILLIAM GREENLEY.

3. EMBOFF THANKED MORALES FOR THIS EXPLANATION. Re: Disappearance of Nicholas Blake

Dear Ms. Gober:

My companion, Ted Kobiela, and I have just returned to the United States from our visit to Mexico and Guatemala. We followed the schedule that I outlined before we left. First we visited the Embassy in Mexico City and spoke with Vice Consul, Ralph Nider.

Three days later in Guatemala we had the pleasure and honor to be received by General Consul, Philip Taylor and met with the U.S. Ambassador personally who gave us his assurance that everything that could be done in Guatemala would be. During our visit in Guatemala we were received by Military Attache', Stokes, and were accompanied on a trip to the interior by Vice Consul, Tom Shannon.

I certainly appreciate the courtesies we received during our visit and am enclosing copies of my letters to the various officials who assisted us during such visit. Your cooperation and help in this matter is most sincerely appreciated.

Very truly yours,

1. [redacted]--ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY

PRESIDENT DUARTE AND SENATOR DURENBERGER, ACCOMPANIED BY AMBASSADOR PICKERING, HAD AN EXCEEDINGLY CORDIAL MEETING IN THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE MAY 30. THE DISCUSSION RANGED OVER DUARTE'S INTERNAL DIPLOMACY WITH THE [redacted]

SALVADORAN ARMED FORCES AND HIS CONVICTION THAT HE ENJOYS THEIR SUPPORT DESPITE THEIR FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND SOME OF THE TACTICS THAT HE EMPLOYS ON ISSUES SUCH AS DIALOGUE. DUARTE SAID HE THOUGHT THAT ONE REASON THE SALVADORAN LEFT IS TRYING TO IMPEDE THE DIALOGUE PROCESS IS TO EVADE THE RISK THAT IT BECOME A MODEL TO BE IMPOSED ON THE SANDINISTA REGIME WITH REGARD TO THEIR OWN OPPOSITION. DUARTE ALSO EXPOUNDED AT LENGTH ON HIS VIEW THAT THE US DOES NOT HAVE A CLEAR POLICY TOWARD NICARAGUA, IN THE ABSENCE OF WHICH THE USG IS IN A COMPLETELY REACTIVE POSTURE TOWARDS EVENTS. HE BELIEVED A CLEAR US OBJECTIVE NEEDED TO BE ARTICULATED, NICARAGUAN DEMOCRATIC LEADERS IDENTIFIED AS SUCH, AND

UNCLASSIFIED

A CONSENSUS DEVELOPED ON HOW TO STEER NICARAGUA TOWARD A DEMOCRATIC PROCESS. END SUMMARY.

3. DUARTE'S DOMESTIC SITUATION

UNCLASSIFIED

DUARTE AND THE SENATOR AGREED THAT THINGS WERE MOVING FORWARD POSITIVELY IN EL SALVADOR. ONE DEMONSTRATION WAS THE HIGHLY POSITIVE TONE OF HIS MAY VISIT TO THE UNITED STATES, IN DRAMATIC CONTRAST WITH HIS FIRST TRIP IN 1980 WHEN HE WAS PRESIDENT OF THE JUNTA GOVERNMENT. HE HAD HAD A FULL AND SATISFYING VISIT; WHEREAS IN THE PAST HE HAD BEEN GREETED WITH ABUNDANT SKEPTICISM HE WAS NOW ACCORDED NEARLY UNIVERSAL DEMONSTRATIONS OF CONFIDENCE.

4. DIALOGUE

SENATOR DURENBERGER REMARKED ON THE COOPERATION BEING EXTENDED DUARTE BY THE SALVADORAN ARMED FORCES. THIS, HE NOTED, EXTENDED TO THE PROCESS OF DIALOGUE, AND HE [redacted]

DREW A CONNECTION WITH THE SITUATION IN NICARAGUA EXPRESSING THE CONVICTION THAT IT HAD TO BE RESOLVED BY A PROCESS OF DIALOGUE SIMILAR TO THE ONE WHICH PRESIDENT DUARTE HAD INITIATED.

5. PRESIDENT DUARTE REMARKED THAT THIS WAS ONE OBVIOUS REASON WHY THE SALVADORAN LEFT WAS ATTEMPTING TO SABOTAGE THE DIALOGUE WITH THE GOES. HE DID NOT BELIEVE THE LEFT WAS SERIOUS AND NOTED THEIR EFFORTS TO PAINT HIM AS THE RECALCITRANT PARTY. DUARTE NOTED, HOWEVER, THAT THE ESAF UNDERSTANDS HIS INTENTIONS IN THE DIALOGUE AND REMAINS FULLY SUPPORTIVE. ALTHOUGH NOT ALWAYS COMPLETELY UNDERSTANDING OF HIS TACTICS, DUARTE MAINTAINED, THE ESAF NOW HAS FAITH IN HIM. HIS CONTINUING MISSION IS TO REASON WITH THE ARMY SO THAT IT WILL HAVE NO DOUBTS OR MISUNDERSTANDINGS ON THE DIRECTION IN WHICH HE IS LEADING THE COUNTRY. HE DID NOT WISH TO PUSH THE ARMY FORWARD ON THE BASIS OF ORDERS--WHICH WOULD BE OBEYED--BUT ON THE BASIS OF BELIEF IN THE DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES THAT THE SYSTEM NOW EMBODIED.

6. PDC AND PRIVATE SECTOR

THE SENATOR TURNED THE CONVERSATION TO RELATIONS BETWEEN THE PDC AND THE PRIVATE SECTOR, ASSERTING THAT THE ABILITY OF THE TWO TO COOPERATE IN THE ECONOMIC SPHERE WOULD BE A VALUABLE MODEL FOR OTHER COUNTRIES. DUARTE RESPONDED THAT HE HAD MADE EFFORTS TO REACH OUT TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR, CITING BY WAY OF EXAMPLE HIS EFFORTS TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS FOR THE COFFEE GROWERS. HOWEVER, EVERY ONE OF HIS SUPPORTIVE MEASURES HAD BEEN CONDEMNED BY THE LEADERS OF THE COFFEE GROWERS ASSOCIATION.

DUARTE COMMENTED THAT THE FUNDAMENTAL PROBLEM WAS THE LACK OF A DEMOCRATIC TRADITION IN EL SALVADOR WHEREBY EVERYONE UNDERSTOOD THE RULES OF A DEMOCRATIC PROCESS AND OPERATED ON THE BASIS OF MUTUAL RESPECT. THE PRESENT DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM, HOWEVER, WAS GRADUALLY MAKING PEOPLE RETHINK AND REVISE THEIR MENTALITY. MEET AND REASON TOGETHER.

7. NICARAGUA

SENATOR DURENBERGER PROVIDED DUARTE WITH SUBSTANTIAL BACKGROUND ON PRESIDENT REAGAN'S EFFORT TO GAIN THE SUPPORT OF CONGRESS ON ASSISTANCE TO THE CONTRAS IN NICARAGUA AND OUTLINED THE ADMINISTRATION'S PLAN TO RETURN TO THE CONGRESS WITH A NEW RESOLUTION IN THE DAYS AHEAD. THE SENATOR ASKED DUARTE FOR HIS VIEWS ON THE DIRECTION THAT US POLICY TOWARD NICARAGUA SHOULD TAKE.

8. DUARTE BEGAN BY NOTING THAT EL SALVADOR IS FUNDAMENTALLY IN HARMONY WITH THE US ANALYSIS OF THE NICARAGUAN SITUATION ALTHOUGH NOT ITSELF INVOLVED. HE THEN OFFERED HIS PERSONAL, HONEST ANALYSIS THAT PRESIDENT REAGAN'S DEFEAT IN THE CONGRESS CREATED THE APPEARANCE THAT THE US WAS WITHOUT A NICARAGUAN OR CENTRAL AMERICAN POLICY. IN HIS VIEW, THE ADMINISTRATION WAS MERELY REACTING TO EVENTS, AND HE CITED US ECONOMIC SANCTIONS AS AN EXAMPLE OF THIS REACTIVE MODE. IN THE ABSENCE OF A CLEAR CUT US POLICY, THE REST OF THE WORLD, INCLUDING THE NICARAGUAN REGIME, WERE DEFINING US POLICY IN THEIR OWN TERMS. NICARAGUA HAD BEEN ALLOWED TO FIND A SCAPEGOAT FOR ALL ITS PROBLEMS AND TO HARP ON THE THEME THAT THE US WAS PREPARING TO INVADE. DUARTE PERCEIVED THIS CONCEPT TO BE PERMEATING THE CONTADORA PROCESS AND EVEN EUROPEAN VIEWS ON THE CENTRAL AMERICAN SITUATION. IN FACT, HE SAID, THE US WAS LETTING ITSELF BE USED. DANIEL ORTEGA, DUARTE NOTED, HAD SAID THAT NICARAGUA WAS EXPLOITING US DEMOCRATIC PARTY MEMBERS AND LIBERALS TO FEED BACK SANDINISTA VIEWS

INTO US PUBLIC OPINION. THE PUBLIC US DEBATE WAS EVEN HELPING TO DAMAGE US INTELLIGENCE SERVICES THROUGH OPEN DISCUSSION OF THEIR ACTIVITIES.

9. DUARTE SAID HE HAD TRIED TO TELL FRIENDS IN DURING HIS RECENT VISIT THAT THEY MUST JOIN IN REDEFINING THEIR OBJECTIVES TOWARDS NICARAGUA AND CREATE A BIPARTISAN POLICY ON THE BASIS OF CLEAR CUT GOALS. THE US, HE SAID, HAD TO DECIDE WHAT IT WAS TRYING TO ACHIEVE. WAS IT, HE ASKED, TO HALT THE SPREAD OF REVOLUTION BY THE SANDINISTAS, OR TO OVERTHROW THEIR GOVERNMENT? HAD THE US CLEARLY DEFINED WHO THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION TO THE SANDINISTAS REALLY WAS: BERMUDEZ, CALERO, ROBELO? DUARTE EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT THE US SHOULD BE, IN FACT, FURNISHING ASSISTANCE TO INTERNAL DEMOCRATIC FORCES IN NICARAGUA, SUCH AS

"LA PRENSA" OR NICARAGUAN PRIVATE ENTERPRISE. PRESSURE FROM THE OUTSIDE ALONE, SUCH AS THROUGH THE CONTRAS, ONLY GAVE THE SANDINISTAS THE EXCUSE TO BLAME THEIR PROBLEMS ON "IMPERIALISM", TO STRENGTHEN THEIR INTERNAL ORGANIZATION, AND TO MARSHALL DOMESTIC OPINION. IN HIS VIEW, DUARTE SAID, THE ANSWER WAS TO CONFRONT THE SANDINISTAS WITH A TRUE DEMOCRATIC FRONT IN NICARAGUA JUST AS SALVADORAN DEMOCRATS HAD CONFRONTED AND FACED DOWN THE LEFT IN EL SALVADOR. IF THE US HAD A CLEAR IDEA ON HOW TO HELP STEER NICARAGUA TOWARD A DEMOCRATIC PROCESS, DUARTE SAID, IT WOULD ACQUIRE FLEXIBILITY THAT COULD EXTEND EVEN TO THE SUPPLY OF ARMS TO THE CONTRAS. WITHOUT SUCH A CONCEPT, US POLICY REMAINED WITHOUT DIRECTION.

E.O. 12356 DECL: OADR
TAGS: CASC, GT
SUBJ: W/H CASE OF NICK BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS

REF: GUATEMALA 05171 (NOTAL)

1. (C) CARL WEST, AN AMERICAN CITIZEN SECURITY CONSULTANT WHO HAS BEEN ENGAGED BY THE BLAKE FAMILY AND BY FRIENDS OF GRIFFITH DAVIS, CAME TO THE EMBASSY ON MAY 28 TO REVIEW RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN HIS INVESTIGATION OF THE SUBJECTS' DISAPPEARANCE.

2. (C) ACCORDING TO WEST, HIS SOURCES BELIEVE THAT AN ENGAGEMENT BETWEEN GUERRILLAS AND GUATEMALAN ARMY ELEMENTS, SAID TO HAVE BEEN FOUGHT SOME FIVE MILES NORTH OF NEBAJ ON OR ABOUT 26 APRIL, RESULTED IN THE DEATHS OF THREE "NON-GUATEMALANS" TWO MEN AND A WOMAN, WHO WERE TRAVELING WITH THE GUERRILLAS. COMMENT: THE MISSION WAS FIRST MADE AWARE OF THIS REPORTED CLASH ABOUT TWO WEEKS AGO. USING ALL THE RESOURCES OF THE EMBASSY, BOTH CIVILIAN AND MILITARY, WE HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO DEVELOP ANY INFORMATION WHICH MIGHT CONFIRM THESE REPORT. END COMMENT.

3. (C) WEST ALSO SAID THAT HE RECEIVED A TELEPHONE CALL AT HIS OFFICE AT MID-DAY, SATURDAY, MAY 25. THE UNNAMED CALLER, WHO WEST BELIEVES TO BE A FEMALE, TOLD WEST IN SPANISH THAT BLAKE WAS WELL, ALTHOUGH HE WAS UNHAPPY WITH HIS DIET IN THAT HE WAS EATING THE FOOD OF THE PEOPLE (COMIDA DEL PUEBLO). SHE TOLD WEST THAT THE "CAPTURE OF THE BOAT" WOULD DELAY BLAKE'S RELEASE AND THAT "THEY MAY HAVE TO USE BURROS". COMMENT: WEST SAYS THAT HE IS POSITIVE THAT THE BOAT MENTIONED IN THE CALL IS THAT IN WHICH ANCIT THOMAS WILLIAM GREENLEY WAS TRAVELING WHEN DETAINED BY THE GUATEMALAN MILITARY. (SEE REFTEL) END COMMENT.

4. (C) ON MAY 25, WEST ALSO SPOKE WITH ANCIT PAUL HOEPFERT (EX UNDERSTOOD) WHO WEST DESCRIBES AS A FREE LANCE JOURNALIST BASED IN MANAGUA, WHO IS IN GUATEMALA LOOKING FOR INFORMATION ON BLAKE. THIS CONVERSATION, THE LAST OF SEVERAL WEST HAD WITH HOEPFERT IN RECENT DAYS, WAS INITIATED BY WEST BECAUSE OF A CRYPTIC MESSAGE RECEIVED FROM MRS. MARY BLAKE THROUGH HER ATTORNEY, EDWARD GOFF, WHO WAS VISITING GUATEMALA ON HER BEHALF. WEST QUOTES GOFF AS SAYING, "I HAVE A MESSAGE FROM MRS. BLAKE WHICH I DO NOT UNDERSTAND. SHE SAYS THAT YOU SHOULD CALL PAUL". WEST SAID THAT HE BELIEVED THAT SHE WANTED HIM TO CALL HOEPFERT. HOEPFERT WAS EXTREMELY RETICENT, ACCORDING TO WEST, BUT FINALLY ADMITTED THAT HE HAD SOURCES IN MANAGUA WHO ASSURED HIM THAT BLAKE WAS WITH THE EGP IN GUATEMALA, BUT WOULD BE RELEASED ABOUT JULY 1. WEST SAID THAT HE BELIEVES HOEPFERT KNOWS WHERE BLAKE IS TO BE RELEASED. HE SUGGESTED THAT BY "TRACKING" HOEPFERT, HE WOULD EVENTUALLY BE LED TO BLAKE.

(C) WEST ALSO RELATED PORTIONS OF A MAY 25 MEETING HE HAD WITH GOFF IN WHICH GOFF SAID THAT THE BLAKE FAMILY HAD RECEIVED INFORMATION FROM THE DEPARTMENT THAT GRIFFITH DAVIS HAD SPENT A SIGNIFICANT PERIOD OF TIME IN CUBA DURING THE EARLY 70'S. GOFF HAD EARLIER TOLD CONSUL GENERAL TAYLOR THAT HE HAD SUCH INFORMATION, BUT SOURCED IT TO UNNAMED PERSONS IN NEW YORK.

6. (C) COMMENT: POST IS AWARE OF CERTAIN INCONSISTENCIES IN WEST'S RETELLING, BUT WE HAVE CHOSEN NOT TO CHALLENGE THE STORY AS HE GIVES IT BECAUSE WE CONSIDER IT PRUDENT TO KEEP THIS CHANNEL OPEN. END COMMENT.

FROM: Thomas A. Shannon

SUBJECT: Telephone call from Oakland Ross, correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail

Oakland Ross of the Toronto Globe-Mail telephoned from his office in Mexico City and asked to speak to you. He said that he wanted to know the following:

1. The proper spelling of the name of Griffith Davis's common-law wife. (He identified Davis's "wife" as Lori Legator, I did not correct him.)

2. The home telephone number of the Blake family.

3. He claimed that just before he left Guatemala he heard a "third-hand" rumor that Griffith Davis's "wife" had been receiving letters from Davis postmarked Mexico. Ross wanted to know if we knew anything about this.

I told Mr. Ross that I could not answer his questions and that he really should talk to you. He asked that you call him tomorrow morning at 905-525-6178.

Not a good number.

Missing men swallowed up in forbidding guerrilla area

By OAKLAND ROSS
Globe and Mail Correspondent

NEBAJ, Guatemala — From a vantage point on a precipitous green ridge above this isolated town in western Guatemala, you can gaze to the north where the Cuchumatanes Mountains rise and fall to the Mexican border.

The distance as the quetzal flies is modest — a mere 75 kilometres — but it would take days and perhaps weeks for a man to trek through those tall, forbidding walls of land, where hundreds of insurgent guerrillas roam almost at will and where the war-weary denizens of remote Indian hamlets speak Spanish poorly, if at all.

More than two months ago, a young U.S. journalist and his companion — also an American, and a long-time resident of Guatemala — went missing somewhere in those hills, perhaps a two-day walk northwest of here. Their disappearance was reported to the U.S. Embassy in Guatemala City by friends on April 8, exactly two months ago today.

Neither of them has been seen or heard from since.

An intense search by U.S. Embassy personnel and a major sweep through the area by nearly 300 Guatemalan Army troops failed to turn up any sign of the two men's whereabouts, if they are alive, or of their fate, if they are not.

Mountains swallow missing men

Nonetheless, friends and close relatives of Nick Blake, a 27-year-old freelance reporter who wrote periodically for The Globe and Mail, say they believe that he and Griffith Davis, a Guatemala resident in his late 30s, are still alive.

Major Jesus Carbojal Marin, commander of the Guatemalan Army garrison in Nebaj, concedes the possibility that the two men may indeed still be roaming the densely forested mountainsides with the now depleted forces of the EGP, the Spanish acronym for the Guerrilla Army of the Poor, one of four Guatemalan armed insurgent groups.

But others say that such a prospect is unlikely.

"This is what everybody hopes, that they'll turn up in Mexico or something," said a diplomat in the capital. "Not very likely. I think the poor guys have been done in, and it could have been anybody. It could have been the army, the guerrillas, the civil defence."

Formed in the 1960s to combat a succession of military dictators that had ruled (and continue to rule) in Guatemala since the U.S.-sponsored overthrow of leftist Jacobo Arbenz in 1954, the EGP is the oldest of the country's insurgent groups. It has had its ups and downs.

In the late 1960s, the EGP was all but wiped out in a wave of brutal counter-insurgency operations by the Guatemalan Army. It resurfaced, however, and, by the late 1970s, effectively controlled the countryside and the Indian villages in much of El Quiche and Huehuetenango, two Guatemalan provinces bordering southern Mexico.

In 1982 and 1983, a new army counter-offensive was launched, Indian villages were razed, show executions were staged to terrorize the peasantry, refugees fled by the thousands into Chiapas state in southern Mexico — and the EGP was driven into retreat.

According to Major Jorge Medina, second-in-command at the Guatemalan Army garrison in Santa Cruz del Quiche, the provincial capital, there are only about 500 EGP regulars still in arms, divided into two military "fronts" and scattered through the hinterlands of northern Quiche and Huehuetenango.

It was in order to make contact with these remnants of the EGP that Mr. Blake and Mr. Davis set off on a one- to two-week hiking tour on March 25, departing from the provincial capital of Huehuetenango. They planned to show up in Nebaj about April 3. They have yet to show up anywhere.

"The only scenario that offers any hope is that he's with the guerrillas," said Peter Lindsay, a Boston resident and a close friend of Mr. Blake's.

Almost no one dismisses that possibility outright. On the other hand, as diplomats and military officers here are fond of saying, the EGP is not "like" the guerrillas in neighboring El Salvador.

The EGP has little of the public-relations sense of El Salvador's People's Revolutionary Army, for example, whose political theories, news reports and musical interludes are broadcast by radio daily within El Salvador and whose representatives in Mexico City, say, can be reached by dialling a seven-digit number (ask for Leticia or Paulo).

With a bold likeness of Argentine revolutionary Ernesto (Che) Guevara as its logo, the EGP is militarily hardened, politically unyielding and ideologically purist, shunning ties with "bourgeois" elements of the Guatemalan opposition to military rule.

Adherents of the "prolonged popular war" insurgent strategy generally accredited to Vietnamese revolutionary Ho Chi Minh, the EGP places top priority on political organization among the Indian peasantry, relegating military operations to a secondary role.

Now seriously weakened both politically and militarily, the EGP has closed ranks and limits itself to occasional acts of sabotage or harassment raids against the military. Its arms consist of the standard Central American guerrilla fare: G-3, M-16 and FAL automatic rifles, M-79 grenade launchers, some 60 mm mortars and Chinese RPG-2s.

Rumors abound concerning the fate of the two men. There are stories that they already have made their way out of Guatemala and are somewhere in Mexico, stories that Mr. Davis is in Mexico writing letters to his common-law wife in Guatemala while Mr. Blake remains with the guerrillas, stories that they are both with the guerrillas but unable for reasons of "security" to leave.

On scrutiny, however, the rumors and the stories tend to evaporate like the pale mist blanketing the shoulders of the Cuchumatanes.

In these isolated and conflict-ridden mountains, it is far from impossible to vanish without a trace. Almost four years ago, in July, 1981, for example, an American named Jack Ross Shelton from small-town Tennessee crossed into Huehuetenango province by bus from Mexico.

He spent the night at the Hotel Central, a brown and cream-colored building just off the main plaza in the city of Huehuetenango, the same hotel in which Mr. Blake and Mr. Davis stayed on the eve of their trek.

Like them, Mr. Shelton has not been seen or heard from since.

THE SIX CIVILIAN URBAN DEATHS INCLUDED THREE VICTIMS DISCOVERED, WITH SEVERAL BULLET WOUNDS, IN THE OUTSKIRTS OF GUATEMALA CITY, THE OTHER THREE CIVILIAN DEATHS WERE THOSE OF AN ARMY LIEUTENANT'S GIRLFRIEND KIDNAPPED IN GUATEMALA CITY - AND CONSEQUENTLY SHOT; A FOOTBALL REFEREE SHOT BY MEN ON A MOTORCYCLE AND A MEMBER OF THE UNION OF A GLASS FACTORY AND PART-TIME AUXILIARY MAYOR OF EL MEZQUITAL, A CONTROVERSIAL NEIGHBORHOOD IN THE SUBURBS OF GUATEMALA CITY, WHO WAS SHOT SEVERAL TIMES BY MEN WHO BROKE INTO HIS HOME. OF THE TWENTY RURAL DEATHS, THE FOLLOWING NINE CAN BE INCLUDED IN THE "POSSIBLE BY LEFT" CATEGORY, AND THOSE ARE: FOUR

FARM OWNERS WHO WERE EXECUTED, THREE IN SANTA ROSA AND ONE IN ESCUINTLA DEPARTMENTS; TWO SMALL BUSINESSMEN KILLED BY THE EXPLOSION OF A "CLAYMORE" BOMB THROWN BY ARMED MEN AT THE TRUCK THEY WERE DRIVING, IN A VILLAGE OF EL PETEN; A NURSE SHOT BY MEN IN OLIVE GREEN UNIFORMS, WHEN SHE RESISTED ABDUCTION FROM HER HOME IN SUCHITEPEQUEZ DEPARTMENT; ONE UNIDENTIFIED MAN SHOT BY MEN ARMED WITH RIFLES IN THE DEPARTMENT OF EL QUICHE AND ONE BUS DRIVER KIDNAPPED AND SHOT IN SANTA ROSA DEPARTMENT. OF THE REMAINING TEN DEATHS, NINE WERE UNIDENTIFIED BODIES, WITH BULLET WOUNDS AND OTHER MARKS OF VIOLENCE, LOCATED AS FOLLOWS: FOUR EACH IN THE DEPARTMENTS OF ESCUINTLA AND GUATEMALA, AND ONE IN SAN MARCOS DEPARTMENT. THE OTHER RURAL DEATH WAS THAT OF AMADEO ESTRADA, FARMER, KIDNAPPED AND SUBSEQUENTLY BEATEN AND SHOT IN THE DEPARTMENT OF CHIMALTENANGO.

ON MAY TENTH, NATIONAL POLICE SOURCES REPORTED THAT THE TOTAL NUMBER OF MEMBERS OF THAT INSTITUTION KILLED ON DUTY IN 1985 AMOUNTED TO FORTY-FIVE. DURING THE REMAINDER OF THE MONTH FOUR MORE NATIONAL POLICEMEN WERE MURDERED, ACCORDING TO POLICE SOURCES, BY "COMMON CRIMINALS", BRINGING TO FORTY-NINE THE TOTAL OF POLICEMEN KILLED WHILE ON DUTY, THROUGH MAY 1985.

THERE WERE NO ARMY CASUALTIES IN ANY OF THE ATTACKS, JUST DAMAGES TO THE INSTALLATIONS. ON MAY TENTH, SEVERAL ARMED MEN STOPPED TRAFFIC FOR ABOUT ONE HOUR ON THE ROAD TO COBAN IN THE DEPARTMENT OF ALTA VERAPAZ, AND COLLECTED A "WAR TAX" FROM DRIVERS AND PASSENGERS. ON MAY ELEVENTH ORPA GUERRILLAS OCCUPIED THE INSTALLATIONS OF "RADIO FRONTERA" IN PAJAPITA, SAN MARCOS DEPARTMENT AND BROADCAST AN ANTI-GOVERNMENT MESSAGE. ON MAY EIGHTEENTH ARMY PUBLIC RELATIONS SPOKESMAN REPORTED THE ARREST OF US CITIZEN THOMAS WILLIAM GREENLY, ON CHARGES OF SUPPLYING MEDICINE TO THE GUERRILLAS. GREENLY WAS TURNED OVER TO THE US CONSUL. FINALLY, ON MAY TWENTY-SIX, ARMY SOURCES DISCLOSED THAT TWENTY-THREE FAMILIES OF A COOPERATIVE IN EL TUMBO VILLAGE, EL PETEN DEPARTMENT WERE FORCED TO LEAVE FOR MEXICO BY MEMBERS OF THE FAR(REBEL ARMED FORCES) GUERRILLAS. DAYS LATER THE ARMY REPORTED THAT IT HAD LOCATED THE FAMILIES NEAR THE MEXICAN BORDER AND WAS GOING TO RESCUE THEM. THE LAST REPORT INDICATES THAT MOST OF THE FAMILIES WERE SAFELY RETURNED TO THEIR VILLAGE. PIEDRA

SUBJECT: MORE INNOCENT YOUTHS MURDERED IN SAN JACINTO

REF: SAN SALVADOR 5812

1. (U) REFTEL REPORTED A STORY RELATED BY MARIA NELIA AYALA DE MONGE WHOSE BROTHER WAS KILLED BY ERP GUERRILLAS AND WHOSE NEPHEWS WERE KIDNAPPED ON APRIL 29. IN A CONVERSATION ON JUNE 11, MARIA NELIA TOLD POLOFF THAT BOTH OF HER NEPHEWS, ISAIAS AYALA GAMENDIA AND TORIBIO AYALA GAMENDIA WERE KILLED BY THE ERP OUTSIDE SAN JACINTO (SAN VICENTE) AROUND MAY 11. ACCORDING TO MARIA NELIA, THE TOWNSPEOPLE WERE INFORMED BY THE GUERRILLAS THAT THE TWO WERE EXECUTED BECAUSE THEY WERE BOTH EX-SOLDIERS. IN ADDITION, THE ERP INFORMED THE PEOPLE THAT THEY HAD ALSO KILLED ROLANDO RUIZ UMANA, 18, WHO HAD BEEN KIDNAPPED ALONG WITH THE TWO AYALA BOYS.

2. (U) AYALA DE MONGE GAVE EMBOFFS THE FOLLOWING SNAPSHOT OF LIFE IN A CONTESTED ZONE: THERE IS NO CIVIL OR MILITARY AUTHORITY IN SAN JACINTO. THE MAYOR, FOR SAFETY'S SAKE, LIVES IN APASTEPEQUE ABOUT 18 KMS. AWAY. ALTHOUGH THE ARMY ENTERED THE TOWN AND STAYED FOR ABOUT 18 DAYS AFTER THE MURDER OF AYALA'S BROTHER, THE GUERRILLAS RETURNED IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE ARMY PULLED UP STAKES. SHE REPORTS THAT OFTEN THE GUERRILLAS RAID THE TOWN FOR FOOD, MONEY AND CLOTHES IN GROUPS OF BETWEEN 15 AND 40. THEIR LEADER SEEMS TO BE A FAIRLY EDUCATED MAN WITH A LONG BEARD WHO IS REFERRED TO BY HIS MEN AS CHEPITO (THE DIMINUTIVE OF JOSE). SHE BELIEVES THE GUERRILLAS LIVE IN MAN-MADE CAVES (TATUS) SOMEWHERE BETWEEN SAN JACINTO AND SAN ILDEFONSO. NELIA DOES NOT BELIEVE THE INSTALLATION OF A CIVIL DEFENSE GROUP WOULD WORK IN SAN JACINTO BECAUSE THE MEN WOULD BE AFRAID TO JOIN OUT OF FEAR THAT THE GUERRILLAS COULD EASILY ATTACK AND OVERCOME THEM.

SAN SA 07391 13Ø133Z 1469 ARA8532

BECAUSE OF AYALA'S JUSTIFIED FEAR OF FURTHER RETRIBUTION AGAINST HER 87-YEAR-OLD MOTHER -- WHO STILL LIVES IN SAN JACINTO -- HER STORY WILL NEVER MAKE IT INTO THE ARCHBISHOP'S HOMILY OR TUTELA LEGAL'S CANTED ANNALS, NOR HAS IT YET BEEN NOTICED BY THE PRESS. THIS IS UNFORTUNATELY PROBABLY ALL TOO COMMON WHERE GUERRILLA ATROCITIES ARE CONCERNED. THE DEMORALIZATION THAT PERMEATES SAN JACINTO IS EXPLICIT IN NELIA'S COMMENTS ABOUT CIVIL DEFENSE. NO TOWN IN WHICH THE NEW CIVIL DEFENSE HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED HAS SINCE BEEN CAPTURED BY THE GUERRILLAS NOR HAS A MAYOR OF ONE OF THESE TOWNS YET BEEN KIDNAPPED. UNFORTUNATELY, THE STORY OF SAN JACINTO MAY BE INDICATIVE OF THE SUCCESS OF THE ERP'S CURRENT TACTICS OF DEMORALIZATION, AND UNLESS THE ESAF CAN BEGIN DEPLOYING CIVIL DEFENSE MORE RAPIDLY, THESE TACTICS WILL HINDER THE ESAF'S ABILITY TO GAIN CONTROL OF THE COUNTRYSIDE.

2. BEGIN TEXT:

LAST NIGHT'S ATTACK IS COLD TERRORISM, SOMETHING WE HAVE NEVER HAD IN OUR COUNTRY IN SPITE OF THE WAVE OF MASSACRES AND BLOODSHED WHICH HAS DEVASTATED OUR PEOPLE IN RECENT YEARS. WE HAVE NEVER HAD SUCH COLD, VANDALIC, CRIMINAL TERRORISM, I REPEAT. THIS IS INDISCRIMINATE MURDER, MERELY FOR THE PURPOSE OF SOWING TERROR AND PANIC AND BREAKING IN THIS MANNER THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE'S WILL.

WE DEEPLY REGRET THE DEATH OF ALL THE PEOPLE, REGARDLESS OF NATIONALITY. THEY ARE ALL HUMAN BEINGS WHO HAVE BEEN KILLED AT A TIME WHEN THEY WERE HARMING NO ONE. IT WAS NOT A MILITARY OR PUNITIVE ACTION, AS THESE TERRORIST ASSASSINS CALL THEM. THIS IS INDISCRIMINATE MURDER, SHOOTING AT RANDOM, IN ORDER TO KILL ANYONE AROUND. WE ARE DEEPLY MOVED, AND I WISH TO AVAIL MYSELF OF THIS OPPORTUNITY TO EXPRESS MY PERSONAL CONDOLENCES AS WELL AS THOSE OF THE FOREIGN MINISTRY, AND OF COURSE, OF THE GOVERNMENT TO THE RELATIVES OF THOSE KILLED, TO THE INSTITUTIONS AND ENTERPRISES WHERE THESE PEOPLE USED TO WORK, AS WELL AS TO THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE. THIS ACTION IS SOMETHING THAT CAUSES QUITE AN IMPACT ON THE PEACE-LOVING AND CHRISTIAN MINDS OF THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL OFFICIALLY MAKE A PRONOUNCEMENT TO THIS EFFECT, AND OF COURSE, THE INVESTIGATIONS BEGAN LAST NIGHT. THE PUBLIC SECURITY DEPUTY MINISTER HAS BEEN AT THE LOCATION, AND ALL POSSIBLE INVESTIGATIONS ARE BEING CARRIED OUT. AS YOU ALL WELL KNOW, THE POSSIBILITIES OF INVESTIGATIONS ARE VERY LIMITED IN CASES SUCH AS THESE, BUT WE WILL DO OUR UTMOST TO DETERMINE WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS ATTACK, WHICH CANNOT BE EVEN CALLED VANDALISM, THERE IS NO WAY TO DESCRIBE THIS ACTION.

MY DEAR FRIEND, RAUL ((STATION ANNOUNCER -- FBIS)), I SEE HERE THE HAND OF THOSE COLD-BLOODED ASSASSINS WHO

RELEASED

FREQUENTLY COME UP IN INTERNATIONAL NEWS REPORTS IN EUROPE, SUCH AS THE ETA ((BASQUE FATHERLAND AND LIBERTY)) CRIMINALS IN SPAIN, FOR EXAMPLE, WHO STAGE VERY SIMILAR ATTACKS, OR EVEN THE PLO. UNDOUBTEDLY, THIS WAS AN EXPERIENCED, TECHNICAL, PROFESSIONAL JOB. WE REJECT IT, WE DEEPLY REGRET IT, AND WE ARE VERY CONCERNED OVER THIS ATTACK.

I SINCERELY HOPE THIS IS NOT THE BEGINNING OF A SERIES OF ATTACKS OF THIS TYPE. ALL I HAVE TO SAY IS THAT I HAVE CONFIDENCE IN THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE'S STRENGTH, IN OUR GOVERNMENT'S STEADFASTNESS, AND THAT THESE ACTIONS WILL NOT BREAK OUR SPIRIT.

I WISH TO TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY, RAUL, TO CALL ON THE LABOR SECTORS AND STUDENTS TO THINK THIS OVER AND PONDER AND REALIZE THAT THEY ARE BEING MANIPULATED RIGHT NOW WITHIN A FRAMEWORK OF CRIMINAL DESTABILIZATION OF THIS GOVERNMENT AND OF THE DEMOCRATIZATION PROCESS WHICH THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE ARE PROMOTING. LAST NIGHT'S CRIMINAL MASSACRE IS UNDOUBTEDLY PART OF THIS STRATEGY IN WHICH NAIVE PEOPLE -- WHO ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO BETTER WAGES AND BELIEVING THEY ARE FIGHTING FOR TRULY NOBLE CAUSES

THIS NEW SCHEME OF VIOLENCE ARISING IN OUR COUNTRY CLEARLY PROVES THE FOREIGN INFLUENCE IN SALVADORAN TERRORISM AND IS PART OF THE DESTABILIZATION PLAN PREPARED BY ENEMIES OF PEACE AND DEMOCRACY.

THE FOREIGN MINISTRY HEREBY STATES ITS CONVICTION THAT THE USE OF SUCH INHUMAN ACTIONS ONLY ESCALATES A VIOLENT SITUATION WHICH THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC IS TRYING TO CURB, AND SEEKS RATIONAL AND PEACEFUL WAYS TO ATTAIN PEACE AND HARMONY AMONG THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE.

THE FOREIGN MINISTRY EXTENDS ITS CONDOLENCES AND SOLIDARITY TO THE MOURNING FAMILIES AND GOVERNMENTS OF THE FOREIGN CITIZENS WHO WERE VICTIMS OF THIS CRIMINAL ACTION.

NIGHT, AT APPROXIMATELY 0930, FMLN TERRORISTS SAVAGELY MURDERED 13 PEOPLE WHO, AT THE TIME WHEN THEY WERE MACHINEGUNNED, WERE DINING IN A RESTAURANT IN THE ZONA ROSA IN THE SAN BENITO NEIGHBORHOOD IN THIS CAPITAL.

THE PEOPLE KILLED WERE THE FOLLOWING: DR (HUMBERTO HIMMS), ENG HUMBERTO ANTONIO ROSALES, ARTURO SILVA, JOSE VIDEL, JOSE ROBERTO SALAZAR, OSVALDO GONZALEZ (GABRINO), (TOMAS ANWARK), (GREG WHEELER), (BOBBY DIXON), (PATRICK IWOSKOVSKY), (GEORGE PINING), ROBERTO ALVIBREZ, (RICHARD MCCARTNEY DENTURINO).

IN ADDITION TO THE 13 PEOPLE KILLED, 6 OTHER CIVILIANS, BOTH MALE AND FEMALE, WERE SERIOUSLY INJURED. THEY ARE: MANUEL ARGUETA, GRACIELA GUTIERREZ, CARMEN ELENA GONZALEZ, MARIO ERNESTO ORELLANA, (ERIC ESLEUZ) AND JOSE ROLANDO LAINEZ LINARES. ALL OF THESE PERSONS WERE TAKEN IN DUE HASTE TO VARIOUS HEALTH CENTERS.

THIS CRIMINAL ACTION COMMITTED BY TERRORISTS AGAINST SALVADORAN AND FOREIGN NATIONALS CONFIRMS THE DESPERATION BEING FELT AT THIS TIME BY THAT GROUP OF MURDERERS, BECAUSE OF THE MILITARY DEFEAT THEY ARE BEING DEALT AND WHICH THEY ARE UNABLE TO HIDE. THEY ARE TRYING TO GET REVENGE BY MURDERING INNOCENT PEOPLE, AN ACT THAT IS REPUDIATED BY ALL THE SALVADORAN PEOPLE AND BY THE PUBLIC WORLDWIDE.

1. RADIO VENCEREMOS BROADCAST SECOND STATEMENT JUNE 21 ON KILLING OF U.S. MARINES. AS WITH THE OTHER TEXT, FBIS DID NOT LIST DEPARTMENT AS ADDRESSEE

2. TEXT OF FBIS REPORT:

BEGIN TEXT

THE FIRST U.S. MARINES HAVE DIED ON SALVADORAN SOIL. THE YANKEE INTERVENTION IN OUR HOMELAND HAS ALREADY COST THEM SOME DEAD. THE U.S. MARINES WHO DIED IN THE ZONA ROSA OF SAN SALVADOR WERE NOT INNOCENT. NO YANKEE INVADER IS FREE OF GUILT CONCERNING THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE GENOCIDAL POLICY CARRIED OUT BY THE U.S. ADMINISTRATION IN EL SALVADOR. NO YANKEE INVADER IS INNOCENT CONCERNING THE HUNDREDS OF PEASANTS WHO WERE ASSASSINATED INDISCRIMINATELY IN THE SALVADORAN COUNTRYSIDE. AS A RESULT OF THE GENOCIDAL BOMBINGS PERPETRATED WITH U.S.-MADE AIRPLANES AND BOMBS THAT WERE DROPPED BY THE CRIMINAL PILOTS WHO WERE TRAINED AND GUIDED BY THE U.S. ADVISERS, THE YANKEE INVADERS HAVE STARTED TO DIE ON SALVADORAN SOIL.

THEY ARE HARVESTING THE FRUITS OF THEIR INTERVENTIONIST AND GENOCIDAL POLICY. THE U.S. GOVERNMENT MUST BE VERY AWARE THAT, SO LONG AS IT INCREASES THE INTERVENTION, THE DEATHS OF U.S. MARINES WILL INCREASE. IF RONALD REAGAN IS THINKING ABOUT INCREASING MILITARY AID, THE NUMBER OF BOMBS AND HELICOPTERS, AND THE AMOUNT OF DOLLARS, WE DO NOT CARE. WE WILL SHOOT DOWN MORE HELICOPTERS, DEMOLISH THE PUPPET DICTATORSHIP'S WAR ECONOMY, AND SPEND THE U.S. DOLLARS. IF THEY DARE TO SEND MORE U.S. MARINES, WE ARE PREPARED. IF THE IMPERIALIST INTERVENTION INCREASES, WE WILL BECOME MORE AGGRESSIVE AND FIRM WHILE FIGHTING THEM. THEY SHOULD BE VERY AWARE THAT, SO LONG AS THE YANKEE INTERVENTION INCREASES, MORE U.S. MARINES WILL DIE. (PASSAGE OMITTED))

THE LEVEL OF READINESS ATTAINED IN THE WAR IS MERELY THE DIRECT RESULT OF THE U.S. INTERVENTION IN OUR HOMELAND, THE MISERABLE SUBMISSIVENESS AND SURRENDER OF OUR SOVEREIGNTY BY THE LACKEYS CURRENTLY IN THE GOVERNMENT. THE LACKEYS AT THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OBSERVED A MINUTE OF SILENCE FOR THE DEAD MARINES, THE INVADERS. THE LACKEYS SHED SERVILE TEARS, BUT HAVE ONLY A FEW SECONDS FOR THE MOTHERS OF THE PRISONERS AND MISSING POLITICAL PRISONERS, OR FOR THE WORKERS' URGENT NEEDS. HOWEVER, AS SOON AS A FEW YANKEE INVADERS DIE, THESE LACKEYS RUSH TO GET ON THEIR KNEES AND CRY FOR THOSE WHO HAVE PLANNED AND FINANCED THE GENOCIDAL WAR AGAINST THE SALVADORAN WORKERS.

ALL THESE LACKEYS OF IMPERIALISM ARE ACCOMPLICES OF THE WAR BEING WAGED AGAINST THE PEOPLE, OF THE WAR UNLEASHED BY U.S. INTERVENTIONISM. THOSE WHO BLAMED THE SALVADORAN WORKERS FOR THE ATTACK PERPETRATED AGAINST THE SOCIAL SECURITY HOSPITAL ARE ALSO ACCOMPLICES OF THE INTERVENTION. THOSE WHO DID NOT EVEN BOTHER TO CONDEMN THE ATTACK AGAINST THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION OF EL SALVADOR AND THE MSGR OSCAR ARNULFO ROMERO COMMITTEE OF MOTHERS AND RELATIVES OF POLITICAL PRISONERS, MISSING, AND MURDERED PEOPLE IN EL SALVADOR ARE ALSO ACCOMPLICES. THEY ARE ACCOMPLICES TO THE 50,000 DEATHS PERPETRATED BY THE PUPPET REGIME AND THE HUNDREDS OF MISSING PEOPLE, WAR PRISONERS WHO ARE MISTREATED AND REMAIN MISSING. THEIR SILENCE ADVOCATES CRIME AND REPRESSION. THOSE LACKEYS WHO RUSHED TO CRY OVER THE DEATHS OF THE INVADERS ARE ACCOMPLICES TO THE U.S. INTERVENTIONIST POLICY.
THEY HAVE GOOD REASON TO CRY THOUGH, BECAUSE U.S. IMPERIALISM NOURISHES THEM; THEY ARE PART OF THE U.S. POLICY OF INTERVENTION AND DEATH; THEY ARE SERVANTS OF THE YANKEES; THEY AGREE WITH THE POLICY OF STATE TERRORISM, TO THE EXTENT THAT THEY ADVOCATE IT AND GIVE IT THEIR BLESSING. THEY HAVE A RIGHT TO CRY, BUT THEY DO NOT HAVE A RIGHT TO DEMAND ANYTHING.

SO LONG AS THE U.S. INTERVENTION IS INCREASED IN OUR HOMELAND, MORE U.S. MARINES WILL DIE; THIS IS A DIRECT RESULT OF THE U.S. POLICY OF INTERVENTION IN OUR SALVADORAN HOMELAND.

FOUR U.S. ADVISERS AND TWO MEMBERS OF THE FILTHY CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY, CIA, WERE ANNIHILATED IN THE SO-CALLED ZONA ROSA IN SAN SALVADOR. THIS IS THE AREA WHERE THE RICH LITTLE BOYS AND THE ALL-DRESSED-UP LADIES OF THE BOURGEOISIE AND THE OLIGARCHS GATHER. THE WEALTHY SAN BENITO NEIGHBORHOOD IS WHERE THE OLIGARCHS AND THE MILLIONAIRES HAVE THEIR HOMES. THE SAN BENITO NEIGHBORHOOD, THE MOST EXCLUSIVE NEIGHBORHOOD IN SAN SALVADOR WHERE THE MILITARY HIGH COMMAND, THE CORRUPT CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC OFFICIALS, AND THE WEALTHY EXPLOITERS, HAVE THEIR HOMES HAS BEEN THE THEATER FOR AN FMLN UNIT TO EXECUTE FOUR YANKEE MILITARY ADVISERS AND TWO OTHER YANKEE OFFICIALS, WHO ALSO PARTICIPATED IN THE WORK OF MILITARY INTELLIGENCE AND ADVISED THE RIGHTIST DICTATORSHIP'S REPRESSIVE SYSTEM.

OUR MARDOQUEO CRUZ COMMAND CARRIED OUT THIS ATTACK ONLY MINUTES AWAY FROM THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY'S HIGH COMMAND, ONLY MINUTES FROM THE MILITARY ACADEMY, AND AMID THE HEAVY PERMANENT SURVEILLANCE THAT THE DICTATORSHIP HAS IN THAT AREA. THIS AREA, WHERE THE HOMES OF THE WEALTHY ARE PROTECTED BY THEIR ARMED DOGS, ALSO HOUSES MANY EMBASSIES AND PRIVATE OFFICES. THE SAN BENITO NEIGHBORHOOD, ESCALON NEIGHBORHOOD, AND THE SURROUNDING NEIGHBORHOODS ARE TIGHTLY GUARDED BY THE REPRESSIVE CORPS DRESSED IN THEIR UNIFORMS OR IN CIVILIAN CLOTHING.

THE SAN BENITO NEIGHBORHOOD IS A LITTLE CRYSTAL BOX

THIS HAS BEEN THE THEATER IN WHICH THE MARDOQUEO CRUZ URBAN COMMAND OPERATED AND DEALT A BLOW ON THE GROUP OF YANKEE ADVISERS DESPITE THE MEASURES ADOPTED BY GENERAL EUGENIO VIDES CASANOVA AND REYNALDO LOPEZ NUILA WHO WERE

NEW YORK TIMES --

EL SALVADOR: JAMES LEMOYNE, P.3 FROM SAN SALVADOR 6/26 ("DUARTE MEETS FBI ON RAID INQUIRY") AT A NEWS CONFERENCE, PRES. DUARTE "SAID TODAY THAT AGENTS OF THE FBI...HAD MET WITH HIM TO EXPEDITE INVESTIGATIONS" INTO THE KILLINGS LAST WEEK: THAT A SPECIAL UNIT OF THE SALVADORAN POLICE TRAINED LAST YEAR BY THE FBI TO INVESTIGATE HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES HAD BEEN ASSIGNED TO FIND THE LEFTIST REBEL GUNMEN RESPONSIBLE: THAT "A SENIOR AMERICAN DIPLOMAT HAD ALSO MET WITH HIM TO STUDY HOW THE US CAN HELP THE INVESTIGATION:" AND "APPEALED TODAY FOR BROADER AMERICAN SUPPORT FOR POLICE UNITS, SAYING HE HAD DISCUSSED THE ISSUE WITH AMERICAN CONGRESSMEN DURING A RECENT VISIT TO WASHINGTON."

LEMOYNE WRITES: "THE MOVES APPEAR TO BE PART OF A GROWING OFFICIAL AMERICAN INVOLVEMENT IN THE TRAINING AND SUPERVISION OF POLICE FORCES HERE, DESPITE CONGRESSIONAL RESTRICTIONS ON DIRECT AMERICAN AID TO FOREIGN POLICE UNITS UNDER MOST CIRCUMSTANCES. THE US IS REPORTED TO HAVE TRAINED A SPECIAL POLICE COUNTERTERRORIST UNIT THAT IS NOW OPERATING HERE....

"THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATING SQUAD NOW ASSIGNED TO FIND THE KILLERS OF THE SLAIN MARINES WAS CAREFULLY SELECTED AND THEN TRAINED IN PUERTO RICO BY THE FBI LAST YEAR, ACCORDING TO BOTH AMERICAN AND SALVADORAN OFFICIALS. THE FBI ALSO TRAINED A UNIT TO PROTECT JUDGES AND WITNESSES IN SENSITIVE POLITICAL TRIALS HERE. A SPOKESMAN FOR THE STATE DEPARTMENT SAID SUCH TRAINING HAD BEEN PERMITTED UNDER SPECIAL EXPCEPTIONS GRANTED BY CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES.

"IN WHAT APPEARS TO BE A LESS CLEARLY DEFINED INSTANCE, HOWEVER, AMERICAN MILITARY ADVISERS HAVE ALSO TRAINED A SPECIAL POLICE ANTITERRORIST TEAM TO BE USED IN URBAN AREAS. ACCORDING TO A SPOKESMAN FOR THE US EMBASSY HERE...(WHO) SAID THE TRAINING WAS LEGAL BECAUSE THE ANTITERRORIST UNIT, ALTHOUGH DRAWN FROM THE RANKS OF THE POLICE FORCES, HAD BEEN PLACED UNDER THE DIRECT COMMAND OF THE CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE ARMY AND WAS THEREFORE A MILITARY RATHER THAN A POLICE UNIT....

"A GREAT DEAL OF CONFUSION APPEARS TO SURROUND THE NEW AMERICAN-TRAINED ANTITERRORIST UNIT. BOTH SALVADORAN AND AMERICAN OFFICIALS HAVE REFUSED TO SPECIFY WHO BELONGS TO THE UNIT, HOW THEY WERE SELECTED, HOW THEY WERE TRAINED AND WHERE THE UNIT IS STATIONED.

"THE CONFUSION SEEMS TO EXTEND TO PRESIDENT DUARTE, WHO SAID TODAY THAT HE WAS UNAWARE THAT SUCH AN AMERICAN-TRAINED UNIT EVEN EXISTED. A FEW HOURS EARLIER....COL. RINALDO LOPEZ NUILA HAD CONFIRMED STATEMENTS BY AMERICAN OFFICIALS THAT THE SPECIAL UNIT EXISTED.

"IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE UNIT WAS USED TO BREAK UP A STRIKE BY PUBLIC HOSPITAL WORKERS THREE WEEKS AGO.

JAMAICA: AP, P. 12 FROM KINGSTON 6/26 ("JAMAICA LABOR LEADERS REFUSE TO END GENERAL STRIKE") LABOR LEADERS REJECTED A CALL FROM PM SEAGA IN A TELEVISED ADDRESS TUESDAY NIGHT TO RETURN TO WORK TODAY, THE THIRD DAY OF A NATIONWIDE GENERAL STRIKE. ELECTRICITY, WATER, AND COMMUNICATIONS SERVICES ON THE ISLAND WERE DISRUPTED AND SCHOOLS REMAIN CLOSED.

"THE UNIONS WANT THE GOVERNMENT TO ROLL BACK AUSTERITY MEASURES THAT INCREASED PRICES FOR BASIC FOODS AND FUEL. MR. SEAGA HAS ALSO CUT 17,000 PUBLIC WORKERS FROM THE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS: JOANNE OMANG, P.7 ("SENATORS END PROTEST OF NOMINATIONS; MEETING WITH REAGAN CLEARS WAY FOR FOREIGN SERVICE APPOINTMENTS") "THE BLOCKADE BY CONSERVATIVE SENATORS OF SOME ... FOREIGN SERVICE NOMINATIONS COLLAPSED YESTERDAY AFTER REAGAN MET WITH THE SENATE LEADERSHIP AND SEVERAL COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN TO URGE SPEEDY CONFIRMATION....

WASHINGTON POST --

"WHITE HOUSE CHIEF OF STAFF DONALD REGAN WAS REPORTED TO BE WORKING ON OBTAINING OR PRESERVING JOBS FOR CONSERVATIVE DIPLOMATS WHOM THE SENATORS HAD SOUGHT TO PROTECT."

SENATOR DOLE SAID THE SESSION PRODUCED "'A LOT OF PROGRESS'" AND HE HOPED FOR FINAL APPROVAL OF SEVERAL NOMINEES (PROBABLY PICKERING, BURT, RIDGWAY AND MCCORMACK, ACCORDING TO OMANG) TODAY, AND SENATOR LUGAR SAID HIS COMMITTEE WOULD PROBABLY APPROVE SEVERAL OTHER NOMINEES.

ARGENTINA: LYNDA SCHUSTER, P. 34 FROM BUENOS AIRES ("US FIRMS SEE LATEST ARGENTINE AUSTERITY PLAN AS JUST ANOTHER HAZARD IN DOING BUSINESS THERE; "DOING BUSINESS IN ARGENTINA IS LIKE DRIVING A CAR AT 200 MILES AN HOUR.'") "....THE GOVERNMENT'S NEW AUSTERITY PLAN -- FREEZING WAGES AND PRICES TEMPORARILY AND INTRODUCING A NEW

(NICARAGUA: DMZ WITH COSTA RICA)

Q: ACCORDING TO PRESS REPORTS, THE NICARAGUANS HAVE ANNOUNCED A DEMILITARIZED ZONE ALONG THE COSTA RICAN BORDER. COMMENT?

A: AS WE HAVE STATED BEFORE, WE BELIEVE THAT THE SERIOUS SITUATION IN CENTRAL AMERICA MUST BE TREATED COMPREHENSIVELY.

THE SANDINISTA MILITARY BUILDUP, WHICH HAS CREATED AN OVERWHELMING MILITARY IMBALANCE IN THE REGION, COUPLED WITH SIGNS OF INCREASED AGGRESSIVE BEHAVIOR BY THE GOVERNMENT OF NICARAGUA AGAINST ITS NEIGHBORS, CANNOT BE RESOLVED BY SUCH PROPOSALS AS A DEMILITARIED ZONE.

A COMPREHENSIVE SOLUTION, BASED ON THE CONTADORA DOCUMENT OF OBJECTIVES, IS THE WAY TO BRING PEACE TO THE REGION.

(EL SALVADOR: U.S. TRAINING OF POLICE UNITS

Q. HAS THE UNITED STATES GOIVERNMENT BEEN INVOLVED IN THE TRAINING OF POLICE UNITS IN EL SALVADOR DESPITE CONGRESSIONAL RESTRICTIONS ON SUCH TRAINING?

A. THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HAS PROVIDED TRAINING FOR TWO SALVADORAN UNITS THAT PERFORM LAW ENFORCEMENT-RELATED FUNCTIONS UNDER SPECIAL LEGISLATION. ALL TRAINING WAS PROVIDED IN FULL COMPLIANCE WITH U.S. LAW AND AFTER APPROPRIATE CONSULTATIONS WITH THE CONGRESS.

(IF ASKED)

Q. CAN YOU DESCRIBE THOSE UNITS AND THE NATURE OF CONSULTATIONS WITH THE CONGRESS?

A. THE JUDICIAL PROTECTION UNIT, WHICH IS UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE, IS A NECESSARY PART OF THE SALVADORAN GOVERNMENT'S PROGRAM TO REFORM THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM. ITS MAIN FUNCTION IS TO PROVIDE PROTECTION FOR PARTICIPANTS IN THE JUDICIAL PROCESS. ITS TRAINING BY U.S. LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS WAS SPECIFICALLY AUTHORIZED BY THE CONGRESS, WHICH GRANTED AN EXEMPTION FROM SECTION 660 OF THE FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT.

THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATIONS UNIT WAS FORMED TO INVESTIGATE

SENSITIVE AND NOTORIOUS CRIMES. TRAINING FOR THIS UNIT

WAS ALSO AUTHORIZED BY CONGRESS, WHICH GRANTED AN EXEMPTION FROM SECTION 660 OF THE FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT FOR THIS PURPOSE.

U.S. SUPPORT FOR THESE UNITS IS PART OF A BROADER PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE FOR SALVADORAN EFFORTS TO STRENGTHEN THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE, WHICH IS ESSENTIAL TO THE CONSOLIDATION OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT. WE ARE ALSO SUPPORTING TRAINING FOR JUDGES AND OTHER OFFICIALS.

THERE IS ALSO A SPECIAL COUNTER-TERRORIST UNIT WHICH HAS RESPONSIBILITY FOR RESPONDING TO ACTS OF TERRORISM IN URBAN AREAS. THESE WOULD INCLUDE ACTS WHICH INVOLVE HOSTAGE TAKING OR WHERE INNOCENT HUMAN LIFE AND PROPERTY MIGHT BE AT RISK. AFTER CONSULTATION WITH THE CONGRESS, THE U.S. BEGAN TRAINING OF THIS UNIT, WHICH IS UNDER THE OPERATIONAL CONTROL OF THE CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE ARMED FORCES. THIS IS ESSENTIALLY A MILITARY UNIT, AND OUR ASSISTANCE IS UNDER THE MILITARY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

C. WHAT ABOUT REPORTS THAT THE UNIT WAS USED TO BREAK UP A STRIKE AT THE SOCIAL SECURITY HOSPITAL IN SAN SALVADOR AND THAT IT WAS COMMANDED BY THE VIC-MINISTER OF DEFENSE FOR SECURITY, COL. LOPEZ NUILA?

A. REFER TO THE SALVADORANS.

Q. WHERE WERE THE UNITS TRAINED?

A. THE JUDICIAL PROTECTION UNIT WAS TRAINED AT GLYNCO, GEORGIA; THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATIONS UNIT WAS TRAINED IN
UNCLASSIFIED

PUERTO RICO; AND THE COUNTER-TERRORISM UNIT WAS TRAINED IN EL SALVADOR.

(EL SALVADOR: TESTIMONY IN SHERATON CASE

Q. CAN YOU COMMENT ON PRESS REPORTS THAT WITNESSES HAVE GIVEN TESTIMONY IN THE SHERATON MURDER CASE OF TWO U.S. AGRARIAN REFORM ADVISERS AND THE HEAD OF A SALVADORAN

El Salvador Human Rights

AGRARIAN REFORM AGENCY IN 1981?

A. TESTIMONY HAS BEEN GIVEN IN THE CASE OF THE 1981 MURDERS OF MARK PEARLMAN, MICHAEL HAMMER, AND JOSE RODOLFO VIERA IN EL SALVADOR. THIS IS AN ONGOING JUDICIAL PROCEEDING BEFORE THE SALVADORAN COURTS, AND I WILL HAVE NO FURTHER INFORMATION FOR YOU. ANY QUESTIONS SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO THE APPROPRIATE OFFICIALS OF THE SALVADORAN GOVERNMENT.

(IF ASKED ONLY)

Q. HAS THE FBI BEEN INVOLVED IN THE INVESTIGATION AND PREPARATION OF EVIDENCE?

A. NO. THIS IS A MATTER FOR THE SALVADORAN JUSTICE SYSTEM TO HANDLE. THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HAS OFFERED TO PROVIDE ASSISTANCE OF A TECHNICAL NATURE TO THE GOVERNMENT OF EL SALVADOR IF IN THE COURSE OF THE INVESTIGATION SUCH ASSISTANCE BECAME NECESSARY. THE SALVADORAN GOVERNMENT HAS INDICATED ITS APPRECIATION AND HAS INFORMED US THAT IT WILL REQUEST ASSISTANCE AS THE NEED ARISES.

Q. CAN YOU GIVE SOME EXAMPLES OF ASSISTANCE OF A TECHNICAL NATURE?

TO THE MASSACRE. IT EQUATED THE TWO EXTREMES IN A SERIES OF CONTRASTS--THE RIGHT CALLED FOR A "WITCH HUNT" TO EXTERMINATE THE KILLERS AND ANY WHO MIGHT THINK LIKE THEM, AND THE LEFT CALLED THE KILLINGS A "JUST ACTION". THE ANNOUNCEMENT STATED THAT BOTH EXTREMES WERE DEEPENING THE WAR, REDUCING THE POSSIBILITIES OF HUMANIZING THE CONFLICT, INVALIDATING RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS AND TRYING TO DESTABILIZE THE GOVERNMENT. IT REITERATED THE GOVERNMENT'S COMMITMENT TO RESPECT HUMAN RIGHTS, ENSURE AN INDEPENDENT JUDICIARY, AND CONTINUE THE INVESTIGATIONS INTO THE ZONA ROSA KILLINGS, THE SHERATON MURDERS, AND THE ROMERO ASSASSINATION, AMONG OTHERS.

2. (C) COMMENT: THIS ANNOUNCEMENT WAS OBVIOUSLY INSPIRED BY REY PRENDES HIMSELF. REY MADE THE "RIGHT NOISES" IN THE ARTICLE ABOUT THE GOES COMMITMENT TO DIALOGUE, AND HE ADROITLY PLAYED THE LEFT OFF AGAINST THE RIGHT TO CAST THE PDC AS THE ONLY SOURCE OF POLITICAL REASON. HOWEVER, IN HABITUAL PDC FASHION, REY FAILED TO IDENTIFY THE EXTREME RIGHT IN SPECIFIC TERMS AND THUS CAST THE BLANKET OF EXTREMISM OVER EVEN THE LEGITIMATE CONSERVATIVE OPPOSITION. THIS SEMANTIC SLEIGHT OF HAND INVARIABLY RANKLES THE CONSERVATIVES, WHOSE REACTION ON THIS OCCASION WAS ONCE AGAIN THAT THE PDC IS NOT INTERESTED IN CLOSING THE POLITICAL GAP. IRONICALLY, THEY CONTINUE TO RESPECT REY, DESPITE HIS FLAIR FOR PROPAGANDA, AS ONE OF THE FEW CHRISTIANS WITH WHOM ONE CAN DO BUSINESS AND WHOSE WORD CAN BE TRUSTED.

3. (C) THE ANNOUNCEMENT DEMONSTRATED REY'S NEW

CAPACITY FOR POLITICAL OUTREACH, UNAVAILABLE WHEN HE WAS MINISTER OF THE PRESIDENCY BUT INHERENT IN HIS NEW PORTFOLIO. WE DO NOT DOUBT HIS CAPACITY TO MAKE THE MOST OF IT, AND SUSPECT HE WILL INCREASINGLY MAKE HIMSELF THE VOICE OF THE GOES AND PDC, WITH DEFERENCE ONLY TO DUARTE.

1. YOU MAY INFORM PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID THAT HIS ASSERTION THAT MOST ARMS IN THE HANDS OF THE GUERRILLAS WERE EITHER CAPTURED OR PURCHASED FROM THE SALVADORAN ARMY IS INCORRECT.

2. WE HAVE DONE TRACES ON THE SERIAL NUMBERS OF ALMOST 1600 M16S/AR15S CAPTURED BY THE SALVADORAN ARMY (ESAF) FROM RPT FROM THE GUERRILLAS, TURNED IN BY THE GUERRILLAS OR, ON THE BASIS OF CAPTURED GUERRILLA DOCUMENTS, STILL IN GUERRILLA HANDS.

3. THE TRACES SHOW THAT ONLY 27PCT OF THESE WEAPONS WERE ORIGINALLY SHIPPED TO THE SALVADORAN ARMED FORCES. SIXTY-SIX PERCENT WERE POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED BY SERIAL NUMBER AS EITHER SHIPPED TO SOUTH VIETNAM (SOME CAN BE IDENTIFIED DOWN TO THE RECIPIENT UNIT), TRACED TO [redacted]

DEPOTS INVOLVED IN SHIPMENT TO SOUTHEAST ASIA DURING THE VIETNAM WAR, OR WERE BUILT BY U.S. MANUFACTURERS CONTRACTED ONLY FOR MATERIEL FOR THE VIETNAM WAR AND CAN THUS BE SAFELY PRESUMED TO HAVE BEEN SENT TO SOUTHEAST ASIA. THE REMAINING 7 PERCENT CAN BE TRACED TO OTHER DESTINATIONS. THESE FIGURES HAVE BEEN VIRTUALLY CONSTANT SINCE WE BEGAN REGULARLY TRACING SERIAL NUMBERS A COUPLE OF YEARS AGO.

4. THE POINT IS CLEAR: THE VAST MAJORITY OF AR/15S AND M16S IN GUERRILLA HANDS DID NOT RPT DID NOT COME FROM STOCKS PROVIDED BY THE U.S. TO THE SALVADORAN ARMY. (AND THE SALVADORANS HAVE NO OTHER SOURCE FOR M16S EXCEPT FOR THOSE THEY CAPTURE FROM THE GUERRILLAS.) MOREOVER, IT HAS NOT REQUIRED ANY MAJOR MENTAL EXERCISE ON OUR PART TO DEDUCE THAT MOST OF THE TRACED GUERRILLA WEAPONS CAME FROM STOCKS CAPTURED FROM THE SOUTH VIETNAMESE ARMY AFTER THE FALL OF THE REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM IN 1975, AND SHIPPED BY THE NORTH VIETNAMESE VIA CUBA AND NICARAGUA TO THE SALVADORAN INSURGENTS.

5. WE HAVE NEVER DETECTED ANY INDICATION THAT WEAPONS SUPPLIED BY THE USG TO EL SALVADOR HAVE BEEN SOLD BY THE ESAF TO THE GUERRILLAS.

6. WE SEE NO REASON WHY THE CONTENTS OF THIS MESSAGE CANNOT BE SHARED IN ITS ENTIRETY WITH PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID.

CENTRAL AMERICA; NARCOTICS SANCTIONS FOR BOLIVIA, PERU AND JAMAICA; AND LANGUAGE REGARDING HAITI, URUGUAY, PARAGUAY, AND CUBA. THE BILL MAKES AN EXCEPTION TO SECTION 660 OF THE FAA FOR POLICE ASSISTANCE TO EL SALVADOR AND HONDURAS. THE SENATE BILL (SEE REF B) HAS FEWER OBJECTIONABLE PROVISIONS, AND WE WILL SEEK TO IMPROVE THE BILL IN CONFERENCE, WHICH COULD COMPLETE ITS WORK BEFORE THE AUGUST CONGRESSIONAL RECESS. END SUMMARY.

2. ACCOMPANIED BY EXPRESSIONS OF STRONG BIPARTISAN SUPPORT, THE HOUSE ON JULY 11 BY VOICE VOTE PASSED H.R. 1555, THE INTERNATIONAL SECURITY AND DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION ACT OF 1985, AFTER THREE DAYS OF DEBATE. THE BILL AUTHORIZES APPROPRIATIONS FOR FY-86 AND FY-87 FOR INTERNATIONAL SECURITY AND DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE, THE PEACE CORPS, THE INTER-AMERICAN FOUNDATION, NARCOTICS, ANTI-TERRORISM AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES AND AMENDS THE FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1961 AND THE ARMS EXPORT CONTROL ACT. COUPLED WITH SENATE PASSAGE ON MAY 15 OF A FOREIGN ASSISTANCE BILL, THE HOUSE ACTION MEANS THAT CONGRESS IS LIKELY TO PASS A FOREIGN ASSISTANCE AUTHORIZATION BILL FOR

(E) NARCOTICS CONTROL EFFORTS IN BRAZIL

THIS SECTION INSTRUCTS THE SECRETARY OF STATE TO ENTER INTO NEGOTIATIONS WITH BRAZIL TO ESTABLISH A BILATERAL NARCOTICS CONTROL AGREEMENT WITH A GOAL OF ACHIEVING A TEN PERCENT REDUCTION IN ILLICIT COCA PRODUCTION IN CALENDAR YEAR 1986.

(F) CUBA

A SECTION ON CUBAN DRUG TRAFFICKING EXPRESSES THE SENSE OF THE CONGRESS THAT THE PRESIDENT SHOULD INSTRUCT THE US PERMANENT REPRESENTATIVE TO THE UN AND THE US REPRESENTATIVE THE OAS, RESPECTIVELY, TO PLACE THE QUESTION OF CUBAN INVOLVEMENT IN ILLICIT DRUG TRAFFICKING ON THE UN AGENDA AND REQUEST THAT THE OAS CONSIDER THIS QUESTION AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. IT ALSO INSTRUCTS THE PRESIDENT TO REPORT TO THE CONGRESS ON ACTIONS TAKEN PURSUANT TO THIS SECTION.

(G) LATIN AMERICAN REGIONAL NARCOTICS CONTROL ORGANIZATION

THE SECRETARY OF STATE IS INSTRUCTED TO STUDY THE FEASIBILITY OF ESTABLISHING A REG LATIN AMERICAN ORGANIZATION TO COMBAT NARCOTICS PRODUCTION AND TRAFFICKING THROUGH REGIONAL INFORMATION-SHARING AND ENFORCEMENT. WITHIN SIX MONTHS OF ENACTMENT OF THIS ACT, THE SECRETARY SHOULD REPORT TO CONGRESS ON THE ADVISABILITY OF ESTABLISHING SUCH AN ORGANIZATION.

(H) DRUG TRAFFICKING AND FOREIGN BANK ACCOUNTS IN THE CARIBBEAN

OFFERED BY REP. BOB DORNAN (R-CA). THIS SECTION REQUESTS THE PRESIDENT TO NEGOTIATE TREATIES WITH ALL COUNTRIES PROVIDING CONFIDENTIAL OFFSHORE BANKING SERVICES, ESPECIALLY IN THE CARIBBEAN, TO ENABLE THE UNITED STATES TO OBTAIN ACCESS TO ACCOUNTS OF KNOWN DRUG TRAFFICKERS FOR THE PURPOSE OF RECOVERING ILLEGALLY ACQUIRED FUNDS; DIRECTS THE PRESIDENT TO REPORT THE RESULTS OF SUCH EFFORTS IN THE ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL NARCOTICS CONTROL STRATEGY REPORT; AND REAFFIRMS CONGRESSIONAL INTENT TO OBTAIN MAXIMUM COOPERATION FROM ALL GOVERNMENTS TO HALT INTERNATIONAL DRUG TRAFFICKING AND TO EVALUATE COOPERATION OF THOSE GOVERNMENTS RECEIVING ASSISTANCE FROM THE UNITED STATES.

8. TITLE VI CONTAINS AN AMENDMENT OFFERED BY REP. MERVYN DYMALLY (D-CA) WHICH EMPHASIZES THAT PARTICULAR ATTENTION SHOULD BE GIVEN TO PARTICIPATION OF STUDENTS FROM THE CARIBBEAN IN THE USIA SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM.

9. TITLE VII CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING SECTIONS CONCERNING LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN:

(A) STATEMENTS OF POLICY CONCERNING CENTRAL AMERICA

THIS SECTION CONTAINS THE FINDINGS OF CONGRESS THAT:

-- BUILDING DEMOCRACY, RESTORING PEACE, IMPROVING LIVING CONDITIONS, AND APPLYING EQUAL JUSTICE ARE IMPORTANT TO

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

UNITED SYATES INTERESTS AND THE COMMUNITY OF AMERICAN STATES.

-- THE CONGRESS RECOGNIZES THE IMPORTANCE OF EFFECTIVELY DEALING WITH INTERRELATED SOCIAL, HUMANITARIAN, ECONOMIC, POLITICAL, AND REGIONAL SECURITY ISSUES TO ASSURE A CRATIC AND ECONOMICALLY AND POLITICALLY SECURE CENTRAL AMERICA.

-- ALTHOUGH THE ACHIEVEMENT OF DEMOCRACY, RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS, PEACE, AND EQUITABLE ECONOMIC GROWTH DEPEND PRIMARILY ON THE PEOPLE AND GOVERNMENTS OF CENTRAL AMERICA, THE UNITED STATES CAN MAKE A SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION THROUGH A POLICY WHICH INCLUDES A LONG TERM COMMITMENT OF ASSISTANCE.

-- THE PURPOSE OF UNITED STATES POLICY IS TO SUPPORT DEMOCRACY AND POLITICAL REFORM: FULL OBSERVANCE OF INTERNATIONALLY RECOGNIZED HUMAN RIGHTS, INCLUDING FREE ELECTIONS, FREEDOM OF PRESS, ASSOCIATION, AND THE ELIMINATION OF ALL HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES; LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT TO IMPROVE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE; LAND REFORM, INCLUDING REFORM AND TAX SYSTEMS, ENCOURAGEMENT OF PRIVATE ENTERPRISE, INVESTMENT CLIMATES, AND CURBING CORRUPTION (ADDED AS AN AMENDMENT BY REP. BOB LAGOMARSINO (R-CA); ESTABLISHMENT OF

THE RULE OF LAW AND AN EFFECTIVE JUDICIAL SYSTEM;
TERMINATION OF EXTREMIST VIOLENCE BY THE LEFT AND RIGHT, INCLUDING VIGOROUS ACTION TO PROSECUTE THOSE GUILTY OF CRIMES; PROMOTION OF MORE EQUITABLE ECONOMIC GROWTH, INCLUDING CONTROLLING CAPITAL FLIGHT AND EFFECTIVE USE OF FOREIGN ASSISTANCE AND APPROVED PROGRAMS FOR ECONOMIC STABILIZATION AND PHYSICAL RESPONSIBILITY; AND THE PROMOTION OF DIALOGUE AND NEGOTIATIONS TO ACHIEVE PEACE
BASED UPON DEMOCRATIZATION, REDUCTION OF ARMAMENT, AND END

TO SUBVERSION AND THE WITHDRAWAL OF FOREIGN MILITARY FORCES AND ADVISERS AND TO PROVIDE A SECURITY SHIELD AGAINST VIOLENCE AND INTIMIDATION.

-- THE CONGRESS ALSO SUPPORTS THE NEGOTIATION OF A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF THE CENTRAL AMERICA CONFLICT
THROUGH THE FRAMEWORK OF THE CONTADORA PEACE PROCESS, URGES THE UNITED STATES TO PROVIDE APPROPRIATE SUPPORT IN HELPING ACHIEVE A PEACEFUL RESOLUTION OF THE CONFLICT BASED UPON CONTADORA; STRONGLY SUPPORT NEED FOR NATIONAL RECONCILIATION IN NICARAGUA AND THE CREATION OF A FRAMEWORK FOR NEGOTIATING A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT IN NICARAGUA; AND URGES THE UNITED STATES TO ENCOURAGE NICARAGUA TO PURSUE A DIALOGUE WITH THE ARMED OPPOSITION TO ACHIEVE A POLITICAL SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING FREE AND FAIR ELECTIONS.

- IN AN AMENDMENT OFFERED BY REPRESENTATIVE BILL
RICHARDSON (D-NM), THE CONGRESS EXPRESSES ITS CONCERN ABOUT DISTURBING TRENDS IN NICARAGUA'S FOREIGN POLICIES, INCLUDING PRESIDENT DANIEL ORTEGA'S APRIL TRIP TO THE SOVIET UNION; THE SANDINISTAS CLOSE MILITARY TIES WITH CUBA, THE SOVIET UNION AND ITS WARSAW PACT ALLIES AND THEIR CONTINUING MILITARY BUILD UP; THE SANDINISTA'S
CURTAILMENT OF INDIVIDUAL LIBERTIES, POLITICAL EXPRESSION, FREEDOM OF WORSHIP AND INDEPENDENCE OF THE MEDIA; THE SUBORDINATION OF MILITARY, JUDICIAL, INTERNAL SECURITY
FUNCTIONS TO THE SANDINISTA PARTY; AND THE SANDINISTAS EFFORTS TO EXPORT THEIR INFLUENCE AND IDEOLOGY. SHOULD NICARAGUA FAIL TO ADDRESS THESE CONCERNS, THE UNITED STATES SHOULD SEEK TO MAINTAIN MULTILATERAL PRESSURE ON NICARAGUA THROUGH ORGANIZATIONS SUCH AS THE OAS; AND SHOULD GIVE SERIOUS CONSIDERATION TO SUPPORTING SANCTIONS

ADOPTED BY SUCH AN ORGANIZATION. IN ASSESSING WHETHER OR NOT PROGRESS IS BEING MADE IN ADDRESSING THESE CONCERNS, CONGRESS WILL EXPECT NICARAGUA TO TAKE THE FOLLOWING PROMPT AND SIGNIFICANT INITIATIVES: THE REMOVAL OF FOREIGN MILITARY ADVISERS, AN END TO SANDINISTA SUPPORT FOR INSURGENCIES IN THE REGION; RESTORATION OF INDIVIDUAL LIBERTIES, POLITICAL EXPRESSION, FREEDOM OF WORSHIP, INDEPENDENCE, AND PROGRESS TOWARD INTERNAL RECONCILIATION AND A PLURALISTIC DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM TO ENABLE THE INTERNAL OPPOSITION TO HAVE A VIABLE PARTNER IN THE NICARAGUAN POLITICAL PROCESS.

-- IN AN AMENDMENT OFFERED BY REP. DAN BURTON (R-IN),
THE CONGRESS CONDEMNS NICARAGUA FOR VIOLATING COMMITMENTS TO THE OAS, THE NICARAGUAN PEOPLE, AND THE

UNITED STATES; AFFIRMS THAT THE GOVERNMENT OF NICARAGUA WILL BE REGARDED AS HAVING ACHIEVED POLITICAL LEGITIMACY WHEN IT FULFILLS ITS 1979 COMMITMENTS; URGES NICARAGUA TO ENTER A NATIONAL DIALOGUE WITH THE DEMOCRATIC RESISTANCE; SUPPORTS THE NICARAGUAN DEMOCRATIC RESISTANCE IN ITS EFFORTS TO RESOLVE PEACEFULLY THE NICARAGUAN CONFLICT; SUPPORTS THE EFFORTS OF THE CONTADORA NATIONS, THE OAS, AND OTHER REGIONAL ORGANIZATIONS TO MAINTAIN MULTILATER- PRESSURE ON NICARAGUA TO FULFILL ITS COMMITMENTS; AND REQUESTS THAT THE SECRETARY OF STATE TRANSMIT THE TEXT OF THIS SUBSECTION TO THE FOREIGN MINISTERS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE OAS.

1. SUMMARY. OFFSHORE EXCHANGE RATES HAVE HELD AROUND 340 SINCE THE GOM'S MOVE ON JULY 11 TO DROP THE OFFICIAL MARKET RATE AND TO REDUCE OIL PRICES. MEXICAN INTEREST RATES HAVE CONTINUED TO RISE AT A RAPID PACE. THE STOCK MARKET HAS HELD STEADY. PRELIMINARY FIGURES FOR MEXICO'S TRADE BALANCE FOR JANUARY-MAY SHOW A DECLINE OF 43 PERCENT IN THE TRADE SURPLUS COMPARED TO THE SAME PERIOD IN 1984. IN THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF 1985, THE GOM OBTAINED SIX TIMES AS MUCH FINANCING FROM THE STOCK MARKET AS DID THE PRIVATE SECTOR, LARGELY BECAUSE OF THE SALE OF TREASURY BILLS. OF MEXICO'S $69.6 BILLION OF

2. EXCHANGE RATES: STICKING AROUND 340

AS REPORTED SEPTEL, THE GOM DROPPED THE OFFICIAL MARKET RATE ON JULY 11 AT THE SAME TIME AS OIL PRICESWERE LOWERED. ALL TRANSACTIONS THAT TOOK PLACE AT THAT RATE WILL NOW BE CONVERTED AT THE "SUPER FREE" RATE COMPARABLE TO OFFSHORE RATES. THERE WILL BE NO CHANGE IN THE CONTROLLED RATE WHICH NOW IS USED FOR 80 PERCENT OF ALL FOREIGN EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS. THE "SUPER FREE" RATE AT THE BANKS' EXCHANGE HOUSES SETTLED AT 335/344 ON THE DAY AFTER THE ANNOUNCEMENT AND HAS REMAINED NEAR THAT LEVEL SINCE THEN. THERE IS NOW A GAP OF OVER A HUNDRED POINTS BETWEEN THE CONTROLLED RATE AND THE SUPER FREE RATE.

6. FINANCING FROM THE STOCK MARKET: TREASURY BILLS

DOMINATE

IN THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF 1985, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO OBTAINED FINANCING IN THE AMOUNT OF 3 TRILLION 690 BILLION PESOS FROM THE MEXICAN STOCK MARKET WHILE THE PRIVATE SECTOR ACQUIRED 608 BILLION PESOS OF FINANCING. THE VAST MAJORITY OF THE GOVERNMENT'S CREDITS CAME FROM THE SALE OF TREASURY BILLS AND MOST OF THE BALANCE FROM PETROBONDS.

7. BREAKDOWN OF PUBLIC SECTOR FOREIGN DEBT

THE GOM TREASURY RECENTLY PUBLISHED A LISTING OF THE TYPES OF LENDING MAKING UP THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEBT TOTAL OF 69.567 BILLION DOLLARS (EXCLUSIVE OF DEBT HELD BY THE NATIONALIZED COMMERCIAL BANKS) AS FOLLOWS:

NEGOTIATED WITH VARIABLE INTEREST RATES. TOTAL FOREIGN DEBT AS OF JUNE 30, 1985 WAS 94.407 BILLION DOLLARS. PRIVATE SECTOR EXTERNAL DEBT WAS 18.500 WITH COMMERCIAL BANKS AND OTHER CREDITORS MAKING UP THE FINAL 6,340 MILLION DOLLARS

8. BRIEF NOTES

-- THE GOM TREASURY STATED THAT MEXICO'S INTEREST PAYMENTS WOULD BE $1.8 BILLION LOWER THAN ANTICIPATED IN 1985 BECAUSE OF THE RECENT REDUCTION IN WORLD INTEREST RATES.

-- EXIMBANK'S INTEREST RATE ON LOANS TO MEXICO WILL NOT DECLINE FOR THE REST OF THE YEAR AND WILL STAY BETWEEN 10.7 AND 11.2 PERCENT.

-- ON JULY 1, 1985 THE WORLD BANK REDUCED ITS INTEREST RATE FOR LOANS TO DEVELOPING COUNTRIES FROM 9.29 TO 8.82.

II. SUMMARY

UNCLASSIFIED

1. IN 1984 THE MEXICAN ECONOMY SURPASSED ITS GROWTH

TARGETS WITH REAL GDP GROWTH OF 3.5 PERCENT FOLLOWING REAL DECLINES OF 5.3 PERCENT IN 1983 AND 0.5 PERCENT IN 1982. THE GROWTH CAME PRIMARILY FROM NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS, STEEL, CHEMICALS, IN-BOND INDUSTRIES, AND AUTOMOBILES. AT THE SAME TIME INFLATION AT 59 PERCENT WAS ALMOST 20 PERCENTAGE POINTS OVER TARGET. THE PUBLIC SECTOR FINANCIAL BUDGET DEFICIT, ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT ESTIMATES, WAS EQUIVALENT TO 7.4 PERCENT OF GDP, EXCEEDING THE TARGET OF 6.5 PERCENT. THE MONEY SUPPLY WAS GROWING FASTER THAN INFLATION AT YEAR END.

2. PETROLEUM PRODUCTION IN 1984 WAS SLIGHTLY ABOVE THAT IN 1983 EVEN WITH A TEMPORARY PRODUCTION CUTBACK IN NOVEMBER. PETROLEUM EXPORTS AT $16.6 BILLION IN 1984 ACCOUNTED FOR 69 PERCENT OF ALL OF MEXICO'S MERCHANDISE EXPORTS. THE TRADE SURPLUS FOR 1984 WAS ALMOST $13 BILLION AND THE CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS WAS ABOUT $4 BILLION. NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS WERE UP BY ABOUT 26 PERCENT. IMPORTS WERE UP 18 PERCENT IN DOLLAR TERMS BUT REMAINED WELL BELOW 1982 AND 1981 LEVELS.

3. IN THE FIRST HALF OF 1985, FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES CONTRACTED AS EXPORTS DECREASED AND IMPORTS INCREASED. THE GOVERNMENT'S MID-YEAR ESTIMATE FOR ANNUAL GDP GROWTH IS 2.5-3.5 PERCENT, A FIGURE WHICH SATISFIES THE GOAL OF CONTINUED GROWTH IN THE ECONOMY, BUT WOULD IMPLY SOME REDUCTION IN THE RATE OF ECONOMIC EXPANSION DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. INFLATION DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR REACHED ALMOST 26 PERCENT, A CLEAR INDICATION THAT THE 35 PERCENT ANNUAL INFLATION TARGET WILL BE EXCEEDED, BUT REAL WAGES MAY SHOW A SLIGHT INCREASE.

~~UNCLASSIFIED~~
UNCLASSIFIED

TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUSES HAVE DECLINED COMPARED TO THE PREVIOUS TWO YEARS.

4. THE INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM MARKET AND INTEREST RATES HAVE HAD CONSIDERABLE INFLUENCE ON MEXICO'S ECONOMY IN 1985. PETROLEUM PRICES HAVE ALREADY BEEN ADJUSTED DOWNWARD THREE TIMES CAUSING A DECLINE IN EXPORT REVENUES. LOWER WORLD INTEREST RATES HAVE BROUGHT ABOUT SAVINGS IN DEBT SERVICING COSTS ON FOREIGN LOANS BUT HIGHER DOMESTIC INTEREST RATES HAVE OFFSET SOME OF THE CONSEQUENT BUDGET SAVINGS.

5. MEXICO SIGNED A SUBSIDIES AGREEMENT WITH THE UNITED STATES IN MARCH WHICH GAVE MEXICO THE INJURY TEST IN COUNTERVAILING DUTY CASES BUT CALLS FOR A PROGRESSIVE ELIMINATION OF SUBSIDIES ON EXPORT FINANCING. IN ADDITION, MEXICO HAS INTRODUCED ITS DIMEX PROGRAM TO ALLOW MEXICAN EXPORTERS TO IMPORT WITH LESS REGULATION. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS COMPLETED A PROCESS TO SELL THE COMMERCIAL BANKS' SHARE HOLDINGS IN PRIVATE COMPANIES AND IS SELLING OR DISSOLVING A LARGE NUMBER OF PARASTATALS.

III. RECENT ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS: THE MEXICAN ECONOMY IN 1984:

THE ECONOMY GREW BUT INFLATION AND THE BUDGET DEFICIT CONTINUE AT HIGH LEVELS:

6. AFTER REMAINING FLAT DURING THE FIRST PART OF 1984

SUBJECT: MEXICO: ECONOMIC TRENDS REPORT, JULY 1985

THE MEXICAN ECONOMY ENTERED INTO A RECOVERY PHASE IN THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. REAL GDP GROWTH FOR 1984 WAS
3.5 PERCENT. HOWEVER, INFLATION (CPI) REACHED NEARLY 60 PERCENT AND WAS ACCELERATING DURING THE LAST FOUR MONTHS OF THE YEAR. BOTH OF THESE FIGURES WERE HIGHER THAN ORIGINAL YEAR-END 1983 MEXICAN GOVERNMENT PROJECTIONS OF 1 PERCENT GROWTH AND 40 PERCENT INFLATION. NONETHELESS, THEY REPRESENT CONSIDERABLE IMPROVEMENTS OVER THE PREVIOUS TWO YEARS. MEXICO'S GROWTH RATES WERE NEGATIVE
IN BOTH 1982 (-0.5 PERCENT) AND 1983 (-5.3 PERCENT) AND INFLATION IN THOSE YEARS WAS 99 PERCENT AND 81 PERCENT, RESPECTIVELY.

7. WHEN PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID TOOK OFFICE IN DECEMBER,

1982. THE MEXICAN ECONOMY WAS PLAGUED BY RISING INFLATION, CAPITAL FLIGHT, AND FALLING OUTPUT AND EMPLOYMENT. FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES WERE NOT SUFFICIENT TO MEET EVEN THE COUNTRY'S SHORT TERM EXTERNAL LIABILITIES. THE NEW PRESIDENT'S INAUGURATION FOLLOWED BY ONLY FOUR MONTHS THE EVENTS OF AUGUST 1982 WHEN THE MEXICAN ECONOMIC CRISIS CAME TO A HEAD. AT THAT TIME THE COUNTRY WAS FORCED TO SEEK EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE TO AVOID RUNNING OUT OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND TO BEGIN PLANNING IN EARNEST AN ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM TO BRING ABOUT MAJOR STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN THE ECONOMY. SINCE THE LATE 1970'S, THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAD FOLLOWED A POLICY OF FINANCING DEVELOPMENT THROUGH SHARPLY INCREASED PUBLIC SECTOR EXPENDITURES AND EXTERNAL BORROWING. THESE POLICIES LED TO BURGEONING PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICITS, ACCELERATING INFLATION AND AN INCREASE IN THE MEXICAN PUBLIC SECTOR'S EXTERNAL DEBT FROM $4 BILLION (12 PERCENT OF GDP) IN 1970 TO $59 BILLION (36 PERCENT OF GDP) IN 1982.

8. PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID BEGAN HIS SIX-YEAR TERM OF OFFICE WITH A STRATEGY FOR A REORDERING OF THE ECONOMY. THIS SIX-YEAR STRATEGY ENVISIONED MAJOR STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN THE ECONOMY DURING THE FIRST TWO YEARS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION TO BE FOLLOWED BY GROWTH AT 3.5-6 PERCENT PER YEAR IN THE REMAINING FOUR YEARS. THE KEY TO IMPLEMENTING THIS PLAN WAS A THREE-YEAR EXTENDED FUND FACILITY PROGRAM WITH THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND. THE MAJOR OBJECTIVES OF THIS PROGRAM WERE MASSIVE ANNUAL REDUCTIONS IN THE REAL SIZE OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, SHARP ANNUAL DECLINES IN THE RATE OF INFLATION, SUBSTANTIAL

CUTBACKS ON EXTERNAL BORROWING AND A PROGRESSIVE BUILD-UP OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES. THE RESULTS OF HIS FIRST TWO YEARS IN OFFICE INCLUDED DECLINING INFLATION, A GRADUAL RECOVERY OF ECONOMIC ACTIVITY, STRENGTHENING OF PUBLIC FINANCES, IMPROVEMENT IN THE COUNTRY'S EXTERNAL ACCOUNTS, A RESTRUCTURING OF THE COUNTRY'S EXTERNAL DEBT, AND UNTIL RECENTLY STEADY INCREASES IN THE COUNTRY'S FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES.

9. MEXICO'S GDP GROWTH OF 3.5 PERCENT IN REAL TERMS IN 1984 FOLLOWED NEGATIVE GROWTH OF 5.3 PERCENT IN 1983.

MUCH OF THIS GROWTH CAME IN THE SECOND HALF OF 1984. FOR INSTANCE, INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION GREW 5.7 AND 9.1 PERCENT IN THE THIRD AND FOURTH QUARTERS COMPARED TO 2.6 AND 1.9 PERCENT INCREASES IN THE FIRST AND SECOND QUARTERS. THE MAJOR SECTORS OF THE ECONOMY ALL SHOWED POSITIVE GROWTH IN 1984 OVER 1983 WITH ELECTRICITY HIGHEST AT 7.0 PERCENT. THE MANUFACTURING SECTOR'S GROWTH WAS 5.4 PERCENT. THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR GREW 2.4 PERCENT AND THE MINING SECTOR WHICH INCLUDES PETROLEUM INCREASED AT ONLY A 1.6 PERCENT RATE. OF THESE SECTORS, ONLY AGRICULTURE AND ELECTRICITY HAD POSITIVE GROWTH IN 1983.

10. ACCORDING TO THE GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO, REASONS FOR THIS RECOVERY INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

A) THE TAX DEDUCTION FOR MACHINERY, EQUIPMENT AND BUILDINGS OF 75 PERCENT OF THE VALUE OF THE ASSET IN THE FIRST YEAR STIMULATED INVESTMENT;

B) THE RECOVERY IN EXPORTS STIMULATED INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION; AND

C) HIGHER NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS PARTIALLY ALLEVIATED THE SHORTAGE OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE WHICH ALLOWED HIGHER IMPORTS.

IT APPEARS THAT INCREASED CONSUMER DEMAND ALSO CONTRIBUTED IMPORTANTLY TO THE UPSWING.

11. MUCH HIGHER THAN AVERAGE GROWTH IN 1984 WAS RECORDED IN AUTOMOBILES (14.9 PERCENT), STEEL PRODUCTS (13.3 PERCENT), OFFICE MACHINES (64.1 PERCENT), CEMENT (8.0 PERCENT) AND SYNTHETIC FIBERS (7.9 PERCENT). THE FOLLOWING TABLE SHOWS THE PERFORMANCE OF SEVERAL MANUFACTURING SECTORS:

PETROLEUM PRODUCTION AND EXPORTS REMAINED AT THE SAME LEVELS IN 1984 AS IN 1983:

13. DURING 1983 MEXICO'S OIL INDUSTRY WAS AFFECTED BY THE WORLDWIDE DECREASE IN DEMAND FOR PETROLEUM PRODUCTS AND THE SHRINKAGE OF THE DOMESTIC ECONOMY. PRODUCTION OF CRUDE AND RELATED PRODUCTS DECLINED BY 2.9 PERCENT FROM 1982 TO 1983. FOR THE PERIOD OF JANUARY THROUGH SEPTEMBER 1984 PRODUCTION WAS UP ABOUT 5 PERCENT BUT A TEMPORARY OUTPUT REDUCTION OF 100,000 BARRELS PER DAY BEGAN ON NOVEMBER 1, 1984 AND OTHER CUTBACKS BROUGHT PRODUCTION BACK TO ONLY 0.7 PERCENT ABOVE THE 1983 LEVEL FOR THE YEAR AS A WHOLE. MEXICO WAS ABLE, HOWEVER, TO MAINTAIN ITS POSITION AS THE FOURTH LARGEST OIL PRODUCER IN THE WORLD FOLLOWING THE USSR, SAUDI ARABIA, AND THE UNITED STATES.

14. ONE AREA OF IMPROVEMENT WAS MEXICO'S PRODUCTION OF REFINED PETROLEUM PRODUCTS. IN 1983 EXPORTS OF REFINERY PRODUCTS REACHED ABOUT 28 MILLION BARRELS WITH A VALUE OF $850 MILLION WHILE IN 1984 EXPORTS WERE ABOUT 39 MILLION BARRELS WITH AN ESTIMATED VALUE OF $1.15 BILLION. MEXICO'S TOTAL PETROLEUM AND PRODUCT EXPORTS FOR 1984 WERE $16.6 BILLION AND ACCOUNTED FOR 69 PERCENT OF ALL OF

15. THE DOMESTIC PRICES OF MEXICO'S GASOLINE PRODUCTS HAVE RISEN SHARPLY SINCE DECEMBER 1982 AS AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM. THIS REQUIRES A REDUCTION OF SUBSIDIES TO HELP TEMPER PUBLIC EXPENDITURES AND A MOVEMENT TOWARD WORLD PRICES IN THE MEXICAN MARKET. IN DOLLAR TERMS, UNLEADED GASOLINE INCREASED FROM $1.02 IN OCTOBER, 1983, TO $1.15 IN APRIL, 1984 AND TO $1.26 IN JANUARY, 1985 (USING THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT'S "MARKET" EXCHANGE RATE ON THE DATE OF EACH INCREASE).

16 IN EARLY DECEMBER 1984 A HUGE GAS EXPLOSION OCCURRED AT A PEMEX GAS DEPOT IN SAN JUAN IXHUANTEPEC ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF MEXICO CITY. HOWEVER, THE TRAGEDY WILL HAVE A VERY LIMITED IMPACT ON PEMEX'S FINANCIAL POSITION AND ABILITY TO CARRY OUT ITS OPERATIONS AS A PRODUCER AND DISTRIBUTOR OF PETROLEUM PRODUCTS.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION CONTINUED TO IMPROVE:

17. DURING 1984, MEXICO'S AGRICULTURAL PERFORMANCE CONTINUED ITS RECOVERY FROM THE DROUGHT-DEPRESSED LEVELS OF 1982. BASIC GRAIN AND OILSEED HARVESTS PROBABLY INCREASED ABOUT FIVE PERCENT IN 1984 COMPARED TO 1983. MORE-THAN-ADEQUATE RAINFALL IN 1984 LED TO HIGHER PRODUCTION LEVELS DESPITE EXCESSIVE RAIN IN CERTAIN CROP

AREAS. WHEAT OUTPUT, RISING BY 30 PERCENT, ACCOUNTED FOR MOST OF THE INCREASE IN TOTAL GRAIN HARVESTS. LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION WAS MIXED IN 1984. CATTLE PRODUCTION REMAINS DEPRESSED BUT IS ESTIMATED TO HAVE INCREASED SLIGHTLY BECAUSE OF BETTER PRICES TO THE PRODUCER. POULTRY OUTPUT AND DEMAND ALSO RECOVERED IN 1984, WHEREAS PORK PRODUCTION CONTINUED TO DECREASE BECAUSE OF UNPROFITABLE PRICES TO PRODUCERS. OFFICIAL PRICE HIKES FOR BASIC AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS WERE GENERALLY EQUAL TO OR ABOVE THE OVERALL OFFICIAL INFLATION RATE OF 59 PERCENT. HOWEVER, IN SOME CASES THESE PRICE INCREASES DID NOT KEEP PACE WITH INPUT COSTS.

18. MEXICO'S TOTAL AGRICULTURAL IMPORTS DECREASED 20 PERCENT IN VOLUME IN 1984 COMPARED TO THE PREVIOUS YEAR. THE UNITED STATES REMAINS THE DOMINANT SUPPLIER OF AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES TO MEXICO WITH SORGHUM, CORN AND SUNFLOWER SEEDS AS PRINCIPAL ITEMS. BASED ON U.S. TRADE DATA, THE UNITED STATES EXPORTED $2.01 BILLION OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS TO MEXICO IN 1984, COMPARED TO $1.94 BILLION IN 1983. MEXICO'S $1.28 BILLION IN AGRICULTURAL EXPORTS TO THE U.S. (ITS MAIN MARKET) IN

THEREFORE, IMPORTS OF BASIC FOODSTUFFS PROBABLY WILL BE CLOSE TO OR SLIGHTLY BELOW THOSE IN 1984. LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION SHOULD CONTINUE TO RECOVER IN 1985, GIVEN HIGHER PRODUCTION SUPPORT PRICES AND THE GOVERNMENT'S STATED INTENTION TO BRING ABOUT REAL WAGE INCREASES.

EXTERNAL SURPLUSES REMAINED LARGE:

20. DURING 1984 THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS REFLECTED IMPORTANT TRENDS IN THE NATIONAL ECONOMY AND IN THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION. THE NATIONAL RECOVERY STIMULATED SHARP RISES IN IMPORTS AND CURRENCY OUTFLOWS IN TOURISM, FRONTIER TRANSACTIONS AND OTHER NON-FACTOR SERVICES. HIGHER GROWTH IN DEVELOPED COUNTRIES, PARTICULARLY THE U.S., STIMULATED MEXICAN NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS AND HELPED TO OFFSET INCREASES IN INTERNATIONAL INTEREST RATES.

21. IN 1984 MEXICO CONTINUED TO REGISTER SUBSTANTIAL SURPLUSES IN BOTH THE TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNTS OF THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS. THE CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS WAS $4.0 BILLION WHICH WAS $1.4 BILLION LESS THAN IN 1983. THE MERCHANDISE TRADE SURPLUS OF $12.8 BILLION WAS $1 BILLION LESS THAN IN 1983. THE POSITIVE TRADE BALANCE WAS AIDED BY AN 18 PERCENT GROWTH IN NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS, WHEREAS PETROLEUM EXPORTS GREW ONLY AT 3.6 PERCENT. IMPORTS DECLINED BY 41 PERCENT IN 1983 BUT ROSE 32 PERCENT IN 1984. THIS GROWTH WAS DUE PRIMARILY TO INCREASED ACTIVITY IN THE INDUSTRIAL SECTOR AND THE DEMAND FOR IMPORTED INPUTS FOR EXPORT PRODUCTION.

22. IN-BOND INDUSTRIES GENERATED 41 PERCENT MORE FOREIGN EXCHANGE IN 1984 THAN IN 1983. THESE COMPANIES NOW EMPLOY TWICE AS MANY PEOPLE AS IN DECEMBER 1982. DURING 1984 50,600 NEW JOBS WERE CREATED IN THE IN-BOND INDUSTRIES, OR HALF OF ALL NEW JOBS CREATED BY THE MANU-

UNCLASSIFIED

FACTURING SECTOR IN 1984.

23. THE TOURISM BALANCE FOR 1984 (NET INFLOWS WERE 1.3 BILLION DOLLARS) WAS 10 PERCENT ABOVE THE PREVIOUS YEAR. THE TOURISM BALANCE FOR 1983 HAD RISEN BY OVER 90 PERCENT BUT IMPORTANT FACTORS IN HOLDING DOWN THE GROWTH OF REVENUES LAST YEAR WERE THE ADDED STRENGTH OF THE DOLLAR AGAINST EUROPEAN CURRENCIES (WHICH ENCOURAGED MORE TRAVEL TO EUROPE) AND THE LOS ANGELES OLYMPIC GAMES (WHICH ATTRACTED MANY MEXICANS TO THE U.S.). FRONTIER TRANS-ACTIONS SHOWED A DEFICIT OF $191 MILLION IN 1984. IN 1983 MEXICO HAD A POSITIVE BALANCE IN THIS CATEGORY. REASONS FOR THE CHANGE IN THE BALANCE WOULD INCLUDE (A) INCREASED ECONOMIC ACTIVITY IN THE MEXICAN BORDER CITIES LARGELY BECAUSE OF MAQUILADORAS AND (B) THE REAL APPRECIATION OF THE MEXICAN PESO VIS-A-VIS THE DOLLAR, WHICH MADE PURCHASES IN THE UNITED STATES MORE ATTRACTIVE.

1984 INFLATION WAS 20 POINTS LESS THAN IN 1983 BUT 20 POINTS OVER TARGET:

26. THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX INCREASED 59.2 PERCENT IN 1984 ON A DECEMBER-TO-DECEMBER BASIS. PRODUCER PRICES ROSE BY 60.1 PERCENT. THE WHOLESALE PRICES FOR MEXICO CITY WERE UP BY 63.2 PERCENT. THESE THREE INDICES ALL SHOWED IMPROVEMENT OF 15 TO 20 PERCENTAGE POINTS COMPARED TO 1983. THE DECEMBER-TO-DECEMBER INCREASE IS GENERALLY USED AS THE BENCHMARK RATHER THAN THE AVERAGE YEAR-TO-YEAR INCREASE. FROM 1983 TO 1984, THE AVERAGE YEAR-TO-YEAR RATES OF INCREASE WERE SOMEWHAT HIGHER THAN THE DECEMBER-TO-DECEMBER LEVELS. THE AVERAGE INCREASES FROM 1983 TO 1984 WERE CPI: 65.5 PERCENT, PRODUCER PRICES:

63.6 PERCENT, AND WPI (MEXICO CITY): 70.3 PERCENT. THE COMPARABLE RATES FROM 1982 TO 1983 WERE 101.9, 99.3, AND 107.4 PERCENT RESPECTIVELY.

27. THE INFLATIONARY PRESSURES IN 1984 WERE DUE TO A NUMBER OF FACTORS. IN AN EFFORT TO REDUCE THE LEVEL OF SUBSIDIES THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN RAISING THE PRICES OF PRICE-CONTROLLED PRODUCTS AT A FASTER RATE THAN THE PRICES OF NON-CONTROLLED PRODUCTS HAVE INCREASED, (66.1 PERCENT VS 55.7 PERCENT). PARTICULARLY LARGE HIKES WERE REGISTERED IN GASOLINE, BREAD, SOFT DRINKS, TORTILLAS, EGGS, MILK AND ELECTRICITY. PRICES OF THOSE ITEMS INCLUDED IN THE "BASIC FOOD BASKET" JUMPED BY 74.2 PERCENT COMPARED TO 72.1 PERCENT IN 1983.

28. GOVERNMENT SPENDING HAS ALSO BEEN A MAJOR CONTRIBUTING FACTOR. DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR THE COMBINED DEFICITS OF THE PARASTATAL COMPANIES EXCLUDING PEMEX WERE MORE THAN 100 PERCENT OF THEIR PROGRAMMED DEFICITS FOR THE ENTIRE YEAR. FURTHERMORE, THE GOVERNMENT PROGRESSIVELY REFLATED THE ECONOMY AND THE RATIO OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT TO GDP IN 1984 WAS 7.4 PERCENT

SEVERAL INDUSTRIES WHERE PRODUCT DEMAND IS RELATIVELY INELASTIC PRICES INCREASED AT A FASTER PACE THAN COSTS AS COMPANIES MADE AN EFFORT TO MAINTAIN PROFIT LEVELS.

THE MONEY SUPPLY GROWTH WAS HIGHER THAN INFLATION:

29. IN 1984, THE M-1 MEASUREMENT OF THE MONEY SUPPLY

GREW BY 63.1 PERCENT, 4 PERCENTAGE POINTS MORE THAN THE RATE OF INFLATION. THE M-4 MEASUREMENT OF TOTAL

OBLIGATIONS OF THE BANKING SYSTEM GREW BY 67.6 PERCENT. THE RATES FOR 1983 WERE 41.4 AND 59.8 RESPECTIVELY. THE INCREASE IN MONETARY AGGREGATES REFLECTED THE INCREASE IN INTERNATIONAL RESERVES (LARGELY DUE TO THE TRADE SURPLUS), THE INJECTION OF LIQUIDITY FROM PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING, AND THE RECOVERY OF DEPOSITS IN FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS. BANK DEPOSITS INCREASED BY 5.1 PERCENT IN REAL TERMS DURING 1984.

30. THE GROWTH OF M-1 PROGRESSIVELY ROSE THROUGHOUT 1984. THE PREVIOUS TWELVE MONTH RATE OF INFLATION MEASURED IN JANUARY 1984 WAS 73.4 PERCENT WHILE M-1 GROWTH WAS 41.7 PERCENT. AS NOTED IN THE TABLE BELOW, BY NOVEMBER THEY WERE VIRTUALLY THE SAME AT SLIGHTLY MORE THAN 59 PERCENT AND A LARGE INCREASE IN THE MONEY SUPPLY IN DECEMBER PARTIALLY BECAUSE OF CHRISTMAS BONUSES AND HIGH LEVELS OF GOVERNMENT SPENDING PUT YEAR-END M-1 GROWTH AHEAD OF INFLATION.

31. INTEREST RATES PROGRESSIVELY DECLINED FROM JANUARY

THROUGH MUCH OF 1984 AND THEN TENDED TO STABLIZE DURING THE LAST PART OF THE YEAR. INTEREST RATES ON SHORT TERM TIME DEPOSITS (30-90 DAYS) FELL FROM 53-54 PERCENT IN JANUARY TO 45-46 PERCENT IN OCTOBER. INTEREST RATES ON 90 DAY TREASURY NOTES FELL FROM 52.5 PERCENT TO 47.7 PERCENT DURING THE FIRST 11 MONTHS OF THE YEAR WHILE THE EFFECTIVE RATE OF INTEREST FOR LOW RISK BUSINESS LOANS DECLINED FROM 88.2 PERCENT TO 69.8 PERCENT OVER THE SAME PERIOD.

32. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT INCREASED THE MINIMUM WAGE LEVEL BY 30.4 PERCENT ON JANUARY 1, 1984, BY ANOTHER 20 PERCENT ON JUNE 6, AND BY ANOTHER 30 PERCENT ON JANUARY 1, 1985. THE CUMULATIVE TOTAL FOR 1984 COMES TO ABOUT 56 PERCENT WHEN THE JUNE 1984 INCREASE IS COUPLED WITH THAT OF JANUARY 1984 OR THAT OF JANUARY 1985. SINCE THE OFFICIAL INFLATION RATE FOR THAT PERIOD WAS SOMEWHAT HIGHER (59 PERCENT), THERE WAS A SLIGHT REAL REDUCTION IN MINIMUM WAGES IN 1984. THIS FOLLOWED LARGER REAL DECLINES IN 1982 AND 1983. THE MINIMUM WAGE, WHILE NOT REPRESENTATIVE OF ALL INCOME IN MEXICO, TENDS TO SET A PRECEDENT FOR OTHER WAGE NEGOTIATIONS. THE GOVERNMENT

HAS PROMISED TO MODESTLY INCREASE REAL WAGES IN 1985.

33. MEXICO MAINTAINED A DUAL EXCHANGE RATE SYSTEM THROUGHOUT 1984. THE CONTROLLED RATE DEPRECIATED AGAINST THE U.S. DOLLAR BY 33.8 PERCENT AND THE OFFICIAL MARKET RATE BY 30.1 PERCENT. BOTH RATES MAINTAINED A DAILY SLIDE OF 13 CENTAVOS PER DAY UNTIL DECEMBER 6, 1984 WHEN THE SLIDE INCREASED TO 17 CENTAVOS PER DAY. THREE REASONS FOR THE CHANGE WERE: (1) THE RESURGENCE OF INFLATION NEAR YEAR END 1984, (2) THE REVALUATION OF THE DOLLAR AGAINST MAJOR INTERNATIONAL CURRENCIES, AND (3) A REAL APPRECIATION OF THE PESO AGAINST THE DOLLAR GIVEN

THE DIFFERENCES IN INFLATION BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

THE BUDGET DEFICIT WAS LARGER THAN PROGRAMMED:

34. MEXICO'S PUBLIC SECTOR FINANCIAL DEFICIT FOR 1984 WAS ABOUT 2.2 TRILLION PESOS, SLIGHTLY MORE THAN THE 1983 DEFICIT IN ABSOLUTE TERMS. AS A PERCENTAGE OF GDP, THE DEFICIT FELL FROM 17.6 PERCENT IN 1982 TO 8.9 PERCENT IN 1983 TO 7.4 PERCENT IN 1984. DURING 1984, ABOUT 83 PERCENT OF THE DEFICIT WAS FINANCED INTERNALLY, PRIMARILY THROUGH CENTRAL BANK OPERATIONS. THIS COMPARES WITH 66 PERCENT IN 1983. IN BOTH YEARS FOREIGN LOANS FINANCED THE REMAINDER.

35. TECHNICALLY, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTED FOR MOST OF THE OVERALL PUBLIC SECTOR FINANCIAL DEFICIT IN 1984 ACCORDING TO BASIC DATA SUPPLIED IN THE BANK OF MEXICO'S ANNUAL REPORT. AS A GROUP PARASTATAL ENTITIES RAN A SURPLUS OF 235 BILLION PESOS, BUT THIS WOULD BECOME A DEFICIT IF PEMEX'S 500 BILLION PESO SURPLUS WERE TAKEN OUT. HOWEVER, IF SUBSIDIES AND TRANSFERS TO THE PARASTATALS WERE PUT BACK INTO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S ACCOUNT, THE PARASTATALS OTHER THAN PEMEX WOULD ACCOUNT FOR THE BULK OF THE DEFICIT.

IV. DEVELOPMENTS IN 1985 AND IMPLICATIONS FOR THE UNITED STATES

IN THE FIRST HALF OF 1985 POSITIVE ECONOMIC GROWTH CONTINUES, FOREIGN EXCHANGE INFLOWS CONTRACT AND INFLATION IS HIGHER THAN TARGET:

38. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT'S ECONOMIC STRATEGY FOR 1985 STRESSED THE SAFEGUARDING OF THE HARD WON ECONOMIC IMPROVEMENTS REALIZED IN 1983 AND 1984. THE FOUR FUNDAMENTAL OBJECTIVES FOR THIS YEAR WERE:

-- CONTINUING REDUCTION IN INFLATION.

-- CONTINUED REACTIVATION OF ECONOMIC ACTIVITY AND FURTHER STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN THE ECONOMY.

UNCLASSIFIED
UNCLASSIFIED

-- AN INCREASE IN REAL WAGES AND IMPROVEMENT IN THE ECONOMIC WELL-BEING OF THE MEXICAN POPULACE.

-- FURTHER ADJUSTMENTS (I.E., INCREASED REVENUES AND MORE EFFICIENT SPENDING) IN PUBLIC FINANCES AND ADDITIONAL PROGRESS IN REDUCING THE FINANCIAL DEFICIT OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR.

39. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT'S DECEMBER-TO-DECEMBER INFLATION TARGET FOR THE YEAR IS 35 PERCENT, DOWN

SIGNIFICANTLY FROM THE 59 PERCENT RATE IN 1984. CUMULATIVE CONSUMER PRICE INFLATION FOR THE FIRST 6 MONTHS OF 1985 IS 25.7 PERCENT WHICH WOULD IMPLY YEAR-END INFLATION SOMEWHAT BELOW THE 1984 LEVEL BUT WELL ABOVE TARGET. INFLATION THUS FAR IN 1985 HAS STEADILY DECREASED FROM A JANUARY RATE OF 7.4 PERCENT ON A MONTH-TO-MONTH BASIS TO 2.4 PERCENT IN MAY AND 2.5 PERCENT IN JUNE, THE LOWEST MONTHLY RISES SINCE NOVEMBER 1981.

40. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT INCREASED THE MINIMUM WAGE BY 30 PERCENT IN JANUARY 1985 AND BY ANOTHER 18 PERCENT IN JUNE 1985 FOR A CUMULATIVE COMPOUNDED ANNUAL RATE OF JUST OVER 53 PERCENT. SHOULD THE TREND OF LOWER INFLATION LEVELS IN THE MONTHS OF MAY AND JUNE CONTINUE, IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE ANNUAL INFLATION FOR 1985 WILL BE LESS THAN THE INCREASES IN THE MINIMUM WAGE. THIS WOULD HELP THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT REALIZE ONE OF ITS MAJOR GOALS FOR 1985 AND IT WOULD BE THE FIRST TIME IN SEVERAL YEARS THAT

WAGES WOULD INCREASE IN REAL TERMS. HOWEVER, IF THE PESO IS DEVALUED AT SIGNIFICANTLY HIGHER RATES DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR THE RATE OF INFLATION COULD PICK UP AGAIN.

41. AT MID-YEAR 1985 THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT IS PROJECTING GDP GROWTH IN THE 2.5 TO 3.5 PERCENT RANGE. THROUGH JUNE THE ECONOMY PROBABLY HAS BEEN GROWING AT A FASTER RATE, PERHAPS ABOUT 4-5 PERCENT. HOWEVER, IT APPEARS THAT GROWTH DURING THE SECOND QUARTER WAS LOWER THAN IN THE FIRST QUARTER. MOREOVER, THE AUTHORITIES ARE EXPECTING A CONSIDERABLE SLOWDOWN IN ECONOMIC ACTIVITY DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. PRIMARY CONTRIBUTING FACTORS ARE EXPECTED TO BE CUTBACKS IN PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING COMPLEMENTED BY CONTRACTIONS IN THE NOMINAL RATES OF GROWTH IN THE MONEY SUPPLY AND CREDIT.

42. ACCORDING TO BANK OF MEXICO FIGURES EMPLOYMENT IN THE MANUFACTURING SECTOR AS OF MARCH 1985 WAS 4.5 PERCENT HIGHER THAN IN THE SAME MONTH IN 1984. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS STATED ON NUMEROUS OCCASIONS THAT THE OPEN UNEMPLOYMENT RATE HAS REMAINED STABLE AT ABOUT 8 PERCENT SINCE 1982. UNDEREMPLOYMENT REMAINS A SERIOUS PROBLEM IN MEXICO WITH SOME ESTIMATES RANGING AS HIGH AS 40-45 PERCENT OF THE ECONOMICALLY ACTIVE POPULATION BUT THIS IS NOT A GREAT INCREASE OVER MORE NORMAL TIMES.

43. THE REAL RATE OF GROWTH OF FUNDS FLOWING INTO THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM HAS BEEN NEGATIVE SO FAR THIS YEAR. RESOURCE CAPTURE (NEW DEPOSITS IN THE BANKING SYSTEM PLUS PURCHASES OF TREASURY BILLS) IN 1985 HAS INCREASED BY ONLY 13 PERCENT DURING THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF THE YEAR WHICH MARKS A SUBSTANTIAL DECLINE IN REAL TERMS GIVEN

UNCLASSIFIED

THAT INFLATION FOR THE SAME PERIOD WAS 23 PERCENT. REAL LEVELS OF FINANCING BY THE BANKS TO INDIVIDUALS AND COMPANIES IS ALSO DOWN AND THE GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN ABSORBING THE BULK OF NEW CREDIT FLOWS.

44. AS A RESULT OF THIS AND ONGOING INFLATIONARY PRESSURES INTEREST RATES ON TREASURY BILLS HAVE RISEN DRAMATICALLY. THE SHORT TERM RATES FOR BILLS ISSUED IN THE LAST WEEK OF JUNE ROSE TO 73.6 PERCENT, IMPLYING VERY HIGH REAL INTEREST RATES. THE RATES FOR TREASURY BILLS AT THE START OF THE YEAR WERE LESS THAN 50 PERCENT.

INTEREST RATES ON PESO DENOMINATED SAVINGS ACCOUNTS ALSO ROSE DRAMATICALLY DURING THE SECOND QUARTER OF 1985. FURTHERMORE, THE AVERAGE COST OF FUNDS FOR COMMERCIAL BANKS HAS RISEN EVERY MONTH IN 1985 FROM JANUARY'S 47.2 PERCENT TO MAY'S 53.8 PERCENT.

45. THE DAILY SLIDE OF THE PESO IN THE CONTROLLED AND OFFICIAL MARKET RATES INCREASED FROM 17 TO 21 CENTAVOS PER DAY IN MARCH 1985 IN A MOVE TO NARROW THE GAP BETWEEN THE SLIPPAGE IN THE EXCHANGE RATE AND THE DIFFERENCE IN THE INFLATION RATES IN THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO. AS OF JULY 15, 1985 THERE HAVE BEEN SEVERAL SHARP INCREASES IN THE OFFSHORE EXCHANGE RATE. THE INCREASES IN THIS RATE HAVE REACHED ALMOST 60 PERCENT OVER THE CONTROLLED MARKET RATE IN SHORT BURSTS AND SUSTAINED LEVELS OF 30 PERCENT OVER THE OFFICIAL MARKET RATE. THESE HIGH OFFSHORE RATES REFLECT CONCERN OVER INFLATION, OIL PRICES, AND THE GENERAL STATE OF THE ECONOMY.

46. MEXICO RETAINED ITS EXISTING DUAL EXCHANGE-RATE SYSTEM UNTIL MID-YEAR 1985 WHEN THE FOLLOWING EVENTS OCCURRED:

47. THE BUDGET DEFICIT HAS REMAINED A DIFFICULT PROBLEM IN 1985, ALTHOUGH LOWER THAN EXPECTED INTERNATIONAL

INTEREST RATES HAVE PROVIDED SOME RELIEF. GOVERNMENT INDICATORS FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1985 SHOW THE DEFICIT FOR THAT PERIOD TO BE ABOUT 540 BILLION PESOS, WHICH REPRESENTS A 53 PERCENT INCREASE OVER THE DEFICIT FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1984, ALMOST NO CHANGE IN REAL TERMS. NON INTEREST OUTLAYS HAVE BEEN RUNNING HIGHER THAN PROJECTED ALTHOUGH INTEREST PAYMENTS ARE LOWER BECAUSE OF THE SHARP FALL IN INTERNATIONAL INTEREST RATES OVER THE PAST 9 MONTHS. IN THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1985 THE GOVERNMENT'S INTERNAL INDEBTEDNESS INCREASED BY 476 BILLION PESOS, 78 PERCENT MORE THAN THE INCREASE IN THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1984. HOWEVER, EXTERNAL INDEBTEDNESS INCREASED BY ABOUT 69 BILLION PESOS, 25 PERCENT LOWER THAN THE CORRESPONDING INCREASE IN 1984.

48. THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS ANNOUNCED TWO SEPARATE PUBLIC SECTOR BUDGET CUTS - THE FIRST IN MID-FEBRUARY FOR 250 BILLION PESOS AND THE SECOND FOR 300 BILLION PESOS IN EARLY JUNE. THE MAJOR AREA TO BE CUT BACK IS IN PUBLIC SECTOR INVESTMENT, PARTICULARLY IN THE ENERGY AND STEEL SECTORS. ONE OF THE REASONS FOR THESE BUDGET MEASURES WAS TO PREVENT THE COUNTRY FROM HAVING TO USE THE SPECIAL CONTINGENCY FUND IN THE BUDGET (200 BILLION PESOS) WHICH IS INTENDED FOR POSSIBLE USE IN THE EVENT OF FURTHER INCREASES OF INTERNATIONAL INTEREST RATES OR FURTHER DECLINES IN PETROLEUM PRICES.

49. OTHER REASONS FOR THE CUTS INCLUDE THE NEED TO COMBAT INFLATION AND TO COPE WITH THE INCREASING UNCERTAINTY SURROUNDING THE FUTURE OF WORLD PETROLEUM PRICES. THESE BUDGET CUTS REPRESENT ATTEMPTS BY THE

UNCLASSIFIED
UNCLASSIFIED

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT TO TRY TO KEEP THE PUBLIC SECTOR FINANCIAL DEFICIT AS A RATIO TO GDP WITHIN THE ACCEPTABLE RANGE SPECIFIED IN ITS ORIGINAL AGREEMENT WITH THE IMF. THAT BENCHMARK IS SLIGHTLY LESS THAN 5.0 PERCENT OF GDP FOR 1985.

50. INTEREST RATES HAD A SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING THUS FAR IN 1985. THE PRIME RATE IN THE UNITED STATES HAS DECLINED FROM 13 PERCENT IN SEPTEMBER 1984 TO 9.5 PERCENT IN JUNE 1985. IT HAS BEEN ESTIMATED THAT MEXICO'S ANNUAL INTEREST PAYMENTS DECLINE

BY AROUND $700-800 MILLION FOR EACH 1 POINT DECLINE IN THE PRIME RATE. MEXICAN GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, HOWEVER, SAID THAT BUDGET SAVINGS FROM LOWER DEBT SERVICING COSTS ON EXTERNAL DEBT WILL BE OFFSET IN PART BY HIGHER DOMESTIC INTEREST RATES ON THE INTERNAL DEBT.

51. ACCORDING TO BUDGET ESTIMATES BY THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT, NEW FOREIGN BORROWING BY THE PUBLIC SECTOR IN 1985 WILL BE LIMITED TO $1 BILLION, THE LOWEST LEVEL IN THE LAST 13 YEARS. FURTHERMORE, THE AUTHORITIES HAVE MADE A COMMITMENT THAT BETWEEN 1983 AND 1985 NET NEW PUBLIC SECTOR FOREIGN BORROWING WILL NOT EXCEED $8.8 BILLION. CURRENTLY, IT APPEARS THAT MEXICO WILL BE ABLE TO MEET THIS COMMITMENT.

52. MEXICO'S NEGOTIATIONS WITH ITS FOREIGN COMMERCIAL BANK CREDITORS IN 1984 WERE HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL AND TENTATIVE AGREEMENT WAS REACHED ON RESCHEDULING $48 BILLION. FINAL AGREEMENT IN PRINCIPAL WAS REACHED IN EARLY 1985. AS A RESULT OF THIS RESCHEDULING AVERAGE ANNUAL AMORTIZATION PAYMENTS DURING THE REST OF THE DECADE WILL BE ABOUT $9 BILLION LESS THAN UNDER ORIGINAL

PUBLIC SECTOR NET EXTERNAL DEBT INCREASED BY $400 MILLION DURING THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1985. THIS IS 40 PERCENT OF THE TOTAL INCREASE IN NET EXTERNAL INDEBTEDNESS PROGRAMMED FOR THE YEAR. UNITED STATES BANKS AND OFFICIAL INSTITUTIONS ACCOUNT FOR 28.7 PERCENT OF MEXICO'S TOTAL PUBLIC SECTOR EXTERNAL DEBT.

54. SURPLUSES CONTINUE IN TRADE BALANCE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT BUT AT LOWER LEVELS THAN 1983 AND 1984. MEXICO'S LARGE 1984 TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUSES, $12.8 BILLION AND $4.0 BILLION RESPECTIVELY, WILL PROBABLY DECREASE IN 1985. FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1985 MERCHANDISE EXPORTS DECLINED BY 11.1 PERCENT AND THE TRADE BALANCE DECLINED BY 40 PERCENT AS IMPORTS INCREASED BY 39 PERCENT. EVEN SO, THE TRADE SURPLUS WAS STILL A SIZEABLE $2.4 BILLION. AMONG EXPORTS, PETROLEUM PRODUCTS DECLINED BY 9 PERCENT AND NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS DECLINED BY 16 PERCENT. DURING THE YEAR CRUDE OIL EXPORTS ARE EXPECTED TO AVERAGE 1.4-1.5 MILLION BARRELS PER DAY. THE PRICE OF MEXICO'S HEAVY CRUDE, CALLED MAYA, WAS REDUCED BY $1.50 IN MAY 1985 AND AGAIN BY AN AVERAGE OF 77 CENTS ON JULY 10. THE PRICE OF MEXICO'S LIGHT CRUDE (ISTHMUS) DECLINED BY AN AVERAGE OF $1.24 ON JULY 10. THE JULY PRICE DECREASES WERE ENACTED AFTER THE COUNTRY HAD LOST SALES OF ABOUT 600,000 BARRELS PER DAY AS FORMER CUSTOMERS TURNED TO OTHER SOURCES. IF MEXICO CAN RETURN TO ITS FORMER AVERAGE OF 1.5 MILLION BARRELS OF OIL EXPORTS PER DAY, IT WILL HOLD ITS EXPORT REVENUE LOSS

UNCLASSIFIED

BECAUSE OF THE JULY PRICE ADJUSTMENT TO ABOUT $275 MILLION FOR 1985. EARLIER PRICE ADJUSTMENTS ARE EXPECTED TO RESULT IN A LOSS OF REVENUE FOR THE YEAR OF ABOUT $600 MILLION. WHEN COMBINED WITH LOSSES DUE TO LOWER EXPORT VOLUMES THE TOTAL REVENUE LOSSES FOR MEXICO BECAUSE OF THE MEASURES TAKEN SO FAR IN 1985 WOULD BE ABOUT $1.8-2 BILLION.

55. MEXICO REGISTERED A CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS OF $218 MILLION FOR THE JANUARY-MARCH PERIOD. THE IN-BOND INDUSTRIES GENERATED NET RECEIPTS OF $207 MILLION AND NET

TOURISM RECEIPTS WERE $306 MILLION (IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT GROSS TOURISM RECEIPTS WERE DOWN BY 4.4 PERCENT AND TOURIST EXPENDITURES ABROAD WERE UP BY 46 PERCENT).

THE SUBSIDIES AGREEMENT WITH THE UNITED STATES HIGHLIGHTS A NUMBER OF MAJOR POLICY MOVES IN THE FIRST HALF OF 1985:

56. IN MAY, MEXICO AND THE UNITED STATES SIGNED A SUBSIDIES UNDERSTANDING TO PROVIDE MEXICO THE INJURY TEST IN COUNTERVAILING DUTY CASES. IN TURN, MEXICO AGREED TO PHASE OUT EXPORT SUBSIDIES BY THE END OF 1986. ANOTHER MAJOR DEVELOPMENT WAS THE DIMEX PROGRAM WHICH IS INTENDED TO FACILITATE THE ACQUISITION OF IMPORTS BY EXPORTERS. UNDER THIS PLAN MEXICAN EXPORTERS WILL BE ALLOWED TO IMPORT UP TO 30 PERCENT OF THE VALUE OF THEIR EXPORTS WITHOUT A REQUIREMENT FOR IMPORT LICENSES PROVIDED THE IMPORTS ARE NOT ON A RESTRICTED LIST (WHICH COVERS APPROXIMATELY 900 ARTICLES OR 29 PERCENT OF MEXICO'S IMPORTS IN 1984). ALL IMPORTS BROUGHT IN UNDER THE PROGRAM MUST ALSO PAY AT LEAST A MINIMUM TARIFF OF 25

57. EARLY IN 1985 NEW LEGISLATION WAS ENACTED GOVERNING THE ACTIVITIES OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, INCLUDING THE BANK OF MEXICO. THIS LEGISLATION IS DESIGNED TO ENHANCE THE ROLE OF THE CENTRAL BANK IN FORMULATING MONETARY POLICY AND RESTRICT ITS ROLE IN PROVIDING FINANCING FOR THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT.

58. IN OTHER MOVES THE GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO HAS COMPLETED THE SALE OF THE SHARES IN NON-STRATEGIC COMPANIES OWNED BY THE NATIONALIZED BANKS. AT THE TIME

UNCLASSIFIED

OF NATIONALIZATION THE COMMERCIAL BANKS OWNED SIZEABLE NUMBERS OF SHARES IN OTHER COMPANIES. THE VALUE OF THE

SHARES SOLD TOTALED ABOUT 87 BILLION PESOS AND THIS WAS VIEWED AS A POSITIVE DEVELOPMENT TO HELP ENHANCE EFFICIENCY IN THE ECONOMY. SUBSEQUENTLY THE AUTHORITIES ANNOUNCED THAT THE GOVERNMENT WOULD BE SELLING OFF OR DISSOLVING NON-STRATEGIC PARASTATALS. TO DATE THERE HAS NOT BEEN A STRONG RECORD OF DEMAND FOR THESE COMPANIES.

THE FOREIGN INVESTMENT CLIMATE REMAINS UNCERTAIN:

59. FOREIGN INVESTMENT IS GENERALLY WELCOME IN MEXICO, EXCEPT IN CERTAIN AREAS RESERVED FOR MEXICAN NATIONALS. IT IS, HOWEVER, SUBJECT TO CLOSE GOVERNMENT SCRUTINY AND REGULATION, PARTICULARLY IN CASES OF MAJORITY FOREIGN OWNERSHIP. ALTHOUGH FOREIGN INVESTMENT GREW SIGNIFICANTLY BETWEEN 1950 AND 1981 IT REMAINS A SMALL SHARE OF TOTAL INVESTMENT IN THE ECONOMY. OVER THE PAST TWO YEARS NET FOREIGN INVESTMENT INFLOWS HAVE RISEN MORE SLOWLY THAN DURING THE LATE 1970'S, IN PART BECAUSE OF THE ECONOMIC RECESSION IN THE COUNTRY WHICH LASTED FROM 1982 UNTIL MID 1984.

60. THE RULES GOVERNING FOREIGN INVESTMENT ARE CONTAINED IN THREE LAWS ENACTED DURING THE 1970'S AND THEIR SUBSEQUENT REGULATIONS: THE 1973 LAW TO PROMOTE MEXICAN INVESTMENT AND REGULATE FOREIGN INVESTMENT; THE 1973 TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER LAW; AND THE 1976 LAW ON INVENTIONS AND TRADEMARKS. AT PRESENT, MOST FOREIGN INVESTORS ARE LIMITED TO MINORITY OWNERSHIP WITH EXCEPTIONS BEING GRANTED IN CASES WHERE AUTHORITIES CONSIDER THE INVESTMENT TO BE PARTICULARLY ATTRACTIVE FOR MEXICO, E.G.,

UNCLASSIFIED
UNCLASSIFIED

IMPORTANT TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER, SIGNIFICANT EMPLOYMENT GENERATION, LARGE EXPORT POTENTIAL, AND INDUSTRIAL DIVERSIFICATION. THE CURRENT ADMINISTRATION WHICH WILL BE IN OFFICE UNTIL 1988 HAS STATED IT WILL NOT MAKE ANY SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN THE LAWS RELATING TO FOREIGN INVESTMENT.

61. BETWEEN 1960 AND 1981 DIRECT FOREIGN INVESTMENT PLAYED A RELATIVELY SMALL ROLE IN MEXICO'S TOTAL EXTERNAL FINANCING REQUIREMENTS WHICH WERE FULFILLED PRINCIPALLY BY BORROWING. FURTHERMORE, ALTHOUGH GOM AUTHORIZATIONS

FOR NEW FOREIGN INVESTMENT ROSE IN 1983 AND 1984, NET ANNUAL DIRECT INVESTMENT FLOWS HAVE DECLINED DURING EACH OF THE PAST TWO YEARS, AVERAGING ONLY $425 MILLION AS COMPARED TO $996 MILLION DURING THE 1979-82 PERIOD.

62. THE DE LA MADRID ADMINISTRATION HAS PUBLICLY STATED THAT IT WELCOMES FOREIGN INVESTMENT ALTHOUGH CLEARLY IT FAVORS CHANNELING SUCH INVESTMENT INTO CERTAIN AREAS OF THE ECONOMY. IN FEBRUARY 1984 IT ISSUED NEW GUIDELINES FOR FOREIGN INVESTMENT AND SPECIFIED THAT MAJORITY FOREIGN OWNERSHIP WOULD BE ALLOWED IN CERTAIN HIGH PRIORITY SECTORS SUCH AS HEAVY MACHINERY, ELECTRONIC EQUIPMENT, HIGH-TECHNOLOGY PRODUCTS, AND HOTELS. ALSO, NEW TECHNICAL REGULATIONS FACILITATING ADMINISTRATIVE REQUIREMENTS WERE PROMULGATED LATER IN THE YEAR. NONETHELESS, POTENTIAL INVESTORS WILL CONTINUE TO BE SCREENED CAREFULLY.

FISCAL 1983 TO 11,325 IN FISCAL 1984. U.S. EXPORTS TO MEXICO INCREASED IN 1984 FOR THE FIRST YEAR SINCE THE 1982 CRISIS. LEADING U.S. NON-AGRICULTURAL EXPORTS TO MEXICO INCLUDE REPLACEMENT PARTS FOR GASOLINE ENGINES AND ELECTRIC MOTORS; RADIO, TELEGRAPHICS AND TELEPHONIC EQUIPMENT; STYRENE AND ARTICLES OF RUBBER AND PLASTIC; ELECTRONIC COMPONENTS; AND GENERAL MERCHANDISE NOT MANUFACTURED IN MEXICO. EMPHASIS ON THE FOLLOWING SECTORS IS PART OF THE NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN: TELECOMMUNICATIONS, METAL AND METAL-PROCESSING, ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROL, COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY, INDUSTRIAL PORT DEVELOPMENT, FOOD PROCESSING AND PACKAGING, AND HOME CONSTRUCTION.

64. IN 1984 THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE ESTABLISHED A COMMERCIAL OFFICE IN THE AMERICAN CONSULATE IN GUADALAJARA, AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRIAL AREA ESPECIALLY WITH ITS INCREASED ACTIVITY IN ELECTRONICS. THIS OFFICE IS STAFFED BY ONE AMERICAN AND THREE MEXICAN COMMERCIAL SPECIALISTS. THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE INTENDS TO PLACE AN AMERICAN COMMERCIAL OFFICER IN THE U.S. CONSULATE IN MONTERREY IN 1985. THE NEW MONTERREY COMMERCIAL OFFICE WILL OFFER EXPANDED COMMERCIAL SERVICES FOR THE ENTIRE NORTHEAST REGION OF MEXICO. BOTH THE GUADALAJARA AND MONTERREY OFFICES WILL BE PREPARED TO OFFER COMPLETE COMMERCIAL SERVICES AND WELCOME THE OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE U.S. BUSINESS INTERESTS.

SUBJECT: RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AND OUTLOOK FOR THE MEXICAN ECONOMY

1. SUMMARY. OVER THE PAST SEVERAL MONTHS THE OUTLOOK FOR THE MEXICAN ECONOMY HAS BECOME INCREASINGLY CLOUDED. A SERIES OF EXOGENOUS AND INTERNAL DEVELOPMENTS HAS MADE THE MANAGEMENT OF MACROECONOMIC POLICY MORE DIFFICULT AND SENSITIVE. DESPITE HIGH LEVELS OF GOVERNMENT SPENDING IN ANTICIPATION OF THE JULY 7 MIDTERM ELECTIONS, THE GROWTH RATE OF THE ECONOMY APPEARS TO BE SLOWING AND THE GOVERNMENT MAY NOW HAVE TO TAKE ACTIONS WHICH WILL SLOW IT EVEN FURTHER FOR THE REST

CONFIDENTIAL

OF THE YEAR. THE AUTHORITIES MUST SOON TAKE SOME

[redacted] UNCLASSIFIED

CRITICAL ECONOMIC DECISIONS AND THE OPTIONS FACING THEM ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE. END SUMMARY.

2. MEXICO'S ECONOMIC PROSPECTS HAVE CHANGED CONSIDERABLY OVER THE PAST 9 MONTHS. DURING THE FIRST YEAR AND A HALF OF THE DE LA MADRID ADMINISTRATION, THE COUNTRY MADE SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS IN REDUCING THE SIZE OF THE PUBLIC SEDEFICIT, TEMPERING INFLATION, AND GREATLY STRENGTHENING THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS SITUATION. HOWEVER, SINCE SEPTEMBER 1984 PROGRESS IN ALL OF THESE AREAS HAS BEEN MUCH SLOWER. THE REDUCTIONS IN PETROLEUM PRICES AND IN THE VOLUME OF PETROLEUM EXPORTS AND A SHARP RISE IN CAPITAL FLIGHT HAVE COMPOUNDED THE PROBLEM.

3. ON JULY 10 THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED THAT IT WOULD DROP ITS AVERAGE PRICE PER BARREL FOR PETROLEUM FROM $25.57 TO $24.47, A DECLINE OF 4.3 PERCENT. THIS MEASURE WAS FORCED BY A SHARP DECLINE IN THE VOLUME OF PETROLEUM EXPORTS WHICH DURING JUNE WERE ONLY ABOUT 800,000 BARRELS PER DAY COMPARED TO A TARGET OF 1.5 MILLION BARRELS PER DAY. IT WAS THE THIRD PRICE REDUCTION SO FAR IN 1985. FURTHERMORE, PRIOR TO JUNE PETROLEUM EXPORTS HAD AVERAGED ONLY 1.4 MILLION BARRELS PER DAY FOR THE FIRST 5 MONTHS OF THE YEAR. SO FAR THE REVENUES LOST DUE TO THE LOWER VOLUME OF EXPORTS HAS BEEN ABOUT $900 MILLION. THE TOTAL YEAR LOSSES DUE TO PRICE ADJUSTMENTS ARE ESTIMATED AT ABOUT THE SAME AMOUNT. ASSUMING THAT THE COUNTRY CAN NOT RETURN TO AVERAGE EXPORT LEVELS OF 1.5 MILLION BARRELS PER DAY AND NO FURTHER PRICE DECLINES, REVENUE LOSSES FOR THE YEAR, THEN, WOULD TOTAL $1.8-2 BILLION.

4. WITH REGARD TO EXTERNAL INTEREST RATES, MEXICO HAS BEEN MORE FORTUNATE. SINCE SEPTEMBER 1984 THE PRIME INTEREST RATE IN THE UNITED STATES HAS FALLEN FROM 13 PERCENT TO 9.5 PERCENT. IT IS ESTIMATED THAT FOR EACH 1 PERCENT DECLINE IN EXTERNAL INTEREST RATES MEXICO WILL SAVE $700-800 MILLION IN INTEREST PAYMENTS. ALTHOUGH MEXICO WILL NOT REALIZE THE FULL BENEFITS OF THE DECLINE THIS YEAR (BECAUSE ITS INTEREST PAYMENTS ARE TIED TO INTEREST RATES IN EFFECT 3-6 MONTHS EARLIER) WE ESTIMATE

[redacted]

THE COUNTRY SHOULD BE ABLE TO SAVE $2-2.5 BILLION IN FOREIGN INTEREST PAYMENTS THIS YEAR. THIS WOULD SLIGHTLY MORE THAN OFFSET DEVELOPMENTS IN THE PETROLEUM MARKET SO FAR THIS YEAR.

5. THE SAVINGS FROM LOWER INTEREST PAYMENTS SHOULD HELP MEXICO BOTH IN THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS AND IN THE PUBLIC SECTOR BUDGET. EVEN THOUGH COMBINED PETROLEUM AND NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS WILL BE LOWER THAN PROGRAMMED AT THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR (PROBABLY BY ABOUT $2-3.5 BILLION) MEXICO COULD STILL REALIZE A MODEST CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS THIS YEAR AND THIS WOULD MEAN THAT NO ADDITIONAL EXTERNAL BORROWING WOULD BE NECESSARY. FURTHERMORE, EVEN THOUGH PETROLEUM PRICES HAVE FALLEN, THE TAX RECEIPTS FROM PEMEX WILL NOT FALL BY AS MUCH WHEREAS THE FULL BENEFITS FROM LOWER INTEREST PAYMENTS WILL BE REALIZED IN THE BUDGET. CONSEQUENTLY, THE GOM HAS SOME FLEXIBILITY TO SHIFT EXPENDITURES FROM INTEREST OUTLAYS TO OTHER PARTS OF THE BUDGET.

6. ASIDE FROM INTEREST RATES AND PETROLEUM PRICES ANOTHER IMPORT EXOGENOUS FACTOR FOR MEXICO IS THE STRENGTH OF THE U.S. ECONOMY. THE SHARP DECLINE IN THE RATE OF GDP GROWTH IN THE UNITED STATES DURING THE

FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR COMBINED WITH INCREASED PUBLICITY REGARDING PROTECTIONIST PRESSURES IN WASHINGTON HAVE ALSO HELPED CONTRIBUTE TO A NEGATIVE ATMOSPHERE IN THE COUNTRY. MANY MEXICANS BELIEVE THAT IF THE U.S. ECONOMY
STAGNATES, MEXICO WILL NOT BE ABLE TO GENERATE SUFFICIENT
EXPORT INCOME TO FINANCE IMPORTS AND SERVICE ITS EXTERNAL DEBT UNDER EXISTING AGREEMENTS WITH ITS FOREIGN CREDITORS.

7. SINCE DECEMBER 1984 THE MEXICAN AUTHORITIES HAVE BEEN FACING INCREASING PRESSURES DUE TO CAPITAL FLIGHT. A

PERFORMANCE. THE GOVERNMENT DECIDED TO TAKE ACTION ON THE EXCHANGE RATE. BETWEEN JUNE 28 AND JULY 10 IT ELIMINATED THE OFFICIAL MARKET EXCHANGE RATE AND SUBSTITUTED THE SO-CALLED SUPER FREE RATE, WHICH WAS BASICALLY THE OFFSHORE EXCHANGE RATE. HOWEVER, IT KEPT ITS CONTROLLED RATE POLICY OF 21 CENTAVOS PER DAY. AT THIS RATE OF DEPRECIATION, THE RATE AT WHICH MORE THAN 80 PERCENT OF ALL FOREIGN TRANSACTIONS TAKE PLACE, INCLUDING MOST EXPORTS AND IMPORTS AND EXTERNAL DEBT PAYMENTS. CURRENTLY THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO EXCHANGE RATES IS NEARLY 60 PERCENT AND OVER THE PAST WEEK IT HAS BEEN INCREASING. A NUMBER OF REASONS FOR THIS GROWING DIFFERENCE EXIST. THE BANK OF MEXICO IS ANXIOUS TO AVOID FURTHER LOSSES IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES. CAPITAL FLIGHT HAS CONTINUED AND PERHAPS EVEN ACCELERATED AND IT IS OBVIOUS THAT THE GOVERNMENT WILL SOON HAVE TO RECTIFY THE SITUATION. PERHAPS THE MOST LIKELY COURSE OF ACTION IS THAT THE CONTROLLED RATE WILL BE INCREASED AND THE DAILY RATE OF SLIDE WILL BE ACCELERATED.

8. AN ADDITIONAL DIFFICULTY IS THAT PRIVATE SECTOR ACTIVITY SEEMS TO BE DECLINING AND THE OUTLOOK IS FOR LESS INDUSTRIAL GROWTH FOR THE REST OF THE YEAR. MANY COMPANIES ARE CONCERNED ABOUT THE EXCHANGE RATE SITUATION AND THE FACT THAT THEY HAVE TO EXCHANGE THEIR EXPORT PROCEEDS AT THE CONTROLLED EXCHANGE RATE. THEY BELIEVE THIS PUTS THEM AT A VERY LARGE COMPETITIVE DISADVANTAGE AND THAT IT HAS BEEN A STRONG DISINCENTIVE FOR EXPORTS THIS YEAR. THE DECLINE IN NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS OVER THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR

TENDS TO SUBSTANTIATE THIS ASSERTION.

9. AT THE SAME TIME, THERE IS RISING CONCERN ABOUT THE LACK OF LOCAL FINANCING AVAILABLE TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR. DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR THE GOVERNMENT HAS ABSORBED THE BULK OF AVAILABLE FINANCIAL RESOURCES IN THE ECONOMY AND RECENT MEASURES TAKEN BY THE BANK OF MEXICO INDICATE THAT THIS TREND PROBABLY WILL CONTINUE. ALTHOUGH NOT YET OFFICIAL, IT APPEARS THAT THE BANK OF MEXICO IS NOW ALLOWING OTHER LOCAL BANKS TO LEND ONLY 10 PERCENT OF THEIR AVAILABLE FUNDS FREELY (I.E., THE OTHER 90 PERCENT TIED UP IN LEGAL RESERVE REQUIREMENTS.

[redacted]

MANDATORY FINANCING TO THE GO ERNMENT, AND SPECIAL CREDIT LINES TO PRIORITY SECTO RS OF THE ECONOMY).
PREVIOUSLY THE BANKS HAD 25 PE RCENT OF THE R AVAILABLE RESOURCES FOR LENDING AS THEY SAW FIT.

10. PERHAPS THE MOST CRUCIAL DIFFICULTY FACING THE AUTHORITIES IS THE FACT THAT CONFIDENCE IS LOW AND THIS HAS GENERATED A SITUA TION WHERE INDIVIDUALS AND COMPANIES ARE BORROWING TO GET THEIR MONEY OUT OF THE COUNTRY. EVEN THOUGH THE COST IS HIGH, THE "SUPER FREE"
EXCHANGE RATE HAS BEEN MOVING DAILY AGAINST THE PESO
SINCE IT WAS INSTITUTED LATE JUNE. MOST ANALYSTS BELIEVE THAT THE PESO IS UNDER VALUED IN THE MARKET BUT EVEN SO LINES AT THE EXCHANGE HOUSES TO PURCHASE DOLLARS HAVE BEEN GROWING.

11. WITHIN THE ECONOMIC CABINET THERE IS AN ONGOING DEBATE AS TO HOW BEST TO ADDRESS THE SITUATION. THE FINANCE MINISTRY AND THE BANK OF MEXICO HAVE BEEN ARGUING FOR A MORE STRENUOUS ADJUSTMENT EFFORT. THIS WOULD INVOLVE OPENING THE ECONOMY AND REDUCING PROTECTION OF DOMESTIC PRODUCERS, GREATER EFFORTS TO ATTRACT FOREIGN INVESTMENT, A CONCERTED ATTACK AGAINST

INFLATION, AND MORE STRENUOUS EFFORTS TO REDUCE THE REAL
LEVEL OF THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT. THE PROBLEM WITH THIS STRATEGY, OF COURSE, IS THAT IT RISKS FURTHER RECESSION IN THE ECONOMY AND IS POLITICALLY DIFFICULT.
THEREFORE, MOST OTHER CABINET AGENCIES HAVE RESISTED
SUCH AN APPROACH.

12. THE MOST VIABLE ALTERNATIVE APPROACH BEING PRIVATELY DISCUSSED IS TO PUBLICIZE CONTINUALLY THE FACT THAT THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC STRATEGY HAS NOT BEEN CHANGED, BUT IN

PRACTICE TO USE AN AD HOC AND LESS VIGOROUS APPROACH THAN DURING THE FIRST YEAR AND A HALF OF THE ADMINISTRATION.

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

THIS WOULD MEAN CONTINUING MORE OR LESS ALONG THE PATH WHICH HAS BEEN PURSUED FOR THE LAST NINE MONTHS. IT WOULD IMPLY SLOWER PROGRESS IN REDUCING INFLATION AND THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT AND NO SERIOUS EFFORTS TO OPEN THE ECONOMY OR ATTRACT FOREIGN INVESTMENT. IN OTHER WORDS, IF THE AUTHORITIES SOMEHOW ADDRESS THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM OF STEMMING CAPITAL FLIGHT, THEY MAY BE TEMPTED TO CONTINUE WITH A PATCHWORK APPROACH.

13. SUCH AN APPROACH COULD INVOLVE PERIODIC ANNOUNCEMENTS OF SWEEPING MEASURES SUCH AS PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID SET FORTH AT THE BANKERS CONVENTION IN GUADALAJARA ON JULY 22. THESE INCLUDED MORE CONCERTED EFFORTS TO CUT THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, REDUCE DOMESTIC PROTECTION THROUGH SUBSTITUTION OF A MODERN AND EFFICIENT SYSTEM OF TARIFFS FOR IMPORT LICENSES, AN ORDERING OF THE FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET TO PROMOTE NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS AND TOURISM AND TO PROTECT THE COUNTRY'S FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES, REDOUBLING TAX COLLECTION EFFORTS, AND STRENGTHENING THE FINANCIAL INTERMEDIATION PROCESS. HOWEVER, IMPLEMENTATION OF SUCH STEPS WILL BE THE CRITICAL ISSUE. CURRENTLY THEY ARE VAGUE AND UNDEFINED. MOREOVER, ASSUMING THEY ARE SUBSEQUENTLY DEFINED IT STILL REMAINS TO BE SEEN WHETHER OR NOT THEY WILL BE ENOUGH AND WHETHER OR NOT THEY WILL BE VIGOROUSLY CARRIED OUT.

14. THE MOST CRITICAL MEDIUM [illegible] LONGER TERM ECONOMIC ISSUES FACING MEXICO ARE STILL THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, INFLATION, AND EXPORT PERFORMANCE. THIS YEAR LITTLE PROGRESS IS LIKELY ON THE DEFICIT OR INFLATION AND

EXPORTS WILL BE CONSIDERABLY LOWER THAN IN 1984. IF THE GOM IS UNWILLING TO IMPLEMENT A CONTINUOUS AND COMPREHENSIVE STRATEGY TO ADDRESS THESE PROBLEMS -- AS IT DID DURING THE EARLY PART OF THE ADMINISTRATION -- THE ECONOMY WILL BE MORE VULNERABLE TO ADVERSE EXOGENOUS DEVELOPMENTS (PETROLEUM PRICES, INTEREST RATES, AND SLOWER GROWTH IN THE MAJOR INDUSTRIAL MARKETS FOR MEXICO'S EXPORTS). GIVEN CONTINUING NEGATIVE PROSPECTS FOR PETROLEUM AND THE SLUGGISH PERFORMANCE OF THE U.S. ECONOMY, THE MAJOR EXTERNAL MARKET FOR MEXICAN PRODUCTS, THE COUNTRY'S SHORT TO MEDIUM TERM ECONOMIC PROSPECTS

ARE NOT BRIGHT. MOREOVER, SHOULD REAL INTEREST RATES BEGIN TO RISE SIGNIFICANTLY AGAIN MEXICO MAY FIND ITSELF IN AN UNTENABLE SITUATION WHICH WOULD REQUIRE FURTHER DEBT RESTRUCTURING MEASURES. DRAFTED BY J.V.SWEENEY. GAVIN

COUNTRIES TO FOLLOW SUIT AND THAT INCLUDING THE UNITED STATES?

A: IT CERTAINLY PUTS THE ISSUE FORWARD SOME MORE ALTHOUGH THAT ISSUE IS BEING HEAVILY DEBATED AND WE HAVE BEEN DISCUSSING IT IN THE UNITED STATES AS YOU KNOW. MY OWN FEELING IS THAT IF YOU STOP INVESTING OR YOU DISINVEST WHAT YOU AFFECT IS VERY LARGELY THE JOBS OF BLACKS AND THE OPPORTUNITIES FOR TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT THAT BLACKS HAVE. OF COURSE A LOT OF THE FRENCH INVESTMENT I BELIEVE HAS BEEN IN THE NUCLEAR AREA. THAT POSES DIFFERENT TYPES OF QUESTIONS.

Q: TO FOLLOW UP ON THAT ...

A: OF COURSE THEY HAVE WITHDRAWN THEIR AMBASSADOR. WE'VE HAD OUR AMBASSADOR BACK FOR SEVERAL WEEKS NOW AS WE HAVE BEEN EXAMINING THE SITUATION IN SOUTH AFRICA. I THINK YOU HAVE TO KEEP CERTAIN FUNDAMENTAL THINGS IN MIND ALL THE TIME. FIRST OF ALL, APARTHEID IS ABHORRENT. IT'S GOT TO END. THE GOVERNMENT OF SOUTH AFRICA HAS TO GET ITSELF INTO A FRAME OF MIND WHERE THE QUESTION THAT IT IS ADDRESSING IS NOT WHETHER THIS SYSTEM WILL END BUT HOW IT IS GOING TO END. WHAT IS THE PROCESS THROUGH WHICH THE REALLY VERY GREAT CHANGE THAT IS INVOLVED IS GOING TO BE MANAGED AND IS GOING TO BE VIOLENT. WE HOPE NOT. IT IS POSSIBLE TO MANAGE IT AND THERE IS QUITE OBVIOUSLY IN THE BLACK COMMUNITY A LARGE MEASURE OF GOOD WILL TO DO SO. SO THAT'S THE QUESTION. THE SECOND THING IS THE CROSS BORDER VIOLENCE BOTH WAYS REPRESENTS A MAJOR PROBLEM AND IT IS IMPORTANT TO TRY TO GET THAT BACK UNDER CONTROL AND OUR DIPLOMACY HELPED TO BRING THAT ABOUT FOR AWHILE. IT HAS CAUGHT UP AGAIN. THIRD, IT'S IMPORTANT TO GET FOREIGN FORCES OUT OF THE REGION. AND HERE WE'RE TALKING ABOUT SOUTH AFRICAN FORCES OUT OF OTHER COUNTRIES. THAT'S LARGELY HAPPENED. AND IT'S IMPORTANT TO GET THE CUBAN AND OTHER SOVIET ORIENTED FORCES OUT. THAT HAS NOT HAPPENED. THEY ARE THERE IN BIG NUMBERS. FOURTH, IT'S IMPORTANT TO TRY TO GET AN INDEPENDENT NAMIBIA IN ACCORDANCE WITH UN RESOLUTION 435. SO THOSE ARE THE TYPES OF THINGS WE HAVE BEEN WORKING AT AND OTHERS HAVE BEEN WORKING AT AND THAT WE CONTINUE TO WORK

AT AND WE ALL CLEARLY RECOGNIZE THAT THE RETURNED VIOLENCE IN RECENT WEEKS IS A SETBACK. BUT THAT DOES NOT CHANGE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE OBJECTIVES. THEY CHANGE SOME OF THE WAYS IN WHICH YOU HAVE TO GO ABOUT THEM OR SOME MATTERS OF TIMING OR WHATEVER.

Q. IF I COULD JUST FOLLOW-UPON THAT A LITTLE BIT ON TWO THINGS YOU HAVE JUST SAID. YOU SAID THAT THE U.S. HAS HAD ITS AMBASSADOR BACK FOR SOME TIME AND THAT'S TRUE, BUT THE U.S. WITHDRAWAL OF ITS AMBASSADOR WAS DONE, AT LEAST THE PUBLIC EXPLANATION FOR IT WAS DONE FOR CONSULTATIONS AND AS A RESULT OF THE CROSS-BORDER ACTIONS BY THE SOUTH AFRICAN GOVERNMENT AND THEREFORE THAT MOVE, AT LEAST ON THE PUBLIC RECORD ANYWAY, IT IS NOT REGISTERED OR HAS NOT BEEN REGISTERED AS A PROTEST OVER EITHER THE STATE OF EMERGENCY OR THE INCREASE IN VIOLENCE WITHIN SOUTH AFRICA IN RECENT WEEKS. THAT IS MY RECOLLECTION OF IT.

A. WE ARE NOT TRYING TO SAY ANYTHING. THE FRENCH ARE DOING WHAT THEY THINK IS RIGHT FOR THEM. WE ARE DOING WHAT WE THINK IS RIGHT FOR US. OUR AMBASSADOR HAS BEEN HERE IN CONSULTATION. THAT DOES NOT MEAN THAT WE SHOULD NOT SEND OUR AMBASSADOR BACK SOMETIME. AFTER ALL, IF WE ARE GOING TO BE THERE AND HAVE SOME IMPACT, YOU OUGHT TO BE IN COMMUNICATION WITH PEOPLE. NEVERTHELESS, OUR.

AMBASSADOR COMING BACK HAS SEEN AS AND HAS INTENDED AS A SIGNAL OF OUR DISPLEASURE WITH SOME OF THE DEVELOPMENTS
THERE. SINCE THAT TIME THE STATE OF EMERGENCY HAS BEEN PUT ON. WE ARE ANXIOUS TO SEE THAT ENDED AND WE ARE ANXIOUS TO SEE THEM TURN AS I SAID YESTERDAY TO A DIFFERENT PROCESS. THAT IS WHAT WE ARE URGING.

Q. DO YOU MIND IF I JUST FOLLOW-UP ON SOMETHING ELSE YOU

SAID A MOMENT AGO WHICH WAS ABOUT THE VIOLENCE COMING TO AN END. THERE AGAIN THE U.S. STATEMENTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE HAVE ALWAYS BEEN MADE IN SUCH A WAY THAT SEEMS TO IMPLY AN EQUAL SHARE OR A VERY LARGE SHARE OF RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE VIOLENCE IS THE BLACK COMMUNITY IN SOUTH AFRICA WHICH HAS, IN FACT ENGAGED IN SOME VIOLENT ACTS. BUT THE PROTESTS ON CAPITAL HILL, THE PROTESTS IN WASHINGTON, THE PROTESTS NOW IN PARIS ARE RELATED TO THE ACTIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

A. AS A DESCRIPTIVE MATTER, IT IS A FACT THAT VIOLENCE TENDS TO TAKE AN ITERATIVE PATTERNS NOT ONLY THERE BUT IN OTHER PLACES AS PEOPLE DO THINGS AND REACT TO EACH OTHER. HOWEVER, THE UNDERLYING PROBLEM IS APARTHEID. AND IT IS THAT PROBLEM AND THE IMPATIENCE TO SEE THAT SYSTEM CHANGE THAT UNDERLIES ALL OF THIS TURMOIL AND ABOVE THAT SO TO SPEAK, OR ASSOCIATED WITH IT. YOU SEE THIS ITERATIVE PATTERN OF VIOLENCE, BUT WHAT I WAS TRYING TO SAY AT THE BEGINNING IS YOU HAVE TO KEEP YOURSELF ALWAYS FOCUSSED ON THE FACT THAT THE UNDERLYING PROBLEM IS THE SYSTEM OF APARTHEID WHICH IS JUST PLAIN WRONG.

Q. ON MEXICO, CAN YOU POSSIBLY TELL US A LITTLE BIT WHETHER OR NOT WHAT YOU SEE AS THE PRIMARY TOPIC WHETHER IT BE CENTRAL AMERICA, DRUGS, MEXICO'S FALTERING ECONOMY AND WHETHER OR NOT YOU BELIEVE AT THIS JUNCTURE GIVEN SOME OTHER SIGNALS THROUGHOUT THE REGION THAT POSSIBLY MEXICO MAY BE CHANGING IN ITS WAY OF HANDLING ITS OWN DEBT. WHETHER IT MAY BE SENDING SIGNALS TO THE UNITED STATES THAT IT IS CONSIDERING NOT PAYING BACK ALL THE INTEREST.

A. THIS IS A SORT OF REGULAR MEETING. WE HAVE THESE
UNCLASSIFIED

MEETINGS PERIODICALLY. SO IT ISN'T CALLED TO ADDRESS ANY PARTICULAR THING. IT IS A REGULAR MEETING DESIGNED TO TOUCH BASE ON A WIDE VARIETY OF ISSUES SORT OF ACROSS-THE-BOARD. SO WE HAVE A DELEGATION GOING DOWN THAT HAS THAT KIND OF REPRESENTATION AND WE WILL HAVE DISCUSSIONS WITH THE ECONOMIC PEOPLE, THE FINANCIAL PEOPLE, THE OVERALL RELATIONSHIP, THE ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS, OUR CONCERNS ABOUT NARCOTICS AND CONTROL OF IT AND LAW ENFORCEMENT, OUR CENTRAL AMERICAN PROBLEMS AND SO ON. SO THERE WILL BE AN ACROSS THE BOARD BASE-TOUCHING. OUR OBJECT IS TO HAVE A STRONG AND SUBSTANTIVE CONSTRUCTIVE WORKING RELATIONSHIP THAT ADDRESSES PROBLEMS, DOES SOMETHING WITH THEM AND TO KEEP THAT MOVING ALONG IN THE MANNER. SO THE EXCHANGES OUGHT TO BE AND WILL BE, I AM SURE, CANDID AND FRANK AND SUBSTANTIVE AND WE HAVE PROBLEMS, WE HAVE THINGS WE HAVE ACCOMPLISHED, AND WE TRY TO MOVE IT ALONG THAT WAY.

Q. BY FOLLOWING UP JUST A LITTLE, THOUGH, ON THE DEBT QUESTION, WHAT IS THE UNITED STATES PREPARED TO DO, WHAT CAN WE DO TO HELP MEXICO OUT AT THIS JUNCTURE?

A. THE POSITION OF MEXICO, LIKE THE POSITION OF OTHER COUNTRIES INCLUDING THE UNITED STATES, IS AFFECTED BY DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT, ALTHOUGH IT IS ALWAYS A MISTAKE FOR MOST COUNTRIES, INCLUDING THE UNITED STATES AND INCLUDING MEXICO, TO FEEL THAT OUR PROBLEMS ARE PRIMARILY GENERATED BY THE INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT. IN THE UNITED STATES, OUR BASIC PROBLEM IS OUR GIGANTIC BUDGET DEFICIT. IT IS NOT THE INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT THAT CREATED THAT DEFICIT. IT'S US. AND WE HAVE GOT TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT. MEXICO HAS ITS PROBLEMS AND IT HAS TO ADDRESS THEM. PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID IS TRYING TO DO SO AND I AM LOOKING FORWARD TO

NUMBER ONE, OIL MARKETS ARE SOFT. THAT AFFECTS MEXICO
ADVERSELY. IT AFFECTS SOME OF THE OTHER DEBTOR COUNTRIES
POSITIVELY LIKE BRAZIL FOR INSTANCE OR OTHERS WHO ARE RATHER LARGE IMPORTERS. SO ON THE DEBT PROBLEM AS A

THAT. WHAT THE FRENCH WILL PROPOSE ON THAT I DON'T KNOW. THEIR ACTION WAS NOT A DISINVESTMENT ACTION--IT WAS A NEW INVESTMENT ACTION. AS FAR AS REMOVING THE AMBASSADOR IS CONCERNED, AS I SAID, WE HAVE DONE THAT. BUT IT'S DESIGNED TO REGISTER A POINT OF VIEW AND WE HAVE REGISTERED OUR POINT OF VIEW.

Q. MR. SECRETARY, LET ME ASK ABOUT NICARAGUA WHICH UNDOUBTEDLY WILL COME UP TODAY. IN THE LAST FEW WEEKS WE HAVE SEEN THE NICARAGUANS WALK OUT OF THE CONTADORA PROCESS. WE'VE SEEN OUR OWN GOVERNMENT TAKE A LOOK AT THAT AND TAKE A LOOK AT THE PROPOSAL THAT CAME OUT OF THE LAST CONTADORA MEETING AND STICK PRETTY FIRMLY TO ITS POSITION AND SAY THAT WE WANT TO SEE MOVEMENT ON THE CRITERIA YOU TALKED ABOUT SOME MONTHS AGO BEFORE THAT LOOSENS UP. IT SEEMS TO ME THERE IS A HARDENING OF POSITION ON BOTH SIDES AND THEN CONGRESS, WE ASSUME, IS ABOUT TO SEND SOME AMERICAN AID TO THE CONTRAS. WHAT DO YOU SEE DEVELOPING OVER THE NEXT FEW MONTHS? IS IT GOING TO REQUIRE AN ESCALATION OF THAT CIVIL WAR IN A MILITARY TEST ON BOTH SIDES BEFORE WE SEE AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A SOLUTION?

A. WELL OUR POSITION HASN'T HARDENED. OUR POSITION HAS STAYED CONSTANT. THE PRESIDENT PUT A PROPOSITION ON THE TABLE, I FORGET THE DATE BUT QUITE A WHILE AGO, INVOLVING RECONCILIATION AND PEACE AND WE HAVE SUPPORTED THE CONTADORA PROCESS IN PARTICULAR THE TWENTY-ONE OBJECTIVES. WHAT HAS BEEN HAPPENING IS THAT NICARAGUA HAS GRADUALLY BEEN MORE AND MORE ISOLATING ITSELF AND IT STICKS OUT LIKE A SORE THUMB IN CENTRAL AMERICA AS A
UNCLASSIFIED

COUNTRY MOVING AWAY FROM OPENESS, MOVING FROM FREEDOM, MOVING TOWARD TOTALITARIANISM AND MILITARIZING ITSELF.

ISOLATING ITSELF ECONOMICALLY AND POLITICALLY -- SO THAT IS WHAT HAS BEEN HAPPENING.

Q. YOU WANT TO GO BACK TO THE TALKS AT MANZANILLO? ANY POINT IN DOING THAT NOW?

A. NO, WHAT SHOULD HAPPEN IS THAT THE REGIONAL TALKS -- IT'S A REGIONAL PROBLEM--SHOULD RESUME AND RESUME IN GOOD FAITH AND THEY HAVE TO POINT TO THE CENTRAL PROBLEM WHICH ESSENTIALLY IS THE UNWILLINGNESS OF NICARAGUA TO DO THE SORTS OF THINGS THAT THEY HAVE REPEATEDLY SAID THEY WOULD DO ABOUT THEIR OWN GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE.

Q. LET ME DRAW YOUR ATTENTION FOR JUST A MOMENT IF I MAY ON THE IMPLICATIONS OF YOUR READING OF THE NICARAGUANS. DOES THAT INDICATE THAT WE ARE GOING TO HAVE TO PASS THROUGH SOME TOUGH MILITARY TESTS BEFORE THAT SITUATION CHANGES, BEFORE THEY GET OFF THE DIME?

A. WELL, PEOPLE IN NICARAGUA HAVE BEEN REACTING VERY NEGATIVELY TO WHAT THE COMMUNISTS IN NICARAGUA ARE DOING. AND SO THAT'S WHERE THE OPPOSITION IS COMING FROM. WHETHER IT IS ARMED OPPOSITION OR OTHER. THAT'S WHERE THE OPPOSITION OF THE CHURCH IS COMING FROM. THAT IS WHAT THE PRESS IS REACTING TO AS IT IS INCREASINGLY RESTRICTED. THAT'S WHAT THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY IS REACTING TO AND THAT'S WHAT THE PEOPLE OUT IN THE COUNTRYSIDE, THE INDIANS AND SO FORTH ARE REACTING TO.

Q. THE OTHER DAY FOR THE FIRST TIME, THOUGH, THE CONTADORA GROUP SPECIFICALLY ASKED THE UNITED STATES TO

RETURN TO TALKS WITH NICARAGUA. ARE YOU SAYING THAT IS NOT ON?

A. WE THINK WHAT SHOULD HAPPEN IS THAT THE CONTADORA TALKS SHOULD RESUME. WHEN LAST HEARD FROM THE NICARAGUANS WERE TRYING TO USE BILATERAL TALKS WITH US TO UNDERMINE THE CONTADORA PROCESS. SO WE OBJECT TO THAT. AND THE PRESIDENT HAS STATED THAT IF THE NICARAGUANS ARE PREPARED TO UNDERTAKE A PROCESS OF INTERNAL RECONCILIATION IN CHURCH-SPONSORED TALKS AND IF IT SEEMS THAT A BILATERAL DISCUSSION CAN HELP IN BRINGING THAT

ABOUT, WELL WE ARE WILLING TO DO THAT BUT WE DON'T SEE ANY INDICATION THAT NICARAGUA IS MOVING IN THAT DIRECTION AND WE DON'T SEE THE RATIONALE FOR SAYING AS A REWARD FOR WALKING OFF OF THE JOB ON THE CONTADORA PROCESS, NICARAGUA SHOULD BE HANDED SOME OTHER KIND OF A FORUM. SO I GUESS THE ANSWER IS NO.

Q. MR. SECRETARY, DO YOU THINK THERE WILL BE A PEACEFUL TRANSITION IN BOLIVIA?

A. I CERTAINLY HOPE THERE WILL BE. BOLIVIA HAS ITS PROBLEMS OBVIOUSLY. IT HAS MANAGED TO HOLD AN ELECTION AND THE RESULTS I GUESS ARE NOT ALL IN BUT THE GENERAL STRUCTURE OF THAT RESULT IS KNOWN ABOUT AND WE WANT TO ENCOURAGE THAT KIND OF TRANSITION. BUT THE NEW GOVERNMENT HAS LOTS OF PROBLEMS TO COPE WITH SO THE MORE SECURELY IT CAN GET IN PLACE THE BETTER.

Q. ARE WE PREPARED TO HELP THE COUNTRY IF IT PROCEEDS ON A DEMOCRATIC PATH?

A. WELL, WE HAVE BEEN HELPING BOLIVIA QUITE IN TERMS OF OUR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE AND OTHERWISE AND WE WANT TO BE HELPFUL TO OUR FRIENDS EVERYWHERE IN LATIN AMERICA, AND

AND TO MEXICO AND OUR EFFORTS TO WORK ON THEM HAVE BEEN

THE MEXICANS -- THERE IS LOTS MORE TO DO.

Q. CAN I JUST TIDY UP TWO SORT OF TECHNICAL QUESTIONS ON THE SOUTH AFRICAN THING. DO YOU FAVOR SOME SORT OF HIGH-LEVEL DISCUSSIONS WITH THE SOUTH AFRICANS, EITHER IN THE U.S. OR SOUTH AFRICA OR AT SOME THIRD PLACE TO FLESH OUT WHAT'S GOING ON THERE AND ALLOW THEM TO PROBE AND FIND OUT WHAT THE ADMINISTRATION'S THINKING IS NOW THAT THERE IS NO AMBASSADOR HERE?

A. I DON'T WANT TO COMMENT ON ANY PARTICULAR FORMAT FOR HAVING DISCUSSIONS BUT OBVIOUSLY IF WE ARE GOING TO EXPRESS A POINT OF VIEW IN A DIRECT AND CAREFUL WAY YOU WANT TO DO IT DIRECTLY. SO WE WILL SEEK A WAY OF DOING THAT BUT I THINK THEY HAVE A VERY CLEAR VIEW OF OUR OWN DISAPPOINTMENT AT THE WAY THINGS HAVE BEEN GOING.

Q. AND THE OTHER TECHNICAL THING IS -- IS THE U.S. DELIBERATELY WITHHOLDING THE CREDENTIALS FROM THE SOUTH AFRICAN AMBASSADOR, THE NEW AMBASSADOR IN WASHINGTON, AS PART OF ITS EXPRESSION OF DISAPPOINTMENT OVER WHAT'S GOING ON.

A. I DON'T WANT TO COMMENT ON THAT. (END TEXT)

BUSINESS COMMUNITY AND LABOR UNIONS HAD GENERALLY SUPPORTED THE MEASURES BUT LEFTIST POLITICAL PARTIES HAD BEEN CRITICAL. HE FELT THAT A MAJOR PROBLEM NOW WAS UNCERTAINTY AMONG THE LABOR UNIONS OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES WHICH WILL PERSIST UNTIL THE GOVERNMENT DECIDES HOW IT WILL HANDLE THE CUTBACK IN THE PUBLIC SECTOR WORK FORCE. HE NOTED THAT THOSE PEOPLE WHO ARE FIRED WILL BE PAID 20 DAYS OF SALARY FOR EACH YEAR THEY HAVE BEEN EMPLOYED IN THE GOVERNMENT. MOREOVER, THE BUDGETARY SAVINGS FROM THIS ACTION WILL NOT APPEAR IMMEDIATELY BUT WILL BEGIN TO SHOW UP IN 1986 AND 1987. HE ADDED THAT AN IMPORTANT IMPACT OF THE ACTION WILL BE THE STRUCTURAL CHANGES IT REPRESENTS FOR THE FUTURE.

9. SILVA-HERZOG MENTIONED THAT WITHIN THE NEXT TWO WEEKS HE WILL ANNOUNCE 10 MERGERS OF LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS IN THE COUNTRY AND THIS WILL REPRESENT AN IMPORTANT SAVINGS FOR THE GOVERNMENT. HE ALSO OBSERVED THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD BEEN ABLE TO SELL SOME OF THE PARASTATAL COMPANIES WHICH WERE PUT ON SALE LAST APRIL.

10. SHULTZ ASKED ABOUT THE STATUS OF THE PRIVATE COMPANIES WHICH WERE OWNED BY MEXICAN COMMERCIAL BANKS AT THE TIME THEY WERE NATIONALIZED IN 1982. SILVA-HERZOG REPLIED THAT 98 PERCENT OF THESE COMPANIES HAD BEEN SOLD BACK TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR.

11. RETURNING TO THE SUBJECT OF PARASTATALS, ESPINOSA DE LOS REYES OBSERVED THAT IN SOME CASES THEY HAD BEEN NATIONALIZED TO INSURE THAT EMPLOYEES WOULD NOT BE LAID OFF. SILVA-HERZOG AGREED BUT NOTED THAT THIS HAD BECOME TOO LARGE A DRAIN ON PUBLIC FINANCES AND THAT IT DID NOT MAKE SENSE FOR THE GOVERNMENT TO BE INVOLVED IN INDUSTRIES LIKE BICYCLES AND MINERAL WATER. THE GOM WILL NOW BE SELLING 38 MORE PARASTATAL COMPANIES THROUGH THE BANKS AND ADDITIONAL SALES WILL BE ANNOUNCED NEXT WEEK.

12. IN RESPONSE TO A QUESTION FROM DAVID MULFORD ON HOW THE GOVERNMENT VALUED THESE COMPANIES, SILVA-HERZOG RESPONDED THAT THE BANKS WERE SETTING THE PRICES. IN THE PAST THE PRICE OF SOME PARASTATALS HAD BEEN SET TOO HIGH BECAUSE OF THE SIZE OF THE GOVERNMENT INVESTMENT IN THEM AND THIS HAD IMPEDED THEIR SALE. NOW THEY MIGHT BE SOLD AT A LOSS. SHULTZ OBSERVED THAT AT LEAST SUCH

UNCLASSIFIED

SALES WOULD REPRESENT A POSITIVE CASH FLOW FOR THE GOVERNMENT AND THAT THE COMPANIES WOULD NOT BE A BUDGETARY DRAIN IN THE FUTURE. SILVA-HERZOG STATED THAT THE GOVERNMENT OWNED SOME HOTELS IN CANCUN AND IXTAPA BECAUSE THEY HAD NOT BEEN ABLE TO INDUCE PRIVATE FIRMS TO BUILD ENOUGH HOTELS ONCE THE GOVERNMENT HAD ESTABLISHED THE INFRASTRUCTURE IN THESE TWO CITIES. HOWEVER, THE GOM NOW INTENDS TO SELL THESE HOTELS.

UNCLASSIFIED

13. BERNARD KALB ASKED WHETHER EMPLOYEES WERE ALLOWED TO BUY THE PARASTATAL COMPANIES. SILVA-HERZOG SAID THAT IN SOME CASES THEY WERE BUT SO FAR THIS HAD NOT BEEN VERY SUCCESSFUL. OFTEN THE EMPLOYEES WANTED TO MANAGE THE COMPANIES RATHER THAN HIRE PROFESSIONAL MANAGERS AND THIS HAD NOT WORKED OUT.

14. SECRETARY SHULTZ THEN TURNED THE DISCUSSION TO A COMPREHENSIVE OVERVIEW OF INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC PROBLEMS. THE FIRST POINT THAT HE EMPHASIZED IS THE NEED FOR COUNTRIES TO RECOGNIZE THAT FINDING SOLUTIONS TO THEIR ECONOMIC PROBLEMS IS PRIMARILY THEIR OWN RESPONSIBILITY. FURTHERMORE, AUSTERITY CANNOT BE VIEWED AS THE PRIMARY SOLUTION BUT RATHER MORE OPEN ECONOMIES AND MARKET ORIENTED POLICIES ARE ESSENTIAL TO CREATE THE NECESSARY POSITIVE ATMOSPHERE. SHULTZ SAID HE HAD EMPHASIZED WITH PRESIDENT DE LA MADRID THAT THE LEADERS IN THE BONN ECONOMIC SUMMIT HAD MADE STATEMENTS VERY MUCH ALONG THESE SAME LINES. HE FURTHER POINTED OUT THAT SUCH A POLICY CERTAINLY APPLIES TO THE UNITED STATES WITH REGARD TO THE FISCAL DEFICIT. MOREOVER, THE UNITED STATES AND OTHER COUNTRIES MUST RECOGNIZE THAT THE BETTER WE ADDRESS OUR INDIVIDUAL PROBLEMS THE BETTER OFF OTHER COUNTRIES IN THE WORLD WILL BE.

15. A SECOND THEME WHICH SHULTZ EMPHASIZED WAS THAT EFFORTS TO REVISE THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY SYSTEM TO PROMOTE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ARE MISGUIDED. MOREOVER, THEY REPRESENT A MISUNDERSTANDING OF THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY SYSTEM WHICH IS, PUT MOST SIMPLY, THE WAY THAT

THE CURRENCIES OF COUNTRIES ARE LINKED TOGETHER. REGARDLESS OF THE WAY THIS TAKES PLACE--THROUGH FIXED, FLOATING, PEGGED OR REGULATED FLOATING EXCHANGE RATES--IN THE END THE CURRENCY VALUES WILL BE DETERMINED BY REAL ECONOMIC ACTIVITY AND INFLATION RATES IN THE INDIVIDUAL COUNTRIES.

16. SHULTZ ALSO STRESSED THAT THE MONETARY SYSTEM SHOULD NOT BE VIEWED AS A SOURCE OF AID. FOR EXAMPLE, IF THE SDR WERE TO BE USED FOR THIS PURPOSE IT WOULD SIMPLY DEBASE IT. FURTHERMORE, COUNTRIES WHICH WANT TO USE THE MONETARY SYSTEM AS A FORM OF AID IN ORDER TO ESCAPE CONGRESSIONAL PRESSURE ARE REALLY ADVOCATING A MISUSE OF THE SYSTEM. THE MONETARY SYSTEM WORKS QUITE WELL AS IT IS AND THE QUESTION OF CONCESSIONAL AID SHOULD BE ADDRESSED ELSEWHERE, PARTICULARLY IN THE BILATERAL AND MULTILATERAL AID INSTITUTIONS. ISSUES SUCH AS THE SIZE AND DISTRIBUTION OF IDA RESOURCES IS A QUESTION FOR DEBATE AMONG THE MEMBER COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD BANK.

17. SHULTZ WENT ON TO SAY THAT CHANGES IN THE MONETARY SYSTEM WOULD NOT RESOLVE THE DEBT PROBLEM EITHER. THE APPROACH USED OVER THE PAST FEW YEARS HAS BEEN THAT ONCE A COUNTRY REACHES A POINT WHERE IT CAN NO LONGER SERVICE ITS DEBT OBLIGATIONS IT TURNS TO DEBT

RESCHEDULING. IT HAS BEEN IMPORTANT TO ADAPT EACH OF THESE RESCHEDULING EFFORTS TO THE CONDITIONS OF THE COUNTRY INVOLVED. FURTHERMORE, CONDITIONALITY IN EXCHANGE FOR THE RESCHEDULINGS HAS BEEN NECESSARY IN ORDER TO TRY TO ADJUST THE ECONOMIES SO THAT EVENTUALLY

THEY WILL BE ABLE TO ENJOY MORE HEALTHY GROWTH. SUCH GROWTH IS NECESSARY IN ORDER TO INSURE THAT THE COUNTRY WILL BE ABLE TO PAY ITS DEBT.

UNCLASSIFIED

18. SHULTZ OBSERVED THAT MEXICO HAD HAD AN IMPORTANT ROLE AS A LEADING COUNTRY IN THE RESCHEDULING PROCESS, DOING IT THE RIGHT WAY, AND HELPING TO REAFFIRM THE IDEA THAT DEBTS MUST BE REPAID. HE STATED THAT THE STRATEGY OF ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT TO DEAL WITH THE DEBT ISSUES HAD BEEN GOOD BUT THAT ON-GOING REVIEW IS NECESSARY. THE GREATEST PROBLEM IS THAT EMPHASIS HAS BEEN GIVEN TO BEL
T
TIGHTENING AND AUSTERITY MEASURES WHICH HAVE LED TO A DECLINE IN REAL INCOME. THE POLITICAL PROCESS IN THE DEBTOR COUNTRIES CANNOT WITHSTAND THIS INDEFINITELY. MOREOVER, ECONOMIC AUSTERITY IS NOT GOOD FOR PAYING OFF DEBTS. ONE OF THE REASONS THE SYSTEM HAS WORKED SO FAR IS THE VERY HIGH RATE OF GROWTH OF THE U.S. ECONOMY AND OUR LARGE TRADE DEFICIT WHICH HAS ALLOWED COUNTRIES TO RAPIDLY EXPAND THEIR EXPORTS TO THE UNITED STATES. HOWEVER, THIS IS NOT SUSTAINABLE AND IT IS IMPORTANT THAT ADJUSTMENT MEASURES NOW BE COMPLEMENTED BY ECONOMIC GROWTH MEASURES.

19. THE ISSUE THEN IS HOW THE COUNTRIES INVOLVED SHOULD GO ABOUT THIS. THEY MUST TRY TO DETERMINE WHICH COMBINATION OF FINANCING MEASURES--COMMERCIAL BANK LENDING, AID, DOMESTIC SAVINGS, REPATRIATION OF CAPITAL, ETC.--IS BEST TO MEET THEIR OWN INDIVIDUAL CIRCUMSTANCES.

FOR EXAMPLE, IN MEXICO $40-50 BILLION WHICH HAS LEFT THE COUNTRY COULD BE BROUGHT BACK UNDER THE RIGHT CIRCUMSTANCES.

20. IN ADDITION, COUNTRIES MUST FOCUS ON PROBLEMS WHICH COULD REPRESENT A BACKWARD STEP FOR THE INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM. CURRENTLY PROTECTIONISM IS A PARTICULARLY PROMINENT DANGER. THIS IS ONE OF THE REASONS WHY THE U.S. HAS PRESSED FOR A NEW INTERNATIONAL ROUND OF TRADE NEGOTIATIONS AND WHY WE CONTINUE TO EMPHASIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE GATT. WE WANT TO FOCUS ON AREAS WHICH WILL HELP KEEP OUR ECONOMIES OPEN RATHER THAN CLOSING THEM.

21. SHULTZ ADDED THAT INDIVIDUAL COUNTRIES CANNOT RESOLVE THESE ISSUES BY THEMSELVES BECAUSE OF LARGE AND COMPLEX INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC RELATIONSHIPS. THUS INTERNATIONAL DISCUSSIONS ARE NECESSARY AND THE MOST CRITICAL ISSUE TO BE DECIDED BEFOREHAND IS THE CONTENT OF THESE MEETINGS. TOO OFTEN THE CONTENT IS NOT WELL THOUGHT OUT BEFOREHAND AND THE MEETINGS TURN OUT TO BE A WASTE OF TIME.

UNCLASSIFIED

22. SHULTZ OBSERVED THAT JAPAN WOULD HAVE A PARTICULARLY IMPORTANT ROLE IN RESOLVING SOME CURRENT INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC PROBLEMS. ITS ECONOMY HAD ORGANIZED ITSELF SO THAT DOMESTIC SAVINGS GREATLY EXCEEDED INVESTMENT, MEANING THAT EXPORTS MUST BE LARGER THAN IMPORTS. UNLESS JAPAN IS WILLING TO CHANGE THIS APPROACH IT COULD BREAK DOWN THE INTERNATIONAL TRADING SYSTEM. THE SAME THING MIGHT BE SAID FOR THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY, WHICH IS DOING

THE WORLD A DISSERVICE WITH ITS AGRICULTURAL POLICIES. SUGAR SUBSIDIES REPRESENT A GOOD CASE IN POINT. COUNTRIES LIKE THE PHILIPPINES ARE HEAVILY DEPENDENT ON SUGAR PRODUCTION BUT THEIR INDUSTRIES HAVE BEEN WIPED OUT BY EUROPEAN COUNTRIES EVEN THOUGH THE LATTER HAVE NO COMPARATIVE ADVANTAGE. THIS HELPS SET THE STAGE FOR COMMUNIST INSURGENCIES.

23. SHULTZ AGAIN STRESSED THAT POOR COUNTRIES WHICH WANT TO DEVELOP MUST MAKE GREATER EFFORTS TO OPEN THEIR ECONOMIES. BRAZIL IS A GOOD EXAMPLE. EVEN THOUGH IT HAS BEEN ABLE TO INCREASE EXPORTS AT A RAPID PACE, THE HIGH LEVEL OF PROTECTION IN THE COUNTRY STILL MEANS THAT IT IS AN INEFFICIENT ECONOMY. FURTHERMORE, THE CRUZEIRO

SHOULD BE AN INTERNATIONAL CURRENCY BUT IT ISN'T.

24. WHAT IS DESIRABLE, THEN, IS AN EXCHANGE OF COMMITMENTS ON AN INTERNATIONAL LEVEL. WE NEED CREATIVE EFFORTS TO ADDRESS THESE PROBLEMS. ASSISTANT SECRETARY MULFORD HAS BEEN DOING SOME WORK ALONG THESE LINES AND IT IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT FOR GOVERNMENTS TO DO SO SINCE THIS IS NOT A TASK THAT PRIVATE ENTERPRISE CAN UNDERTAKE.

"LIBRARY GROUP". THIS GROUP CONSISTED OF HIGH LEVEL OFFICIALS FROM GERMANY, GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE AND THE UNITED STATES WITH JAPAN BEING ADDED SUBSEQUENTLY. IT IS NOW CALLED THE G-5. SEPULVEDA SUGGESTED THAT THE FORMATION OF ANOTHER SMALL GROUP, NOT NECESSARILY OF THE SAME COUNTRIES, COULD BE USEFUL IN ADDRESSING WORLD ECONOMIC PROBLEMS. HERNANDEZ ADDED THAT THE TRADE MINISTERS WERE ALREADY DOING THIS IN MEETINGS WHICH CONSISTED OF ABOUT 20 PEOPLE. HE THOUGHT THAT IT WOULD BE A GOOD IDEA TO GET TRADE AND FINANCE MINISTERS TOGETHER TO LOOK AT GLOBAL ECONOMIC PROBLEMS, INCLUDING DEBT AND TRADE.

27. SHULTZ OBSERVED THAT THE PRESSING NATURE OF THE DEBT PROBLEM IN SOME CASES HAD LED COUNTRIES TO FOCUS ON THE WRONG ISSUE. IN THE CASE OF AFRICA, FOR EXAMPLE, THE ISSUE IS HOW TO PROMOTE GROWTH BUT PREOCCUPATION WITH DEBT HAS SIDETRACKED SOME OF THESE COUNTRIES.

Re: Possible Crimes Committed by Contras

The following is a partial list of possible crimes committed by the contras and/or by their American supporters, as suggested by the information uncovered in the investigation to date:

A. Violations of the Neutrality Act and other prohibitions on direct citizen involvement in the affairs of other nations.

B. Drug trafficking in the United States.

C. Export of firearms and munitions from the United States.

D. Currency violations during travel to and from the United States.

E. Recurring violations of the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

F. Violations of the Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act, and ongoing criminal enterprises by the contras.

G. Fraud in the disposition of US government and private funds intended for humanitarian aid to the contras.

H. Recurring passport fraud.

I. Conspiracy to commit murder; attempted murder; murder.

There are a number of separate, but related, groups and incidents involved in these crimes. They include the following allegations:

1. A conspiracy by contras and their American supporters to murder Eden Pastora, with the apparent knowledge, approval and participation of the leadership of the FDN and their American supporters.

2. A conspiracy by contras and their American supporters to murder Ambassador Tambs in August, 1985.

3. The murder of Hull's driver, "David," on the Hull farm.

4. The murder of Dr. Hugo Spadafora by contras engaged in drug smuggling in Costa Rica.

5. A conspiracy by contras and their American supporters to blow up the American embassy in San Jose, Costa Rica and to blame it on the Sandinistas, in August 1985.

6. An on-going drug smuggling operation connecting Columbia, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, and the United States, in which contras and American supporters, with the apparent knowledge of the contra leadership, handled the transport of cocaine produced in Columbia, shipped to Costa Rica, process in the region, transported to airstrips controlled by American supporters of the contras and contras, and distributed in the U.S.

Allegations have also surfaced regarding other drug smuggling operations involving shrimp boats operating out of Texas, Louisiana, and Florida.

7. On-going weapons smuggling operations engaged in by members of Civilian Military Assistance Group and others involved in private assistance to the contras.

8. On-going weapons smuggling operations engaged in by members of and persons associated with Brigade 2506 in Miami, Florida.

9. A variety of incidents taking place in California, Texas, Louisiana, and Florida suggesting that funds raised by FDN leadership, including the Caleros, have not been used for the purposes for which they were intended, and indicating massive corruption by the FDN leadership. Some of these incidents suggest skimming of funds, other diversion of goods intended for contra troops and resale to other markets.

10. Information suggesting that some of the $27 million appropriated for humanitarian aid may have been handled fraudulently, with false documentation provided to the U.S. government.

11. Clear evidence of currency and passport violations, based on interviews with persons directly involved in private assistance to the contras and with the contra leadership.

SUBJECT: USE OF CREDIT BY THE PUBLIC SECTOR DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR

1. (U) THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION WAS TAKEN FROM VARIOUS NEWSPAPER ACCOUNTS IN "EL FINANCIERO". WHILE WE CANNOT BE SURE THAT THEY ARE TOTALLY ACCURATE, THEY DO INDICATE THAT THE GOVERNMENT ABSORBED MOST OF THE CREDIT RESOURCES AVAILABLE IN THE ECONOMY DURING THE FIRST HALF OF 1985.

-- BETWEEN JANUARY AND APRIL 81 PERCENT OF THE TOTAL RESOURCES AVAILABLE FOR INTERNAL FINANCING (I.E., THROUGH THE COMMERCIAL AND DEVELOPMENT BANKS AND THE ISSUANCE OF TREASURY BILLS) WAS CHANNELED TO THE PUBLIC SECTOR.

-- DEPOSITS IN THE BANKING SYSTEM INCREASED BY ONLY 17 PERCENT DURING THE FIRST HALF OF 1985 COMPARED TO THE FIRST HALF OF 1984. THIS REPRESENTED A DECLINE IN REAL TERMS OF ABOUT 25 PERCENT. COMPARABLE FIGURES FOR THE PURCHASE OF TREASURY BONDS SHOW A 350 PERCENT NOMINAL INCREASE (A REAL INCREASE OF ALMOST 300 PERCENT) BETWEEN THE TWO PERIODS.

-- BETWEEN END-DECEMBER 1984 AND END-JUNE 1985 PUBLIC SECTOR INTERNAL DEBT INCREASED FROM 5.6 TRILLION PESOS TO 7 TRILLION PESOS, A RISE OF 30 PERCENT.

-- INTEREST PAYMENTS ON MEXICO'S INTERNAL DEBT WILL BE AT LEAST 1 TRILLION PESOS HIGHER THAN ORIGINALLY PROGRAMMED. THIS IS A VERY LARGE FIGURE, EQUIVALENT TO ABOUT 2 PERCENT OF GDP.

-- NEW FINANCIAL REGULATIONS WILL MEAN THAT BETWEEN JULY AND SEPTEMBER 1985 A MAXIMUM OF ONLY 10 PERCENT OF THE RESOURCES AVAILABLE FOR LENDING IN THE BANKING SYSTEM WILL BE AVAILABLE FOR LOANS TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR.

2. (C) EMBASSY COMMENT. WE REMAIN CONCERNED THAT THE GOVERNMENT WILL CONTINUE TO ABSORB THE BULK OF FINANCIAL RESOURCES AVAILABLE IN THE ECONOMY DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. WHILE THE AUTHORITIES HAVE TAKEN STEPS TO CUT THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, SO FAR THESE STEPS HAVE NOT BEEN STRONG ENOUGH TO GREATLY DIMINISH THE PUBLIC SECTOR'S DEMAND FOR CREDIT. MOREOVER, THE SEVERE LIMITATIONS ON LENDING TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR NOW IN EFFECT WILL TEND TO SERIOUSLY LIMIT PRIVATE SECTOR ACTIVITY DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. IT NOW SEEMS LIKELY THAT THE GOVERNMENT WILL GENERATE A PUBLIC

SINCE THE MARDOQUEO CRUZ BATTALION OF THE METROPOLITAN FRONT (REGION 5) CLAIMED CREDIT, AND BECAUSE OF THE COMPARTMENTALIZED NATURE OF THE PRTC ORGANIZATION, WE DOUBT ARNULFO PLAYED A MAJOR, IF ANY, ROLE IN THE PLANNING. THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT THE CONTINUED KILLING AND CAPTURE OF THE LEADERSHIP OF THE 3-500 MEMBER PRTC IS HURTING THE ORGANIZATION. MOREOVER, THE ATTENDANT PUBLICITY SUGGESTING THESE SO-FAR-UNANSWERED DEATHS ARE RETRIBUTION FOR THE ZONA ROSA MASSACRE DOUBTLESSLY IS HAVING ITS EFFECT ON PRTC MORALE.

INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY

2. SINCE OUR MARCH COUNTRY ECONOMIC FORECAST THE OUTLOOK FOR THE MEXICAN ECONOMY HAS DETERIORATED. ALTHOUGH OVERALL GROWTH FOR THE YEAR IS STILL PROJECTED AT ABOUT 4 PERCENT, INFLATION WILL BE CLOSE TO 60 PERCENT, THE TRADE SURPLUS WILL BE MUCH LOWER THAN IN 1984, THE PUBLIC

INTERNATIONAL RESERVES WILL DECLINE CONSIDERABLY. THE WEAKNESS IN THE INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM MARKET AND THE SLOWDOWN IN THE RATE OF GROWTH IN THE U.S. ECONOMY HAVE ADDED TO MEXICO'S PROBLEMS. THE FALL IN INTERNATIONAL INTEREST RATES HAS BEEN ONE BRIGHT SPOT IN THE PICTURE. END SUMMARY.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

3. THE MEXICAN ECONOMY OVERHEATED DURING THE LAST QUARTER OF 1984 AND THE FIRST HALF OF 1985. REAL GROWTH DURING THIS PERIOD WAS ABOUT 7 PERCENT, FUELED BOTH BY PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING AND A STRONG RESURGENCE OF ACTIVITY IN THE INDUSTRIAL, COMMERCIAL, AND SERVICES SECTORS. INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT ALONE IS ESTIMATED TO HAVE INCREASED BY MORE THAN 12 PERCENT. NEARLY ALL OF THE RISE IN DOMESTIC PRODUCTION WAS CHANNELED TO MEET DOMESTIC DEMAND AS THE PERFORMANCE OF THE EXPORT SECTOR DETERIORATED SHARPLY. THE FOLLOWING TABLE SHOWS RECENT RATES OF GROWTH IN INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION.

PERCENT CHANGE IN INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT

	1983	1984	JAN-MAR 1984	JAN-MAR 1985
BASIC INDUSTRIES	-2.2	6.4	11.2	0.3
INTERMEDIATE GOODS	-0.1	5.9	7.1	8.9
FINAL CONSUMER GOODS	-17.5	7.6	-2.9	22.4
TOTAL INDUSTRIAL SECTOR	-8.2	6.9	4.0	12.2

4. THE RATE OF GROWTH OF THE ECONOMY APPEARS TO HAVE SLOWED SLIGHTLY DURING THE SECOND QUARTER OF THE YEAR AS THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT BEGAN TO IMPLEMENT BUDGET CUTS AND PRIVATE SECTOR ACTIVITY FELL OFF, IN PART BECAUSE OF RISING INTEREST RATES WHICH INCREASED CREDIT COSTS. THE AUTHORITIES HAVE TAKEN FISCAL AND MONETARY ACTIONS WHICH WILL DAMPEN THE RATE OF GROWTH DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. SO FAR THIS YEAR THE GOVERNMENT HAS ANNOUNCED PUBLIC SECTOR BUDGET CUTS TOTALING 700

[redacted]

BILLION PESOS (A REDUCTION OF ABOUT 3.3 PERCENT) AND FURTHER CUTS WILL PROBABLY BE ANNOUNCED BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR. THE BANK OF MEXICO HAS ALSO TAKEN ACTIONS TO FURTHER RESTRICT CREDIT AS DESCRIBED IN THE SECTION ON INFLATION AND THE MONEY SUPPLY.

5. IN GENERAL BUSINESSMEN AND ECONOMIC ANALYSTS ARE NOT OPTIMISTIC ABOUT MEXICO'S SHORT TO MEDIUM TERM PROSPECTS. THIS HAS BEEN REFLECTED OVER THE PAST FEW MONTHS IN A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL FLIGHT FROM THE COUNTRY. AT THE SAME TIME, NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS ARE DOWN BY ABOUT 15 PERCENT THROUGH JUNE AND WE DO NOT ANTICIPATE MUCH STRENGTHENING IN THESE EXPORTS DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR. AS IN OUR PREVIOUS FORECAST, WE EXPECT THE RATE OF GROWTH TO DECREASE IN EACH OF THE 4 QUARTERS OF 1985, STARTING AT ABOUT 7 PERCENT DURING THE FIRST 3 MONTHS OF THE YEAR AND ENDING AT ABOUT 1 PERCENT IN THE OCTOBER THROUGH DECEMBER PERIOD. FOR THE YEAR AS A WHOLE WE ARE PROJECTING THAT GDP WILL RISE BY ABOUT 4 PERCENT.

ADDITIONALLY, LIKE OTHER PRIVATE SECTORS IN THE ECONOMY, LARGE SCALE AND EFFICIENT FARMERS ARE LIKELY TO FACE A SERIOUS CREDIT CRUNCH OVER THE COMING YEAR. FINALLY, GIVEN THAT THE LAST TWO YEARS HAVE BEEN GOOD CROP YEARS THERE IS A SIGNIFICANT STATISTICAL PROBABILITY OF A DROUGHT OR MEDIOCRE PRODUCTION DURING 1986. (LONG TERM RAINFALL STATISTICS SHOW THAT 7 OUT OF EVERY 10 YEARS ARE DROUGHT OR MEDIOCRE YEARS.)

WAGES

8. REAL WAGES HAVE DECLINED IN EACH OF THE PAST THREE YEARS AND ONE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S TOP PRIORITIES FOR 1985 WAS TO INSURE SOME INCREASE IN PURCHASING POWER FOR MOST WORKERS. THIS GOAL IS NOT LIKELY TO BE ACHIEVED. IN JANUARY MINIMUM WAGES WERE INCREASED BY 30 PERCENT AND THIS WAS FOLLOWED IN JUNE BY AN ADDITIONAL HIKE OF 18 PERCENT. WE DO NOT EXPECT ANY FURTHER WAGE ADJUSTMENTS THIS YEAR SO THE CUMULATIVE INCREASE WILL BE ABOUT 53 PERCENT. GIVEN THAT INFLATION FOR THE YEAR IS PROJECTED AT ABOUT 60 PERCENT, IT APPEARS THAT MINIMUM WAGES WILL DECLINE AGAIN. MOST OTHER SALARY ADJUSTMENTS ARE LOOSELY TIED TO THE MINIMUM WAGE AND RECENTLY THOSE EARNING HIGHER SALARIES HAVE RECEIVED LOWER INCREASES THAN THOSE EARNING MINIMUM WAGES. THUS, THE EFFECT ON MIDDLE INCOME EARNERS HAS BEEN GREATER THAN ON THOSE AT THE LOWER INCOME END OF THE SCALE. MINIMUM WAGES IN MEXICO CITY ARE NOW 1,250 PESOS PER DAY (ABOUT U.S. $4.50 AT THE CONTROLLED EXCHANGE RATE AND U.S. $3.60 AT THE SUPER FREE RATE).

INVESTMENT

9. LEVELS OF INVESTMENT IN THE MEXICAN ECONOMY WERE HIGH DURING THE SECOND HALF OF 1984 AND THE FIRST HALF OF 1985. DURING 1984 OVERALL GROSS FIXED INVESTMENT INCREASED BY ABOUT 5.4 PERCENT, LED BY THE PRIVATE SECTOR WHERE THE RISE WAS NEARLY 9 PERCENT. HOWEVER, THIS FOLLOWED TWO YEARS OF SHARPLY DECLINING INVESTMENT AND THEREFORE THE INCREASE WAS NOT AS SIGNIFICANT

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

BECAUSE OF THE LOW BASE FROM WHICH THE GROWTH WAS CALCULATED. IN ADDITION TO RISING DOMESTIC DEMAND AN IMPORTANT REASON FOR THE IMPROVED PRIVATE SECTOR PERFORMANCE DURING 1984 WAS AN ATTRACTIVE TAX PROVISION WHICH ALLOWED COMPANIES TO DEPRECIATE 75 PERCENT OF CAPITAL ASSETS OBTAINED IN THAT YEAR. THAT FIGURE HAS BEEN REDUCED TO 50 PERCENT THIS YEAR AND WILL FALL TO 25 PERCENT IN 1986.

10. DURING 1985 THE RISE IN PRIVATE SECTOR INVESTMENT IS LIKELY TO BE SLIGHTLY MORE MODEST THAN LAST YEAR, BUT STILL QUITE STRONG. THE RISE IN PUBLIC SECTOR INVESTMENT MAY BE SIMILAR TO THAT OF LAST YEAR, ABOUT 1 PERCENT. THE GOVERNMENT'S CURRENT OUTLAYS REMAINED HIGH DURING THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR, IN PART TO HELP THE GOVERNMENT PARTY IN THE JULY MUNICIPAL, STATE AND CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS.

INFLATION AND MONEY SUPPLY

11. DURING 1984 THE RATE OF CONSUMER PRICE INFLATION WAS 59.2 PERCENT. THIS REPRESENTED A CONSIDERABLE IMPROVEMENT COMPARED TO 1982 AND 1983 WHEN THE FIGURES WERE 100

PERCENT AND 80 PERCENT RESPECTIVELY. HOWEVER, BEGINNING IN SEPTEMBER 1984 INFLATION BEGAN TO ACCELERATE AGAIN
AND BY JANUARY 1985 THE MONTHLY RATE HAD INCREASED TO 7.4 PERCENT. AFTER JANUARY IT PROGRESSIVELY DECLINED THROUGH JUNE WHEN THE FIGURE WAS ONLY 2.5 PERCENT. THE OVERALL RATE OF INFLATION FOR THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR WAS JUST UNDER 26 PERCENT.

12. THE OUTLOOK FOR INFLATION DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR IS NOT ENCOURAGING. IN JULY THE RATE SHOT UP TO

3.5 PERCENT. FURTHERMORE, THE RECENT SHARP DEVALUATIONS OF THE SUPER FREE AND CONTROLLED EXCHANGE RATES WILL MAKE IMPORTS MORE EXPENSIVE DURING THE REST OF 1985. PERHAPS MORE IMPORTANTLY IT WILL GIVE LOCAL PRODUCERS AN EXCUSE TO INCREASE PRICES EVEN IF THEIR PRODUCTS CONTAIN NO FOREIGN CONTENT. ADDITIONALLY, GOVERNMENT EFFORTS TO TRIM THE DEFICIT WILL PROBABLY MEAN FURTHER INCREASES IN PRICE CONTROLLED PRODUCTS BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR. THE JUNE WAGE ADJUSTMENTS WILL ALSO LIKELY PUSH PRICES UP OVER THE NEXT FEW MONTHS. ALL IN ALL, WE EXPECT THAT INFLATION IN THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR WILL BE ABOUT THE SAME AS IN THE FIRST HALF WHICH WOULD GIVE A CUMULATIVE TOTAL FOR THE YEAR OF JUST UNDER 60 PERCENT. THIS WOULD MEAN NO IMPROVEMENT OVER THE 1984 FIGURE.

13. THE BANK OF MEXICO HAS TRIED TO PURSUE A RESTRICTIVE MONETARY POLICY THIS YEAR AND THAT, COMBINED WITH HEAVY CREDIT DEMAND BY THE GOVERNMENT, HAS PUSHED INTEREST RATES UP SHARPLY DURING THE FIRST SEVEN MONTHS OF THE YEAR. THIS, TOO, HAS CONTRIBUTED TO INFLATIONARY PRESSURES. DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR THE GOVERNMENT HOPES TO KEEP THE MAJOR MONETARY AGGREGATES, M-1 AND THE MONETARY BASE, GROWING AT A RATE LESS THAN THAT OF INFLATION. SO FAR IN 1985 THE GROWTH OF M-1 HAS BEEN KEEPING PACE WITH THAT OF INFLATION WHILE THE MONETARY BASE HAS BEEN GROWING AT A SOMEWHAT SLOWER RATE. FOR THE YEAR ENDING IN APRIL THE MONETARY BASE GREW BY ONLY 40 PERCENT.

14. IN ADDITION, THE MONETARY AUTHORITIES HAVE ANNOUNCED FURTHER RESTRICTIONS ON COMMERCIAL BANK LENDING.

[redacted]

BEGINNING IN JULY THE BANKS WILL HAVE ONLY 10 PERCENT OF NEW DEPOSITS AVAILABLE FOR LENDING. THE REMAINING 90 PERCENT WILL BE CHANNELED TO THE BANK OF MEXICO, THE DEVELOPMENT BANKS, AND SPECIAL CREDIT FACILITIES FOR PRIORITY SECTORS. PRIOR TO THE END OF JUNE THE BANKS HAD 25 PERCENT OF ALL DEPOSITS FOR FREE LENDING. THE NEW MEASURE IS INTENDED TO ELIMINATE EXCESS LIQUIDITY IN THE ECONOMY AND WILL GREATLY RESTRICT THE AVAILABILITY OF CREDIT TO THE PRIVATE SECTOR.

15. NEW LEGISLATION GOVERNING THE FINANCIAL SECTOR

UNCLASSIFIED

ENACTED AT THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR PUT STRICT LIMITS ON THE AMOUNT OF PRIMARY CREDIT THAT THE BANK OF MEXICO CAN PROVIDE TO THE PUBLIC SECTOR. AS A CONSEQUENCE, MUCH OF THE FINANCING OF THE DEFICIT HAS BEEN DONE THROUGH THE SALE OF TREASURY BONDS AND THE GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN CROWDING OUT OTHER BORROWERS FROM THE MARKET. WE DO NOT EXPECT THE SITUATION TO CHANGE MUCH DURING THE SECOND HALF OF THE YEAR AND ANTICIPATE THAT INTEREST RATES WILL REMAIN HIGH (THE MOST RECENT ISSUE OF TREASURY BILLS OFFERED A 72 PERCENT INTEREST RATE) BOTH BECAUSE OF CONTINUED HIGH PUBLIC SECTOR DEMAND FOR CREDIT AND ON-GOING INFLATIONARY PRESSURES.

BALANCE OF PAYMENTS AND EXTERNAL BORROWING

16. MEXICO REGISTERED HEALTHY TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUSES OF $13.8 BILLION AND $4 BILLION, RESPECTIVELY, DURING 1984. HOWEVER, THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS SITUATION HAS DETERIORATED MARKEDLY THIS YEAR. THE TRADE SURPLUS FOR THE FIRST HALF OF THE YEAR IS $4 BILLION, DOWN BY 48 PERCENT COMPARED TO THE JANUARY-JUNE 1984 PERIOD. BOTH PETROLEUM AND NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS ARE OFF BY ABOUT 14 PERCENT WHILE IMPORTS HAVE CLIMBED BY 35 PERCENT.

ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL STATISTICS PRIVATE SECTOR IMPORTS
GREW BY 58.1 PERCENT WHILE PUBLIC SECTOR IMPORTS
ROSE BY ONLY 8.6 PERCENT.

17. ALTHOUGH THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT HAS RECENTLY ANNOUNCED A NEW TRADE LIBERALIZATION SCHEME UNDER WHICH TARIFFS WILL BE SUBSTITUTED FOR IMPORT LICENSES, WE DO NOT EXPECT IMPORTS TO GROW MUCH DURING THE SECOND HALF

RATE WILL MAKE IMPORTS MORE EXPENSIVE. FURTHERMORE, EVEN IF THERE IS A DEMAND FOR IMPORTS IT IS LIKELY THAT DECLINING EXPORTS AND FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES WILL FORCE THE AUTHORITIES TO KEEP THE LEVEL OF IMPORTS LOW IN ONE WAY OR ANOTHER.

18. ON THE EXPORT SIDE THE JULY DEVALUATION OF THE CONTROLLED RATE WILL HELP IN THE FUTURE. HOWEVER, THE IMPACT FOR THIS YEAR WILL BE LIMITED AND IT SHOULD BE FELT MORE IN 1986 AND BEYOND, PROVIDED THE AUTHORITIES DON'T ALLOW THE CONTROLLED RATE TO BECOME OVERVALUED. NONETHELESS, AS LONG AS EXPORTERS RECEIVE SIGNIFICANTLY FEWER PESOS THAN THEIR EXPORTS HAVE EARNED AT THE MARKET RATE OF EXCHANGE THIS WILL BE AN IMPORTANT DISINCENTIVE TO THE GROWTH OF NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS. FOR THE YEAR AS A WHOLE WE BELIEVE THAT BOTH PETROLEUM AND MANUFACTURED EXPORTS WILL BE DOWN WITH THE FORMER FALLING BY ABOUT 10 PERCENT AND THE LATTER BY ABOUT 5 PERCENT. SO FAR THE PRICE AND VOLUME DECLINES OF MEXICAN PETROLEUM EXPORTS WILL MEAN $1.8-$2 BILLION LESS IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE EARNINGS FOR THE COUNTRY IN 1985.

19. WE DO NOT EXPECT MUCH IF ANY INCREASE IN MEXICO'S PUBLIC SECTOR EXTERNAL BORROWING THIS YEAR. THE CEILING ON SUCH BORROWING UNDER MEXICO'S AGREEMENT WITH THE IMF IS $1 BILLION AND MEXICO WILL EASILY BE ABLE TO MEET THAT TARGET. IN FACT, SOME GOVERNMENT ECONOMISTS MAINTAIN THAT PUBLIC SECTOR NET NEW BORROWING THIS YEAR COULD ACTUALLY BE NEGATIVE.

20. MEXICO HAS NOW NEARLY COMPLETED AGREEMENTS WITH ITS [redacted]

COMMERCIAL BANK CREDITORS TO RESCHEDULE SLIGHTLY MORE THAN $48 BILLION IN EXTERNAL DEBT. IN MARCH 1985 IT FINALIZED AN ACCORD TO RESCHEDULE $28 BILLION TO BE REPAID OVER A 14 YEAR PERIOD AT INTEREST RATES RANGING FROM 7/8 OF 1 PERCENT TO 1.125 PERCENT OVER LIBOR. AGREEMENTS ON THE REMAINING $20 BILLION ARE EXPECTED TO BE SIGNED BY THE END OF AUGUST 1985.

21. MEXICO'S INTERNATIONAL RESERVE POSITION HAS PROGRESSIVELY DETERIORATED SINCE NOVEMBER 1984. AT THE END OF THAT MONTH GROSS INTERNATIONAL RESERVES STOOD

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

AT $8.9 BILLION. IN MID JULY 1985 THEY HAD FALLEN TO $6.2 BILLION. MAJOR CONTRIBUTING FACTORS WERE THE DECLINING BALANCE OF PAYMENTS TRADE SURPLUS AND A MARKED INCREASE IN CAPITAL FLIGHT.

22. THESE NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS WERE SPURRED, IN PART, BY THE ON-GOING REAL APPRECIATION OF THE CONTROLLED AND MARKET EXCHANGE RATES. ON AVERAGE THEY APPRECIATED BY ABOUT 15 PERCENT IN REAL TERMS LAST YEAR. BETWEEN JANUARY AND JUNE 1985 INFLATION IN MEXICO WAS ABOUT 26 PERCENT, COMPARED TO A WEIGHTED AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 3 PERCENT FOR MEXICO'S MAJOR TRADING PARTNERS. OVER THE SAME PERIOD THESE TWO RATES WERE EACH DEVALUED BY ABOUT 15 PERCENT. THUS, THE PESO APPRECIATED BY ABOUT 6 PERCENT IN REAL TERMS.

23. AS A RESULT OF A GROWING DISPARITY BETWEEN THE OFFSHORE RATE AND THESE TWO EXCHANGE RATES (WHICH IN EARLY JULY EXCEEDED 60 PERCENT FOR THE CONTROLLED RATE), ON JULY 11 THE GOVERNMENT DECIDED TO ELIMINATE THE MARKET RATE AND SUBSTITUTE THE SO-CALLED SUPER FREE RATE IN ITS PLACE. THIS RATE PERTAINS TO SUCH BALANCE OF PAYMENTS CATEGORIES AS TOURISM, FRONTIER TRANSACTIONS, AND WORKERS REMITTANCES. IN TOTAL THESE ACCOUNT FOR ABOUT 20 PERCENT OF THE COUNTRY'S FOREIGN EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS.

THE SUPER FREE RATE IS INTENDED TO PARALLEL THE OFFSHORE

RECENTLY BEEN AUTHORIZED TO OPEN EXCHANGE HOUSES IN MEXICO IN AN EFFORT TO STEM THE MOVEMENT OF FOREIGN

24. ON JULY 24 THE CONTROLLED EXCHANGE RATE WAS DEVALUED

PAGE 02 MEXICO 16652 05 OF 07 122359Z

FROM 233 TO 280 PESOS PER DOLLAR. CURRENTLY THE SUPER FREE RATE IS ABOUT 345 PESOS WHILE THE CONTROLLED RATE

[redacted]

IS 282 PESOS, A DIFFERENCE OF SLIGHTLY MORE THAN 20 PERCENT. THE GOM OBJECTIVE IS TO BRING THESE RATES CLOSER TOGETHER OVER THE REST OF THE YEAR AND EVENTUALLY TO UNIFY THEM. WITH THE DEVALUATION MOST ANALYSTS NOW BELIEVE THAT THE CONTROLLED RATE PESO IS SOMEWHAT UNDERVALUED (AT LEAST ON A PURCHASING POWER PARITY BASIS).

25. THEORETICALLY, THE SUPER FREE RATE WILL NOW BE DETERMINED THROUGH MARKET FORCES. THE CONTROLLED RATE, ON THE OTHER HAND, WILL NO LONGER BE DEVALUED BY 21 CENTAVOS A DAY BUT RATHER THE BANK OF MEXICO, WORKING WITH THE MAJOR COMMERCIAL BANKS, WILL ADJUST THE RATE ON A DAILY BASIS DEPENDING UPON SUCH FACTORS AS RELATIVE INFLATION RATES, INTERNATIONAL RESERVE LEVELS, AND DEVELOPMENTS IN THE TRADE AND CAPITAL ACCOUNTS OF THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS. WE INTERPRET THIS TO MEAN THAT THE AUTHORITIES WILL NOW BE MORE OPENLY MANIPULATING THE CONTROLLED RATE THROUGH INTERVENTION IN THE MARKETS.

OUTLOOK

26. SO FAR 1985 HAS NOT BEEN A GOOD YEAR FOR MEXICO IN TERMS OF FURTHERING THE GOALS OF ITS ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM. IT APPEARS THAT THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT WILL BE SOMEWHAT LARGER THAN IT WAS LAST YEAR, NO PROGRESS WILL BE MADE IN REDUCING INFLATION, THE COUNTRY'S EXPORTS WILL FALL OFF CONSIDERABLY, AND INTERNATIONAL RESERVES WILL DECLINE. DURING THE FIRST PART OF THE YEAR THE ECONOMY HAS BEEN GROWING TOO RAPIDLY AND THE GOVERNMENT MUST NOW TAKE ECONOMIC RETRENCHMENT STEPS. THIS WILL BE [redacted]

VERY DIFFICULT TO DO WITHOUT RISKING ANOTHER RECESSION. ON THE OTHER HAND, THE FACT THAT THE JULY ELECTIONS ARE NOW OVER SHOULD HELP TO REDUCE PRESSURES TO KEEP PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING HIGH. MOREOVER, THE SOCIAL SITUATION APPEARS TO BE FAIRLY STABLE AND THIS COULD HELP THE AUTHORITIES TO FOLLOW THROUGH WITH STEPS TO SLOW THE ECONOMY AND PROMOTE EXPORTS IF THEY SO DESIRE.

27. THE FACT THAT SINCE SEPTEMBER 1984 THE COUNTRY HAS NOT CONTINUED WITH THE STRONG ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM WHICH IT BEGAN IN 1982 HAS MADE MEXICO MORE VULNERABLE [redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

TO ADVERSE EXOGENOUS DEVELOPMENTS. FALLING PETROLEUM PRICES HAVE HAD AN IMPORTANT BALANCE OF PAYMENTS AND FISCAL IMPACT ALTHOUGH SO FAR THE EFFECTS HAVE BEEN MANAGEABLE. SHOULD PRICES DECLINE BY ANOTHER $3-4 A BARREL OVER THE NEXT 6-12 MONTHS IT COULD MEAN MUCH MORE SERIOUS PROBLEMS FOR THE COUNTRY. THE SLOWDOWN IN THE RATE OF GROWTH IN THE U.S. ECONOMY, MEXICO'S MAJOR MARKET, IS ALSO A CAUSE FOR CONCERN. THE AUTHORITIES SEEM TO BE PARTICULARLY WORRIED ABOUT THE RISING PROTECTIONIST SENTIMENT IN THE U.S. CONGRESS. EVEN WITHOUT ANY NEW TRADE BARRIERS MEXICO'S TRADE SURPLUS WITH THE U.S. WILL FALL BY AT LEAST $2-3 BILLION THIS YEAR.

28. SO FAR THE SHARP DECLINE IN INTERNATIONAL INTEREST RATES IN LATE 1984 AND THE FIRST HALF OF 1985 HAS HELPED TO OFFSET THESE TWO PROBLEMS BUT SHOULD THEY BEGIN TO RISE AGAIN THIS WOULD PUT EVEN MORE PRESSURE ON THE COUNTRY. EVEN WITH THE FAVORABLE INTEREST RATE SITUATION, HOWEVER, MEXICO'S FOREIGN EXCHANGE RESERVES HAVE FALLEN OFF BY $2 BILLION SO FAR THIS YEAR.

29. PERHAPS THE MOST SERIOUS CHALLENGE FACING THE AUTHORITIES IS TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE IN THE MANAGEMENT

OF THE ECONOMY. THE GOM HAS RECENTLY TAKEN ACTION WITH REGARD TO EXCHANGE RATES, OPENING THE ECONOMY BY SUBSTITUTING TARIFFS FOR IMPORT LICENSES, AND MAKING
FURTHER CUTS IN PUBLIC SECTOR SPENDING. THE PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL STATE OF THE NATION ADDRESS ON SEPTEMBER 1 COULD BE A KEY INDICATOR AS TO WHAT FURTHER STEPS THE

TRACK. BASICALLY WHAT IS NEEDED IS AN UNBENDING RESOLVE

REDUCE THE RATE OF INFLATION, AND INCREASE THE RATIO OF NON-PETROLEUM EXPORTS TO GDP. COL. REYNALDO LOPEZ NUILA, VICE MINISTER OF DEFENSE FOR PUBLIC SECURITY, PERMITTED THE INTERVIEW ON THE CONDITION THAT THE QUESTIONS CONCERNED ONLY THE JUNE 19 MASSACRE BY THE PRTC OF FOUR U.S. MARINES AND NINE CIVILIANS IN SAN SALVADOR'S "ZONA ROSA" RESTAURANT/BAR DISTRICT.

2. BEGIN EXCERPT:

Q. WE HAVE ASKED YOU BEFORE BUT WHAT IS YOUR OPINION ABOUT THE EVENTS AT THE ZONA ROSA?

A. LAST TIME I ALSO TOLD YOU THAT THAT WHICH OCCURRED IN THE ZONA ROSA IS THE PRODUCT OF SIX YEARS OF U.S. MEDDLING. THE U.S. HAS FOR ALMOST SIX YEARS BEEN INCREASINGLY INTERVENING IN THE INTERNAL POLITICS OF THE COUNTRY. NOT ONLY POLITICALLY AND ECONOMICALLY BUT ALSO MILITARILY. THEY ARE SUSTAINING THE WAR. THEY SUSTAIN THE ARMY; THEY SUSTAIN THE SECURITY FORCES; THEY SUSTAIN ALL THE COUNTER-INSURGENCY APPARATUS--ALL THE WAR.

THUS HAS COME THE SUPPLY OF WAR MATERIEL: BOMBS, WEAPONS, PLANES--THE THINGS WHICH ARE DESTROYING US. AND THEY EVEN PARTICIPATE DIRECTLY IN THE TRAINING OF THE BATTALIONS WHICH HAVE MASSACRED MANY CAMPESINOS. THEY ARE THE FAMOUS MASSACRES AT EL CALABOZO, SUMPUL, AND LA CULEBRILLA--WELL, THERE HAVE BEEN MANY MASSACRES.

AND THE BOMBS ARE THE THINGS WHICH ARE PERMANENTLY DESTROYING. THERE JUST WAS A BOMBARDMENT IN OCOTAL WHICH WAS PUBLICLY CONFIRMED. THE GOVERNMENT, WHICH

UNCLASSIFIED

WILL HAVE ITS EXPLANATIONS, SAYS IT WAS A MISTAKE. WELL, THESE BOMBS ARE THE ONES SUPPLIED BY THE U.S. GOVERNMENT.

THEY--THE CIA--ARE THE ONES WHO ARE PLANNING THE INTELLIGENCE IN THE COUNTRY AND THE ONES WHO SUSTAIN AND MAINTAIN THE CONTRAS IN NICARAGUA. SUBJECT: VISIT TO LAGUNA VERDE NUCLEAR POWER PLANT: ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL ASPECTS.

1. SUMMARY: AFTER YEARS OF DELAY, CONSIDERABLE PROGRESS IS BEING MADE IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE LAGUNA VERDE NUCLEAR POWER STATION. UNIT ONE OF THE TWO UNIT STATION IS ABOUT 90 PERCENT COMPLETE. PROJECT MANAGEMENT CLAIMS FUEL LOADING SHOULD COMMENCE SOMETIME BETWEEN SEPTEMBER AND DECEMBER OF 1986, WITH FULL COMMERCIAL OPERATION SIX TO EIGHT MONTHS THEREAFTER. FEDERAL ELECTRICITY COMMISSION MANAGEMENT IS EXPERIENCING A VERY LARGE INCREASE IN PRODUCTIVITY ON THE SECOND UNIT (LESS THAN HALF COMPLETE) BECAUSE BOTH MANAGEMENT AND CONSTRUCTION CREWS ARE BENEFITING FROM THE LESSONS OF CONSTRUCTING UNIT ONE. WHILE THERE STILL REMAIN NOTICIBLE INEFFICIENCIES IN THE USE OF CONSTRUCTION LABOR AT THE SITE, CFE CLAIMS IT WILL BRING IN BOTH UNITS AT A COMPETITIVE COST PER INSTALLED KILOWATT. CFE PROJECT

MANAGEMENT HAS DEVELOPED SOME CLEVER WAYS TO OVERCOME

PROCUREMENT DELAYS FOR NEEDED PARTS FROM U.S. SUPPLIERS AND IS DEVELOPING A SIMILAR SYSTEM THAT MIGHT PARTICULARLY BENEFIT SMALL U.S. TECHNICAL SERVICES FIRMS. CFE MANAGEMENT COMPLAINED OF DIFFICULTIES IN OBTAINING INSTRUMENTATION FROM U.S. EXPORTERS WHO APPARENTLY FEAR TO INCUR LIABILITY IF THEY SUPPLY A FOREIGN NUCLEAR PLANT. CFE OFFICIALS SPECULATED THAT THEY MIGHT WISH TO PLAN FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF FURTHER POWER REACTORS WHICH REPLICATE THE CURRENT LAGUNA VERDE MODEL AFTER UNIT ONE HAS OPERATED FOR SOME TIME. CFE TECHNICAL OFFICIALS STRESSED THE BENEFITS OF STANDARDIZATION IN EXPANDING THE NUCLEAR PROGRAM AT SOME (UNSPECIFIED) FUTURE DATE. END SUMMARY.

2. EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE ACCOMPANIED EXIM BANK ENGINEER JENNINGS TO THE LAGUNA VERDE NUCLEAR POWER STATION FOR A SITE VISIT AND DISCUSSIONS WITH OFFICIALS OF THE FEDERAL ELECTRIC COMMISSION (CFE). DISCUSSIONS WITH CFE OFFICIALS COVERED TECHNICAL, FINANCIAL, AND COMMERCIAL ASPECTS OF THE PROJECT. THE CFE TEAM GAVE EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE THE IMPRESSION OF A YOUNG COMMITTED GROUP OF PROFESSIONALS ANXIOUS FINALLY TO COMPLETE A PROJECT THAT HAS LINGERED TOO LONG.

3. THE PRINCIPAL EMPHASIS OF THE CFE TEAM IS ON COMPLETING UNIT ONE OF THE TWO REACTOR COMPLEX. IN AUGUST 1984 THE CFE TEAM RECALIBRATED ITS MILESTONES FOR COMPLETION OF THE PLANT TO INCORPORATE ADDITIONAL SAFETY REQUIREMENTS. THE PLANT AT THAT TIME WAS 85 PERCENT COMPLETE. AS OF JULY 1985, 40 PERCENT OF THE REMAINDER OF THE WORK ON UNIT ONE WAS COMPLETED. CREWS ARE COMPLETING AN ADDITIONAL 2 PLUS PERCENT OF THE REMAINING WORK EVERY TWO WEEKS. AT THE CURRENT RATE OF WORK, THE PLANT WILL BE READY FOR FUEL LOADING IN 15 MONTHS. HOWEVER, EARLY THIS YEAR, CFE PROJECT OFFICIALS IMPLEMENTED NEW FOREIGN PROCURMENT PROCEDURES WHICH HAVE PREVENTED BOTTLENECKS. PROJECT OFFICIALS HOPE TO INCREASE THE RATE OF COMPLETION OF WORK IN ORDER TO HAVE THE PLANT READY TO BE FUELED IN SEPTEMBER OF 1986. WITH ENTRY INTO FULL COMMERCIAL OPERATION SIX TO EIGHT MONTHS THEREAFTER. THE FOLLOWING TABLE PROVIDES THE STATUS OF KEY PORTIONS OF THE PROJECT.

L[redacted]

- -	TURBINES	REACTOR	WASTE	CONTROLS	TOT PLANT
PERCENT WORK TO BE DONE 8/84	7.26	42.06	13.06	9.45	9.90
PERCENT DONE BY 7/85	3.34	17.06	4.6	4.65	3.39

4. CFE OFFICIALS HAVE CALCULATED THEIR EXPENSES (CONVERTED TO DOLLARS AT THE EXCHANGE RATE PREVAILING WHEN THEY WERE INCURRED) FOR THE ENTIRE LIFE OF THE PROJECT. AS OF MAY 1985, TOTAL EXPENDITURES FOR BOTH UNITS WERE DOLLARS 1.738 BILLION (INTEREST EXPENSES NOT INCLUDED). A FURTHER 399 MILLION DOLLARS NEEDS TO BE SPENT TO FINISH BOTH UNITS. CFE OFFICIALS CALCULATE THAT BOTH UNITS CAN BE COMPLETED AT A COST PER INSTALLED KILOWATT OF DOLLARS 1638 (DOLLARS 2200 INCLUDING IDC). THIS FIGURE APPEARS COMPATIBLE WITH U.S. REACTORS AND APPEARED SURPRISING CONSIDERING THE LENGTH OF THE CONSTRUCTION TIME. CFE OFFICIALS NOTED THAT LABOR COSTS FOR THE PROJECT ARE EXTREMELY

5. MOREOVER, CFE OFFICIALS NOTED THAT THERE HAVE BEEN VERY LARGE PRODUCTIVITY INCREASES IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF UNIT TWO DUE TO BOTH MANAGEMENT AND LABOR EXPERIENCES ON UNIT ONE. PRODUCTIVITY HAS INCREASED BY OVER 300 PERCENT IN SEVERAL MAJOR AREAS SUCH AS CONCRETE WORK AND APPEARS TO HAVE DOUBLED OVERALL. CFE OFFICIALS NOTED THAT ALL MEXICAN CONTRACTORS AND LABOR HAD TO BE TRAINED FROM SCRATCH TO PERFORM WORK OF A QUALITY ACCPETABLE IN A NUCLEAR PLANT. PROJECT MANAGEMENT ALSO NEEDED TO BE REEDUCATED INTO THE MORE STRINGENT REQUIREMENTS OF A NUCLEAR PROJECT.

6. THERE REMAIN INEFFICIENCIES ON THE LABOR FRONT AT THE PLANT, NEVERTHELESS. THE CONSTRUCTION CREW

CONSISTS OF TWO SHIFTS TOTALLING 10,000 MEN AND WOMEN. EACH SHIFT IS TRANSPORTED AWAY FROM SITE FOR LUNCH (ABOUT TWO HOURS) MOREOVER, SCIATT OBSERVED THAT THE TRANSPORT OF MEN AND MATERIALS BETWEEN LEVELS IN THE REACTOR AREA WAS HALTED TWICE EACH SHIFT FOR 45 MINUTES SO THAT ELEVATOR OPERATORS COULD TAKE BREAKS WHICH WERE NOT SYNCHRONIZED WITH BREAKS OF THE CONSTRUCTION WORKERS. THE CONSTRUCTION CREW IS VERY YOUNG BY U.S. OR EUROPEAN NUCLEAR INDUSTRY STANDARDS (AS IS THE MANAGEMENT OF THE PROJECT). SCIATT ESTIMATES THAT MUCH MORE THAN EIGHTY PERCENT OF THE LABOR FORCE OBSERVED AND OVER SIXTY PERCENT OF MANAGEMENT APPEARED TO BE UNDER 35 YEARS OF AGE.

7. PROJECT MANAGEMENT HAS DEVELOPED MEANS TO OVERCOME BOTTLENECKS IN FOREIGN PROCUREMENT CAUSED BY GOM IMPORT REGULATIONS. CFE HAS OBTAINED A FOREIGN LINE OF CREDIT FOR 10 MILLION DOLLARS. BUDGET MINISTRY APPROVAL HAS BEEN OBTAINED TO EXPEND THIS MONEY FOR THE PURCHASE OF EQUIPMENT VIEWED AS VITAL FOR THE START-UP OF UNIT ONE, AS LONG AS NO PURCHASE EXCEEDS DOLLARS 254 THOUSAND. (NO PURCHASE HAS YET EXCEEDED DOLLARS 85 THOUSAND AND MOST PURCHASES ARE FOR LESS THAN DOLLARS 10 THOUSAND). THE CFE HAS BLANKET APPROVAL TO IMPORT WITHOUT A SPECIFIC IMPORT PERMIT A "CATALOGUE" OF EQUIPMENT AND INSTRUMENTATION WHICH WAS NEGOTIATED WITH GOM AUTHORITIES. PROCUREMENT IS HANDLED BY EBASCO SERVICES OUT OF A LOUISIANA OFFICE.

8. PROJECT MANAGEMENT IS ATTEMPTING TO DEVELOP THE SAME ARRANGEMENT FOR THE IMPORTATION OF TECHNICAL

[redacted]

SERVICES FOR PLANT FUEL LOADING AND START-UP. CFE CALCULATES THAT THERE ARE 214 MAIN SPECIFICATIONS LEADING TO START-UP OF WHICH 91 WILL REQUIRE THE SERVICES OF OUTSIDE TECHNICAL SUPPORT FIRMS. 83 OF THOSE TASKS WILL REQUIRE THE SERVICES OF FOREIGN FIRMS. CFE ESTIMATES START UP WILL REQUIRE 160 VISITS BY TECHNICAL SERVICES FIRM WITH A FEE OF ABOUT DOLLARS 10 THOUSAND PER VISIT. CFE HAS A LIST OF 22 MAJOR TECHNICAL SERVICES FIRMS AND 65 SMALL COMPANIES. PROJECT MANAGEMENT IS DEVELOPING A SIMPLIFIED CONTRACT FOR THE SMALL FOREIGN FIRMS TO EXEMPT THEM FROM THE ONEROUS

[redacted]

TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER AND REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS USUSALLY LEVIED ON FOREIGN FIRMS.

9. PROJECT MANAGEMENT COMPLAINED OF DIFFICULTIES OBTAINING INSTRUMENTATION, SWITCHE' ETC. FROM U.S. VENDORS. U.S. FIRMS APPARENTLY HAVE TOLD CFE OFFICIALS THAT THEY ARE UNWILLING TO SUPPLY ANY EQUIPMENT TO FOREIGN NUCLEAR PLANTS FOR FEAR OF INCURRING FUTURE LIABILITY. CFE OFFICIALS STATED THAT GOM LAW WOULD EXEMPT SUCH SUPPLIERS FROM LIABILITY. (EMBASSY WILL ATTEMPT TO CONFIRM CFE CLAIM.)

10. CFE OFFICIALS STATED THEY WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE NEWLY ACQUIRED EXPERTISE IN NUCLEAR CONSTRUCTION KEPT IN BEING. PROJECT OFFICIALS SPECULATED THAT THEY WOULD LIKE TO SEE A SECOND POWER STATION CONSTRUCTED AT LAGUNA VERDE WHICH DUPLICATED THE CURRENT GE DESIGNED PLANT. CFE OFFICIALS STATED THAT ONLY STANDARDIZATION OF NUCLEAR DESIGN COULD PERMIT THEM TO CONTINUE INCREASING PRODUCTIVITY. PROJECT OFFICIALS EMPHASIZED THAT UNIT ONE WOULD HAVE TO RUN SUCCESSFULLY FOR SEVERAL YEARS BEFORE FACING SUCH A DECISION AND THAT NO/NO SERIOUS CONSIDERATION HAD BEEN GIVEN TO EXPANDING

2. EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE ACCOMPANIED EXIM BANK ENGINEER TO THE LAGUNA VERDE NUCLEAR POWER STATION FOR DISCUSSIONS WITH PROJECT STAFF. THE TRIP ALSO INCLUDED A DETAILED TOUR OF CONSTRUCTION AT UNIT ONE OF THE POWER STATION ALONG WITH EXAMINATION OF CONVENTIONAL PORTIONS OF THE PLANT AND THE COMMON RADIOACTIVE WASTE LABS. THIS MESSAGE WILL DEAL WITH THE TECHNICAL, SAFETY, AND SECURITY ASPECTS DISCUSSED AND OBSERVED. THIS INFORMATION IS PROVIDED WITH THE CAVEAT THAT EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE IS NOT A NUCLEAR ENGINEER. GENERAL IMPRESSION GAINED FROM THE TOUR IS THAT PROJECT STAFF IS MAKING THE EFFORT TO CONSTRUCT, AND OPERATE A SAFE PLANT AT AN ECONOMICALLY ACCEPTABLE COST. THE PROJECT IS REQUIRED BY MEXICAN AUTHORITIES TO CONFORM TO NRC REGULATIONS. FULL SCALE IAEA SAFETY

WERE SEEN AT THE SITE. ENGINEERING STAFF DID COMPLAIN ABOUT THE "OVER CONSERVATISM" OF U.S. ARCHITECT ENGINEERING FIRMS. PHYSICAL SECURITY IS BEING APPLIED AT THE SITE AND FOR THE FIRST TWO LOADS OF NUCLEAR FUEL. ARMED MEXICAN MARINES WERE AT THE SITE. THE FINAL RADIOLOGICAL AND PHYSICAL SECURITY PROCEDURES FOR THE PLANT WILL PROBABLY NOT BE IMPLEMENTED UNTIL 3 MONTHS BEFORE FUEL LOADING. PLANT OPERATIONS STAFF IS LARGE AND IS ALREADY INVOLVED IN WORK AND TRAINING BOTH ON AND OFF SITE. THE PRINCIPAL RISK TO PLANT PERSONNEL AND THE SURROUNDING POPULATION DETECTED BY SCIATT WAS THE HAIR-RAISING TRAFFIC DURING THE CONSTRUCTION SHIFT-CHANGE. END SUMMARY.

3. EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE ACCOMPANIED EXIM BANK ENGINEER JOHN JENNINGS TO THE LAGUNA VERDE NUCLEAR POWER PLANT SITE ON AUGUST 15 FOR DISCUSSIONS WITH PROJECT STAFF AND FOR A DETAILED TOUR OF UNIT ONE, THE CONVENTIONAL PARTS OF THE PLANT, AND THE COMMON RADIOACTIVE WASTE LAB. THE FOLLOWING IS AN ACCOUNT OF TECHNICAL AND SAFETY ASPECTS OBSERVED BY THE SCIENCE ATTACHE. THIS INFORMATION IS PROVIDED IN THE HOPE IT WILL BE OF SERVICE TO TECHNICAL EXPERTS IN THE DEPARTMENT AND NRC. EMBASSY SCIENCE ATTACHE IS NOT/NOT A NUCLEAR ENGINEER AND HIS CONCLUSIONS SHOULD THEREFORE NOT BE CONSIDERED AUTHORITATIVE. (SEPTEL WILL PROVIDE ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL INFORMATION GAINED DURING TRIP.)

4. WORK ON THE REACTOR BUILDING FOR UNIT ONE IS ABOUT 75 PERCENT COMPLETE. RETROFIT OF THE SUPRESSION POOL TO COPE WITH SWELLING AND SEISMIC PHENOMENA IS COMPLETE EXCEPT FOR CLEANING THE POOL PRIOR TO FILLING. THE SUPPRESSION POOL SHOULD BE FILLED WITHIN TWO WEEKS. PIPE SUPPORTS (PROVIDED BY FRG FIRM MANNESMANN) ARE MASSIVE AND ARE CONSIDERED BY FEDERAL ELECTRICITY COMMISSION ENGINEERS TO BE OVERDESIGNED. THE PIPE SUPPORTS ARE LARGER THAN SCIATT HAS OBSERVED IN U.S. PWR'S OF LARGER CAPACITY. CFE CHIEF OF ENGINEERING

AT THE SITE BELIEVES THE SUPPORTS WILL WITHSTAND 0.26 G. ACCORDING TO CFE, THE SIZE OF THE PIPE SUPPORTS AND LARGE NUMBERS OF SNUBBERS (I.E. EQUIPMENT TO ABSORB THE FORCE OF A SEISMIC OR OTHER SHOCK TO PIPES) HAS INTERFERRED WITH CABLE LAYING AND WILL MAKE SOME INSPECTIONS PRIOR TO START-UP AWKWARD. ACCORDING TO THE CHIEF OF PROJECT ENGINEERING, THE LAGUNA VERDE STAFF IS ENGAGED IN A PROGRAM TO REDUCE THE NUMBER OF SNUBBERS FROM 2,000 TO SEVERAL HUNDRED (3-400).

5. CREWS WERE TESTING THE MAIN CRANE FOR FUEL LOADING/ UNLOADING. WORK APPEARED WELL ALONG ON REACTOR PRESSURE VESSEL AND SPENT FUEL STORAGE AREA. HIGH DENSITY SPENT FUEL STORAGE RACKS WERE BEING INSTALLED.

6. EXTENSIVE WORK WAS TAKING PLACE NEAR PENETRATIONS INTO THE PRIMARY CONTAINMENT (WORK INCLUDED WELDING AND FABRICATION OF CURVED METAL PLATES. WORK ON THE EMERGENCY CONTROL ROD DRIVE SYSTEM WAS NOT COMPLETE.

9. THE REACTOR CONTROL ROOM IS LARGELY COMPLETE. STAFF WAS TESTING EQUIPMENT IN PREPARATION FOR TURNING IT OVER TO OPERATIONS STAFF. LAGUNA VERDE HAS BEEN HOOKED UP TO THE NATIONAL GRID AND ASPECTS OF THE CONTROL ROOM DEALING WITH THAT ARE IN OPERATION. THE OPERATIONS STAFF HAS CHECKED OUT EQUIPMENT INSTALLED OR STORED FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS TO BE SURE IT IS STILL

11. MUCH OF THE EQUIPMENT IN THE RADWASTE LAB HAS BEEN TURNED OVER TO THE OPERATIONS STAFF. THE OFF GAS SYSTEM APPEARS TO BE READY. CFE STAFF STATED THAT SOME INSTRUMENTATION STILL NEEDS TO BE INSTALLED. CFE IS IN THE PROCESS OF OBTAINING A LICENSE FOR A SITE FOR THE DISPOSAL OF LOW AND MEDIUM LEVEL WASTE. A SPECIFIC SITE HAS NOT YET BEEN SELECTED. A U.S. FIRM WAS THE CONTRACTOR FOR THE WASTE DISPOSAL METHOD (NAME NOT AVAILABLE).

15. GE ENGINEERS ARE AT THE LAGUNA VERDE SITE. SCIENCE ATTACHE SAW ONE GE ENGINEER AT THE CONSTRUCTION

PHYSICAL SECURITY

15. ACCESS TO THE CONSTRUCTION IS CONTROLLED. ID BADGES ARE WORN BY ALL CONSTRUCTION WORKERS. ID'S ARE CHECKED AT EACH CONSTRUCTION LEVEL IN THE REACTOR BUILDING. SCIENCE ATTACHE OBSERVED ARMED MEXICAN MARINES AT THE ENTRY POINT TO THE CONSTRUCTION SITE AND WITHIN THE SITE. THE MEXICAN MILITARY WILL BE INVOLVED IN PHYSICAL SECURITY AT THE SITE PERMANENTLY. SECURITY DRILLS ARE BEING PREPARED BY THE MILITARY.

17. THE PERMANENT PHYSICAL SECURITY SYSTEM FOR THE PLANT INCLUDING CLOSED CIRCUIT TV CAMERAS WILL NOT BE PUT INTO OPERATION UNTIL SEVERAL MONTHS BEFORE FUEL LOADING (SCHEDULED FOR SEPTEMBER 1986). IN MID-1986, THE FULL SCALE SECURITY SYSTEM WILL BE ACTIVATED IN ORDER TO ACCUSTOM THE PLANT PERSONNEL TO ITS OPERATIONS. THE RADIOLOGICAL SECURITY MEASURES WILL ALSO BE INSTITUTED AT THAT TIME.

OPERATIONS

---

18. THE OPERATIONS GROUP IS ALREADY WORKING AT THE SITE. A GROUP OF CONSTRUCTION WORKERS HAS ALSO BEEN ASSIGNED TO THE HEAD OF THE OPERATIONS GROUP TO ASSIST IN MAINTAINING ALREADY INSTALLED EQUIPMENT. OPERATING PROCEDURES HAVE BEEN WRITTEN FOR THE PLANT AND PERSONNEL ARE TRAINING AT GE AND HAVE VISITED U.S. BOILING WATER REACTORS TO OBTAIN EXPERIENCE. THE OPERATIONS GROUP INCLUDES 24 SENIOR REACTOR OPERATORS AND 8 REACTOR OPERATORS. ALL OPERATORS HAVE ENGINEERING DEGREES. CFE IS CURRENTLY SELECTING ITS TECHNICIANS. LICENSING FOR OPERATORS IS NEARLY COMPLETE. RO'S AND SRO'S ARE CURRENTLY IN THE U.S. AND SPAIN FOR REFRESHERS.

19. THE OPERATIONS GROUP AND THE INSTITUTE FOR ELECTRICAL INVESTIGATIONS (IIE) ARE DESIGNING AND CONSTRUCTING A REACTOR SIMULATOR. COMPUTER HARDWARE AND INSTRUMENTS HAVE BEEN OBTAINED FROM THE U.S. (COMPUTER IS A DEC VAX). GE IS PREPARING THE SOFTWARE.

---

20. THE PRINCIPAL RISK TO PLANT PERSONNEL AND THE SURROUNDING POPULATION DETECTED BY SCIENCE ATTACHE DURING VISIT WAS THE SHIFT CHANGE. WORKERS (AND - IN THIS CASE - SCIATT) ARE TRANSPORTED BACK TO VERACRUZ ALONG A TWO LANE HIGHWAY AT 70 PLUS MILES AN HOUR IN A CAREENING, JOCKEYING COLLECTION OF 20 YEAR OLD SCHOOL BUSES AND COMPANY VEHICLES THAT LONG-AGO PUT ASIDE THE LUXURY OF SHOCK ABSORBERS, TREAD ON TIRES, AND MECHANICAL INSPECTIONS.

21. ON A MORE SERIOUS NOTE, IT IS CLEAR TO US THAT THE GOM AND CFE HAVE LEARNED OF SUPPOSED NRC CONCERN ABOUT SAFETY AT LAGUNA VERDE. A CNSNS OFFICIAL CALLED EMBASSY SCIENCE COUNSELOR DURING THE WEEK ENDING 8/9. THE OFFICIAL SAID CNSNS HAD HEARD THE USG WAS WORRIED ABOUT SAFETY AT LAGUNA VERDE AND ASKED TO BE INFORMED OF SPECIFICS. DURING SCIENCE ATTACHE'S VISIT TO THE REACTORS, CFE OFFICIALS MADE REPEATED REFERENCES TO THEIR COMPLETE ADHERENCE TO GOM SAFETY REQUIREMENTS WHICH, BY-AND-LARGE, ARE TAKEN

DIRECTLY FROM THE NRC. WE WOULD URGE INTERESTED WASHINGTON AGENCIES TO KEEP FUTURE DISCUSSIONS OF SAFETY AT LAGUNA VERDE IN CLASSIFIED CHANNELS AND NOT/ NOT TO DISCUSS IT WITH MEXICAN OFFICIALS UNLESS THERE ARE SPECIFIC CONCERNS TO BE RAISED. (DRAFTED:JDETHOMAS) GAVIN

1. THE FMLN GENERAL COMMAND HAS MADE PUBLIC A LETTER TO CONGRESS DATED JULY 1985 AND SIGNED BY ROBERTO ROCA, FERMAN CIENFUEGOS, LEONEL GONZALEZ, SHAFIK JORGE HANDAL, ND JOAQUIN VILLALOBOS. THE LETTER REFERS TO AN EVER-INCREASING ESCALATION OF THE "INVOLVEMENT OF U.S. MILITARY AND ECONOMIC MEANS IN THE CONFLICT." IT CITES THIS INTERVENTION AS BEING RESPONSIBLE FOR

THE ALLEGED "50,000 DEATHS AND 1 MILLION REFUGEES" THAT HAVE RESULTED. IT IMPUGNS DUARTE WITH LEAVING THE "BASIC STRUCTURE OF ECONOMIC POWER" INTACT AND WITH FAVORING THE RULING CLASSES. THE LETTER ARGUES THAT THE AIR WAR HAS BEEN INEFFECTUAL, THAT THE GUERRILLAS ARE PREPARED TO WAGE A "LONG WAR OF ATTRITION."

DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE U.S. ADMINISTRATION HAS ATTEMPTED TO PORTRAY THE CONFLICT WITHIN THE FRAMEWORK OF EAST-WEST CONFRONTATION, IN FACT "IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO PROVIDE SUSTENANCE TO THE FMLN FROM ABROAD." THE LETTER POINTS OUT THELICT IS NATIONAL (SIC) AND IS "A RESULT OF DEEP INEQUALITIES, SOCIAL INJUSTICES, AND VIOLATIONS OF THE FREEDOM AND HUMAN RIGHTS OF SALVADORANS." DIALOGUE, IT SAYS, IS "A POLITICAL COMPONENT AND MILITARY PLAN DESIGNED BY THE U.S. ADVISERS AND NOT...A REAL OPTION FOR A NEGOTIATED POLITICAL SOLUTION. THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION IS PUSHING AN ALLEGED THIRD OPTION WITHOUT ANY REAL BASIS TO OBTAIN OUR SURRENDER ON THE BASIS OF THREATS, PRESSURE, AND FURTHER INTERVENTION. WE WILL NEVER SURRENDER."

4. COMMENT: THIS LETTER IS IN KEEPING WITH CURRENT FMLN EFFORTS TO PORTRAY THE DUARTE ADMINISTRATION AS A PUPPET GOVERNMENT AT THE BECK AND CALL OF THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION. IT IS ALSO AN EXPRESSION OF FMLN INTENT, AS REVEALED IN CAPTURED DOCUMENTS, TO BEGIN FOCUSSING THEIR ATTACKS ON WHAT IS DESCRIBED AS U.S. INTERVENTION, AND ALSO, AS REVEALED IN A CAPTURED DOCUMENT ENTITLED "PLANS FOR 1985-86", DATED MARCH 1985,TO "DISRUPT THE BIPARTISAN CONSENSUS BETWEEN THE U.S. REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC PARTIES WITH REGARD TO THEIR POLICY ON EL SALVADOR." IT IGNORES THE FACTS THAT:

-- FMLN REFUSAL TO BACK AWAY FROM THEIR AYAGUALO PRECONDITIONS IS THE REASON FOR THE DERAILING OF DIALOGUE -- NOT "INTRANSIGENCE" FROM DUARTE;

-- BECAUSE THERE IS ONLY A MINIMAL U.S. MILITARY TRAINING PRESENCE ISALVADOR, A "WAR OF ATTRITION" IN THE SALVADORAN CONTEXT MEANS WAR AGAINST THE PEOPLE AND THEIR ELECTED GOVERNMENT -- NOT, AS IN VIETNAM, A WAR AGAINST THE U.S.

SUBJECT: RELEASE OF KIDNAPPED MAYORS POSSIBLE

REF: A. SAN SALVADOR 9297
B. FBIS CHIVA CHIVA PA 210409Z AUG 85 PANAMA
C. FBIS CHIVA CHIVA PANAMA DTG 260107Z AUG 85

1. (U) SUMMARY:

THE THIRTEEN MAYORS KIDNAPPED BY THE ERP GUERRILLAS MAY SOON GAIN THEIR LIBERTY, ACCORDING TO THE CHURCH AND OTHER SOURCES. A MARCH BY OTHER MAYORS, ASSEMBLY DEPUTIES, LABOR UNIONS, AND OTHERS TO DEMONSTRATE FOR THE MAYORS' RELEASE WAS CANCELLED AS ONE CONDITION OF THE RELEASE. END SUMMARY.

2. (U) BACKGROUND

SALVADORAN MAYORS, UPSET BY THE LACK OF PROGRESS IN FREEING THIRTEEN OF THEIR COLLEAGUES KIDNAPPED BY THE ERP BETWEEN APRIL 12 AND JUNE 4 OF THIS YEAR, HELD A MEETING IN SAN SALVADOR ON AUGUST 15 TO ASK THE GOVERNMENT WHAT MEASURES IT WAS TAKING TO EFFECT THE PRISONERS' RELEASE. SAN SALVADOR MAYOR JOSE ANTONIO MORALES EHRLICH REMINDED THE MAYORS THAT ANY ACTION THE GOES TAKES CONCERNING THE MAYORS MUST BE CONSISTENT WITH EL SALVADOR'S CONSTITUTION. ACCORDING TO AN ARTICLE IN THE AUGUST 16 EDITION OF THE SAN SALVADOR DAILY "EL MUNDO", MORALES SAID THAT THE GUERRILLAS' CONDITIONS FOR THE MAYORS' FREEDOM WERE THE GOES RELEASE OF SOME GUERRILLA COMMANDERS AND THE SETTING OF A DATE AND PLACE FOR THE THIRD ROUND OF THE DIALOGUE BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE GUERRILLAS. THE MAYORS HAD PLANNED A PROTEST MARCH IN SAN MIGUEL ON AUGUST 23 TO DEMONSTRATE FOR THE RELEASE OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS. BUT THE MARCH WAS CALLED OFF.

3. (U) THE CHURCH:

IN HIS HOMILY OF AUGUST 25, BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ SAID

Department of State IS/FPC/CDR El Salvador SP Date 7/22/93
Declassified under EO 12356 ( ) in full; (✓) in part; portions withheld: classified (✓); deliberative ( );
law enforcement ( ); privacy ( ), statutory ( );

SAN SA 11143 00 OF 02 300117Z 7825 ARA8199

THAT THE FAMILIES OF EIGHT OF THE MAYORS HAD MET WITH THEIR LOVED ONES IN PERQUIN DURING THE PAST WEEK, AND THAT THE GUERRILLAS HAD DEMANDED ONLY TWO THINGS AS A CONDITION OF THE RELEASE OF ALL THE MAYORS: THE CANCELLATION OF THE PLANNED MARCH, AND THE PUBLICATION OF A LETTER FROM THE MAYORS, CRITICIZING PRESIDENT DUARTE. BOTH DEMANDS HAD BEEN FULFILLED, SAID THE BISHOP, AND HE EXPECTED THE MAYORS TO BE RELEASED BY SEPTEMBER 1. HOWEVER, THE SAME DAY, THE GUERRILLAS' CLANDESTINE RADIO STATION BROADCAST A MESSAGE THAT THE CHURCH WAS NOT PARTICIPATING IN THE CASE AND THAT "ANYTHING SAID ABOUT THE CASE OF THE CAPTURED MAYORS BY SPOKESMEN OF THE CHURCH, PARTICULARLY BY MONSENOR ROSA CHAVEZ, IS MERE SPECULATION OR DISTORTED INFORMATION." (REFTEL C).

4. (U) FMLN EXPLOITATION OF MAYORS:

THE LETTER REFERRED TO ABOVE WAS PUBLISHED IN THE DAILY PAPERS ON AUGUST 20 AS A PAID ADVERTISEMENT. SIGNED BY THE EIGHT MAYORS WHO HAD NOT SIGNED A PREVIOUS MAYORS' OPEN LETTER (REFTEL A), IT CONTAINED BASICALLY THE SAME ACCUSATIONS: THE MAYORS HAD NOT KNOWN THEY WERE THE TOOLS OF THE GOVERNMENT IN A MILITARY PLAN TO COVER THE COUNTRY WITH CIVIL DEFENSE UNITS FINANCED BY USAID; THERE WAS "DUALITY OF CONTROL" SHARED BY THE GOVERNMENT AND THE FMLN IN PARTS OF THE COUNTRY; THEIR TREATMENT AT THE HANDS OF THE GUERRILLAS HAD BEEN GOOD; AND THE FMLN WOULD RELEASE THEM IN EXCHANGE FOR THE ADJUDICATION OF THE CASES OF NINE MEMBERS OF THE FMLN SUPPOSEDLY HELD BY THE GOVERNMENT. THE NAMES OF THE ALLEGEDLY CAPTURED GUERRILLAS WERE THE SAME AS IN THE PREVIOUS LETTER FROM THE OTHER FIVE MAYORS. THIS LETTER ADDED THAT THE MAYORS' LOCATION WAS BOMBED BY THE GOVERNMENT ON JUNE 14 AND THE MAYORS DEDUCED FROM THIS THAT THE GOVERNMENT WAS TRYING TO KILL THEM TO BE RID OF THE PROBLEM OF OBTAINING THEIR RELEASE. A NOTE AT THE BOTTOM OF THE ADVERTISEMENT STATED THAT THE FAMILIES OF THE MAYORS HAD AGREED TO THE PUBLICATION OF THE LETTER "BECAUSE THE GUERRILLAS HAVE OFFERED IN EXCHANGE THE FREEDOM OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS."

5. [redacted] MEETING IN PERQUIN:

ACCORDING TO [redacted] THE FAMILIES AND SOME REPRESENTATIVES OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC (CLAT) AFFILIATED GENERAL CONFEDERATION OF WORKERS (CGT), (ONE OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS IS A CGT MEMBER) MET WITH THE MAYORS AND THE GUERRILLAS IN MORAZAN ON AUGUST 15. THE GUERRILLAS PRESENT INCLUDED JOAQUIN VILLALOBOS, COMMANDER OF THE PEOPLE'S REVOLUTIONARY ARMY (ERP), AND ERP MEMBER "CAPTAIN" FRANCISCO MENA SANDOVAL. (NOTE: FORMER ESAF CAPTAIN WHO DEFECTED TO THE ERP DURING 1981 "FINAL OFFENSIVE".)
AT THIS MEETING, VILLALOBOS PROMISED TO FREE THE MAYORS IF TWO CONDITIONS WERE MET: THE PUBLICATION OF THE LETTER SIGNED BY THE EIGHT MAYORS, AND THE TRIAL OF THE FMLN MEMBERS MENTIONED IN THE LETTER. (NOTE: THE ESAF CLAIMS IT HAS NO INFORMATION ON EIGHT OF THE FMLN MEMBERS.) THE LETTER WAS PUBLISHED, [redacted] SAID THE MARCH WAS CANCELLED AS A SIGN OF GOOD FAITH. HE HOPED THE MAYORS WOULD BE FREED BY SEPTEMBER 1. [redacted] RED CROSS HAD PROMISED TO HELP WITH THE LOGISTICS OF FREEING THE MAYORS, AND THAT THE CHURCH WOULD BE PLAYING A LARGER ROLE IN THE NEGOTIATIONS.

CONTINUED TO CLIMB TO A LEVEL OF 6,653 ON AUGUST 27, AN INCREASE OF 13.6 PERCENT OVER THE LAST 19 DAYS. THAT INTERVAL INCLUDED A MUCH-HERALDED CROSSING OF THE 6,000 MARK ON AUGUST 16.

THE EXCHANGE STOCK MARKET INDEX IS COMPOSED OF 42 SELECTED COMMERCIAL, SERVICE, AND INDUSTRIAL STOCKS. THERE IS MINORITY GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION IN SOME OF THE STOCKS, BUT AS FAR AS EMBASSY CAN TELL, NO GOVERNMENT MAJORITY- OWNED STOCKS ARE INCLUDED IN THE INDEX. THE MAJORITY OF TRANSACITONS CONCLUDED ON THE MEXICAN STOCK EXCHANGE ARE PURCHASES AND SALES OF MEXICAN TREASURY BILLS CALLED CETES (CERTIFICADOS DE LA TESORERIA DE LA FEDERACION), BUT THESE SALES ARE NOT TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT IN THE EXCHANGE INDEX.

5. SIGNING OF DEBT RESTRUCTURING

ON AUGUST 29, GOM OFFICIALS ARE SCHEDULED TO SIGN A DEBT-RESTRUCTURING AGREEMENT IN NEW YORK COVERING $20.1 BILLION OF PUBLIC SECTOR CREDIT ORIGINALLY MATURING

BETWEEN 1985 AND 1989. THE DEBT IS HELD BY APPROXIMATELY 630 BANKS IN 42 COUNTRIES. THIS AGREEMENT IS THE SECOND PART OF A $48.7 BILLION RESTRUCTURING PACKAGE; AN AGREEMENT FOR $28.6 BILLION ON CREDIT MATURING BEFORE 1985 WAS SIGNED ON MARCH 29.

6. SALE OF MORE PARASTATALS

THE GOM ANNOUNCED THAT IT WILL SELL ITS 50 PERCENT PARTICIPATION IN THE EL PRESIDENTE GROUP OF HOTELS, AND UP TO 7 PERCENT OF ITS 58 PERCENT PARTICIPATION IN THE MEXICAN AIRLINE MEXICANA. THE GOM HAS DENIED RUMORS THAT

IT WILL SELL THE SICARTSA STEEL COMPLEX.

7. DISSOLUTION OF TRUST FUNDS

AS A PART OF A BUDGET-CUTTING MEASURE, THE GOM TREASURY HAS ANNOUNCED IT WILL DISSOLVE THE FOLLOWING TRUST FUNDS ADMINISTERED BY THE DEVELOPMENT BANKS:

-- TRUST FOR AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT AND CREDIT PROGRAM--STUDIES AND PLANS (FEDA).

-- FUND FOR AGRICULTURAL AID AND DEVELOPMENT (FFAA).

-- TRUST FOR EDUCATIONAL COOPERATION CREDITS (FOCCE).

-- FUND TO GUARANTEE AND DEVELOP THE PRODUCTION, DISTRIBUTION AND CONSUMPTION OF BASIC PRODUCTS (FOPROBA).

8. BRIEF NOTES

-- FOR THE PERIOD OF JANUARY-APRIL, 1985, THE TOTAL FOREIGN EXCHANGE BALANCE GENERATED BY TOURISM, BORDER TRANSACTIONS, AND IN-BOND TRANSACTIONS WAS DOWN 6.5 PERCENT FROM THAT REGISTERED IN THE SAME PERIOD IN 1984.

-- ABOUT 35 PERCENT OF THE ASSETS OF THE NATIONALIZED COMMERCIAL BANKING SYSTEM ARE INVESTED IN MEXICAN TREASURY BILLS.

1. SUMMARY: REPRESENTATIVES BUDDY MACKAY AND MIKE ANDREWS VISITED EL SALVADOR AUGUST 20-23 ON TRAVEL SPONSORED BY THE UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST SERVICE COMMITTEE (UUSC). THE EMBASSY AND THE UUSC COORDINATED IN ARRANGING A PROGRAM THAT INCLUDED A COUNTRY TEAM BRIEFING, A FIELD TRIP TO SONSONATE, AND VISITS TO MARIONA PRISON, TUTELA LEGAL, THE MILITARY HOSPITAL, AND ILOPANGO AIR BASE. THE CODEL MET WITH PRESIDENT DUARTE, MINISTER OF DEFENSE VIDES CASANOVA, VICE MINISTER OF DEFENSE FOR PUBLIC SECURITY LOPEZ NUILA, CHIEFS OF THE THREE SECURITY SERVICES, AIR FORCE COMMANDER BUSTILLO, AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ, AIFLD DIRECTOR CLEMENTE HERNANDEZ, PCN AND ARENA PARTY FIGURES, AND PRIVATE SECTOR LEADERS. THE CHARGE D'AFFAIRES GAVE A DINNER FOR THE CODEL ON AUGUST 22. MANY OF THE ACTIVITIES ARRANGED BY THE UUSC WERE PRIVATE AND THUS WERE NOT ATTENDED BY EMBASSY OFFICERS. THIS CABLE REPORTS ON THOSE ACTIVITIES AT WHICH EMBASSY OFFICERS WERE PRESENT. MEETINGS WITH PRESIDENT DUARTE, MOD VIDES CASANOVA, GENERAL USTILLO, AND THE SECURITY CHIEFS WILL BE REPORTED SEPTEL. STAFF CONSTITUENTS RICHARD TRBULSI AND DR. EDWARD ANDERSON, AND UUSC STAFFERS JH MCAWARD AND EDWARD KING, VISITED EL SALVADOR ON TRAVEL SPONSORED BY THE UUSC DURING AUGUST 20-23. THE CODEL PARTICIPATED IN AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM JOINTLY PLANNED BY THE EMBASSY AND THE UUSC. MANY OF THE ACTIVITIES ARRANGED BY THE UUSC, INCLUDING MEETINGS WITH REPRESENTATIVES OF PRIVATE VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS, TUTELA LEGAL, AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ, THE GOVERNMENTAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, AND DINNER WITH U.S. CORRESPONDENTS AND OFFICIALS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL AMERICA, WERE NOT ATTENDED BY EMBASSY OFFICERS.

MEETING WITH AIFLD

3. DURING AN AUGUST 21 MEETING WITH AIFLD COUNTRY DIRECTOR CLEMENTE HERNANDEZ AND LABOFF, CODEL MEMBERS PASSED TO HERNANDEZ CHARGES, MADE EARLIER THAT DAY TO THE CODEL BY SOME UNION MEMBERS, THAT AIFLD FORMED THE CTD (DEMOCRATIC WORKERS CENTRAL) TO DAMPEN LABOR'S EFFORTS TO PRESSURE THE DUARTE ADMINISTRATION TO CONTINUE THE DIALOGUE WITH THE GUERRILLAS. HERNANDEZ DENIED THIS, AND LABOFF SAID THAT THIS WAS THE FIRST TIME HE HAD HEARD THE ISSUE OF DIALOGUE PUT FORWARD AS AN ALLEGED REASON FOR THE CTD'S FOUNDING. HE ADDED THERE WERE A VARIETY OF FACTORS, THE MOST IMPORTANT OF WHICH DEALT WITH PERSONALITIES, WHICH HAD LED TO DEMOCRATIC LABOR'S INTERNAL PROBLEMS.

4. HERNANDEZ SUGGESTED IT WOULD BE BEST IF THE CODEL WAS GIVEN THE OPPORTUNITY TO SPEAK TO REPRESENTATIVES FROM BOTH THE COMPETING FACTIONS IN DEMOCRATIC LABOR. HE ALSO DENIED CHARGES THAT THE CTD WAS FORMED TO HELP ORGANIZE

LIMITED OFFICIAL USE

A NEW POLITICAL PARTY. HERNANDEZ EXPLAINED AIFLD'S MAIN GOAL AT PRESENT WAS TO ACHIEVE PEACE WITHIN DEMOCRATIC LABOR. HE SAID AIFLD WOULD WORK MORE WITH ORGANIZATIONS THAN WITH INDIVIDUALS, AND BRIEFLY OUTLINED AIFLD'S PILOT LITERACY PROGRAM AND AN AIFLD DESIRE TO HELP COOPERATIVES BUY BASIC AGRICULTURAL INPUTS THROUGH A REVOLVING FUND. HERNANDEZ ADDED THAT AIFLD HOPED TO MAKE SALVADORAN UNIONS SELF-SUFFICIENT. HE SAID IMPLEMENTATION OF A MORE COMPREHENSIVE DUES SYSTEM WOULD HELP THE UNIONS ACHIEVE THIS GOAL.

5. LATER, AT A CODEL DINNER WITH EMBOFFS, THE CONGRESSMEN ASKED WHY AIFLD WAS NECESSARY. EMBOFFS EXPLAINED THAT THE SALVADORAN LABOR MOVEMENT WAS INCIPIENT, AND THAT IT NEEDED ADVICE AND ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE SUCH AS AIFLD'S IN ORDER TO GROW AND HELP PLACE EL SALVADOR ON A FIRM DEMOCRATIC FOOTING.

MEETING WITH EMBASSY LEGAL OFFICER AND AMERICA'S WATCH

6. AFTER THE MEETING WITH AIFLD DIRECTOR HERNANDEZ, THE CODEL MET WITH EMBASSY LEGAL OFFICER AND AMERICA'S WATCH REPRESENTATIVE JEMERA RONE TO DISCUSS SALVADORAN JUDICIAL ISSUES. THE SESSION BEGAN WITH L/O GIVING AN OVERVIEW OF THE HSTORY OF THE USAID JUDICIAL REFORM PROGRAM IN EL SALVADOR AND A STATEMENT AS TO ITS CURRENT STATUS.

VERSION OF THE LAS HOJAS KILLINGS. VERMILYE ASKED THAT L/O AND MS. RONE COMMENT ON THE CASE, DESCRIBE ITS CURRENT POSTURE, AND RESPOND TO LIZCO'S CLAIM THAT THERE HAD BEEN EYEWITNESSES TO THE SHOOTING WHOSE TESTIMONY HAD NOT YET BEEN PUT ON RECORD.

8. L/O RESPONDED BY NOTING THE NEED TO DRAW DISTINCTIONS BETWEEN INFORMATION INCLUDED IN THE LAS HOJAS COURT RECORD AND THAT WHICH MAY BE DESCRIBED AS CONVENTIONAL WISDOM I.E. INFORMATION THAT IS NOT SUBSTANTIATED EITHER BY TESTIMONY OR PHYSICAL EVIDENCE. EQUALLY IMPORTANT WAS AN ACCURATE UNDERSTANDING OF THE LEGAL POSTURE OF THE LAS HOJAS PROSECUTION. L/O THEN RECOUNTED THE HISTORY OF THE CASE AS EVIDENCED BY THAT INFORMATION CONTAINED IN THE COURT RECORD. THIS INCLUDED A REVIEW OF THE SUBSTANCE OF THE TESTIMONY PROVIDED BY THE VARIOUS WITNESSES AND CONCLUDED WITH A STATEMENT OF THE CURRENT PROCEDURAL POSTURE OF THE LAS HOJAS CASE. WITH RESPECT TO PROCEDURAL POSTURE, L/O NOTED THAT THE COURT OF SECOND INSTANCE IN SANTA ANA HAD CONFIRMED THE PROVISIONAL DISMISSAL ORDERED BY THE COURT OF FIRST INSTANCE. THE SANTA ANA COURT HAD ALSO EXTENDED THE PROVISIONAL DISMISSAL TO INCLUDE THOSE

9. FOLLOWING THIS STATEMENT, CODEL INQUIRED AS TO THE BASIS OF THE APPELLATE COURT'S DECISION. THEY HAD BEEN INFORMED THAT A DISPUTE HAD ARISEN AS TO THE LEGAL STANDARD THAT HAD BEEN APPLIED ON APPEAL. QUOTING THE COURT'S RELIANCE ON CUYACIO, L/O NOTED THAT PROSECUTION COUNSEL FELT THAT THE COURT HAD APPLIED A STANDARD THAT HAD BEEN REFORMED OUT OF THE SALVADORAN PENAL CODE IN 1974. L/O WENT ON TO SAY THAT THIS ARGUMENT WAS IN THE NATURE OF LAWYERING, AND THAT ITS FINAL RESOLUTION WOULD HAVE TO WAIT ONE YEAR AS IT WAS NOT APPEALABLE TO THE SUPREME COURT UNTIL THE PROVISIONAL DISMISSAL WERE MADE DEFINITIVE L/O THEN EXPLAINED THAT THE EFFECT OF THE PROVISIONAL DISMISSAL WAS TO IMPOSE A ONE YEAR TIME LIMIT UPON PROSECUTION COUNSEL, DURING WHICH THEY WOULD HAVE TO PRODUCE MORE EVIDENCE OR SUFFER DEFINITIVE (FINAL) DISMISSAL. THE COURT'S DECISION IN NO WAY IMPEDED THE CONTINUATION OF THE PROSECUTION. IT ONLY PUT A TIME LIMIT ON THAT EFFORT, NOT UNLIKE THE SPEEDY-TRIAL ACT IN THE U.S.

10. AMERICA'S WATCH REP JEMERA RONE THEN SPOKE. MS. RONE DID NOT ADDRESS THE SUBSTANCE OF ANY REFORM EFFORTS IN PROGRESS IN THE SALVADORAN JUDICIAL SYSTEM. RATHER, SHE STATED IN CONCLUSORY TERMS THAT THE OVERWHELMING PROBLEM THAT IMPEDED THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE IN EL SALVADOR WAS FEAR. SHE CHARACTERIZED THIS FEAR AS BEING PERVASIVE, AFFECTING ALL ASPECTS OF LIFE IN EL SALVADOR. SHE CITED AS AN EXAMPLE OF THIS FEAR HER RECENT EXPERIENCE IN CHALATENANGO, WHERE SHE HAD TRAVELED TO INVESTIGATE THE "BOMBING MASSACRE" AT EL OCOTAL. DURING HER TRIP -- SHE HADN'T NOTIFIED THE ESAF THAT SHE WOULD BE IN THE AREA --

SHE WAS STOPPED BY TREASURY POLICE AGENTS, WHO CONFISCATED THE FILM FROM HER CAMERA. SHE HAD BEEN PHOTOGRAPHING MEMBERS OF HER PARTY CONVERSING WITH "GUERRILLAS." MS. RONE STATED THAT ONE OF THE MEMBERS OF HER PARTY, A JOURNALIST, WAS SO FRIGHTENED THAT THE ESAF SHOULD HAVE A PHOTO OF HIM TALKING WITH THE GUERRILLAS THAT HE WAS LEAVING THE COUNTRY IMMEDIATELY. THIS JOURNALIST'S FEAR, MS. RONE SAID, WAS CHARACTERISTIC OF THE FEAR THAT HAD PERMEATED THE FABRIC OF SALVADORAN SOCIETY.

11. COMMENT: THE SO-CALLED "BOMBING MASSACRE" THAT GAVE RISE TO MS. RONE'S PHOTOGRAPHS AND THE JOURNALIST'S ATTENDANT FEAR OCCURRED ON A CLOUDY DAY WHEN A SPOTTER PLANE MARKED A LOCATION ONE MILE FROM THE INTENDED TARGET FOR A BOMB DROP AND THE ATTACK AIRCRAFT FOLLOWED THE MARKER. A WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN WERE KILLED. RECOGNIZING IMMEDIATELY THE ERROR THAT HAD BEEN MADE, GENERAL BUSTILLO, COMMANDER OF THE SALVADORAN AIR FORCE, VISITED EL OCOTAL TWO DAYS LATER AND PAID COMPENSATION TO THE INHABITANTS, DISTRIBUTING 60,000 COLONES (APPROXIMATELY 4.8 COLONES EQUALS ONE DOLLAR) TO THE MAN WHO HAD LOST HIS FAMILY, AS WELL AS TO THOSE WHO HAD LOST THEIR HOUSES AND CROPS. THIS INFORMATION, A MATTER OF PUBLIC RECORD, WAS NOT MENTIONED BY MS. RONE IN THE COURSE OF HER EXEGESIS. ALSO, MS. RONE'S FILM WAS RETURNED TO HER, UNDEVELOPED. END COMMENT.

12. MS. RONE CONCLUDED HER REMARKS BY SAYING THAT HER EXPERIENCE IN EL OCOTAL EXEMPLIFIED THE FEAR THAT PERVADED LIFE IN EL SALVADOR AND MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE COURT SYSTEM TO FUNCTION. NO ONE, SHE STATED, WAS WILLING TO TESTIFY IN COURT BECAUSE OF FEAR. WITNESS, SHE ARGUED, THE "EYEWITNESSES" IN THE LAS HOJAS CASE THAT ADRIAN ESQUINO LIZCO HAD TOLD THE CODEL ABOUT. THESE WITNESSES PROBABLY WOULD NOT TESTIFY BECAUSE OF FEAR CAUSED BY THREATS THAT HAD BEEN MADE BEFORE AND DURING THE PROSECUTION OF THAT CASE. FINALLY, MS. RONE SAID THAT THE TRIAL OF THE FOUR U.S. CHURCHWOMEN, AS WELL AS OTHER CASES, SUPPORTED THREE POINTS SHE WISHED TO EMPHASIZE: (1) PERVASIVE FEAR WAS ONE ELEMENT THAT IMPEDED THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE; (2) ONLY U.S. PRESSURE IN THE FORM OF 20 MILLION DOLLARS OF MILITARY AID CONTINGENT UPON THE FULL PROSECUTION OF THE DEFENDANTS IN THE CHURCHWOMEN CASE BROUGHT ABOUT THE CONCERTED GOES. EFFORT TO MOVE THAT CASE, AS WELL AS THE CONSEQUENT CONVICTIONS, AND, (3) THAT EL SALVADOR'S OVERWHELMING DEPENDENCE ON TESTIMONIAL EVIDENCE IN THE FORM OF CONFESSIONS WAS A SERIOUS PROBLEM, AS SUCH TESTIMONY WAS EXTRACTED THROUGH FEAR, INTIMIDATION AND TORTURE.

13. COMMENT: IN VIEW OF STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN THE AMERICA'S WATCH 1984 REPORT ON EL SALVADOR, MS. RONE'S CONTENTION THAT "FEAR, INTIMIDATION, AND TORTURE" ARE PARAGRAPH TO THAT REPORT, DATED JANUARY 30, 1985, AMERICA'S WATCH NOTES THAT "IMPROVEMENT TOOK PLACE IN ONE VERY IMPORTANT AREA: THE TREATMENT OF THOSE ARRESTED BY THE THREE SECURITY FORCES -- THE NATIONAL POLICE, THE NATIONAL GUARD AND THE TREASURY POLICE. FOR THE MOST PART ARRESTS BY THESE FORCES WERE QUICKLY ACKNOWLEDGED. ALSO, FAMILIES, LAWYERS AND HUMANITARIAN AGENCIES WERE ABLE TO SEE THOSE ARRESTED. AS A CONSEQUENCE, DISAPPEARANCES AFTER ARRESTS, TORTURE, AND OTHER MISTREATMENT OF THOSE ARRESTED WERE ALL SHARPLY REDUCED." END COMMENT.

14. IN RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS FROM CODEL MEMBERS ABOUT MS. RONE'S OBSERVATIONS, L/O CONCEDED AS WELL-TAKEN MS. RONE'S CONTENTION THAT FEAR FIGURED AS A PROBLEM IN EL SALVADOR'S LEGAL SYSTEM, BUT THAT IT WAS ONLY ONE PROBLEM AMONG MANY OTHERS OF A PURELY PRACTICAL NATURE AND WAS NOT NEARLY AS "PERVASIVE" AS MS. RONE ARGUED. WITH RESPECT TO THE CASE OF THE U.S. CHURCHWOMEN, L/O SAID THAT THAT CASE HAD REACHED TRIAL WHEN IT WAS READY AND NOT ONE MOMENT BEFORE, NOTWITHSTANDING ANY USG THREAT TO WITHHOLD MILITARY ASSISTANCE. HE THEN NOTED, WITH RESPECT TO THE ALLEGED EYEWITNESSES OF LAS HOJAS, THAT NO SUCH INFORMATION EXISTED IN THE COURT RECORD AND THAT DATA HAD NEVER BEEN BROUGHT EITHER TO GOES OR U.S. EMBASSY ATTENTION, THIS NOTWITHSTANDING COUNTLESS CONVERSATIONS WITH ANIS REPRESENTATIVES ESQUINO LIZCO AND OTHERS, NOTWITHSTANDING THAT ALL ANIS COOPERATIVE MEMBERS INVOLVED IN LAS HOJAS HAD TESTIFIED IN COURT. REVIEWING ASSURANCES OF COOPERATION AND ASSISTANCE FROM THE GOES TO ANIS AND LAS HOJAS COOPERATIVE MEMBERS, L/O NOTED THAT ANY SECURITY THREAT THAT ANIS BELIEVED MIGHT IMPEDE FULL TESTIMONY

COULD BE ADDRESSED WITHIN THE CONTEXT OF THE EFFORT THAT THE GOES HAD MADE IN THAT CASE. IN SHORT, NO CASE CAN BE PROSECUTED UNLESS WITNESSES ARE WILLING TO STAND UP, SPEAK UNDER OATH AND BE NOTICED. THEIR FAILURE TO DO THIS, ESPECIALLY WHEN THE GOVERNMENT OF EL SALVADOR HAD MADE REPEATED OFFERS OF ASSISTANCE, WAS INEXPLICABLE.

CODEL MET WITH PCN DEPUTY ARTURO MENDEZ AZAHAR, ARENA DEPUTY ARMANDO CALDERON SOL, AND ARENA EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DIRECTOR JUAN JOSE DOMENEC. CALDERON RESPONDED TO A QUESTION FROM REP. MACKAY ABOUT SPACE FOR THE OPPOSITION PARTIES BY OUTLINING THE GREAT POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC POWER POSSESSED BY THE PARTY IN POWER, INCLUDING TWO TELEVION STATIONS AND ONE RADIO STATION. MENDEZ RESPONDED TO THE SAME QUESTION BY DESCRIBING THE DIMINUTION OF SPACE FOR THE OPPOSITION AND THE FOREIGN INFLUENCE THAT AFFECTED THE 1984 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. JUAN JOSE DOMENEC TALKED ABOUT THE BLEAK ECONOMIC FUTURE THAT HELD FEW INCENTIVES FOR INVESTMENT. HE THEN QUOTED ARENA LEADER D'AUBUISSON TO THE EFFECT THAT GUERRILLAS WERE NOT ONLY IN THE MOUNTAINS BUT ALSO IN COATS AND TIES IN THE CITIES. CALDERON SOL SAID THE DUARTE GOVERNMENT WAS TURNING INTO A DEMOCRATIC DICTATORSHIP; THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS SOUGHT TO EMULATE THE PRI IN MEXICO.

16. ON THE WAR, MENDEZ AZAHAR SAID THE ARMS CAME FROM CUBA, NICARAGUA, THE USSR AND U.S., BUT THE DEAD WERE SALVADORANS. A LEVEL OF DEPENDENCE HAD BEEN CREATED, A

SITUATION IN WHICH EL SALVADOR WAS CONSTANTLY THREATENED
BY THE WITHDRAWAL OF U.S. AID. HE SAID THAT WHILE THE SOVIETS HELP THEIR FRIENDS AROUND THE WORLD, THE U.S. FEARED TO HELP DEMOCRATIC SYSTEMS. THE DAY EL SALVADOR FALLS, HE SAID, CENTRAL AMERICA WILL FALL.

7. CALDERON CRITICIZED THE GOES FOR NOT CONSULTING MORE WITHTE OTHE PRTIES ON THEDIALGUE. HE SAID THAT PRESIDENT DUARTE HAD USED THE DIALOGUE TO ENHANCE HIS OWN IMAGE IN EL SALVADOR AND ABROAD. CALDERON SAID THAT IT IS NOT POSSIBLE TO HAVE A DIALOGUE WITH TERRORISTS, THAT EL SALVADOR NEEDS A BRIDGE FOR THE GUERRILLA TO RE-INCORPORATE THEMSELVES INTO SOCIETY.

ESPINOZA SAID THAT HE HAD BEEN TORTURED BY THE NATIONAL GUARD BEFORE BEING SENT TO MARIONA. THE OTHER TWO PRISONERS SAID THEY HAD BEEN PSYCHOLOGICALLY MISTREATED. ALL CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN SERVING THE CIVILIAN POPULATION, NOT THE GUERRILLAS. NOTE: ORELLANA AND VALLE WERE CAPTURED IN A CONFLICTIVE ZONE WITH A LARGE QUANTITY OF MEDICINE, FMLN LITERATURE, SOME ARMS AND AMMUNITION. THEY ASSERTED THAT THEY HAD NOT BEEN ARMED AT THE TIME OF THEIR CAPTURE. WHEN ASKED BY REP. ANDREWS IF THEY HAD TREATED ANYONE INJURED BY THE GUERRILLAS OR GUERRILLA MINES, THE DOCTORS SAID THEY HAD NOT, CITING TUTELA LEGAL'S CONTENTION THAT 99 PERCENT OF THE CIVILIAN DEATHS IN EL SALVADOR WERE CAUSED BY GOVERNMENT FORCES.

19. IN CONVERSATIONS WITH A.I.D. OFFICIALS, REP. MACKAY VOICED HIS SUPPORT FOR A.I.D. IN GENERAL AND FOR ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE TO EL SALVADOR. HE ALSO VOICED STRONG CONCERN, HOWEVER, THAT A.I.D. WAS BECOMING AN "ENDANGERED SPECIES, AS IT WAS ALLOWING ITSELF TO BECOME INVOLVED IN POLITICAL MATTERS. AS EXAMPLES OF THIS HE MENTIONED THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE AND RESTORATION OF PUBLIC SERVICE PROJECTS. THE FORMER HE FOUND TOO POLITICAL AND THE LATTER HE FOUND TOO WAR-RELATED. HOWEVER, HE INDICATED UNDERSTANDING OF THE REASONS FOR AND IMPORTANCE OF BOTH PROJECTS.

1. PRESS SUMMARY OF SEPTEMBER 3, 1985:

(TUESDAY, 9/3) WASHINGTON POST --

NICARAGUA: ROBERT J. MCCARTNEY, FRONT PAGE FROM TEGUCIGALPA ("NICARAGUAN GUERRILLAS CLAIM GREATER STRENGTH; LARGER UNITS TARGET POPULATION CENTERS"): "ANTIGOVERNMENT GUERRILLAS, AWASH IN FRESH SUPPLIES, HAVE BEGUN FIGHTING IN LARGER UNITS IN AN EFFORT TO PENETRATE NICARAGUA'S POPULATION CENTERS AND TO INTENSIFY ATTACKS ON SANDINISTA TROOPS AND ECONOMIC TARGETS, REBEL LEADERS SAY."

THE CONTRAS HAVE RECEIVED SPECIAL TRAINING TO PROTECT THEMSELVES AGAINST ARTILLERY AND HELICOPTERS AND PLAN "TO USE SHOULDER-FIRED ANTIAIRCRAFT MISSILES AGAINST THE HELICOPTERS AND TO OBTAIN AN UNDISCLOSED TYPE OF WEAPON TO 'NEUTRALIZE' SANDINISTA ARTILLERY."

A REBEL OFFENSIVE IN JUNE AND JULY WAS MADE POSSIBLE BY THEIR SUCCESS IN FUNNELING IN AMMUNITION AND WEAPONS FROM

PRIVATE CONTRIBUTORS, ACCORDING TO CONTRAS AND OTHER SOURCES. "...A STRING OF MILITARY SUCCESSES WOULD ENCOURAGE THE US CONGRESS TO LOOK FAVORABLY ON RESUMING MILITARY AID JTO THE CONTRAS, AS THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION IS EXPECTED TO PROPOSE THIS AUTUMN, CONTRAS SAID."

FDN LEADERS "WERE IN A BUOYANT, ALMOST COCKY MOOD FOLLOWING TWO SUCCESSFUL ATTACKS IN EARLY AUGUST," BUT MILITARY ANALYSTS SAID IT WAS TOO EARLY TO SAY WHETHER THEY'D MADE SIGNFICANT ADVANCES.

NICARAGUA: ROBERT PARRY (AP), P. 2 ("NICARAGUANS NET $3000 FROM $220,000 DINNER; APRIL FUND-RAISER FEATURED SPEECH BY REAGAN"): "NICARAGUAN REFUGEES GOT ONLY $3000 OF THE $219,525 TAKEN IN ON THEIR BEHALF AT AN APRIL FUND-RAISING DINNER FEATURING A SPEECH BY PRES. REAGAN, ACCORDING TO AN INTERNAL AUDIT."

NICARAGUA: JOHN LANTIGUA, P. 21 FROM SAN JACINTO, 9/2 ("NICARAGUA RESUMES DRAFT FOR REST OF '85"): "AFTER A 4-MO HIATUS, THE SANDINISTA ARMY HAS RESUMED DRAFTING YOUNG MEN, AND DEFMIN HUMBERTO ORTEGA SAID TODAY THAT THE DRAFT WOULD CONTINUE THROUGH THIS YEAR AS PART OF A MOBILIZATION AGAINST US-BACKED REBELS.

"THE ANNOUNCEMENT COINCIDED WITH REPORTS FROM RESIDENTS OF CHONTALES PROVINCE... OF THE HEAVIEST FIGHTING THEY HAVE EXPERIENCED IN 3 1/2 YEARS OF WAR. THIS MOVE BY THE REBELS OF THE FDN IS IN A RELATIVELY NEW AREA FOR THEM." ORTEGA CALLED THE PENETRATION A DIVERSIONARY TACTIC.

"ORTEGA SAID THE FOUR MONTHS SINCE THE DRAFT WAS HALTED HAD BEEN USED TO STUDY PROBLEMS WITH THE MILITARY SERVICE SYSTEM. HUMAN RIGHTS OFFICIALS AND CATHOLIC CHURCH LEADERS HAVE COMPLAINED THAT SANDINISTA DRAFT SWEEPS OFTEN HAVE INCLUDED BOYS UNDER THE DRAFT AGE OF 17. THEY HAVE ALSO COMPLAINED OF SOME DRAFTEES RECEIVING INSUFFICIENT TRAINING BEFORE GOING INTO COMBAT AND THAT THE ARMY HAS BEEN USED FOR MARXIST INDOCTRINATION."

MEXICO: WILLIAM A. ORME JR, P. 22 FROM MEXICO CITY

"HE BLAMED A RECENT DECLINE IN TOURISM PARTLY ON INTERNATIONAL PRESS REPORTS THAT HE SAID PROJECTED 'A FALSE IMAGE OF INSECURITY.'"

HONDURAS: JOANNE OMANG, P. 27 FROM PALMEROLA AFB ("GIS ATTEMPT CIVIC ACTION IN DISRUPTED HONDURAS; RURAL MEDICAL CARE ACCOMPANIES AIR BASE") REPORTS THE END OF THE LATEST MILITARY EXERCISE, CABANAS 85, IN WHICH "...SOLDIERS ON MANEUVRES BUILT A TWO-LANE, 13-MILE GRAVEL ROAD BETWEEN SAN LORENZO AND JOCON... BEFORE THIS, THERE HAD ONLY BEEN COW PATHS FOR THE AREA'S DESPERATELY POOR PEOPLE."

"...THE US PRESENCE... IS HELPING THE HONDURAN GOVERNMENT MAKE ITSELF FELT IN SOME OF THE COUNTRY'S MOST NEGLECTED AND RESENTFUL AREAS-- COURTING HEARTS AND MINDS WITH MEDICAL PROGRAMS, ROADS TO MARKET, GIFTS AND CHEWING GUM-- AND SHOWING MUSCLE TO THOSE DISINCLINED TO SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT."

OMANG ALSO NOTES US SPY PLANES AND LISTENING STATIONS, THOUGH ALL US PERSONNEL HERE DENY THE BASE HAS ANYTHING TO DO WITH THE CONTRA WAR.

(SUNDAY, 9/1) WASHINGTON POST --

CHILE: P. 32 SANTIAGO BRIEF ("7 CHILEAN POLICEMEN ARRESTED") NOTES ARRESTS IN CONNECTION WITH THE KILLING OF THREE COMMUNISTS IN MARCH.

ECUADOR: SAME PAGE QUITO BRIEF ("REBELS HOLD ECUADORAN BANKER"): "SPECIAL POLICE AND ARMY ENGAGED LEFT-WING GUERRILLAS IN A BRIEF GUNFIGHT THEN SURROUNDED THE HOUSE WHERE THE REBELS ARE HOLDING KIDNAPED BANKER NAHIM ISAIAS... GOV. JAIME NEBOT SAID THE GUERRILLAS BELONGED TO COLOMBIA'S M19 MOVEMENT AND ECUARDOR'S ALFARO VIVE, A REBEL GROUP THAT SURFACED LESS THAN A YEAR AGO."

ARGENTINA: JAMES L. ROWE JR, P. M1 FROM BUENOS AIRES ("ALFONSIN LEADS ARGENTINES INTO WAR AGAINST INFLATION") FINDS THAT ALFONSIN'S BLAMING OF ECONOMIC PROBLEMS, NOT ON FOREIGN BANKERS OR THE DEBT, BUT ON ARGENTINE ECONOMIC

POLICES WAS "AN AMAZING CHANGE OF COURSE FOR THE HONDURAS: P. 30 TEGUCIGALPA BRIEF ("REFUGEES KILLED IN HONDURAS") NOTES 2 SALVADORAN REFUGEES KILLED, 50 WOUNDED, IN A MILITARY OPERATION AT A CAMP NEAR THE SALVADORAN BORDER, ACCORDING TO A CHURCH AGENCY.

NICARAGUA: LOU CANNON, P. 29 FROM SANTA BARBARA, CALIF ("CONTRA-AID OFFICE SET UP BY REAGAN; ANTI-SANDINISTA RHETORIC TONED DOWN"): "PRES. REAGAN ANNOUNCED CREATION OF AN OFFICE TODAY TO ADMINISTER 'HUMANITARIAN AID' TO REBELS FIGHTING THE GON. HIS CAREFULLY WORDED STATEMENT AVOIDED MILITANT LANGUAGE HE HAS OFTEN USED IN OPPOSING THE LEFTIST SANDINISTA REGIME."

ACCORDING TO WH OFFICIALS, THE STATEMENT WAS DRAFTED BY THE STATE DEPT. "IT CONTRASTED WITH REAGAN'S RHETORIC AND THAT OF WH SPEECHWRITERS WHO HAVE REFERRED TO THE CONTRAS AS 'FREEDOM FIGHTERS' AND COMPARED THEM TO HEROES OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTIONARY WAR."

FOUR OR FIVE MID-LEVEL STATE OFFICIALS ARE UNDER CONSIDERATION TO HEAD THE AGENCY, WITH FORMER US SINAI SUPPORT FORCE DIRECTOR C. WILLIAM KONTOS THE FRONTRUNNER.

(TUESDAY, 9/3) NEW YORK TIMES --

PERU: ALAN RIDING, FRONT PAGE FROM LIMA, 8/30 ("DOWNCAST PERU IS GIVEN A LIFT BY NEW LEADER"): "AFTER BARELY ONE MONTH IN OFFICE, PERU'S NEW PRESIDENT, ALAN GARCIA PEREZ,

"EXUDING SELF-CONFIDENCE, THE 36-YR-OLD PRESIDENT HAS TACKLED PROBLEMS THAT HAD LONG APPEARED INSOLUBLE, INCLUDING INFLATION, CORRUPTION, ARMS SPENDING, NARCOTICS TRAFFICKING, LEFTIST TERORISM AND A SEEMINGLY UNPAYABLE $14 BILLION FOREIGN DEBT."

IF THOSE WHO OPPOSED HIM BELIEVE GARCIA HAS SHOWN REAL PROWESS IN HIS FIRST 30 DAYS. THE ONLY CONCERNS INVOLVE THE CENTRALIZATION OF POWER AROUND HIM AND THE POSSIBILITY THAT CHANGES ARE OCCURRING TOO QUICKLY, THOUGH GARCIA BELIEVES THEY AREN'T TAKING PLACE FAST ENOUGH.

"SENSING THAT THE YOUNG SOCIAL DEMOCRAT IS INSPIRED MORE BY IDEALISM THAN IDEOLOGY, THE UNITED LEFT COALITION, THE COUNTRY'S SECOND POLITICAL FORCE, AND THE CONSERVATIVE PRIVATE SECTOR" HAVE APPLAUDED GARCIA'S CRACKDOWN ON INFLATION AND CORRUPTION. "NO LESS SIGNFICANTLY, THE ARMED FORCES, WHICH GOVERNED PERU FROM 1968 TO 1980, HAVE SOFAR ACCEPTED THE REASSERTION OF CIVILIAN CONTROL OVER THE MILITARY."

NICARAGUA: STEPHEN KINZER, P. 2 FROM MANAGUA, 9/2 ("SANDINISTA PORTRAIT: POET, MILITANT, BIBLE DEVOTEE") PROFILES INTERIOR MINISTER TOMAS BORGE, WHO "...DEPORTS PRIESTS WHENEVER HE DEEMS IT NECESSARY, BUT HIS OFFICIAL BIOGRAPHY LISTS THE BIBLE AS HIS FAVORITE BOOK. HE SAYS HE NO LONGER CONSIDERS HIMSELF A ROMAN CATHOLIC, BUT HE HAS ACCUMULATED A COLLECTION OF CRUCIFIXES THAT FILLS AN ENTIRE ROOM."

ECUADOR: AP/QUITO, P. 13, 9/2 ("ECUADORAN BANKER IS SLAIN WITH ABDUCTORS"): "POLICEMEN AND ARMY COMMANDOS STORMED A HOUSE TODAY IN AN EFFORT TO RESCUE A BANKER FROM FOUR GUERRILLA KIDNAPPERS, BUT HE WAS KILLED DURING THE RAID ALONG WITH HIS ABDUCTORS." PRES. FEBRES CORDERO SAID THE KIDNAPPERS WERE MEMBERS OF THE COLOMBIAN GROUP M-19 AND THE ECUADOREAN ALFARO VIVE.

BOLIVIA: AP/LA PAZ, SAME PAGE, 9/2 ("THOUSANDS OF WORKERS HOLD MARCH IN BOLIVIA") REPORTS A PROTEST MARCH AND STRIKES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT'S SEVERE INFLATION-CONTROL MEASURES.

(SUNDAY, 9/1) NEW YORK TIMES --

PERU: ALAN RIDING, FRONT PAGE FROM LIMA, 8/30 ("PERU JOINS ATTACK ON COCAINE TRADE; POLICE, UNDER NEW PRESIDENT, MAKE US-FINANCED RAIDS"): "AFTER YEARS IN WHICH PERUVIAN AUTHORITIES CHOSE TO IGNORE THE FAST-EXPANDING COCAINE BUSINESS, THE COUNTRY'S NEW PRESIDENT, ALAN GARCIA PEREZ, HAS ORDERED A FRONTAL ATTACK ON THE PROBLEM.

"TWO WEEKS AGO THE POLICE MOVED INTO A JUNGLE AREA NEAR THE COLOMBIAN BORDER AND SEIZED FOUR COCAINE-PROCESSING INSTALLATIONS AND ADJACENT AIRSTRIPS. THE RAIDS WERE FINANCED BY THE US, AND COLOMBIAN HELICOPTERS FERRIED PERUVIAN POLICEMEN TO THE SITE. BUT IT WAS THE GARCIA

RIDING QUOTES A US DIPLOMAT THAT "WE'RE DELIGHTED BY WHAT'S HAPPENING... THERE'S A LOT STILL TO BE DONE, BUT AT LEAST THE WILL IS APPARENT NOW."

BOLIVIA: REUTERS/LA PAZ, 8/31, P. 13 ("MINERS STRIKE IN

NICARAGUA/HONDURAS: REUTERS/TEGUCIGALPA, SAME PAGE, 8/31 ("NICARAGUA CALLS REBELS A THREAT IN HONDURAS"): "NICARAGUA'S EMBASSY IN HONDURAS HAS REQUESTED PROTECTION FROM THE HONDURAN FOREIGN MINISTRY AFTER THREATS FROM RIGHT-WING NICARAGUAN REBELS."

EL SALVADOR: "THE WORLD," P. 2E ("SALVADOR HOLDS 3 SUSPECTS IN DEATH OF MARINES") RECOUNTS THE CAPTURE OF THREE ZONA ROSA MASSACRE SUSPECTS, "PICKED UP WITH THE HELP OF INTELLIGENCE INFORMATION PROVIDED BY THE US AND BY INFORMERS WHO INFILTRATED THE REBELS, ACCORDING TO SALVADORAN OFFICIALS."

CHILE: LYDIA CHAVEZ, P. 3E FROM SANTIAGO ("CARDINAL GETS FACTIONS TO AGREE ON STEPS TOWARD CIVILIAN RULE: CHILEAN CHURCH IN THE FOREFRONT OF POLITICS"): "WHEN PRES. WEINRAUB QUOTES EXTENSIVELY FROM THE REAGAN ADDRESS ANNOUNCING THE NEW OFFICE.

EL SALVADOR: JAMES LEMOYNE, P. 5 FROM SAN SALVADOR, 8/30 ("SALVADORANS TELL OF ROLES IN SLAYINGS"): "THREE SALVADORANS APPEARED AT A GOVERNMENT NEWS CONFERENCE TODAY AND DESCRIBED WHAT THEY SAID HAD BEEN THEIR ROLE IN THE KILLINGS OF 13 PEOPLE HERE, INCLUDING FOUR US MARINES.

"ONE OF THE SUSPECTS SAID HE HAD OPENED FIRE; THE OTER TWO SAID THEY HAD ASSISTED THOSE WHO DID THE SHOOTING."

DUARTE "...ANNNOUNCED THE ARREST OF THE THREE MEN ON TUESDAY. THEY LATER APPEARED BRIEFLY ON GOVERNMENT TELEVISION CONFESSING TO THE CRIME. TWO US AGENCIES, THE

ALTHOUGH A REBEL STATEMENT DENIES THE THREE WERE INVOLVED IN THE JUNE 19 KILLINGS, IN THEIR TV CONFERENCE THE THREE "GAVE HIGHLY DETAILED ACCOUNTS OF THE ATTACK AND OF HOW THE REBEL COMMANDOS OPERATE IN THE CAPITAL. THERE WERE SLIGHT CONTRADICTIONS IN THE DATES THEY GAVE FOR THEIR CAPTURE AND CONFESSION TO THE POLICE, BUT THEY SAID THEY HAD NOT BEEN ABUSED AND THEY APPEARED READY TO ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS FROM REPORTERS."

(TUESDAY, 9/3) WALL STREET JOURNAL --

SUBJECT: AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ' HOMILY
- SEPTEMBER 1

1. SUMMARY

IN HIS HOMILY OF SEPTEMBER 1, AUXILIARY BISHOP GREGORIO ROSA CHAVEZ TALKED OF PLANS TO REBUILD TENANCINGO, GAVE SOME SKETCHY VIOLENCE STATISTICS FOR THE LAST TWO-WEEK PERIOD, AND INFORMED THE CONGREGATION OF THE HONDURAN ARMY'S INVASION OF THE COLOMONCAGUA REFUGEE CAMP, STRESSING THE CHURCH'S POLICY THAT THE CAMPS SHOULD BE INVIOLATE BUT AT THE SAME TIME MUST BE NEUTRAL. END SUMMARY.

2. REBUILDING TENANCINGO

AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ MARKED THE 17TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE FOUNDATION FOR MINIMUM HOUSING AND DEVELOPMENT (FUNDASAL), A MUTUAL ASSISTANCE ORGANIZATION WHICH CONSTRUCTS MINIMUM-STANDARD HOUSING WITH THE EFFORTS OF THE BENEFICIARIES. "TENANCINGO IS NOW THE NEW CHALLENGE OF FUNDASAL," SAID ROSA CHAVEZ, REFERRING TO THE CHURCH'S PLANS TO RECONSTRUCT THE ABANDONED AND PARTIALLY-DESTROYED TOWN. "WE HAVE HERE THE OPPORTUNITY TO CREATE AN ALTERNATIVE THAT WOULD CONSTITUTE A MODEL OF WHAT WE CAN ACCOMPLISH THROUGH PEACE. LET US ASK FOR GOD'S HELP SO THAT THE DIFFICULTIES STILL BEING ENCOUNTERED MAY BE SATISFACTORILY RESOLVED."

3. VIOLENCE STATISTICS

TUTELA LEGAL REPORTED 80 (EIGHTY) VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE DURING THE LAST TWO WEEKS, SAID ROSA CHAVEZ. "BUT DEATH

HAS EVEN REACHED OUR COUNTRYMEN BEYOND OUR BORDERS, AS SHOWN BY THE ASSASSINATION OF A WELL-LIKED ENTREPRENEUR, JORGE PALMO SOL, IN MIAMI AND THE TRAGEDY WHICH TOOK PLACE AT THE SALVADORAN REFUGEE CAMP IN COLOMONCAGUA, HONDURAS."

4. THE COLOMONCAGUA REFUGEE CAMP EVENTS

RELEA

ACCORDING TO THE PRELIMINARY DATA SENT BY BISHOP LUIS ALFONSO SANTOS OF HONDURAS, SAID ROSA CHAVEZ, THERE WERE MILITARY OPERATIONS ON AUGUST 28 IN THE MUNICIPALITY OF COLOMONCAGUA, INTIBUCA, THE LOCATION OF A LARGE SALVADORAN REFUGEE CAMP. "WHEN THE ARMY VIOLENTLY ENTERED THE REFUGEE CAMP, THE RESULTS WERE TWO REFUGEES DEAD, FIFTY INJURED, AND FIFTEEN ARRESTED. AS A SIGN OF OUR CONCERN FOR THE REFUGEES, THE ARCHBISHOPRIC SENT A DELEGATION TO COLOMONCAGUA WHICH SHOULD HAVE ARRIVED THERE YESTERDAY TO FIND OUT DIRECTLY WHAT THE SITUATION IS SO THAT WE MAY DISCUSS IT WITH BISHOP LUIS ALFONSO SANTOS. IT IS WELL TO REMEMBER ONCE MORE WHAT THE CHURCH'S POSITION IS REGARDING THE REFUGEE CAMPS: WE ARE DETERMINED DEFENDERS OF THEIR INVIOLABILITY, BUT WITH THE SAME CONVICTION WE INSIST THAT THEY BE NEUTRAL."

5. ARRESTS IN THE ZONA ROSA CASE

"I CONCLUDE WITH A BRIEF COMMENT ON THE NEWS ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT THIS WEEK: THE SOLVING OF THE TRAGIC CASE OF THE ZONA ROSA AND THE ARREST OF THREE OF THE GUILTY PARTIES. ASSUMING, OF COURSE, THAT THE NEWS IS ACCURATE, THERE IS HOPE THAT IN SO FAR AS THE GOVERNMENT IS CONCERNED, THERE WILL BE AS MUCH INTEREST DIRECTED TOWARDS FIGHTING ALL FORMS OF TERRORISM THAT DAILY BRING MOURNING TO SALVADORAN HOMES. WE KNOW THAT TERRORISM CAN COME NOT ONLY FROM GROUPS OF THE EXTREME RIGHT OR LEFT. PEACE WILL ONLY BE POSSIBLE IF HUMAN DIGNITY IS RESPECTED BY ALL THOSE WHO HOLD WEAPONS IN THEIR HANDS," ADMONISHED THE BISHOP.

SUBJECT: KIDNAPPED MAYORS NOT RELEASED; GIVE PRESS CONFERENCE

REF: A. SAN SALVADOR 11143
B. SAN SALVADOR 09297
C. FBIS CHIVACHIVA PN 260187Z AUG 85

1. SUMMARY. ON SEPTEMBER 2, 1985, THE PEOPLE'S REVOLUTIONARY ARMY (ERP) HELD A PRESS CONFERENCE IN PERQUIN, MORAZAN, PRESENTING SEVEN OF THE MAYORS AND ONE TOWN SECRETARY KIDNAPPED BY THE GUERRILLAS BETWEEN APRIL AND JUNE OF THISYEAR. THE GUERRILLAS REPEATED THEIR DEMAND FOR THE FREEDOM OF NINE GUERRILLAS THEY ALLEGE (AND THE GOES DENIES) WERE CAPTURED BY THE SALVADORAN GOVERNMENT, IN RETURN FOR THE FREEDOM OF THE MAYORS THEY HOLD. END SUMMARY.

2. ON SEPTEMBER 2, 1985, SEVEN JOURNALISTS, INCLUDING A REPRESENTATIVE OF UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL, WERE ISSUED SAFE-CONDUCT PASSES BY THE SALVADORAN ARMY TO TRAVEL TO PERQUIN FOR A PRESS CONFERENCE WITH THE GUERRILLAS. THE SECRETARY GENERAL OF THE SALVADORAN COMMUNIST PARTY (PCES), JORGE SHAFIK HANDAL, AND THE COMMANDER OF THE ERP, JOAQUIN VILLALOBOS, APPEARED AT THE CONFERENCE ACCOMPANIED BY EIGHT OF THE SIXTEEN TOWN OFFICIALS BEING HELD BY THE GUERRILLAS. THE PRISONERS PRESENTED WERE:

NAME	TOWN	TITLE
ANTONIO HERNANDEZ LUNA	SAN SIMON, MORAZAN	MAYOR
SANTOS VELASQUEZ	SAN LUIS DE LA REINA, SAN MIGUEL	MAYOR
ANTOLIN NUNEZ CANALES	EL SAUCE, LA UNION	MAYOR
JUAN FRANCISCO GARCIA	GUALOTECTI, MORAZAN	MAYOR
CIRIACO HERNANDEZ COREAS	YOLOAIQUIN, MORAZAN	MAYOR
FRANCISCO ISRAEL DIAZ	LOLOTIQUE, SAN MIGUEL	MAYOR
LUCIO RIOS VILLATORO	NUEVA ESPARTA, LA UNION	MAYOR
LUIS ADAN FUENTES	POLOROS, LA UNION	SECRETARY

THESE EIGHT HAD SIGNED AN "OPEN LETTER" WHICH APPEARED IN THE SAN SALVADOR DAILY "EL MUNDO" ON AUGUST 20, CALLING ON THE GOVERNMENT TO ADJUDICATE THE CASES OF NINE MEMBERS OF THE FARABUNDO MARTI NATIONAL LIBERATION FRONT (FMLN) SUPPOSEDLY BEING HELD BY THE GOVERNMENT, IN RETURN FOR THE MAYORS' RELEASE (REF A). DURING THE CONFERENCE, THE MAYORS SAID THEY FELT ABANDONED BY THE GOVERNMENT, AND THAT THE CHURCH WAS NOT HELPING TO GAIN THEIR RELEASE EITHER.

3. THE GUERRILLAS BEGAN KIDNAPPING THE MAYORS IN APRIL, IMMEDIATELY AFTER THEY HAD BEEN ELECTED. A TOTAL OF SIXTEEN MAYORS AND THREE OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS WERE KIDNAPPED BETWEEN APRIL 2 AND JUNE 4. ONE OTHER MAYOR WAS KILLED (MAURICIO VALENZUELA, MAYOR OF SAN JORGE, SAN MIGUEL, CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY, IN APRIL), AND ANOTHER WAS WOUNDED IN A KIDNAP ATTEMPT (ROLANDO GUZMAN GUZMAN, MAYOR OF SAN RAFAEL OBRAJUELO, LA PAZ, IN JUNE). TWO OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS WERE LATER RELEASED: RAUL PINEDA, MAYOR OF EL CARRIZAL, CHALATENANGO; AND MODESTO MARTINEZ, MAYOR OF GUATAJIAGUA, MORAZAN. BOTH ARE MEMBERS OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC). THE MAYORS STILL BEING HELD ARE ALSO MOSTLY PDC MEMBERS.

4. THE FIRST COMMUNICATION FROM THE GUERRILLAS ABOUT THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS WAS A PAID ADVERTISEMENT PUBLISHED IN THE DAILY "EL MUNDO" ON JULY 18, 1985 (REF B). THE ADVERTISEMENT DEMANDED THE ADJUDICATION OF THE CASES OF THE SAME NINE FMLN MEMBERS LISTED IN THE LATER ADVERTISEMENT, AS THE PRICE OF THE RELEASE OF THE MAYORS. THE JULY 18 ADVERTISEMENT WAS SIGNED BY FIVE MAYORS:

GALILEO CASTILLO CAMACHO	EREGUAYQUIN, USULUTAN	MAYOR
MAITAS ALFARO	JUCUARAN, USULUTAN	MAYOR
FRANCISCO NELSON AYALA	TECAPAN, USULUTAN	MAYOR
EDUARDO ARGUETA CASTILLO	ALEGRIA, USULUTAN	MAYOR
MANUEL DE JESUS ALEMAN	SAN DIONISIO, USULUTAN	MAYOR

5. THE GOVERNMENT DENOUNCED THE KIDNAPPINGS AND CLAIMS IT IS HOLDING NONE OF THE NINE FMLN MEMBERS ABOUT WHOM THE FMLN HAS DEMANDED INFORMATION. AS REPORTED (REF A), A NUMBER OF SERVING MAYORS MET IN SAN SALVADOR ON AUGUST 15 TO ASK THE GOVERNMENT WHAT STEPS IT WAS TAKING TO

FREE THE MAYORS. AND PLANNED A MARCH FOR AUGUST 23 IN SAN MIGUEL TO PROTEST THE GUERRILLAS' CONTINUED DETENTION OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS. THE MARCH DID NOT OCCUR. ACCORDING TO AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ' HOMILY ON AUGUST 25, THE MARCH WAS CANCELLED AS ONE ERP CONDITION FOR THE RELEASE OF THE MAYORS, THE OTHER BEING THE PUBLICATION OF THE AUGUST 18 ADVERTISEMENT. HOWEVER, A RADIO VENCEREMOS BROADCAST ON AUGUST 25 SAID THAT THE CHURCH WAS NOT PARTICIPATING IN THE CASE AND THAT "ANYTHING SAID ABOUT THE CASE OF THE CAPTURED MAYORS BY SPOKESMEN OF THE CHURCH, PARTICULARLY BY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ, IS MERE SPECULATION OR DISTORTED INFORMATION." (REF C). THE SEPTEMBER 1 DEADLINE, BY WHICH ROSA CHAVEZ HAD SUGGESTED THE MAYORS WOULD BE RELEASED, PASSED WITHOUT SUCH ACTION BY THE GUERILLAS.

6. EMBASSY SOURCES INDICATE THAT ONE OF THE NINE FMLN MEMBERS NAMED WAS INCARCERATED BY SECURITY FORCES AND WAS RELEASED TO HIS FAMILY IN APRIL, BUT THAT THE GOES AS NEVER ARRESTED THE OTHERS. THE ERP CLAIMED IN JANUARY 1985 VIA RADIO VENCEREMOS THAT THE NATIONAL GUARD HAD CAPTURED ERP CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEMBER YANETH SAMOUR HASBUN (COMANDANTE FILOMENA) AND MAXIMINA REYES, TWO OF THE NINE ON THE LIST, BUT THE GOVERNMENT HAS STEADFASTLY DENIED EVER HAVING THEM IN CUSTODY.

7. THE NAMES OF TWO MAYORS AND TWO OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS KIDNAPPED BY THE GUERRILLAS HAVE NOT APPEARED IN EITHER ADVERTISEMENT. THE GUERRILLAS HAVE NOT MENTIONED THEM IN ANY OF THEIR ANNOUNCEMENTS. WE DO NOT HAVE THE NAMES OF THE TWO OFFICIALS, WHO WERE KIDNAPPED AT THE SAME TIME AS MAYOR FLORES. THE TWO MAYORS UNACCOUNTED FOR ARE:

ERNESTO ANTONIO FLORES	EL TRIUNFO, USULUTAN	MAYOR
LORENZO AREVALO	SAN RAFAEL ORIENTE, SAN MIGUEL	MAYOR

THE TOLL STANDS AT: FOURTEEN MAYORS AND THREE OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS HELD PRISONER, OF WHICH TWO MAYORS AND TWO OFFICIALS HAVE NOT BEEN HEARD FROM; ONE MAYOR DEAD; ONE MAYOR WOUNDED. THE GUERRILLAS HAVE DEMANDED THE ADJUDICATION OF THE CASES OF GUERRILLAS OF WHOM THE GOVERNMENT CLAIMS TO HAVE NO KNOWLEDGE. THE GUERRILLAS HAVE OBTAINED PUBLICATION OF THEIR PROPAGANDA AND THE COMPLIANCE OF THE KIDNAPPEES' FAMILIES IN THOSE PUBLICATIONS AS A CONDITION OF THE MAYORS' RELEASE, AND THE CANCELLATION OF A PROTEST MARCH, BUT HAVE STILL REFUSED TO RELEASE THEIR PRISONERS. THE STALEMATE CONTINUES.

CONFINE THEIR COMMENTS TO PROCEDURAL RATHER THAN SUBSTANTIVE QUESTIONS. SURINAME AND HAITI BOTH SUPPORTED THE RESOLUTION. CHILE FINALLY AGREED TO A THREE-HOUR RECESS DURING WHICH COLOMBIA, VENEZUELA AND MEXICO WORKED OUT ANOTHER RESOLUTION WHICH WOULD HAVE REFERRED CHILE'S QUESTIONS TO THE INTER-AMERICAN HUMAN RIGHTS COURT. SUBJECT: CODEL LOWERY: MEETING WITH PRESIDENT ORTEGA

1. SUMMARY: CODEL LOWERY MET WITH PRESIDENT DANIEL ORTEGA ON AUGUST 28. THE MEETING FOCUSED ON THE ISSUES OF CONTADORA AND INTERNAL DIALOGUE AND ALSO TOUCHED ON THE CODEL'S CONCERNS ABOUT THE NICARAGUAN EDUCATION SYSTEM AND THE DEFINITION OF NON-ALIGNMENT. THE TENOR OF THE MEETING WAS FRIENDLY; ORTEGA WAS RELAXED AND ACTUALLY LAUGHED A FEW TIMES. STILL, HE DID NOT RELAX TO THE POINT OF DEVIATING FROM HIS BASIC THEME OF U.S. AGGRESSION AS THE CAUSE OF ALL NICARAGUA'S WOES. END SUMMARY

2. CODEL LOWERY MET WITH PRESIDENT DANIEL ORTEGA IN A ONE AND ONE-HALF HOUR SESSION THAT INCLUDED VICE MINISTER NORA ASTORGA AND SAUL ARANA OF THE NORTH AMERICA DESK, BOTH FROM THE FOREIGN MINISTRY; AND REP. WILLIAM LOWERY (R-CA), REP. VIC FAZIO (D-CA), AND SIX MEMBERS OF THE CODEL GROUP. ORTEGA WAS UNUSUALLY RELAXED AND HUMOROUS. HE RESPONDED TO THE CONGRESSMEN'S PROMPTING ABOUT HIS POLITICAL ROOTS BY TELLING OF THE POLITICAL ATMOSPHERE IN HIS HOME

ADMIRED SANDINO. HE SAID THAT HE HAD PARTICIPATED IN DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST SOMOZA EVEN AS A YOUTH AND HAD LEARNED TO HATE ALL AMERICANS EXCEPT BASEBALL PLAYERS; "THEY WERE THE ONLY ONES I LIKED" ONCE HE WAS INVOLVED IN A DEMONSTRATION NEAR THE MAIN CATHEDRAL WHEN THE NATIONAL GUARD CAME AND BROKE UP THE GROUP WITH TEAR GASA AND RIOT BATONS. THEY STARTED SHOOTING, ORTEGA SAID, AND SOME OF THE DEMONSTRATORS FLED INTO THE CATHEDRAL. THERE THEY INTERRUPTED A WEDDING BETWEEN A NICARAGUAN GIRL AND AN AMERICAN. "HE MUST HAVE BEEN A CADET IN ONE OF THESE AMERICAN MILITARY SCHOOLS," ORTEGA SAID. "BECAUSE HE WAS WEARING ONE OF THOSE UNIFORMS. WE SHOUTED, 'YOU'RE A MARINE*' AND ALL OF US JUMPED HIM'," WITH A NOSTALGIC SMILE ORTEGA NOTED THAT THE GENERAL ANTI-AMERICAN SENTIMENT IN NICARAGUA HAS DISAPPEARED AND HAS BECOME FOCUSED ON THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT INSTEAD. "(NICARAGUANS) HAVE LEARNED TO DISTINGUISH BETWEEN THE U.S. GOVERNMENT AND THE AMERICAN PEOPLE," HE SAID.

3. THE REVOLUTIONARIES INITIALLY HAD HIGH EXPECTATIONS FOR QUICK MOVEMENT TO SOLVE PRESSING SOCIAL PROBLEMS, ORTEGA SAID, TURNING SERIOUS. THE THEN GRN TRIED TO COMBINE ALL SECTORS OF THE SOCIETY TO WORK TO ACHIEVE THE INITIAL GOALS. THE REVOLUTION'S IDEOLOGY WAS BASED ON NICARAGUA'S HISTORIC ROOTS. ITS LEADERS SOUGHT AN HISTORIC RECONCILIATION WITH THE U.S. AND WITH CARTER AS PRESIDENT THE GOAL OF AMERICAN-NICARAGUAN COOPERATION SEEMED POSSIBLE. "MAYBE OUR VISION WAS TOO ROMANTIC," ORTEGA SAID. WHEN THE SANDINISTAS ANNOUNCED ON AUGUST 22, 1980 THAT ELECTIONS WOULD BE HELD IN 1985, "WE EXPECTED TO HAVE ACHIEVED ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL REVITALIZATION" BY THAT TIME. UNFORTUNATELY, ORTEGA CONTINUED, SOME SECTORS OF THE SOCIETY REFUSED TO COOPERATE. HOWEVER, HE CLAIMED THAT "CRITICISM WAS ALWAYS CIVILIZED" UNTIL THE ADVENT OF THE ARMED OPPOSITION.

4. ORTEGA STRESSED THE GON'S WILLINGNESS TO CONTINUE THE EFFORTS

AT INTERNAL DIALOGUE. HE REFERRED TO THE TELEVISED MEETING WITH COSEP AND OTHER OPPOSITION GROUPS IN FEBRUARY AS A STEP ON THE GOVERNMENT'S PART TOWARDS RECONCILIATION. HOWEVER, HE HARSHLY CRITICIZED THE OPPOSITION FOR REFUSING TO PARTICIPATE FULLY IN THE CONSTITUTION-WRITING PROCESS. ALL THESE MEETINGS FAIL, ORTEGA CLAIMED BECAUSE THE U.S. IS FUNDING THE COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES.

UNTIL THE INTERNAL OPPOSITION IS CONVINCED THAT THE U.S. GOVERNMENT CANNOT DEFEAT THE REVOLUTION, IT WILL CNONTINUE TO WAIT FOR THE BIG CHANGE INSTEAD OF PARTICIPATING IN REAL EFFORTS TO SOLVE NICARAGUA'S PROBLEMS. THUS, ORTEGA MAINTAINED, THE GON LABORS UNDER A SET OF ARTIFICIAL CONDITIONS. "THE CONTRA IS AN ARTIFICIAL FORCE," HE SAID. HE STATED THAT IT IS NOW CLEAR THAT THE NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL WAS VIOLATING THE BOLAND AMENDMENT AND THAT THE CONTRAS NEVER STOPPED RECEIVING OUTSIDE FUNDS. THE CONTINUED POLITICAL SUPPORT OF THE USG WAS FAR MORE IMPORTANT TO THEM THAN ANY AMOUNT OF MONEY, ORTEGA INSISTED.

5. PRESIDENT ORTEGA EXPRESSED HOPE FOR MOVEMENT ON CONTADORA NOW THAT FOUR ADDITIONAL LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES HAVE JOINED THE GROUP. HE REITERATED THE WHOLE TALE OF NEGOTIATIONS, ACCEPTANCES, AND REFUSALS IN CONTADORA AND ACCUSED THE U.S. OF BLOCKING PROGRESS. CARTEGENA, HE SAID, "HAS TO MAKE THE U.S. REFLECT" ON ITS POSITION. HE CLAIMED THAT THE SEPTEMBER DRAFT ACCEPTED BY THE GON ALREADY CONTAINS VERIFICATION PROCEDURES. WHEN CHALLENGED ON THE ISSUE OF ARMS TO EL SALVADOR AND SUBSEQUENT FEARS ON THE PART OF NEIGHBORING GOVERNMENTS, ORTEGA STATED THAT "REVOLUTION CAN NOT BE EXPORTED." THE CONDITIONS FOR REVOLUTION MUST EXIST IN ORDER FOR REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENTS TO FORM. IF THE U.S. HAD PROMOTED DEMOCRATIC REGIMES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, HE ADDED, NICARAGUA WOULD NEVER HAVE HAD A REVOLUTION. IN CONCLUSION ORTEGA REPEATED THE GON'S DESIRE TO WORK WITH ALL LATIN AMERICA FOR A NEW RELATIONSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES.

6. SEVERAL OF THE MEMBERS OF THE CODEL ASKED ORTEGA ABOUT THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM IN NICARAGUA. THEIR CONCERNS INCLUDED THE STRICT GOVERNMENT CURRICULUM AND PARTICULARLY CONTROLS ON RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS. ORTEGA RESPONDED THAT NICARAGUA'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM HAD BEEN INSPIRED BY THE EXPERIENCE OF MEXICO AND OTHER INTERNATIONAL LEADERS. HE DENIED THAT THE GON PLACED ANY RESTRICTIONS ON CHILDREN'S EDUCATION AND NOTED THAT MANY YOUNG PEOPLE STUDY ABROAD, JUST AS THEY DID BEFORE THE REVOLUTION. IF IN TODAY'S CLASSROOMS SOMOZA IS A BANDIT AND SANDINO IS A SAINT, HE SAID, THAT IS NO WORSE THAN WHEN SOMOZA'S TEXTBOOKS CHARACTERIZED SANDINO AS A BANDIT AND SOMOZA AS A SAINT. OTHER CONCERNS HE EXCUSED AS A FUNCTION OF THE "DIFFICULT SITUATION" AND THE NEED FOR EXCEPTIONAL MEASURES IN THE FACE OF THE U.S. AGGRESSION.

7. ANOTHER POINT THE CODEL EMPHASIZED WAS THE GON'S CLAIM TO NONALIGNMENT. ORTEGA LISTED CANADA, SPAIN, SWEDEN, AND FRANCE AS AMONG THE MANY WESTERN NATIONS HAVING GOOD RELATIONS WITH NICARAGUA. HE CITED DONATIONS AND TRADE WITH THESE AND OTHER WESTERN COUNTRIES AS EVIDENCE THAT THE GON IS SEEKING A TRULY BALANCED INTERNATIONAL POLICY. "WE ALSO WANT GOOD RELATIONS WITH THE U.S.," HE

ALIGNED WITH THE SOVIET BLOC, THE U.S. GOVERNMENT WOULD NOT DARE TO INTERVENE AS IT HAS OR SUPPORT THE COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES. ORTEGA DISMISSED THE U.S. TRADE EMBARGO, SAYING THAT NICARAGUA HAD EASILY SUCCEEDED IN REROUTING ITS EXPORTS TO OTHER COUNTRIES. HE SPECIFICALLY CITED SALES OF BANANAS TO BELGIUM AND AN UPCOMING SALE OF SUGAR TO IRAN.

8. THE MEETING CLOSED ON A CORDIAL NOTE.

SUBJECT: MEXICAN FINANCE SECRETARY SILVA-HERZOG'S
- COMMENTS AT THE AUGUST 29 DEBT RESCHEDULING
- CEREMONY IN NEW YORK
1. THE FOLLOWING IS A SUMMARY OF POINTS MADE BY SECRETARY SILVA-HERZOG IN NEW YORK ON AUGUST 29 IN HIS PRESENTATION BEFORE MEXICO'S MAJOR COMMERCIAL BANK CREDITORS:
-- THE INCREASING NUMBER OF DEBT RESTRUCTURINGS BY DEVELOPING COUNTRIES SINCE 1982 IS CLEAR EVIDENCE THAT WE FIND OURSELVES FACING A SYSTEMATIC PROBLEM, WHICH EXTENDS
UNCLASSIFIED

BEYOND THE PARTICULAR CIRCUMSTANCES OF ANY ONE COUNTRY OR ITS ECONOMIC MANAGEMENT.

-- FOR ECONOMIC, SOCIAL, AND POLITICAL REASONS MEXICO MUST GROW. WE MUST PAY ATTENTION TO OVERCOMING OUR DEBT PROBLEMS AND IT IS NECESSARY TO GROW IN ORDER TO BE ABLE TO SERVICE THE DEBT.

-- AMONG SUCH FACTORS ARE INCLUDED A SLOWING IN THE RATE OF GROWTH IN THE UNITED STATES ECONOMY--WHICH UNDOUBTEDLY WILL AFFECT OUR EXPORT PROSPECTS--AND THE U.S. BUDGET DEFICIT WHICH IS CAUSING EXCESSIVELY HIGH REAL INTEREST RATES. THE STRENGTH OF THE DOLLAR HAS PRODUCED THE HIGHEST TRADE DEFICIT IN THE UNITED STATES HISTORY. ONE CONSEQUENCE OF THESE DEVELOPMENTS IS INCREASING DEMANDS TO RAISE LEVELS OF PROTECTION FOR DOMESTIC INDUSTRIES.

-- AT THE SAME TIME, MEXICO IS FACING A REDUCTION IN BILATERAL SOURCES OF FUNDS WHICH HAS NOT AND CANNOT FILL THE VOID LEFT BY REDUCED LENDING FROM THE INTERNATIONAL BANKING COMMUNITY. NOT ONLY ARE THESE BANKS NOT PROVIDING NEW FUNDS ON A VOLUNTARY BASIS BUT SOME OF THEM ALSO ARE ACTUALLY TRYING TO REDUCE THEIR PRESENT LOAN LEVELS TO LATIN AMERICA.

-- ADDED TO THIS PROBLEM IS THAT BANK REGULATORY AUTHORITIES IN THE CREDITOR COUNTRIES ARE PUTTING ADDITIONAL RESTRICTIONS TO THE REACTIVATION OF CREDIT
UNCLASSIFIED

FLOWS. WE MUST TRY TO ENCOURAGE THESE AUTHORITIES TO PROVIDE AN ATMOSPHERE WHICH WILL PERMIT THE RENEWED FLOW OF FUNDS NECESSARY TO INSURE GROWTH.

-- A LASTING AND SUSTAINABLE SOLUTION TO MEXICO'S EXTERNAL FINANCIAL PROBLEMS AND THOSE OF OTHER LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES CANNOT BE FOUND ONLY IN ARRANGEMENTS

-- WE NEED AGREEMENTS WIICH ARE BASED ON TWO FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES--TOTAL PAYMENT OF INTEREST AND ADDITIONAL CREDIT FLOWS. IF ONE OF THESE TWO CANNOT BE SUSTAINED NEITHER CAN THE OTHER.

-- MEXICO HAS REPEATEDLY SIGNALED THAT THE RESTRUCTURING OF THE COUNTRY'S DEBT IS AN IMPORTANT STEP BUT IT IS NOT A SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM. THE STEPS WE ARE TAKING TODAY SIGNAL THE BEGINNING OF A NEW EFFORT. IN THIS NEW EFFORT COOPERATION BETWEEN THE BANKS AND THE DEBTOR COUNTRIES WILL NOT NECESSARILY BE SUFFICIENT. THE AUTHORITIES CHARGED WITH REGULATION (OF BANK LENDING) AND GOVERNMENTS IN THE CREDITOR COUNTRIES SHOULD NOW PLAY A MORE ACTIVE ROLE.

-- OTHER ROADS TO EXPLORE, DEPENDING UPON THE SPECIFIC CIRCUMSTANCES OF EACH COUNTRY, ARE THE CAPITALIZATION OF INTEREST AND DISCUSSIONS REGARDING THE ROLE OF MULTILATERAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS NOT ONLY AS SUPPLIERS OF CREDIT BUT ALSO AS GENERATORS OF COMMERCIAL LOANS

CHILE

THE REPLACEMENT OF THE STATE OF SIEGE WITH LESS STRINGENT CONTROLS HAS ALLOWED GREATER FREEDOM OF THE PRESS AND MORE OPEN POLITICAL ACTIVITY. TERRORISM HAS INCREASED BUT POSES NO THREAT TO THE REGIME. PINOCHET APPARENTLY REMAINS DETERMINED TO ADHERE STRICTLY TO THE TERMS OF THE 1980 CONSTITUTION NOTWITHSTANDING A BROADLY-SUPPORTED ACCORD AMONG ELEVEN OPPOSITION PARTIES ON A TRANSITION PLATFORM.

THE CARIBBEAN

CONFIDENTIAL

WITH THE ARREST OF SEVEN NATIONAL POLICEMEN IN CONNECTION WITH THE TRIPLE SLAYING IN MARCH OF THREE PROMINENT COMMUNISTS, CARABINERO DIRECTOR AND MEMBER OF THE GOVERNING JUNTA CESAR MENDOZA RESIGNED AND WAS REPLACED BY GENERAL RODOLFO STANGE. OTHERS, INCLUDING HIGH-RANKING CARABINERO OFFICERS, HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED PENDING COMPLETION OF THE INVESTIGATION. THE INCIDENT HAS DAMAGED THE GOVERNMENT'S IMAGE, BUT ITS EFFECT ON GOVERNMENT STABILITY WILL PROBABLY NOT BE GREAT. BY ACKNOWLEDGING CARABINERO INVOLVEMENT IN THE MURDERS, PINOCHET MAY HAVE SUCCESSFULLY PREVENTED GREATER DAMAGE TO THE REGIME.

THE CHILEAN ECONOMY REMAINS WEAK, WITH EXPORT EARNINGS OFF SHARPLY BECAUSE OF LOWER VOLUME AND LOWER PRICES FOR ITS COMMODITIES, ESPECIALLY COPPER. THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT SUCCESSFULLY NEGOTIATED A DEBT RESTRUCTURING PACT WITH THE IMF AND COMMERCIAL BANKS. DISBURSEMENT FROM A 750 MILLION DOLLARS IMF LOAN AND NEW MONEY FROM THE COMMERCIAL BANKS AND THE WORLD BANK, TOGETHER WITH LOOSER FISCAL AND MONETARY POLICIES, SHOULD STIMULATE ECONOMIC GROWTH IN THE FOURTH QUARTER BUT WILL MAINTAIN INFLATIONARY PRESSURE.

CHILE

THE REPLACEMENT OF THE STATE OF SIEGE WITH LESS STRINGENT CONTROLS IN JUNE HAS ALLOWED GREATER FREEDOM OF THE PRESS AND MORE OPEN POLITICAL ACTIVITY. TERRORIST ACTS, INCLUDING BOMBINGS, KIDNAPPINGS, ASSAULTS AND DEATH THREATS, HAVE INCREASED IN QUANTITY AND SOPHISTICATION IN THE LAST SIX MONTHS BUT HAVE ONLY CREATED MINOR DISRUPTIONS AND HAVE POSED NO THREAT TO THE REGIME. PINOCHET SEEMS DETERMINED TO STICK TO THE SLOW TIMETABLE FOR POLITICAL CHANGE ENVISIONED IN THE 1980 CONSTITUTION, AND THERE ARE INCREASING SIGNS THAT HE WOULD LIKE TO PERPETUATE HIMSELF IN POWER AFTER 1989.

NONETHELESS, A PROMISING DEVELOPMENT OCCURRED IN LATE AUGUST WHEN CHILEAN CARDINAL FRESNO PERSUADED A BROAD SPECTRUM OF POLITICAL PARTIES, FROM THE MODERATE RIGHT TO THE DEMOCRATIC LEFT, TO AGREE ON A GENERAL PLATFORM FOR AN ORDERLY, PEACEFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. IN SUBSTANCE AND BREADTH OF SUPPORT, THE AGREEMENT REPRESENTS A CONSIDERABLE ADVANCE. PINOCHET INITIALLY SEEMED TO REJECT THE ACCORD OUTRIGHT. HOWEVER, THE GOVERNMENT LATER RELEASED A STATEMENT WHICH NOTED CERTAIN POSITIVE ELEMENTS IN THE AGREEMENT WHILE AT THE SAME TIME CRITICIZING THE DOCUMENT AND DEFENDING THE GOVERNMENT. THE COMMUNISTS HAVE REJECTED THE ACCORD BECAUSE OF THEIR DETERMINATION TO MAINTAIN THEIR POLICY OF VIOLENT OPPOSITION TO THE REGIME. WITH PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS AND UNIONS ADDING THEIR BACKING TO THAT OF THE DEMOCRATIC POLITICAL PARTIES, A BANDWAGON EFFECT MAY DEVELOP WHICH COULD ISOLATE THE EXTREME RIGHT AND LEFT AND COULD PRODUCE AN OPENING FOR MOVEMENT ON A NEGOTIATED SOLUTION TO CHILE'S DIVISIONS.

REMAIN ON THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. ARENA INSIDERS SAY THE MOVE IS INTENDED TO IMPROVE THE PARTY'S INTERNATIONAL IMAGE AND TO NORMALIZE RELATIONS WITH THE AMERICAN EMBASSY.

2. (U) THE PUBLIC STORY

SEPTEMBER 12 EDITION OF ULTRARIGHTIST DAILY "EL DIARIO DE HOY" [redacted]TS THAT MAJOR ROBERTO D'AUBUISSON

REPORTERS THAT HE WILL LEAVE HIS POST AS PRESIDENT OF ARENA IN ORDER TO DEDICATE HIMSELF TO "PROSELYTIZING" AND THAT HE INTENDS TO WORK TO STRENGTHEN THE PARTY AND EXPAND ITS BASE.

3. (C) THE INSIDE STORY

JUAN-JOSE DOMENECH, ARENA INSIDER AND THE MAJOR'S FACTOTUM, CONFIRMED TO POLOFF ON SEPTEMBER 13 THAT D'AUBUISSON IS INDEED CONSIDERING LEAVING THE PRESIDENCY OF THE PARENA'S NATIONAL EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, OF WHICH DOMENECH IS A MEMBER, IS CURRENTLY ANALYZING THE SITUATION. THEY ARE, SAID DOMENECH, WELL AWARE OF THE PROBLEM D'AUBUISSON CREATES INTERNATIONALLY FOR THE PARTY'S IMAGE; IT WOULD BE BETTER "EXTERNALLY" IF THE PARTY WERE TO HAVE DIFFERENT LEADERSHIP. THEN THEY COULD, HE CONTINUED, DEAL DIRECTLY WITH CONSERVATIVE PARTIES ABROAD (INCLUDING THE U.S. REPUBLICAN PARTY). DOMENECH SAID THE THINKING IN EXECUTIVE COUNCIL IS THAT THE PARTY SHOULD PERHAPS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF A NEW U.S. AMBASSADOR TO CHANGE LEADERS AND BEGIN TO DEAL WITH THE U.S. EMBASSY ON A MORE NORMAL BASIS. AS OF YET, NO FINAL DECISIONS HAVE BEEN MADE. POSSIBLE CHANGES WILL BE [redacted]

ANNOUNCED AT ARENA'S SEPTEMBER 30 ANNUAL CONVENTION. IN ANY CASE, D'AUBUISSON WILL REMAIN ON ARENA'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. THE PROBLEM, HE NOTED, IS THAT THERE REALLY IS NO GOOD REPLACEMENT FOR D'AUBUISSON; NO ONE ELSE HAS HIS CHARISMA OR POPULAR APPEAL. "THERE ARE ONLY TWO LEADERS IN EL SALVADOR," DOMENECH CONCLUDED, "D'AUBUISSON AND DUARTE".

4. (C) COMMENT

THERE HAVE BEEN RUMORS CIRCULATING FOR SOME TIME TO THE EFFECT THAT D'AUBUISSON WOULD NO LONGER LEAD ARENA. AMONG MANY ARENA LEADERS THERE IS REAL DISSATISFACTION WITH D'AUBUISSON: HE LED THE PARTY TO THREE STRAIGHT LOSSES, AND SINGLE-HANDEDLY BLEW THE ASSEMBLY ELECTION BY GIVING TOO MUCH TO PCN (IT TURNED OUT IN THE END TO BE 9 UNEARNED ASSEMBLY SEATS) IN ORDER TO ENTICE THEM INTO COALITION. IN ADDITION, D'AUBUISSON IS A NOTORIOUSLY POOR ADMINISTRATOR, ERRATIC, AND UNPREDICTABLE. IN ADDITION, CONCERNS ABOUT THE PARTY'S INTERNATIONAL IMAGE ARE REAL. DOMENECH SEEMED GENUINELY STUNNED WHEN SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE STAFFER WILLIAM PERRY TOLD HIM ON SEPTEMBER 2 THAT NO ONE EXCEPT FOR A HANDFUL ON THE EXTREME RIGHT OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY WOULDITH ARENA SO LONG AS D'AUBUI[redacted] IS ITS LEADER (REFTEL). NONETHELESS,

IT IS DIFFICULT TO SEE HOW A "NEW, IMPROVED" ARENA WITH THE SHADOW OF MAJOR BOB LOOMING LARGE BEHIND THE SCENES AND PULLING THE STRINGS WILL CHANGE THE PARTY'S IMAGE. AND DOMENECH IS RIGHT ABOUT THE SHORTAGE OF AVAILABLE LEADERS. ARENA WAS BUILT AROUND D'AUBUISSON, AND HE IS A PROVEN VOTE-GETTER AND CROWD PLEASER. ARENA HAS CAPABLE PEOPLE IN ITS EXECUTIVE

5. (C) ONE FINAL NOTE OF IRONY. HUGO BARRERA, THE DISSIDENT ARENERO WHO BROKE AWAY TO FORM PATRIA LIBRE MUST BE KICKING HIMSELF. ARENA POLS ARMANDO CALDERON SOL AND JUAN-JOSE DOMENECH HAVE TOLD US IN THE PAST THAT IF BARRERA HAD REMAINED WITHIN THE PARTY, HE WOULD BE ITS PRESIDENT BY YEAR-END. THE BEST HE CAN HOPE FOR NOW IS THAT, WITHOUT D'AUBUISSON AT THE HELM, ARENA WILL WITHER AND PATRIA LIBRE WILL ATTRACT THOSE LEAVING THE PARTY.

- TAKING INTO ACCOUNT THE REPORT BY THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR OF THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS, AND THE RECENT INFORMATION WHICH CONFIRMS THE PERSISTENCE OF SYSTEMATIC VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE,

- DEPLORING THE FACT THAT THE PEACEFUL DEMONSTRATIONS

ORGANIZED BY DEMOCRATIC GROUPS CONTINUE TO BE VIOLENTLY REPRESSED, WITH THE CONSEQUENT LOSS OF NUMEROUS LIVES AND/OR INJURY TO MANY PERSONS, ASSIGNMENT TO FORCED RESIDENCE AND IMPRISONMENT,

- DEEPLY CONCERNED BY THTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN GENERAL AND BY THE SITUATION OF THE INDIGENOUS POPULATIONS IN PARTICULAR,

- ESPECIALLY DISTURBED BY THE IMPUNITY ENJOYED BY THE FORCES OF REPRESSION, PARTICULARLY THE NATIONAL INFORMATION AGENCY (CNI), WHICH HAVE CONTINUED TO APPLY A SYSTEMATIC POLICY OF PHYSICALLY ELIMINATING OPPONENTS,

- CONCERNED ALSO BY THE LEGISLATIVE MEASURES TAKEN BY THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES WHICH SUSPEND OR CONSIDERABLY LIMIT AND/OR RESTRICT THE FREEDOMS ESTABLISHED IN DIFFERENT INTERNATIONAL INSTRUMENTS TO WHICH CHILE IS PARTY,

- 1. URGES THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES TO PUT AN END TO ALL MEASURES OF REPRESSION SUCH AS INTIMIDATION, PERSECUTION, ASSIGNMENT TO FORCED RESIDENCE, TORTURE AND CRUEL, INHUMAN OR DEGRADING TREATMENT;

- 2. CALLS UPON THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES TO IDENTIFY

SUBJECT: UNGA GENERAL DEBATE, SEPTEMBER 25 - MEXICO

1. SUMMARY: IN HIS SEPTEMBER 25 ADDRESS TO THE UNGA, MEXICAN FONMIN BERNARDO SEPULVEDA DEMANDED THAT THE DEBT CRISIS BE SOLVED BY A TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO THE DEBTORS, A MORE STABLE INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM, AND PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT FOR THE EXPORTS OF DEVELOPING COUNTRIES. HE STATED THAT THE MERE RESCHEDULING OF THE DEBT WAS NOT A SOLUTION. SEPULVEDA SUPPORTED THE CONTADORA PROCESS AND STATED THE PROBLEMS OF CENTRAL AMERICA WERE REGIONAL AND SHOULD NOT BE VIEWED AS AN EAST/WEST CONFRONTATION. END SUMMARY.

2. DEBT/DEVELOPMENT: SEPULVEDA NOTED THAT THE ECONOMIC RECOVERY OF THE INDUSTRIALIZED COUNTRIES HAD NOT REACHED THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES, RESULTING IN A DETERIORATING

ECONOMIC SITUATION FOR THE DEVELOPING WORLD. SEPULVEDA ASSERTED THAT THIS GLOOMY OUTLOOK WAS AGGRAVATED BY THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY SYSTEM, WHICH INSTEAD OF CREATING CERTAINTY AND INVESTMENT, GAVE RISE TO INSTABILITY OF EXCHANGE RATES, INFLATION AND SPECULATION. HE ARGUED THAT THE FAILURE OF THE WORLD FINANCIAL SYSTEM TO CHANNEL RESO FOR DEVELOPMENT FORCED THIRD WORLD COUNTRIES, ESPECIALLY IN LATIN AMERICA, TO BORROW FROM THE COMMERCIAL BANKING SYSTEM UNDER TERMS NOT SUITABLE FOR DEVELOPMENT PURPOSES. SEPULVEDA DEMANDED A GLOBAL SOLUTION THAT WOULD INCLUDE THE TRANSFER OF NEW FUNDS UNDER SUITABLE TERMS AND PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT OF THE EXPORTS OF DEVELOPING COUNTRIES. HE NOTED THAT A MERE RESCHEDULING OF THE DEBT WAS NOT A SOLUTION.

3. CENTRAL AMERICA: SEPULVEDA STRONGLY SUPPORTED THE CONTADORA ACT FOR PEACE IN CENTRAL AMERICA. HE NOTED THAT THIS WAS A REGIONAL CONFLICT AND THAT SOLUTIONS IMPOSED BY FORCE WERE ILLUSORY. HE STATED THAT ONLY A POLITICAL AGREEMENT COULD RESOLVE THE PROBLEM.

4. WORLD POWER/DISARMAMENT: SEPULVEDA LAUNCHED A LENGTHY ATTACK ON THE USE OF POWER IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS AND SUPPORTED DISARMAMENT. HE ASSERTED THAT IN THE NUCLEAR ERA AN IMPERIAL ORDER OF DOMINATION AND SUBORDINATION WAS NO LONGER POSSIBLE, BECAUSE TODAY'S MILITARY TECHNOLOGY WAS SO DESTRUCTIVE THAT THE USE OF FORCE COULD NO LONGER BE AN EFFECTIVE MEANS OF POLITICAL ACTION. SEPULVEDA CONCLUDED THAT THERE WAS NO ALTERNATIVE TO DIALOGUE AND DIPLOMACY.

SUBJECT: EIGHT MORE KIDNAPPED

REF: SAN SALVADOR 12358

1. SUMMARY. THE FMLN KIDNAPPED EIGHT MORE MAYORS ON SEPTEMBER 19 AND 20 ON THE EVE OF A MARCH TO DEMAND THE RELEASE OF THE MAYORS AND TOWN OFFICIALS ALREADY HELD BY THE GUERRILLAS (REFTEL). THIS BRINGS TO TWENTY-ONE THE NUMBER OF MAYORS HELD BY THE GUERRILLAS, NOT INCLUDING A NUMBER OF MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES WHO ALSO HAVE BEEN KIDNAPPED. END SUMMARY.

2. THE MAYORS MOST RECENTLY KIDNAPPED ARE:

NAME	DATE	MUNICIPALITY	DEPARTMENT
JOSE TOBIAS MOLINA	9/19/85	SAN. RAFAEL	CHALATENANGO
FRANCISCO MELARA VALLE (ACTING)	9/19/85	AGUA CALIENTE	CHALATENANGO
FELIPE DE JESUS LOPEZ	9/19/85	SAN FRANCISCO MORAZAN	CHALATENANGO
JOSE ANTONIO PEREIRA	9/19/85	COMALAPA	CHALATENANGO
FRANCISCO ATILIO CHAVEZ	9/19/85	EL PAISNAL	SAN SALVADOR
JORGE ARNULFO ESCALANTE	9/19/85	TEJUTEPEQUE	CABANAS
HERNAN LOPEZ LOPEZ	9/20/85	SANTA RITA	CHALATENANGO
FERNANDO RODRIGUEZ	9/20/85	DULCE NOMBRE	CHALATENANGO

ACTING MAYOR MELARA'S PARTY AFFILIATION IS UNKNOWN; THE REST ARE MEMBERS OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC), THE PARTY OF PRESIDENT DUARTE.

3. DURING THE MARCH IN SAN MIGUEL ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, THE ORGANIZERS HANDED OUT A LIST OF MAYORS AND OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS KIDNAPPED BY THE GUERRILLAS. THE LIST INCLUDED TWENTY PEOPLE, INCLUDING MAYORS, TOWN SECRETARIES, POLICE OFFICERS, DRIVERS, AND A FORMER MAYOR. IT DID NOT INCLUDE THE EIGHT MAYORS JUST KIDNAPPED. ADDITIONAL TOWN OFFICIALS HAVE BEEN REPORTED MISSING IN THE PRESS.

4. POST PREVIOUSLY REPORTED FOURTEEN MAYORS BEING HELD BY GUERRILLAS (REFTEL). SUBSEQUENT INVESTIGATION REVEALED THAT THOUGH THE PRESS HAD NAMED JOSE ANTONIO HERNANDEZ LUNA THE MAYOR OF SAN SIMON, MORAZAN, HE WAS ACTUALLY THE TOWN ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER. THE CORRECT COUNT WAS THIRTEEN, AND NOW STANDS AT TWENTY-ONE.

SUBJECT: COMMENTS ON THE DEBT PROBLEM IN THE WAKE OF THE EARTHQUAKE

1. (C) SUMMARY: IN THE AFTERMATH OF THE RECENT EARTHQUAKES THAT DESTROYED OR DAMAGED LARGE SECTIONS OF DOWNTOWN MEXICO CITY, GOM OFFICIALS AND OTHER PUBLIC FIGURES HAVE MADE NUMEROUS COMMENTS TO THE PRESS LINKING MEXICO'S EXTERNAL DEBT PROBLEMS WITH THEIR RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS. THE CENTRAL THREAD IN MOST OF THE INTERVIEWS IS THAT MEXICO NEEDS TO DIVERT FUNDS FROM ITS EXTERNAL DEBT SERVICE IN ORDER TO REBUILD THE CITY AND REVITALIZE THE ECONOMY. SOME INDIVIDUALS ARE CALLING FOR A MORATORIUM ON DEBT PAYMENTS RANGING FROM SEVERAL MONTHS TO SEVERAL YEARS. EVEN WITH THESE COMMENTS, HOWEVER, THE OFFICIAL POSITION OF THE GOVERNMENT IS THAT MEXICO WILL CONTINUE TO HONOR ITS EXTERNAL DEBT OBLIGATIONS ALTHOUGH FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS ON THE TERMS MAY BE REQUIRED. END SUMMARY.

2. (U) EVEN BEFORE THE EARTHQUAKE, PRESIDENT DE LA

[redacted]

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

MADRID (MMH) WAS CALLING FOR A PRAGMATIC REASSESSMENT OF LATIN AMERICA'S DEBT PROBLEMS FROM INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL TIONS. IN PREPARING FOR HIS SPEECH TO THE UNITED NATIONS -- WHICH WAS ACTUALLY DELIVERED BY FOREIGN MINISTER BERNARDO SEPULVEDA -- MMH SAID THAT MEXICO ASSUMED RESPONSIBILITY FOR ITS DEBTS, BUT THAT CREDITORS MUST REALIZE THAT DEBTOR COUNTRIES WERE RUNNING OUT OF OPTIONS. THIS MAY HAVE BEEN A PRELUDE FOR A REQUEST FOR FURTHER RENEGOTIATION OF MEXICO'S FOREIGN DEBT.

-- SENATOR ANTONIO RIVA PALACIO, PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE OF THE REPUBLIC: ACCORDING TO THE SENATE, MEXICO DOES TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR ITS DEBT, BUT THE ABILITY TO PAY

[redacted]

DEPENDS ON THE CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE MOMENT. HE CLAIMS THAT MEXICO'S ABILITY TO REPAY WILL DEPEND ON THE COST OF RECONSTRUCTION.

-- SILVESTRE FERNANDEZ, PRESIDENT OF THE CONFEDERACION NACIONAL DE CAMERAS INDUSTRIALS (N): IT IS TO MEXICO'S ADVANTAGE TO ACCEPT THE OPPORTUNITY OF THE DISASTER TO A) GET FRESH EXTERNAL CREDITS TO REVITALIZE THE ECONOMY AND BEGIN RECONSTRUCTION, AND B) TEMPORARILY CANCEL PAYMENT OF THE DEBT. NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE IMF NOW, HE SAYS, WILL MEAN A RESUSCITATION OF THE ECONOMY WITH LOWER INTEREST RATES AND MORE FLEXIBLE REPAYMENT TERMS.

-- CARLOS MIRELAS GARCIA, PRESIDENT OF CAMARA NACIONAL DE LA INDUSTRIA DE LA TRANSFORMACION (CANACINTRA): ASKS FOR A ONE YEAR GRACE IN DEBT PAYMENTS. THE APPROXIMATELY $13 BILLION DOLLARS WOULD BE CHANNELED INTO THE RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS IN THE FEDERAL DISTRICT.

-- JOSE GONZALEZ BAILO, DIRECTOR OF CAMARA NACIONAL DE COMERCIO (CONACO): MEXICO NEEDS SEVERAL YEARS OF GRACE ON ITS DEBT PAYMENTS AND NEEDS NEW LOANS ON TERMS WHICH ARE SUPER-EASY OR SUPER-FLEXIBLE. HE SUPPORTED LIBERALIZED TRADE AND MEXICO'S ENTRY INTO GATT AS MEANS OF A QUICKER RECOVERY.

MEXICO'S DEBT BY THE INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL COMMUNITY IS INSUFFICIENT. MORE "JUST" FINANCIAL CONDITIONS FOR THE MEDIUM AND LONG TERM WOULD BE MORE HELPFUL THAN A SHORT-TERM PALIATIVE. HE BLAMED THE DEBT PROBLEM ON EXCESSIVE PROTECTIONISM, LOWER PRICES OF PRIMARY GOODS, AND A DECLINE IN TRADE. THE BEST CURE FOR MEXICO, ON THE OTHER HAND, IS INCREASED PROTECTION FOR ITS INDUSTRIES AND HIGHER PRICES ABROAD FOR MEXICAN GOODS.

5. (U) IN ADDITION TO COMMENTS FROM MEXICAN GOVERNMENT, PRIVATE SECTOR, AND LABOR OFFICIALS, ACADEMIC ORGANIZATIONS HAVE ISSUED STATEMENTS ON MEXICO'S EXTERNAL DEBT AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE. SPOKESMEN FOR THE COLEGIO NACIONAL DE ECONOMISTAS (CNE), CENTRO DE ESTADO DE LA ECONOMIA NACIONAL (CEEN), AND THE INSTITUTO DE INVESTIGACIONES ECONOMICAS DE UNAM SAY THAT MEXICO NEEDS 12-18 MONTHS OF SUSPENDED PAYMENTS TO REACTIVATE MEXICO'S ECONOMY. FURTHERMORE, A STABLE EXCHANGE RATE VIS-A-VIS

6. (U) ONE ORGAN THAT HAS SPOKEN OUT AGAINST A PARTIAL OR FULL MORATORIUM ON DEBT IS THE BUSINESSMEN'S GROUP CARIENTA, CAMARA REGIONAL DE LA INDUSTRIA DE TRANSFORMACIONES, IN GUADALAJARA. THE PRESIDENT OF CARIENTA, JORGE ARTURO TORRES CARLOS, SAYS THAT PRECIPITIOUS ACTS MAY DAMAGE THE ECONOMY. HIS ORGANIZATION WOULD RATHER SEE ANOTHER RENEGOTIATION OF THE DEBT RATHER THAN A SUSPENSION OR CANCELLATION OF PAYMENTS.

AT LEAST A TEMPORARY RESPITE FROM RISING INTERNATIONAL PRESSURE TO SUBSTANTIALLY REDUCE INFLATION AND THE PUBLIC SECTOR DEFICIT, AND TO STRENGTHEN THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS. INTERNATIONAL AID, ALONG WITH NEW LOANS FROM COMMERCIAL BANKS AND A LIGHTENING OF EXTERNAL DEBT PAYMENTS COULD MEAN THAT THE MEXICAN ECONOMY WILL GROW MODERATELY FASTER OVER THE SHORT TERM THAN PRE-EARTHQUAKE PROJECTIONS INDICATED. IT IS UNLIKELY, HOWEVER, THAT THE COUNTRY'S EXTERNAL CREDITORS COULD SANCTION ANY EASING OF LONG-TERM ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT EFFORTS BECAUSE OF THE EARTHQUAKE; CREDITORS WILL TRY TO KEEP THE IMMEDIATE RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS SEPARATE FROM THE COUNTRY'S LONGER TERM DEBT PROBLEMS. A RADIO FARABUNDO MARTI (FPL GUERRILLA RADIO) BROADCAST ON SEPTEMBER 23, 1985, LISTED NINE MAYORS AS THOSE KIDNAPPED MOST RECENTLY BY THE FMLN (REF A). THE LIST INCLUDED TWO NAMES NOT PREVIOUSLY REPORTED. THERE ARE NOW 23 MAYORS IN THE HANDS OF THE GUERRILLAS. A SECOND MARCH TO DEMAND FREEDOM FOR THE MAYORS WAS HELD IN USULUTAN CITY ON SEPTEMBER 30. A GRAVELY ILL KIDNAPPED TOWN OFFICIAL WAS ABANDONED BY THE GUERRILLAS IN MORAZAN. END SUMMARY.

2. MORE MAYORS KIDNAPPED

THE SEPTEMBER 23 FARABUNDO MARTI BROADCAST LISTED TWO MAYORS NOT PREVIOUSLY REPORTED AS KIDNAPPED BY THE FMLN, PRESUMABLY THE FPL:

-- JOSE ADOLFO HERNANDEZ HENRIQUEZ, MAYOR OF NOMBRE DE JESUS, CHALATENANGO; MEMBER OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRAT PARTY (PDC). KIDNAPPED SEPTEMBER 19.

-- LUIS ALONSO LEON, MAYOR OF SAN FERNANDO, CHALATENANGO; MEMBER OF THE PDC. KIDNAPPED SEPTEMBER 20.

THE PDC CONFIRMED BOTH KIDNAPPINGS, AND ALSO THE KIDNAPPING OF THE MAYOR OF EL PAISNAL (SAN SALVADOR DEPARTMENT), WHO WAS NOT INCLUDED IN THE RADIO BROADCAST BUT WAS PREVIOUSLY REPORTED IN THE PRESS (REF B). THE TOTAL NUMBER OF MAYORS HELD BY THE GUERRILLAS STANDS AT

SAN SA 12987 041614Z 1642 ARA0538

23. AN UNDETERMINED NUMBER OF OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS ARE ALSO IN GUERRILLA HANDS.

3. KIDNAP VICTIM ABANDONED WITHOUT MEDICAL ATTENTION

ANOTHER KIDNAP VICTIM OF THE FMLN WAS FOUND IN SERIOUS CONDITION ON THE BANK OF THE TOROLA RIVER BY ESAF FORCES ON SEPTEMBER 26. ANTONIO HERNANDEZ, TOWN ADMINISTRATOR FOR SAN SIMON, MORAZAN, WAS RECUPERATING FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN A MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT WHEN HE WAS KIDNAPPED ON APRIL 30 OR MAY 1. HIS CONDITION WORSENED IN CAPTIVITY, AND FINALLY HIS CAPTORS ABANDONED HIM. HERNANDEZ IS RECOVERING IN A HOSPITAL IN SAN MIGUEL.

4. ANOTHER MARCH ON BEHALF OF THE MAYORS

A SECOND MARCH TO DEMAND FREEDOM FOR THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS AND OTHER TOWN OFFICIALS WAS HELD ON SEPTEMBER 30, IN USULUTAN CITY. ONE SOURCE CLAIMED THAT THREE THOUSAND MARCHERS TOOK PART. THE FIRST MARCH TO FREE THE MAYORS OCCURRED IN SAN MIGUEL ON SEPTEMBER 21, 1985 (REF C).

SUBJECT: STRENGTHENING OF THE PESO SINCE THE EARTHQUAKES

1. ENTIRE TEXT CONFIDENTIAL

2. SUMMARY. SINCE THE SEPTEMBER 19 AND 20 EARTHQUAKES IN MEXICO CITY THE PESO HAS STRENGTHENED BY ABOUT 4 PERCENT AT THE BANKS AND EXCHANGE HOUSES IN MEXICO CITY. FURTHERMORE, THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE CONTROLLED AND FREE RATES HAS DECLINED FROM 29 PERCENT TO SLIGHTLY LESS THAN 20 PERCENT. END SUMMARY.

3. OVER THE PAST TWO WEEKS THE PESO EXCHANGE RATE HAS PROGRESSIVELY STRENGTHENED IN THE WAKE OF THE EARTHQUAKES

IN MEXICO CITY. EMBASSY BELIEVES THERE ARE A NUMBER OF REASONS FOR THIS:

-- A GROWING BELIEF THAT ECONOMIC ACTIVITY WILL NOW PICK UP WITH THE RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS.

-- PEOPLE SEEM TO BE CONVINCED THAT A LOT OF BILATERALTLILATERAL AID WILL BE FLOWING INTO THE COUNTRY OVER THE NEXT 18 MONTHS AND THIS WILL INCREASE THE AVAILABILITY OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

-- A FEELING THAT CREDITOR COUNTRIES AND BANKS WILL NOW BE MORE SYMPATHETIC AND FLEXIBLE ON THE FOREIGN DEBT PROBLEM.

-- NEWS THAT ANNOUNCEMENTS WILL SOON BE COMING OUT, PERHAPS AT THE FUND/BANK MEETINGS IN SEOUL, OF NEW INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS TO HELP DEBTOR COUNTRIES.

-- A GROWING BELIEF THAT MEXICO IS SERIOUSLY INTENDING TO NEGOTIATE ANOTHER AGREEMENT WITH THE IMF.

-- POSTPONEMENT BY MEXICO'S CREDITOR BANKS OF $950 MILLION DUE THIS YEAR IN AMORTIZATION PAYMENTS.

-- FEAR OF RETALIATION FROM THE GOVERNMENT FOR BEING CAUGHT TAKING MONEY OUT OF THE COUNTRY AT SUCH A CRITICAL TIME.

4. BOTH AT THE BANKS AND THE PRIVATE EXCHANGE HOUSES IN MEXICO CITY THE PESO HAS STRENGTHENED BY ABOUT 4 PERCENT VIS A VIS THE DOLLAR OVER THE PAST 14 DAYS. COMMUNICATION WITH THE BORDER HAS BEEN EXTREMELY DIFFICULT BUT IT IS OUR UNDERSTANDING THAT THE PESO IS ALSO STRENGTHENING AT THE FRONTIER BANKS. EVEN MORE

UNCLASSIFIED

SIGNIFICANTLY, THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE CONTROLLED RATE AND THE FREE RATE HAS FALLEN FROM 29 TO 19.5 PERCENT OVER THE PAST TWO WEEKS. MANY ANALYSTS BELIEVE THAT WHEN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO RATES IS LESS THAN 20 PERCENT THIS FACILITATES EXCHANGE RATE MANAGEMENT.

5. WE DO NOT EXPECT THE PESO TO STRENGTHEN MUCH FURTHER OVER THE SHORT TERM AND IT IS DIFFICULT TO JUDGE AS TO WHEN SPECULATIVE PRESSURES AGAINST THE PESO COULD BEGIN TO INCREASE AGAIN. BASED ON PURCHASING POWER PARITY ANALYSIS, THE CONTROLLED RATE REMAINS SOMEWHAT UNDER-VALUED AND THE FREE RATE CONSIDERABLY UNDERVALUED (BY AS MUCH AS 25-30 PERCENT). AS BEST WE CAN TELL, THE BANK OF MEXICO IS NOT INTERVN THE FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKETS TO ANY SIGNIFICANT DEGREE. DRAFTED BY J.V. SWEENEY. GAVIN

SUBJECT: WHERE HAVE ALL THE CHILDREN GONE?

1. SUMMARY. RECENT MEETINGS BETWEEN CONSULAR SECTION PERSONNEL AND GOES OFFICIALS HAVE INDICATED A HEIGHTENED LEVEL OF CONCERN FOR THE PROBLEMS CONCERNING ADOPTION OF SALVADORAN CHILDREN FOR IMMIGRATION TO THE U.S. AND ELSEWHERE. IN PARTICULAR A POWER STRUGGLE APPEARS TO BE SHAPING UP BETWEEN THE PROCURADURIA GENERAL, WHICH LOOKS AFTER THE WELFARE OF MINORS, AND THE MINOR COURTS (JUECES TUTELARES DE MENORES) OVER THE ISSUE OF ALLOWING CHILDREN TO LEAVE EL SALVADOR UNDER THE GUARDIANSHIP OF THE ADOPTIVE PARENTS RATHER THAN COMPLETING THE ADOPTION HERE IN THE CIVIL COURTS. THE PROCURADURIA IS HIGHLY CRITICAL OF THE WIDESPREAD PRACTICE OF THE MINOR COURTS IN ISSUING GUARDIANSHIP DECREES (GUARDAS) FOR MINORS WHO ARE THEN TAKEN OUT OF EL SALVADOR. AS A RESULT OF PRESSURE FROM THE PROCURADURIA, A BILL IS BEING PREPARED FOR SUBMISSION TO THE ASSEMBLY WHICH WILL PROHIBIT THIS PRACTICE. END UNCLASSIFIED

SUMMARY.

2. ON SEPTEMBER 13, 1985 CONOFF ACOMPANIED TWO FSN EMPLOYEES WORKING IN THE IMMIGRANT VISA SECTION TO A MEETING WITH MINISTER OF JUSTICE JULIO ALFREDO SAMAYOA. SAMAYOA HAD REQUESTED THE MEETINGS WITH THE FSNS IN A RATHER CURIOUS MANNER. HE CALLED THEM DIRECTLY TO REQUEST THAT THEY COME TO HIS OFFICE WITHOT ASKING THE PERMISSION OF THE CONSUL GENERAL, AND WAS RELUCTANT TO GIVE DETAILS OF THE REASON FOR THE MEETING TO CONOFF. CONSEQUENTLY, THE CG DECIDED THAT CONOFF SHOULD ACCOMPANY FSNS TO MEETING.

3. DESPITE THE SECRECY LEADING UP TO THE MEETING, SAMAYOA WAS QUITE FRIENDLY AND LOW-KEY. HE SAID THAT THE MINISTRY WAS CONCERNED THAT MISSING AND STOLEN CHILDREN MIGHT BE LEAVING EL SALVADOR UNDER GUARDIANSHIP OR THROUGH ADOPTION. HE NOTED THAT THERE WERE MANY UNSCRUPULOUS LAWYERS WHO WERE NOT ABOVE FALSIFYING BIRTH RECORDS IN ORDER TO PROFIT FROM THE LUCRATIVE ADOPTION BUSINESS. HE CITED THE NEED FOR LEGISLATION WHICH WOULD MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR CHILDREN TO LEAVE UNDER GUARDIANSHIP AND MENTIONED THAT SUCH LEGISLATION WAS BEING DRAFTED FOR SUBMISSION TO THE ASSEMBLY.

4. THE SEPTEMBER 13 MEETING WITH DR. SAMAYOA WAS A FOLLOW-UP TO A MEETING AT THE PROCURADURIA ON AUGUST 23, BETWEEN CONOFF, FSN FRAUD INVESTIGATOR AND THE PROCURADOR, DR. RAFAEL FLORES Y FLORES AND HIS STAFF. DR. FLORES Y FLORES HAD REQUESTED THE MEETING TO DISCUSS THE PROBLEM OF ADOPTION FRAUD. HE EXPLAINED THAT THE PROCURADURIA WAS CONCERNED ABOUT THE WIDESPREAD ISSUANCE OF GUARDIANSHIP DECREES BY THE MINOR COURTS IN CASES OF UNCLASSIFIED

MINORS WHO WERE TO BE ADOPTED ABROAD. HE NOTED THAT HE HAD RAISED THE ISSUE WITH SUPREME COURT PRESIDENT JOSE FRANCISCO (CHACHI) GUERRERO. HE SAW TWO POSSIBLE MEANS OF RESOLVING THE PROBLEM: ADMINISTRATIVELY, THROUGH A DIRECTIVE TO THE MINOR COURTS FROM THE SUPREME COURT, OR LEGISLATIVELY, THROUGH A NEW LAW WHICH WOULD HAVE TO BE PASSED BY THE ASSEMBLY. CONOFF NOTED THAT AS LONG AS IT WAS LEGAL UNDER SALVADORAN LAW FOR CHILDREN TO LEAVE UNDER GUARDIANSHIP DECREES, ADOPTIVE PARENTS WOULD CONTINUE TO CHOOSE THIS ALTERNATHER THAN THE MORE TIME-CONSUMING PATH OF ADOPTING THE CHILD IN EL SALVADOR.

5. DR. FLORES Y FLORES ALSO RAISED THE POSSIBILITY OF SEEKING THE ASSISTANCE OF INS IN LOCATING MISSING SALVADORAN BY SENDING INS THEIR PICTURES. CONOFF INFORMED HIM THAT UNLESS THERE WAS SOME INDICATION THAT

THE MISSING CHILD HAD BEEN TAKEN TO THE U.S. ON IMMIGRANT OR NON-IMMIGRANT VISAS, THE ABILITY OF INS TO TRACK DOWN THE CHILD WOULD BE SEVERELY LIMITED.

6. THE PROCURADOR ALSO RAISED THE ISSUE OF UNSCRUPULOUS LAWYERS WHOSE ACTIVITIES THE PROCURADURIA WAS WATCHING CLOSELY. CONOFF EXPLAINED THAT THE EMBASSY WAS ALSO INVESTIGATING ADOPTION CASES PROCESSED BY THE SAME GROUP OF LAWYERS, BUT NOTED THAT THE EMBASSY HAD ONLY ONE FRAUD OFFICER WHO HAD MANY OTHER RESPONSIBILITIES AS WELL. THE PROCURADOR OFFERED THE ASSISTANCE OF THE PROCURADURIA'S SOCIAL WORKERS IN INVESTIGATING BIRTH RECORDS IN CONFLICTIVE PARTS OF THE COUNTRY WHERE EMBASSY COULD NOT SEND OUR FRAUD INVESTIGATOR. WE INTEND TO TAKE HIM UP ON

7. CONCLUSION: EMBASSY IS NOT SURE WHAT THE LIKELIHOOD IS THAT NEW LEGISLATION WILL EVENTUALLY BE APPROVED. A SOURCE WITHIN THE EMBASSY INFORMED THE POLITICAL SECTION

THAT HE HAS SEEN NO SUCH LEGISLATION. HOWEVER, THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT IF SUCH LEGISLATION IS APPROVED IT WILL RADICALLY CHANGE THE PROCESSING OF ORPHAN VISAS. PRESENTLY SOME 75 PER CENT OF ORPHANS LEAVE ON GUARDIANSHIP DECREES VERSUS 25 PER CENT WHO ARE FULLY ADOPTED IN EL SALVADOR.

8. COMMENT: CONOFFS WELCOME THE DEBATE GOING ON WITHIN THE GOES MINISTRIES ON THIS ISSUE. WE BELIEVE IT IS LARGELY A RESULT OF OUR AND INS EFFORTS TO HEIGHTEN THEIR LEVEL OF CONCERN FOR POSSIBLE ADOPTION FRAUD THAT HAS BROUGHT ON THIS DEBATE. FOR YOUR INFORMATION, SAN SALVADOR IS NOW THE THIRD LARGEST IV ADOPTION PROCESSING POST WORLWIDE.

ROBERTO D'AUBUISSON AND ALFREDO (FREDY) CRISTIANI, RESPECTIVELY HONORARY PRESIDENT FOR LIFE AND PRESIDENT OF ARENA PARTY, MET WITH AMBASSADOR CORR AT THE RESIDENCE ON OCTOBER 5 AT THEIR REQUEST. D'AUBUISSON SAID HE DID NOT WANT TO TALK ABOUT "POLITICS" OR ARENA AND THEN PROCEEDED TO DO SO FOR TWO HOURS. TOPICS INCLUDED THE KIDNAPPING (STRONG CRITICISM OF DUARTE), THE DUARTE GOVERNMENT, ALLEGED U.S. INTERFERENCE IN [redacted] SALVADORAN POLITICAL PROCESS, AND A[redacted]'S IMAGE.

TEXT OF TELEGRAM 85SAN SA013154

3. KIDNAPPING - "THE COMMUNISTS HAVE THE INITIATIVE"

D'AUBUISSON TOLD THE AMBASSADOR THAT HE HAD REQUESTED THE MEETING TO SHARE HIS CONCERNS ABOUT THE SITUATION CONFRONTING THE COUNTRY. ACCORDING TO D'AUBUISSON, THE "COMMUNISTS" HAVE THE INITIATIVE: THEY HOLD THE PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER, THEY THE POWER TO INITIATE LABOR STRIKES, AND THEY CALL TRAFFIC STOPPAGES AT WILL. DUARTE HAS MISHANDLED THE KIDNAPPING NEGOTIATIONS. HE STRUGGLED FOR YEARS TO BE ELECTED PRESIDENT. NOW DUARTE OWES IT TO THE COUNTRY EITHER TO HANG TOUGH ON THE KIDNAPPING OF HIS DAUGHTER OR TO RESIGN THE PRESIDENCY AND SAY TO THE GUERRILLAS THAT HE CANNOT NEGOTIATE WITH THEM BECAUSE HE IS NO LONGER PRESIDENT. AS A CONSEQUENCE OF NEGOTIATING WITH THE GUERRILLAS, DUARTE AND HIS GOVERNMENT HAVE LOST CREDIBILITY. IN RESPONSE TO THE AMBASSADOR'S QUESTION, D'AUBUISSON SAID THAT IF HE WERE PRESIDENT UNDER SIMILAR CIRCUMSTANCES HE WOULD SACRIFICE HIS CHILD FOR THE GOOD OF THE COUNTRY. ARENA HAD AGREED TO SUPPORT DUARTE DURING THIS CRISIS AND HAS DONE SO. ARENA ABSTAINED ON THE VOTE IN THE ASSEMBLY TO RELEASE [redacted]

COSTA RICAN SMUGGLER ROMERO TALAVERA BECAUSE THE PDC DID NOT CONFER WITH ARENA BEFORE THE VOTE AS IT HAD PLEDGED; "THEY DID US DIRTY."

4. THE DUARTE GOVERNMENT

D'AUBUISSON PROCEEDED TO LAMENT THE INEPTNESS OF THE DUARTE GOVERNMENT. WHILE ACKNOWLEDGING THAT DUARTE WAS A GOOD MAN, HE SAID THAT HIS ADVISORS ARE POOR AND THAT HIS FAMILY IS OVERLY INVOLVED IN GOVERNING THE COUNTRY. AS PRESIDENT, SAID D'AUBUISSON, DUARTE HAS THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THIS. THE SOLUTION, HE ADDED, IS FOR DUARTE TO RESIGN, PERHAPS USING THE KIDNAPPING AS THE EXCUSE, AND TO BE REPLACED BY ABRAHAM RODRIGUEZ (PDC ELDER STATESMAN AND SECOND IN THE LINE OF SUCCESSION TO THE PRESIDENCY AFTER VICE PRESIDENT CASTILLO CLARAMOUNT). RODRIGUEZ HAS ENOUGH SUPPORT ACROSS THE POLITICAL SPECTRUM, ACCORDING TO D'AUBUISSON, TO RUN THE COUNTRY AND IS SMART ENOUGH TO KNOW WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE. AT THE SAME TIME, GEN. VIDES CASANOVA SHOULD BE REPLACED AS MINISTER OF DEFENSE BY GEN. BLANDON, AN EXPERIENCED FIELD COMMANDER WHO KNOW NEEDS TO BE DONE.

IN ADDITION, HE CONCLUDED, THE U.S. MUST TAKE CARE OF NICARAGUA. D'AUBUISSON WENT ON TO DESCRIBE A "WAR OF ORGANIZATION" SUCH AS HE LEARNED IN TAIWAN. 6. ARENA -- NO CHANGES IN IDEOLOGY

RELEASED
El Salvador Human Rights
Working Group (HRWG)

UNCLASSIFIED

CRISTIANI SAID THAT THE RECENT CHANGES IN THE ARENA LEADERSHIP DO NOT REPRESENT A CHANGE IN IDEOLOGY. HE EXPLAINED THAT ARENA IS A CONSERVATIVE PARTY, NOT AN ULTRA-CONSERVATIVE OR ULTRA-RIGHTIST PARTY. D'AUBUISSON AND CRISTIANI DESCRIBED ARENA'S PROGRAM IN PRAGMTIC TERMS, NOT UNLIKE THOSE USED BY HUGO BARRERA TO DESCRIBE PATRIA LIBRE. "TO BE RVATIVE IS TO BE REALISTIC." THEY CLAIMED THEY DO NOT WANT TO TURN BACK THE CLOCK, BUT TO ADOPT THOSE PORTIONS OF THE REFORMS WHICH HAVE WORKED AND MODIFY THOSE WHICH HAVE NOT. THE PARTY IS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE RESPITE FROM ELECTIONS BY CHANGING THE LEADERSHIP AS A STEP TOWARD INSTITUTIONALIZING ARENA AND MOVING IT AWAY FROM A PARTY BASED ON ONE INDIVIDUAL. D'AUBUISSON TOOK PERSONAL BLAME FOR ARENA'S IMAGE. THE RESULT OF HIS ACTIONS IN DENOUNCING CERTAIN MEMBERS OF THE FIRST JUNTA (1979) AS COMMUNISTS WHO WISHED TO IMPOSE IN EL SALVADOR THE SAME SYSTEM AS IN NICARAGUA. HE WAS ACCUSED BY FORMER AMBASSADOR WHITE AS AN ULTRA-RIGHTIST INVOLVED IN DEATH SQUADS. "I AM NOT AN ASSASSIN. I AM AN ANTI-COMMUNIST AND A CONSERVATIVE." D'AUBUISSON ADDED THAT ARENA HAD GIVEN LEGITIMACY TO THE PDC

BY CONTESTING THE 1984 AND 1985 ELECTIONS "ALTHOUGH THE U.S. WOULD NOT HAVE LET US WIN." IF THE ONLY OPPOSITION HAD BEEN THE MINOR PARTIES LIKE PAISA, THE ELECTIONS WOULD HAVE BEEN MEANINGLESS. HE THEN REPEATED THE (NOW TIRESOME) LITANY OF U.S. INTERFERENCE IN THE SALVADORAN POLITICAL PROCESS STARTING WITH THE AFTERMATH OF THE 1982 CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY ELECTION. D'AUBUISSON CONCLUDED THAT IT IS IN THE INTEREST OF THE U.S. TO ALLOW THE PEOPLE IN EL SALVADOR TO VOTE FOR WHOMEVER THEY WISH; OTHERWISE DEMOCRACY WILL HAVE NO CREDIBILITY AND THE THESIS OF THE GUERRILLAS -- ELECTIONS ARE A FARCE -- WILL BECOME THE REALITY.

7. D'AUBUISSON'S PLANS

SAYING THAT HE HAD DEVOTED THE SIX YEARS SINCE HE RESIGNED FROM THE ARMY TO POLITICS, D'AUBUISSON SAID THAT HE HAS NO AMBITION TO RUN FOR PRESIDENT IN 1989. HE SAID SINCE HE IS NOW 42 AND WITH EIGHT CHILDREN (4 OF HIS OWN PLUS HIS BRIDE'S 4), HE WANTS TO CARE FOR HIS FAMILY AND MAKE SOME MONEY.

1. SUMMARY

THE MAYORS KIDNAPPED BY THE FMLN DURING SEPTEMBER 1985 HAVE BEEN "QUOTED" ON THE FMLN'S CLANDESTINE RADIO STATIONS IN TWO "COMMUNIQUES." BOTH COMMUNIQUES DEMAND DIALOGUE TO END THE FIGHTING, CITE THE PLIGHT OF THE MAYORS' FAMILIES, AND ATTEMPT TO LEGITIMIZE FMLN ACTIVITIES BY CLAIMING FMLN FORCES ARE A MILITARY POWER EQUAL TO THE ESAF IN THE CONFLICTIVE ZONES. THE "COMMUNIQUES" ECHO THE PROPAGANDA LINE OF THE EARLIER "OPEN LETTERS" FROM THE OTHER KIDNAPPED MAYORS PUBLISHED IN JULY AND AUGUST 1985, AS WELL AS THAT OF THE GUERRILLA-FRONT "HUMAN RIGHTS" GROUPS. END SUMMARY.

2. THE FIRST "COMMUNIQUE," BROADCAST ON RADIO VENCEREMOS ON SEPTEMBER 28 (REF A), SAID THAT THE MAYORS ARE STILL BEING DETAINED DUE TO THE POLITICAL-MILITARY SITUATION IN THE COUNTRY. THE MAYORS DEMANDED THAT THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC) NATIONAL LEADERSHIP "MAKE THE NECESSARY CONTACTS ON OUR BEHALF." THE COMMUNIQUE CLAIMED THAT THE MAYORS' HOMES ARE WITHOUT PROTECTION, THEIR FAMILIES FEAR THE MAYORS WILL BE KILLED BY BOMBING, AND THE MAYORS NO LONGER WANT TO HOLD OFFICE BECAUSE OF THE EXISTENCE OF "ANOTHER MILITARY FORCE, THE FMLN" IN THE "TROUBLED ZONES." IT WAS SIGNED BY SEVEN MAYORS FROM CHALATENANGO DEPARTMENT.

3. THE SECOND "COMMUNIQUE," BROADCAST ON RADIO VENCEREMOS ON OCTOBER 4 (REF B), AFFIRMED THAT ALL "CAPTURED" MAYORS WERE TAKEN FROM THEIR HOMES OR

OFFICES, AND DENOUNCED COL. SIGIFREDO OCHOA'S CLAIM TO THE PRESS ON SEPTEMBER 30 THAT THE MAYORS HAD BEEN KIDNAPPED FROM A MEETING TO WHICH THEY HAD BEEN CALLED BY THE FMLN. (INFORMATION ON OCHOA'S CLAIM WILL FOLLOW SEPTEL.) THIS COMMUNICATION DEMANDED THAT THE PDC GIVE MONEY TO THE MAYORS' FAMILIES AND ALSO DEMANDED, PRIOR TO THEIR RELEASE, GUARANTEES OF THE MAYORS' AND THEIR FAMILIES' SAFETY BY THE DUARTE ADMINISTRATION, THE PDC, THE RED CROSS, AND THE SALVADORAN ARCHBISHOPRIC. THIS COMMUNICATION WAS SIGNED BY EIGHT MAYORS.

4. ANALYSIS OF THE TWO COMMUNIQUES AND THE TWO "OPEN LETTERS" SIGNED BY THE MAYORS KIDNAPPED IN APRIL AND MAY OF 1985 (REFS C AND D) SHOWS THE FOLLOWING COMMONALITIES:

-- A. ALL DEMAND DIALOGUE OR A NEGOTIATED SOLUTION TO THE CONFLICT;

-- B. ALL POSIT, DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY, THAT THE FMLN IS A POWER EQUAL TO OR GREATER THAN THE GOES IN THE AREAS OF THE COUNTRY IN WHICH THE MAYORS WERE KIDNAPPED;

-- C. THE TWO LETTERS REPEATEDLY ALLEGE THAT THE MAYORS CONSTITUTE PART OF A "POLITICAL-MILITARY PLAN;" THE FIRST COMMUNIQUE BLAMES THE MAYORS' CONTINUED DETENTION ON THE "POLITICAL-MILITARY SITUATION;"

-- D. THE COMMUNICATIONS ALL CHALLENGE THE PDC;

-- E. WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE FIRST LETTER (JULY 18), THE COMMUNICATIONS MENTION THE MAYORS' FAMILIES IN INCREASINGLY STRONG TERMS;

-- F. AGAIN EXCEPTING THE JULY 18 LETTER, THE COMMUNICATIONS REFER TO THE MAYORS AS "PRISONERS OF WAR;"

-- G. ALL TERM THE MAYORS "DETAINED" OR "ARRESTED," RATHER THAN KIDNAPPED, USING THE TERMINOLOGY OF THE GUERRILLAS;

-- H. ALL EXPRESS A FEAR OF THE SALVADORAN AIR FORCE BOMBING OR A DEMAND THAT IT STOP.

5. COMMENT: THESE COMMUNICATIONS FOR THE MOST PART FIT THE RECENT PATTERN OF FMLN ATTEMPTS TO PORTRAY ITSELF AS A MILITARY POWER EQUAL TO THE ESAF IN THE CONFLICTIVE ZONES. THE REPEATED USE OF THE PHRASE "POLITICAL-MILITARY" IN CONNECTION WITH THE MAYORS, AS WELL AS TERMING THE MAYORS "PRISONERS OF WAR," IS PART OF THE GUERRILLA VIEW THAT CIVILIAN MAYORS, THOUGH ELECTED, ARE IN REALITY PART OF THE GOES COUNTER-INSURGENCY PLAN, THUS MAKING THEM LEGITIMATE TARGETS FOR "ARREST." THE SAME ARGUMENT IS ECHOED BY THE FMLN-FRONT "HUMAN RIGHTS" GROUPS. LIKEWISE THE MAYOR'S COMMUNICATIONS RAIL AGAINST THE BOMBING, AS DO THE CLANDESTINE RADIO STATIONS AND THE "HUMAN RIGHTS" FRONT GROUPS. THEY ALL CHARGE THAT PRESIDENT DUARTE, THROUGH THE KIDNAPPING OF HIS DAUGHTER, IS ONLY SUFFERING THAT WHICH MANY SALVADORANS HAVE AND ARE SUFFERING: THE LOSS OF A LOVED ONE. THESE MESSAGES FOLLOW A SINGLE IDEOLOGICAL "LINE", AND MAY WELL BE WRITTEN BY THE SAME PERSON. THE GUERRILLAS ARE CLEARLY ATTEMPTING TO JUSTIFY THAT WHICH THE SALVADORAN CHURCH IS DECRYING--THE INCREASING DEHUMANIZATION OF THE WAR WITH ITS ATTENDANT TOLL OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES.

Dear Senator Chiles:

We have received your letter of September 30 requesting information regarding the recent detentions in Chile of Father Henehan and Father Cambias, two Maryknoll priests. You also requested information on Jose Luis Aguilar, a religious lay worker based in Chile. Fathers Cambias and Henehan are US citizens; Mr. Aguilar is a Mexican citizen with US residency. Your inquiry was on behalf of your constituents.

You will be pleased to learn that Fathers Henehan and Cambias were released shortly after being detained. While in detention they were visited by an American Embassy consular officer. Mr. Aguilar, detained September 8, was released September 13.

Our Embassy in Santiago has also been in touch with Chilean authorities concerning Father Henehan's and Father Cambias' visa problems. Currently, both are residing in Chile on temporary visas. We will continue to monitor this situation.

If we can be of any further assistance to your office in this matter please do not hesitate to contact us.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

J. Edward Fox
Assistant Secretary
Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs

HUMAN RIGHTS

The human rights situation in the Soviet Union has been deteriorating since the late 1970's as Soviet authorities move to eliminate all forms of internal dissent. By late 1982 the Helsinki Monitors movement, created in the wake of Soviet signing of the Helsinki Final Act, had been effectively destroyed. Leading human rights activists such as Dr. Andrey Sakharov, Anatolly Shcharanskiy and Yuriy Orlov had been imprisoned or forced into internal exile. Soviet authorities have also continued their efforts to repress religious believers and cultural minorities.

Since Gorbachev assumed power in March, the human rights picture has remained bleak. Arrests of Baptists, Pentecostals, Ukrainian and Lithuanian Catholics and other Christians remain high. Ten Pentecostals out of a community of 170 in the Siberian village of Chuguevka have been convicted since January. Every working person in the community has been fired and several families have been threatened with the loss of their children. The crackdown on the revival of Jewish cultural activism continues. Jewish emigration remains at its lowest level since the 1960's. Although news that three longterm refuseniks (waiting 12-15 years) were allowed to emigrate in August-October was positive, the numbers were too small to be encouraging.

Dr. Andrey Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner, remain isolated, and conditions for human rights activists Anatoliy Shcharanskiy, Yuriy Orlov and Iosif Begun have deteriorated. Irina Grivnina, active in exposing psychiatric abuse, was promised exit permission in late October, probably an effort to influence Dutch opinion. Ukrainian Helsinki monitor Vasyl Stus died of emaciation in a labor camp in early September. Other prisoners have had their labor camp sentences extended under new legislation enabling authorities to resentence prisoners for alleged violations of labor camp rules. More than 150 separated spouse, dual national and divided family cases remain unresolved.

Judging from recent Gorbachev comments and a tough July article by KGB head Chebrikov, it appears that the new Soviet leadership intends to continue a hard line on internal dissent. Gorbachev, with the self-confident, vigorous image he has brought to Soviet leadership, seems determined that the USSR will not be put in a defensive position on human rights. The Soviets will now respond to our criticism of their human rights performance with aggressive attacks on economic and social conditions in the West. They seem determined to do this despite the fact that low Soviet living standards, declining life expectancy, cramped housing and rampant alcohol abuse make them extremely vulnerable on these issues. Whether Gorbachev will be willing to act pragmatically on meeting some of our human rights concerns, as he suggested he might be during his recent visit to France, remains to be seen.

SOVIET JEWRY

DECLASSIFIED

Jewish Emigration

Jewish emigration remains at the low level reached in 1984, when only 896 Jews emigrated (compared to 51,320 in the peak year of 1979). Figures through September 1985 (796) are equivalent to those through September 1984 (723). Barring a sudden Soviet change of heart at the end of the year, we expect 1985 figures to be at about the 1984 level. Three longterm refuseniks (waiting 12-15 years) were given exit visas during August-October; the numbers are too small to be encouraging, however. The Soviets often claim that all Jews who wish to leave have done so. We reject this claim, as we have hard information on over 3,000 families who have applied repeatedly to emigrate. Estimates of the number of Jews that would like to leave the Soviet Union range up to 440,000 (about 20% of all Soviet Jews).

Hebrew Teachers/Jewish Cultural Activists

Since July 1984 at least 16 Jewish cultural activists, including 9 Hebrew teachers, have been arrested in a campaign against the revival of Jewish culture in the USSR. The most recent arrest, that of Gorkiy Hebrew teacher Leonid Volvovskiy, occurred on June 24. To date, 14 of these men have been convicted, several on crudely trumped-up criminal charges specifically designed to discredit them. Two of the activists were savagely beaten following their arrests. One, Iosif Berenshtein, was almost completely blinded. We have also heard reports that Jewish activist Yuliy Edelshtein has been subjected to repeated beatings at the labor camp in Siberia where he is serving a three year sentence. The only positive news recently was the dropping of charges of malicious violation of camp rules against Simon Shnirman.

In addition to the arrests and beatings, many Jews have been fired from their jobs, have had their apartments searched, their phones disconnected and their mail seized. Articles have appeared in Soviet newspapers and programs on Soviet television branding Hebrew teachers and other Jewish cultural activists (often by name) as "Zionist" subversives. Zionism has been equated with Nazism and World War II Jewish leaders accused of helping the Nazis round up Jews for the death camps. Although Soviet authorities claim that their campaign is directed solely against those they label as Zionists, there is no doubt that repeated irresponsible charges like these can fan the ugly flames of anti-Semitism.

The Soviet Jews who are being singled out for persecution have in common a desire to be free to leave the Soviet Union for the country of their choice, to preserve their ethnic heritage, and to teach and learn their historic language. On June 14, the Department of State issued a press statement stressing that "the continuation of this campaign constitutes a real obstacle to the constructive relations with the Soviet Union that the United States seeks."

PROMINENT HUMAN RIGHTS CASES

The preeminent representative of the Soviet human rights movement, Andrei Sakharov, remains isolated in Gorkiy with his wife, Yelena Bonner. Despite Western outcry, the Soviets have permitted no family, friends, or independent observers to visit Sakharov to determine his condition. Former Helsinki Monitor Anatoliy Shcharanskiy has now been imprisoned for more than eight years and is currently held in Labor Camp 35 near Perm; he still has six years to serve. The founder of the Soviet Helsinki Monitor movement, Yuriy Orlov, remains in exile in Yakutia.

The crackdown on Jewish cultural activists and Hebrew teachers begun in July 1984 has swelled the ranks of Jewish prisoners in the Soviet Union. Among those now imprisoned are Iosif Begun, Zakhar Zunshine, Yuriy Edelshtein, Iosif Berenshtein, and Aleksandr Kholmianskiy. Among the hundreds of Christians imprisoned in the USSR for their religious activities, the names of Vladimir Khailo, Dina Shvedsova, Vasyl Kobrin, Iosif Terelya, Father Svarinskas, Father Tamkevicius, Father Gleb Yakunin, Pastor Nikolai Goretoi, Viktor Val'ter, Viktoras Petkus, and Balys Gajauskas stand out. Muslims, such as Abuzakar Rahimov, and Hare Krishnas, including Vladimir Kustrya, are two of the many other religions that have suffered.

Soviet psychiatrist Anatoliy Koryagin remains near death in a Soviet prison as a result of his efforts to expose Soviet abuse of psychiatry. Unofficial peace group members Aleksandr Shatravka and Vladimir Brodskiy are in prison for their peace activities. Sergei Khodorovich, former administrator of the Russian Social (Solzhenitsyn) Fund, remains imprisoned, as does Valeriy Senderov, one of the founders of an independent trade union in the USSR.

Mart Niklus and Enn Tarto are both serving long sentences for their activities in defense of the Estonian national and human rights movements. Vytautas Skuodis (AKA Ben Scott) is a U.S. citizen of Lithuanian heritage imprisoned in Lithuania for his national and human rights activities. Mykola Horbal, a former Ukrainian Helsinki Monitor, has recently had his sentence extended in a Soviet labor camp. And Yuriy Shukhevich, first arrested at 14 because his father was the commander of the WWII Ukrainian Insurgent Army, has now spent 33 years of his life in prison.

EASTERN EUROPE

Following World War II, a string of Soviet-dominated Communist governments were put into place throughout Eastern Europe. In 1948, Tito's Yugoslavia broke from Moscow to follow a path of non-alignment between East and West. In 1961, tiny Albania severed relations with Moscow to follow a fiercely independent, neo-Stalinist path. To prevent similar defections, the Soviet Union resorted to brutal force to crush popular movements in Hungary in 1956 and in Czechoslovakia in 1968. In 1981, the "Solidarity" trade union movement was suppressed in Poland through the imposition of martial law. East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria are members of the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact alliance. These nations are also members of CEMA, the Moscow-led regional economic grouping.

Notwithstanding the Soviet Union's military and political control over the region (except for Yugoslavia and Albania), Eastern Europe is not monolithic. Each country has its own distinct culture and history. Nationalism is a potent force, overshadowing the waning influence of communist ideology. The trends in this area are toward somewhat greater economic, social and even political diversity. Romania, for example, often acts as a maverick on foreign policy issues. Hungary has pursued liberalizing economic reforms.

In its approach to the region, the United States seeks to advance its overall interests through recognition of the diversity of each nation's situation. We differentiate between these countries and the Soviet Union. We also differentiate among individual East European countries to the degree that they distinguish themselves from Soviet policies, whether through adoption of distinct and more independent foreign policies; greater political and economic exchange with the non-communist world; greater tolerance of emigration and respect for human rights; encouragement of a more flexible climate for political expression and economic change; or, experimentation with economic decentralization.

The United States accepts no permanent division between the peoples of Europe. We share with the peoples of Eastern Europe their basic aspirations for freedom, prosperity and peace. Overall, we seek to maintain a prudent balance among our political, security, human rights and trade interests.

U.S. relations with the non-Warsaw Pact states in Eastern Europe are a special case. The U.S. maintains a well-developed, productive relationship with non-aligned Yugoslavia, based on our support for that country's unity, independence and territorial integrity. Although we have had no relations with Albania since 1939, the U.S. is prepared to respond should Albania express an interest in resuming relations.

US-USSR Civil Aviation

Pan Am, the only U.S. carrier which has operated scheduled service between the United States and the U.S.S.R., suspended its operations to the Soviet Union in October 1978. Pan Am gave as its reasons for suspension low load factors, low yields, high station costs, lack of access to traffic between the U.S.S.R. and third countries, and the hardships of doing business in the Soviet Union. Those hardships included the prohibition of direct ticket sales for local currency, inadequate offices, difficulty in making ground arrangements for tour groups (controlled by Intourist), and a wide variety of other pressures for traffic originating in the U.S.S.R. to fly Aeroflot (the Soviet flag carrier) rather than a U.S. flag carrier. In October 1981, Pan Am closed its Moscow office.

Aeroflot services to the United States have been suspended since January 5, 1982, when the Civil Aeronautics Board withdrew its operating privileges after President Reagan decided for foreign policy reasons that Aeroflot should not be permitted to operate to and from the United States. The decision was made in response to Soviet involvement in the imposition of martial law in Poland and the repression of the Polish people.

Aeroflot was permitted to continue to sell air transportation in the U.S. on an interline basis, that is, in conjunction with other airlines, which would connect with Aeroflot's service at a point outside the U.S. On September 12, 1983, the U.S. Government, in response to the Soviet attack on Korean Air Lines Flight 007, suspended all remaining commercial aviation links with the U.S.S.R.

A Memorandum of Understanding among Japan, the US, and the U.S.S.R. was signed July 29, 1985, to improve air safety in the North Pacific region. The core of this agreement is an arrangement to set up a new communication network between Anchorage, Tokyo, and Khabarovsk area control centers for use when a civil aircraft assigned to a North Pacific route is in trouble.

The agreement was brought into force on October 8 of this year. The three sides must still work out the technical details of the communication network and procedures. One meeting on these procedures was held in Moscow recently. We expect to hold additional meetings in the near future.

U.S. and Soviet delegations met in Washington October 15-18, 1985 to begin negotiations aimed at reestablishing bilateral air services. A major concern of the U.S. Government is that a new or revised civil aviation agreement would have to contain conditions which would allow a U.S. airline a reasonable opportunity for financially successful operations in the Soviet market. That concern was not adequately met during the negotiations and they ended inconclusively. No further negotiations are scheduled at this time.

DECLASSIFIED

- Soviet military space threat. The Soviets have the world's only operational ASAT interceptor system. The interceptor is relatively small and is launched by a missile booster used for other missions. It threatens U.S. low-altitude satellites. Other current and projected Soviet space systems are designed to support Soviet forces in conflict by providing targeting intelligence for attacks on U.S. and allied forces. In order to deter threats to U.S. and allied space systems, the U.S. has been developing the Miniature Vehicle (MV) System, launched from an F-15 aircraft.

- Breakout. If an agreement ceased to remain in force--for example through sudden abrogation--breakout could occur and one nation could gain a unilateral advantage and a head start in deploying a weapon that had been banned. The importance of the few, but critical, U.S. satellites could create an incentive for the Soviets to maintain a breakout capability.

Soviet ASAT arms control activities: The Soviet Union has proposed a ban on research, development, testing and deployment of what they call "space-strike" arms. Its proposal would completely block SDI research, but would place no limitations upon ground-based ABM systems like the Soviets' own Moscow ABM system or Soviet directed energy research -- e.g. the test laser at Shary Shagon -- unless it was specifically identified as directed at space weapons development.

The Soviets' proposed ban on space-strike arms would cover ASAT weapons and would entail destruction of the Soviets' own operational ASAT. This proposal does not however address difficulties we would have in verifying destruction of the Soviet ASAT; nor does it acknowledge the potential of using ICBM's or ABM interceptors for ASAT purposes.

Space arms control prospects: These differences have hindered efforts to develop effective ASAT arms control measures. Problems of verification tend to be greater the more comprehensive the limitation. Less sweeping options under study would seek to limit specific types of weapons systems. There is a premium, however, on finding ways to limit those ASAT systems that create the most difficult challenges to the survivability of our satellites. We are seeking limits that are effectively verifiable and allow us to protect U.S. and allied forces from being threatened by Soviet satellites, such as targeting satellites. Other options under study would regulate certain potentially threatening activities in space. The active search for space arms control proposals that are equitable, verifiable, and compatible with U.S. security and that of our Allies is continuing.

Interim Restraint and Compliance

On June 10 of this year President Reagan announced that the United States would not undercut the expired SALT I agreement or the unratified SALT II agreement as long as the Soviet Union exercised equal restraint. To implement his decision, the President directed that an existing POSEIDON SSBN be deactivated and dismantled according to agreed procedures when the seventh U.S. Ohio-class submarine put to sea. The decision reflected the President's judgement that it remains in our interest to establish an interim framework of truly mutual restraint on strategic offensive arms as we pursue our goal of real reductions in the size of existing nuclear arsenals.

Thus our policy is to refrain from undercutting existing strategic arms agreements to the extent that the Soviet Union exercises comparable restraint and provided that the Soviet Union actively pursues arms reduction agreements in the currently ongoing Nuclear and Space Talks in Geneva. At the same time, the President decided that appropriate and proportionate responses to Soviet noncompliance are called for to ensure our security, to provide incentives to the Soviets to correct their noncompliance, and to make it clear to Moscow that violations of arms control obligations entail real costs.

In the case of irreversible Soviet violations, such as flight-testing and deployment of the SS-X-25 missile, the United States reserves the right to respond in a proportionate manner at the appropriate time. The President has directed the Department of Defense to conduct a comprehensive assessment aimed at identifying specific actions which the United States could take to augment as necessary the U.S. strategic modernization program as a proportionate response to, and as a hedge gainst the military consequences of, those Soviet violations of existing arms agreements which the Soviets fail to correct.

DECLASSIFIED

SOVIET STRATEGIC DEFENSE

The Soviet emphasis on strategic defense is firmly grounded in Soviet military doctrine and strategy. In the Soviet view, the USSR could best achieve its aims in any nuclear war if it attacked first and destroyed much of the U.S. and Allied capability for retaliation. Defensive measures would in turn prevent those enemy forces that survived a Soviet first-strike from destroying targets in the USSR. Over the past 25 years the Soviets have increased their active and passive defenses in a clear effort to blunt the effect of U.S. and Allied retaliation to any Soviet attack. Passive defenses are non-weapons measures, such as civil defense and hardening; active defenses utilize weapons systems to protect national territory, military forces or key assets.

The Soviet Union maintains the world's only operation anti-ballistic missile system around Moscow. In 1980 the Soviets began to upgrade and expand that system to the limit allowed by the 1972 ABM Treaty. When completed in 1987, the Moscow ABM system will have 100 ABM launchers (including silo-based long-range GALOSH interceptors and silo-based high-acceleration interceptors designed to engage targets within the atmosphere), associated engagement and guidance radars, and a new large radar at Pushkino designed to control anti-ballistic missile engagements.

The Soviet system for detection and tracking of ballistic missile attack consists of a launch-detection satellite network, over-the-horizon radars and a series of large phased-array radars (LPARs). The Soviets are now constructing a network of six new LPARs that can track ballistic missiles with greater accuracy than the existing network. Five of the radars duplicate or supplement current coverage, but with greatly enhanced capacity. A sixth, under construction near Krasnoyarsk in Siberia, closes the final gap in the Soviet early warning radar coverage. This LPAR is not located on the periphery of the Soviet Union and pointed outward as required by the ABM Treaty; it is thus a direct violation of the ABM Treaty.

In the late 1960's the Soviet Union initiated a substantial research program into advanced technologies for defense against ballistic missiles. That program covers many of the same technologies involved in the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, but represents a far greater investment of plant space, capital, and manpower. The Soviet laser program, for example, is much larger than U.S. efforts and involves over 10,000 scientists and engineers. The Soviets are also pursuing active research in particle beam weapons, radio-frequency weapons, kinetic energy weapons, as well as maintaining an operational anti-satellite system and a massive conventional air defense system.

THE GENEVA NUCLEAR AND SPACE ARMS TALKS

Background: The U.S. undertook efforts to establish a more beneficial and constructive long-term relationship with the Soviet Union and to renew a dialogue on nuclear arms control issues when President Reagan met with former Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Washington in September 1984. Later diplomatic contacts paved the way for agreement to enter into negotiations on "the whole range of questions" concerning nuclear offensive arms, and defense and space issues. Secretary Shultz and Mr. Gromyko met to discuss these questions in Geneva on January 7-8, 1985. At the conclusion of their meeting they issued a joint statement of agreement that new negotiations would address "a complex of questions concerning space and nuclear arms--both strategic and intermediate-range--with these questions considered and resolved in their inter-relationship." They agreed that the objective of the negotiations would be to work out effective agreements aimed at preventing an arms race in space and terminating it on earth, at limiting and reducing nuclear arms, and at strengthening strategic stability.

On March 12, 1985, The U.S. and Soviet Union resumed negotiations at Geneva. The negotiations are being conducted by a delegation from each side divided into three groups.

The groups are addressing strategic offensive nuclear arms, intermediate-range nuclear forces (INF), and defense and space arms issues. Ambassador Max M. Kampelman heads the U.S. delegation and serves as the negotiator on defense and space arms. Ambassador John G. Tower is the negotiator on strategic nuclear arms, and Ambassador Maynard W. Glitman the negotiator on intermediate-range nuclear arms. Ambassadors Paul H. Nitze and Edward L. Rowny serve in Washington as special advisers to the President and Secretary of State on arms control matters. Three rounds of negotiations have been held: Round 1 from March 12 - April 23; Round 2 from May 30 - July 16; and Round 3 from September 25 - November 1, 1985.

U.S. Approach: With respect to strategic arms, the U.S. seeks radical reductions in the numbers of destructive power of strategic forces that are both equitable and verifiable, and is prepared to explore tradeoffs that would accommodate differences in the two sides' force structures.

The December 1983 U.S. START position remains on the table in Geneva. This includes reductions in the destabilizing threatening weapons -- ballistic missile warheads -- to 5,000; reductions in ballistic missiles to a number higher than 850; a separate limit of 400 heavy bombers; reductions in missile destructive capacity (throw-weight), either directly or indirectly to about half of the current Soviet level of approximately 5.6 million kilograms; and limits on non-deployed ballistic missiles to an unspecified percentage of the deployed force.

The U.S. also seeks the elimination of, or radical reductions in, U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear forces and is prepared to build upon the flexibility in its current proposal submitted to the Soviet Union in the fall of 1983 in pursuit of the lowest possible equal global limits.

The defense and space negotiations include questions of arms (whether based on earth or in space) and the broader question of strategic defense, including existing Soviet defenses. In the near term, the U.S. wishes to reverse the erosion in the stability of the strategic relationship that has resulted both from Soviet actions in violation of, and probable violation of the spirit and letter of the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) Treaty and from the continuing growth in Soviet offensive nuclear forces.

With respect to anti-satellite weapons, the United States is endeavoring to identify approaches that would allow us to negotiate with the Soviets a mutually and effectively verifiable agreement with the strictest possible limitationsconsistent with the national security of the United States. This is complicated by definitional and verification problems and the need to counter Soviet targetting satellites and the Soviet operational ASAT.

Looking to the longer term, the U.S. is endeavoring engage the Soviets in discussing the possibility of moving away from a situation in which security rests on the threat of offensive nuclear retaliation toward increased reliance on defense to strengthen deterrence. The President's Strategic Defense Initiative is designed to explore that possibility. It is a research program, fully consistent with the ABM Treaty.

The three areas of negotiation are interrelated. It is our view, however, that if we can reach agreement in one or two of these negotiations, we should move ahead to implement those agreements, even if differences remain in the other areas.

Soviet Approach:

At first the Soviet Union presented unverifiable moratoria and freezes and insisted on linking progress in offensive arms reductions to an unacceptable and one-sided ban on U.S.

 DECLASSIFIED

research on strategic defense. The Soviet Union finally came forward with a counterproposal involving an offer to discuss reductions. The outlines of the counterproposal were first presented to President Reagan on September 27 by Soviet Foreign Minister Shevardnadze in a letter from Secretary general Gorbachev. It was subsequently presented in further detail by Soviet negotiators in Round III. There are significant problems with the counterproposal. However, the U.S. is studying to determine whether, combined with proposals the U.S. had on the table, this could provide progress toward reducing nuclear arsenals.

The November Meeting: The Geneva arms negotiations will be on the agenda when President Reagan meets with General Secretary Gorbachev in November at Geneva. If during Round III there is mutual readiness for serious give and take, we should narrow U.S.-Soviet differences on substantive issues and produce ways to bridge these differences. We recognize, however, that the complex issues which affect the basic security of both sides cannot always be managed even in the short term. The U.S. will continue to press in diplomatic contacts with the Soviet Union for evidence of flexibility in other key areas of the U.S.-Soviet relationship: regional problems, human rights, and other bilateral questions.

Prospects: The United States is committed to reduce dramatically the level of nuclear arms through equitable and verifiable agreements. U.S. negotiators have unprecedented flexibility to negotiate a mutually acceptable agreement. With proposals by both sides on the table, we are prepared to be flexible within reason. If the Soviets show comparable flexibility, and reasonableness, and satisfactorily resolve U.S. concerns over Soviet non-compliance with previous arms control agreements, the prospects for arms reduction and progress on other issues will be enhanced.

Intermediate-Range Nuclear Weapons: Positions in Previous Talks

In the mid-1970s two critical developments -- Soviet achievement of strategic parity with the U.S. and the deployment of the SS-20 -- came together to alter the security situation in Europe in favor of the Soviet Union. As the Soviet SS-20 missile force grew, and with no NATO missiles deployed in Europe which could reach the USSR, European members of NATO raised the concern that Moscow might come to believe --however mistakenly-- that U.S. strategic forces could be decoupled from the defense of Europe. They, thus, stressed the need for a NATO response. This led to NATO's 1979 dual track decision, which, on the one hand, called for deployment of 572 U.S. LRINF Pershing II and ground-launched cruise missiles and, on the other, negotiations with the Soviet Union to restore an INF balance at the lowest possible level.

Formal talks with the Soviet Union began in November 1981, at which time the U.S. proposed to ban or eliminate all U.S. and Soviet LRINF missile systems, including the Soviet SS-20, SS-4, and SS-5, and U.S. Pershing II and GLCM. Even though the Soviets deployed SS-20 missiles throughout the negotiations, on November 23, 1983, the Soviets walked out of the INF talks, protesting votes in the parliaments of Great Britain, Italy and West Germany that reaffirmed the dual track decision and the subsequent arrival of U.S. longer-range INF missiles in Europe.

The U.S. approach to the INF negotiations is based on five principles: 1) equality of rights and limits, 2) an agreement must include U.S. and Soviet systems only, 3) limitations must be applied on a global scale, with no transfer of the threat from Europe to Asia, 4) NATO's conventional defense capability must not be weakened, and 5) any agreement must be effectively verifiable.

The U.S. zero-zero option proposal which would eliminate all U.S. and Soviet longer-range INF missiles, the Interim Agreement Proposal that would result in equal global limits on LRINF missile warheads between 0 and 572, and the President's September 1983 initiatives are based on those criteria.

The Soviet position in the talks was to prevent the deployment in Europe of U.S. Pershing II or cruise missiles while retaining a formidable arsenal of SS-20s in Europe and continuing their buildup of SS-20s in Asia. They sought to remove from Europe hundreds of U.S. aircraft which are capable of carrying both nuclear and conventional weapons and are essential to NATO's conventional deterrent. As a rationale for these demands, the Soviets insisted on compensation for the independent strategic nuclear forces of Britain and France.

Intermediate-Range Nuclear Weapons: The Current Talks

On January 8, 1985, Secretary Shultz and Foreign Minister Gromyko agreed in Geneva to renewed arms talks divided into three areas: strategic offensive, intermediate-range, and defense and space arms. On March 12, 1985, the U.S. and Soviet Union began this new set of arms control negotiations in Geneva.

During the first two rounds, the INF negotiator Ambassador Maynard Glitman reiterated the U.S. position based on our long-standing criteria:

1) equality of rights and limits,
2) an agreement must include U.S. and Soviet systems only,
3) limitations must be applied on a global scale, with no transfer of the threat from Europe to Asia,
4) NATO's conventional defense capability must not be weakened, and
5) any agreement must be effectively verifiable.

In addition, the President gave Ambassador Glitman unprecedented flexibility to respond to any Soviet proposal. Unfortunately, the Soviet side was intransigent and failed to return even to positions which it held when the talks ended in November 1983.

During the current round, the Soviet Union has finally responded to U.S. calls for serious negotiation and put forth counterproposals which contain a number of INF-related aspects. While many elements of this counterproposal are one-sided, there are some positive elements which we intend to explore further in the negotiations.

The U.S. intends to work with the Soviets to seek a mutually acceptable agreement that meets the fundamental concerns of both sides. If the Soviets prove as serious and flexible as the U.S., meaningful progress can be achieved.

MUTUAL AND BALANCED FORCE REDUCTION (MBFR) TALKS

MBFR negotiations, involving 12 members of NATO and the 7 Warsaw Pact member states, began in Vienna in 1973 with a focus on the reduction of NATO and Warsaw Pact conventional forces in Central Europe. The primary U.S. and Allied objective in MBFR is to enhance stability and security in Central Europe through asymmetrical reduction of ground forces to parity at lower levels with common collective ceilings on each side's military manpower.

While the sides have reached some agreement on reductions to parity at common collective ceilings of 700,000 for ground forces and 900,000 for air and ground forces combined, major differences remain as on the data and verification issues. The East claims that approximate parity already exists and has thus resisted Western calls for asymmetrical reductions. Eastern figures for their forces, however, are some 170,000 short of Western estimates, and the East has refused to discuss in any detail the reasons for this data discrepancy. Although the East made some concessions in 1983 on the verification issue, its position still falls far short of Western requirements for effective verification measures and their early implementation.

In 1982, the West proposed a draft MBFR treaty embodying a comprehensive proposal for staged reductions to parity along with a package of associated measures providing for cooperative verification. It also required full agreement prior to treaty signature on figures for all forces in order to resolve the data discrepancy. In April 1984, in order to break the impasse in the talks caused by the data issue, the West modified its requirement for full data agreement and proposed instead a data exchange prior to treaty signature on only the ground combat and combat support forces of the sides to fall within an acceptable range of Western estimates. The flexibility on data was offered in exchange for enhanced verification measures.

On February 14, 1985, the East tabled a proposal which essentially put into legally binding form previous Eastern proposals from 1983 calling for initial reductions of 13,000 U.S. and 20,000 Soviet ground forces and for a subsequent freeze on all forces for two years. This proposal thus offers little that is new and does not address the central issues of data and verification nor respond to the offer of flexibility in the West's April 1984 proposal.

The West has asked a number of questions about the details of the East's February 1985 proposal, which it will have to assess along with other broader factors in considering how to respond. The West is fully committed to move the talks forward and seeks an outcome equitable to both sides to enhance security in Europe.

CONFERENCE ON DISARMAMENT IN EUROPE

Background: On January 17, 1984, the U.S., Canada, and 33 European states, including NATO, Warsaw Pact, neutral and nonaligned countries, convened in Stockholm for the first stage of the Conference on Confidence- and Security-Building Measures and Disarmament in Europe (CDE). It was mandated by the Madrid meeting (1980-83) of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, which reviewed the implementation of the 1975 Helsinki Final Act. Its purpose is to agree on measures that would reduce the proximate causes of war: misunderstanding and miscalculation. CDE's Mandrid mandate requires the measures to be militarily significant, politically binding, and provided with adequate forms of verification.

Western proposal: One week after the conference opened, the 16 NATO participants proposed six measures designed to make the European military environment more open, predictable, and stable:

- An Exchange of Military Information would require participants to inform each other annually about the structure of their ground and land-based air forces in Europe, giving unit designation, normal peacetime location, and force composition.

- An Exchange of Forecasts of Activities Notifiable in Advance would call for an annual exchange of forecasts of military exercises including the name, place, timing, purpose, and countries participating, along with the size and type of forces involved.

- Notification of Military Activities would call for notification 45 days in advance of out-of-garrison land activities of units at division level or above and notification of certain mobilization and amphibious exercises. Alert activities would be notifiable as they begin.

- Observation of Certain Military Activities would require states to invite observers from all other states to all notified activities.

- Compliance and Verification would allow participating states to request an inspection of activities that have not been notified in compliance with negotiated agreements and would require states not to interfere with other states' "national technical means" of verification--for example, photographic reconnaissance satellites.

DECLASSIFIED

-DECLASSIFIED

- Development of Means of Communication encourages participating states to develop better means and procedures for communications.

How measures would work: These measures could be implemented with a minimum of interference with normal, nonthreatening military activity. Measure 1 would establish a baseline of information. At the same time, under measure 2, a state would advise other participants of military activities it has planned for the next calendar year.

Measure 3 notifications would then provide specific detail on a notifiable event, closer in time to the event. A state with aggressive intent would raise an alarm against itself if it announced an exercise it had not forecast; the alarm would sound even louder if the state also failed to notify the event 45 days in advance.

The observers called for in measure 4 would verify that activities are conducted as advertised. There might, however, be occasions where a state detects a military activity that it thinks should have been notified. Under measure 5, those suspicions could be alleviated or confirmed by asking for an inspection. Finally, the communications arrangements of measure 6 could be used to seek further information on a potentially destabilizing event.

Significance of Western proposals: These measures would not prevent war nor could they prevent a state from using force for political intimidation. They would, however, make unwanted confrontation less likely and they could raise the political cost of using force to intimidate. Having established a pattern of routine activities, if a deviation were to occur, there would be time to clarify the situation before political tensions escalated or to take counteraction against a real threat.

Soviet objections: The USSR has tried to use the CDE to portray Moscow as the defender of peace and the U.S. and some of its allies as aggressive, militaristic adventurers. It also has sought to exploit differences between the U.S. and European countries. This approach prevented the CDE from quickly getting down to business. Moscow has criticized information and verification provisions of the Western proposals as "legalized espionage." In fact, they are not designed to expose important Soviet military secrets. Forecasts and notifications will involve only out-of-garrison ground activities, not sensitive military installations. Observers would visit areas only where those activities are taking place.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Soviet proposal: The Soviets have offered six alternative proposals: a treaty on the non-use of force; a non-first-use of nuclear weapons pledge; creation of nuclear weapons-free zones; a freeze and reduction of military budgets; a chemical weapons ban in Europe; and expansion of the confidence-building measures of the Helsinki Final Act.

Western reaction: The West accepts the principle of non-use of force as embodied in the UN Charter and the Helsinki Final Act. Moreover, President Reagan has offered to enter discussions with the Soviets on reaffirming this principle if this would lead them to negotiate meaningful confidence-building measures of the type contained in the Western proposal. Efforts to negotiate only a European chemical weapons ban would duplicate the Geneva negotiations where global and comprehensive chemical weapons agreements are being discussed.

The UN tries annually to study military budgets, but the Warsaw Pact, not the West, blocks this effort. Nonetheless, the Soviets' own proposals call for Helsinki-type confidence-building measures that could prove similar to proposals offered by the West and neutral and nonaligned countries at the conference. When the Soviet Union decides that its interests lie in a cooperative approach, the CDE can make its contribution toward improving European security.

Treaty Between the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the Limitation of Anti-Ballistic Missile Systems

In the Treaty on the Limitation of Anti-Ballistic Missile Systems the United States and the Soviet Union agree that each may have only two ABM deployment areas,[1] so restricted and so located that they cannot provide a nationwide ABM defense or become the basis for developing one. Each country thus leaves unchallenged the penetration capability of the other's retaliatory missile forces.

The treaty permits each side to have one limited ABM system to protect its capital and another to protect an ICBM launch area. The two sites defended must be at least 1,300 kilometers apart, to prevent the creation of any effective regional defense zone or the beginnings of a nationwide system.

Precise quantitative and qualitative limits are imposed on the ABM systems that may be deployed. At each site there may be no more than 100 interceptor missiles and 100 launchers. Agreement on the number and characteristics of radars to be permitted had required extensive and complex technical negotiations, and the provisions governing these important components of ABM systems are spelled out in very specific detail in the treaty and further clarified in the "Agreed Statements" accompanying it.

Both parties agreed to limit qualitative improvement of their ABM technology, e.g., not to develop, test, or deploy ABM launchers capable of launching more than one interceptor missile at a time or modify existing launchers to give them this capability, and systems for rapid reload of launchers are similarly barred. These provisions, the Agreed Statements clarify, also ban interceptor missiles with more than one independently guided warhead.

There had been some concern over the possibility that surface-to-air missiles (SAMs) intended for defense against aircraft might be improved, along with their supporting radars, to the point where they could effectively be used against ICBMs and SLBMs, and the treaty prohibits this. While further deployment of radars intended to give early warning of strategic ballistic missile attack is not prohibited, they must be located along the territorial boundaries of each country and oriented outward, so that they do not contribute to an effective ABM defense of points in the interior.

Further, to decrease the pressures of technological change and its unsettling impact on the strategic balance, both sides agree to prohibit development, testing, or deployment of sea-based, air-based, or space-based ABM systems and their components, along with mobile land-based ABM systems. Should future technology bring forth new ABM systems "based on other physical principles" than those employed in current systems, it was agreed that limiting such systems would be discussed, in accordance with the treaty's provisions for consultation and amendment.

The treaty also provides for a U.S.-Soviet Standing Consultative Commission to promote its objectives and implementation. The commission was established during the first negotiating session of SALT II, by a Memorandum of Understanding dated December 21, 1972. Since then both the United States and the Soviet Union have raised a number of questions in the Commission relating to each side's compliance with the SALT I agreements. In each case raised by the United States, the Soviet activity in question has either ceased or additional information has allayed U.S. concern.

Article XIV of the treaty calls for review of the treaty 5 years after its entry into force, and at 5-year intervals thereafter. The first such review was conducted by the Standing Consultative Commission at its special session in the fall of 1977. At this session, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed that the treaty had operated effectively during its first 5 years, that it had continued to serve national security interests, and that it did not need to be amended at that time.

Treaty Between the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the Limitation of Anti-Ballistic Missile Systems

Signed at Moscow May 26, 1972
Ratification advised by U.S. Senate August 3, 1972
Ratified by U.S. President September 30, 1972
Proclaimed by U.S. President October 3, 1972
Instruments of ratification exchanged October 3, 1972
Entered into force October 3, 1972

The United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, hereinafter referred to as the Parties,

Proceeding from the premise that nuclear war would have devastating consequences for all mankind,

Considering that effective measures to limit anti-ballistic missile systems would be a substantial factor in curbing the race in strategic offensive arms and would lead to a decrease in the risk of outbreak of war involving nuclear weapons,

Proceeding from the premise that the limitation of anti-ballistic missile systems, as well as certain agreed measures with respect to the limitation of strategic offensive arms, would contribute to the creation of more favorable conditions for further negotiations on limiting strategic arms,

Mindful of their obligations under Article VI of the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons,

Declaring their intention to achieve at the earliest possible date the cessation of the nuclear arms race and to take effective measures toward reductions in strategic arms, nuclear disarmament, and general and complete disarmament,

Desiring to contribute to the relaxation of international tension and the strengthening of trust between States,

Have agreed as follows:

Article I

1. Each party undertakes to limit anti-ballistic missile (ABM) systems and to adopt other measures in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty.

2. Each Party undertakes not to deploy ABM systems for a defense of the territory of its country and not to provide a base for such a defense, and not to deploy ABM systems for defense of an individual region except as provided for in Article III of this Treaty.

Article II

1. For the purpose of this Treaty an ABM system is a system to counter strategic ballistic missiles or their elements in flight trajectory, currently consisting of:

(a) ABM interceptor missiles, which are interceptor missiles constructed and deployed for an ABM role, or of a type tested in an ABM mode;

(b) ABM launchers, which are launchers constructed and deployed for launching ABM interceptor missiles, and

(c) ABM radars, which are radars constructed and deployed for an ABM role, or of a type tested in an ABM mode.

2. The ABM system components listed in paragraph 1 of this Article include those which are:

(a) operational;
(b) under construction;
(c) undergoing testing;
(d) undergoing overhaul, repair or conversion; or
(e) mothballed.

Article III

Each Party undertakes not to deploy ABM systems or their components except that:

(a) within one ABM system deployment area having a radius of one hundred and fifty kilometers and centered on the Party's national capital, a Party may deploy: (1) no more than one hundred ABM launchers and no more than one hundred ABM interceptor missiles at launch sites, and (2) ABM radars within no more than six ABM radar complexes, the area of each complex being circular and having a diameter of no more than three kilometers; and

(b) within one ABM system deployment area having a radius of one hundred and fifty kilometers and containing ICBM silo launchers, a Party may deploy: (1) no more than one hundred ABM launchers and no more than one hundred ABM interceptor missiles at launch sites, (2) two large phased-array ABM radars comparable in potential to corresponding ABM radars operational or under construction on the date of signature of the Treaty in an ABM system deployment area containing ICBM silo launchers, and (3) no more than eighteen ABM radars each having a potential less than that potential of the smaller of the above-mentioned two large phased-array ABM radars.

Article IV

The limitations provided for in Article III shall not apply to ABM systems or their components used for development or testing, and located within current or additionally agreed test ranges. Each Party may have no more than a total of fifteen ABM launchers at test ranges.

Article V

1. Each Party undertakes not to develop, test, or deploy ABM systems or components which are sea-based, air-based, space-based, or mobile land-based.

2. Each Party undertakes not to develop, test, or deploy ABM launchers for launching more than one ABM interceptor missile at a time from each launcher, not to modify deployed launchers to provide them with such a capability, not to develop, test, or deploy automatic or semi-automatic or other similar systems for rapid reload of ABM launchers.

Article VI

To enhance assurance of the effectiveness of the limitations on ABM systems and their components provided by the Treaty, each Party undertakes:

DECLASSIFIED

(a) not to give missiles, launchers, or radars, other than ABM interceptor missiles, ABM launchers, or ABM radars, capabilities to counter strategic ballistic missiles or their elements in flight trajectory, and not to test them in an ABM mode, and

(b) not to deploy in the future radars for early warning of strategic ballistic missile attack except at locations along the periphery of its national territory and oriented outward.

Article VII

Subject to the provisions of this Treaty, modernization and replacement of ABM systems or their components may be carried out.

Article VIII

ABM systems or their components in excess of the numbers or outside the areas specified in this Treaty, as well as ABM systems or their components prohibited by this Treaty, shall be destroyed or dismantled under agreed procedures within the shortest possible agreed period of time.

Article IX

To assure the viability and effectiveness of this Treaty, each Party undertakes not to transfer to other States, and not to deploy outside its national territory, ABM systems or their components limited by this Treaty.

Article X

Each Party undertakes not to assume any international obligations which would conflict with this Treaty.

Article XI

The Parties undertake to continue active negotiations for limitations on strategic offensive arms.

Article XII

1. For the purpose of providing assurance of compliance with the provisions of this Treaty, each Party shall use national technical means of verification at its disposal in a manner consistent with generally recognized principles of international law.

2. Each Party undertakes not to interfere with the national technical means of verification of the other Party operating in accordance with paragraph 1 of this Article.

3. Each Party undertakes not to use deliberate concealment measures which impede verification by national technical means of compliance with the provisions of this Treaty. This obligation shall not require changes in current construction, assembly, conversion, or overhaul practices.

Article XIII

1. To promote the objectives and implementation of the provisions of this Treaty, the Parties shall establish promptly a Standing Consultative Commission, within the framework of which they will:

(a) consider questions concerning compliance with the obligations assumed and related situations which may be considered ambiguous;

(b) provide, on a voluntary basis, such information as either Party considers necessary to assure confidence in compliance with the obligations assumed;

(c) consider questions involving unintentional interference with national technical means of verification;

(d) consider possible changes in the strategic situation which have a bearing on the provisions of this Treaty;

(e) agree upon procedures and dates for destruction or dismantling of ABM systems or their components in cases provided for by the provisions of this Treaty;

(f) consider, as appropriate, possible proposals for further increasing the viability of this Treaty, including proposals for amendments in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty;

(g) consider, as appropriate, proposals for further measures aimed at limiting strategic arms.

2. The Parties through consultation shall establish, and may amend as appropriate, Regulations for the Standing Consultative Commission governing procedures, composition and other relevant matters.

Article XIV

1. Each Party may propose amendments to this Treaty. Agreed amendments shall enter into force in accordance with the procedures governing the entry into force of this Treaty.

2. Five years after entry into force of this Treaty, and at five-year intervals thereafter, the Parties shall together conduct a review of this Treaty.

Article XV

1. This Treaty shall be of unlimited duration.

2. Each Party shall, in exercising its national sovereignty, have the right to withdraw from this Treaty if it decides that extraordinary events related to the subject matter of this Treaty have jeopardized its supreme interests. It shall give notice of its decision to the other Party six months prior to withdrawal from the Treaty. Such notice shall include a statement of the extraordinary events the notifying Party regards as having jeopardized its supreme interests.

Article XVI

1. This Treaty shall be subject to ratification in accordance with the constitutional procedures of each Party. The Treaty shall enter into force on the day of the exchange of instruments of ratification.

2. This Treaty shall be registered pursuant to Article 102 of the Charter of the United Nations.

DONE at Moscow on May 26, 1972, in two copies, each in the English and Russian languages, both texts being equally authentic.

Agreed Statements, Common Understandings, and Unilateral Statements Regarding the Treaty Between the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the Limitation of Anti-Ballistic Missiles

1. Agreed Statements

The document set forth below was agreed upon and initialed by the Heads of the Delegations on May 26, 1972 (letter designations added).

AGREED STATEMENTS REGARDING THE TREATY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS ON THE LIMITATION OF ANTI-BALLISTIC MISSILE SYTEMS

The Parties understand that, in addition to the ABM radars which may be deployed in accordance with subparagraph (a) of Article III of the Treaty, those non-phased-array ABM radars operational on the date of signature of the Treaty within the ABM system deployment area for defense of the national capital may be retained.

[B]

The Parties understand that the potential (the product of mean emitted power in watts and antenna area in square meters) of the smaller of the two large phased-array ABM radars referred to in subparagraph (b) of Article III of the Treaty is considered for purposes of the Treaty to be three million.

[C]

The Parties understand that the center of the ABM system deployment area centered on the national capital and the center of the ABM system deployment area containing ICBM silo launchers for each Party shall be separated by no less than thirteen hundred kilometers.

[D]

In order to insure fulfillment of the obligation not to deploy ABM systems and their components except as provided in Article III of the Treaty, the Parties agree that in the event ABM systems based on other physical principles and including components capable of substituting for ABM interceptor missiles, ABM launchers, or ABM radars are created in the future, specific limitations on such systems and their components would be subject to discussion in accordance with Article XIII and agreement in accordance with Article XIV of the Treaty.

[E]

The Parties understand that Article V of the Treaty includes obligations not to develop, test or deploy ABM interceptor missiles for the delivery by each ABM interceptor missile of more than one independently guided warhead.

[F]

The Parties agree not to deploy phased-array radars having a potential (the product of mean emitted power in watts and antenna area in square meters) exceeding three million, except as provided for in Articles III, IV and VI of the Treaty, or except for the purposes of tracking objects in outer space or for use as national technical means of verification.

[G]

The Parties understand that Article IX of the Treaty includes the obligation of the US and the USSR not to provide to other States technical descriptions or blue prints specially worked out for the construction of ABM systems and their components limited by the Treaty.

2. Common Understandings

Common understanding of the Parties on the following matters was reached during the negotiations:

A. Location of ICBM Defenses

The U.S. Delegation made the following statement on May 26, 1972:

Article III of the ABM Treaty provides for each side one ABM system deployment area centered on its national capital and one ABM system deployment area containing ICBM silo launchers. The two sides have registered agreement on the following statement: "The Parties understand that the center of the ABM system deployment area centered on the national capital and the center of the ABM system deployment area containing ICBM silo launchers for each Party shall be separated by no less than thirteen hundred kilometers." In this connection, the U.S. side notes that its ABM system deployment area for defense of ICBM silo launchers, located west of the Mississippi River, will be centered in the Grand Forks ICBM silo launcher deployment area. (See Agreed Statement [C].)

B. ABM Test Ranges

The U.S. Delegation made the following statement on April 26, 1972:

Article IV of the ABM Treaty provides that "the limitations provided for in Article III shall not apply to ABM systems or their components used for development or testing, and located within current or additionally agreed test ranges." We believe it would be useful to assure that there is no misunderstanding as to current ABM test ranges. It is our understanding that ABM test ranges encompass the area within which ABM components are located for test purposes. The current U.S. ABM test ranges are at White Sands, New Mexico, and at Kwajalein Atoll, and the current Soviet ABM test range is near Sary Shagan in Kazakhstan. We consider that non-phased array radars of types used for range safety or instrumentation purposes may be located outside of ABM test ranges. We interpret the reference in Article IV to "additionally agreed test ranges" to mean that ABM components will not be located at any other test ranges without prior agreement between our Governments that there will be such additional ABM test ranges.

On May 5, 1972, the Soviet Delegation stated that there was a common understanding on what ABM test ranges were, that the use of the types of non-ABM radars for range safety or instrumentation was not limited under the Treaty, that the reference in Article IV to "additionally agreed" test ranges was sufficiently clear, and that national means permitted identifying current test ranges.

C. Mobile ABM Systems

On January 29, 1972, the U.S. Delegation made the following statement:

Article V(1) of the Joint Draft Text of the ABM Treaty includes an undertaking not to develop, test, or deploy mobile land-based ABM systems and their components. On May 5, 1971, the U.S. side indicated that, in its view, a prohibition on deployment of mobile ABM systems and components would rule out the deployment of ABM launchers and radars which were not permanent fixed types. At that time, we asked for the Soviet view of this interpretation. Does the Soviet side agree with the U.S. side's interpretation put forward on May 5, 1971?

On April 13, 1972, the Soviet Delegation said there is a general common understanding on this matter.

D. Standing Consultative Commission

Ambassador Smith made the following statement on May 22, 1972:

The United States proposes that the sides agree that, with regard to initial implementation of the ABM Treaty's Article XIII on the Standing Consultative Commission (SCC) and of the consultation Articles to the Interim Agreement on offensive arms and the Accidents Agreement,[1] agreement establishing the SCC will be worked out early in the follow-on SALT negotiations; until that is completed, the following arrangements will prevail: when SALT is in session, any consultation desired by either side under these Articles can be carried out by the two SALT Delegations; when SALT is not in session, ad hoc arrangements for any desired consultations under these Articles may be made through diplomatic channels.

Minister Semenov replied that, on an ad referendum basis, he could agree that the U.S. statement corresponded to the Soviet understanding.

E. Standstill

On May 6, 1972, Minister Semenov made the following statement:

In an effort to accommodate the wishes of the U.S. side, the Soviet Delegation is prepared to proceed on the basis that the two sides will in fact observe the obligations of both the Interim Agreement and the ABM Treaty beginning from the date of signature of these two documents.

In reply, the U.S. Delegation made the following statement on May 20, 1972:

[1]See Article 7 of Agreement to Reduce the Risk of Outbreak of Nuclear War Between the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, signed Sept. 30, 1971.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

The U S agrees in principle with the Soviet statement made on May 6 concerning observance of obligations beginning from date of signature but we would like to make clear our understanding that this means that, pending ratification and acceptance, neither side would take any action prohibited by the agreements after they had entered into force. This understanding would continue to apply in the absence of notification by either signatory of its intention not to proceed with ratification or approval.

The Soviet Delegation indicated agreement with the U.S. statement.

3. Unilateral Statements

The following noteworthy unilateral statements were made during the negotiations by the United States Delegation:

A. Withdrawal from the ABM Treaty

On May 9, 1972, Ambassador Smith made the following statement:

The U.S. Delegation has stressed the importance the U.S. Government attaches to achieving agreement on more complete limitations on strategic offensive arms, following agreement on an ABM Treaty and on an Interim Agreement on certain measures with respect to the limitation of strategic offensive arms. The U.S. Delegation believes that an objective of the follow-on negotiations should be to constrain and reduce on a long-term basis threats to the survivability of our respective strategic retaliatory forces. The USSR Delegation has also indicated that the objectives of SALT would remain unfulfilled without the achievement of an agreement providing for more complete limitations on strategic offensive arms. Both sides recognize that the initial agreements would be steps toward the achievement of more complete limitations on strategic arms. If an agreement providing for more complete strategic offensive arms limitations were not achieved within five years, U.S. supreme interests could be jeopardized. Should that occur, it would constitute a basis for withdrawal from the ABM Treaty. The U.S. does not wish to see such a situation occur, nor do we believe that the USSR does. It is because we wish to prevent such a situation that we emphasize the importance the U.S. Government attaches to achievement of more complete limitations on strategic offensive arms. The U.S. Executive will inform the Congress, in connection with Congressional consideration of the ABM Treaty and the Interim Agreement, of this statement of the U.S. position.

B. Tested in ABM Mode

On April 7, 1972, the U.S. Delegation made the following statement:

Article II of the Joint Text Draft uses the term "tested in an ABM mode," in defining ABM components, and Article VI includes certain obligations concerning such testing. We believe that the sides should have a common understanding of this phrase. First, we would note that the testing provisions of the ABM Treaty are intended to apply to testing which occurs after the date of signature of the Treaty, and not to any testing which may have occurred in the past. Next, we would amplify the remarks we have made on this subject during the previous Helsinki phase by setting forth the objectives which govern the U.S. view of the subject matter, while prohibiting testing of non-ABM components for ABM purposes: not to prevent testing of ABM components, and not to prevent testing of non-ABM components for non-ABM purposes. To clarify our interpretation of "tested in an ABM mode," I note that we would consider a launcher, missile or radar to be "tested in an AB mode" if, for example, any of the following events occur: (1) a launcher is used launch an ABM interceptor missile, (2) an interceptor missile is flight tested agains target vehicle which has a flight trajectory with characteristics of a strategic ballis missile flight trajectory, or is flight tested in conjunction with the test of an A Interceptor missile or an ABM radar at the same test range, or is flight tested to altitude inconsistent with interception of targets against which air defenses deployed, (3) a radar makes measurements on a cooperative target vehicle of t kind referred to in item (2) above during the reentry portion of its trajectory or mak measurements in conjunction with the test of an ABM interceptor missile or an AB radar at the same test range. Radars used for purposes such as range safety instrumentation would be exempt from application of these criteria.

C. No-Transfer Article of ABM Treaty

On April 18, 1972, the U.S. Delegation made the following statement:

In regard to this Article [IX], I have a brief and I believe self-explanatory statem to make. The U.S. side wishes to make clear that the provisions of this Article do set a precedent for whatever provision may be considered for a Treaty on Limit Strategic Offensive Arms. The question of transfer of strategic offensive arms is a more complex issue, which may require a different solution.

D. No Increase in Defense of Early Warning Radars

On July 28, 1970, the U.S. Delegation made the following statement:

Since Hen House radars [Soviet ballistic missile early warning radars] can det and track ballistic missile warheads at great distances, they have a significant A potential. Accordingly, the U.S. would regard any increase in the defenses of radars by surface-to-air missiles as inconsistent with an agreement.

(C) POLOFFS MET WITH MARCO AZURDIAS, HEAD OF THE RAFAEL LANDIVAR UNIVERSITY EXTENSION PROGRAM, AND RELATIVES OF TWO OF THE THREE MISSING EXTENSION WORKERS OCTOBER 7. AZURDIAS REPEATED TO POLOFFS HIS BELIEF THAT THE THREE EXTENSION WORKERS ARE IN THE HANDS OF GOG SECURITY FORCES. HE SAID HE AND THE RELATIVES HAD RUN OUT OF PATIENCE, AND ARE NOW WILLING TO CONFRONT THE GOG.

HE SAID THE UNIVERSITY WOULD LOOK FOR A "STRATEGIC MOMENT" TO CAUSE A "HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEM" FOR THE GOG. END SUMMARY

2. POLOFFS MET WITH MARCO AZURDIAS, HEAD OF THE RAFAEL LANDIVAR UNIVERSITY EXTENSION PROGRAM, AND RELATIVES OF TWO OF THE THREE MISSING UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORKERS OCTOBER 7, 1985. THE RELATIVES WERE JOSEFINA DE MUCIA, WIFE OF LAZARO ANTONIO MUCIA RAQUEC, FLORIDAL DE SINCAL, WIFE OF CARLOS SINCAL AJUCHAN, AND DOROTHEO SINCAL, FATHER OF CARLOS SINCAL AJUCHAN.

3. AZURDIAS SAID HE KNEW NOTHING NEW ABOUT THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THE EXTENSION WORKERS. HOWEVER, HE SAID HE IS "ABSOLUTELY CONVINCED" THAT THE THREE ARE ALIVE AND IN THE HANDS OF GOG SECURITY FORCES. FURTHERMORE, HE SAID HE BELIEVES THE THREE HAVE BEEN MOVED OUT OF GUATEMALA CITY TO A "DEPARTMENT", THOUGH HE DID NOT KNOW WHICH DEPARTMENT.

4. FLORIDAL DE SINCAL, WIFE OF MISSING EXTENSION WORKER CARLOS SINCAL AJUCHAN, SAID SHE HAS "FAITH" THAT HER HUSBAND IS ALIVE. SHE CLAIMED THAT WHEN A PERSON DIES HIS DEPARTING SPIRIT TELLS THE LIVING THAT IT IS LEAVING THE WORLD. SINCAL'S WIFE SAID SHE HAD HEARD NO VOICES AT NIGHT, HAD DREAMED NO DREAMS, AND HAD NOT EXPERIENCED ANY OTHER KIND OF SUPERNATURAL PHENOMENA WHICH WOULD INDICATE THAT HER HUSBAND IS DEAD. AZURDIAS OFFERED A SOMEWHAT MORE CONCRETE REASON FOR BELIEVING THE THREE

ARE ALIVE. HE SAID SEVERAL MEN FROM PATZUN WHO HAD BEEN MUSTERED OUT OF THE ARMY HAD RETURNED TO THE VILLAGE AND TOLD RELATIVES THAT THE THREE ARE ALIVE. AZURDIAS, HOWEVER, WOULD NOT IDENTIFY THE FORMER SOLDIERS. WHEN TOLD THE EMBASSY NEEDED SUCH INFORMATION IF IT HOPED TO MAKE A CASE TO THE GOG, AZURDIAS SAID HE DID NOT WANT TO ENDANGER THE LIVES OF THESE MEN.

5. AZURDIAS SAID HE HAD ORIGINALLY ADVISED THE FAMILIES OF THE MISSING EXTENSION WORKERS NOT TO MAKE A PROBLEM FOR THE GOVERNMENT. HE SAID HE DID NOT WANT TO PROVOKE THE GOG INTO KILLING THE THREE. AZURDIAS

SAID HE HAD HOPED THAT THE "GOVERNMENT" WOULD QUESTION THE THREE AND THEN RELEASE THEM. TO THAT END, THE RELATIVES MADE NO STATEMENTS TO THE PRESS, DID NOT FILE A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS, AND LET THE UNIVERSITY REPRESENT THEM BEFORE THE GOG. HOWEVER, HE SAID THAT HE, THE RELATIVES, AND THE UNIVERSITY HAD REACHED THE END OF THEIR PATIENCE. HE STATED THAT THEY HAD TRIED EVERY POSSIBLE CHANNEL, BUT EVERYWHERE THEIR REQUESTS WERE MET BY "COMPLETE INDIFFERENCE". THE RESULTING FEELING OF "IMPOTENCE", ACCORDING TO AZURDIAS, IS DRIVING THE UNIVERSITY TO TAKE DRASTIC ACTION. HE SAID THAT IF THE THREE ARE NOT RELEASED SOON, THE UNIVERSITY WILL SEEK THE MOST "STRATEGIC MOMENT" TO CAUSE A "HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEM" FOR THE GOG. HE WOULD NOT ELABORATE ON THIS THREAT.

6. AZURDIAS SAID THE UNIVERSITY HAS BEEN COMPLETELY FRUSTRATED AND CONFUSED BY THE DISAPPEARANCES. HE SAID THE EXTENSION PROGRAM HAD SURVIVED FOR TWENTY YEARS IN GUATEMALA WITHOUT A PROBLEM. HE CLAIMED THAT THE UNIVERSITY STEERS CLEAR OF POLITICS AND MAKES SURE LOCAL CIVILIAN AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES ARE WELL BRIEFED ABOUT EXTENSION WORKER ACTIVITIES. HE SAID THE THREE MISSING WORKERS WERE "CLEAN", AND COULD NOT IMAGINE WHAT WOULD HAVE PROVOKED SOMEONE TO TAKE SUCH DRASTIC ACTION AGAINST THEM. HE ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE THREE WERE FROM PATZUN, AND THAT PATZUN HAS SUFFERED AN "EPOCH OF VIOLENCE". HOWEVER, HE INSISTED THAT NONE OF THE THREE WERE "MIXED UP" IN THE PROBLEMS AROUND PATZUN, AND THAT THE MERE FACT THAT THE THREE WERE FROM THAT TROUBLED VILLAGE WAS NO "JUSTIFICATION TO TAKE THEM".

E.O. 12356: DECL: ODAR

SUBJECT: THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS TELL THEIR STORY...AND IT DOES NOT REFLECT WELL ON THE GOES

1. (C) SUMMARY. IN THE RASH OF PUBLICITY AND POLITICAL DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS SURROUNDING THE RECENT INES DUARTE KIDNAPPING, LITTLE ATTENTION HAS BEEN PAID TO THE 23 KIDNAPPED MAYORS WHO WERE RELEASED AS PART OF THE RANSOM PACKAGE. (NOTE: ARCHBISHOP RIVERA DAMAS ANNOUNCED IN HIS OCTOBER 27 HOMILY THAT TWO ADDITIONAL MAYORS, PLUS SEVEN MUNICIPAL WORKERS, REMAINED IN ERP HANDS IN VIOLATION OF THE PANAMA ACCORDS BETWEEN THE FMLN AND GOES, WITNESSED BY THE CHURCH, FOR THE RETURN OF ALL THE MAYORS.) ALTHOUGH DUARTE AND THE PDC HAVE POINTED TO THEIR RELEASE AS EVIDENCE OF GOES CONCERN FOR THEIR WELFARE, IT APPEARS THAT GOES OFFICIALDOM DID LITTLE FOR THEM FOLLOWING THEIR RELEASE -- IN MARKED CONTRAST TO THE PRESIDENTIAL-LED HOOPLA THAT CHARACTERIZED INES DUARTE'S RETURN. ANTONIO MORALES EHRLICH, MAYOR OF SAN SALVADOR AND PDC SECRETARY GENERAL, HAD BEEN CHARGED WITH LOOKING AFTER THE RETURNED MAYORS OF ALL PARTIES, BUT LEFT TOWN TWO DAYS AFTER THEIR RELEASE FOR A PREVIOUSLY-SCHEDULED TRIP TO EUROPE. NOR DID ARENA DO ANYTHING FOR THE TWO ARENA MAYORS AMONG THE RELEASED.

2. (C) POLOFFS HAVE SO FAR SPOKEN WITH THREE OF THE CAPTURED MAYORS AND THE WIFE OF ANOTHER WHOSE HUSBAND IS NOW BEDRIDDEN AT HOME WITH NO MEDICAL CARE. ALL OF THE MAYORS WITH WHOM POLOFFS SPOKE ARE FROM THE PDC WITH THE EXCEPTION OF ONE FROM PAISA. ONE, JORGE ARNULFO ESCALANTE, WAS CAPTURED IN CABANAS DEPARTMENT IN SEPTEMBER, APPARENTLY BY THE FPL. THE OTHERS WERE ALL TAKEN IN USULUTAN BY THE BRAZ (RAFAEL ARCE ZABLAH BRIGADE) -- PART OF THE ERP.

3. (C) UNIFORMLY, THE MAYORS WERE HELD BY SMALL BANDS WHICH WERE CONTINUOUSLY ON THE MOVE. THE LARGEST GROUP OF MAYORS HELD TOGETHER NUMBERED NO MORE THAN THREE. THE GUERRILLAS SEEMED TO RELY MOSTLY ON RUNNERS TO CONVEY MESSAGES, ALTHOUGH AT TIMES ONE OR TWO MAYORS SAW TACTICAL RADIOS BEING USED.

4. (C) FOLLOWING THEIR RELEASE, THE GOES DID VERY LITTLE FOR THEM. A CURSORY ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO PUT THEM UP IN HOTELS AND DECOMPRESS THEM, BUT THE MAYORS WANTED TO RETURN HOME AND THEY WERE NOT PRESSURED TO STAY. SOME RECEIVED A CASH PAYMENT OF 1,000 COLONES UPON RELEASE. THE ILL WERE GIVEN SOME INITIAL -- BUT NO FOLLOW-UP -- MEDICAL TREATMENT. SOME SHOULD HAVE BEEN HOSPITALIZED. ALL CLAIM THEIR FAMILIES DID NOT RECEIVE THEIR 200 COLONES A MONTH SALARIES DURING THEIR ABSENCE. ALL INTERVIEWED ARE DOUBTFUL THAT THEY WILL RETURN TO TAKE UP THEIR JOBS AS MAYORS. NO ONE IN THE GOVERNMENT OR MILITARY MADE ANY EFFORT TO DEBRIEF THE MAYORS FOR ANY INSIGHTS AS TO GUERRILLA MODUS OPERANDI, OR EVEN, IN FACT, TO ALLOW THEM THE CATHARTIC EXPERIENCE OF TALKING TO AN INTERESTED PARTY. IT SHOULD BE NOTED THAT, CONTRARY TO THE FMLN CLAIMS, THE INTERVIEWED MAYORS FROM USULUTAN SAID THEY NEVER SIGNED THE DOCUMENT -- DENOUNCING THE GOVERNMENT -- ATTRIBUTED TO THEM DURING THEIR CAPTIVITY. END SUMMARY.

5. (U) FOLLOWING ARE FIRST-PERSON TRANSCRIPTS OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS STORIES AS TOLD TO POLOFFS:

6. (U) JORGE ARNULFO ESCALANTE, MAYOR OF TEJUTEPEQUE, CABANAS (PDC)

I WAS KIDNAPPED THE NIGHT OF SEPTEMBER 19. I WAS WORKING LATE AT THE OFFICE AND ONE OF THE EMPLOYEES THERE APPROACHED ME WITH A GUN AND SAID "LET'S TALK."

ISN'T THAT WHAT WE'RE DOING?" I SAID. BUT HE SAID HE WANTED TO TALK IN PRIVATE AND TO FOLLOW HIM. WE WALKED FOR A WHILE UNTIL WE WERE OUTSIDE TOWN. THERE WE MET A GROUP OF GUERRILLAS WHO BLINDFOLDED ME, PUT ME ON A HORSE AND LED ME ABOUT FOR ABOUT A DAY UNTIL I COULDN'T RECOGNIZE THE PLACE.

7. (U) AFTER I WAS THOROUGHLY CONFUSED, THEY TOOK OFF MY BLINDFOLD AND FOR SIX WEEKS WE WALKED CONTINUOUSLY. EACH DAY WE WOULD WALK ABOUT 25 KILOMETERS TO A NEW LOCATION. I DIDN'T KNOW WHERE WE WERE, BUT SOMETIMES WE WERE IN CABANAS AND OTHERS IN CUSCATLAN. WE ALWAYS SLEPT IN THE OPEN AIR UNDER A PIECE OF PLASTIC THEY GAVE ME. THE FOOD CONSISTED OF WARM TORTILLAS AND SALT. MOST OF THE GROUP OF TEN THAT WAS GUARDING ME WERE ABOUT 15-17 YEARS OLD, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE LEADER WHO WAS ABOUT 30 AND APPEARED TO BE A CAMPESINO. EVERY WEEK THEY WOULD SEND A DOCTOR TO VISIT ME AND THE MAYOR OF EL PAISNAL, WHO WAS ALSO WITH US. HE WOULD GIVE US MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS AND MEDICATION FOR MALARIA. IT WAS SOMETIME DURING THIS PERIOD WHEN THE OTHER MAYOR TOOK ILL.

8. (U) WE NEVER SAW THE ARMY, BUT THE AIR FORCE WAS ALWAYS BOMBING US. ONCE A KIND OF AIRPLANE WITH A MACHINEGUN ON ONE SIDE WAS FIRING NEAR US, BUT THE GUERRILLAS KNEW JUST HOW TO HIDE THEMSELVES. ANOTHER TIME SOME KIND OF JET BOMBED SO CLOSE WE WERE SPRAYED WITH DIRT. IT WAS UNPLEASANT.

9. (U) THEY NEVER MISTREATED ME, BUT WE WERE CONSTANTLY WATCHED AND THERE WAS NO OPPORTUNITY TO ESCAPE. THEY DID NOT LIKE US TO TRY AND TALK WITH THEM. WE HAD TO WEAR THE SAME CLOTHES THE WHOLE TIME. FINALLY, WE WERE TOLD WE WERE ABOUT TO BE RELEASED. WE WERE TOLD TO WASH

OUR PANTS, SINCE THERE WERE NONE THAT THEY COULD GIVE US, AND THEY MARCHED US FOR A LONG DISTANCE TO A PLACE NEAR SUCHITOTO IN CUSCATLAN, AND WE WERE RELEASED.

10. (U) WE HAVE NET WITH NO HIGH LEVEL OFFICIALS AND THE MAYOR FROM EL PAISNAL IS SICK AND SHOULD BE IN THE HOSPITAL. BUT HE CAN'T AFFORD IT. WE HAVE BEEN IN THIS HOTEL FOR TWO DAYS AND WE HAVEN'T SEEN ANY OF THE OTHER MAYORS AROUND. I HAVE NOT RECEIVED MY BACK SALARY EITHER. I MAY CONTINUE AS A MEMBER OF THE PDC BUT I WON'T GO BACK AND BE MAYOR. THE GUERRILLAS ARE IN CONTROL THERE.

11. (U) EDUARDO ARGUETA CASTILLO, MAYOR OF ALEGRIA, USULUTAN (PDC).

ON MAY 7 AT 2:30 AM THEY KNOCKED AT THE DOOR OF MY HOUSE AND WHEN I ASKED WHO WAS THERE THEY ANSWERED "THE POLICE." THERE WAS NO LIGHT AND WHILE I WAS TRYING TO DRESS, THEY ORDERED ME TO OPEN THE DOOR, EVEN THOUGH I WAS NAKED. QUITE NERVOUSLY I OPENED THE DOOR. THEY SHINED A LIGHT IN MY FACE TO IDENTIFY ME. THEY ASKED IF I WAS THE MAYOR AND UPON CONFIRMING MY IDENTITY, THEY ORDERED ME OUT INTO THE STREET. IT WAS A GROUP OF ABOUT 20 MEN DRESSED AS CIVILIANS. THEY ASKED WHY I HAD ACCEPTED THE POSITION OF MAYOR, THAT THEY HAD SAID ON RADIO VENCEREMOS THAT THEY DIDN'T WANT ANYONE PARTICIPATING IN THE ELECTORAL FARCE, AND THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE THAT I HADN'T HEARD. LATER THEY ORDERED ME TO ACCOMPANY THEM. THEY ALLOWED ME TO BRIEFLY ENTER THE HOUSE TO SAY GOODBYE TO MY CHILDREN AND MOMENTS AFTERWARDS I LEFT WITH THE GUERRILLAS.

12. (U) THEY BELONGED TO THE BRAZ (OF THE ERP). I KNEW THAT BECAUSE OF THE INSIGNIA THEY HAD ON THEIR RIFLES. WE WALKED TOWARD LA LAGUNA, AT THE FOOT OF MOUNT TECAPA

AND LEFT FOR SAN FRANCISCO JAVIER, TWO KILOMETERS TOWARD THE NORTH. I WAS BLINDFOLDED AND TIED DURING THE ENTIRE JOURNEY. WE ARRIVED AT THE FIRST CAMP AROUND 19:00 AND THEY TOLD ME TO GET UNDER A KIND OF TARP MADE OF PLASTIC WHICH I HAD TO ENTER CRAWLING ON MY STOMACH. THE RAIN FROM A STRONG STORM KEPT COMING IN AND THE ONLY WARMTH I HAD WAS FROM A PIECE OF CARDBOARD IN WHICH I WRAPPED MYSELF.

13. (U) THE FOLLOWING DAY WE WALKED FROM 08:00 UNTIL 12:00 WHEN THEY TOOK OFF THE BLINDFOLD. A FEW MINUTES LATER WE ARRIVED AT THE SECOND CAMP AND I COULD HEAR A RADIO THAT ONE OF THE GUERRILLAS WAS CARRYING ANNOUNCING MY CAPTURE. WHEN WE ARRIVED AT THIS PLACE THEY LEFT ME UNDER A MANGO TREE UNTIL 19:00, AND I WAS WATCHED BY SEVERAL MEN WHO CARRIED AR-15 RIFLES. LATER THEY TOOK ME TO ANOTHER PLACE ABOUT 200 METERS FROM THE MANGO TREE WHERE THEY LET ME SLEEP UNTIL 04:30 THE NEXT MORNING. WHEN I TRIED TO ASK THEM WHERE WE WERE THEY TOLD ME I SHOULDN'T ASK QUESTIONS. AFTERWARDS THEY TOLD ME QUITE POINTEDLY THERE WERE CERTAIN QUESTIONS I SHOULDN'T ASK SUCH AS, WHO WERE THE COMMANDERS, OR WHEN THEY WERE GOING TO SET ME FREE, BECAUSE, 'WE'LL LET YOU GO WHEN THE TIME IS RIGHT.' ON THE 11TH OR 12TH OF MAY I ARRIVED AT THE PLACE IN WHICH THE MAYOR OF TECAPAN (FRANCISCO AYALA) WAS BEING HELD. ON THE 15TH OF MAY THE MAYOR OF SAN DIONISIO (MANUEL DE JESUS ALEMAN) WAS ALSO BROUGHT TO US.

14. (U) IN GENERAL, EACH DAY THEY GAVE US DRIED OUT REFRIED BEANS AND TWO TORTILLAS. THE FIRST DAY I COULDN'T EAT BECAUSE I FELT DEMORALIZED. THE GUERRILLAS WERE CONSTANTLY TALKING ABOUT THEIR STRUGGLE FOR THE PEOPLE, AND WHEN I MENTIONED MY CHILDREN WERE SUFFERING AS A RESULT OF MY CAPTIVITY, ONE ANSWERED HE TOO HAD

CHILDREN WHOM HE HADN'T SEEN IN SIX YEARS. WE WERE IN THAT PLACE FOR ABOUT 20 DAYS. NEITHER I NOR MY COMPANION MAYORS WERE ALLOWED TO SEE OUR FAMILIES, NOR PERMITTED A VISIT BY THE RED CROSS, AS WERE THOSE CAPTURED IN MORAZAN. I BELIEVE ALL OF THE GUERRILLAS WERE SALVADORANS, THE LEADERS WERE CONSTANTLY SAYING THE LAND WOULD SOON BE THEIRS. THE MAJORITY OF THE GROUP APPEARED TO BE CAMPESINOS. THEY CONSTANTLY DRUMMED IN THE FACT THAT NO ONE IS RICH BECAUSE THEY WORK FOR IT -- THE RICH SIMPLY INHERIT IT. THEY TOLD US WE WERE MOVING ON TO MORAZAN. WHEN WE ASKED WHERE, WE WERE TOLD "NORTH," AND THAT THERE WE WOULD BE SET FREE. DURING THIS TIME WE NEVER STAYED IN COVERED SHELTER; WE CONTINUED HAVING TO SLEEP UNDER PLASTIC. EACH NIGHT WE WERE KEPT IN A KIND OF OPEN AIR ENCLOSURE AND OUR SLEEPING PLASTIC WAS HELD DOWN WITH SEVERAL PIECES OF BAMBOO. WE WERE NEVER SUBJECTED TO ATTACK BY THE ARMED FORCES. ALL OF THE KIDNAPPED MAYORS THERE WERE PDC. THE PEOPLE MAKING UP THE GROUP OF TEN GUARDING US APPEARED TO BE FROM MORAZAN.

15. (U) I WAS AFFLICTED WITH SOME SORT OF STOMACH AILMENT DUE TO THE KIND OF FOOD WE GOT. ONE OF THEM NOTED THE SYMPTOMS AND LATER BROUGHT SOME MALOX AND BICARBONATE OF SODA. OWING TO THE GREAT QUANTITY OF MOSQUITOES, THEY GAVE US ARALEN TO PREVENT MALARIA. TWO OF THE MAYORS WERE BITTEN BY BATS AND GOT SOME ATTENTION FROM THEIR PARAMEDICS. PHYSICALLY THE GUERRILLAS WERE EMACIATED; IN TERMS OF MORALE, I CAN TELL YOU THAT WHEN THEY LISTENED TO RADIO VENCEREMOS, THEY BECAME QUITE ANIMATED AND IT RAISED THEIR MORALE TO LISTEN TO TRANSMISSIONS DESCRIBING THE NUMBER OF CASUALTIES THE FMLN HAD INFLICTED ON THE ARMY. I COULD HEAR BOMBING GOING ON 2 KILOMETERS FROM WHERE WE WERE. I BELIEVE THEY HAD SEPARATE CAMPS FROM WHICH THEY ACTUALLY FOUGHT.

16. (U) AFTER 17 DAYS IN THAT PLACE THEY TOLD US THEY

WERE TAKING US NORTH. A LITTLE BEFORE WE REACHED THE PAN AMERICAN HIGHWAY, AROUND 24:00, THEY TOLD US WE HAD TO GO BACK. WE SLEPT IN THE OPEN AIR. THIS GUY BROUGHT US A BLANKET. THAT SUITED US FINE BECAUSE IT PROTECTED US FROM THE COLD. THE PROBLEM WAS WE ALL HAD TO USE IT. WE SOLVED THE PROBLEM IN THE FOLLOWING WAY: ONE WOULD USE IT UNTIL HE FELL ASLEEP, THEN THE NEXT WOULD TAKE IT IN TURN UNTIL ALL THREE OF US WERE ASLEEP. AT 17:00 WE STARTED THE MARCH AGAIN. THEY STOPPED US AT A CERTAIN POINT AND SENT OUT A PATROL OF SOME 20 GUYS TO CHECK THE NEIGHBORHOOD. LATER THEY TOLD US WE WERE SOON TO BE TURNED OVER TO THE GOVERNMENT.

17. (U) EARLIER WE HAD TALKED OF ESCAPE. HOWEVER, WE DECIDED NOT TO BECAUSE THE GUERRILLAS TALKED OF MINES NEARBY AND INDICATED THE AREAS WE SHOULD STAY OUT OF. I REMEMBER WE WERE IN A HIGH MOUNTAINOUS PLACE FROM WHICH WE COULD SEE THE HIGHWAY, BUT I WAS VERY DISORIENTED AND CAN'T LOCATE IT NOW.

18. (U) THE GUERRILLAS TALKED ABOUT CAPITALISM, HOW IT OPERATES IN EL SALVADOR, AND HOW THEY WOULD NOT PERMIT THE SAME CONDITIONS AS THE CAPITALISTS. THEY ASKED WHO WE THOUGHT WOULD LIBERATE US. I RESPONDED GOD. THEY SAID THE ONLY ONES WHO COULD HELP US WERE DUARTE OR THE FMLN. SOMETIMES THEY TRANSFERRED US BETWEEN CAMPS EVERY 15 DAYS; THE CAMPS WERE ALWAYS POORLY ORGANIZED. THERE WERE FEW WOMEN AND CHILDREN. ALTHOUGH THE AGES OF THE GUERRILLAS RANGED FROM 14-30 THERE WAS ONE GUY ABOUT 45. SOMETIMES THE GUERRILLAS WERE VERY SERIOUS, OTHER TIMES THEY TALKED WITH US ABOUT THE GOVERNMENT THAT HAD ABANDONED US, AND WAS DOING NOTHING FOR US. THEY TOLD US WE WERE INSTRUMENTS OF THE POC AND THAT THE POC WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DEATHS OF 60,000 PEOPLE. WHETHER I RETURN AS MAYOR DEPENDS ON THE PARTY." PERSONALLY I'M A LITTLE SCARED, BUT IF THE PARTY SO DECIDES, I WILL CONTINUE.

19. (U) THE DAY BEFORE WE WERE FREED THEY CAME AND CUT OUR HAIR AND GAVE US A SHAVE. THEY WANTED US TO BE IN TIP-TOP CONDITION. WHILE WE WERE PRISONERS WE HEARD OF THE CAPTURE OF INES DUARTE. WE ONLY GOT ONE PAIR OF BLUE JEANS ABOUT A MONTH AFTER WE WERE CAPTURED. RIGHT NOW I'M LIVING IN SANTIAGO DE MARIA. SO FAR I HAVEN'T WANTED TO GO BACK TO ALEGRIA (MY HOMETOWN). THE ONLY DOCUMENT I SIGNED WAS WHEN WE WERE TURNED OVER TO THE RED CROSS. NEITHER I NOR ANY OF THE OTHER MAYORS SIGNED ANY OTHER TYPE OF DOCUMENT WHILE WE WERE IN THE HANDS OF THE GUERRILLAS.

20. (U) JOSE MATIAS ALFARO, MAYOR OF JUCUARAN, USULUTAN (PAISA)

I ASSUMED MY POSITION ON MAY 5 AND WAS KIDNAPPED ON THE 13TH OF THE SAME MONTH. I HAD NEVER RECEIVED ANY THREATS AND EVERY DAY, AFTER CLOSING THE MAYOR'S OFFICE I WENT STRAIGHT HOME, WHERE I HAVE SEVERAL COWS. THE DAY OF MY KIDNAPPING ONE OF MY COWS ESCAPED, AND AS A RESULT I WENT OUT LOOKING FOR HER UNTIL I REACHED THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF THE HACIENDA LA CABANA, AROUND 08:00. BEFORE I COULD GO BACK TO THE OFFICE, I WAS FOUND BY THE GUERRILLAS WHO TOLD ME, "WHAT A COINCIDENCE, WE WERE JUST COMING TO GET YOU. YOU ARE COMING WITH US BECAUSE THE COMMANDER WANTS US TO TAKE YOU TO EL CASTANO." BECAUSE I HAD SOME BUSINESS IN EL TRANSITO, I TOLD THEM I COULDN'T GO ALONG. THEY TOLD ME THEY WOULD ONLY DETAIN ME FOR TWO HOURS. I AGREED AND THEY TOOK ME TO LA CABANA. I COULD SEE ON THE STOCKS OF THEIR RIFLES THE WORD "BRAZ."

ANOTHER FINCA AND LATER TRAVELLED ALONG THE ROAD TO EL ESPINO. THERE WERE ONLY THREE GUYS, TWO RELATIVELY YOUNG AND THE THIRD ABOUT 30, FAT AND SHORT. WHEN WE ARRIVED AT THE PLACE, THE COMMANDER WAS THERE AND TOLD ME HE HAD BEEN EXPECTING ME. HE INTERROGATED ME AND LATER TOLD ONE OF THE OTHERS TO TAKE ME AWAY. THEY TOOK ME WITH THEM AND OFFERED ME A SOFT DRINK AND SOME BREAD, BUT I DIDN'T WANT TO EAT. THEY INSISTED I TAKE SOMETHING EVEN IF ONLY THE SOFT DRINK. LATER THEY BROUGHT TWO TORTILLAS, A SCRAMBLED EGG AND BEANS, BUT I STILL WASN'T HUNGRY AND THEY TOLD ME THAT I WOULD SOON WISH I HAD EATEN.

22. (U) ABOUT 18:00 OF THE SAME DAY ANOTHER GUY ARRIVED AND HE SAID HE WOULD BE STAYING WITH US FOR SOME EIGHT DAYS. HE ALSO TOLD US THAT THE PDC HAD WON (THE MARCH 31 ASSEMBLY AND MUNICIPAL COUNCIL ELECTIONS) AND THAT I HAD ONLY BEEN USED. I WAS A NATURAL LEADER OF THE COMMUNITY AND I DIDN'T HAVE TO BE ORDERED AROUND BY THE DUARTE GOVERNMENT. THEY TOLD ME THEY WERE GOING TO READ ME "PLAN 1000" WHICH GAVE AN EXAMPLE OF HOW THE GOVERNMENT LEADS EVERY MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEE AROUND BY THE NOSE. AFTER THEY READ IT THEY TOLD ME TO READ IT AGAIN. I TOLD THEM I COULDN'T WITHOUT MY GLASSES. ONE OF THEM READ IT AGAIN.

23. (U) AROUND 19:00 ANOTHER GROUP ARRIVED AND THEY TOOK ME TOWARD TECAPAN ALONG A DIRT ROAD. THREE GUYS WERE OUT IN FRONT AND TWO OR THREE OTHERS BEHIND. WE WALKED IN THE DARK, TURNING ON THE BATTERIES ONLY WHEN WE CROSSED STREAMS. WE ARRIVED AT AN UNKNOWN SITE ABOUT 12:00 AND THEY LEFT ME UNDER A TREE WHERE THERE WAS AN ENORMOUS SWARM OF MOSQUITOES. AFTERWARDS THEY BROUGHT ME SOME TORTILLAS AND RICE, BUT I WASN'T HUNGRY. THEY TOLD ME TO STOP FOOLING AROUND AND EAT, BUT I TOLD THEM

I WAS VERY WORRIED ABOUT MY FAMILY. TWO DAYS LATER I ATE A LITTLE.

24. (U) IN THE AFTERNOON A COMANDANTE ARRIVED (I DON'T KNOW HIS NAME) TALL, SKINNY, AND TOLD ME NOT TO WORRY BECAUSE THEY HAD TO MAKE THE POLITICAL SITUATION CLEAR TO THE GOVERNMENT AND THEY HAD ORDERS FROM THE COMMANDER OF THE FMLN TO HOLD ME UNTIL THEY ARRIVED AT AN AGREEMENT WITH DUARTE. THEY GAVE ME A BLANKET AND A HAMMOCK. I DON'T KNOW WHERE ALL WE WANDERED BECAUSE WE ONLY MOVED AT NIGHT. THAT NIGHT FOR INSTANCE, WE WALKED FOR THREE HOURS ACROSS COUNTRY THROUGH OPEN FIELDS AND HIGH GRASS. YOU COULD SEE LOTS OF TREES SUCH AS CASHEW AND LEMON. THEY GAVE ME COFFEE AND LEMONADE. WHEN WE STARTED THERE WERE 5 GUYS, LATER THERE WERE 8. AFTER 8 DAYS THREE OTHER GUYS JOINED US. THEIR FUNCTION WAS TO FIND FOOD. I'M SURE THEY ALL COME FROM THE AREA AROUND JUCUARAN, USULUTAN. THEY HUNG A HAMMOCK FOR ME TO SLEEP IN AND THEY SLEPT ON THE GROUND.

25. (U) SOMETIMES WE SPENT EIGHT DAYS IN THE SAME PLACE, BUT WE NEVER WENT NEAR HOUSES, ALTHOUGH WE COULD HEAR ROOSTERS CROWING. NOR DID WE EVER RUN INTO THE ARMY. WE HEARD AIRPLANES GOING TOWARD MOUNT MOMO OR JUCUARAN. THEY TOLD ME THEY WERE GOING TO SET ME FREE, BUT IF I WENT BACK TO BEING MAYOR THERE WOULD BE PROBLEMS AGAIN. I FOUND OUT I WAS TO BE FREED THE DAY BEFORE.

26. (U) THE DAY I WAS FREED THEY GOT ME UP AT #4:#0, AND WE WALKED THROUGH A HACIENDA, BUT I DON'T KNOW THE NAME. WE WALKED FROM #4:#0 UNTIL #8:#0, ARRIVING AT A PLACE ABOUT WHICH I KNEW VERY LITTLE CALLED EL TALPETATE, WHERE WE WAITED FOR ANOTHER GUY. LATER WE WALKED TOWARD A RAVINE AND THEY TOLD ME NOT TO MAKE NOISE BECAUSE MANY PEOPLE GATHERED WATER THERE. THIS WAS THE ONLY TIME THEY TOOK ME OUT DURING DAYLIGHT, IN ORDER TO GET TO EL JOBO. AFTER LEAVING EL JOBO, WE PASSED THROUGH OJO DE AGUA, EL AMBRE AND THE CANTON OF GUADALUPE, WHERE I WAS MET BY THE RED CROSS. I SIGNED A DOCUMENT AND LATER THE RED CROSS ASKED A PRIEST TO SIGN THE DOCUMENT. SOME OF THE GUERRILLAS WERE DRESSED IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES AND OTHERS IN MILITARY UNIFORMS. THERE WAS ONLY ONE WOMAN IN THE GROUP, TALL AND FAT. SOMETIMES THE GROUP STAYED TOGETHER FOR TWO OR THREE DAYS. THE COMMANDER KNEW HOW TO READ AND WRITE. THERE WERE DAYS WHEN THEY WERE UNPLEASANT AND OTHERS WHEN THEY WERE QUITE FRIENDLY. I COULD SEE THAT AMONG THEIR WEAPONS THEY HAD M-16S. THE COMMANDER CARRIED A WEAPON THAT HAD A WOODEN STOCK. THIS GUY WAS TALL AND SKINNY. THEY PLAYED CARDS TO KEEP ME ENTERTAINED. THEY DID NOT USE ALCOHOL. THEY WERE AFRAID OF MALARIA BECAUSE OF THE LARGE NUMBER OF MOSQUITOES WHEREVER WE WENT. THEY GAVE ME ARALEN. I TOLD THEM ABOUT MY HEART CONDITION AND ON TWO OCCASIONS THEY GAVE ME SOME SORT OF INJECTION.

27. (U) I WAS NOT PAID DURING THE TIME I WAS KIDNAPPED. AFTER MY RELEASE, I TRIED TO GET IN TOUCH WITH PAISA PRESIDENT ROBERTO ESCOBAR GARCIA. 29. (U) HE WAS KIDNAPPED MAY 11, 1985, AND WAS KEPT IN THE SAME PLACE AS THE MAYOR FROM ALEGRIA. WHILE MY HUSBAND WAS KIDNAPPED, I WENT TO THE ICRC AND THE GOVERNMENT HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION IN SAN MIGUEL, BUT THEY WERE UNABLE TO DO MUCH TO HELP ME. I ALSO WENT TO THE 6TH BRIGADE (IN USULUTAN) AND FINALLY THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY ON THE INSTRUCTIONS OF DR. LUIS HIDALGO, A PDC DEPUTY FROM USULUTAN. ONE OF THE DEPUTIES AT THE ASSEMBLY GAVE ME A JOB RECOMMENDATION TO GET WORK WITH THE IRA (THE GOVERNMENT-RUN FOODSTUFF REGULATORY AGENCY). ING. NAVAS OF IRA GAVE ME A JOB WITH THE IRA IN USULUTAN. I WAS THUS ABLE TO SUPPORT MYSELF, MY TWO CHILDREN, AND MY MOTHER-IN-LAW WITH THE EARNINGS FROM THIS JOB.

HUMAN RIGHTS ISSUES

The Nicaraguan Democratic Resistance

The Sandinista regime's intolerance of dissent has resulted in a growing democratic resistance movement in Nicaragua. The most prominent leaders of this movement also had been leaders of democratic sectors in the broad coalition which eventually overthrew Somoza. They were forced into opposition by the Sandinistas' betrayal of the promise of a pluralistic system, one of the principle goals for which the 1979 revolution was fought. Refusing to pursue internal reconciliation, the Sandinistas instead have taken increasingly repressive measures to silence the democratic opposition and consolidate a totalitarian system. As a result, Nicaraguans from all walks of life in increasing numbers have felt compelled as a last resort to take up arms against the regime. Today, the democratic resistance has approximately 18,000 men and women under arms and shows every indication of continuing to grow in strength.

Resistance forces have been charged by the Sandinista regime with a wide range of human rights abuses, from forced recruitment to rape and summary execution. These allegations have received broad coverage in the government-owned media and have been disseminated abroad through international human rights organizations and foreign groups active in Nicaragua and sympathetic to the Sandinista regime. Many of these allegations are either false or greatly distorted. Others, including instances of forced recruitment and summary execution of military prisoners, or in certain cases, Sandinista officials and regime informers, are likely to have occurred. It is also clear that individual soldiers in the course of combat have committed random abuses or atrocities. Such violations are unacceptable, and resistance leaders are keenly aware of the absolute necessity of improving the performance of their troops in this area. The principal resistance group, the United Nicaraguan Opposition (UNO), has taken measures to address these problems.

As in any civil war, there has been a serious lack of reliable information on human right abuses which occur in isolated combat zones. While UNO has begun to record instances of abuse by its personnel, as well as remedial or punitive measures taken in response, such information was not in the past collected on a regular basis.

Heretofore, the only regularly received information on alleged resistance violations has come from Sandinista sources. These allegations have been obviously biased, at best grossly exaggerated and often simply false. This conclusion is supported by local residents in communities where atrocities allegedly have been committed, and by the testimony of Sandinista defectors who were directly involved in implementing official policy. A key element in the Sandinista campaign has been the fabrication of charges of human rights abuses and, in some cases, attributing to the resistance atrocities actually committed by Sandinista forces. The following cases illustrate these tactics:

-- In a May 1985 interview at a Nicaraguan refugee camp in Honduras, during which information was sought concerning resistance abuses, one woman related that Sandinista troops had executed seven farmers in her home village after an attack by the resistance. The farmers were considered resistance sympathizers by the authorities. The murders were publicly attributed to the resistance. The true facts were later circulated by residents who had witnessed the killings.

-- In a complaint filed through his mother in the summer of 1985 with the independent Permanent Commission on Human Rights, a Sandinista soldier stated that he had been severely pressured by military authorities to issue statements claiming he had been abused while held captive by the resistance. He said that, in fact, although he had been exposed to resistance political views, he had been very well treated and given medical assistance. He was asked if he wanted to join the resistance, but when he refused was escorted some distance from the camp and released. The soldier refused to make the statements sought, and was then beaten badly and turned over to State Security. The soldier stated that he had been warned that he would be held in jail until he cooperated with the authorities.

-- A Sandinista Army deserter, now fighting with the resistance, said he decided to go over to the other side when his unit carried out orders to execute two campesinos specifically for the purpose of blaming yet another atrocity on the "contras."

-- According to those on the scene, a government press story that FSLN and neighborhood defense committee members had been brutally murdered in a "contra" attack on Cuapa August 1 was essentially false. Witnesses said the engagement was strictly military to military, and left a number of Sandinista soldiers dead. There were no civilian casualties. Following the fight, the resistance troops held a town meeting with residents, after which they left. There was no basis for press reports that the "contras" had not only murdered innocent civilians, but skinned their faces. ~~and~~ It appears that the Sandinistas mutilated the bodies of some of their own casualties to substantiate such a charge.

The incidents cited above represent cases where available information suggests that the facts have been distorted by the Sandinista regime. In most instances, however, it is not possible to confirm or deny allegations presented by the regime, a situation that should be partially remedied by more complete information being collected by UNO.

There is reason to believe that the resistance has in the past abducted civilians. Statements from a number of sources who have themselves been taken by the resistance indicates a pattern in which civilian prisoners, under reasonably humane circumstances, are exposed to "political indoctrination" (i.e. lectures on resistance goals, abuses of authority by the Sandinistas, etc.), given food and medical treatment, and offered one of three choices: joining with the resistance; accepting refugee status in another country; or returning to their homes.

An example is provided in the case of seven members of Sandinista "education brigades" -- squads of young adults who provide basic education in rural areas -- who were taken prisoner by the resistance at various times and places. Rather than return home, they have chosen to remain with the armed opposition. In letters sent to their families through the Red Cross in April 1985, the former brigadistas speak openly of their opposition to the policies of the Sandinista regime, and their desire to see a free and democratic Nicaragua. Several of them also reject vociferously allegations of opposition abuses. The Sandinistas continue to use the "kidnapping" of these and other brigadistas in propaganda charges against the resistance.

There have been civilian casualties from resistance attacks, in some cases as a direct result of the Sandinista policy of placing civilians in situations in which they are likely to be endangered during attacks on legitimate military targets. This was true, for example, in the July 1985 deaths of eight women who were being transported in a military vehicle to the front to visit their sons.

There is no reliable information to confirm that military prisoners have been executed by resistance forces, although it is possible that such executions have occurred. Summary executions are clearly contrary to accepted rules of conflict, and are inexcusable regardless of the circumstances contributing to the practice.

Since its establishment in June 1985, UNO has taken steps to prevent human rights violations by establishing an office of human rights to educate troops on the correct conduct towards both civilians and prisoners of war, and has created a "red cross" society to promote the humane treatment of military prisoners. Arturo Cruz, a member of the UNO Directorate, has been assigned special responsibilities for overseeing measures to promote respect for human rights by UNO forces. Ismael Reyes, the former President of the Nicaraguan Red Cross, has been named head of the UNO Human Rights Commission. In establishing its informal "red cross" society, UNO leaders have emphasized in communications with the International Committee of the Red Cross the organization's intent to abide by the provisions of the Geneva Convention of 1949, in particular those regarding the humanitarian treatment of prisoners, enemy wounded and civilians.

UNO has provided the Red Cross lists of enemy prisoners and dead. It has also provided the Red Cross information regarding persons reported missing, and forwarded letters from enemy prisoners. UNO has also invited the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights to send a representative to observe the conduct of its forces in the field.

To ensure that its forces are well versed in accepted human rights practices, UNO has distributed widely among its troops a "Manual of the Combatant," which emphasizes humane treatment of enemy prisoners and wounded and respect for the property and well-being of innocent civilians. A "Code of Conduct" for internal discipline, which has also been widely disseminated, sets forth specific punishments for criminal acts, including crimes against civilians, and for mistreatment of enemy prisoners.

A recent report written by the Director of the UNO/FDN Commission of Human Rights reviews twenty-one cases in which members were charged with crimes ranging from theft to homicide. About twenty UNO/FDN combantants are reported currently held in detention facilities at resistance camps serving sentences imposed under the "Code of Conduct." There are reports that UNO is currently attempting to arrange a prisoner exchange with Sandinista authorities. Under the auspices of the local Red Cross, Sandinista prisoners have on several occasions been turned over to third-party authorities who arrange for their return home. It is also possible to confirm that at least some military prisoners, such as the Sandinista soldier mentioned earlier, are held under humane conditions.

MORI DocID: 754607

Resistance members have also been expelled from the movement for criminal actions which may have involved human rights abuses. In one instance, sixty men were expelled, suggesting an entire unit's involvement in criminal activity. The punitive measures taken against such criminals and the efforts underway to improve the resistance record, including disciplinary measures applied under the "Code of Conduct," clearly indicate, however, that it is not the policy of the resistance to engage in such violations.

The Sandinista Government

On October 15, Daniel Ortega announced a new state of emergency suspending virtually all civil liberties in Nicaragua. The decree signaled an escalation in the assault on basic freedoms, providing further legal underpinning to the consolidation of a totalitarian regime. The 1982 state of emergency was partially lifted in 1984 as part of pre-election atmospherics; in reality, the policy of intolerance towards dissent continued in force through arbitrary arrests, detentions, and interrogations and the forcible disruption of religious, political, private sector, and labor activities. The new decree suspends the following rights and freedoms:

-- freedom of expression;

-- freedom of the press;

-- the right of assembly;

-- the right to trial by jury;

-- the right to be considered innocent until proven guilty;

-- the right of habeas corpus;

-- freedom from arbitrary imprisonment;

-- freedom of movement;

-- the right to form labor organizations and to strike;

-- the right to found and advance community, rural and professional organizations; and -- the right to found and advance cooperatives.

MORI DocID: 754607

It was subsequently clarified in the National Assembly on October 30 that certain rights remain in effect -- the right to a jury, the right to an attorney, and the right to habeas corpus -- but these rights are available only to those not accused of crimes against "the security of the nation and public order." The decision as to what constitutes a crime against national security or public order clearly rests with the government, and it is apparent that ordinary political and civic activities are being placed in that category.

The Sandinistas have offered several rationales for the further oppression of the Nicaraguan people, among which they include the need to protect the public against the armed resistance. There would seem to be a striking inconsistency in attempting to close ranks against an enemy -- particularly one whose defeat is imminent, according to the regime -- by launching an assault on the public at large. Analysis of the rising level of domestic unrest in the months preceding the announcement suggests that the actual motive was a sense that diminishing public support for regime policies had reached a dangerous level.

It is also abundantly clear that the crackdown was particularly directed at the Nicaraguan Catholic Church, traditionally one of the strongest institutions in Nicaragua. The October 15 decree followed a series of Sandinista actions against the Catholic Church, including the forced induction of eleven youths preparing for the priesthood, armed raids on the broadcasting facilities of Radio Catolica and disruption of transmissions of Cardinal Obando y Bravo's homilies, confiscation of a newly-published Church newspaper and seizure of the printing equipment used in its publication, and occupation of the Church Curia Social Services offices. The authorities have now intensified the attack on not only the Church -- some of the most prominent leaders of which have been vilified as counterrevolutionaries in the government press -- but on virtually all other sectors of the opposition.

Agents of State Security have rounded up leaders of political, private sector, labor, and Church organizations, subjecting them to interrogations and threatening further action should they fail to observe the new prohibitions. One labor group, the Nicaraguan Workers Central (CTN) -- associated with the Social Christian Party -- has been closed down and three of its officials arrested and interrogated; political leaders have been warned against the issuance of public statements or holding of political meetings; and thousands of worshippers have been prevented by force from attending masses given by Cardinal Obando. Over a hundred persons have been rounded up and paraded as the centerpiece in the Sandinista campaign against the "internal front," another justification offered by the Sandinistas for their actions against the public. The policies now in force are clear evidence of the regime's totalitarian goals, and underscore the growing level of popular alienation from the regime.

A sinister backdrop to these actions has been provided by the revelations of a recent Nicaraguan defector, Jose Alvaro Baldizon. The former chief investigator of the Special Investigations Commission, an immediate subordinate to Interior Minister Tomas Borge, Baldizon has offered detailed information, as well as supporting documents, indicating that the Sandinista regime engages in massive violations of human rights as a matter of policy. According to investigations carried out by Baldizon himself, the regime has sanctioned the summary execution of hundreds of Nicaraguans perceived to be "potential enemies of the revolution."

Specific cases investigated by Baldizon concern the application of "special measures" (execution) to 150 Miskito Indians, 300 campesinos, religious activists, and political opponents. The most well-known of the Sandinistas' victims was Jorge Salazar, former vice president of the Superior Council of Private Enterprise (COSEP), who was gunned down by State Security in 1980. Baldizon stated that weapons were placed in Salazar's vehicle after he was killed to lend credence to the charge that Salazar was planning armed insurrection in Managua. Baldizon further states that the policy of assassination has now been codified in a strict and highly-secret system of regulations governing the selection and execution of "potential enemies," authorization for which must be obtained in writing from Interior Minister Borge or his first deputy, Luis Carrion.

Baldizon's charges do not stand alone. They are complemented by a considerable body of information concerning Sandinista atrocities, some of which confirms the specific cases cited by Baldizon. The following cases represent only a small part of the information available on such abuses:

-- On April 16, 1985, forces of the armed resistance attacked the Atlantic Coast town of Bluefields, during the course of which they freed prisoners held at the local garrison. While some of those freed fled with the resistance when the Sandinistas counterattacked, about 20 unarmed youths took shelter under a building. The Sandinista Army took the prisoners into custody. Town residents testify that the bodies of all of the youths were subsequently seen in a pile of "contra" corpses put on display as an example to local residents.

-- The Sandinistas have carried out extensive mining of border areas and around villages vacated at their orders. Although the ostensible purpose of the mining is to deny use to resistance forces, in fact many of the victims have been persons fleeing to the safety of Honduras. Indian villages in Mosquitia were similarly mined, and Indian guerrillas have stated that at least six persons have been killed by the mines when returning to their homes under Sandinista auspices.

-- According to a complaint filed with the Sandinista-sponsored human rights commission, several persons at the Carcel Modelo at Tipitapa went on a hunger strike in January 1985 to protest their continued detention on charges of which they were innocent and the conditions under which they were being held. As a result, they were brutally beaten, tortured, and held in isolation. There are other reports of mass executions of prisoners, including eight who headed an uprising at the Zona Franca prison in 1981.

-- Another complaint, filed with the independent Permanent Commission on Human Rights, relates the torture of Sofonios Cisneros Leiva, a 60-year old engineer and community leader, at State Security facilities. Cisneros was arrested late at night following a meeting he organized to discuss parental concerns over the Marxist indoctrination of their children. Cisneros was tortured by Lenin Cerna, head of State Security, who threatened to kill Cisneros, warned him to remain silent concerning his arrest, and had him dropped off naked on the Masaya highway.

-- According to residents in several villages, Sandinista troops have conducted deliberate attacks on civilians in order to attribute the atrocities to the resistance. For example, in March 1985 a hand grenade was thrown by Sandinista troops into a house at Los Cerritos, killing a husband and wife and their two children. In other cases, the forcible relocation of families from areas of popular support for the resistance has been accompanied by the burning of family homes and possessions, slaughter of livestock, and physical brutality against those reluctant to depart. There have been reports that persons who have refused to leave have been shot as an example to others. Resistance forces frequently report the use of indiscriminate fire by the Sandinistas in counterattacks, leading to the deaths of numerous civilians.

-- A Nicaraguan employee of the United Nations, Javier Ivan Blandon, disappeared while on a visit to Managua in January 1985. We understand he had come into conflict with the Sandinistas over his travel documents. Blandon's body was later returned to his family in a sealed coffin, with the official explanation that he had been killed in an Air Cubana crash. His name was on a passenger list shown to the family. Baldizon states that Blandon was murdered by State Security, and that the cooperation of the Cubans was enlisted in having his name added to the passenger list of a recent airline crash.

-- Martha Lidia Murillo Vallejo, a nine-year old from Jinotega, related to Honduran authorities that her father was shot by the Sandinista military in November 1984 while he and the family were picking coffee. The reason: he had refused to join the military. The rest of the family, including children, fled from the scene and were also killed. Martha escaped and hid with her uncle, who later took her to the Honduran border. There he was shot by Sandinista soldiers, and Martha was bayoneted in the neck. When she regained consciousness, she was hit in the head with a rifle butt and left for dead. She was found by resistance forces, who carried her to a nearby home. The facts of the massacre were confirmed by an official from Jinotega.

-- In July 1985, Sandinista soldiers near San Isidro reportedly tortured to death Ismael Cantarero because he refused to join the Patriotic Military Service. Cantarero's hands and feet were cut off.

Although the incidents related above represent only a fraction of the evidence available concerning the deliberate, ruthless violation of basic human rights by the Sandinistas, there has been remarkably little publicity given to these abuses. Indeed, several reports from private human rights organizations and activists either ignore entirely Sandinista abuses or dramatically understate the significance of those abuses. Statements by Baldizon and other Sandinista defectors indicate that this imbalance is at least partially a result of a skillful, highly-organized official disinformation program.

Mateo Guerrero, a former Executive Director of the Sandinista-sponsored human rights commission (CNPPDH) who has received asylum in the United States, has publicly discussed the way in which that organization has evolved into a propaganda tool for the regime. While the CNPPDH has always faced serious restrictions on its ability to investigate allegations of official abuses, in January 1985 CNPPDH was specifically ordered by the Foreign Ministry to cease any further efforts to do so. Guerrero further states that on several occasions reports actually written by the Foreign Ministry were published as CNPPDH documents. CNPPDH was instructed to lend full assistance to persons or groups favorably disposed to the regime who were preparing human rights reports. In the case of Reed Brody, a New York attorney, this assistance included the payment of all expenses, including food and lodging, provision of a chauffeured car, arrangement of all interviews and provision of a list of "appropriate" cases for investigation. Mr. Brody nevertheless explicitly stated in his introduction to the study "Attacks by the Nicaraguan 'Contras' on the Civilian Population" that, although the idea for the report was conceived by the law firm of Reichler and Appelbaum (a registered agent of the Sandinista regime), neither he nor any other member of the investigations team received any form of compensation or reimbursement for their expenses. Brody's disclaimer conceded only that the team stayed in a Sandinista-owned house for "part" of the visit and had used office space provided by CNPPDH. Another defector has stated that Brody selectively edited his evidence to eliminate any statements supportive of or favorable to the resistance. As a rule, inquiries to the CNPPDH and other official agencies from human rights organizations concerning allegations against the regime are satisfied by providing deliberately false information deflecting or significantly mitigating the charges.

In an effort to ensure the "correct" ideological perspective within CNPPDH, two purges of membership have been engineered by the regime. By 1982, many of the original members were replaced, in some cases because their defense of human rights per se was too vocal and too independent. Edgar Macias, a leader of the Popular Social Christian Party, went into exile after being labeled a "U.S. intelligence agent." He was followed by Ismael Reyes Rojas, president of the Nicaraguan Red Cross, whom the Sandinistas accused of embezzlement and counterrevolutionary activity. In July 1985, following Guerrero's defection, the entire membership was changed. The new members were all staunch supporters of the FSLN.

In further illustration of the CNPPDH's role as a propaganda arm, we note that in 1984 only two reports were issued, both of which addressed only allegations of resistance abuses. Concerning the regime, the documents stressed only that it "was operating under a declared state of emergency." In 1985, no reports had been issued as of August. On the other hand, if the CNPPDH does not carry out investigations into abuses, it does play a vital role in meeting with foreign delegations for the purpose of denouncing the resistance. In January 1985, Alejandro Bendana of the Foreign Ministry announced to CNPPDH members that he would personally direct the group's activities in order to promote an international offensive by the Sandinistas to denounce alleged abuses of the resistance.

Baldizon adds counterpoint to Guerrero's testimony, stating that the CNPPDH was routinely denied access to any information concerning official abuses. He explained that his own extensive investigations were used to create elaborate cover stories, precise to the detail, which explained away Sandinista atrocities by showing the victims had fled to other countries, been killed by the resistance, or been killed while escaping. In a few instances, for the sake of credibility, individual soldiers were "found guilty" of abuses and brought to justice in show trials at which they received lengthy prison terms. (Baldizon states that these men were later quietly released, after attention had subsided, and sometimes were given government jobs in other areas of the country.) Such disinformation has been regularly disseminated to international human rights organizations.

NICARAGUAN HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE OFFICE

On August 29, 1985, President Reagan signed Executive Order 12530 creating the Nicaraguan Humanitarian Assistance Office (NHAO) for the purpose of disbursing $27 million in humanitarian aid to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance. On September 9, the President designated Ambassador Robert W. Duemling as Director of NHAO.

The NHAO staff consists of the Director, five supervisory and two clerical personnel, all detailed on a non-reimbursable basis from federal agencies (State, AID and USIA), with the exception of the Director, whose salary is reimbursed to State from the humanitarian assistance program funds. Office space in a government-leased building is charged to program funds, but furnishings and equipment have been borrowed at no charge. Administrative support, including legal advice from the Office of the Legal Adviser, is provided by the Department of State.

The Executive Order assigned responsibility for policy guidance to the Secretary of State and his designees. The Secretary has established a Senior Inter-Agency Group, chaired by the Under Secretary for Political Affairs, to establish basic policy and exercise oversight of NHAO activities; policy guidance for day-to-day NHAO operations is provided by the Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, who chairs an inter-agency group that assures effective coordination.

As a matter of policy, the United Nicaraguan Opposition (UNO) was designated to be the initial recipient for humanitarian assistance distributed by NHAO. UNO is an umbrella-organization which brings together the largest number of anti-Sandinista political and paramilitary elements. It is led by Adolfo Calero, Arturo Cruz and Alfonso Robelo; its principal components include the Nicaraguan Democratic Force (UNO/FDN), the Armed Forces for Revolution in Nicaragua (UNO/FARN), and a coalition of Atlantic Coast Indians and Creoles (UNO/KISAN). Using UNO as a conduit for assistance serves the policy objective of encouraging cohesion within the democratic resistance; it also simplifies administrative procedures and restrains administrative costs.

METHOD FOR FUNDING

NHAO is disbursing funds for four basic categories of goods and services: food, clothing, medicine and medical care, and equipment. NHAO also provides funds for transporting supplies to Central America.

MORI DocID: 754607

Funds for these goods and services are being provided to UNO through a series of grants, each of which obligates a fixed amount of humanitarian assistance funds for the use of UNO, subject to certain terms and conditions. While the grant gives UNO a conditional legal entitlement to the funds, NHAO retains actual possession of the funds and administers their disbursement. To date, three major grants totaling $5.5 million and a smaller grant of $25,000 have been issued. Once a grant has been issued, UNO identifies the goods or services it needs and a suitable vendor, and negotiates the terms of a proposed sale to UNO. These terms are set forth on a pro forma invoice which UNO submits to NHAO. The pro forma invoice is reviewed by NHAO to ensure that the goods or services in question meet the criteria for humanitarian assistance, and that the payment requested is appropirate for value received. NHAO also monitors the quantity of items, to assure against an oversupply so substantial as to suggest a possible risk of diversion. If the proposed purchase is approved, then NHAO authorizes UNO to make the purchase. NHAO signals its approval to the vendor through issuance of a letter of commitment. After shipment or delivery has been verified, NHAO pays the vendor directly from UNO grant funds.

Monitoring and verification of procurement and delivery takes several forms, depending on location. Within the United States, NHAO representatives are able to make on-site inspections of supplies as they are aggregated for shipment into the Central American region. To monitor supplies and services contracted and delivered abroad, NHAO relies on reports from all available sources to confirm that actual transactions conform to the relevant documentation.

DELIVERY INCIDENT

On October 10, an UNO charter flight paid for by NHAO and carrying supplies pruchased under NHAO auspices landed apparently without permission in Tegucigalpa, causing the Honduran Government to take custody of the cargo. Discussions between the American Embassy and the Honduran Government resulted in the cargo being released and returned to the United States.

SUMMARY OF PAYMENTS

Attached in tabular form is a summary of NHAO disbursements and commitments to pay, through October 31, 1985.

MORI DocID: 754607

[redacted]

1. NHAO Grants to UNO (to be disbursed through letters of commitment)

Grant 601 - $1,000,000 (Issued October 3, 1986)

Grant 602 - $1,500,000 (Issued October 15, 1986)

Total - $5,500,000

In addition to the above three grants for food, clothing and medical supplies, NHAO issued a small fourth grant signed October 17, 1986, for $25 thousand (Grant No. 641-001) to fund an UNO office in Washington, D.C. The grant stipulates that the activities of that office must be strictly limited to the provision of liaison services between UNO and NHAO to facilitate the operation of the program. This liaison office grant differs from the other three in that it permits UNO to receive a small advance payment of cash to cover administrative expenditures, which expenditures must be documented and justified before further cash advances are made.

U.S. Efforts to Promote a Regional Settlement in Central America*

It has been the consistent view of the United States that the domestic and foreign policies of the Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN) are the root source of inter-state tensions in Central America and the internal conflict in Nicaragua and a major contributing factor to the prolongation of conflict elsewhere in the region, especially El Salvador. Those policies have created a democratic resistance in Nicaragua. Those policies led the resistance to conclude that change in Nicaragua would be possible only through a resort to arms. And those policies are at issue in the Contadora process seeking a regional peace settlement among the five Central American states.

The United States seeks to change those policies in four ways that would benefit peace in Central America. We seek:

-- termination of all forms of Nicaraguan support for insurgencies or subversion in neighboring countries;

-- reduction of Nicaragua's expanded military/security apparatus to restore military equilibrium in the region;

-- severance of Nicaragua's military and security ties to the Soviet Bloc and Cuba and the return to those countries of their military and security advisers now in Nicaragua; and

-- implementation of Sandinista commitments to the Organization of American States to political pluralism, human rights, free elections, non-alignment, and a mixed economy.

The United States has sought to achieve these objectives in two principal ways:

-- We have supported a verifiable and comprehensive implementation of the September 1983 Document of Objectives of the Contadora process as the best hope for achieving a regional peace treaty; and,

-- Consistent with Contadora principles, we have urged the Sandinistas to enter into direct discussions with the Nicaraguan democratic resistance and civil opposition.

*Aspects of these efforts are also treated in Part III of United States Department of State Special Report No. 132: " 'Revolution Beyond Our Borders': Sandinista Intervention in Central America."

MORI DocID: 754607

U.S. Support for Contadora

As Secretary of State Shultz informed the International Court of Justice in August, 1984:

> The United States fully supports the objectives already agreed upon in the Contadora process as a basis for a solution of the conflict in Central America. The objectives of United States policy toward Nicaragua are entirely consistent with those broader agreed objectives and full and verifiable implementation of the Contadora Document of Objectives would fully meet the goals of the United States in Central America....

By design of Contadora's participants, the United States does not take part in the Contadora process. In October 1982, three months before Contadora's inception, the United States and seven other democratic states of the region sought to engage Nicaragua in a multilateral diplomatic dialogue. But the Sandinistas declined to receive the Costa Rican Foreign Minister, acting as emissary for the group, on the grounds that a dialogue with a group including the United States would be structured to its disadvantage. When Colombia, Mexico, Panama, and Venezuela subsequently initiated the Contadora process, they chose not to include the United States in order to meet this Sandinista concern. Informed of this decision through diplomatic channels, we indicated our understanding and support for this initiative.*

The means available to us to support these regional negotiations as a result are necessarily indirect. Our support has taken various forms. Since Contadora began, we have made it clear repeatedly, both publicly and privately, that we support Contadora objectives. The President expressed that support authoritatively on April 27, 1983, before a Joint Session of the Congress. Shortly thereafter the President created the position of United States Special Envoy for Central America to give focus to that support and make it more effective.

*Ironically, Nicaragua in time objected to Contadora on the grounds that the United States was not a participant. This was a major reason why the Manzanillo talks were undertaken. President Ortega is reported to have suggested U.S. participation in the process during meetings with other Latin American leaders in New York, in October, 1985.

The President stated U.S. support again in a July 23, 1983 letter to the Presidents of Mexico, Panama, Colombia, and Venezuela -- the four Contadora Group countries.

MORI DocID: 754607

Former Senator Richard Stone served as Special Envoy from May 1983 to February 1984. Ambassador Harry W. Shlaudeman was appointed U.S. Special Envoy in March 1984 and has served continuously since that time. In twenty months Ambassador Shlaudeman has made 34 trips abroad and held 179 separate exchanges with ranking officials.

The United States sought to support Contadora directly during nine rounds of bilateral talks with the Government of Nicaragua June-December 1984. Those talks were undertaken at the request of the Contadora Group for the express purpose of facilitating a successful outcome of the Contadora process. In January 1985 the United States declined to schedule further discussions pending demonstration that Nicaragua was prepared to negotiate seriously within the Contadora framework.*

U.S. Support for National Reconciliation in Nicaragua

Democratic national reconciliation is a fundamental principle of the Contadora process. It was explicitly accepted by all five Central American states, Nicaragua included, in the September 1983 Document of Objectives. Although they signed the Document of Objectives, the Sandinistas have consistently rejected dialogue with the Nicaraguan democratic resistance. The Sandinistas seek instead to portray the crisis in Central America as deriving from United States hostility toward the Nicaraguan revolution. We believe that the Sandinistas' refusal to deal directly with their own people and with the legitimate concerns of their neighbors constitutes the major roadblock to peace in Central America.

Both the internal and external opposition have proposed dialogue. On February 22 the internal opposition set forth the conditions under which a national dialogue could be successfully conducted. These included the lifting of the state of emergency; freedom of expression; a general amnesty and pardon for political crimes; restoration of constitutional guarantees and the right of habeas corpus; guarantees of the safety of members of the resistance movement who participate in the dialogue; and the implementation of these measures under the supervision of guarantor governments.

*See "Revolution Beyond Our Borders," pages 29-30.

The following statement by Tomas Borge, quoted in Daily Barricada, June 27, 1985, is characteristic: "We will negotiate with the Contras on the day the right wing parties and COSEP count all the grains of sand in the sea and all the stars in the sky. When they finish we will ask them to count them all again."

MORI DocID: 754607

On March 1 the externally-based opposition (including representatives of the FDN, the Miskito group MISURA, ARDE, and prominent democratic civilian leaders such as Arturo Cruz) proposed a national dialogue to be mediated by the Nicaraguan Catholic Church. It included a mutual in situ ceasefire and acceptance of Daniel Ortega as President until such time as the Nicaraguan people decided on the matter through a plebiscite. On March 22, the Nicaraguan Catholic Church hierarchy (Episcopal Conference) issued a communique reiterating its support for a national dialogue and declaring its willingness to act as a mediator.

President Reagan on April 4 undertook an initiative to support these possibilities. A key feature was the an offer to refrain from providing military assistance to the democratic resistance if the Sandinistas accepted the March 1 offer. Although the Sandinistas rejected (and continue to reject) dialogue with the democratic resistance, the President's initiative did serve to focus attention on this fundamental issue.*

In the context of Congressional consideration of the Administration's request for humanitarian assistance for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance, the President on June 11 informed Congressmen McCurdy, Michel, and Dade that:

> I recognize the importance that you and others attach to bilateral talks between the United States and Nicaragua. It is possible that in the proper circumstances, such discussions could help promote the internal reconciliation called for by Contadora and endorsed by many Latin American leaders. Therefore, I intend to instruct our special Ambassador to consult with the governments of Central America, the Contadora countries, other democratic governments, and the United Nicaraguan Opposition as to how and when the U.S. would resume direct bilateral talks with Nicaragua. However, such talks cannot be a substitute for a church-mediated dialogue between the contending factions and the achievement of a workable Contadora agreement. Therefore, I will have our representatives meet again with representatives of Nicaragua only when I determine that such a meeting would be helpful in promoting these ends.

Ambassador Shlaudeman conducted such consultations with the governments of Central America and the Contadora Group in visits to the region in late June and early July, and in early September with the governments of the Contadora Support Group (Argentina, Brazil, Peru, and Uruguay). The Contadora Group and Support Group governments generally favored resumption and the Contadora Group publicly called on the United States to do so on July 22. Costa Rica, Honduras and El Salvador did not favor such a course (Guatemala did not express a strong view one way or the other). They argued that the Manzanillo talks had distracted from and undermined the primacy of Contadora talks where they are the negotiators; that U.S.-Nicaraguan bilaterals legitimized Sandinista efforts to portray the Central American crisis as a U.S.-Nicaraguan conflict amenable to full resolution through arrangements between those two countries; and that it would be particularly inappropriate for the United States to resume such talks in the aftermath of Nicaragua's disruption of Contadora negotiations in June.* Ambassador Shlaudeman also discussed the question with the leadership of the United Nicaraguan Opposition, which opposed resumption in the absence of the Sandinistas undertaking a serious dialogue with UNO. The subject was also regularly discussed in meetings with other interested governments during this same period.

On July 26, 1985, in Mexico City, Secretary Shultz explained the U.S. attitude toward national reconciliation and a resumption of bilateral talks with the Sandinistas as follows:

> Nicaragua's purpose [in the Manzanillo talks], as now, was to negotiate bilateral accords dealing on a priority basis only with its security concerns. The Nicaraguan communists refused then, as they refuse now, even to consider dialogue with the Nicaraguan democratic resistance. These conflicting purposes were never reconciled and hindered progress from the start.
> The United States ultimately concluded that the talks were detracting from instead of contributing to a comprehensive Contadora settlement. In deciding in January of this year not to schedule further meetings we made it clear that we > were not closing the door to their possible resumption under appropriate conditions. On June 11 the President made public his readiness to have United States representatives meet with representatives of Nicaragua when such a meeting would promote a Church-mediated dialogue between the contending factions in Nicaragua and a workable Contadora agreement....

MORI DocID: 754607

> We will continue to consult closely with all parties with a view to judging the appropriateness of a resumption of bilateral talks. We strongly urge Nicaragua to begin a Church-mediated dialogue as proposed by the United Nicaraguan Opposition and to return to multilateral negotiations within the Contadora Process to continue work on a comprehensive and verifiable regional accord.

The Contadora Process in 1985

As 1984 came to a close, two draft agreements were under consideration within the Contadora process: a September 1984 revision of a June 1984 draft; and an October 1984 draft (the "Tegucigalpa" draft) that defined the position of Costa Rica, Honduras, and El Salvador. Following a period of private consultations among the participating governments, the Contadora Group scheduled a resumption of negotiations for mid-February. An asylum dispute between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, however, prevented that meeting from taking place. The dispute was resolved in March 1985 through Contadora Group mediation, and negotiations among Central American plenipotentiaries resumed in April.

The April 11-12 meeting resulted in agreement in principle on revised verification procedures. All five Central American governments reserved the right, however, to propose modifications. A second meeting, May 16-18, was devoted primarily to discussion of approaches suggested by the Contadora Group for resolving outstanding security issues. The May meeting focused in particular on those elements of the October 1984 "Tegucigalpa" proposals of Honduras, Costa Rica, and El Salvador that the Contadora Group judged could be incorporated into the September 7 draft without difficulty. There reportedly was consensual acceptance of some of these non-controversial suggestions, particularly in the preambular section of the working draft.

At the conclusion of the May meeting, the Contadora Group governments circulated a proposal to resolve the more difficult security issues for consideration at the next meeting, in June. When the June meeting convened, the Nicaraguan delegate insisted that Contadora discuss renewed U.S. support for the Nicaraguan democratic resistance and refused to discuss the Contadora compromise proposal. Contadora Group efforts to have the Nicaraguan delegation reconsider were unsuccessful. In this situation, the June meeting was adjourned.

Nicaragua's disruption of the June meeting caused a suspension in the plenipotentiaries' negotiations that was to last four months. In July, the Contadora Group foreign ministers met in Panama to consider how the damage could be repaired. In a July 22 communique the Contadora Group Foreign Ministers announced their intention to consult bilaterally with each of the Central American governments in lieu of resuming talks.

The foreign ministers also called on Nicargua and the United States to resume bilateral talks and on Costa Rica and Nicaragua to initiate a bilateral dialogue on a continuing series of Sandinista Army incursions into Costa Rican territory, which had brought Costa Rican relations with Nicaragua to an all-time low. A May 31 incident in which two Costa Rican Civil Guardsmen were killed in Costa Rica led Costa Rica to seek an OAS condemnation of Nicaragua. The OAS consensus resolution implied but did not explicitly state that Nicaragua was responsible for the incident and endorsed Nicaraguan and Costa Rican bilateral border talks within the Contadora framework. Costa Rica has been unwilling to hold the talks, however, until the Sandinistas satisfactorily explain the incident. Further incidents on July 26 and August 21 -- in which Sandinista planes dropped bombs and fired a rocket into Costa Rican territory -- soured relations even further.

Three of the Central American governments -- Costa Rica, Honduras, and El Salvador -- on August 1 welcomed the visit of Contadora Group Vice Ministers and jointly proposed that the negotiations among plenipotentiaries should be reconvened as a prior step to developing a third draft. They proposed that the talks be strengthened by meeting in more prolonged sessions that would give the meetings a "permanent character." Following consultations August 3-8 between the Contadora Group vice ministers, Costa Rica, Honduras, and El Salvador formally reiterated this proposal September 4. The three governments also stated their view that the key remaining issues to be resolved were national reconciliation, arms and troop level reductions, and verification.

Nicaragua's disruption of the June meeting and the suspension of plenipotentiaries' talks produced generalized concern that the Contadora process was in difficulty. Special Envoy Shlaudeman consulted with the Contadora Group and democratic Central American governments following the aborted meeting in June to urge that the meetings of plenipotentiaries be reconvened. Ambassador Shlaudeman also expressed the U.S. view that any procedural or substantive inducement to Nicaragua to return to the process would invite further disruption and counseled patience. Ambassador Shlaudeman was asked by one Contadora Group government if the United States would, at an appropriate opportunity, publicly reaffirm its support for the Contadora process. The Secretary of State Shultz did so on July 26, in Mexico City:

> The United States fully supports efforts to achieve a political solution to the Central American crisis. We have given strong support to the efforts of the Central Americans themselves, assisted by the Contadora Group, to achieve a negotiated settlement. In our view, there exists in the Contadora Document of Objectives a fair, comprehensive and balanced framework for such an outcome. We expressed our support for a comprehensive and verifiable implementation of the Document of Objectives when it was agreed in September 1983. We reaffirm that support today.

The suspension of talks prompted expressions of support for Contadora from other governments as well. Following consultations with the Contadora Group governments, the governments of Argentina, Brazil, Peru, and Uruguay on July 28 formed a "Contadora Support Group." The foreign ministers of these governments met with the Contadora Group foreign ministers in Cartagena, Colombia August 23-25 to consult on how that support could be provided most effectively. A joint communique issued by the eight governments stated that there would be regular consultations among the governments in support of the negotiating process but did not, by mutual agreement, contemplate the direct participation of the Support Group Governments in Contadora deliberations.

Ambassador Shlaudeman visited Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Brasilia, and Lima, the four Support Group capitals, September 10-13 to convey U.S. support for Support Group activities. The Department of State had made an official statement on August 26 welcoming formation of the Support Group, following the meeting in Cartagena. In his discussions, Ambassador Shlaudeman suggested it would be useful for the Support Group to consult directly with all the Central American governments; to urge the Sandinistas to accept the proposal of the United Nicaraguan Opposition for a Church-mediated dialogue; and to meet directly with UNO leaders to form first-hand judgments as to their purposes and programs. He also briefed the Support Group governments on the Manzanillo talks and outlined United States views on the requirements for an effective and lasting peace in the region.

Costa Rica, Honduras, and El Salvador jointly requested a meeting with the Support Group governments during a September 12-13 meeting of Contadora process foreign ministers in Panama. The Support Group foreign ministers declined the request, however, out of concern that such a meeting not interfere with the Contadora process itself.

The four Contadora Group foreign ministers presented the the five Central American foreign ministers a third draft of a Contadora agreement at meeting in Panama September 12-13. The nine ministers agreed to convene negotiations on October 7, 1985 with the aim of reaching final agreement in a period not to exceed 45 days.* It was also agreed that discussion would be devoted exclusively to the timing of entry into effect and duration of commitments; control and reduction of armaments; verification in security and political matters; military exercises; and operational matters that must be addressed in order to implement an agreement. It was further agreed that incidents or developments in the region would not be discussed in the meetings or condition the participation of any delegations. The Contadora Group ministers stressed that the Central American states have exclusive responsibility for reaching agreement.

The first round of talks were held October 7-11, 1985 on Contadora Island, off the coast of Panama. A second round of talks was held October 17-19; a third round is currently scheduled for November 6-9. While various delegates have characterized the talks in comments to reporters, the participating governments have refrained from issuing any joint statements or communiques.

U.S. Diplomatic Contacts with Nicaragua

The United States has continued, since declining to schedule further meetings in the Manzanillo talks, to have diplomatic contacts with Nicaraguan government officials, in Managua, Washington and other capitals. Secretary Shultz, for example, met with Nicaragua President Ortega March 2 in Montevideo, during the inauguration of President Sanguinetti. Vice President Bush spoke with President Ortega during the inauguration of President Sarney of Brazil March 16. There have been a number of contacts between Ambassador Bergold and Sandinista Government officials, as well contacts at a lower level. In Washington, there have been meetings between Nicaraguan Ambassador Tunnermann and National Security Council officials and with Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs Elliott Abrams.

The United States sought a meeting for Ambassador Shlaudeman with a high-level Nicaraguan official on the margins of the United Nations General Assembly this fall. The Nicaraguan Government initially accepted a meeting between Ambassador Shlaudeman and Assistant Secretary Abrams and Foreign Minister D'Escoto. The Nicaraguan Government then proposed, however, to send a lower ranking official to the proposed meeting. Ultimately, Nicaragua accepted the U.S. suggestion that Ambassadors Shlaudeman and Tunnermann meet in Washington. The two ambassadors met on October 29 and October 31, 1985.

In the October 29 meeting Ambassador Shlaudeman informed Ambassador Tunnerman that the United States would be prepared to resume bilateral talks if the Sandinistas were to accept the March proposal of the United Nicaraguan Opposition for a church-mediated dialogue and ceasefire. Ambassador Shlaudeman said that progress in this dialogue would make it possible to resolve U.S. - Sandinista bilateral problems. Ambassador Tunnerman responded on October 31 that the Government of Nicaragua rejects dialogue with the democratic resistance.

The President's Initiative on Regional Conflicts and the U.S.-Soviet Experts' Talks

On October 24, in his address to the United Nations General Assemby, President Reagan presented an initiative on regional conflicts that is intended, in part, to support the Contadora process and an end to the conflict in Nicaragua.

President Reagan's initiative aims at achieving peace and internal reconciliation, ending foreign military involvement, and fostering economic reconstruction in five of the most pressing international conflicts of the day, the wars in Afghanistan, Cambodia, Angola, Ethiopia and Nicaragua.

The President's plan sets forth a comprehensive and flexible framework for cooperation toward these goals among the warring parties themselves, between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, and among other interested parties. The plan, which would complement and bolster existing peace-making efforts, involes action at three levels:

-- The starting point is a process of negotiation among the warring parties themselves. "The form of these talks may and should vary," the President explained, "but negotiations -- and an improvement of internal political conditions -- are essential to achieving an end to violence, the withdrawal of foreign troops and national reconciliation."

-- The second level involves joint U.S. and Soviet talks about how best to support the ongoing talks among the warring parties, when those negotiations make genuine progress. "In every case," the President said, "the primary task is to promote this goal: verified elimination of the foreign military presence and restraint on the flow of outside arms".

-- The third level entails an international effort to welcome these countries back into the world economy. The President pledged the United States would respond generously to their democratic reconciliation with their own people, their respect for human rights, and their return to the family of free nations.

This plan puts the primary responsibility on the warring parties themselves to reach accomodation; as the President points out, it is not for the United States or the Soviet Union to impose solutions. Yet it also provides a framework for the Soviet Union to cooperate with the United States in helping to bring peace to these five countries.

Pursuant to a 1984 presidential proposal, the United States and the Soviet Union held experts' talks on Central America and the Caribbean October 31 - November 1 in Washington. The talks were the fifth in a series of such exchanges on regional issues. We previously held experts' meetings (at the level of Assistant Secretary) on East Asia, Afghanistan, the Middle East and Southern Africa.

Our purpose was to clarify U.S. policy, making it clear that we intend to defend our interests, and thereby reduce the possiblitiies of unnecessary conflict. We have found the talks held so far to have been useful in understanding the Soviet position and making the Soviets understand our position. As the foregoing indicates, the experts' meetings were held under the rubric of the President's 1984 proposal, not the 1985 initiative on regional conflicts, and were in no sense negotiations.

Economic and Trade Measures

Both the National Bipartisan Commission and the Congress have recommended use of trade and economic measures to promote a resolution of the conflict in Central America and Nicaragua and we have regularly consulted with our trading partners and allies on this question. Positive economic incentives for Nicaragua to resolve its internal conflict have formed an integral part of every proposal the United States has made to the Sandinistas since they came to power in 1979. The President's October 24 initiative on regional conflict (see above) proposes generous economic aid where democratic national reconciliation takes place.

Even prior to the May 7 United States embargo, Nicaraguan trade with the United States, Latin America, and other traditional trading partners had been declining because of Nicaragua's lack of creditworthiness. The composition of foreign aid to Nicaragua had also changed dramatically, with the Soviet Bloc replacing the West as credit suppliers and as aid donors. Any increased aid from Western donors is likely to go to regional institutions such as the Central American Bank for Economic Integration, CABEI. Neither CABEI nor most of the multilateral financial institutions is presently approving new loans to Nicaragua owing to its serious payment arrearages to many of these institutions. Nicaragua's dependence on the Soviet Union and its allies is expected to continue to increase, although not at levels sufficient to offset its economic decline.

CIVILIAN RULE THROUGH GENERAL ELECTIONS FOR THE PRESIDENCY, CONGRESS, AND MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENTS.

THE UNITED NATIONS HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION'S SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR GUATEMALA, VISCOUNT COLVILLE DE CULROSS, NOTED IMPROVEMENT IN OVERALL HUMAN RIGHTS CONDITIONS DURING TWO VISITS TO GUATEMALA IN 1985, CITING ESPECIALLY MOVEMENT TOWARDS DEMOCRATIZATION AND ELECTIONS. POLITICALLY RELATED DEATHS CONTINUED TO DECLINE AND ARE NOW DRAMATICALLY BELOW THE 1981-82 LEVELS. KIDNAPPINGS AND DISAPPEARANCES ALSO DECREASED, AFTER A SIGNIFICANT INCREASE IN 1984. POLITICALLY MOTIVATED ABDUCTIONS, WHILE STILL UNACCEPTABLY HIGH, ARE NOW AT THE LOWEST LEVEL THIS DECADE. AMNESTY FOR INSURGENTS REMAINED AVAILABLE THROUGH THE TENURE OF THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT. AS IN 1984, THERE WERE NO VERIFIED MASSACRES OF INDIANS OR OTHER RURAL POPULATION. GOVERNMENT AND MILITARY SENSITIVITY TO HUMAN RIGHTS QUESTIONS, APPARENTLY, CONTINUED TO GROW MODESTLY. 245 POLICEMEN WERE DISMISSED FOR CRIMES OR CORRUPTION, AND 4 MEMBERS OF A CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL WERE SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR MURDERING A VILLAGER. ALTHOUGH SPORADIC ABUSE STILL OCCURRED AT THE LOCAL COMMAND LEVEL, THE MILITARY ADOPTED A MORE ENLIGHTENED APPROACH TO THE ROOT CAUSES OF THE INSURGENCY. THE CIVILIANIZATION, ROAD BUILDING, AND MODEL VILLAGE PROGRAMS HAVE TAKEN MUCH OF THE INITIATIVE AWAY FROM THE GUERRILLA ORGANIZATIONS. INSURGENTS STILL ENGAGED IN DEADLY MILITARY ACTION DURING 1985, BUT THE NUMBER OF REPORTED COMBAT DEATHS WAS APPROXIMATELY ONE-HALF THAT OF 1984 LEVELS. IF HUMAN SUFFERING IS MEASURABLE, THERE IS NOW LESS THAN LAST YEAR.

THE GENERAL ELECTIONS PROVIDED AN EXTREMELY BROAD ARRAY OF POLITICAL OPTIONS, INCLUDING THE FORMERLY PERSECUTED DEMOCRATIC SOCIALISTS, WHO RETURNED FROM VOLUNTARY EXILE TO PARTICIPATE IN THE 1985 ELECTIONS. (HA NOTE: SUPPLEMENTAL LANGUAGE ON ELECTION CONDUCT AND RESULTS WILL BE FORTHCOMING.)
GUATEMALA IS PRIMARILY AN AGRICULTURAL COUNTRY, WITH A DUAL CULTURE IN WHICH THE INDIGENOUS POPULATION CONTINUES TO PRESERVE ITS REVERED TRADITION. THE ECONOMY HAS BEEN IN A SERIOUSLY DEEPENING RECESSION IN PAST MONTHS, EXACERBATING TENSIONS AND CURBING GOVERNMENT'S ABILITY TO RESPOND TO RECOGNIZED SOCIAL NEEDS.

A LOCAL HUMAN RIGHTS GROUP, THE MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP (GAM), CONTINUED TO FUNCTION OPENLY, ALTHOUGH ONE OF ITS MEMBERS WAS FOUND TORTURED AND MURDERED, AND ANOTHER MEMBER, PLUS HER SON AND BROTHER, DIED UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES. THE GOVERNMENT ACCEPTED

THE RIGHTS TO PRIVATE PROPERTY AND TO PURSUE PRIVATE INTERESTS REMAINED UNTRAMMELED. DEPLORABLE, HOWEVER, WAS THE CONTINUATION, ALTHOUGH AT A REDUCED RATE, OF KILLINGS AND DISAPPEARANCES AND ABUSES BY GUERRILLAS AND SECURITY FORCES. A. POLITICAL KILLING

THROUGH SEPTEMBER, 1985, THERE WERE AN ESTIMATED 232 CIVILIAN NON-COMBATANT DEATHS IN GUATEMALA. THIS IS A DRAMATIC DECLINE FROM THE 491 KILLINGS IN 1984 AND THE 2235 IN 1982. SOME OF THE DEAD WERE BELIEVED TO BE VICTIMS OF THE GUATEMALAN SECURITY FORCES OR CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS, WHILE OTHERS WERE KILLED BY INSURGENTS. IN ALL, APPROXIMATELY 440 PERSONS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED FOR POLITICAL REASONS OR IN COMBAT, THROUGH SEPTEMBER OF 1985, COMPARED TO AN ESTIMATED 992 KILLED IN 1984 AND 3633 IN 1982.

WHILE THERE WERE FEWER REPORTS OF POLITICALLY MOTIVATED VIOLENCE IN THE COUNTRYSIDE, THERE WERE STILL ALLEGATIONS OF ABUSES AGAINST GUATEMALA'S

PAGE 03 GUATEM 11608 02 OF 15 122006Z

INDIAN POPULATION. MOST OF THE ALLEGED INCIDENTS REPORTED IN 1985 INVOLVED INDIVIDUALS IN THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS, WHERE CLASHES BETWEEN INSURGENTS AND THE ARMY ARE STILL FREQUENT AND OFTEN FIERCE. HOWEVER, THERE WERE NO CREDIBLE REPORTS OF MASSACRES DURING THE YEAR. AN ONSITE INQUIRY BY UNITED STATES EMBASSY OFFICIALS PROVED FALSE A REPORT THAT 125 INDIANS HAD BEEN MASSACRED LAST APRIL AT SANTA ANITA LAS CANOAS, DEPARTMENT OF CHIMALTENANGO.

MEMBERS OF THE GUATEMALAN SECURITY FORCES WERE NOT IMMUNE FROM VIOLENCE. FOR EXAMPLE, AT LEAST 50 POLICEMEN HAVE BEEN KILLED IN 1985, ALONG WITH 7 MILITARY COMMISSIONERS. INSURGENTS TORTURED AND EXECUTED AN ARMY CORPORAL AND AN ARMY SPECIALIST IN THE DEPARTMENT OF SUCHITEPEQUEZ. THEY ALSO ASSASSINATED THE CHIEF OF THE MILITARY POLICE'S INTELLIGENCE SERVICE LAST AUGUST. FURTHERMORE, INSURGENTS CONTINUED THEIR CAMPAIGN AGAINST MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL DEFENSE FORCES, KILLING AT LEAST 30 IN THE FIRST NINE MONTHS OF 1985.

IN 1985, THE FOUR MARXIST-LENINIST GUERRILLA ORGANIZATIONS ALSO TARGETTED MUNICIPAL WORKERS, FARM OWNERS AND MANAGERS, AND OTHER CIVILIANS. GUERRILLAS

ZAPOTE, DEPARTMENT OF EL PETEN, GUERRILLAS SHOT TO DEATH FOUR CIVILIANS, INCLUDING TWO MINORS, WHOM THEY APPARENTLY MISTOOK FOR ARMY GUIDES. IN THEIR MOST SPECTACULAR ACT OF VIOLENCE, GUERRILLAS BLEW UP AN AIRPLANE CARRYING THE NORWEGIAN HONORARY CONSUL, HIS SON-IN-LAW, AND TWO OTHERS, AS IT LANDED AT A SMALL AIRSTRIP NEAR SANTA BARBARA, DEPARTMENT OF SUCHITEPEQUEZ, IN OCTOBER. ALL FOUR WERE KILLED.

GUATEMALAN SECURITY FORCES SOMETIMES REACTED WITH EXTREME HARSHNESS TO INSURGENT VIOLENCE. FOR INSTANCE, FOLLOWING THE KILLINGS OF TWO MILITARY COMMISSIONERS AND SEVERAL CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL MEMBERS IN PATZUN, DEPARTMENT OF CHIMALTENANGO, THE LOCAL MILITARY COMMANDER CARRIED OUT A SERIES OF ABDUCTIONS AND ASSASSINATIONS. BY THE TIME REPRISAL AND COUNTER-REPRISAL HAD FINISHED, 22 PEOPLE WERE REPORTED DEAD.

PAGE 02 GUATEM 11608 03 OF 15 122008Z

KILLINGS HAVE ALSO BEEN ATTRIBUTED TO SOME OF THE 900,000 MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS, SOMETIMES IN CLASHES BETWEEN NEIGHBORING PATROLS OR BETWEEN CIVIL DEFENSE MEMBERS AND CIVILIANS OVER LAND DISPUTES, AND SOMETIMES IN PERSONAL VENDETTAS. THERE CONTINUED TO BE ALLEGATIONS THAT CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL MEMBERS SUMMARILY EXECUTED SOME GUERRILLAS OR SUSPECTED GUERRILLAS.

THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT HAS NOT CONSISTENTLY PUNISHED MEMBERS OF THE SECURITY FORCES FOR SUCH EXTRA-JUDICIAL KILLINGS, ALTHOUGH SOME OFFENDERS HAVE BEEN DISMISSED OR JAILED. FOR INSTANCE, IN AUGUST A POLICE SPOKESMAN SAID THAT 245 POLICEMEN HAD BEEN DISCHARGED DURING THE PREVIOUS MONTH FOR "ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES." ALSO, IN OCTOBER FOUR MEMBERS OF A CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL WERE GIVEN TWENTY YEAR PRISON TERMS FOR MURDERING A VILLAGER. HOWEVER, THE GUATEMALAN ARMY SHOWED ITSELF STILL UNWILLING OR UNABLE TO PUNISH CRIMES BY OFFICERS. AFTER KILLINGS AND DISAPPEARANCES IN PATZUN WERE LINKED TO THE LOCAL MILITARY COMMANDER, THE ARMY TRANSFERRED THE OFFICER BUT BROUGHT NO CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

LAMENTABLY, IT IS DIFFICULT OR IMPOSSIBLE TO ASSIGN CLEAR RESPONSIBILITY OR MOTIVE TO MANY OF THE KILLINGS IN GUATEMALA. THE GUERRILLAS ON OCCASION USE THE SAME WEAPONS, TACTICS, AND UNIFORMS AS THE ARMY IN AN EFFORT TO PLACE BLAME ON THE GOVERNMENT FORCES. HOWEVER, SECURITY FORCES HAVE BEEN CHARGED WITH USING THE SAME TACTIC. BODIES FREQUENTLY APPEAR WITHOUT ANY GROUP TAKING RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE KILLINGS, AND WITHOUT ANY EVIDENCE THAT THE KILLINGS

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

WERE POLITICALLY MOTIVATED. SUCH CASES, IN WHICH THERE IS MUCH SPECULATION AND FEW FACTS, COMPRISE THE BULK OF KILLINGS IN GUATEMALA.

A FEW EXAMPLES OF THE KIND OF PRESUMABLY POLITICAL VIOLENCE ENDEMIC IN GUATEMALA ARE: A) THE MARCH MURDER OF TWO PROFESSORS FROM THE NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF SAN CARLOS IN GUATEMALA CITY. B) THE JUNE MURDER OF A UNIVERSITY BOARD MEMBER AND PROFESSOR. C) THE MARCH MURDER OF MANUEL FRANCISCO SOSA AVILA, A RETIRED GENERAL AND FORMER DIRECTOR OF THE NATIONAL POLICE AND MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR. D) THE AUGUST KILLING OF ROBERTO CASTANEDA FELICE, A PROMINENT BUSINESSMAN AND PRIVATE SECTOR LEADER, IN GUATEMALA CITY. ALTHOUGH EACH OF THESE CASES SMACKS OF POLITICAL MOTIVATION, THERE IS NO DEFINITIVE EVIDENCE OF MOTIVE OR RESPONSIBILITY.

B. DISAPPEARANCE

THE NUMBER OF KIDNAPPINGS AND DISAPPEARANCES FELL IN 1985 TO THE LOWEST LEVEL THIS DECADE. AN ESTIMATED 161 PEOPLE WERE ABDUCTED, THROUGH SEPTEMBER OF 1985, COMPARED WITH 425 ABDUCTIONS IN 1984. THOUGH THE NUMBERS ARE STILL UNACCEPTABLY HIGH, THE DECREASE IS AN ENCOURAGING TREND GIVEN THE 38 PERCENT JUMP IN KIDNAPPINGS BETWEEN 1983 AND 1984. AS WITH KILLINGS, MOTIVE AND ORIGIN ARE USUALLY NOT PROVEABLE.

AS IN THE PAST, THE GOVERNMENT SECURITY FORCES WERE ACCUSED OF ABDUCTING PEOPLE IN ORDER TO QUESTION THEM ABOUT SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES. FOR INSTANCE, THE LOCAL CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN CHICHICASTENANGO, DEPARTMENT OF EL QUICHE, CHARGED SECURITY FORCES WITH KIDNAPPING A PARTY MEMBER IN MAY, AND IN JULY AN AGRICULTURAL WORKERS' UNION IN THE SAME TOWN ACCUSED THE CIVIL DEFENSE FORCE OF ABDUCTING A UNION MEMBER. SECURITY FORCES HAVE ALSO BEEN LINKED TO THE MAY DISAPPEARANCE OF THREE RAFAEL LANDIVAR UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORKERS. THE SECURITY FORCES, HOWEVER, ALMOST ALWAYS DENY KNOWLEDGE OF THE WHEREABOUTS OF DISAPPEARED PERSONS IN RESPONSE TO INQUIRIES BY THE UNITED STATES EMBASSY OR OTHERS.

THE INSURGENT GROUPS USED KIDNAPPING TO COMMANDEER LABOR AND TO PUNISH GOVERNMENT COLLABORATORS. IN MARCH, GUERRILLAS IN THE DEPARTMENT OF CHIMALTENANGO KIDNAPPED A CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL MEMBER, A CATECHIST, AND A FARM OWNER. INSURGENTS OPERATING IN THE DEPARTMENT OF EL QUICHE KIDNAPPED A SUPERVISOR OF THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR ELECTRIFICATION AT THE CHIXOY HYDROELECTRIC PROJECT SITE. GUERRILLAS ALSO REPORTEDLY KIDNAPPED WHOLE VILLAGES IN ORDER TO USE THE VILLAGERS AS "MASAS," OR PROVIDERS OF FOOD AND SECURITY FORCES ACTING AGAINST SUSPECTED INSURGENTS OR THEIR SUPPORTERS. IN MARCH, TWO MEMBERS OF STUDENT ASSOCIATIONS AT THE UNIVERSITY WERE REPORTED KIDNAPPED, AND IN JULY A STUDENT SOCIAL PROMOTER WAS ABDUCTED IN QUETZALTENANGO. HOWEVER, MOTIVES AND ORIGINS OF VIOLENCE AGAINST STUDENTS AND FACULTY ARE ALSO IN MOST CASES HARD TO DEFINE WITH CERTAINTY.

- SAN CARLOS HAS A LARGE ENROLLMENT AND MANY PERSONS ATTEND ON A CASUAL BASIS FOR MANY YEARS, SO THAT A VICTIM'S ASSOCIATION WITH THE UNIVERSITY MAY ONLY BE COINCIDENTAL. THE UNIVERSITY, ALSO, IS A CENTER OF NARCOTICS TRAFFICKING AND DRUG RELATED CRIME IS COMMON.

THE MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP (GAM), FORMED IN 1984 AND COMPRISED LARGELY OF FAMILIES OF MISSING STUDENTS, NAMED 3 RELATIVES AS VICTIMS OF DISAPPEARANCES IN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1985. THIS COMPARES TO 40 REPORTED DISAPPEARANCES IN 1984.

MANY KIDNAPPINGS HAD APPARENT CRIMINAL MOTIVES SUCH AS RANSOM AND PERSONAL VENDETTA. A FOREMOST FACTOR LIMITING THE ABILITY TO CATEGORIZE A DISAPPEARANCE IS THE UNWILLINGNESS OF RELATIVES TO REVEAL THE

OCCURRENCE, ESPECIALLY IF A LARGE RANSOM WAS PAID.

SOME DISAPPEARANCES WERE FOUND TO HAVE OTHER EXPLANATIONS. FOR INSTANCE, IN AUGUST THE NATIONAL POLICE ANNOUNCED THAT AMONG THE MISSING PERSON CASES THEY HAD SOLVED, ONE "VICTIM" HAD BEEN WORKING AS A MAID IN GUATEMALA CITY, ANOTHER HAD JOINED THE ARMY, AND A THIRD HAD RUN AWAY WITH HER BOYFRIEND. IN JULY, A LIBRARIAN AT THE UNIVERSITY OF SAN CARLOS IN QUETZALTENANGO WAS REPORTED MISSING. LATER, SHE WAS DISCOVERED AT THE HOME OF SOME RELATIVES IN THE CAPITAL CITY. ALSO, PERSONS INVOLVED WITH THE INSURGENCY ARE KNOWN TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY FOR TRAVEL TO SOVIET BLOC COUNTRIES, CUBA, OR MEXICO, BY PRETENDING TO DISAPPEAR. FRIENDS AND RELATIVES, WITTINGLY OR UNWITTINGLY, REPORT THEM AS KIDNAPPED OR DISAPPEARED. IN MARCH, THE ARMY REPORTED THAT A GUERRILLA CAPTURED AT SAYACHE, DEPARTMENT OF EL PETEN, ADMITTED THAT HE AND SEVERAL WORKERS, WHOSE

PHOTOS HAD APPEARED IN THE GUATEMALAN PRESS AS "DISAPPEARED," HAD REALLY GONE TO CUBA TO RECEIVE MILITARY TRAINING.

C. TORTURE AND CRUEL, INHUMAN, OR DEGRADING - TREATMENT OR PUNISHMENT

UNCLASSIFIED

ALTHOUGH GUATEMALAN CIVIL AND CRIMINAL CODES EXPRESSLY PROHIBIT PHYSICAL AND MENTAL TORTURE, THE PRACTICE CONTINUES. THE GUATEMALAN PRESS REGULARLY REPORTS THE DISCOVERY OF BODIES SHOWING SIGNS OF TORTURE. IN ONLY A FEW CASES HAS THE IDENTITY OF THE PERPETRATORS BEEN ESTABLISHED, BUT IT APPEARS THAT TORTURE IS EMPLOYED BY MANY GROUPS. GOVERNMENT SECURITY FORCES, VIGILANTE GROUPS, GUERRILLA ORGANIZATIONS, AND CRIMINALS HAVE BEEN HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR THESE ACTS.

THERE ARE STRONG INDICATIONS THAT HARSH TREATMENT OR TORTURE IS INFLICTED ON SOME DETAINED PERSONS BY GOVERNMENT
SECURITY FORCES. FOR INSTANCE, IN OCTOBER THE POLICE CLAIMED THAT A YOUNG MAN, CESAR RAMOS, ATTEMPTED SUICIDE IN THE BATHROOM OF A GUATEMALA CITY POLICE STATION BY SHOOTING HIMSELF IN THE HEAD WITH A PISTOL HE STOLE FROM A POLICE OFFICER. FAMILY MEMBERS, HOWEVER, CHARGED POLICE WITH BEATING AND THEN SHOOTING THE YOUNG MAN. IN SEPTEMBER, A GUATEMALAN MOTHER CLAIMED THAT SHE WAS ABDUCTED AND FORCED TO WATCH ALLEGED GOVERNMENT SECURITY AGENTS BEAT HER SON, WHO HAD BEEN ABDUCTED A DAY EARLIER BY MEN WHO IDENTIFIED THEMSELVES AS POLICEMEN.

THE GUERRILLAS ALSO HAVE NOT HESITATED TO USE TORTURE TO INTIMIDATE AND TO PUNISH GOVERNMENT COLLABORATORS. IN AUGUST, FOUR INDIAN MEMBERS OF A [redacted]

CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL WERE FOUND BOUND, TORTURED, SHOT, AND WITH THROATS SLASHED ON THE COATEPEQUE-PORT OCOS ROAD, DEPARTMENT OF QUETZALTENANGO, AFTER BEING ABDUCTED BY INSURGENTS. GUERRILLAS IN SUCHITEPEQUEZ TORTURED AND KILLED AN ARMY CORPORAL, AND IN MAY A FARMER IN CHIMALTENANGO WAS ABDUCTED, BEATEN, AND SHOT BY INSURGENTS. IN OCTOBER, THE GUATEMALAN ARMY RESCUED 62 PEASANTS WHO HAD BEEN HELD BY INSURGENTS NEAR THE MUNICIPALITY OF SAN JUAN COTZAL, DEPARTMENT OF EL QUICHE. THE RESCUED PEASANTS, ALL WHOM WERE IN POOR HEALTH AND SUFFERED FROM MALNUTRITION, WERE USED AS CAMP WORKERS BY THE GUERRILLAS. INCLUDED AMONG THEM WERE 37 CHILDREN.

SEVERAL HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS HAVE ACCUSED THE GOVERNMENT OF OPERATING SECRET PRISONS WHERE TORTURE IS USED DURING INTERROGATION. THE GOVERNMENT DENIES THESE ALLEGATIONS AND THEIR ACCURACY HAS NEVER BEEN CONFIRMED. THE UNITED NATIONS HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION'S SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR GUATEMALA, VISCOUNT COLVILLE DE CULROSS, ANNOUNCED IN AUGUST THAT HE HAD FOUND NO EVIDENCE OF SECRET JAILS. AN AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL GROUP INSPECTED POLICE FACILITIES IN GUATEMALA CITY WITHOUT FINDING CLANDESTINE DETENTION CENTERS. IN SEPTEMBER, FOLLOWING RUMORS THAT SECRET JAIL CELLS HAD BEEN FOUND IN THE BASEMENT OF THE MINISTRY OF FINANCE, REPORTERS AND TELEVISION NEWS CREWS WERE GIVEN FREE ACCESS TO THE BUILDING. THEY FOUND NO CELLS.

ALLEGATIONS THAT THE "MODEL VILLAGES" ARE CONCENTRATION CAMPS ARE NOT CREDIBLE, AND DO NOT ACCURATELY REFLECT THE VIEWS OF INHABITANTS OR MOST

OUTSIDE OBSERVERS. TWO OF THE 50 COMMUNITIES UNDER DEVELOPMENT IN THE MODEL VILLAGE PROGRAM, SARRAXOCH AND ACAMAL, SERVE AS "HALF-WAY" HOUSES FOR GUERRILLAS WHO HAVE TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S AMNESTY PROGRAM. ACCESS TO THESE TWO VILLAGES BY OUTSIDERS IS CONTROLLED. THIS POLICY HAS CAUSED MISUNDERSTANDING AMONG SOME VISITORS, INCLUDING TWO OBSERVERS OF THE WASHINGTON OFFICE ON LATIN AMERICA (WOLA), WHO CLAIMED THAT THEY WERE DENIED ACCESS TO SARRAXOCH.

AS IN 1984, THE PRINCIPAL GOVERNMENT PRISON, GRANJA PENAL PAVON, WAS THE SITE OF A RIOT IN WHICH SEVERAL PRISONERS WERE KILLED AND OTHERS WOUNDED. GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS HAVE ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE PRISON POPULATION WAS IN EXCESS OF THE FACILITY'S CAPACITY, AND THAT THE BUDGET WAS INADEQUATE FOR THE NUMBER OF PRISONERS. PRISON OFFICIALS BLAMED OVERCROWDING AND GANG WARFARE FOR MUCH OF THE VIOLENCE. THERE IS NO POLICY OF PHYSICAL PUNISHMENT AT PAVON OR AT THE OTHER PRISONS, AND THE FACILITIES DO NOT HAVE A REPUTATION FOR INMATE MISTREATMENT. HOWEVER, IN 1985 A GUATEMALAN COURT INDICTED PRISON GUARDS FOR THEIR ROLE IN A 1984 RIOT AT PAVON, AND SEVERAL TOP PRISON OFFICIALS WERE DISMISSED AFTER THE DEATH OF SEVERAL INMATES DURING RIOTING IN 1985.

D. ARBITRARY ARREST, DETENTION, OR EXILE

THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT DOES NOT USE EXILE AS A FORM OF PUNISHMENT, NOR ARE CRITICS OF THE GOVERNMENT ARRESTED AND CONVICTED UNDER PRETEXT OF COMMON CRIMINALITY. THE CURRENT GOVERNMENT FACILITATED, DURING 1985, THE VOLUNTARY DEPARTURE FROM GUATEMALA OF SEVERAL PEOPLE WHO SOUGHT PROTECTION IN THE

COLOMBIAN, VENEZUELAN, AND OTHER DIPLOMATIC MISSIONS. AS A MATTER OR POLICY, THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT REGARDED THESE PEOPLE AS "GUESTS" OF THE DIPLOMATIC MISSIONS IN WHICH THEY REQUESTED ASYLUM, AND REFUSED TO REFER TO THEM AS "ASYLEES."

FORCED LABOR IS NOT PRACTICED IN GUATEMALA. SERVICE IN THE CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS IS OSTENSIBLY VOLUNTARY, BUT, IN MANY RURAL AREAS TAKES ON THE CHARACTER OF A REQUIREMENT FOR ABLE-BODIED MALES, OFTEN AS THE RESULT OF PEER AND COMMUNITY PRESSURE. IN A RECENT PASTORAL LETTER, THE METROPOLITAN ARCHBISHOP OF GUATEMALA CITY, PROSPERO PENADOS DEL BARRIO, CRITICIZED THE CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS AS "OBLIGATORY SERVICE," AND SAID PATROL MEMBERS' TIME WOULD BE BETTER SPENT PROVIDING FOR THEIR FAMILIES. IN CONVERSATIONS WITH EMBASSY OFFICIALS, HEADS OF THE CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS IN CONFLICTIVE ZONES EXPRESSED LITTLE DOUBT ABOUT THE IMPORTANT ROLE THE PATROLS

UNDER THE GUATEMALAN LEGAL CODE, PERSONS MAY NOT BE HELD FOR MORE THAN 48 HOURS WITHOUT BEING BROUGHT BEFORE A JUDGE AND CHARGED WITH A CRIME. DESPITE THIS AND OTHER LEGAL PROVISIONS, THE ILLEGAL DETENTION OF INDIVIDUALS SUSPECTED OF BEING INSURGENTS OR ACTIVE INSURGENT SYMPATHIZERS CONTINUES TO BE A SERIOUS PROBLEM. THE GOVERNMENT OFFICIALLY DENIES THAT ANY POLITICAL PRISONERS ARE HELD IN CUSTODY. TO OUR KNOWLEDGE, THERE ARE NO "PRISONERS OF CONSCIENCE," ARRESTED FOR THEIR BELIEFS ALONE.

IN SEPTEMBER, THE GUATEMALAN SUPREME COURT ADVISED THE MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP THAT NONE OF THE 700 WRITS OF HABEAS CORPUS IT HAD PRESENTED WERE SUCCESSFUL IN LOCATING ALLEGEDLY DISAPPEARED PERSONS IN GOVERNMENT CUSTODY. IN MAY, THE MEXICO-BASED GUATEMALA HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, WHICH IS ALIGNED WITH THE VIOLENT LEFTIST REVOLUTIONARY ORGANIZATION OF PEOPLE IN ARMS, PRESENTED 103 WRITS OF HABEAS CORPUS. NONE WAS SUCCESSFUL.

NEARLY 1000 PEOPLE WERE ARRESTED FOR VANDALISM, THIEVERY, AND ASSAULT DURING A WEEK OF RIOTING IN SEPTEMBER WHICH FOLLOWED AN INCREASE IN BUS FARES. GUATEMALAN POLICE REACTED WITH MARKED CONSTRAINT DURING THESE DISTURBANCES, AND THOSE ARRESTED WERE QUICKLY BROUGHT BEFORE JUDGES AND PROVIDED ACCESS TO LEGAL COUNSEL. MOST WERE PROMPTLY RELEASED, AND WITHIN TWO WEEKS ONLY TWENTY PEOPLE REMAINED IN

ALTHOUGH THERE IS LITTLE OVERT MILITARY INTERFERENCE IN THE COURTS' OPERATION, JUDICIAL OFFICERS RECOGNIZE THE NEED TO RESPOND TO INDICATIONS OF SPECIAL INTEREST IN PARTICULAR CASES BY HIGH GOVERNMENT OR MILITARY OFFICIALS. THE PRACTICAL EFFECT OF SUCH "INFLUENCE" IS THAT THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM IS UNABLE TO RESPOND TO OFFICIAL HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS.

RIGHT TO LEGAL COUNSEL AT ALL HEARINGS, AND LAWYERS ARE PROVIDED BY THE STATE IF THE DEFENDENTS CANNOT AFFORD THEM. HOWEVER, THE LAWYERS PROVIDED ARE USUALLY LAW STUDENTS. ALSO, THE MAJORITY OF THE NATION'S LAWYERS LIVE NEAR GUATEMALA CITY, AND IT IS DIFFICULT TO RETAIN LEGAL COUNSEL IN THE COUNTRYSIDE. DEFENDENTS MAY BE RELEASED AFTER POSTING BAIL AT THE DISCRETION OF THE MAGISTRATE. HOWEVER, THE JUDICIAL MACHINARY IS CUMBERSOME AND SLOW AND IT IS NOT UNUSUAL FOR DEFENDENTS TO SPEND SEVERAL MONTHS IN PRISON BEFORE THE COURTS RENDER A DECISION ON THEIR GUILT OR INNOCENCE.

IN 1985, THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY AUTHORED NEW LAWS OF HABEAS CORPUS AND AMPARO WHICH GO INTO EFFECT JANUARY 14, 1985, WITH THE NEW CONSTITUTION, UPON THE INAUGURATION OF THE CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT.

INVIOLABILITY OF THE HOME, AND OF PERSONAL

CORRESPONDENCE AND PRIVATE PAPERS. DURING 1985, THE GOVERNMENT CONTINUED TO SET UP ROADBLOCKS IN THE INTERIOR TO CHECK DOCUMENTS OF TRAVELERS AND TO SEARCH VEHICLES FOR SECURITY REASONS. THE TREASURY POLICE ALSO USED ROADBLOCKS TO SEARCH FOR CONTRABAND AND INTERDICT SMUGGLING ACROSS GUATEMALA'S FOUR BORDERS. OCCASIONALLY, SECURITY FORCES HAVE ENTERED HOMES WITHOUT WARRANTS IN SEARCH OF GUERRILLA SAFEHOUSES AND ARMS CACHES. ALSO, GOVERNMENT SECURITY AGENT

PARTICULAR TARGET OF MAIL THEFT. IN SEPTEMBER, THE GOVERNMENT INITIATED A NEW MAIL HANDLING SYSTEM TO COUNTER SUCH THIEVERY. THERE HAVE ALSO BEEN ALLEGATIONS OF MAIL TAMPERING AND TELEPHONE TAPPING BY SECURITY FORCES.

THERE IS NO ORGANIZED SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT INFORMERS OR NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH COMMITTEES IN URBAN AREAS. HOWEVER, CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS HAVE SERVED AS A MEANS OF REASSERTING GOVERNMENT CONTROL OVER THE COUNTRYSIDE. THE INVOLVEMENT OF LARGE SEGMENTS OF THE RURAL POPULATION OBVIOUSLY CONTRIBUTES TO THE GOVERNMENT'S ABILITY TO MONITOR THE MOVEMENT OF ITS CITIZENS, AN IMPORTANT FUNCTION OF THE CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL IN COUNTERING THE INSURGENCY. GUERRILLA ORGANIZATIONS HAVE ACCUSED MILITARY COMMISSIONERS - RURAL CIVILIAN REPRESENTATIVES OF THE MILITARY - AS WELL AS OTHER RURAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES OF BEING "INFORMERS" OR "EARS," AND HAVE ASSASSINATED A NUMBER OF SUCH PERSONS.

DURING THE SEPTEMBER RIOTS IN THE CAPITAL, ARMY UNITS OCCUPIED THE NATIONAL UNIVERSITY CAMPUS FOR ABOUT 24 HOURS AND MADE AN UNAUTHORIZED, EXHAUSTIVE SEARCH OF UNIVERSITY RECORDS AND ARCHIVES, APPARENTLY SEIZING DOCUMENTS RELATING TO STUDENT IDENTITY AND BACKGROUND. THE EVENT WAS UNIVERSALLY CONDEMNED IN GUATEMALA AS AN ABUSIVE VIOLATION OF UNIVERSITY AUTONOMY.

THE GOVERNMENT AFFIRMS THESE RIGHTS AND NO MAJOR ABUSES WERE REPORTED IN 1985. THERE WERE NO INDICATIONS OF ANY ATTEMPT TO PREVENT THE MEDIA FROM FREELY AIRING DIVERSE VIEWPOINTS AND ACTIVELY COVERING THE SPECTRUM OF POLITICAL OPINION DURING THE ELECTION. IN FACT, THERE WERE CONCERNS THAT THE CLOSE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PARTS OF THE MEDIA AND SOME CANDIDATES MIGHT THREATEN THE "INDEPENDENT" STANCE OF THE MEDIA. JORGE CARPIO, PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE OF THE NATIONAL UNION OF THE CENTER PARTY, IS ALSO THE PUBLISHER OF EL GRAFICO, A LEADING GUATEMALAN DAILY NEWSPAPER. ALSO, MARIO DAVID GARCIA, PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE OF THE NATIONALIST AUTHENTIC CENTRAL PARTY, IS MANAGING EDITOR OF AQUI EL MUNDO, A MAJOR TELEVISION NEWS PROGRAM.

THIS SITUATION CONTRASTS SHARPLY WITH THAT OF RECENT YEARS, WHEN NEWSPAPER REPORTERS AND BROADCAST JOURNALISTS WERE FREQUENT TARGETS OF POLITICAL VIOLENCE. LINGERING FEARS STILL SERVE TO LIMIT PRESS FREEDOMS SOMEWHAT. WHILE OPPOSITION VIEWS AND EVEN SHARP CRITICISM OF THE GOVERNMENT ARE AIRED FREELY, JOURNALISTIC SELF-RESTRAINT RESULTS IN ONLY PERFUNCTORY COVERAGE OF SUCH TOPICS AS THE MILITARY, NATIONAL SECURITY, OFFICIAL CORRUPTION, POLICE INVESTIGATIONS, AND SOME JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS. JOURNALISTS ARE NOT PREVENTED FROM ENTERING OR COVERING NEWSWORTHY EVENTS IN CONFLICTIVE ZONES, BUT THEY RARELY DO SO. GUERRILLA ORGANIZATIONS AND CIVIL RIGHTS GROUPS HAVE ACCESS TO THE MEDIA THROUGH COMMUNIQUES AND MANIFESTOS, THE GOVERNMENT NO LONGER PREVENTING THEIR PUBLICATION. IN JUNE, A RADIO REPORTER, THE SON OF A RADIO PROGRAM DIRECTOR, WAS SHOT AND KILLED BY UNIDENTIFIED ASSAILANTS IN GUATEMALA CITY. THERE WAS NO EVIDENCE THAT LINKED THE REPORTER'S MURDER TO HIS PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES. NICHOLAS BLAKE, AN AMERICAN FREELANCE REPORTER, AND GRIFFITH DAVIS, AN AMERICAN LIVING IN GUATEMALA, DISAPPEARED IN MARCH IN WESTERN EL QUICHE NEAR SUMAL, A GUERRILLA STRONGHOLD. THEY HAD APPARENTLY INTENDED TO INTERVIEW INSURGENT FORCES.

RADIO IS GUATEMALA'S MOST PERVASIVE MEDIUM, WITH OVER 100 PRIVATELY OWNED STATIONS OPERATING THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY. THE GOVERNMENT OWNS AND OPERATES SIX RADIO STATIONS, AND ONE TELEVISION STATION, WHICH BROADCAST A VARIETY OF NEWS, EDUCATIONAL, AND ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAMS. FOUR MAJOR INDEPENDENT DAILY NEWSPAPERS ARE PUBLISHED IN THE CAPITAL. THE GOVERNMENT

THERE IS NO CENSORSHIP OF EITHER LOCAL OR FOREIGN BOOKS IN GUATEMALA, BUT A FEW LOCAL WRITERS AND ARTISTS CONTINUE TO LIVE AND WORK IN SELF-EXILE. IN MARCH, IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS CONFISCATED SEVERAL PUBLICATIONS THAT A FOREIGN PRIEST BROUGHT INTO GUATEMALA. AUTHORITIES CLAIMED THE PUBLICATIONS WERE MARXIST LITERATURE, BUT LATER RETURNED THEM TO THE CLERIC.

B. FREEDOM OF PEACEFUL ASSEMBLY AND ASSOCIATION

THE BASIC STATUTE OF GOVERNMENT AFFIRMS THE RIGHTS OF PETITION, ASSEMBLY, AND POLITICAL ASSOCIATION. THESE RIGHTS HAVE BEEN RESPECTED AND REAFFIRMED THROUGH THE PROCESS OF DEMOCRATIZATION THAT BEGAN WITH THE ELECTIONS FOR THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY IN JULY, 1984, THE POLITICAL ACTIVITIES WHICH FOLLOWED THAT ELECTION, AND THE ELECTION OF A CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT IN NOVEMBER OF 1985.

TWELVE POLITICAL PARTIES MET THE LEGAL REQUIREMENTS TO PRESENT CANDIDATES FOR ELECTION. POLITICALLY, THESE PARTIES CROSS THE SPECTRUM FROM DEMOCRATIC SOCIALISTS ON THE LEFT TO EXTREME CONSERVATIVES ON THE RIGHT.

BEGINNING WITH THE 1984 CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS, AND CONTINUING THROUGH THE GENERAL ELECTIONS OF NOVEMBER, 1985, FREEDOM OF POLITICAL ASSEMBLY HAS BEEN RESPECTED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

ALTHOUGH FEW POLITICAL GATHERINGS WERE STRUCK BY VIOLENCE, NONE WAS LINKED TO THE GOVERNMENT, AND NO SERIOUS CHARGES LEVELED OF GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE.

THE BASIC STATUTE OF GOVERNMENT ALSO RECOGNIZES THE RIGHTS OF WORKERS TO ORGANIZE AND STRIKE IN CONFORMITY WITH THE GUATEMALAN LABOR CODE, WHICH

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

REQUIRES A PROCESS OF NEGOTIATIONS AND CONCILIATION BEFORE A LEGAL WALKOUT CAN TAKE PLACE. THESE PROCEDURES OFTEN MAKE IT DIFFICULT TO CALL A LEGAL STRIKE. HOWEVER, THE NEW CONSTITUTION WHICH WILL GO INTO EFFECT ON JANUARY 14, 1986, SPECIFICALLY EXPANDS WORKERS' RIGHTS, INCLUDING FOR THE FIRST TIME THE RIGHT TO ORGANIZE FOR GOVERNMENT WORKERS. THE NEW CONSTITUTION WILL REQUIRE A REVISION OF THE LABOR CODE WHICH IS EXPECTED TO BE SIGNIFICANTLY LESS RESTRICTIVE.

CURRENTLY, GUATEMALAN WORKERS HAVE THE RIGHT OF FREE ASSOCIATION AND THE RIGHT TO ORGANIZE AND BARGAIN COLLECTIVELY. THEY ARE PROTECTED BY LAWS WHICH ESTABLISH MINIMUM WAGES, MINIMUM WORKING AGE, MAXIMUM WORK HOURS, AND ATTEMPT TO ESTABLISH MINIMUM SAFETY STANDARDS AT THE WORK PLACE. HOWEVER, THESE REGULATIONS ARE OFTEN IGNORED BY EMPLOYERS, AND THE GOVERNMENT'S ABILITY TO ENFORCE THESE LAWS IS LESS THAN ADEQUATE.

COMPULSORY LABOR IS PROHIBITED BY LAW. THE ONLY EXCEPTION IS THE USE OF CONVICT LABOR FOR STATE RELATED PROJECTS.

THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY 300 ACTIVE LABOR UNIONS IN THE COUNTRY. THE LARGEST AND MOST SIGNIFICANT LEGALLY RECOGNIZED LABOR ORGANIZATION IS THE AFL-CIO

ALTHOUGH LOCAL AFFILIATES OF THESE ORGANIZATIONS ARE OFTEN ACTIVE IN LABOR DISPUTES, THE TWO PARENT GROUPS ARE NOT ACTIVE IN GUATEMALA. HOWEVER, THEY ISSUE PRESS BULLETINS AND MANIFESTOS FROM OUTSIDE THE COUNTRY.

DURING 1985, THERE WERE SEVERAL PENDING COMPLAINTS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT OF GUATEMALA BEFORE THE ILO'S COMMITTEE ON FREEDOM OF ASSOCIATION ABOUT ABDUCTIONS

PAGE 02 GUATEM 11608 09 OF 15 122013Z

OF GUATEMALAN TRADE UNION LEADERS AND LEGAL ADVISORS. THESE COMPLAINTS HAD BEEN FILED BY THE INTERNATIONAL CONFEDERATION OF FREE TRADE UNIONS (ICFTU) AND BY THE LATIN AMERICAN PERMANENT WORKER'S CONGRESS (CPUTAL). ALSO, THE ILO CITED GUATEMALA FOR NONCOMPLIANCE WITH CONVENTIONS 87 AND 98, WHICH AFFIRM PUBLIC WORKERS' RIGHT TO STRIKE AND THE RIGHT OF UNIONS TO ENGAGE IN PARTISAN POLITICAL ACTIVITIES.

ASIDE FROM TRADE UNIONS, THERE ARE NUMEROUS PROFESSIONAL AND TRADE ASSOCIATIONS IN GUATEMALA. THESE GROUPS OPERATE AUTONOMOUSLY, WITHOUT GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE, AND OFTEN EXERCISE CONSIDERABLE POLITICAL INFLUENCE.

IN 1985, LABOR LEADERS CONTINUED TO BE TARGETS OF VIOLENCE. IN MARCH, ALFREDO CASTILLO JIMENEZ, AN AGRICULTURAL LABOR LEADER, WAS KILLED IN FRONT OF UNION HEADQUARTERS IN JUTIAPA, DEPARTMENT OF JUTIAPA. THE SON OF THE CSUG'S SECRETARY GENERAL WAS KIDNAPPED BY UNIDENTIFIED PERSONS AND THEN RELEASED, AS, APPARENTLY, WAS JULIO CELSO DE LEON, HEAD OF THE INSTITUTE OF STUDIES AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT (IGEFOS), PART OF THE AMERICAN WORKERS' CENTRAL (CLAT). THOUGH VIOLENCE AGAINST LABOR LEADERS HAS DROPPED CONSIDERABLY, THE HEAD OF ONE UNION CLAIMED THAT THE "CLIMATE OF VIOLENCE" CONTINUED TO INHIBIT UNION ACTIVITY.

THE BASIC STATUTE OF GOVERNMENT RECOGNIZES THE INDIVIDUAL'S RIGHT TO FREEDOM OF CONSCIENCE AND TO

FREE EXERCISE OF RELIGION. THESE RIGHTS ARE RESPECTED IN PRACTICE. THE STATUTE ALSO GRANTS LEGAL RECOGNITION TO ALL DENOMINATIONS.

MORE THAN 70 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION PRACTICES THE ROMAN CATHOLIC FAITH. MANY INDIANS, HOWEVER, PRACTICE RELIGION WHICH COMBINES ROMAN CATHOLIC TENETS WITH ELEMENTS OF THE TRADITIONAL MAYAN RELIGION. EVANGELICAL CHURCHES HAVE GROWN RAPIDLY, ESPECIALLY AMONG INDIANS, AND THEIR FOLLOWERS NUMBER ABOUT ONE-QUARTER OF THE POPULATION. IN ADDITION, THERE IS A SMALL JEWISH COMMUNITY.

FOREIGN CATHOLIC CLERGY AND RELIGIOUS WORKERS ACTIVELY PROSELYTIZE IN GUATEMALA. FOREIGN PROTESTANT EVANGELICAL CLERGY HAVE BEEN JOINED IN THEIR EFFORTS BY LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES OF GUATEMALA'S GROWING EVANGELICAL MOVEMENT. ONE RESULT OF THIS RELIGIOUS MIX HAS BEEN SOME TENSIONS BETWEEN CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS.

CATHOLICS AND EVANGELICALS ARE FREELY PERMITTED TO PREACH THE GOSPEL AND TO DEVELOP CONGREGATIONS. HOWEVER, SOME HAVE REPORTED MISUNDERSTANDINGS WITH LOCAL AUTHORITIES OVER CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL DUTIES. ALTHOUGH AUTHORITIES DENY ANY DELIBERATE POLICY OF DISCRIMINATION, EVANGELICALS NEVERTHELESS HAVE CHARGED CASES OF INTIMIDATION BY THE NATIONAL POLICE

AND OTHER GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS. IN JANUARY, FIVE EVANGELICAL MINISTERS WERE ABDUCTED IN THE DEPARTMENT OF EL PETEN. PRESS REPORTS ATTRIBUTED THE KIDNAPPINGS TO PERSECUTION BY MILITARY COMMISSIONERS. IN MARCH, A GUATEMALAN MENNONITE SOCIAL PROMOTER WAS KILLED IN SANTIAGO SACATEPEQUEZ, DEPARTMENT OF CHUMALTENANGO. IN A CASE WHICH DREW

THE UNITED NATIONS HIGH COMMISSION FOR REFUGEES ESTIMATED THAT APPROXIMATELY 46,000 GUATEMALAN REFUGEES, MOSTLY INDIANS FROM AREAS AFFLICTED BY INSURGENT ACTIVITIES, HAD SOUGHT REFUGE IN MEXICO, PRIMARILY IN THE BORDER AREAS OF THE STATE OF CHIAPAS. THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT HAS ACCEPTED THIS FIGURE AS ACCURATE. SINCE 1982, THE GOVERNMENT HAS FOLLOWED A POLICY OF ENCOURAGING "VOLUNTARY AND ORDERLY" REPATRIATION OF ALL REFUGEES AND ASSISTING THEIR REINTEGRATION INTO THE COUNTRY. IN A SPEECH TO THE 1985 UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY, GUATEMALAN FOREIGN MINISTER FERNANDO ANDRADE SAID "THE INFRASTRUCTURE" IS IN PLACE TO PROVIDE RETURNING REFUGEES WITH SECURITY, HOUSING, FOOD, AND THE OPPORTUNITY TO BECOME PRODUCTIVE MEMBERS OF SOCIETY. THE GOVERNMENT TRIES TO RETURN REFUGEES TO THEIR FORMER VILLAGES. HOWEVER, IN CASES WHERE THIS IS IMPOSSIBLE, DUE EITHER TO THE DESTRUCTION OF THE VILLAGE OR FEARS THE REFUGEES MIGHT HAVE OF REPRISALS, THE GOVERNMENT PLACES THEM IN ONE OF THE MODEL VILLAGES IN THE "POLOS DE DESARROLLO" OR RURAL RESETTLEMENT PROGRAM.
FOLLOWING A GENERAL DECLINE IN GUERRILLA ACTIVITY, AND THE DECISION BY MEXICO TO RELOCATE THE REFUGEES NEAR THE BAY OF CAMPECHE, AWAY FROM THE BORDER, REFUGEES BEGAN TO RETURN TO GUATEMALA. THE NUMBER OF REFUGEES WHO RETURNED IN 1985 IS DIFFICULT TO ESTIMATE, SINCE MOST RETURNED IN SMALL GROUPS AND ENTERED GUATEMALA THE WAY THEY LEFT, CLANDESTINELY. SOME INTERNATIONAL REFUGEE ASSISTANCE ORGANIZATIONS ESTIMATE THAT 3,000 REFUGEES RETURNED TO GUATEMALA IN

1985. THE GUATEMALAN ARMY NOTED THAT, DURING THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1985, 236 RETURNING REFUGEES SOUGHT THE ASSISTANCE OF THE MILITARY IN THE DEPARTMENT OF HUEHUETENANGO.

SOME FOREIGN CLERGY FAMILIAR WITH THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS OF GUATEMALA CONTEND THAT IT IS NOT SAFE FOR MANY REFUGEES TO RETURN. THEY ASSERT THAT THE REFUGEES WILL BE IDENTIFIED AS GUERRILLAS AND KILLED. THE GOVERNMENT DENIES THIS, POINTING OUT THAT MANY TOWNS NEAR THE MEXICAN BORDER, SUCH AS NENTON IN THE DEPARTMENT OF HUEHUETENANGO, ARE LARGELY POPULATED WITH PEOPLE WHO RETURNED SAFELY FROM REFUGEE CAMPS IN MEXICO. CIVIL DEFENSE PATROL LEADERS IN TOWNS ALONG THE BORDER TOLD UNITED STATES EMBASSY OFFICIALS IN OCTOBER THAT THOSE REFUGEES WHO WERE NOT PART OF THE INSURGENCY HAVE NOTHING TO FEAR IN GUATEMALA. HOWEVER, THEY DID SAY THAT REFUGEES WHO HAD BEEN ACTIVE INSURGENTS AND HAD KILLED PEOPLE WOULD NOT BE WELCOMED, AND COULD EXPECT TO BE TREATED IN THE SAME MANNER THEY TREATED THEIR FELLOW VILLAGERS BEFORE FLEEING.

SOME GROUPS HAVE CHARGED THAT THE MODEL VILLAGE PROGRAM VIOLATES THE RIGHT OF FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT BY HERDING PEOPLE INTO "CONCENTRATION CAMPS." THIS CHARACTERIZATION IS REJECTED BY INHABITANTS OF THE MODEL VILLAGES AND MOST OBSERVERS WHO HAVE VISITED THEM. WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE TWO VILLAGES WHICH ACT AS "HALF-WAY" HOUSES FOR ONCE-ACTIVE INSURGENTS, THERE IS NO OFFICIAL POLICY OF IMPEDING MOVEMENT INTO OR OUT OF THE VILLAGES. HOWEVER, IN CONFLICTIVE ZONES A "PASS" SYSTEM IS OPERATED BY CIVIL DEFENSE PATROLS TO PREVENT GUERRILLAS INFILTRATION.

IN ADDITION TO THE REFUGEES WHO SOUGHT HAVEN IN MEXICO, A MAJOR BY-PRODUCT OF THE INSURGENCY WAS THE INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT OF AS MANY AS 400,000 PERSONS SINCE 1981. BOTH GOVERNMENT AND PRIVATE AGENCIES WORKING WITH DISPLACED PERSONS AGREE THAT THE NUMBER IS NOW SUBSTANTIALLY BELOW THAT FIGURE. THE GUATE-MALAN ARMY NOTES THAT 244 DISPLACED PERSONS APPLIED FOR ASSISTANCE AT MODEL VILLAGES IN THE DEPARTMENTS OF EL QUICHE AND ALTA VERAPAZ DURING THE FIRST SIX MONTH OF 1985. THIS COMPARES WITH 731 IN 1984, AND 975 IN 1983. VARIOUS GOVERNMENT PROGRAMS HAVE PROVIDED ASSISTANCE TO ALMOST ALL THE DISPLACED AND THE PERMANENT RESETTLEMENT OF THE MAJORITY.

INSURGENT GROUPS CONTINUED TO SET UP ROADBLOCKS AROUND GUATEMALA, EXTRACTING WAR TAXES AND HARANGUING THE PEOPLE THEY STOPPED. THEY CARRIED OUT SEVERAL AMBUSHES ON ROADS SOUTH OF LAKE ATITLAN, ROBBING AND KILLING SEVERAL CIVILIANS. IN OCTOBER, THEY ALSO OCCUPIED TIKAL, A PRIME TOURIST ATTRACTION.

FOLLOWING A PATTERN THAT BEGAN UNDER THE RIOS MONTT GOVERNMENT IN 1982, GUATEMALANS LIVING IN VOLUNTARY EXILE CONTINUED TO RETURN TO THE COUNTRY IN 1985. FOR INSTANCE, MEMBERS OF THE FORMERLY PERSECUTED DEMOCRATIC SOCIALST PARTY RETURNED TO GUATEMALA AND PARTICIPATED IN THE NOVEMBER, 1985, ELECTIONS. IN ONE CASE OF NOTE, HOWEVER, A GROUP OF KANJOBAL INDIANS LIVING IN INDIANTOWN, FLORIDA, HAVE FOUGHT

DEPORTATION FROM THE UNITED STATES, CLAIMING THAT THEY WILL BE PERSECUTED IF RETURNED TO GUATEMALA.

SECTION 3 RESPECT FOR POLITICAL RIGHTS: THE RIGHT OF - CITIZENS TO CHANGE THEIR GOVERNMENT

GUATEMALA WAS RULED THROUGHOUT 1985 BY A DE FACTO MILITARY CONTROLLED GOVERNMENT WHICH TOOK POWER FOLLOWING A COUP ON AUGUST 8, 1983. THE CHIEF OF STATE, GENERAL OSCAR HUMBERTO MEJIA VICTORES, GOVERNED WITH THE ADVICE AND CONSENT OF A COUNCIL OF MILITARY COMMANDERS AND A CABINET OF MINISTERS COMPOSED OF BOTH MILITARY OFFICERS AND CIVILIANS. THE GOVERNMENT ADHERED TO THE PREVIOUSLY SET SCHEDULE FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF DEMOCRATIC, CIVILIAN RULE.

CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS TOOK PLACE AS PLANNED ON JULY 1, 1984. 1,157 CANDIDATES RAN FOR THE 88 SEAT ASSEMBLY. 2,554,000 CITIZENS, OUT OF AN ESTIMATED 3,500,000 ELIGIBLE VOTERS, REGISTERED TO VOTE. OF THESE, 72 PERCENT CAST BALLOTS. DURING 1985, THE ASSEMBLY DRAFTED A NEW CONSTITUTION, PRESENTING ITS WORK TO THE GUATEMALAN PEOPLE ON MAY 31. THE NEW CONSTITUTION WILL GO INTO EFFECT ON JANUARY 14, 1986, WHEN THE CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT IS INAUGURATED. IT GUARANTEES INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS AND PROVIDES FOR A HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION TO BE COMPOSED OF A DEPUTY FROM EACH POLITICAL PARTY REPRESENTED IN CONGRESS. CONGRESS WILL SELECT A HUMAN RIGHTS PROCURADOR" OR OMBUDSMAN FROM CANDIDATES PROPOSED BY THE COMMISSION. THE PROCURADOR WILL HAVE JUDICIAL POWERS AND THE PREROGATIVES OF A MEMBER OF CONGRESS AND WILL BE EMPOWERED TO ENFORCE CONSTITUTIONALLY GUARANTEED HUMAN RIGHTS. THE ASSEMBLY ALSO DRAFTED A NEW ELECTORAL LAW, AND NEW LAWS OF HABEAS CORPUS AND AMPARO.

THE GOVERNMENT HELD NATIONAL ELECTIONS ON NOVEMBER 3, 1985. THERE WERE 2,750,000 CITIZENS REGISTERED TO VOTE IN THE GENERAL ELECTIONS, AN INCREASE OF 250,000 OVER THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS. (HA NOTE: A DESCRIPTION OF THE ELECTION RESULTS WILL BE FORTHCOMING.)

HUMAN RIGHTS LAW GROUP; THE NICARAGUA-HONDURAS EDUCATION PROJECT; PEACE BRIGADES INTERNATIONAL; THE UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST SERVICE COMMITTEE; THE WASHINGTON OFFICE ON LATIN AMERICA; AND FRENCH AND GERMAN PARLIAMENTARIANS.

THE UNITED NATIONS SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, VISCOUNT COLVILLE, VISITED GUATEMALA IN FEBRUARY AND AUGUST OF 1985. HE MET WITH THE CHIEF OF STATE, THE FOREIGN MINISTER, THE MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, THE PRESIDENT

OF THE SUPREME COURT, THE SUPREME ELECTORAL TRIBUNAL, AND THE AUXILIARY ARCHBISHOP. ALSO, HE TRAVELED TO THE INTERIOR. MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP REPRESENTATIVES CHOSE NOT TO MEET WITH HIM. IN PUBLIC STATEMENTS, VISCOUNT COLVILLE DECLARED THAT THE PROCESS OF DEMOCRATIZATION WAS ON TRACK AND THAT HE LOOKED FORWARD TO THE ELECTIONS WITH "GREAT ENTHUSIASM." HE EXPRESSED CONCERN ABOUT THE UNSOLVED DISAPPEARANCES AND KILLINGS, BUT SAID THAT THE HUMAN RIGHTS

[redacted] UNCLASSIFIED

SITUATION CONTINUED TO IMPROVE AND SUGGESTED THAT SUCH PROGRESS SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED. HE FOUND NO EVIDENCE OF SECRET JAILS OR CLANDESTINE INTERROGATION CENTERS.

IN MARCH, 1985, THE UNITED NATIONS HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION ADOPTED A RESOLUTION ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN GUATEMALA. WHILE ACKNOWLEDGING THE PROCESS OF DEMOCRATIZATION AND THE EFFORT OF THE GOVERNMENT TO CURB EXCESSES, AND RECOGNIZING THE ROLE THE INSURGENTS PLAYED IN CREATING A CLIMATE OF INTIMIDATION, THE RESOLUTION WAS GENERALLY CRITICAL. THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT ABSTAINED FROM VOTING ON THE RESOLUTION, CALLING IT UNBALANCED AND CRITICIZING AS INACCURATE THE RESOLUTION'S REFERENCE TO FORCED CIVIL PATROL DUTIES AND RELOCATION OF GUATEMALANS.

HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS CONTINUED TO CRITICIZE HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN GUATEMALA IN 1985. AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL, IN ITS 1985 REPORT ON GUATEMALA, CHARGED THAT PARAMILITARY GROUPS "ACTING UNDER GOVERNMENT ORDERS OR WITH OFFICIAL COMPLICITY (THE SO-CALLED 'DEATH SQUADS') - WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR MASSIVE HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS, INCLUDING ARBITRARY ARREST, TORTURE, 'DISAPPEARANCE' AND EXTRAJUDICIAL EXECUTIONS." WHILE ACKNOWLEDGING THAT MANY PEASANTS HAD DIED IN GUERRILLA ATTACKS, AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL CLAIMED THAT "THE MAJORITY OF KILLINGS AND OTHER ABUSES OF NON-COMBATANT CIVILIANS WERE CARRIED OUT BY UNIFORMED AND PLAINCLOTHED MILITARY AND SECURITY AGENTS ACTING UNDER ORDERS." THE EXAMPLES AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL GAVE TO SUPPORT ITS CONCLUSION NEARLY ALL CAME FROM 1984, AND THE REPORT MADE ONLY PASSING LIMITED OFFICIAL USE

AMERICA'S WATCH CLAIMED IN A REPORT ISSUED IN SEPTEMBER, 1985, THAT THE "HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION UNDER GENERAL MEJIA WAS NO BETTER THAN UNDER GENERAL RIOS MONTT," AND THAT "DEATH SQUAD KILLINGS AND DISAPPEARANCES IN THE CITIES, WHICH HAD DECLINED UNDER RIOS, SHOT UP." THE REPORT CONTINUED, "MUTILATED CORPSES ONCE AGAIN LITTERED THE STREETS OF GUATEMALA CITY OR APPEARED IN MORGUES AROUND THE COUNTRY WHERE DESPERATE RELATIVES GATHERED IN THE HOPES OF CLAIMING THE BODY OF A DISAPPEARED LOVED ONE." AMERICA'S WATCH ACCUSED THE UNITED STATES STATE DEPARTMENT OF "WHITEWASHING" THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN GUATEMALA, AND EXPRESSED LITTLE HOPE THAT A CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT COULD IMPROVE THE SITUATION.

THE WASHINGTON OFFICE ON LATIN AMERICA (WOLA), IN ITS AUGUST, 1985, REPORT, "SECURITY AND DEVELOPMENT IN THE GUATEMALAN HIGHLANDS," SAID THE "RHETORIC WITH WHICH THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT PRESENTS ITS SECURITY AND DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS IS LAUDABLE AND CONTAINS MANY POSITIVE ELEMENTS." HOWEVER, THE REPORT WENT ON TO CONCLUDE THAT THE CIVIL PATROL SYSTEM AND SOME MODEL VILLAGES "ENTAIL CONTINUOUS AND WIDESPREAD VIOLATIONS OF CIVIL AND LABOR RIGHTS." WOLA SAID THE GUATEMALAN MILITARY'S "HISTORY OF RUTHLESSNESS AND ITS CONTROL OVER PEOPLE, INSTITUTIONS AND RESOURCES COUPLED WITH THE DESTRUCTION AND DISLOCATION IN THE HIGHLANDS (AND THE CONSEQUENT SWELLING OF THE MARGINALIZED POPULATIONS IN URBAN AREAS) RAISES SERIOUS CONSIDERATIONS ABOUT THE USE OF BILATERAL AND MULTILATERAL RESOURCES PROVIDED BY THE U.S.

IN A WOLA SPONSORED CONFERENCE ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN GUATEMALA, HELD IN WASHINGTON, D.C., IN OCTOBER, LORD AVEBURY, CHARIMAN OF THE BRITISH PARLIAMENTARY HUMAN RIGHTS GROUP, SAID THE "ELECTION OF A CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY HAD MADE NO DIFFERENCE WHATSOEVER" IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION. HE CHARACTERIZED THE CIVIL DEFENSE SYSTEM AS "THE ONLY EXAMPLE IN RECORDED HISTORY WHERE AN ARMY OF OCCUPATION HAS BEEN FORGED OUT OF A NATIVE POPULATION." QUOTING FIGURES FROM THE GUATEMALAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, A FRONT FOR THE GUERRILLA GROUP, THE REVOLUTIONARY ORGANIZATION OF PEOPLE IN ARMS (ORPA), AVEBURY SAID THAT 548 EXTRAJUDICAL KILLINGS HAD BEEN REPORTED IN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1985, AND THAT TWICE AS MANY HAD GONE UNREPORTED. THE "DEMOCRATIC OPENING," AVEBURY ASSERTED, HAD TO BE EVALUATED IN LIGHT OF THIS INFORMATION.

DEMOSTRATIONS IN GUATEMALA CITY AND THE PEACEFUL OCCUPATION OF THE NATIONAL CONGRESS BUILDING AND SOME GOVERNMENT EXECUTIVE OFFICE BUILDINGS. IN MARCH, FOLLOWING ONE "OCCUPATION," A GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN WARNED GAM TO OBEY THE LAW. SHORTLY THEREAFTER, THE CHIEF OF STATE SAID GAM WAS BEING UNWITTINGLY MANIPULATED BY SUBVERSIVES. FOLLOWING THIS ACC
USATION, THE DEATH OF HECTOR GOMEZ CALITO AND ROSARIO GODOY DE CUEVAS, DESCRIBED ABOVE, TOOK PLACE. DEAD ALONG WITH DE CUEVAS WERE HER CHILD AND BROTHER. THESE KILLINGS LED TO A GAM-LED PROTEST MARCH IN GUATEMALA CITY WHICH ATTRACTED INTERNATIONAL ATTENTION. SHORTLY THEREAFTER, GAM CALLED FOR A PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION IN FRONT OF THE U.S. EMBASSY, AND PUBLISHED AN AD IN A LEADING GUATEMALAN DAILY NEWSPAPER WHICH BITTERLY CONTRASTED THE ATTENTION THE ELECTIONS WERE RECEIVING WITH THEIR INABILITY TO GET AN ACCOUNTING OF THE FATE OF THEIR MISSING RELATIVES FROM THE GOVERNMENT.

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL, AND CULTURAL SITUATION

GUATEMALA HAS A POPULATION OF OVER EIGHT MILLION, BUT ONLY A SMALL PORTION ENJOYS A HIGH STANDARD OF LIVING. LIKE MOST CENTRAL AMERICAN COUNTRIES, GUATEMALA HAS SHARP ECONOMIC CLASS DISTINCTIONS. THE

PAGE 03 GUATEM 11608 13 OF 15 122024Z

GUATEMALAN ECONOMIC ELITE IS MINUTE, PERHAPS 1 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION. THIS ELITE CONTROLS A SIGNIFICANT PORTION OF THE COMMERCIAL, AGRICULTURAL, AND FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF THE COUNTRY: APPROXIMATELY 50 PERCENT OF PRIVATE INVESTMENT, 20 PERCENT OF COFFEE PRODUCTION, AND 100 PERCENT OF THE LARGEST INDUSTRIES. THE GUATEMALAN MIDDLE CLASS ACCOUNTS FOR LESS THAN 20 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION. TOGETHER, THE UPPER AND MIDDLE CLASSES RECEIVE TWO-THIRDS OF TOTAL INCOME. THIS MEANS THAT 80 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION RECEIVES ONLY A THIRD OF TOTAL INCOME. ACCORDING TO THE LATEST AVAILABLE FIGUEES, 21 PERCENT OF THE URBAN POPULATION AND 25 PERCENT OF THE RURAL POPULATION WERE BELOW THE POVERTY LINE.

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE, HOWEVER, THAT THE ATTEMPT TO DIVIDE GUATEMALAN SOCIETY INTO ECONOMIC CLASSES IS DISTORTED BY THE DUAL NATURE OF THE ECONOMY. THE GUATEMALAN ECONOMY IS DIVIDED INTO TRADITIONAL AND MODERN SECTORS. THE TRADITIONAL SECTOR IS RURAL AND AGRICULTURAL, AND CONSISTS MOSTLY OF SUSBSISTENCE FARMERS AND FARM LABORERS. OF THE 2,470,000 ECONOMICALLY ACTIVE PEOPLE IN GUATEMALA, APPROXIMATELY 1,482,000 WORK IN THE TRADITONAL SECTOR. THESE PEOPLE EXIST OUTSIDE OR ON THE EDGE OF THE MONIED ECONOMY. IN OTHER WORDS, THEY HAVE LITTLE INCOME AND LIVE DAY-TO-DAY ON THE STRENGTH OF THEIR ABILITY TO PLANT, HARVEST, AND BARTER. THE REMAINING MEMBERS OF THE ECONOMICALLY ACTIVE POPULATION LIVE AND WORK IN THE MODERN SECTOR. THESE PEOPLE WORK, WHEN THEY CAN FIND WORK, IN INDUSTRY, SMALL BUSINESS, AND SERVICES. FOR THE MOST PART, THEY LIVE IN URBAN AREAS AND DO NOT FARM, THOUGH COMMERCIAL FARMERS AND SOME FARM MANAGERS ARE PART OF THE MODERN SECTOR.

THE GUATEMALAN ECONOMY HAS BEEN IN RECESSION SINCE 1980. A COMBINATION OF WORLD-WIDE RECESSION, POLITICAL INSTABILITY IN CENTRAL AMERICA, LOW COMMODITY PRICES IN WORLD MARKETS, AND THE DISRUPTIVE

UNCLASSIFIED

EFFECTS OF THE INSURGENCY ON INTERNAL DEMAND HAVE HAD A DEVASTATING EFFECT ON THE GUATEMALAN ECONOMY. THE UNIT OF CURRENCY, THE QUETZAL, HAS GONE FROM PARITY WITH THE U.S. DOLLAR TO AN EXCHANGE RATE OF NEARLY FOUR TO ONE IN LESS THAN A YEAR. AT PRESENT, INFLATION IS RUNNING AT 60 PERCENT.

GUATEMALA HAS A PER CAPITA INCOME OF USDOLS 1,055. THIS RANKS TENTH AMONG LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS AND SECOND AMONG CENTRAL AMERICAN NATIONS. THOUGH GUATEMALA'S PER CAPITA INCOME HAS FALLEN 14 PERCENT DURING THE LAST THREE YEARS, COSTA RICA IS THE ONLY ISTHMIAN COUNTRY WITH A HIGHER PER CAPITA INCOME.

CURRENTLY, 10-11 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION IS

[redacted]

UNCLASSIFIED

UNEMPLOYED AND 30-40 PERCENT IS UNDEREMPLOYED. IN OTHER WORDS, NEARLY 50 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION IS WITHOUT STEADY WORK. THIS SITUATION IS CHRONIC AND THERE IS LITTLE HOPE FOR CHANGE IN THE NEAR FUTURE. THE GUATEMALAN ECONOMY IS CONTRACTING AND CANNOT EVEN COME CLOSE TO SUPPLYING ENOUGH JOBS FOR THE YOUNG GUATEMALANS WHO ENTER THE WORK FORCE EACH YEAR. IN 1983, THE REAL RATE OF GROWTH WAS -3.2 PERCENT AND EMPLOYMENT FELL BY 5 PERCENT. ONE STUDY ESTIMATES THAT OF THE 75,000 PEOPLE WHO ENTERED THE WORK FORCE IN 1984, ONLY 33,000 WERE ABLE TO FIND EMPLOYMENT. WITH A DECLINING RATE OF REAL GROWTH AND A POPULATION GROWTH RATE OF 3 PERCENT, THIS DISPARITY WILL CONTINUE. THE DESPERATE NATURE OF THIS SITUATION IS BETTER DEFINED BY THE FACT THAT 55 PERCENT OF THE POPULATION IS UNDER 19 YEARS OF AGE.

IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT APPARENTLY NO SECTOR OF THE ECONOMY IS IMMUNE FROM THESE PRESSURES. FOR INSTANCE, 1983 UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURES SHOW THAT THE RATE OF UNEMPLOYMENT WAS 40 PERCENT IN THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR, 31 PERCENT IN THE INDUSTRIAL SECTOR, AND 30 PERCENT IN THE COMMERCIAL SECTOR. WHILE THE UNEDUCATED AND UNSKILLED ARE PROBABLY HIT HARDEST BY THE ECONOMIC CONTRACTION, JOB OPPORTUNITIES HAVE DISAPPEARED AT ALL LEVELS.

IN 1977, THE LATEST YEAR FOR WHICH STATISTICS ARE

ARE GENERALLY POOR IN RURAL AREAS, WHERE AVAILABLE AT ALL. IN 1980, AGAIN THE LATEST YEAR FOR WHICH FIGURES ARE AVAILABLE, 45 PERCENT OF THE TOTAL POPULATION, BUT ONLY 18 PERCENT OF THOSE LIVING IN RURAL AREAS, HAD ACCESS TO SAFE DRINKING WATER. LIFE EXPECTANCY AT BIRTH BARELY ROSE FROM 60.9 YEARS IN 1984 TO 61.03 YEARS IN 1985, BUT THE INFANT MORTALITY RATE HAS RISEN FROM 63 PER 1,000 LIVE BIRTHS TO 67 IN 1985.

GUATEMALA HAS THE THIRD OLDEST UNIVERSITY IN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE, IT ALSO HAS AN ILLITERACY RATE OF 54 PERCENT. ACCORDING TO 1973 STATISTICS, MALE ILLITERACY WAS 46.4 PERCENT, FEMALE 61.5 PERCENT, THE ADULT URBAN POPULATION 28.2 PERCENT, AND THE ADULT RURAL POPULATION 68.6 PERCENT. AS OF 1983, THE ENROLLMENT IN PRIMARY SCHOOL (AS A PERCENTAGE OF PRIMARY SCHOOL CHILDREN) WAS 72 PERCENT WITH MALES 77.34 PERCENT AND FEMALES 66.49 PERCENT. SINCE HALF THE POPULATION OF GUATEMALA ARE INDIANS, WHO LEARN SPANISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE, LITERACY IS A PARTICULARLY DIFFICULT PROBLEM. TO ATTACK IT AND ADDRESS THE EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF THE INDIAN POPULACE, THE GOVERNMENT HAS DEVELOPED A BILINGUAL EDUCATION PROGRAM.

THE GOVERNMENT CONTINUED ITS MODEL VILLAGE PROGRAM KNOWN AS THE "POLES OF DEVELOPMENT." THE PROGRAM IS A JOINT CIVILIAN/MILITARY EFFORT TO RECONSTRUCT AND SETTLE 49 VILLAGES ON OR NEAR THEIR ORIGINAL SITES. THE TOWNS EACH HAVE A POTABLE WATER SUPPLY AND ELECTRICITY, AT LEAST ONE SCHOOL, A CHURCH, POSTAL AND TELEGRAPH SERVICE, PRIVATE BUS SERVICE, AND A HEALTH CLINIC. SOME OF THE MODEL VILLAGES HAVE A

GUATEMALA IS A LATIN SOCIETY IN WHICH MOST WOMEN PLAY TRADITIONAL ROLES; THERE IS NO DISCRIMINATION AGAINST WOMEN BY LAW, BUT DE FACTO DISCRIMINATION IS ROOTED IN CENTURIES OF CULTURAL PRACTICE.

ALTHOUGH FIGURES SHOW THAT OVER ONE-HALF THE FEMALE POPULATION HAS NOT BEEN EDUCATED AND THAT 94 PER CENT OF THE WOMEN RESIDING IN RURAL AREAS HAD LESS THAN THREE YEARS OF SCHOOLING IN 1978, IT IS ESTIMATED THAT 30 PERCENT OF THE STUDENTS ENROLLED IN GUATEMALAN UNIVERSITIES ARE WOMEN. 2. SUMMARY: WE WANT TO ENCOURAGE A MORE BALANCED UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY RESOLUTION ON CHILE THIS YEAR CONSISTENT WITH THE CONSTRUCTIVE REPORT ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE PREPARED BY THE NEW UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON CHILE. THE US IS PREPARED TO SERIOUSLY CONSIDER VOTING IN FAVOR OF SUCH A RESOLUTION PROVIDED THAT OUR CONCERNS ON THE DOUBLE STANDARD ISSUE ARE ADEQUATELY ADDRESSED. ACTION ADDRESSESS ARE REQUESTED TO INFORM APPROPRIATE GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS OF OUR VIEWS AND REPORT REACTIONS. END SUMMARY.

3. IN A FEW WEEKS THE UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY WILL TAKE UP ITS ANNUAL CONSIDERATION OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE UNDER A SPECIAL AGENDA ITEM. THE UNGA IS EXPECTED TO APPROVE AT THAT TIME A RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS 1N CHILE WHICH ALSO COMMENTS ON THE 1985 REPORT OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR CHILE. AS IN PAST YEARS, THE US VOTED AGAINST LAST YEAR'S CHILE RESOLUTION IN THE UN BECAUSE OF THE DOUBLE STANDARD IMPLICIT IN THE TEXT OF THE RESOLUTION. IN ORDER TO RECORD OUR SERIOUS CONCERNS

REGARDING THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE, HOWEVER, THE US REPRESENTATIVE AT THE TIME OF THE VOTE MADE A STATEMENT STRONGLY CRITICAL OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN CHILE AND SUPPORTING THE RETENTION OF A SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR CHILE.

4. OUR OBJECTIVES IN THIS YEAR'S UN CONSIDERATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE REMAIN AS BEFORE: 1) TO EXPRESS OUR CONCERNS ON THE STATUS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE; 2) TO [redacted]

ENCOURAGE THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO RESPOND CONSTRUCTIVELY TO INTERNATIONAL CONCERN ON HUMAN RIGHTS; AND 3) TO INSIST ON EVEN-HANDED AND OBJECTIVE TREATMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS IN ALL COUNTRIES, RATHER THAN SELECTIVE FOCUS ON A FEW SOVIET-TARGETTED CASES.

5. THE REPORT BY THE NEW UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR

CHILE, FERNANDO VOLIO, WHICH WILL BE A PRINCIPAL POINT OF REFERENCE FOR THE RESOLUTION, MAY HAVE INCREASED THE CHANCES THIS YEAR FOR DEVELOPING A BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE. THE VOLIO REPORT IS CRITICAL OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN CHILE BUT AVOIDS THE RHETORICAL EXCESSES OF PAST REPORTS. VOLIO ALREADY HAS ACHIEVED AN IMPORTANT BREAKTHROUGH BY CONVINCING CHILEAN AUTHORITIES TO ALLOW HIM TO VISIT CHILE. HIS VISIT, EXPECTED BEFORE THE END OF THE YEAR, WILL BE THE FIRST MADE BY A UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR DURING THE FIVE YEARS IN WHICH THE OFFICE HAS EXISTED.

6. VOLIO'S BALANCED APPROACH TO HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS IN CHILE MAY PROVIDE THE OPPORTUNITY TO DEVELOP A CONSENSUS AMONG MODERATE LATIN AND EUROPEAN GOVERNMENTS IN FAVOR OF A BALANCED RESOLUTION. OPPOSITION TO ANY MODERATE RESOLUTION MAY BE STIFF, PARTICULARLY FROM THE CUBANS. ANY EFFORTS TO PUT TOGETHER A FAIR RESOLUTION COULD ALSO BE COMPLICATED BY CRITICISM OF THE VOLIO REPORT BY SOME MEMBERS OF THE CHILEAN OPPOSITION, WHO HAVE BRANDED THE REPORT A "WHITEWASH."

7. DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS HAVE URGED CHILEAN OPPOSITION MEMBERS VISITING WASHINGTON TO USE THEIR INFLUENCE TO DEVELOP A MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION. IN SEPARATE MEETINGS NOVEMBER 18 WITH HA ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER AND ARA DAS GELBARD, CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (CHRC) PRESIDENT JAIME CASTILLO ASKED THAT THE US VOTE IN FAVOR OF THIS YEAR'S CHILE RESOLUTION IN THE UN, REPORTEDLY TO

BE INTRODUCED JOINTLY BY SPAIN, VENEZUELA, AND MEXICO. CASTILLO INDICATED THAT DESPITE THE CONCERNS OF CHILEAN OPPOSITION LEADERS THAT THE VOLIO REPORT WAS INADEQUATE, THIS RESOLUTION WOULD APPROVE THE REPORT, AND ACCEPT AS POSITIVE THE GOC DECISION TO PERMIT VOLIO TO VISIT CHILE. CASTILLO SUGGESTED THAT IT SHOULD BE POSSIBLE IN THIS RESOLUTION TO ADDRESS US CONCERNS REGARDING THE LEVEL OF POLEMICS IN PREVIOUS RESOLUTIONS. HE INSISTED, HOWEVER, THAT CHILE BE KEPT AS A SPECIAL CASE FOR THE UN.

8. BOTH SCHIFTER AND GELBARD TOLD CASTILLO THAT WE COULD NOT DECIDE HOW WE WOULD VOTE UNTIL AFTER WE HAD EXAMINED THE TEXT OF THE RESOLUTION. SCHIFTER INDICATED THAT A RESOLUTION INTRODUCED BY DEMOCRATIC COUNTRIES WOULD HAVE A MORE POSITIVE IMPACT THAN ONE SPONSORED BEHIND THE SCENES BY CUBA AND THE COMMUNIST BLOC. HE EMPHASIZED TO CASTILLO THAT A NON-POLEMICAL RESOLUTION WOULD BE MORE LIKELY TO BE VIEWED FAVORABLY BY THE US, NOTING AS WELL THAT YEARS OF HARSH RESOLUTIONS HAD NOT PRODUCED POSITIVE CHANGE IN CHILE.

9. GELBARD ALSO TOLD CASTILLO (WHO WAS ACCOMPANIED BY CHRC INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY TABORGA) THAT WE WOULD WELCOME THE USE OF LESS POLEMICAL LANGUAGE IN THIS YEAR'S RESOLUTION. THE LANGUAGE OF LAST YEAR'S RESOLUTION, AS WELL AS THE FACT THAT CHILE WAS CONSIDERED AS A SPECIAL AGENDA ITEM, WERE KEY TO DETERMINING THE US'S NEGATIVE VOTE. GELBARD NOTED THAT THE US HAD ENDORSED RENEWAL OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S MANDATE FOR CHILE, WHICH ASSURED THAT CHILE'S HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION WOULD REMAIN A SPECIAL CASE AS CASTILLO DESIRED. HE ALSO EMPHASIZED OUR STRONG SUPPORT FOR CHILE'S TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY AND US ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

WILLINGNESS TO SPEAK OUT PUBLICLY ON HUMAN RIGHTS ISSUES. HE URGED THAT CASTILLO AND OTHERS IN THE OPPOSITION WORK WITH SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO WHEN VOLIO VISITS CHILE, WHICH CASTILLO INDICATED HE WOULD DO.

10. ACTION REQUESTED: ACTION ADDRESSEES ARE REQUESTED TO APPROACH APPROPRIATE OFFICIALS AND INDICATE OUR INTEREST IN SEEING A BALANCED RESOLUTION INTRODUCED ON CHILE THIS YEAR, DRAWING ON TALKING POINTS BELOW. USUN SHOULD CONSULT WITH REPRESENTATIVES FROM COUNTRIES WHICH MIGHT BE HELPFUL ON THIS ISSUE, INCLUDING COUNTRIES OTHER THAN ACTION ADDRESSES.

11. TALKING POINTS

--IN VIEW OF OUR SERIOUS CONCERN OVER THE CONTINUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES IN CHILE, WE WOULD LIKE TO BE ABLE TO VOTE IN FAVOR OF THE UN RESOLUTION ON CHILE. WE WILL NOT BE ABLE TO DO SO IF THE RESOLUTION EMPLOYS GREATLY INFLATED LANGUAGE REFLECTING A DOUBLE STANDARD ON HUMAN RIGHTS, AS WAS THE CASE LAST YEAR.

-- THE CAREFUL AND OBJECTIVE REPORT PREPARED BY THE NEW SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR MAY PROVIDE AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A MORE BALANCED AND EQUITABLE RESOLUTION.

--YOUR GOVERNMENT MAY BE ABLE TO PLAY A CONSTRUCTIVE ROLE IN THIS YEAR'S CONSIDERATION OF THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION AND WORK ACTIVELY IN THE UN FOR ADOPTION OF A BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE. SUCH A RESOLUTION AT A MINIMUM MUST TAKE ACCOUNT OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT'S NEW WILLINGNESS TO WORK WITH THE UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR AND SHOULD REFER POSITIVELY TO THE REMOVAL OF THE STATE OF SIEGE IN JUNE.

--A BALANCED UN RESOLUTION ON CHILE WOULD NOT ONLY ALLOW

CONFIDENTIAL

US TO VOTE FAVORABLY, MORE IMPORTANTLY, IT WOULD STRENGTHEN THE POSITION OF THOSE WITHIN THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT WHO ARGUED EFFECTIVELY FOR COOPERATION WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR. IN GENERAL, SUCH A RESOLUTION WOULD HELP TO ENCOURAGE A MORE CONSTRUCTIVE RESPONSE BY THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO INTERNATIONAL CONCERNS ON CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS CONDITIONS.

--SHOULD EFFORTS TO PRODUCE A BALANCED RESOLUTION FAIL, WE HOPE YOUR GOVERNMENT WOULD JOIN US IN VOTING AGAINST OR ABSTAINING ON ANY CHILE RESOLUTION WHICH EMPLOYS A DOUBLE STANDARD. WHITEHEAD

THE EIGHT MEMBERS WERE DECLARED "PERSONA NON GRATA" BY THE GOG AND HAVE EIGHT DAYS TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY. OF THE EIGHT, RANGEL SAID THAT FOUR WERE AMERICANS. HOWEVER, TO THE BEST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE, ONLY ONE OF THE AMERICANS LISTED IS STILL IN THE COUNTRY. RANGEL STATED THAT THE DEPORTATION ORDER CAME FROM THE CHIEF-OF-STATE.

2. (U) ADOLFO RANGEL SOLIS, GOG IMMIGRATION DIRECTOR, TOLD EMBOFF ON NOVEMBER 18 THAT THE CHIEF-OF-STATE HAD ORDERED EIGHT MEMBERS OF PBI DEPORTED FROM GUATEMALA. ACCORDING TO RANGEL, THE EIGHT HAD BEEN DECLARED "PERSONA NON GRATA", AND HAD EIGHT DAYS TO LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

3. (C) RANGEL SAID AMONG THE EIGHT WERE FOUR AMERICANS, THREE FRENCHMEN, AND ONE CANADIAN. TO THE BEST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE, ONLY ONE OF THE AMERICANS, [redacted] IS STILL IN GUATEMALA. ACCORDING TO PBI MEMBERS, [redacted] NO LONGER WORKS FOR PBI AND IS CURRENTLY STUDYING SPANISH IN ANTIGUA. ANOTHER AMERICAN MEMBER OF THE GUATEMALAN PBI TEAM, [redacted] WAS NOT AMONG THOSE ORDERED OUT OF THE COUNTRY. IN FACT, [redacted] HAD HIS VISA RENEWED BY GOG IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES YESTERDAY. (COMMENT: THIS IS PROBABLY AN OVERSIGHT ON THE PART OF THE GOG. [redacted] IN GUATEMALA ONLY ONE MONTH, AND THE GOG MIGHT NOT KNOW THAT HE IS A PBI MEMBER. END OF COMMENT)

[redacted] THAT THE GOG WAS STRIPPING GAM OF ITS "PROTECTION". [redacted] THAT "THE NAKED BODIES" OF PBI MEMBERS WERE ALL THAT STOOD BETWEEN GAM AND THE "DEATH SQUADS", AND PREDICTED A NEW WAVE OF "KIDNAPPING AND KILLINGS" OF GAM MEMBERS IF PBI WAS FORCED FROM GUATEMALA.

(C) [redacted] PROMISED TO HAVE THE EMBASSY INTERNATIONALLY CHASTISED IF IT DID NOT IMMEDIATELY INTERVENE TO HAVE THE DEPORTATION ORDER RESCINDED. WE HAVE NOT DONE SO, BUT INTEND TO RAISE THE ISSUE WITH THE FOREIGN MINISTER AT THE EARLIEST APPROPRIATE OPPORTUNITY. HOWEVER, WE DOUBT WHETHER THE PBI HAS BEEN A DISSUASIVE PRESENCE TO THOSE WHO MIGHT WISH THE GAM PERSONAL HARM, AND THUS DO NOT SHARE THE VIEW THAT THE EXPULSION PRESAGES A BLOODBATH. IN THIS CASE, WE DETECT A DOSE OF PERSONAL MEJIA PIQUE IN THE ORDER, WHICH PRESUMABLY IS A LOGICAL FOLLOW-ON TO HIS "REVELATIONS" LAST WEEK ABOUT THE GAM'S FOREIGN LINKS. B6

SUBJ: LETELIER MURDER:CASE AGAINST GENERAL CONTRERAS

1. THE SECOND MILITARY COURT IN SANTIAGO, ON NOVEMBER 13, ISSUED A DEFINITE STAY OF PROCEEDINGS IN FAVOR OF GENERAL (R) MANUEL CONTRERAS SEPULVEDA, CONCERNING HIS INVOLVEMENT IN THE FORGERY OF PASSPORTS FOR THOSE INVOLVED IN THE DEATH OF FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER ORLANDO LETELIER. THE COURT HELD THAT A TEMPORARY STAY OF PROCEEDINGS DATING BACK SEVERAL YEARS COULD BE MADE DEFINITE BECAUSE THERE HAD BEEN NO NEW EVIDENCE PRESENTED IN THIS CASE IN THE PAST THREE YEARS. THE COURT'S DECISION TO MAKE THE STAY OF PROCEEDINGS DEFINITE, PLUS THE EXISTENCE OF A FIVE-YEAR STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS IN CASES INVOLVING FORGERY, MEANS THAT THE CASE AGAINST CONTRERAS WAS CLOSED.

2. FABIOLA LETELIER, A LAWYER AND THE SISTER OF ORLANDO LETELIER, HAS APPEALED THIS DECISION TO THE MILITARY APPEALS COURT, ARGUING THAT THE CASE ALSO INVOLVED THE MURDER OF ORLANDO LETELIER, AND THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS IN MURDER CASES IS 15 YEARS. SHE CHARGES THAT THE CASE AGAINST CONTRERAS, INVOLVING MURDER, CANNOT BE DROPPED, AND THAT THE CASE SHOULD REMAIN OPEN IN THE UNCLASSIFIED

EVENT THAT FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS DO TAKE PLACE.

3. ACCORDING TO ALFREDO ETCHEBERRY, THE LAWYER WHO HANDLED THIS CASE FOR THE U.S. GOVERNMENT, THE MILITARY APPEALS COURT MUST NOW DECIDE ON THE MERITS OF MS. LETELIER'S ARGUMENTS. IN THE EVENT THAT THIS COURT SHOULD UPHOLD THE DECISION OF THE SECOND MILITARY COURT, THE DECISION OF THE APPEALS COURT CAN BE APPEALED TO THE CIVILIAN SUPREME COURT. THUS, THERE ARE TWO APPEAL STEPS REMAINING IN THIS CASE, AND THE CASE REMAINS "OPEN" UNTIL THE APPEALS PROCESS IS COMPLETED. ETCHEBERRY IS PREPARING A MEMORANDUM DETAILING HIS VIEWS FOR THE EMBASSY'S USE, AND WE WILL FORWARD A COPY OF HIS REPORT TO THE DEPARTMENT. BARNES

GENERAL MEJIA'S DECISION WAS FIRM: PBI MEMBERS WOULD HAVE TO LEAVE WITHIN THE EIGHT-DAY PERIOD. MEJIA TOLD ANDRADE THAT HE HAD EVIDENCE THAT THE PBI HAD INDEED COUNSELED THE GAM IN THE TAKEOVER OF THE NATIONAL CATHEDRAL AND WERE PRESENTLY COUNSELING THE GAM TO UNDERTAKE ANOTHER ILLEGAL ACTION JUST PRIOR TO THE DECEMBER 8 PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF ELECTIONS. PBI AND GAM HOPE TO CREATE A SCANDAL WHICH WOULD EMBARRASS THE GOVERNMENT AT THAT CRITICAL MOMENT. ACCORDING TO MEJIA, THREE FRENCH MEMBERS OF THE PBI WERE PLANNING TO COME TO GUATEMALA TO ASSIST IN WHATEVER ACTION THE GAM WAS TO TAKE BEFORE THE DECEMBER 8 ELECTIONS. MEJIA SAID THE FRENCHMEN WOULD BE DENIED ENTRY INTO THE COUNTRY. MEJIA VICTORES IS "FIRM" IN HIS DETERMINATION THAT EIGHT PEACE BRIGADES INTERNATIONAL (PBI) MEMBERS MUST LEAVE GUATEMALA WITHIN EIGHT DAYS. OF THE EIGHT PEOPLE ORDERE OUT OF GUATEMALA, ONLY SIX ARE STILL IN THE COUNTRY. RANGEL SAID THE CHIEF OF STATE DOES NOT WANT THE PBI MEMBERS IN GUATEMALA DURING THE DECEMBER 8 PRESIDENTIAL RUNOFF ELECTION. THE PBI MEMBERS, HOWEVER, ACCORDING TO RANGEL, MAY RETURN TO GUATEMALA FOLLOWING THE ELECTION. THE AMBASSADOR WILL TAKE UP THE MATTER WITH THE FOREIGN MINISTER NOVEMBER 22.

END SUMMARY

1A. PBI MEMBER, [redacted] CALLED ON CHARGE, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, TO REQUEST EMBASSY ASSISTANCE WHICH WOULD PERMIT HER TO REMAIN IN GUATEMALA UNTIL THE DECEMBER 9 EXPIRATION OF HER VISA. SHE EXPLAINED THAT NEITHER SHE NOR ANY OTHER MEMBER OF PBI HAD COUNSELED THE PBI MEMBERS ON THE RECENT TAKEOVER OF THE NATIONAL CATHEDRAL OR ON ANY OTHER ACTIVITY BEING CARRIED OUT BY THE GAM. SHE NOTED THAT PBI MEMBERS WERE OBSERVERS ONLY. THE CHARGE [redacted] THAT HE, AND THE AMBASSADOR ON HIS RETURN TO COUNTRY, WOULD RAISE THE ISSUE WITH THE DIRECTOR OF IMMIGRATION AND THE FOREIGN MINISTER TO REQUES THAT SHE BE PERMITTED TO STAY UNTIL HER VISA EXPIRES. THE CHARGE CAUTIONED HER, HOWEVER, THAT THERE WAS NO ASSURANCE THAT OUR DEMARCHE WOULD BE SUCCESSFULL, ESPECIALLY IF THE GOG HAD, WHAT IT CONSIDERED, EVIDENCE THAT PBI MEMBERS HAD INDEED COUNSELED THE GAM TO ENGAGE IN, WHAT THE GOG CONSIDERED TO BE, ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES.

2. THE REQUESTED DEMARCHE TO IMMIGRATION DIRECTOR RANGEL WAS CARRIED OUT NOVEMBER 2, BUT RANGEL ADVISED POLOFF TODAY, NOVEMBER 22, THAT ALL EIGHT PBI MEMBERS WOULD HAVE TO LEAVE AS ORIGINALLY ORDERED. (OF THE EIGHT PEOPLE ORDERED OUT OF GUATEMALA, SIX REMAIN IN THE COUNTRY. PBI REPRESENTATIVES CLAIM THAT ONE OF THE PEOPLE NAMED ON THE DEPORTATION ORDER IS NOT A MEMBER OF PBI, AND THAT ONE OF THE PBI MEMBERS, [redacted] THE GOG IDENTIFIED AS AN AMERICAN CITIZEN, IS A CANADIAN CITIZEN.) RANGEL SAID THAT THE GOG HAD "EVIDENCE" THAT PBI MEMBERS WERE

"POLITICALLY INVOLVED" WITH THE MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP (GAM) AND THAT CHIEF OF STATE OSCAR HUMBERTO MEJIA VICTORES DOES NOT WANT THEM IN GUATEMALA DURING THE DECEMBER 8 PRESIDENTIAL RUNOFF ELECTION. ACCORDING TO RANGEL, MEJIA WAS "FIRM" IN HIS DECISION TO EXPEL THE PBI MEMBERS.

4. RANGEL SAID THE PBI MEMBERS MAY RETURN TO GUATEMALA AFTER THE DECEMBER 8 ELECTION. HE ALSO ADVANCED THE CLAIM THAT THE PBI MEMBERS WERE NOT, IN FACT, BEING "EXPELLED" FROM GUATEMALA. ACCORDING TO RANGEL, AN EXPULSION ORDER REQUIRES IMMEDIATE DEPARTURE. THE FACT THAT THE PBI MEMBERS HAD BEEN GIVEN EIGHT DAYS TO LEAVE SHOULD BE INTERPRETED, HE ARGUED, AS A SIMPLE READJUSTMENT OF THEIR VISAS.

1. (C) AMBASSADOR PEDRO DAZA, CHILEAN PERMREP TO THE UN, CALLED ON AMBASSADOR WALTERS ON NOVEMBER 18 TO REQUEST US ASSISTANCE IN MODERATING THE THIRD COMMITTEE RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE. AS INSTRUCTED IN STATE 355305, USUN WILL BE CONSULTING APPROPRIATE DELEGATIONS TO PRESS FOR A MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE. OUR INITIAL CONTACTS INDICATE THAT NEITHER VENEZUELA NOR MEXICO WILL BE HELPFUL ON THIS QUESTION, AND THAT THE BEST PROSPECTS FOR MODERATION ARE WITH THE WESTERN EUROPEAN CO-SPONSORS AND THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION ITSELF - IF IT IS INTERESTED IN CHANGING THE US VOTE ON THIS ISSUE.

- HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE (ITEM 12)

1. [redacted] - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. ON NOVEMBER 21, TWO CHILEAN EXILES, HERNAN GUTIERREZ AND EUGENIO VELASCO, A SOCIAL DEMOCRAT AND THE WASHINGTON REPRESENTATIVE OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE, PRESENTED HA ASSISTANT SECRETARY RICHARD SCHIFTER WITH A DRAFT RESOLUTION ON CHILE WHICH THE CHILEAN OPPOSITION HAD PREPARED FOR POSSIBLE INTRODUCTION BY A SYMPATHETIC STATE AT THE OAS GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN CARTAGENA, DECEMBER 2-10, 1985. (FYI: CHILEAN OAS DELEGATION PRESENTLY DOES NOT EXPECT [redacted]

A SEPARATE CHILE RESOLUTION TO BE TABLED AT OASGA. END FYI). TEXT OF THE RESOLUTION WAS DATA-FAXED TO USUN NOVEMBER 25 AND IS REPEATED PARA 6 BELOW.

3. GUTIERREZ AND VELASCO SAID THEY ARE INTERESTED IN USING THE OAS DRAFT TEXT AS A BASIS FOR A UN RESOLUTION ON CHILE, AND SAID THEY HAVE BEEN WORKING WITH THE VENEZUELAN OAS REPRESENTATIVE WITH THE AIM OF HAVING VENEZUELA, MEXICO AND SPAIN INTRODUCE A MODERATE RESOLUTION IN THE UN. ACCORDING TO VELASCO, THE TEXT HAS THE SUPPORT OF ALL ELEVEN PARTIES SUBSCRIBING TO THE NATIONAL ACCORD. IN ADDITION, THEY SAID THAT MAXIMO PACHECO OF THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, WHO WILL BE IN NEW YORK FOR THE UN DEBATE, IS IN ACCORD WITH THE TEXT. INDICATING THAT HE SPOKE FOR THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE, VELASCO SAID THAT THE CHILEAN POLITICAL OPPOSITION, REALIZING THE IMPACT OF THE US VOTE, WOULD LIKE TO SEE A MORE MODERATE AND OBJECTIVE UN RESOLUTION THIS YEAR, WHICH THE U.S. COULD SUPPORT.

4. THE TEXT OF THE PROPOSED OAS RESOLUTION IS INDEED MODERATE AND A VAST IMPROVEMENT OVER LAST YEAR'S UNGA RESOLUTION, AND COULD SERVE AS THE STARTING POINT FOR A RESOLUTION THE US COULD SUPPORT. HOWEVER, IN VIEW OF REFTEL, WE WONDER HOW REALISTIC VELASCO AND GUTIERREZ ARE IN THEIR ASSESSMENT OF THE POSSIBILITIES OF HAVING THE RESOLUTION INTRODUCED.

5. FOR USUN: PLEASE ATTEMPT TO ASCERTAIN WHETHER THE OAS RESOLUTION IS A REALISTIC ALTERNATIVE, AND WHETHER THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION INDEED AGREES WITH THE TEXT. IT WOULD BE HELPFUL TO HAVE AN INDICATION OF YOUR ASSESSMENT BY COB NOVEMBER 26.

INFORMAL TRANSLATION OF DRAFT OAS RESOLUTION

CONSIDERING:

THAT THE IAHRC, AS A RESULT OF THE ANALYSIS IN ITS REPORT, HAS CONCLUDED THAT THERE HAVE BEEN SERIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS COMMITTED IN CHILE;

THAT THE PROTECTION AND RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS CONSTITUTES ONE OF THE HIGHEST AIMS OF THE OAS AND ITS OBSERVANCE IS NECESSARY FOR THE FRIENDLY COOPERATION AND SOLIDARITY BETWEEN ITS MEMBERS, AS GUARANTEES FOR RESPECT OF HUMAN LIFE AND THE DIGNITY AND LIBERTY OF MAN;

THAT DEMOCRACY IS AN ESSENTIAL ELEMENT FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A POLITICAL SOCIETY WHERE CIVIL RIGHTS ARE FULLY REALIZED;

THAT THE OPINIONS EXPRESSED BY THE DIFFERENT DELEGATIONS DURING THE CONSIDERATION OF THIS RESOLUTION REVEAL THE CONCERN BY THE MEMBERS FOR THE PROTECTION AND PRACTICE OF

HUMAN RIGHTS IN ALL COUNTRIES OF THE HEMISPHERE;

THAT THE IAHRC'S PRINCIPAL FUNCTION IS TO PROMOTE THE OBSERVANCE AND DEFENSE OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN THE MEMBER COUNTRIES;

RESOLVES:

URGES THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE TO ADOPT AND PUT IN PRACTICE THE STEPS AND MEASURES, RECOMMENDED IN THE IAHRC REPORT, TO ASSURE FULL RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS;

[redacted]

URGES THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO ADOPT APPROPRIATE MEASURES FOR THE ATTAINMENT OF FULL REESTABLISHMENT OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT, IN WHICH THE POWER DERIVES FROM THE LEGITIMATE AND FREE EXPRESSION OF THE POPULAR WILL IN ACCORDANCE WITH CHILEAN TRADITIONS AND WISHES OUTLINED IN THE NATIONAL ACCORD FOR THE TRANSITION TO FULL DEMOCRACY, SIGNED BY ELEVEN DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION PARTIES ON AUGUST 25, 1985, UNDER THE SPONSORSHIP OF CARDINAL JUAN FRANCISCO FRESNO;

URGENTLY CALLS ON THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE TO LEND THE NECESSARY COOPERATION TO THE IAHRC SO THAT IT MAY FULFILL ITS FUNCTIONS RELATIVE TO THE FURTHERANCE OF RESPECT AND DEFENSE OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN MEMBER COUNTRIES;

THANKS THE IAHRC FOR ITS REPORT AND REQUESTS THAT IT CONTINUE TO OBSERVE THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE AND REPORT TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

H.E. Harry Barnes
Ambassador of the United States
Santiago.

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

Having been the legal counsel of the United States Government in the case concerning the extradition of former General Manuel Contreras and other Chilean Army officers in 1979, Mr. Knight of the Embassy staff has consulted me on the meaning and consequences of some recent decisions of the Chilean military courts in the domestic case related to that crime.

I offered him to send you a written report on the point, as the matter was rather complex and justified something more than a telephone talk.

In compliance of my offer, I have the pleasure to enclose a report on the matter.

May I convey to you my best wishes of a brilliant, fruitful mission in Chile.

Looking forward to meeting you in the near future, I am, Sir,

Yours with best regards,

OF THESE 42, AT LEAST TEN HAVE REAPPEARED. TOWNSPEOPLE ACCUSE THE THEN COMMANDER OF THE LOCAL GOG ARMY DETACHMENT OF MASTERMINDING THE DISAPPEARANCES. HE WAS TRANSFERRED FROM PATZUN ON JULY 4, AND VILLAGERS CLAIM THE DISAPPEARANCES ENDED WITH HIS EXIT. HOWEVER, THE OFFICER SECOND-IN-COMMAND DURING THAT PERIOD RETURNED TO PATZUN FOR ONE WEEK IN NOVEMBER, DURING WHICH FIVE MORE PEOPLE WERE REPORTED DISAPPEARED.

NOTE: TOWN RECORDS WHICH SHOW TEN PEOPLE KILLED BETWEEN JANUARY AND JULY 1985, DO NOT SQUARE WITH EARLIER EMBASSY REPORTING WHICH INDICATE 22 KILLED DURING THE SAME PERIOD.

2. EMBOFFS VISITED PATZUN (CHIMALTENANGO) NOVEMBER 22 TO FOLLOW UP EARLIER EMBASSY INQUIRIES OF ALLEGED MASSACRES BY GOG SECURITY FORCES (REFTELS). ACCORDING TO REPORTS IN THE INTERNATIONAL PRESS, UP TO 60 PEOPLE WERE KILLED BY THE ARMY IN AND AROUND PATZUN BETWEEN JANUARY AND JUNE 1985. TOWN OFFICIALS DENIED THAT ANY MASSACRES HAD TAKEN PLACE IN PATZUN OR ANY OF ITS ELEVEN VILLAGES AND 16 HAMLETS. ACCORDING TO PATZUN MAYOR LAUREANO CHULUC YOS, WHO IS ALSO THE LOCAL MAGISTRATE, TEN PEOPLE WERE KILLED IN THE MUNICIPALITY DURING THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF 1985. ONE OF THESE, MARIO FILBERTO [redacted]

MELGAR JUAREZ, A MILITARY COMMISSIONER, PROBABLY WAS ASSASSINATED BY INSURGENTS (REF A).

3. HOWEVER, TOWN RECORDS SHOW THAT 42 PEOPLE WERE REPORTED "DISAPPEARED" IN THE MUNICIPALITY OF PATZUN BETWEEN JANUARY AND JUNE 1985. (NOTE: SEE PARA 14 FOR LIST OF DISAPPEARED.) OF THESE 42, TEN REAPPEARED IN JULY 1985, AT THE MILITARY ZONE HEADQUARTERS IN CHIMALTENANGO. ACCORDING TO TOWN OFFICIALS, THE TEN WERE RELEASED BY THE MILITARY AFTER RECEIVING AMNESTY FOR INVOLVEMENT IN THE SUBVERSION. PATZUN POLICE CHIEF NAJARRO CLAIMED THE TEN WERE SANTIAGO TO CHIRIX, LEONA SICAJAN BAC, ALEJANDRO YOS PUN, ESTEBAN PEREZ TUJAL,

UNCLASSIFIED

MARIA ANA AJSIP COYOTE, DANIEL TAQUIRA MUJ, JUAN TZAY BAJAN, JUAN PABLO CHIRIX, EUGENIA YOS MUJ, FLORENCIA YOS AJAP. WE HAVE RECEIVED CREDIBLE REPORTS THAT THREE DISAPPEARED BROTHERS FROM PATZUN, SANTOS AJZALAN MUJ, VICTORIANO AJZALAN MUJ, AND PEDRO AJZALAN MUJ, HAVE ALSO REAPPEARED (REF E).

4. TOWNSPEOPLE LAY THE BLAME FOR THE DISAPPEARANCES IN PATZUN ON THE COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE LOCAL ARMY DETACHMENT, LT. CABRERA, WHO WAS REMOVED FROM HIS POST ON JULY 4, 1985. MAYOR CHULUC DESCRIBED CABRERA AS THE "MALDITO" (ACCURSED). CHULUC SAID CABRERA WAS A "PARA-NOID" WHO WAS QUICK TO LABEL PEOPLE "SUBVERSIVES" AND ACT AGAINST THEM. THE MAYOR CLAIMED THAT SOME PEOPLE IN THE AREA SAW IN CABRERA AN OPPORTUNITY TO SETTLE OLD SCORES WITH RIVALS, AND QUICKLY DENOUNCED THEIR COMPETI-TORS AND ENEMIES TO THE MILITARY AS "GUERRILLAS". CHULUC POINTED OUT THAT DISPUTES OVER "LAND AND WOMEN" BREED INTENSE PERSONAL ANIMOSITIES IN VILLAGES AROUND

PATZUN, AND THAT VILLAGERS OFTEN RESORT TO VIOLENCE, OR FALSE ACCUSATION, TO SETTLE THEIR DISPUTES.

5. ALTHOUGH CHULUC ACKNOWLEDGED THAT SOME OF THE DISAPPEARED PROBABLY WERE ACTIVE IN THE INSURGENCY, HE INSISTED THAT MANY WERE NOT. HE CLAIMED THAT SEVERAL VILLAGERS CAME TO HIM AND PLEADED FOR HELP AFTER LEARNING THAT THEY HAD BEEN DENOUNCED TO CABRERA AS SUBVERSIVES. THE MAYOR SAID HE APPROACHED CABRERA AND "TRIED TO REASON WITH HIM". "I TOLD HIM," CHULUC SAID, "THAT I KNEW THESE MEN, AND THAT THEY WERE NOT GUERRILLAS". ACCORDING TO CHULUC, CABRERA REPLIED, "IF YOU KNOW THEM, THEN YOU ARE A SUBVERSIVE TOO". THE MAYOR SAID THAT AFTER THIS ENCOUNTER IT BECAME IMPOSSIBLE TO WORK WITH CABRERA.

CHULUC SAID HE FEARED FOR HIS LIFE DURING THIS TIME, AND PURSUED A POLICY OF TENDING TO THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE TOWN, NOT INVOLVING HIMSELF IN "SECURITY" ISSUES.

6. DURING HIS SIX MONTH REIGN, APPARENTLY OF TERROR, IN PATZUN, CABRERA BECAME A NEAR LEGENDARY FIGURE. THE FEAR HE STRUCK IN PEOPLE IS STILL PALPABLE, EVEN THE POLICE CHIEF SPOKE OF HIM ONLY IN A WHISPER. ACCORDING TO SOME VILLAGERS, CABRERA INSISTED ON BEING CALLED "GENERAL", AND USED ARMY DAY TO STRUT AROUND PATZUN LIKE A CONQUERING HERO. OTHER VILLAGERS CLAIMED THAT CABRERA RAN A "MURDER FOR HIRE" RACKET IN PATZUN. ACCORDING TO THESE RUMORS, CABRERA COMMANDEERED PRIVATE AUTOMOBILES AND PICK-UPS AS TRANSPORT AND USED HIS SOLDIERS AS HIT

MEN. UNCLASSIFIED

7. MAYOR CHULUC SAID THREE VILLAGES WERE HIT HARDEST BY THE DISAPPEARANCES: CHIPIACUL, XATZAN AND CHUIQUEL. THESE VILLAGES LIE ROUGHLY DUE WEST OF PATZUN, NEAR LAKE ATITLAN, AN AREA OF ORPA GUERRILLA ACTIVITY. THIS IS ALSO AN AREA AFFLICTED BY COMMON BANDITRY. LAST AUGUST, THE HONORARY DANISHCONSUL'S GRANDDAUGHTER AND A FRIEND WERE ROBBED AND SHOT TO DEATH WHILE DRIVING BETWEEN PATZUN AND PANAJACHEL (REF E).

8. THOUGH MANY OF THE DISAPPEARED CAME FROM VILLAGES AROUND PATZUN, TOWNSPEOPLE CLAIMED THAT SEVERAL WERE HELD IN A "PIT" IN THE MILITARY OUTPOST IN PATZUN. ONE WOMAN REPORTEDLY WAS HELD IN THE MILITARY DETACHMENT FOR SEVERAL WEEKS, AND RECALLED HEARING VOICES OF NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS PLEADING WITH CABRERA FOR INFORMA-

TION ABOUT HER. EMBOFFS VISITED THE DETACHMENT AND SPOKE WITH THE COMMANDING OFFICER, LT. JAIME MARTINEZ. MARTINEZ DENIED THAT THERE WAS A "PIT" OR ANY OTHER DETENTION FACILITIES IN THE DETACHMENT. THE MILITARY OUTPOST IS SMALL, APPROXIMATELY 40 METERS BY 25 METERS, AND HAS SEVERAL LONG BUILDINGS WHICH RUN ALONG THREE OF ITS SIDES. MARTINEZ WAS HESITANT TO GIVE EMBOFFS A "TOUR" OF HIS COMMAND, AND WOULD NOT ALLOW THEM INTO SEVERAL BUILDINGS IN THE BACK OF THE OUTPOST. EMBOFFS NOTICED SEVERAL WELL-ARMED MEN IN CIVILIAN CLOTHING IN THE OUTPOST.

9. BOTH MAYOR CHULUC AND POLICE CHIEF NAJARRO STATED THAT PEOPLE HAVE BEEN DETAINED AT THE MILITARY DETACHMENT. ACCORDING TO NAJARRO, LAST JULY THE ARMY ARRESTED A MAN IN CHIPIACUL FOR IMPERSONATING A MILITARY INTELLIGENCE OFFICER AND TRYING TO EXTORT MONEY FROM RELATIVES OF SOME OF THE DISAPPEARED. THE IMPOSTER WAS HELD AT THE MILITARY OUTPOST UNTIL HE STOLE A RIFLE ONE MORNING AND ESCAPED FROM THE DETACHMENT. HE WAS SHOT TO DEATH DURING A PITCHED GUN BATTLE IN THE STREETS OF PATZUN. THE POLICE CHIEF ALSO CLAIMED THAT A CAPTURED "ORPA LIEUTENANT" WAS HELD AT THE OUTPOST UNTIL HE COULD BE TRANSPORTED TO THE MILITARY ZONE HEADQUARTERS IN CHIMALTENANGO.

 UNCLASSIFIED

10. MAYOR CHULUC CLAIMED THAT THE DISAPPEARANCES STOPPED AFTER CABRERA WAS REPLACED IN JULY. CHULUC SAID THAT "CAPTAIN SOLORZANO" TOOK OVER COMMAND OF THE MILITARY OUTPOST. TOWNSPEOPLE SPOKE WELL OF SOLORZANO WITH AS MUCH VIGOR AND PASSION AS THEY SPOKE POORLY OF CABRERA.

SOLORZANO WAS DESCRIBED AS A "CHRISTIAN" AND A "GOOD MAN" WHO RETURNED LIFE TO "NORMAL" IN PATZUN. SEVERAL VILLAGERS NOTED THAT PEOPLE COULD GO OUT ON THE STREETS A NIGHT AFTER SOLORZANO TOOK OVER, AND PEOPLE LOST MUCH OF THEIR FEAR OF SOLDIERS. IN FACT, WHEN SOLORZANO WAS ROTATED OUT OF PATZUN IN EARLY NOVEMBER, SEVERAL TOWNS-PEOPLE REPORTEDLY ASKED THE MILITARY ZONE COMMANDER IN CHIMALTENANGO TO KEEP SOLORZANO ON AS HEAD OF THE MILITAR OUTPOST IN PATZUN.

11. SOLORZANO WAS REPLACED BY "LT. ALDANA", THE FORMER DEPUTY COMMANDER OF THE DETACHMENT UNDER CABRERA. ALDANA COMMANDED THE OUTPOST FOR ONLY SIX DAYS, NOVEMBER 11-16. HOWEVER, ACCORDING TO CHULUC AND THE LOCAL POLICE CHIEF,

FIVE PEOPLE WERE REPORTED DISAPPEARED DURING THIS PERIOD. CITY RECORDS SHOW THAT CELESTINO TZAY COY, SECUNDINO MAGTZUL TUCUBAL, MASARIO CHIRIX EJCALAN, RUMULDO BAJAN MAJTZUL, AND JOSE YOS SINCAL WERE ABDUCTED NOVEMBER 14 FROM THE VILLAGE OF MOCOLIXOT BY HEAVILY ARMED MEN.

12. LT. ALDANA LEFT PATZUN ON NOVEMBER 16, AND IS NOW SAID TO BE HEAD OF THE MILITARY DETACHMENT IN SAN JOSE POAQUIL, CHIMALTENANGO. POLICE CHIEF NAJARRO SAID THAT FOUR PEOPLE HAVE BEEN REPORTED DISAPPEARED IN POAQUIL SINCE THE ARRIVAL OF ALDANA.

13. ALDANA WAS REPLACED IN PATZUN BY LT. JAIME MARTINEZ, WHO CLAIMED HE HAD BEEN TRANSFERRED FROM THE MILITARY ZONE HEADQUARTERS IN CHIMALTENANGO. MARTINEZ DENIED THAT THE MILITARY HAD PARTICIPATED IN ANY DISAPPEARANCES IN PATZUN. MARTINEZ SAID THE INSURGENTS WERE TO BLAME, ADDING THAT "MILITARY COMMISSIONERS AND OTHERS WHO HAVE COLLABORATED WITH US ARE THE ONES WHO HAVE DISAPPEARED". WHEN QUESTIONED ABOUT THE ALLEGED EXISTENCE OF A PIT IN WHICH CABRERA HAD REPORTEDLY HELD 18 PEOPLE, MARTINEZ SAID, "WE DON'T HAVE ANYTHING LIKE THAT HERE". THEN, POINTING TO THE CEMETERY BEHIND THE OUTPOST, HE CONTINUED "BUT THERE MUST BE MORE THAN 100 PEOPLE BACK THERE". AFTER TOURING THE CEMETERY, EMBOFFS REALIZED THAT THIS SUBJECT: W/W: CASE OF NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS

REF: A) STATE 352230, B) STATE 332770

SUMMARY - A MEETING TOOK PLACE IN THE DEPARTMENT ON 11/21/85 AMONG EDWARD GOFF, ATTORNEY FOR THE BLAKE FAMILY, RANDY BLAKE, BROTHER OF ONE OF THE MISSING MEN, AND OFFICERS OF THE CITIZENS EMERGENCY CENTER AND THE LEGAL ADVISOR'S OFFICE OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT. MESSRS GOFF AND BLAKE WANTED TO DISCUSS THE PROGRESS OF THE CASE AND TRY TO COME TO AN AGREEMENT AMONG THEMSELVES ON [illegible]. THE SESSION WAS MARKED BY ARGUMENT AND DISAGREEMENT BETWEEN MR. GOFF AND RANDY BLAKE.

1. MR. GOFF'S BASIC VIEWPOINT IS THAT THE YOUNGER BLAKE'S TACTICS ARE ALIENATING IMPORTANT ELEMENTS OF THE GUATEMALAN AND U.S. GOVERNMENTS WHOSE GOOD WILL IS NEEDED IN THIS CASE. GOFF HAS FOUND THE EMBASSY AND THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENTS VERY HELPFUL. GOFF AND THE OLDER MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY BELIEVE THAT PUBLICITY OF THE KIND SOUGHT BY RAY AND RANDY BLAKE WILL INTERFERE WITH EFFECTIVE WORK IN RESOLVING THE CASE. RANDY BLAKE DISAGREED BUT COULD NOT POINT TO ANY PROGRESS MADE TOWARD LOCATING HIS BROTHER AS A RESULT OF THE BLAKE BROTHERS ACTIONS. DEPARTMENT OFFICERS URGED A MORE COOPERATIVE EFFORT BETWEEN ALL INTERESTED PARTIES, SINCE IT WOULD HELP US DIRECT OUR EFFORTS MORE EFFECTIVELY. WE ASSURED THEM THAT WE WOULD NOT IGNORE THE BROTHERS' [illegible].

2. RANDY BLAKE COMMENTED THAT HIS MEETING WITH THE U.S. AMBASSADOR IN GUATEMALA HAD GONE WELL. HOWEVER, HE SEEMED TO BE UNAWARE THAT CRITICAL STATEMENTS ABOUT THE TWO GOVERNMENTS MADE AT THE PRESS CONFERENCE FOLLOWING THE MEETING MIGHT BE EMBARRASSING TO THE U.S. AMBASSADOR. HE BELIEVES HIS RELATIONSHIP WITH THE AMBASSADOR CONTINUES TO BE GOOD AND THAT THE AMBASSADOR WILL ATTEMPT TO VERIFY THEIR HELICOPTER STORY. STEP-BY-STEP BLAKE WAS LED THROUGH THE PROCESS OF VERIFYING INFORMATION. HE IS NOW AWARE THAT IT WILL PROBABLY HAVE TO BE DONE FORMALLY AND OPENLY, WITH THE EXACT DATE AND PLACE OF THE HELICOPTER SIGHTING PASSED TO THE GUATEMALAN ARMY FOR COMPLETE INVESTIGATION.

United States Department of State
Office of FOI, Privacy, & Classification Review
Review Authority: MOSKOWITZ, SAM
Date: 06/28/95
Case ID: 95122209

3. RANDY BLAKE STATED THAT HE CANNOT REVEAL HIS SOURCES BECAUSE HE DOES NOT KNOW WHO THEY ARE. HE STATED THAT THE HELICOPTER STORY ORIGINALLY CAME FROM RANDY'S UNCLE, MR. GOFF'S EMPLOYER, WHO WAS VISITED BY A GUATEMALAN MAN REPRESENTING HIMSELF AS AN ARMY PROCUREMENT OFFICER ACCOMPANIED BY A WOMAN WHOSE ROLE WAS UNCLEAR. THE UNCLE MET WITH THE TWO GUATEMALANS UNDER A PROMISE NOT TO REVEAL THEIR NAMES. MR. GOFF WAS PRESENT AT THE MEETING AND DISAGREED WITH BLAKE'S VERISON OF THE MEETING. GOFF COMMENTED THAT HE AND HIS EMPLOYER SUSPECTED THAT THE TWO GUATEMALANS WERE NOT BEING COMPLETELY HONEST AND PRIMARILY WANTED TO INCREASE THEIR INCOMES.

4. IN ADDITION TO VERIFYING THE HELICOPTER STORY, RANDY BLAKE ASKS POST TO INFORM HIM WHETHER OR NOT GUATEMALAN OFFICIALS BELIEVED NICK BLAKE WAS A COURIER FOR THE GUERRILLAS. ANOTHER STORY MAKING THE ROUNDS IS THAT HIS BROTHER WAS SOUGHT BY SALVADORAN AUTHORITIES BECAUSE HE WAS SUSPECTED OF ASSISTING GUERRILLAS IN THAT COUNTRY. RANDY BLAKE HAS ALSO ASKED THAT SOMEONE BE SENT TO INQUIRE ABOUT THE TWO MEN ALONG A DIFFERENT ROUTE, ONE WHICH HIS BROTHER MIGHT HAVE TAKEN IF HE HAD TURNED BACK AT THE POINT WHERE HE WAS REQUESTED TO DO SO BY GUATEMALAN ARMY OFFICIALS. THE POST WAS WILLING POUCHED TO POST FOR FOLLOW-UP, IF APPROPRIATE.

5. PREVIOUS TO THIS MEETING, DEPARTMENT HAD BEEN UNAWARE THAT RANDY AND SAM BLAKE HAD MET WITH E.G.P. MEMBERS IN MEXICO. RANDY BLAKE WAS ASKED TO PROVIDE WRITTEN ACCOUNT OF THAT MEETING FOR THE DEPARTMENT'S USE. HE STATED THAT THE PEOPLE HE TALKED TO WERE AWARE OF THE CASE, BUT DENIED ANY ROLE IN THE DISAPPEARANCE. HE SAID THE IDEA THAT NICK BLAKE MIGHT HAVE JOINED THE GUERRILLAS WAS LAUGHED AT THE BY E.G.P. SINCE BLAKE HAD NO SKILLS WHICH COULD BE USEFUL TO THEM.

6. DEPARTMENT TOOK GREAT PAINS TO HELP RANDY BLAKE UNDERSTAND HOW THE U.S. GOVENEMENT OPERATED IN WELFARE AND HEREABOUTS CASES AND HOW IMPORTANT IT WAS NOT TO AGGRAVATE THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT SINCE THE CASE COULD NOT BE SOLVED WITHOUT IT. NEXT ON THE AGENDA IN THIS CASE WILL BE A MEETING BETWEEN DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS AND AIDES FOR THE SENATORS WHO SIGNED THE LETTER TO THE AMBASSADOR (REF B). DEPARTMENT WILL INFORM GUATEMALA SEPTEL OF THE RESULTS OF THIS MEETING. WHITEHEAD

PREFACE

This report has been prepared to assist U.S. government negotiating officials and analysts of the Chinese political scene. It presents an assessment of the ways in which officials of the People's Republic of China sought to manage negotiations with U.S. counterparts during the "normalization" phase of relations, from the late 1960s to the mid-1980s.

The study develops a model of PRC negotiating practice based on the official negotiating record and interviews with more than thirty American, [redacted] officials who have conducted negotiations with the Chinese. This work is summarized in an Executive Summary designed for use by senior officials of the U.S. government prior to their first negotiating encounters with PRC counterparts.[1] A companion annotated chronology has also been prepared as part of this project.[2]

NOTE ON CLASSIFICATION

This report has been given the overall classification of SECRET per review and decision by the National Security Council Staff of September 24, 1985.

Much of the NSC-controlled original source material for this analysis, primarily negotiating records, was initially classified TOP SECRET. The decision to downgrade the classification of this study reflects a number of considerations: that such negotiating records, as controlled by the Department of State, are normally handled at the SECRET level of classification; that the sensitivity of the documents has declined somewhat with the passage of more than a decade; and that a study of these materials at the SECRET level would be more readily accessible—and therefore of greater value—to a broader range of the official community.

SUMMARY

This study of Chinese political negotiating behavior assesses patterns and practices in the ways officials of the People's Republic of China (PRC) have managed high-level political negotiations with the United States over the past 15 years. It is designed to provide the basis for briefing senior American officials prior to their first negotiating encounters with PRC counterparts,[1] and to establish control over the documentary record of U.S.-PRC political exchanges during the "normalization" phase of relations, from 1967 through 1984.[2]

This assessment is based on analysis of the official negotiating record of U.S.-PRC exchanges during this period (the "memcons" and reporting cables that document formal exchanges), interviews with more than thirty U.S. officials who have conducted political negotiations with the Chinese, and such additional materials as the memoirs of former senior U.S. government officials, Chinese press statements, and official PRC documentation.

The basic finding of this study is that Chinese officials conduct negotiations in a distinctive, but not unique manner, consisting of a highly organized and meticulously managed progression of well-defined stages. It is an approach influenced by both Western diplomatic practice and the Marxist-Leninist tradition acquired from the Soviet Union and through dealings with the International Communist Movement. Its most fundamental style and distinctive qualities, however, are based on China's own cultural tradition and political practices.

The most distinctive characteristic of Chinese negotiating behavior is an effort to develop and manipulate strong interpersonal relationships with foreign officials—a pattern termed here "the games of guanxi," or relationship games. This approach to politics is shaped by China's Confucian political tradition. The Chinese distrust impersonal or legalistic negotiations. Thus in managing a negotiation, they attempt to identify a sympathetic counterpart official in a foreign government and work to cultivate a personal relationship, a sense of "friendship" and obligation; they manipulate feelings of good will, obligation, guilt, or dependence to achieve their negotiating objectives. The oft-used term "friendship" implies to the Chinese a strong sense of obligation for the "old friend" to provide support and assistance to China.

THE NEGOTIATING PROCESS

American officials have characterized negotiations with the PRC as a "linear" process of sequential and relatively discrete stages which unfold as the two sides explore issues of common concern. This process is illustrated in the figure on the following page.

Opening Moves

PRC officials make a determined effort at the outset of a negotiation to establish a sympathetic counterpart official as an interlocutor, to cultivate a personal relationship ("friendship") with him; they press for the acceptance of their principles as the basis of the relationship. They also seek to structure a negotiating agenda favorable to their objectives.

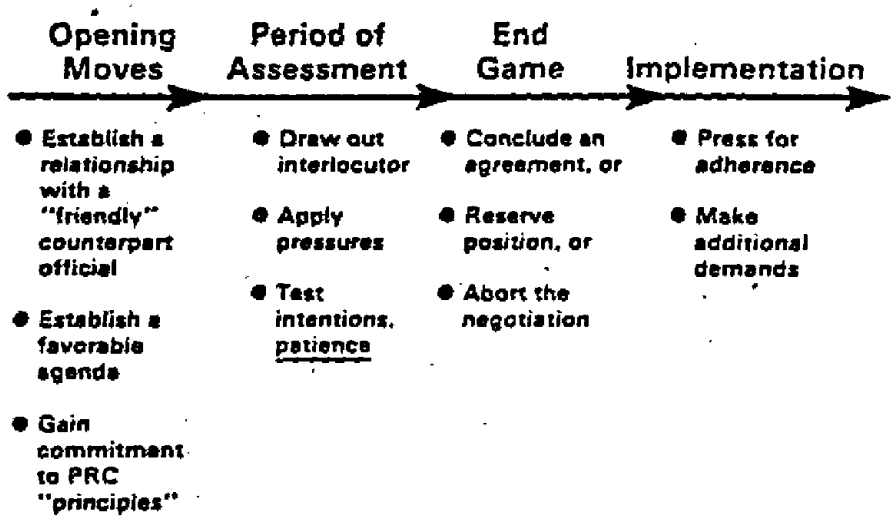
[2] See Richard H. Solomon, U.S.-PRC Political Negotiations, 1967-1984: An Annotated Chronology (U), The RAND Corporation, R-3298, December 1985 (Secret).

PRC POLITICAL NEGOTIATING BEHAVIOR: A "LINEAR" PROCESS



The Chinese view a political negotiation as reconciling the principles and objectives of the two sid and testing the other government's commitment to a relationship with the PRC. They do not see it as highly technical process of haggling over details, in which the two sides initially table maximum positior and then move to a point of convergence through incremental compromises.

To establish a framework for a relationship, PRC officials will press their counterparts at the outset c a negotiation to accept certain general "principles" (such as those embodied in the Shanghai Communiqu of 1972). Such political ground rules are then used to constrain the interlocutor's bargaining flexibility a the negotiation proceeds, and to test the "sincerity" of his desire to develop and sustain a relationship wit China. Experience shows, however, that when a PRC negotiator wants to reach an accord, he can set aside the stress on "principles" and reach a concrete agreement that may seem to have little relationship to the principles stressed early in the negotiation.

Period of Assessment

Chinese officials are skilled in protracting a negotiation to explore the limits of their adversary's views, flexibility, and patience. They will resist exposing their own position until their counterpart's stand is fully known and his endurance well tested.

Facilitating maneuvers. The Chinese try to conduct negotiations on their own territory, as this gives them maximum control over the ambience of official exchanges. They seek to establish a positive mood through meticulous orchestration of hospitality (cuisine, sightseeing, etc.), media play, banquet toasts, and protocol. They may attempt to minimize confrontation or differences of view through subtle and indirect presentation of their positions. They may communicate difficult messages through trusted intermediaries. And when they seek to avoid the breakdown of a negotiation, they may resort to stalling tactics or reach a partial agreement while reserving their own position on important issues on which they do not wish to compromise.

Pressure tactics. PRC officials will resort to a variety of maneuvers to put an interlocutor on the defensive and make him feel he has minimal control over the negotiating process. They are skilled at making a foreign counterpart appear to be the supplicant or demandeur in the relationship. They play political adversaries against each other, and they may alternate hard and accommodating moods by shifting from "bad guy" to "good guy" officials. They may urge a foreign negotiator to accommodate to their position with the argument that if he does not, his "friends" in the PRC leadership will be weakened by failure to reach agreement. And they tend to put pressure on a sympathetic negotiator on the assumption that a "friend" will make a special effort to repair problems in the relationship.

The Chinese often present themselves as the injured party, seeking to shame an interlocutor with recitation of faults on the part of his government or his failure to live up to past agreements or to the "spirit" of mutually accepted "principles." They are meticulous record-keepers and will hold a negotiator to his past words and the commitments of his predecessors. They are skilled in using the press to create public pressures on a foreign negotiating team. And they may seek to trap a negotiator against a time deadline (so that he must make decisions under pressure).

The essential quality of Chinese pressure tactics is to make the foreign negotiator, with whom they have gone to some lengths to develop a personal or "friendly" association, feel that his relationship with China is in doubt, that he has not done enough to warrant being considered an "old friend," that he must do more for the relationship to justify Chinese support and good will. It is this tension of the relationship game that gives dealings with the Chinese their distinctive quality.

End Game

When PRC officials believe that they have tested the limits of their negotiating counterpart's position and that a formal understanding serves their interests, they can move rapidly to conclude an agreement.

They may let a negotiation appear to deadlock to test their interlocutor's patience and firmness, and then have a senior leader intervene to "cut the knot" of the apparent deadlock. Once Chinese leaders have decided to reach an agreement, their negotiators can be quite flexible in working out concrete arrangements which may seem to have little relationship to the "principles" stressed at the outset of a negotiation.

Implementation

Chinese officials assess the manner in which a counterpart government implements an agreement as a sign of how seriously that government views its relationship with the PRC. They press for strict implementation of all understandings, and they are quick to find fault.

Chinese officials sometimes give the impression that agreements are never quite final. They will seek modifications of understandings when it serves their purposes; and the conclusion of an agreement is the occasion for pressing the counterpart government for new concessions. In contrast, however, if they are unable to fully implement an agreement themselves, they will ask the counterpart to "understand" their difficulties on the basis of "friendship," or make excuses which put the burden of responsibility on the other party.

DISCUSSION

Reflecting the workings of the relationship game, American negotiators describe their dealings with the Chinese as at once elating and frustrating. PRC officials can establish a positive mood when they want to build a constructive relationship; and they impress their U.S. counterparts as personally attractive, highly competent individuals with whom it is easy to deal at a human level. On the other hand, the Chinese—who assume themselves to be a once and future great power—can adopt a self-righteous and lecturing air in which they presume the right to criticize their "friends" (while being highly defensive of their own positions) and require that negotiations be conducted on their own terms.

It has been demonstrated by the experience of countries that have established highly interdependent relations with the PRC that the Chinese can be highly demanding and manipulative of those on whom they have established a dependent relationship (as was the case with the "elder brother" Soviet Union in the 1950s), or self-righteously assertive in dealing with those who have established a subordinate relationship with them (as was the case with Albania in the 1960s).

GUIDELINES FOR DEALING WITH PRC COUNTERPARTS

This analysis suggests the following "lessons learned" that U.S. officials should keep in mind if they are to be more effective in dealing with PRC counterparts:

Know the substantive issues cold. Chinese officials are meticulous in preparing for negotiating sessions, and their staffs are very effective in briefing them on technical issues. They will use any indication of sloppy preparation against an interlocutor.

Master the past negotiating record. PRC officials have full control over the prior negotiating record, and they do not hesitate to use it to pressure a counterpart.

Know your own bottom line. A clear sense of the objectives of a negotiation will enable a U.S. official to avoid being trapped in commitments to general "principles" and to resist Chinese efforts to drag out a negotiation. Incremental compromises suggest to the Chinese that their interlocutor's final position has not yet been reached.

Present your position in a broad framework. The Chinese seem to find it easier to compromise on specific issues if they have a sense of the broader purposes of their interlocutor in developing a relationship with the PRC. They distrust quick deals, and they appreciate presentations that suggest seriousness of purpose and an interest in maintaining a long-term relationship with China.

Be patient. Do not expect quick or easy agreement. A Chinese negotiator will have trouble convincing his superiors that he has fully tested the limits of his counterpart's position if he has not protracted the discussions. Assume you will be subjected to unexplained delays and various forms of pressure to test your resolve.

Avoid time deadlines. Resist negotiating in circumstances where you must have agreement by a certain date. The Chinese will assume that your anxiety to conclude a deal can be played to their advantage.

Minimize media pressures. PRC negotiators use public expectations about a negotiation to pressure their interlocutors. Confidential handling of negotiating exchanges, the disciplining of leaks, and the minimizing of press exposure are taken by the Chinese as signs of seriousness of purpose. "Negotiation via the press" will evoke a sharp Chinese response.

Understand the PRC political context, and the style of your Chinese interlocutor. Despite the difficulties of assessing the domestic PRC political scene, an evaluation of internal factional pressures and the style of your counterparts will help in understanding Chinese objectives and negotiating flexibility, and in "reading" the signals or loaded language of a very different culture and political system.

Understand the Chinese meaning of "friendship." Know that the Chinese expect a lot of their "friends." Resist the flattery of being an "old friend" or the sentimentality that Chinese hospitality readily evokes. Do not promise more than you can deliver, but expect that you will be pressured to honor past commitments. Resist Chinese efforts to shame or play on guilt feelings for presumed errors or shortcomings.

Develop a strategic orientation to dealing with the Chinese. The blandishments of the "friendship game" and Chinese pressure tactics are most effectively defended against by developing a strategic orientation suited to American negotiating practices and objectives. An attitude of restrained openness and interest in identifying and working to attain common objectives is the best protection against Chinese efforts to maneuver the foreign negotiator into the position of demandeur or supplicant.

Parry Chinese pressure tactics in order to maintain control over the negotiating process. Chinese negotiating tactics are readily understandable, and in some measure even predictable. Therefore, U.S. negotiators should develop countertactics that will throw their PRC counterparts off balance, to demonstrate competence and control over the process. Tactical manipulations applied in excess, or for their own sake, however, are likely to erode confidence and undermine the credibility of the negotiating process.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I am indebted to Mr. David Gries who, in his role as National Intelligence Officer for East Asia, conceived and supported this project, and to Mr. James McCullough, Director of East Asian Analysis, for the support his office provided throughout the research effort.

Many officials and former officials of the U.S. government gave generously of their time in the interviews which were a major source of information and insight for this study. These individuals are recognized in Appendix A of this volume. A number of other officials contributed in important ways to the assembling of the documentary record of U.S.-PRC negotiations. I particularly want to express appreciation for the support and assistance of Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, Robert C. McFarlane; David Laux, Brenda Reger, and Donna Sirko of the National Security Council staff; Assistant Secretary of State Paul D. Wolfowitz; M. Charles Hill, Executive Secretary of the Department of State; and Elijah Kelly, Jr., of the Executive Secretariat. Dr. Henry A. Kissinger and General Brent Scowcroft were helpful in enabling me to gain access to the records of the Nixon and Ford administrations. And Professor Michel Oksenberg assisted in assembling the key documents from the Carter administration.

Intellectual stimulation for this project has come from numerous sources, but I particularly want to express my indebtedness to Dr. Steven R. Pieczenik for his insights into the negotiating process (in particular, for his suggestions on negotiating counterstrategies), to Professor Lucian W. Pye of M.I.T., whose parallel study of Chinese commercial negotiating behavior[1] provided many interpretive insights and an intellectual foil for this study of political negotiating behavior, and to Mr. Charles Neuhauser for his assessments of Chinese politics and U.S.-PRC relations.

Anna Sun Ford provided timely and ever-productive research assistance for the project; and my secretary Mary Yanokawa is due special credit not only for typing and producing this and the other two manuscripts of this project, but also for organizing my work effort and providing professional support throughout the project.

I. INTRODUCTION

OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

This analysis of Chinese political negotiating behavior is part of a larger study designed to provide supporting materials for operational officials and analysts of the U.S. government concerned with interpreting and managing relations with the People's Republic of China (PRC). The primary objective of this project has been to analyze the way Chinese officials manage political negotiations by drawing on the official record and the experiences of U.S. officials who have dealt with PRC counterparts over the past fifteen years, during the phase of Sino-American relations in which both governments tried to break out of two decades of confrontation to normalize their relationship.

This analysis is summarized in an Executive Summary designed for use by senior officials of the U.S. government prior to their first negotiating encounters with Chinese counterparts.[1] The third volume in this series contains an annotated chronology of senior-level U.S.-PRC political negotiating exchanges between 1967 and 1984.[2] These three volumes establish the documentary record and provide an analytical assessment of one of the most interesting episodes in America's post-World War II foreign relations: the effort to move from a long period of political rivalry and military confrontation with the PRC—with "Red China" or "Communist China," as it was termed during the 1950s and 1960s—to a relationship in which the two countries could eliminate the hostility of the Cold War era, manage continuing differences over the future of Taiwan in a nonconfrontational manner, and cooperate in limited measure in dealing with shared international political and security problems, primarily the military threat to both countries from the Soviet Union.

SOURCES OF DATA: MEMCONS, INTERVIEWS, AND MEMOIRS

The primary source of data upon which this analysis is based is the official record of negotiating exchanges between senior U.S. officials and their PRC counterparts, the memoranda of conversation, or "memcons," which are the basic documentary record of intergovernmental negotiations. A secondary source is the reporting cables by which State Department negotiators document the results of negotiations conducted in the field under formal instructions. A detailed description of this documentary source material is contained in the Introduction to the annotated chronology.

Because the paper record gives only a partial sense of the negotiating experience, the author also conducted interviews with more than thirty senior American officials who negotiated with Chinese counterparts during the years covered in this study—beginning with former President Nixon and running through the officials of the Carter and Reagan administrations who managed the negotiations on normalization and the August 17, 1982, Joint Communique on the issue of American arms sales to Taiwan. The officials interviewed for this study are listed in Appendix A.

To gain a comparative perspective on Chinese negotiating practices, the author also interviewed six officials from the who conducted negotiations with PRC officials during the past twelve years, and businessmen who have had considerable experience in commercial negotiations with PRC state trading organizations. In addition, the author drew heavily on insights into Chinese commercial negotiating practices contained in a RAND study based on intensive interviews with American, Japanese, and Hong Kong businessmen which was carried out, in part, to provide a basis of comparison between political and commercial negotiating practices.[3]

It should also be mentioned that the author of this study participated directly in political negotiations with the Chinese during his tenure as a staff member of the National Security Council in 1971-1976. This experience and his subsequent involvement in China policy matters as a RAND consultant to the NSC and the Departments of Defense and State provided the author direct exposure to Chinese negotiating practices and to the official record, as well as personal familiarity with the senior American officials interviewed for this project.

In addition, selected secondary source materials and studies--historical analyses of pre-Communist Chinese negotiating practices and memoirs of the senior U.S. officials who conducted negotiations with PRC counterparts during the past three decades--provided further information and insights into the manner in which Chinese officials seek to manage the negotiating process. These sources are referenced in Appendix B.

CHINESE NEGOTIATING BEHAVIOR: DISTINCTIVE, BUT NOT UNIQUE; PURPOSEFUL, IF NOT FULLY PLANNED

> Henry Kissinger: Many visitors have come to this beautiful, and to us, mysterious land ....
> Zhou Enlai (interrupting): You will not find it mysterious. When you have become familiar with it, it will not be as mysterious as before.[4]

One of the basic objectives of this study is to demystify dealings with a country that has long been viewed in the West as mysterious and esoteric. The sense of mystery surrounding China reflects, in part, the distance that Chinese officials have tried to maintain since imperial times between their country and often-threatening foreign "barbarians"; it also reflects the significant differences in culture and language that continue to separate East from West, and it reflects the great chasm of ideology and history that further divided the PRC and the United States during the post-Korean War decades when the two countries confronted each other as enemies.

From the perspective of the 1980s, it is perhaps difficult to recall the sense of the unknown that surrounded the inception of the Sino-American normalization dialogue in 1971. Henry Kissinger's remark to Zhou Enlai about the mysteriousness of his country (quoted above), made during their first encounter, evokes only a bit of the flavor of the National Security Adviser's secret trip to a country with which the United States had had almost no direct dealings since 1949. Yet Zhou's retort to Kissinger that familiarity would demystify China in the eyes of yet another generation of somewhat awed foreigners has proved to be accurate. The negotiating record of the past fourteen years reveals patterns of behavior and a Chinese approach to managing negotiations that are both comprehensible and, in surprising measure, predictable. As we will describe throughout this study, the negotiating behavior of PRC officials is consistent, and despite their efforts to present an obscure or deceptive face to the outside world, their actions are readily interpretable (at least in hindsight).

One of the basic objectives of this project is to forearm U.S. negotiating officials and analysts of the PRC political scene with a sense of how the Chinese manage the negotiating process, so that they will interpret with greater accuracy the often subtle political "signals" that are part of the negotiating experience.

It is also important to make at the outset two fundamental interpretive points which, for the sake of presentational brevity, will not be repeated endlessly throughout the following pages. First, despite the distinctive quality or "flavor" of dealings with the Chinese, many--if not most--of their negotiating practices are not unique. Many of the facilitating maneuvers and pressure tactics PRC negotiators resort to are also encountered in dealings with other countries, although the particular style or intensity may be different elsewhere. In short, there is much that is universal in the negotiating process; and the Chinese, for all that is distinctive about their culture, have not developed a unique approach to conducting negotiations.

Yet it is also the case that most of the American officials interviewed for this study said that they found the Chinese to conduct negotiations in a distinctive manner. Kissinger was impressed with the "principled stand" Chinese officials assumed at the outset of his dealings with them, and with their sense of the importance of the credibility of their word, which led them to "eschew the petty maneuvers that characterized . . . negotiations with other communists."[5] From his first negotiating session with PRC Vice Foreign Minister Huang Hua in the summer of 1971, Kissinger learned that the Chinese prefer not to negotiate Soviet-style--by beginning with an initially exaggerated position from which they move only slowly in "salami slicing" fashion--but "to determine as well as possible [at the outset] the nature of a reasonable solution, get there in one jump, and then stick to that position."[6] As Kissinger recalled in his memoirs:

> Huang Hua . . . suggested that we put aside the drafting and each tell the other frankly what his needs were. . . . We spent two hours on this [and after some further delay] . . . Huang Hua presented a draft . . . so close to our needs that we could accept it with a change of only one word.[7]

Kissinger said he so preferred this style of negotiating that he subsequently sought to use it in his dealings with other governments:

> The strategy of getting in one jump to a defensible position defines the irreducible position unambiguously; it is easier to defend than the cumulative impact over a long period of a series of marginal moves in which process always threatens to dominate substance.[8]

The second basic interpretive point is that while the Chinese conduct negotiations in a purposeful and meticulously planned manner, they are not always in control of the process and often "feel their way" in situations they do not fully understand. The following analysis may, upon occasion, make it appear as if the Chinese are almost superhuman in their ability to plan and manipulate a negotiating situation. The record does not show this to be the case, although the analytical process, by its very nature, extracts the evident patterns of behavior that comprise their approach to negotiating. The model we develop here is an abstraction from a much more complex reality that at times must be as mysterious to the Chinese as it is t American observers.

That being said, there are distinct and repetitive patterns in Chinese negotiating behavior, and the American negotiator should draw confidence from the fact that his PRC counterparts will conduc negotiations in a relatively predictable manner, one that has been dealt with effectively by other U.S. officials in pursuit of American policy objectives.

CHINA'S RESPONSE TO THE WEST: THREE SOURCES OF PRC NEGOTIATING STYLE

The American experience in dealing with the Chinese over nearly a century-and-a-half--since Presidential envoy Caleb Cushing negotiated the Treaty of Nanking in 1844--indicates that Chinese negotiating behavior has evolved over time and in changing circumstances in response to two major sources of pressure: the impact of the Western countries who established, by threat and use of force, the treaty port system that endured into the mid-twentieth century; and the Marxist-Leninist experience absorbed by the Chinese political elite through both Kuomintang and (certainly more intensely) Communist dealings with the Soviet Union and the International Communist Movement.[9]

American students of China's nineteenth-century attempts to adjust to Western pressures have documented the Qing Dynasty's efforts to learn enough of Western law and negotiating practice to turn the intrusive foreigners' sources of power back on them in the service of protecting the integrity of the traditional imperial system.[10] Beginning in the 1860s, both Manchu and Han officials reluctantly began to translate Western books, sought ways of absorbing foreign military technology to strengthen the dynasty's defenses, and began to send students abroad to learn Western ways.

This process of adapting to a wider world continues today, in China's current efforts to modernize itself, to tap the sources of wealth and power that have enabled the West to intrude upon the Middle Kingdom--yet without compromising the essence of China's own culture and social imperatives. Once again, China is sending a generation of students abroad to learn foreign languages, science, and management techniques; and her diplomats are gradually adapting to foreign conventions--as recently symbolized by PRC officials shedding their Mao suits, worn at the beginning of the normalization process, in favor of contemporary Western attire.

The second source of foreign influence on Beijing's diplomatic practice has been the Chinese Communist Party's six decades' of contact with other socialist states and parties--particularly the Soviet Union. America's post-1949 dealings with "Communist China" were with a country closely allied to the USSR and a political elite strongly influenced by the Marxist-Leninist style of diplomacy practiced by Moscow's envoys.[11] The writings of the American negotiators who faced Chinese counterparts at Panmunjom, Geneva, and Warsaw during the 1950s and 1960s reveal a frustrating experience closely akin to that endured by other U.S. officials in negotiating encounters with Soviet diplomats. Beijing's use of "adversarial" negotiating techniques was vividly described by one of the participants in the Warsaw 9 This complex history, well documented in the academic literature, will not be reviewed here. It should be remembered, however, that not only did the Chinese Communist Party have extensive dealings with the Soviet Union--where many of its leading cadre were trained--but the Kuomintang or Nationalists did as well. Both Chiang Kai-shek and his son Chiang Ching-kuo had periods of training in the USSR.

ambassadorial exchanges (and provides so striking a contrast to Henry Kissinger's experience with many of these same officials a decade later that it is hard to believe the two men are describing the same country):

> Across the table, the Chinese Communist negotiator sits cold and taut as a steel spring, sternly unapproachable, suspicious, impenetrable, a rigidly disciplined agent reading his lines with mechanical precision. He is able, persistent, imperturbable—and frustratingly predictable in style. Negotiation with him is an ordeal, for he makes it so.[12]

The Chinese evidently had learned from Moscow the use of the negotiating process as a weapon in the revolutionary struggle. The memoirs of Admiral Turner Joy, Ambassadors Arthur Dean, U. Alexis Johnson, Jacob Beam, and the others who conducted negotiations in the 1950s with the Chinese Communists (a number of whom, including Zhou Enlai, Ye Jianying, Huang Hua, Zhang Wenjin, Pu Shouchang, and Ji Chaozhu, were also our primary counterparts in the normalization process) recount a suspiciousness, a use of invective, an inclination to struggle tenaciously over the formulation of an agenda, skillful use of the mass media to build pressures on an adversary government, and other combat tactics that seem right out of Moscow's play book.

Perhaps the most vivid account of the use of negotiations as an extension of revolutionary warfare is contained in Mao Zedong's description of the Chinese Communist Party's strategy for dealing with the Kuomintang on the eve of the final phase of the Civil War:

> How to give "tit-for-tat" [literally, to struggle at opposed spearpoints] depends on the situation. Sometimes not going to negotiations is tit-for-tat; and sometimes going for negotiations is also tit-for-tat. We were right not to before, also right this time . . . for we exploded the rumor spread by the Kuomintang that the Communist Party did not want peace and unity. . . . They were totally unprepared, and we had to make all the proposals. As a result of the negotiations, the Kuomintang has accepted the general policy of peace and unity. That's fine. If the Kuomintang launches civil war again, it will put itself in the wrong in the eyes of the whole nation and the whole world, and we shall have all the more reason to smash its attacks by a war of self-defense.[13]

A third and, we assert, the most enduring influence on PRC negotiating behavior is China's own cultural tradition and historical experience. The Western diplomats who first encountered officials of the Qing dynasty described a highly ritualized negotiating process derived from the old tribute system in which the foreign emissary was escorted to the Chinese capital by specially designated officials, subjected to exquisite hospitality and plied with gifts (even as his physical movements were highly restricted), and then subjected to alternations of pressure and accommodation. As one historian of this period has described it:

> The mistrust with which the barbarians were viewed crystallized into a policy of segregation and of constant watchfulness and precaution when they had to be admitted into China. . . . Envoys were escorted . . . over an assigned route to and from Peking . . . lest they make trouble or become too wise. They were not allowed to roam about freely in the streets without first securing permission from the proper Chinese authority, who would then specially guard the streets they were to pass through. Westerners who came to China for trade were carefully quarantined in . . . the city of Canton.[14]

This pattern of diplomatic practices was still evident in the way Henry Kissinger was treated durin his first negotiating encounters with PRC officials, and in the isolation of the foreign business community a Canton until the late 1970s.

There is also an underlying dynamic to the contemporary Chinese negotiating process that seems t tap the fundamental roots of China's cultural pattern: an effort to draw the foreign negotiator into a personal relationship, establish ties of "friendship," and then subject him to all the blandishments and pressures that are basic to the Chinese social order. While one sees certain elements of Western and Soviet political practice in contemporary PRC management of the negotiating process, at base the Chinese instinctively seem to try to enmesh the foreign negotiator in the same web of attractions and pressures that operate in their own political system.

The foreign observer can see in curious combination the contemporary workings of these three sources of influence on PRC political negotiating style. On the one hand, most American diplomats have been impressed by the straightforward, nonideological manner in which they can discuss issues with their PRC counterparts. The rhetoric of Marxism-Leninism never enters into the official dialogue. Yet we know well and from the official press, that the Chinese discuss policy issues among themselves in classic Marxist-Leninist fashion--imputing to foreign adversaries motives and objectives that are basic to the rhetoric of the Communist movement. At the same time, political polemics are often conducted in the Chinese press in the terms of historical analogies, as if the figures of ancient dynasties are still relevant to China's contemporary circumstances.[15] It is this essential core of "Chineseness" that gives negotiating encounters with the PRC their distinctive character.

PHASES IN THE EVOLUTION OF U.S.-PRC RELATIONS

If there is an enduring "Chineseness" to PRC negotiating behavior, there is also an evident variability in the way Chinese Communist authorities have conducted their relations with the United States. As noted earlier, the American negotiators who dealt with PRC officials during the 1950s and 1960s experienced a very different negotiating process from that faced by those who attempted to normalize U.S.-PRC relations during the 1970s. This variability in style is presumably based on the highly "context-dependent" quality of Chinese social behavior, which has been noted by anthropologists and other analysts of the Chinese tradition,[16] as well as on China's continuing effort to learn and adapt to unfamiliar foreign ways. For purposes of this study, it is perhaps sufficient to note that there are significant differences in style and emotional mood associated with the various time phases in the Sino-American relationship.

In broadest terms, we can identify four distinct periods in America's dealings with the Chinese Communists.[17] The initial period of official contact began in the late 1930s and ran through World War II and the subsequent Civil War years, when the Chinese Communists were an insurgent political and military movement seeking American support for their efforts during the "War of Resistance" to harass Japan's occupation forces in China (and, in the process, to undercut U.S. support for the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek). During this period, official contact was first established through the Communist mission in the Nationalist wartime capital of Chungking (headed by Zhou Enlai), then developed via the U.S. Army's "Dixie Mission" to the Communist headquarters at Yanan, and later maintained through the mediation mission of General George C. Marshall, who tried to prevent the outbreak of full-scale civil war between the Nationalists and the Communists in late 1945 and early 1946.

The second period covers 1949 to 1969, beginning with the Communist victory in the civil war and the concurrent breakdown in official U.S.-PRC contacts, the turn to confrontation during the Korean War, and the near-fruitless series of "negotiations" conducted between the two governments over the ensuing two decades--at Panmunjom in 1953, at the Geneva conference on Indochina in 1954 (when Secretary of State Dulles refused to shake hands with Zhou Enlai), at the subsequent ambassadorial talks at Geneva (from 1955 to 1957, during which one agreement--a prisoner exchange--was negotiated), and at the Warsaw talks, which continued without result until early 1970, when both sides, in the first moves toward the normalization dialogue of the 1970s, agreed to establish direct and high-level political contacts in Beijing.

The third phase, the normalization effort, formally began with the 135th and 136th Warsaw talks in January and February 1970, then came to world attention after the announcement of National Security Adviser Henry Kissinger's secret visit to Beijing in July 1971. This phase continued through subsequent public Kissinger trips to the Chinese capital and the visits of President Nixon in 1972 and President Ford in late 1975, and concluded with the establishment of diplomatic relations at the end of 1978, after six months of quiet negotiations conducted in Beijing by U.S. Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock.

The fourth phase, while not representing as sharp a break in pattern as did the changes between the earlier periods, began in January 1979 with mutual diplomatic recognition and the exchange of ambassadors and includes the full institutionalization of the U.S.-PRC relationship (the signing of various treaties and formal trade agreements, the evolution of a legal infrastructure for management of trade and cultural exchanges, etc.). This period also includes the political negotiations conducted during 1981-1982 to establish ground rules for handling the issue of American arms sales to Taiwan.

The study reported here focuses on the last two periods in the relationship. It describes the pattern of negotiating behavior in circumstances where the Chinese Communist authorities had decided that their interests were served by constructing a positive relationship with the United States.[18] [18]An interesting question, which we do not attempt to answer in this analysis, is how useful the insights about PRC negotiating behavior gained from the normalization record might be if the relationship should, at some future time, deteriorate into a new period of confrontation (presumably over the Taiwan issue).

II. THE CONTEXT

Much of the distinctive flavor of negotiating encounters with the Chinese reflects the influence of a cultural tradition only vaguely familiar to most Americans. To a remarkable degree, the Chinese seem able to shape the context of negotiations in ways that suffuse the process with an atmosphere and a dynamic that is a projection of their own social system. PRC officials bring to their encounters with American counterparts a view of the world that is shaped by their country's long imperial past, and they instinctively seek to manage negotiations in ways that draw on the patterns of interpersonal relations of a collectivist society that over the centuries developed a refined and highly ritualized style of managing social and political relationships.

This chapter sketches the cultural and institutional context within which negotiations with the Chinese take place: Chinese attitudes toward, and approaches to dealing with, an unfamiliar and often threatening world beyond China; the remarkable capacity of the Chinese to establish and manipulate personal relationships with foreign officials in a way that is a clear projection of Chinese social practices; and the bureaucratic and political context within which the PRC negotiating official operates.

CHINA IN THE WORLD: THE AMBIVALENCES OF A FORMER IMPERIAL POWER

Much of China's difficulty in adapting to the modern world seems related to the strengths of tradition of a culturally homogeneous and insular peasant empire that for centuries considered itself Zhong Guo, or the "Middle Kingdom"--the cultural center of the known world, which the Chinese tried to control through a tributary system of relations with such bordering kingdoms as Korea, Indochina, and Burma.

Contemporary Chinese leaders are painfully aware of the constraints their country's social traditions place on their efforts to promote modernization--even as they assume that China, with its great imperial past, will once again establish itself, by a kind of natural right as well as by accomplishment, as a major world power. In a 1973 conversation with Henry Kissinger, Communist Party Chairman Mao Zedong--in a relaxed and reflective mood following the signing of the Paris accords on the Vietnam War--commented on the "feudal ideas" of his people, and their aversion to foreign ways:

> The Chinese are very alien-excluding. For instance, in your country you can let in so many nationalities, yet in China how many foreigners do you see? . . . You have about 600,000 Chinese in the United States. We probably don't even have 60 Americans here. . . . I don't know why the Chinese never like foreigners. . . . There are no Indians perhaps. . . . In the past the Chinese went abroad and they didn't want to learn the local language. . . . You know Chinese are very obstinate and conservative.[1]

This innate conservatism and aversion to foreign ways are reinforced by the Chinese sense that for more than a century they have been humiliated and mistreated by imperialistic or hegemonic powers of the West--a mix of attitudes and emotions that underlies a self-righteous sense that China has been denied its proper place in the world and that the countries that formerly mistreated China owe it a debt. This theme is stressed by PRC officials with their American counterparts, for example, in discussions of the Taiwan issue.[2]

China's search for a way out of its imperial backwardness that would not jeopardize its own sense of identity embodies much of the anguish and drama of the country's internal politics and foreign relations since the late nineteenth century. China's first "turn to the West," beginning with the "self-strengthening" movement of the 1860s and reaching a peak in the 1910s under Sun Yat-sen's newly founded Republic, foundered on the disillusionment with the Europeans that came with World War I and subsequent lack of support from the West in resisting Japan's imperial ambitions in Asia. Those Chinese intellectuals of the "May Fourth" (1919) era who saw in socialism and the Russian revolution a way to modernize their country came to power in 1949, after long years of political rivalry and civil war with the more Western-oriented Nationalists. Yet even the Communists, after less than a decade of alliance with the Soviet Union, rejected the Stalinist model of development and, under Mao Zedong's insistent leadership, continued the country's search for its own road to restored national greatness.

Given this century of frustrating and inconstant efforts to modernize their country, it is remarkable that China's contemporary leaders have once again turned to the West for approaches to economic and social modernization. The leaders who shape the country's policies today are perhaps wiser about the pitfalls of trying to bring what is still a peasant society into the twentieth century; yet they may prove to be no more successful than their predecessors in reconciling the dilemmas of the modernization process.

For American officials who must negotiate with PRC counterparts, it is perhaps enough to be sensitive to the strong and conflicting emotions and the ambivalent perspectives that underlie Chinese dealings with the foreign world. On the one hand, the Chinese seek the wealth and power of the industrialized West; on the other hand, they sustain a remarkable degree of self-confidence that they can modernize their country without losing China's own cultural and historical moorings. PRC officials stress (even as they send the flower of a new generation of intellectual talent to the United States for training in the sciences, engineering, and management) that they will construct their own brand of socialism, adapted to China's particular social and economic conditions.

The Chinese emphasize to foreigners the importance of being treated with "equality" and with full respect for their sovereignty and national independence. As Zhou Enlai told Kissinger during their first meeting in July 1971, "The first question is that of equality, or in other words, the principle of reciprocity. All things must be done in a reciprocal manner."[3] But reciprocity does not necessarily mean adopting foreign ways; and the demand for "equality" conflicts with their own historical sense that China, by virtue of its size and past greatness, is more than just "equal."

To resolve these ambivalent feelings about the West, the Chinese assert that they are just another mistreated and struggling developing country--even as they presume to the leadership of the Third World. And it is no accident that when China sought to reengage the rest of the world at the end of the Cultural Revolution, it did so by way of "ping-pong diplomacy," making political use of a sport in which the Chinese were world champions--and thus were "number one," even as Zhou Enlai instructed his player/diplomats to stress "friendship first, competition second." Similarly, Mao Zedong stressed the slogan "never seek hegemony" as part of his country's defense policy; yet Zhou Enlai, in a candid moment, acknowledged to Henry Kissinger the difficulties of keeping Chinese sentiments of "big nation chauvinism" in check:

> . . . the objective fact of the largeness of the Chinese nation and Chinese area easily create a tendency to nationalistic sentiments and big nation chauvinism. [But] if there are too strong nationalist feelings, then one will cease to learn from others; one will seal oneself in and believe one is the best or will cease to learn from the strong points of others.[4]

[3] Zhou-Kissinger, July 9, 1971.
[4] Zhou-Kissinger, February 18, 1973.

The overall effect of these complex feelings and conflicting attitudes is a hypersensitivity about being treated "equally" but with the special respect due a once and future great power; the inclination to discuss issues in a global context, even when China's national power lacks global reach; a self-righteous feeling that the world owes China special treatment for past injustices; and a tendency to side with the weak and oppressed, with whom the Chinese identify themselves, even as they claim to be a world leader.

RELATIONSHIPS: THE GAMES OF GUANXI

Almost as a counterpoint to their ambivalences about dealings with the outside world, the Chinese seem to manage the interpersonal aspects of the negotiating process with great self-assuredness. To a remarkable degree, they are able to create their own "world" in structuring a negotiation with a foreign government. China's Confucian tradition places supreme value on the cultivation and management of interpersonal relations, guanxi; and in the negotiating process, contemporary Chinese seek to recreate their own social context and enmesh the foreign negotiator in a process that they can manage to their own advantage.

Chinese society is strongly collectivist and *inter*dependent. Individualism is eschewed as "selfishness." The mutual obligations that are an essential aspect of the Confucian tradition envelop the individual in a web of relationships that limit his personal initiative even as they give security to the larger social collective, be it family, village, or work unit. The foreign businessman, operating in this social context, finds that his Chinese counterparts seek to establish relations of "friendship" with him; but their expectations of friends far exceed American notions of that concept.[5]

The governmental negotiator, operating in a context where matters of authority, power, and sovereignty impart a hierarchical character to the negotiating process, finds that the Chinese have a remarkable capacity to maneuver him into the role of the supplicant or demandeur—even in circumstances where the realities of the situation would clearly seem to put the Chinese in the position of having to ask something from the foreigner. Ambivalences about dealing with the foreign world and enduring Chinese fears about being taken advantage of by wily foreigners lead PRC political negotiators to adopt the more secure posture of being the superior rather than the dependent in a relationship.

Draw the Adversary in . . . to a Dependent Position

> When I returned to Washington [from a trip to Illinois and West Virginia], Zbig [Brzezinski] had come back from China. He was overwhelmed with the Chinese. I told him he had been seduced.[6]

When the Chinese decide their interests are served by building a relationship with a foreign country, they can be highly skilled in drawing the officials of that country into personal relationships.[7] A number of former U.S. officials with extensive experience in dealings with the Chinese recall that their early encounters with PRC officials did not really seem to be "negotiations" at all, but rather very general exchanges of view or social encounters in which the Chinese assessed the attitudes and motives of the [7] This is in marked contrast to their behavior when they do not want to build a relationship—as was the case with the United States in the early 1950s. At Panmunjom, and at various times in the Geneva Ambassadorial talks, the behavior of PRC diplomats was obviously calculated to keep the United States at arm's length, or at most to create a relationship of adversaries rather than "friends." See the writings of Dean, Johnson, Joy, and Young cited in Appendix A.

American side in wanting to establish a relationship with the PRC. One former official observed that the "boundaries" of a negotiation with the Chinese are often hard to identify, as much of the activity in the preliminary stages of a negotiation—broad discussion of issues, even sightseeing trips and banquet talk—seems unrelated to concrete issues of concern. Yet it was evident, in retrospect, that the Chinese used such encounters as part of a purposeful period of establishing personal relationships.

This impulse to build relationships reflects a highly personalized view of the political process. In one of the early U.S.-PRC exchanges carried out indirectly via the intermediation of the Pakistan government, Zhou Enlai expressed concern that President Nixon's reference to his desire to establish "secret links" between the two countries meant only that he wanted to establish a "hot line" communication channel such as the United States had with the Soviet Union.[8] In fact, Nixon intended to send a personal envoy secretly to China to prepare the way for his own visit; and Zhou Enlai later recalled with emphasis how important it had been to PRC leaders involved in initiating the normalization dialogue that Nixon was willing to deal with them at a personal level: "From the beginning he [Nixon] took the attitude he was willing to come to Peking to meet us."[9]

Zhou's comment reflects the unspoken assumption that a foreign leader is best influenced when a personal relationship has been established, when his attitudes and motivations have been explored, and when enough of a commitment to the relationship has been created to make the leader vulnerable to the various forms of appeal and pressure that can be applied to "old friends." This fundamental instinct is different in kind, but not necessarily in effect, from Chinese notions of adversarial relationships. A basic Maoist military tenet of the civil war era, as well as of more recent times, is that of "drawing the enemy deep" (youdi shenru) into CCP-controlled territory, where he can be enmeshed in a "people's war." It was such a perspective which led the PRC to want their Nationalist adversaries to occupy the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu as a point of pressure and a link between the mainland and Taiwan. As Zhou Enlai told Nixon in 1972:

> We . . . advised [Chiang Kai-shek] not to withdraw from Quemoy and Matsu. We advised him not to withdraw by firing artillery shells at them—that is, on odd days we would shell them, and on holidays we would not shell them. So they understood our intentions and didn't withdraw. No other means or messages were required; just this method of shelling they understood.[10]

Why should the Nationalists, or any foreign government, want to sustain a "relationship" on this basis, when they can anticipate that they will be subject to various forms of manipulation or pressure? This is precisely the question the Chinese seek to answer for themselves in the early, relationship-building stage of a negotiation. There is nothing magic about the process; they just assume that a political leader or official has his own political motives and/or personal interests involved in approaching China; and if they can identify these motives, interests, and personal attitudes, they will be in a better position to enmesh him in the games of guanxi.[11]

In this early stage of contact, the Chinese frequently turn to trusted third parties to provide background information on the leader or official they will be dealing with, or to intermediate initial communications. Such an indirect approach, of course, was notable in the establishment of high-level U.S.-PRC contacts in [11] It should be noted that the Chinese are just as sensitive to identifying counterpart officials who will not be drawn into the relationship of an "old friend." There are at least two recent American Secretaries of State and one National Security Adviser whom the Chinese concluded were too aloof or uninterested in building a relationship, or too hostile, to serve their purposes. While these individuals were in office, the Chinese proceeded to cultivate relationships with other U.S. officials who they anticipated would be more receptive to their approaches, or who shared common policy perspectives or political objectives.

1970-1971. Rumania and Pakistan served as [redacted]diaries between the Nixon White House and the Mao-Zhou leadership in Beijing, not only providing the Chinese with intelligence about the intentions of the Administration, but also giving bona fides to the initial contacts, a measure of assurance that there were, in fact, common political objectives shared by the two sides, and that there would be no embarrassment or hostile confrontation.[12]

Who Needs Whom?

Chinese society has a deeply rooted [redacted]rian tradition; and despite contemporary assertions to U.S. officials of their concern to be treated as "equals," the Chinese in fact feel most comfortable in relationships where positions of superior and subordinate, leader and dependent, have been established. Thus a major aspect of the relationship game is a testing of "who needs whom," assessing the motives and needs that lead a counterpart government or official to want to sustain a relationship within which specific issues will be resolved in favor of the interests of one party or the other (if not both).[13]

As noted earlier, China's experience with foreign powers over the last century leads PRC officials to want to avoid the subordinate position in a relationship.[14] It is politically devastating in the Chinese context for a leader to put the country in the position of appearing to be dependent on a foreign power. Thus, at the beginning of the normalization process, the Chinese reacted sharply when their first grain purchases from the United States were characterized by a Department of Agriculture spokesman as reflecting the PRC's inability to produce sufficient grain to meet domestic consumption requirements. To suggest that the government is unable to feed its own people and must rely on foreign sources of supply is to challenge the very legitimacy of political leadership in China.[15]

The "who needs whom" theme runs throughout the evolution of the U.S.-PRC relationship during the 1970s. At the conclusion of Kissinger's first secret trip to Beijing, the one troublesome issue in drafting a communique was the Chinese effort to phrase the announcement so as to make it appear that President Nixon had asked to visit the PRC.[16] Similarly, in 1973, Zhou Enlai maneuvered the discussion about establishing liaison offices to make it evident that the United States had asked for them.[17] Being in a position where the foreigner comes to them for something, or asks them for something, not only reinforces

12 Zhou Enlai told Kissinger in their first encounter how important it had been that Pakistani President Yahya had vouched for Nixon's seriousness of intent in wanting to normalize U.S.-PRC relations. And Zhou used Yahya to pass on to Nixon the sensitive message that if the United States made it appear that China was approaching the United States out of weakness or fear of the Soviet Union, the normalization process would not go forward. (See Kissinger-Hilaly, February 26, 1970.)

13 For discussion of this theme in Soviet political culture, see Nathan Leites, The Operational Code of the Politburo, New York: McGraw-Hill, 1951, pp. 40-41.

14 It should be observed, of course, that over the past century the Chinese in fact have established relationships with the outside world in which they voluntarily assumed a subordinate position, as with the West during the May Fourth period in the 1910s and most obviously in the relationship with the "elder brother" Soviets in the 1950s. The disappointments in these relationships, however, only reinforced Chinese instincts to be independent, or at least to be the predominant power in an international relationship, as they were with their sole small ally Albania during the 1960s.

At present the Chinese have again "opened the door" to an intensive relationship with the outside world--particularly the United States and the other industrialized democracies. It is noteworthy that as China's leaders increased their interdependence with the outside world in the late 1970s, they began to stress a foreign-policy line of "independence," as if verbal assertions of autonomy would counteract the fact of their growing interdependence with the world. Thus, the more interdependent the Chinese become, the more likely they are to seek the reassurance of at least verbal assertions of autonomy.

It is this tension between fears of being misused (again) by foreign powers and the country's objective need for trade, cultural, and even security relations with the outside world that imparts much of the tension and dynamic to China's contemporary foreign relations.

the legitimacy of the Chinese leaders and strengthens their own position, but also establishes a certain measure of psychological dominance in the relationship.

U.S.-PRC discussions of strategic issues have been suffused with this issue of which side is more in need of the relationship. Kissinger's exchanges with Zhou Enlai, Qiao Guanhua, and Deng Xiaoping during the 1970s are a continuous and unresolved exploration of the question of whether China or the United States is the primary target of Soviet "hegemony." In response to a Nixon statement to Mao Zedong on February 21, 1972 that the Soviets had positioned more of their military forces against the PRC than against Europe,[18] Chinese leaders developed the slogan of the Soviets "feinting toward the East to attack in the West,"[19] as a way of reassuring their own people that they were not the primary target of Soviet pressures and also to counter the assumed U.S. presumption that China needed a relationship with the West for security reasons. Thus, Kissinger's exchanges with his PRC interlocutors endlessly explore the Chinese assertions that the primary Soviet strategic objective is Europe, that Soviet forces in Asia are targeted primarily on U.S. naval forces and regional bases, that the Soviet's "southern strategy" of intervention in the Middle East, Afghanistan, India, and Indochina is really part of the effort to outflank Europe and gain control of Western oil reserves and sea lanes of communication, and that China does not fear Soviet military pressures.

The unspoken message in these exchanges is the concern of Chinese leaders that if they appear to need the United States too much, they will once again be taken advantage of by a foreign power, especially regarding their objective of recovering Taiwan. This was most pungently phrased by the Chairman:

> Mao: We see that what you are doing is leaping to Moscow by way of our shoulders, and these shoulders are now useless. . . .
> Kissinger: We have nothing to gain in Moscow.
> Mao: But you can gain Taiwan in China.
> Kissinger: We can gain Taiwan in China?
> Mao: But you now have the Taiwan of China.
> Kissinger: But we will settle that between us.
> Mao: In a hundred years.
> Kissinger: That's what the Chairman said the last time I was here.[20]

Similarly, in 1981-1982 the Chinese resisted the development of programs of strategic cooperation with the United States until they had established at least some limits on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. This was an effort to turn the "who-whom" game around on the United States, to make American leaders face the prospect of a breakdown in the relationship—or at least the prospect of no Chinese cooperation in strategic matters—until PRC demands regarding American arms sales to Taiwan had been met.

[18] In fact, the reverse is true. About one-quarter of Soviet forces are deployed against the PRC, the remainder against Europe and the United States.

[19] See Zhou Enlai's (Chou En-lai's) Report to the Tenth National Congress of the Chinese Communist Party (August 24, 1973), in FBIS, PRC, August 31, 1973, p. B-8.

[20] Mao-Kissinger, October 21, 1975.

The Chinese realize full well that the United States is not about to assume a subordinate position relative to the PRC any more than they want to be treated as a "junior partner" or "younger brother" of the United States—despite the needs of the two countries for a relationship. The rhetorical way out of this dilemma is to assert that China is independent, self-reliant, and seeks no favors from the United States. As Deng said to Kissinger in the fall of 1975:

> We believe China should rely on its independent strength in dealing with the Soviets, and China has never asked for favors from others . . . frankly, China fears nothing under heaven or on earth. China will not ask favors from anyone. We depend on the digging of tunnels. We rely on millet plus rifles to deal with all problems internationally and locally, including the problems in the East. There is an argument in the world to the effect that China is afraid of an attack by the Russians. As a friend, I will be candid and tell you that this assessment is wrong.[21]

Such verbal bravado, of course, runs into the realities of China's defense and modernization needs, its military and economic weaknesses relative to the Soviet Union. And at times the Chinese have asked for things from the United States, most notably technology. But PRC leaders will go to great lengths to avoid a situation in which they appear to be the supplicant. At most they can acknowledge, as did Mao Zedong, that China and the United States need each other. As the Chairman rhetorically inquired of Kissinger in the fall of 1975:

> Yesterday, in your quarrel with the Vice Prime Minister [Deng] you said the United States asked nothing of China, and China asked nothing of the United States. As I see it, this is partly right and partly wrong. . . . If neither side had anything to ask from the other, why would you be coming to Peking? If neither side had anything to ask, then why did you want to come to Peking, and why would we want to receive you and the President?[22]

There can be no easy resolution of the "who needs whom" issue with the Chinese, because their objective needs for an active relationship with the Western world are in tension with their presumptions as a global power and their fears of being taken advantage of in a dependent relationship with a more powerful foreign nation. At best the issue can be defused as a source of pretense or pressure in negotiating encounters, by neither humiliating the proud Chinese for their needs and vulnerabilities nor "kowtowing" to their desires to be treated as more than an equal or their exaggerated assertions of self-reliance and Third World leadership.

Your Relationship with China is in Doubt; Show Us You Care

A variation of the "who needs whom" theme is Chinese skill in maneuvering a foreign official so as to cast doubt and uncertainty on his relationship with China. And for a high-level political figure who has established some reputation in his own country and in the international community for being skillful in dealing with the Chinese, to have his position as a "friend of China" thrown in doubt can be a significant threat. The official or negotiator is put in the position of having to "deliver" for the Chinese to sustain his relationship with them, or face a loss of respect, prestige, and political influence. Such was the game the Chinese played with Henry Kissinger in 1974–1975 when they wanted him to complete the normalization process, and with George Bush in 1980 and 1982 when they wanted assurances from the Reagan administration that it would not "turn back the clock" on U.S. China policy.[23]

Perhaps the clearest example of Chinese maneuvering to draw an administration into "proving" its interest in a relationship is the Carter administration's early dealings with the PRC. During the 1976 presidential campaign and in the first months of the administration, Carter and his senior officials gave uncertain signals about their interest in a relationship with the PRC and in completing the normalization process.[24] In the two years that followed, the Chinese turned this situation—in which they were the uncertain party about a U.S. administration's interest in a relationship with them—into one in which they had the administration going to some lengths to demonstrate its desire to develop a relationship with the PRC.

When Secretary of State Vance went to Beijing in August 1977, the Chinese heard him out on international and bilateral issues, including a presentation of the administration's approach to normalization. But they held themselves aloof from Vance, in part by rejecting his suggestion for a joint press communique to publicize the results of his trip, and by characterizing his visit both privately and publicly as a "step backward" in the relationship. The Chinese position reflected, in part, uncertainties in their own approach to dealing with the United States; but it also expressed PRC concerns about Vance as an official they could work with, given his views on the Soviet Union and on normalization, and their desire to press the United States for more favorable terms for normalization.

The following spring the administration decided it wanted to accelerate the pace of normalization, and National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski put himself forward to the Chinese as a friendly interlocutor in this process.[25] Brzezinski went to China in May 1978 with instructions to assure the Chinese that "the President has made up his mind" about normalization—a phrase PRC officials had been using with U.S. counterparts since the Vance visit to Beijing the preceding year. Brzezinski's exchanges with the Chinese, as he tried to convince them that President Carter was serious about normalization—with the Chinese casting doubts on his assertion in order to put him in the position of having to do more to prove himself—are almost comical:

> Brzezinski: At the outset I would like to express to you our determination to move forward on the process of normalization. I can say on behalf of President Carter that the United States has made up its mind on this issue. . . .
> As I said when I began, the U.S. has made up its mind on this issue. I certainly am anxious to do anything I can to enhance and accelerate this process.[26]
> . . . .
> Huang Hua: On the Chinese side, we have raised three conditions on normalization of relations between our two countries. . . .
> This has shown that China has done its utmost to accommodate the views of the U.S. on this question. So the Chinese position cannot be changed. . . . Let no one harbor any hope that the Chinese side will make any concessions in this respect. If the U.S. side gives consideration to this point from a strategic point of view and really makes up its mind, it is not difficult to solve this issue.[27]

Deng Xiaoping: You must be tired [from your long trip].

Brzezinski: I am exhilarated.

Deng: The question now remains how to make up one's mind [on whether or not to normalize]. President Ford stated [in 1975] that if he were reelected he would move to full normalization according to the three conditions without any reservation. We were very happy at that time with the oral commitment of President Ford. . . . Subsequently President Ford was not reelected, and of course the new administration has a right to reconsider this question. . . .

I think that is about all on this question. We are looking forward to the day when President Carter makes up his mind. Let's now shift the subject.

Brzezinski: I have told you before, President Carter has made up his mind.

Deng: So much the better.[28]

Apart from demonstrating how the Chinese can hold off an interlocutor in order to entice him to accommodate to their position, this series of exchanges emphasizes the Chinese concern with the counterpart official's attitude as a basis for building a relationship: the President should "make up his mind." Reflecting the concerns with "correct thinking" and thought reform that have been such fundamental aspects of both the Confucian tradition and the history of Chinese Communism,[29] PRC negotiators place considerable emphasis on exploring the attitudes of their counterparts, their feelings and views about China, and their positions on international issues of concern to the PRC. In the case of Brzezinski, the Chinese concluded that they had an interlocutor with congruent views on the Soviet Union (which was not the case in their assessment of Secretary of State Vance), and an official who was willing to put himself forward in building a normal relationship with China, "to do anything I can to enhance and accelerate this process."[30]

Another aspect of the Carter administration's dealings with the PRC that illustrates the Chinese instinct to pressure foreign officials by casting doubts on their relationship with China is their use of the tactic of playing political adversaries against each other. The Chinese sought to make use of a presumed Vance-Brzezinski rivalry to their benefit (they also used such an approach to put pressure on Henry Kissinger by playing up to Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, and by encouraging Secretary of State Haig against National Security Adviser Richard Allen).[31] In none of these instances did the Chinese do anything to create a rivalry; it was there for them to respond to or to ignore. But in each instance they sought to advance their interests by making one official in the rivalry concerned about his relationship with China, or to draw into the relationship the official whom they considered to be more "friendly" to their position.

30 Another example of the Chinese concern with a counterpart official's attitude as the basis for building a relationship is the PRC's uncertainty about the Reagan administration's position on China policy. Deng Xiaoping, in the early 1980s, repeatedly expressed concern about U.S. technology transfer policy, not only because of a desire to acquire advanced American technology, but also because of what the Reagan administration's policy on transfers revealed about its attitude toward the PRC. As Deng said to Secretary of the Treasury Donald Regan, "America has not given China a single item of advanced technology .... I wonder whether the United States is still not treating China as a hostile country." [Deng-Regan, November 19, 1981; see also Deng-Mondale, November 22, 1981.]

31 This Chinese pressure tactic is explored in more detail on pp. 99-103 below.

PRC officials also draw on the millennial Chinese imperial tradition in controlling access to their senior leaders as one vehicle for building uncertainty about the foreigner's relationship with China, thus giving him an incentive to be forthcoming in meeting Chinese conditions. During his first, secret trip to the PRC, Kissinger sparred with Zhou Enlai about whether President Nixon would have to agree to establish diplomatic relations with the PRC (and break relations with Taiwan) as a condition for meeting Chairman Mao:

> Zhou: You mentioned that the meeting today is an historic occasion. Of course, a still greater historic occasion would be if President Nixon comes to China and meets Chairman Mao Tse-tung. That would be an historic occasion, if we could solve problems. . . .
> Therefore, the question of Taiwan becomes one regarding which we cannot but blame your government. . . . If this crucial question is not solved, then the whole question [of U.S.-PRC relations] will be difficult to solve. . . . When your President comes to discuss matters with Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the conclusion could be drawn that he will answer that question [about the timing of the establishment of diplomatic relations]. . . .
> Kissinger: Is the Prime Minister linking a meeting between the President and Chairman Mao Tse-tung to the prior establishment of diplomatic relations, or can the two be separated?.
> Zhou: This is not absolute. Of course, it should be discussed. If time is needed, it may not necessarily be solved then. However, the general direction should be established.[32]

As it turned out, Nixon did meet with Mao at the beginning of his Presidential visit to China, although the timing of the meeting was a surprise to the President (notification came just as Nixon was preparing to shower on the day of his arrival in Beijing). A second Mao-Nixon meeting, which Zhou Enlai had said would occur, never took place because--said the Chinese--the Chairman had a cold. One may speculate, however, that Mao cancelled what would have been an unprecedented second meeting with a foreign head of state on one visit because he did not get all that he wanted from Nixon on the Taiwan issue. The Chinese similarly held President Ford at arm's length in order to entice him to complete the normalization process.[33] Ford went to the PRC in December 1975 uncertain about arrangements for a meeting with Chairman Mao, only to have the visit "surprised" on him during a sightseeing tour of the Temple of Heaven.

In more recent times, the Chinese first agreed to, then delayed, and finally postponed a visit to the United States in 1981 of their Director of Defense Research and Engineering, General Liu Huaqing

b1, a5

The ultimate Chinese use of the relationship game is the threat to break off the relationship entirely--what one U.S. official has termed "the Chinese wife syndrome." In traditional Chinese society, wives, concubines, and other dependents of those in authority had few means to protect their interests beyond appeals to human sentiments, social convention, and public pressure. The most extreme pressure that such a dependent could bring to bear was to threaten suicide, which would bring the greatest loss of face to the offending authority and would "abandon" him by depriving him of a loyal supporter.

The Chinese, in recent times, have used such a tactic in attempts to pressure the United States

Thus, the establishment and manipulation of a relationship, even to the extreme of threatening to break it off when fundamental state interests are involved, is the central psychological theme in Chinese negotiating behavior.

THE BUREAUCRATIC CONTEXT

One of the most remarkable gifts of the Chinese is to make the meticulously planned appear spontaneous.[35]

While the development and manipulation of personal relationships is a distinctive aspect of the Chinese approach to negotiations, official encounters with PRC negotiators--like all dealings--take place in a more or less evident bureaucratic context. There is a certain irony in the contrast between the ties of "friendship" that Chinese officials seek to develop with their foreign counterparts and the strict bureaucratic and political discipline within which they operate. It is as if the Chinese view the constraints of organizational life as necessary to contain the very human qualities they seek to engage and manipulate in foreign officials.

Bureaucratic routine did not always encumber U.S. dealings with the PRC in the normalization period. The first American contacts with Beijing's officials in the early 1970s took place when the Chinese were just rebuilding their foreign relations after the withdrawal from the world of the Cultural Revolution--a domestic political frenzy that decimated the state bureaucracies. Much of the contact between Chinese and American officials between 1971 and 1976 took place under the direct personal management of Mao Zedong, Zhou Enlai, and their operatives in the Foreign Ministry.[36]

Since the completion of normalization in late 1976, however, the relationship has become increasingly bureaucratized, in part because of the formalization that came with establishment of diplomatic relations and the signing of various treaties and agreements, but also because the Deng Xiaoping leadership has purposefully rebuilt the state system, reconstituting much of the bureaucratic structure of state power which Mao destroyed in the Cultural Revolution. In the 1980s, the Sino-American relationship and U.S.-PRC negotiations, such as those leading to the August 17, 1982, communique on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan, have been managed largely by the Foreign Ministry (with political oversight, to be sure, by senior leaders such as Deng Xiaoping and Zhao Ziyang).

Many of the issues that have been subjects of U.S.-PRC diplomatic exchanges or negotiation--civil aviation, textiles and grain trade, nuclear cooperation, and so on--involve the interests and the internal decisionmaking procedures of ministries and agencies under the State Council. As the context within which the Chinese negotiator operates has become increasingly bureaucratized and issues have become increasingly technical, the influence of senior political leaders has been somewhat diluted. Thus China's millennial bureaucratic tradition, as well as the legacy of the Communist party's Marxist-Leninist organizational life, is finding renewed expression.

What are the primary qualities of the bureaucratic context within which PRC officials operate? The experience of the past decade and more suggests the characteristics described below.

Meticulous Planning and Management

As Henry Kissinger discovered on his first trip to Beijing, the Chinese pay meticulous attention to the organizational formalities of their dealings with foreign governments—yet with an apparent ease that may deceive the foreign official regarding the degree of purpose and planning with which he is being dealt. The Chinese have traditionally considered form and ritual to be as important as substance in political and social relationships; indeed, form and ritual are not considered to be separate matters from substance.[37] This attitude is evident in their meticulous attention to protocol. Numerous examples could be cited, particularly in their preparations for the three Presidential visits they have hosted. A clear and brief statement of their concern with matters of form appears in a 1980 discussion about a proposed visit to the United States of then-Secretary General of the Party's Military Affairs Commission Geng Biao, at the invitation of the U.S. Secretary of Defense. As Director of the Defense Ministry's Foreign Affairs Bureau said to his American interlocutor:

> Your Secretary of Defense [Harold Brown] invited Geng Biao face-to-face yesterday during their meeting to visit the United States. Geng did not respond. I have not had time to ask him about it yet. I will seek his instructions. As we see it, his military post as Secretary-General of the Military Commission is a Party post. Perhaps you have noted that in our press we only use his governmental post, Vice Premier, not his Party post.[38]

The Chinese eventually resolved their protocol problem by appointing Geng to the state post of Minister of Defense, a role in which he traveled to the United States in May 1980.

Despite the relatively unmodernized state of their communication system, the Chinese have shown a remarkable capacity to orchestrate all aspects of official encounters with foreign governments: the coordination of multiple channels of contact; the meshing of negotiating sessions with their internal decisionmaking procedures; use of sightseeing trips and banquets to pace a negotiation; use of the Chinese press and nongovernmental "friends" as adjunct "voices" in sending signals to the counterpart government during a negotiation, etc.

The Chinese have also demonstrated a great sensitivity to the interplay between political processes in their own country and those in the counterpart government in pacing a negotiation. During Henry Kissinger's first encounter with Zhou Enlai, the Premier revealed that he had already anticipated the time-phasing of the normalization negotiations:

> Zhou: There are two questions I would like to clarify. I see the necessity for a period of time [to accomplish normalization], but the time that is left for President Nixon is limited. And as a close associate of his, you must be quite clear about this point.

37 For discussion of this point, see Anthony C. Yu, "The Confucian Concept of Order," Thought, No. 43, 1968, pp. 249-272; and Morton H. Fried, The Fabric of Chinese Society, New York: Octagon, 1969.

38 McGiffert-Chai Chengwen, January 8, 1980.

Kissinger: What is the Prime Minister's estimate of the time left to President Nixon?

Zhou: I see two stages. The first is one-and-a-half years; and the second, if he is reelected, five-and-a-half years. This would take us to the 200th anniversary of your country.

Kissinger: Which time period is the Prime Minister talking about, five-and-a-half years or one-and-a-half years?

Zhou: When your President comes . . . the conclusion could be drawn that . . . he will answer that question.[39]

Similarly, the Chinese have shown considerable understanding of the way Congressional procedures politically significant anniversary dates, and official visits to and from the United States can be used a occasions for moving along a negotiation or putting the counterpart government under time pressures t conclude an agreement.

Effective Briefing

PRC officials are usually well briefed on all aspects of a negotiating encounter. From the very firs meetings between Zhou and Kissinger, it was evident that the Chinese had done considerable backgroun research on each of the individuals in Kissinger's entourage, for the Premier would use the occasion of th first, informal session of a visit to make some personal observation about each of them:

> After a group picture was taken at the entrance to the meeting room, Chou [Enlai] seated us behind the inevitable cups of green tea and proceeded to say a few words of personal greeting to everyone in the party. The Premier had done his biographical homework well and flattered my associates with references to their educational or professional history . . . .[40]

Similarly, Zhou indicated that he had read Nixon's Six Crises, had seen the President's favorite movi Patton, and was being kept up to date on U.S. press materials relevant to the development of the U.S.-Chin relationship--he had even seen the reports of a speech given by President Nixon at Kansas City on July 6 1971, that Kissinger himself had not seen because of his travels.

Much of the information the Chinese gain about their foreign counterparts seems based on a carefu reading of the press and meticulous records of past encounters, rather than covert intelligence collection Mao Zedong once ridiculed intelligence reporting and revealed that during the Cultural Revolution he had seen the first signals of a shift in Nixon's China policy by reading his 1967 Foreign Affairs article and ther following subsequent newspaper accounts of policy reassessments in the State Department

The important point for the American negotiator is that the Chinese have shown a sophisticated capacity to assemble and orchestrate the use of information derived from multiple sources- b1, a5 the world's mass media, technical documentation, and so on--in support of negotiations and other official dealings with foreign governments, despite significant limitations in their organizational outreach and technological capabilities.

Political Discipline

The Chinese negotiator operates with a political discipline reflecting the Leninist tradition of the Chinese Communist party--to which he almost certainly belongs.. American negotiators with considerable experience in dealing with PRC counterparts remark that they often can "feel" the presence in the room of unseen audiences to whom their Chinese interlocutors are speaking: superiors whom the PRC officials must impress with their loyalty and toughness in implementing instructions; political rivals who will use any lapses in performance against them; and even foreign allies who are worrying that China may compromise their interests.

During Kissinger's secret trip to Beijing in 1971, Zhou Enlai proposed that at the conclusion of their discussions they tape-record a summary of their views. b1, a3, a5

And while the tape-recording was never made--Kissinger resisted the suggestion--it does emphasize the multiple audiences, many of them unseen, who are "present" on the Chinese side of a negotiating table.

PRC officials demonstrate a remarkable capacity to hew to the "Party line" on almost any issue of significance; and the consistency with which different officials will invoke the same phrasing on a given matter reflects what must be written instructions or briefs which they follow closely. Especially on matters relating to domestic politics, the Chinese present a united front to foreign officials, even when signs of leadership disarray are evident to the non-Chinese reader of the official press. A leader as senior as Zhou Enlai apparently could tell Henry Kissinger about the Cultural Revolution only with some trepidation--and perhaps at the instruction of Chairman Mao:

41 Mao-Kissinger, February 17-18, 1973.
42 Zhou-Kissinger, July 10, 1971.

> So I told you of our [Cultural Revolution] transformation during lunch. We do not cover up the facts of our transformation. When your President comes and talks to Chairman Mao he will speak much more. We sometimes wonder whether we can talk about such things. But Chairman Mao speaks completely at his will.[43]

As a general rule, only the top man, the senior political leader (when he is in an unchallenged position) is free to speak his mind to foreign observers and officials. Those in subordinate positions--even officials as senior as the Premier, Ministers, and Vice Chairmen--speak with restraint and a common voice bespeaking the discipline of "democratic centralism."

This pattern of political and bureaucratic discipline imparts some interesting patterns to the negotiating process. PRC officials will go to great lengths to draw out a foreign counterpart regarding his government's position on issues under negotiation. Corresponding efforts to draw out the Chinese in the initial stages of a negotiation, however, will elicit either banalities, "principled" abstractions, or strong assertions that the foreign official should present his position first. Only after the Chinese believe they understand the foreign government's position will they respond--and after the senior leader or the collective leadership has reviewed the first exchanges and formulated a reply. Thus, in Kissinger's early exchanges with Zhou Enlai, the Premier politely heard him out, and then--after consulting with Chairman Mao and perhaps other senior leaders--sharply attacked the U.S. position with a forceful presentation of the PRC point of view.[44]

Even very high-level Chinese negotiators, such as the Foreign Minister, will display almost no flexibility in position until very late in what may have been months of exchanges--when it is believed that all "give" in the adversary's position has been tested. Then, after collective review, the negotiator may present a compromise position. More likely, according to the experience of the past decade, he will let the negotiation deadlock, and the senior leader will intervene to "cut the knot." Political authority and discipline in the Chinese system are both highly centralized and personalized in the position of the senior leader.

There are, of course, times when the senior political leader is weak (as was Hua Guofeng in 1976-1977, after he had become Mao's successor, or Deng Xiaoping just after his third rehabilitation in 1977-1978). In such circumstances, political direction is less sure, since there is no voice of ultimate authority, and the PRC negotiator will be tentative in pushing issues to resolution. He may stall or protract a negotiation with rigid and self-righteous assertions that China's principled policy--however abstractly defined--is the only possible position. He will hold to a defensive discipline even as negotiating exchanges mire down in repetition and uncertainty.

Immobilism can also occur when the ministries whose interests are engaged in a negotiation cannot reach a common position, when the political "center" is having trouble gaining the compliance of local authorities, or when a senior leader or leadership collective has not yet resolved its differences and established a common position. Yet even in such circumstances, the PRC negotiator will display remarkable discipline, refusing to disclose to his foreign counterpart the internal differences that are obstructing the creation of a unified Chinese bargaining position.

THE OBSCURITY OF CHINA'S INTERNAL POLITICS

> Kissinger: What is the news from our friends in Peking?

[43] Zhou-Kissinger, July 10, 1971.
[44] Kissinger, White House Years, p. 750.

Huang Zhen: Some of you read our newspapers in Peking, our broadcasts. Your colleagues must know [what the news is].

Kissinger: You have no secrets? You must be following our practice (laughter).

Huang Zhen: What needs to be broadcast will be broadcast. What needs to be published will be published.

Kissinger: So you have nothing to add?

Huang Zhen: According to Dr. Kissinger's usual arrangement, I will be pleased to listen to your views.[45]

The political discipline observed by PRC officials is, in part, a reflection of unstated fears of the destructive effects on the Chinese political system of factional political rivalries—of which the Cultural Revolution power struggle is only the most recent and a particularly costly example. More than one PRC official has observed off the record that factional conflict within the leadership is a greater threat to the security of the country than a prospective Soviet invasion. (Indeed, a foreign invasion is viewed by the Chinese as a unifying political force, as was the Japanese invasion in the 1930s.)

What is interesting to an American observer of the Chinese political scene is the determined effort of PRC officials to deny the existence of rivalries within the top leadership and to obscure policy conflicts from foreign view. The strength of this attitude is only additional proof, if any were needed, that factional struggles are an inherent and disruptive aspect of the Chinese political order—as they are of all political systems. The need to present an image of leadership unity reflects a sense of vulnerability, which is perhaps reinforced in the minds of PRC officials by the degree to which they try to use leadership rivalries they perceive in foreign governments for their own ends.

The relevance to the American negotiator of the effort to prevent foreigners from viewing internal leadership feuds and policy differences is the fact that factional conflicts do affect PRC policies relevant to the interests of other countries, and they influence PRC negotiating positions. In the case of U.S.-PRC relations, policy differences in the Chinese leadership that culminated in the Lin Biao episode of 1971—in which the PRC Defense Minister, Mao Zedong's designated successor, apparently tried to assassinate Mao and, when discovered, fled by plane toward the Soviet Union, only to die when his plane crashed in Mongolia—seem to have delayed the initiation of the normalization dialogue. Vice Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua, in a retrospective discussion with Kissinger of efforts by the two governments to establish direct contact in the late 1960s, cryptically commented that efforts by the U.S. government to make contact with the PRC via the intermediation of the Dutch ambassador to Beijing had been blocked because of unfavorable "circumstances," by which he probably meant internal political problems:

Kissinger: We sent a message to you in 1969 through the Dutch ambassador in Peking. Did you take our message seriously? Did you get it?

Qiao: We did give serious consideration to it, but circumstances were not right.

Kissinger: I don't think he was a good channel of communication to you.

[45] Kissinger-Huang Zhen, July 7, 1975.

Qiao: No, it was not that. We did give consideration to it, but our circumstances were not right.[46]

Mao Zedong was somewhat more forthright about the Lin Biao affair in his 1972 meeting wi President Nixon: "In our country . . . there is a reactionary group which is opposed to our contact with yc The result was that they got on an airplane and fled abroad."[47] Mao went on to praise the U. government's ability to interpret such events:[48] but in fact the relationship between Lin Biao's opposition Mao and the Chairman's establishment of direct contact with the Nixon administration remains obscure.[49]

There is circumstantial evidence that political attacks on Zhou Enlai in 1974, in the context of t "anti-Lin Biao, anti-Confucius" campaign, led the PRC to withdraw its proffered solution to the priva claims-blocked assets problem put forward the year before by the Premier.[50] Similarly, it seems likely th PRC demands in the fall of 1973 that the United States remove the Marine Guard security contingent fro its Beijing Liaison Office reflected rising influence in the leadership of the radical group centered arou Mao's wife Jiang Qing—the faction now termed the "Gang of Four"—as they attacked Zhou and resisted t rehabilitation of Deng Xiaoping.[51]

It can also be inferred that differences within the leadership following the purge of the Gang of Fo in October 1976 led the newly rehabilitated Deng Xiaoping to stall the initiation of concrete negotiatio about normalization—a process Deng was able to bring to a successful conclusion eighteen months later, the late fall of 1978, when his political position was much stronger.[52]

The point of these domestic PRC political events is not just that they have had a significant influen on the evolution of the Sino-American relationship—it is assumed for all countries that internal politi influence foreign relations—but that the Chinese go to such great lengths to deny the existence of leadersh difficulties when they are so obviously occurring. All during the period in the early 1970s when signs leadership conflict were increasing in PRC media, the government took active steps to deny to U.S. officia the rumors of conflict between Zhou Enlai and Jiang Qing. In the fall of 1971, a Chinese-Americ scientist (who had been received by Mao and Zhou) was sent by PRC leaders to approach NSC officials a assert, among other things, that rumors of conflict between Zhou and Jiang Qing were untrue. Forei Ministry officials would strenuously assert during the "anti-Confucius" campaign of 1974 that t leadership was fully unified. And Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen who, in the summer of 1975 when t Gang of Four was particularly "rampant," blandly brushed aside inquiries about conflict in the leadersh (see the quote at the beginning of this section), blithely asserted to Kissinger not long after the Gang h been purged that the political situation in his country "is now excellent."[53]

For the American negotiator, it is obviously important to have as clear an assessment as possible the state of the PRC leadership, for the strength of the top leader or the degree of conflict over policies a positions will have a significant influence on negotiating instructions and on the ability of the leadership conclude and implement agreements.

How is the foreign observer to penetrate the ritualistic assertions of his PRC counterparts that the political situation in their country is "excellent," or at least evaluate their tendency to downplay the significance of leadership conflicts? Here one must place considerable reliance on professional analysts of the PRC political scene and their practice of the all-too-arcane art of "Pekingology"—a derivative of the even more hoary science of Kremlinology, the interpretation of signs of conflict in the equally secrecy-conscious Soviet leadership.

For the purposes of this analysis it is worth noting that in various negotiating encounters, senior PRC leaders have provided tantalizing hints to their American interlocutors about political conflicts. Hence, the record of exchanges can be usefully combed for indicators of the condition of the leadership. As one example, in July 1971 Zhou Enlai hinted obliquely to Kissinger about Lin Biao's opposition to the establishment of U.S.-PRC contacts:

> I would also like to take the opportunity to say we express thanks for the gifts which the President and you have sent to Chairman Mao, Lin Piao, and myself. You may say that Chairman Mao and I both send our regards to President Nixon. . . .[54]

After Lin's death, the Chinese—not surprisingly—gave no explanation to the U.S. government about the events that had led to the grounding of the entire PLA air force for more than a month. Indeed, Kissinger met with Huang Zhen in Paris (where Huang was then PRC ambassador) on September 13—the day after Lin Biao's plane had crashed in Mongolia—and informed Kissinger that his second trip to Beijing could be scheduled in October. PRC officials did take the unusual step of reconfirming the visit in a separate message of October 3, 1971, presumably as an oblique way of saying that despite the (as yet unrevealed) leadership feud which had just played itself out mu hou ("behind the curtain," as the Chinese like to characterize such conflicts), the Mao-Zhou leadership was still in control and its invitation to President Nixon still stood.

A bit more than a month after the event, Zhou Enlai still only hinted obliquely to Kissinger about the Lin affair, by quoting Mao's own premonition of the Defense Minister's betrayal: "Chairman Mao has a thesis: those who hail you are not the ones who support you. He said this to Edgar Snow [in December 1970]."[55] Ultimately it was Mao himself who had sufficient authority to reveal the event to President Nixon (see p. 24 above).

Mao also hinted at the growing troubles with Jiang Qing in the following exchange with Kissinger in February 1973:

> Mao: The trade between our two countries at present is very pitiful. It is gradually increasing. You know China is a very poor country. We don't have much. What we have in excess is women (laughter).
> Kissinger: There are no quotas for those, or tariffs.
> Mao: So if you want them, we can give a few of those to you, some tens of thousands (laughter).
> Zhou: Of course on a voluntary basis.

[54] Zhou-Kissinger, July 11, 1971.
[55] Zhou-Kissinger, October 21, 1971.

Mao: Let them go to your place. They will create disasters. That way you can lessen our burdens (laughter).

. . . .

Mao: Do you want our Chinese women? We can give you ten million (laughter).

Kissinger: The Chairman is improving his offer.

Mao: By doing so we can let them flood your country with disaster and therefore impair your interests. In our country we have too many women, and they have a way of doing things. They give birth to children and our children are too many (laughter).

Kissinger: It is such a novel proposition, we will have to study it.

Mao: We have so many women in our country that don't know how to fight.

Nancy Tang: Not necessarily. There are women's detachments.

Mao: They are only on stage. In reality if there is a fight you would flee very quickly and run into underground shelters.

. . . .

Mao: You know, the Chinese have a scheme to harm the United States, that is, to send ten million women to the United States and impair its interests by increasing its population.

Kissinger: The Chairman has fixed the idea so much in my mind that I'll certainly use it in my next press conference (laughter).[56]

Was Mao's humorous and condescending banter about women--their capacity to cause "disasters," and their theatrical bravery--really a put-down of Jiang Qing? Given the nature of the Chairman's frequently cryptic dialogue, one cannot be certain. And even if his oblique deprecation of women was directed toward his wife, was he signaling his opposition to Jiang Qing or only misguiding Kissinger about the degree of support he in fact was giving to the woman who had been partly responsible for bringing the disaster of the Cultural Revolution down on China? The obscurity of Chinese politics persists, even when the top man chooses to comment on his domestic problems to a foreign official.

III. THE PROCESS

Negotiations with the Chinese--formal intergovernmental bargaining designed to resolve specific problems or attain concrete goals, often expressed in published agreements--take place within the context of the culture, history, and institutions we have just explored. We shall now assess the process of formal negotiating with the Chinese as the U.S. government has experienced it over the last fifteen years. This section describes evident patterns of style and action by which Chinese officials attempt to manage the negotiating process in the service of attaining agreements that will serve the interests of the PRC as they are defined by its senior leaders.

U.S. officials who have had considerable experience in dealing with the Chinese in recent years describe the negotiating process as a "linear" progression of rather well-defined and sequential stages (see Fig. 1): First is an initial period of opening moves, in which the Chinese try to identify and establish a relationship with a favorable interlocutor, gain his commitment to certain "principles" they put forward, and establish a negotiating agenda favorable to their objectives. Then follows what is often a lengthy period of assessment, in which the Chinese use a variety of facilitating maneuvers to draw out the counterpart official on his government's position, objectives, and degree of flexibility. They may resort to a variety of pressure tactics--invoking past commitments to their principles, use of the media and public opinion, and time deadlines--to test the firmness of commitment of the counterpart government to its stand and try to move it to accept the PRC's position. When they have concluded that no further give in their counterpart's position is possible, and when PRC interests are served, they will swiftly initiate an end game or concluding phase in order to reach formal agreement. Attainment of a formal agreement is followed by a period of implementation in which the Chinese press for scrupulous adherence to the agreement reached and may even make additional demands on the counterpart government.

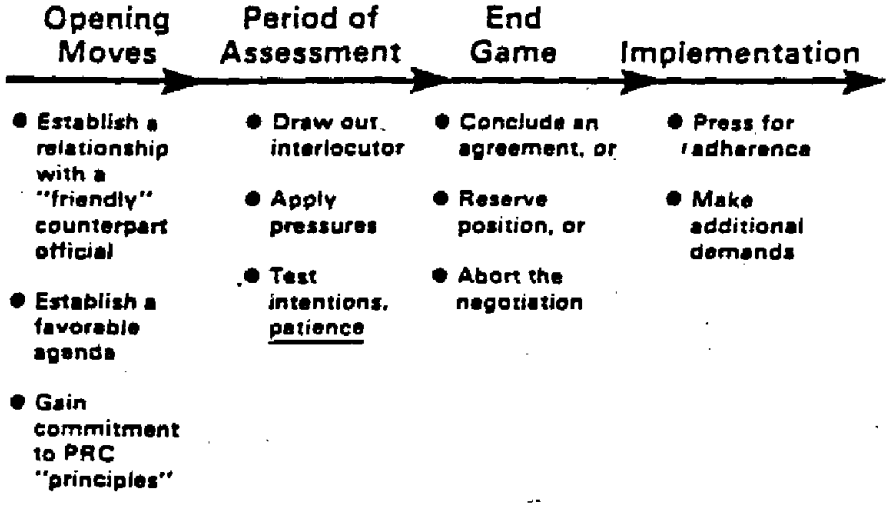

Fig. 1 -- PRC political negotiating behavior: a "linear" process

[redacted]

[redacted]

In the following pages we will describe this process in greater detail and illustrate it with examples from the United States' experience of the past fifteen years in negotiating the Shanghai Communique of 1972, the U.S.-PRC normalization agreement of 1978, and the August 17, 1982, Joint Communique on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan.

OPENING MOVES

One former U.S. official interviewed for this study remarked that the "boundaries" of a negotiation with the Chinese are often hard to perceive, for a broad range of encounters and communications in the early phases of contact are, in the Chinese view, relevant to the construction of a relationship that will be drawn upon in the more formal periods of explicit bargaining.

Identify and Cultivate the Right Interlocutor

In hindsight, it is evident that PRC officials have carefully assessed a range of American officials in each of the U.S. administrations since the late 1960s and have purposefully encouraged those whose views they believed to be helpful to their own objectives and who appeared likely to be "friendly," to establish them as interlocutors in the normalization process. The criteria they use in these assessments appear to be a broad strategic and "political" outlook based on distrust of the Soviet Union, a consequent belief in the value to the United States of a normal relationship with the PRC, and easy access to the President (if the candidate is not the President himself).

The clearest example of such "scouting" is the case of Henry Kissinger. In early 1971, when the Chinese had decided to establish direct contact with the Nixon administration, PRC officials let it be known through at least two intermediaries that they were interested in meeting with Kissinger. Vice Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua made this point to the Norwegian ambassador in early February, and Pakistan's ambassador to Washington Agha Hilaly transmitted a similar message from Zhou Enlai on April 27, 1971. Even Mao, in his meeting with President Nixon on February 21, 1972, kept trying to bring Kissinger into the conversation, to Kissinger's embarrassment in his relationship with the President:

> Mao: We two [Mao and Nixon] must not monopolize the whole show. It won't do if we don't let Dr. Kissinger have a say. You [Kissinger] have been famous about your trips to China.
> Kissinger: It was the President who set the direction and worked out the plan.
> Nixon: He is a very wise assistant to say it that way (Mao and Zhou laugh).[1]

As noted earlier, President Carter's National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski put himself forward as a friendly interlocutor in late 1977, and the Chinese were quite prepared to go along with him, given his view of the Soviets, his relationship with the President, and their uncertainties about Secretary of State Vance.

The Chinese were quite assertive during the first year of the Reagan administration in trying to establish Secretary of State Haig as the primary channel of communication. They were uncertain about where the President stood on China policy, and they had doubts about whether National Security Adviser

[1] Mao-Nixon, February 21, 1972.

Richard Allen was prepared to be "friendly," so senior PRC officials pressed for an early visit to Beijing by Haig, whom they knew from the Nixon period and considered to be sympathetic.

It also appears that the Chinese concluded after Secretary of State Shultz's visit to Beijing in February 1983 that Mr. Shultz was not inclined to be an active promoter of the U.S.-PRC relationship within the administration. Thus, because they did not wish the relationship to languish, they first tried to draw out Secretary of Defense Weinberger, and later the President himself.

In at least one instance, the PRC actively attempted to block the appointment of an individual they considered to be hostile to them. During the 1980 campaign, Chinese leaders met with their "old friend" George Bush, who had been dispatched to Beijing by presidential candidate Reagan to explain his position on China policy and to defuse growing tensions in the relationship. In a long and tense discussion on August 22, Deng Xiaoping skeptically asked Bush who Ray Cline was and whether Cline's views on China reflected Reagan-Bush policy. Shortly after the election, Ray Cline--who had put himself forward to PRC embassy personnel in Washington as the "channel" to the new administration--made a trip to Asia during which he gave a press conference in Singapore where he characterized the PRC as "uncivilized."[2] The Chinese, in an effort to embarrass Cline, who they feared would be appointed Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs in the new administration, published Cline's remarks and attacked them vigorously to clearly indicate that he was unacceptable to them as a manager of U.S. China policy.[3]

It is natural enough that the Chinese, like any other government, want to see "friendly" officials in high places in a U.S. administration in hopes that their interests will be well served. What is notable in the Chinese case is the demonstrated effectiveness of the Chinese (Nationalist as well as PRC) in cultivating friendly advocates in administrations going back to the 1930s and the substantial expectations that they have about the appropriate demands to make on "friends." As we shall see in a following section of this chapter, the Chinese expect considerably more of their "old friends" than accords with American notions of friendship; and when they want to bring pressure to bear on an administration they do it through their (hapless) friends.

Controlling the Ambience

After a dinner of Peking duck I'll agree to anything.[4]

The Chinese invariably seek to conduct negotiations on their home territory. The reasons for this are not hard to assess; what is remarkable is their ability to manage relationships in a manner that inclines foreign powers from whom they seek political and economic benefits to concede this marginal but significant advantage.

Conducting negotiations in Beijing gives Chinese officials the greatest access to their technologically underdeveloped communications system and their internal decisionmaking procedures; but more important, it gives them a subtle psychological edge over their counterparts, who are somewhat disoriented--and most likely jet-lagged--in an unfamiliar physical environment. As with countless generations of foreigners who traveled with great anticipation to the Middle Kingdom, having present-day officials come to China accords its leaders a measure of legitimacy and status that their "real" power may not warrant.

Apart from these considerations, negotiating in the Chinese capital gives the Chinese the opportunity to manage the ambience so as to maximize the sense of gratitude, dependence, awe, and helplessness which they do evoke in their guests. There is no little irony in the fact that the Chinese Communists, who seek to transform their peasant society into a modern, industrialized nation, use the trappings of imperial China--the palaces of the Forbidden City, the Ming Tombs, the Great Wall, and the cuisine and culture of a tradition they seek to outgrow--to impress foreign officials with their grandeur and seriousness of purposes.

There should be no doubt that the Chinese view the various forms of hospitality as part of the process of managing relations with foreigners. Internal documents of the Qing dynasty describe how the nineteenth century mandarins sought to control the Europeans who intruded into the Middle Kingdom through the management of hospitality and information. As the Manchu official Ch'i-ying described in a memorial to the Emperor of 1844:

> Sometimes we expose everything so that they will not be suspicious, whereupon we can dissipate their rebellious restlessness. Sometimes we have given them receptions and entertainment, after which they have had a feeling of appreciation. . . . The barbarians are born and grow up outside the frontiers of China, so that there are many things in the institutional system of the Celestial Dynasty with which they are not fully acquainted. . . . We must give them some sort of entertainment and cordial reception; but we are on guard against an intimate relationship in intercourse with them.[5]

Henry Kissinger's early impressions of PRC planning for the Nixon presidential visit convey a similar sense of the purposeful orchestration of receptions, sightseeing, cuisine, and music to dazzle a new generation of "guests from afar." Kissinger noted that during his first two preparatory trips to Beijing--in which he was taken to the Forbidden City and the Great Wall and was shown contemporary Peking Opera--he had "been used by the meticulous Chinese as a guinea pig for their study of timings and required security precautions, as well as of how these strange Americans behaved in the presence of the wonders of Chinese history."[6] Banquets alternated with negotiating sessions in a way that controlled the level of tension as the difficult issues in a relationship strained by two decades of confrontation were explored by the two leaderships. Yet for all the gracious hospitality, Kissinger found himself negotiating the Shanghai Communique late at night after a banquet of Peking Duck and powerful mao tai liquor. As he concluded, "nothing was accidental and yet everything appeared spontaneous."[7]

Lest the Chinese appear superhuman in their organizational work, it should also be recorded that their efforts to control the ambience of a negotiation, while notable for meticulousness and apparent ease of effort, are not without an occasional gaffe. During the Nixon visit, the Chinese staged a casual "performance" by colorfully dressed youngsters with toys and games at the Ming Tombs, one of the televised stops on the President's sightseeing tour. After the official party had left the scene, PRC officials collected the toys from the children--in sight of U.S. journalists who were in the process of packing up their equipment. This led one American correspondent to question Zhou Enlai about the staged event--to which the Premier replied in self-criticism that it had been wrong to have "put up a false appearance."[8]

During the Ford presidential visit in 1975, the Chinese had done their usual research on the President's favorite music, but they confused the President's alma mater and played the Michigan State fight song rather than the University of Michigan's "Hail to the Victors." And during the visit of Vice President Mondale in 1979, the Chinese delighted their guest by playing his favorite songs from "The Sound of Music" but left him most impressed with the degree of manipulation they were prepared to resort to in order to make a positive impression.

Any official who journeys to China more than two or three times will find his or her reactions to this purposeful management of the ambience changing from awe and appreciation to unease at the implicit manipulation in such all-encompassing, set-piece hospitality. Even more discomfiting is Chinese use of hospitality and protocol to build pressures on a visiting delegation. Precisely because they can be such superb hosts and have obviously gone to great lengths to make their foreign guests comfortable, it is all the more unsettling when they choose to use hospitality and protocol to insult.

In late 1975, the Chinese wanted to put maximum pressure on Henry Kissinger and President Ford to complete the normalization process. Kissinger, on the first day of talks during his October advance trip to Beijing, indicated that he wanted to complete most of the negotiation of a joint communique before departing the capital; and to facilitate the process, he tabled a draft document at the end of the first session. The Chinese, to indicate their displeasure at the lack of movement toward full normalization, resorted to punctilious and excessive hospitality to stall the negotiation, even taking Kissinger and his party on an afternoon picnic in the Western hills to view the fall foliage--all as time to negotiate the joint document slipped away. Kissinger's increasingly insistent inquiries about the fate of the draft communiqué were blandly deflected with assurances that it was being translated. Finally, at midnight on the eve of Kissinger's departure, Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua convened a post-banquet session to denounce the draft document and asserted that if there was to be any joint communique it had to be on Chinese terms--which were unacceptable to the U.S. side as conveyed to Kissinger during the late night session.

During the Ford visit a few months later, while the Chinese did not use direct forms of insult, they communicated their willingness to upstage the President by inviting the disgraced Richard Nixon--who was a domestic political embarrassment to Ford as the 1976 elections approached--and members of his family to China, and by keeping Ford in the dark as to whether and when he would meet with Chairman Mao.

In recent years, Americans have been spared the most offensive forms of Chinese "adversarial" negotiating practice, but it is worth recalling the kinds of circumstances in which the Chinese use calculated insult and coldness to break down a negotiation, rather than hospitality to build a relationship. Arthur Dean, who negotiated with Huang Hua and Pu Shouchang at Panmunjom in 1953, recalled the lack of personal contact of a negotiating team that was determined to prevent an agreement:

> No individual could speak personally to anyone on the other side. There could be no exchanges even of ordinary amenities at the start or end of a meeting; the Chinese stared ahead, frozen-faced, ignoring our presence. It was forbidden to ask them, or the North Koreans, over to the U.N. side for a drink, a meal, or a conversation. . . . There was no way in which the normal tensions of difficult diplomatic negotiations could be relieved, and no way in which private negotiations or suggestions could be carried out.[9]

In similar fashion, the Chinese resorted to calculated harassment and a range of insulting behaviors in 1949 to break the tattered remains of the U.S.-China relationship at the end of the Nationalist era.[10]

Establish a Favorable Agenda

During the 1950s and 1960s, the U.S. experience in adversarial negotiating encounters with the PRC was of a Soviet-style "battle of the agenda."[11] American negotiators found that the Chinese would struggle for days to establish a "prejudicial" or "loaded" agenda in which the order of items discussed would be favorable to their tactical goals; or they would seek to phrase an agenda item so as to obtain at the outset the presumed end result of the negotiation.[12] As one participant in this process concluded, "The characteristic feature of adversary negotiations with the Chinese Communists has been their manipulation of the agenda to place their opposites in an unfavorable trading position and to fix the substance of negotiations by the way an item is phrased or listed in the agenda."[13]

The experience of the normalization phase of U.S.-PRC relations has been rather different in this regard, although Chinese negotiators, in less combative fashion, continue to pay close attention to the formulation of issues to be discussed:

> The close rein on which Chinese negotiators are held, and the consequent need for extraordinarily meticulous advance preparation are indicated in the PRC's great attention to the question of the agenda for negotiations. Chinese representatives cannot function effectively if they are surprised by the content or sequence of discussions. They will therefore insist on the greatest possible amount of information on the other side's plans for conducting the talks in question.[14]

The early, indirect contacts between the Nixon administration and the PRC involved delicate yet pointed exchanges on an agenda for direct discussions between senior leaders of the two sides. In these exploratory communications, the Chinese tried to focus the anticipated talks on the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Taiwan and establishment of U.S.-PRC diplomatic relations. The United States, for its part, attempted to define a much broader and open-ended agenda that would include discussion of global and regional security issues.

In the last exchanges via the "Warsaw Talks" channel in early 1970, the Chinese negotiator, Lei Yang, repeated his government's oft-stated "principled position" that Taiwan was the crucial issue preventing an improvement in the U.S.-PRC relationship, but he made no demands on the United States and enticingly but ambiguously noted that it would be "necessary to create the conditions" to resolve the Taiwan issue as a matter of dispute between the two countries.[15] In an indirect message to the United States conveyed by the Rumanians a few months later, the Chinese rhetorically inquired how U.S.-PRC relations could improve if there were no withdrawal of U.S. forces from Taiwan.[16] Then, at the end of the year, the Pakistanis conveyed a message to the White House which was said to reflect the joint decision of Mao Zedong, Lin Biao, and Zhou Enlai to receive the President or his special envoy for talks in Beijing "in order to discuss the subject of the vacation [by U.S. forces] of Chinese territories called Taiwan."[17] The U.S. reply a few days later tried to keep the agenda open by saying, "The meeting in Peking (between U.S. and PRC leaders) would not be limited only to the Taiwan question but would encompass other steps designed to improve relations and reduce tensions."[18] After some further delay, the Chinese sent their first formal message (as opposed to oral, or indirect statements) to the administration in which the Taiwan issue was referred to in only very general terms: ". . . if the relations between China and the USA are to be restored fundamentally, a solution to this crucial question [of Taiwan] can only be found through direct discussions between high-level responsible persons of the two countries."[19] President Nixon's reply accepted Zhou Enlai's invitation to visit Beijing and added that in such a visit to Beijing "each side would be free to raise the issue of principal concern to it."[20] Zhou Enlai confirmed this open-ended agenda, but then specified his own topic for discussion by asserting, "It goes without saying that the first question to be settled is the crucial issue between China and the United States which is the question of the concrete way of the withdrawal of all the U.S. armed forces from Taiwan and the Taiwan Strait area."[21]

With the establishment of direct U.S.-PRC contacts, the Chinese gradually escalated their demands regarding development of the bilateral relationship and pressed to keep the issues of Taiwan and normalization the only public topics of the discussions. During his first, secret trip to Beijing, Kissinger noted to Zhou that the Premier was going beyond the issue of the withdrawal of U.S. military forces from Taiwan to include the question of diplomatic recognition;[22] and in drafting the first U.S.-PRC joint public statement (issued on July 15, 1971, in the United States), Zhou sought to limit the announced topic of the forthcoming Nixon-Mao/Zhou meeting to the normalization of U.S.-PRC relations and to exclude reference to discussion of issues related to "Asian and World peace."[23] The final wording of the July 15 announcement bridged U.S. and Chinese objectives, yet toned down the implication that the two sides would discuss matters of international security and peace: "The meeting between the leaders of China and the United States is to seek the normalization of relations between the two countries and also to exchange views on questions of concern to the two sides."[24]

In inviting Kissinger to return to Beijing in October 1971, the Chinese stressed via the secret Paris channel that the purpose of the trip "is to seek normalization of relations," and asserted that "the talks should concentrate on the principal issue without diversion of attention to side issues."[25]

During the Nixon visit to Beijing, of course, issues of global and regional security, as well as the question of normalization of U.S.-PRC relations, were discussed. And the Shanghai Communique, issued on February 28, 1972, included the first joint Sino-American statement that "neither should seek hegemony in the Asia-Pacific region and each is opposed to efforts by any other country or group of countries to establish such hegemony"; and the agenda was set for continuing talks "to further the normalization of relations between the two countries and continue to exchange views on issues of common interest."[26] Yet it was only after the end of the Vietnam War in early 1973 that the Chinese became more open about their discussion of international security issues with the United States.

With the issue of normalization on the agenda, the problem for the Chinese became that of how to move the United States to complete the process. President Nixon had expressed to Zhou Enlai in 1972 the intention to complete normalization in his second term; but when the Watergate scandal forced Nixon's resignation, the question was whether President Ford would honor his expression of intent. That issue came to a head in the summer of 1975 as Ford and Kissinger prepared for the second Presidential visit to the PRC late in the year (which had been agreed to during Kissinger's November 1974 trip to the Chinese capital).

22 Kissinger: "I have noticed that the Prime Minister in his remarks here went beyond some of the communications we have previously exchanged. Both in these communications and in our Warsaw meetings he has spoken of withdrawing military presence and installations from the area of Taiwan and the area of the Taiwan Strait. Today he has spoken also of certain official political declarations."

Zhou: "This was because in order to exchange opinions one must give the entire opinion on the matter." [Zhou-Kissinger, July 9, 1971.]

23 Zhou's effort to limit the announced agenda undoubtedly reflected PRC concerns about the reactions to the secret Kissinger visit and the Nixon trip of its key allies, especially the North Koreans and North Vietnamese, and the way the Soviets would try to use the announcement to sow discord between the Chinese and their various allies. The Chinese, in an effort to pressure the United States to consummate normalization, adopted throughout 1975 a "passive-aggressive posture" of unwillingness to put any other issues on the agenda of the forthcoming Ford visit. They knew that press attention to the trip, in the complex context of rising U.S.-Soviet tensions and the approach of the 1976 presidential election, would make the administration unusually anxious to keep some vitality in the U.S.-PRC relationship--and certainly concerned to avoid the appearance of a deterioration in the relationship in the eyes of both the Soviets and the American public. Thus, the Chinese, to build pressure on the administration, went into a mode of uncooperative passivity regarding the setting of agenda items for the visit. Kissinger and Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen sparred inconclusively on agenda topics in meetings of May 9, July 7, and August 12; and Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, turning to the media to build additional pressure on the administration, told a visiting delegation of American newspaper editors on June 2 that President Ford would be welcome in Beijing later in the year whether or not he had business to transact.[27]

Then, at a meeting in New York City with Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua on September 28, Kissinger informed the Chinese that normalization was politically impossible during the Presidential visit. Qiao countered by replying to Kissinger's inquiry about substantive topics for a joint communique to be issued at the end of the presidential visit by saying his mind was "a blank." This session was followed by Kissinger's strained visit to Beijing in October, during which the Chinese leaders sharply attacked U.S. policies, stressed their "self-reliance," and rejected all U.S. offers for small steps forward in the relationship. In sum, the Chinese sought to confront the administration with the difficult choice of either a "successful" Presidential visit based on completion of the normalization process, or the embarrassment of an agendaless trip in which the world would witness a stagnating U.S.-PRC relationship. (This is what in fact occurred in December, although the Chinese warmed up the mood of the visit somewhat in comparison with the frosty reception accorded Kissinger in October.)

While the Chinese were not successful in pressuring the Ford administration into completing the normalization process, they continued to apply pressure on the issue by using an "if you won't talk about A, we won't talk about B" approach to agenda-setting on bilateral issues.

The Chinese also showed great reluctance to put items on a public agenda that might compromise their relations with their allies--especially the North Koreans, the Vietnamese (during the early 1970s), and the Khmer communists. This was particularly evident in the spring of 1975 at the time of the Mayaguez crisis. On May 12, 1975, Deputy Secretary of State Robert Ingersoll called in Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen and attempted to read to him an official demarche asking the PRC government to inform the newly victorious Khmer communist government that if it did not release the boat and its crew it would be responsible for the consequences. Huang Zhen, obviously acting on instructions from Beijing, cut off

[27] In one sense, Deng's statement took pressure off the President by saying, in effect, that it was not necessary for him to make progress on the normalization issue to be welcome in Beijing; and it kept the President locked into the visit. Yet Deng must have known that a Presidential visit without any substance would be an embarrassment to the administration both in the eyes of the Soviets, who would be sensitive to the state of the U.S.-PRC relationship, and in the view of the American press, which would be quick to interpret a substanceless Presidential trip as a pre-election-year political ploy.

[28] Huang Hua-Bush, May 7, 1982.

Ingersoll in the first part of his presentation, saying that the incident was an American problem and his government would not get involved even in the passing of a message to the new authorities in Phnom Penh.

In contrast to their approaches to keeping issues off an agenda, the Chinese can be tenacious in pressing for inclusion of issues on an agenda. This was illustrated, in extreme form, during the adversarial negotiations at Panmunjon and at Warsaw during the 1950s and 1960s. In the normalization phase of Sino-U.S. negotiations, the Chinese persisted in "reserving position" on critical issues in order to reach at least partial agreements designed to draw the counterpart government deeper into a relationship.

High Principles (Versus High Demands)

> We should not refuse to enter into negotiations because we are afraid of trouble and want to avoid complications, nor should we enter into negotiations with our minds in a haze. We should be firm in principle; we should also have all the flexibility permissible and necessary for carrying out our principles.[33]

> If the U.S.-PRC relationship is to grow we must have a common principle, regardless of what political party is in power in the U.S.[34]

A counterpoint to the Chinese emphasis on cultivating personal relationships as the basis for a negotiation is their stress on negotiating from a "principled position." Rather than initiating a negotiating exchange with exaggerated demands from which they retreat in incremental compromises, the Chinese will press their counterpart to accept certain general principles, and only after these have been codified and the negotiating counterpart's position tested against them over an extended period of time will the Chinese move to conclude an agreement.

Henry Kissinger, among others, found this Chinese stress on "principle" to be quite different from the negotiating behavior of other nationalities. As he told President Nixon after his first encounter with Zhou Enlai, the Chinese "display an inward security that allows them, within the framework of their principles, to be meticulous and reliable in dealing with others."[35] The Shanghai Communique was the result of the first year of normalization negotiations with the Chinese. And Kissinger recalled that his initial draft of the document, which highlighted "fuzzy areas of agreement and obscured differences with platitudinous generalizations"[36] had been rejected by the Chinese side as an unacceptable, unprincipled way to proceed. Rather, the Chinese pressed for a document that sharply stated areas of disagreement as well as including points of common interest. While jolted by the unaccustomed frankness of this way of constructing a joint communique, Kissinger noted that "as I reflected further I began to see that the very novelty of the approach might resolve our perplexities. A statement of differences would reassure allies and friends that their interests had been defended; if we could develop some common positions, these would then stand out as the authentic convictions of principled leaders."[37]

While the accumulated record since the Shanghai Communique was negotiated shows that the Chinese are not always "meticulous" in dealings with others on the basis of their "principles," and indeed that they may reach agreements which seem to violate the principles they stress in the early phases of a negotiation, they nonetheless predictably seek to engage negotiating counterparts in a commitment to certain generalized standards or objectives that lay the basis for the pursuit of their specific negotiating objectives. As one student of PRC negotiating behavior has observed:

> In the vocabulary of PRC negotiators, goals which relate to long-range strategy are referred to as "principles" which must be rigidly adhered to, while goals which relate to short-range tactical advantage are referred to as "concrete arrangements" with regard to which they can be flexible. . . . they concentrate on obtaining the agreement of the opposing side to the "principle" which they see as the main stake in the discussion, relegating to a secondary level of importance the "concrete arrangements" by which the "principle" is to be implemented.[38]

Why do the Chinese lay such stress on "principle"? In some measure it may be a reaction against the highly personalized quality of their politics--an effort to establish a substantive framework for a political relationship and to minimize the "opportunism" that is inherent in dealings based exclusively on personal relationships and self-interest. In part, it seems to reflect the Chinese need to know the political "standpoint" (li-chang) of a negotiating counterpart, especially a foreigner whose culture, political practice, and objectives are not clearly known and whose behavior is less subject to Chinese influence.

Above all, the stress on "principle" at the outset of a negotiation is an effective bargaining ploy in that it forces the counterpart government to accept (or reject) a very general commitment to a seemingly unobjectionable standard of behavior--such as the five principles of peaceful coexistence--which can then be used to constrain its room for bargaining maneuver with the accusation that certain actions or negotiating counters violate the general principle. It also provides a lofty and inflexible standard to which the PRC negotiator can rigidly and self-righteously adhere while he presses his counterpart to demonstrate in concrete terms that he really does accept his commitment to it.

In adversarial negotiations, PRC officials may rigidly put forward "principled positions" as a way of preventing movement toward an agreement. As Ambassador Jacob Beam recalled of his dealings with PRC officials at Warsaw in the late 1950s, "the Chinese . . . committed themselves to dogmatic and fixed positions which were non-negotiable. They rarely, if ever, changed their positions, letting them stand until they were obsolete, at which time they would substitute others equally non-negotiable."[39] The negotiating experience during the normalization process was rather different, however, for the Chinese saw their interests served by reaching agreements and building a relationship with the United States. Yet the record of recent years shows episodes of Chinese "principled rigidity" in which their officials sought to stall a negotiation or maneuver the U.S. side into accommodating to their "principled position." For example, in 1978, as Beijing and Washington initiated the final phase of the normalization negotiations, Foreign Minister Huang Hua stressed to Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock that the Taiwan issue remained the primary obstacle to full normalization, that the Chinese side had been consistent in stating its "three principles" as the basis for completing the process, and that the Chinese side could go no further than its principled position in meeting U.S. concerns about its post-normalization relations with Taiwan.[40] A few months later, Huang conducted a virtual tirade against the U.S. position on normalization in a long dinner/discussion with Secretary of State Vance in New York City, stressing the various PRC "principles" that the United States had to accommodate to if normalization was to be accomplished.[41]

A foreign negotiator, of course, does not have to accept Chinese "principles" as a basis for negotiation--indeed, American negotiators at Warsaw refused for years to sign a joint statement of support for the five principles of peaceful coexistence or to accept the "principle" that all U.S. troops should be withdrawn from Taiwan. Such refusal, of course, communicates that the foreign government is unwilling to build a relationship with the PRC on Chinese terms.

If a common basis in principle can be found, however, PRC negotiators can show considerable flexibility in the way agreed-upon principles can be implemented, especially regarding the timing with which a commitment to principle is given concrete expression. As Zhou Enlai said to Kissinger in 1972, in the context of a discussion of planned U.S. troop withdrawals from Taiwan during the year, "It doesn't matter whether you carry this [plan] out sooner or later because we have already fixed our principles during our discussion."[42]

PRC officials more frequently invoke "principles" to constrain the actions of their counterparts in areas affecting Chinese interests. As the Carter administration prepared to enter office in early 1977, for example, PRC Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen invoked the principles of the Shanghai Communique for Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance as a basis for criticizing Carter's election-period characterization of Taiwan as a separate country, and to keep the new administration's China policy on the same track as its predecessors:

> Huang Zhen: Frankly speaking, the Shanghai Communique constitutes the foundation of the present Sino-U.S. relationship and only if both sides strictly observe all the principles of the Shanghai Communique, then relations between our two countries can continue to be improved. Any action which goes back on the principles of the communique will result in harming the Sino-U.S. relationship.
> Vance: Let me say that I fully accept the principle of one China . . . .
> Huang Zhen: So we have no difficulty on this point.[44]

Accusations of violation of principle have been the primary Chinese plaint in attempts to pressure the United States to end its arms sales to Taiwan. In 1978, as normalization negotiations progressed, and as the Carter administration continued to sell arms to the island, PRC officials responded to each arms sales announcement with complaints that the principles of the Shanghai Communique were being violated, belying the administration's expressions of serious intent to complete normalization of U.S.-PRC relations.

In the extreme, the Chinese have shown a willingness to challenge the basis for maintaining a cooperative relationship when they feel their "principles" are being violated by the other party.

PERIOD OF ASSESSMENT

Negotiating with the Chinese is almost invariably a protracted process. The U.S.-PRC ambassadorial talks at Geneva and Warsaw went on for 15 years, through 136 sessions, with only one concrete agreement being reached before the two sides saw their interests served by political normalization. The normalization negotiations themselves, beginning the summer of 1971, persisted for more than seven years. Negotiation of the joint communique on arms sales to Taiwan in 1981-1982 went on for ten months, although the issue had been discussed by the two sides for years. And foreign businessmen, accustomed to negotiating in a culture in which time and efficiency are valuable assets, learn with frustration "that the first rule in negotiating with the Chinese is the need for abiding patience."[47]

There are multiple and mutually reinforcing reasons for the apparently desultory pace at which the Chinese pursue a negotiation: sluggish internal decisionmaking procedures; a willingness to "reserve position" on important issues until the most favorable political context presents itself; great sensitivity to the time rhythms of the political process as well as to the psychological benefits to be gained by having an impatient negotiating counterpart. At the core of this protracted process, however, is a compulsive need to have fully tested out the position of the other side before formulating and exposing one's own position. The greatest proportion of time in negotiations with the Chinese is consumed by their effort to draw out the counterpart official, to assess his motives and objectives, and to test out through a variety of facilitating maneuvers and pressure tactics the firmness of his position and his impatience to reach a settlement.

"Our Guests Always Speak First!"

When Henry Kissinger sat down for the first time across the green baize table from Zhou Enlai in the summer of 1971, the PRC Premier's first words were an almost ritualistic Chinese negotiating incantation: "According to our custom, we first invite our guest to speak. Besides, you have already prepared a thick [briefing] book. Of course, later on we will give our opinions also."[48]

Chinese officials seem virtually immune to pressures to present their views before they believe their counterparts have laid out their position.[49] Secretary of State Vance, to his frustration, pressed Huang Hua for his views on normalization in 1977, only to get platitudes that were clearly irrelevant to serious

[49] The one infrequent exception to this rule is the circumstance in which a Chinese negotiator wants to establish his "principle" as the basis for a discussion, or when he has been instructed to lay out his side's position on an issue so as to delimit the bounds of a negotiation.

negotiation on the subject. Leonard Woodcock, in his initial exchanges with Huang Hua on normalization in July 1978, proposed that the two sides alternate in presenting their views on a series of four issues that the United States wanted clarified as a basis for constructing a normalization agreement. The Chinese rejected this approach, saying that the U.S. side should present its position "comprehensively," in its entirety, before receiving a Chinese response.[50] And Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, on the second day of his visit to Beijing in 1980, invited his counterpart Geng Biao to present his views first, inasmuch as Geng was now meeting Brown in "his" guest house. Geng retorted that as he was the host of Brown's entire visit it was most appropriate that Brown, again, present his views first.[51] So ingrained is this ritual that Chinese officials, in unguarded moments, can laugh about it with their foreign interlocutors--who almost invariably seem to defer to the Chinese custom:

> Qiao Guanhua: Let's proceed as usual. I would like to take this opportunity to hear your views. Why don't you start?
> Kissinger: Because we are in your place tonight [I should go first] (laughter)!
> Qiao: We have two sayings: one is that when we are the host, we should let the guest begin; and the other is that when we are guests we should defer to the host.
> Kissinger: You can always use this so I have to start in any event (laughter). But I will be glad to start.[52]

"Projective Test" Diplomacy

The Chinese compulsion to get the other side to present its views first is one manifestation of a general approach to negotiations that might be characterized as "projective test" diplomacy. Chinese negotiators will frequently put forward a vague but appropriate-sounding phrase--much like a Rorschach inkblot--as part of an exchange, leaving their counterpart to give concrete meaning to it, thus maneuvering him to develop a specific interpretation to which the Chinese side can then respond.

In some instances the Chinese have used a vague but enticing phrase to draw the other side into a negotiation, without committing themselves to any specific solution. For example, in one of the key Warsaw Talk exchanges of 1970 that led to initiation of the normalization dialogue, the Chinese side asserted: "We are fully aware that the settlement of the Taiwan question requires making every effort to create the conditions."[53] What "creating the conditions" meant was not specified, yet the phrase contained a hint of flexibility on an issue where the Chinese had been "principled" and unyielding for two decades.

In the fall of 1973, PRC leaders apparently decided to try to accelerate the normalization process. Zhou Enlai inserted into the draft communique formulated at the end of Kissinger's sixth visit to the PRC capital the vague but suggestive phrase, "Normalization can only be realized on the basis of confirming the principle of one China."[54] Exactly how the United States was expected to "confirm" this principle was not specified, yet an extensive, if delphic, discussion between Kissinger and Chairman Mao provided hints of possible approaches to completing the normalization process on the basis of confirming this principle. As Kissinger and Zhou bantered after the session with Chairman Mao:

Zhou: . . . you mentioned earlier that we should use the wording of the Shanghai Communique to move the issue [of normalization] forward a bit. We have worked hard on one sentence in the text [of the draft communique] and you can examine it to see if it is useful or not.

Kissinger: I have given a great deal of thought to our conversation and to the comments Chairman Mao made on Taiwan. As with all the things in my experience the Chairman says, there were many layers of meaning.

Zhou: That is true.

Kissinger: At least that was my impression. It was not a simple statement. And, therefore, I thought I should study his remarks for a brief time after I return and submit to you possible ideas.[55]

In similar fashion, Mao put forward the notion that U.S.-PRC normalization had to follow the "Japan formula."[56] Apart from saying that the United States had to sever diplomatic relations with the authorities on Taiwan, the Chairman's remarks did not further specify what the "Japan formula" involved. Yet this symbol was used by PRC leaders in the five ensuing years as the basis for discussions of approaches to normalization. Ultimately these exchanges led to a definition of the "Japan formula" that included, in addition to breaking diplomatic relations with Taiwan, the withdrawal of U.S. troops from the island and abrogation of the U.S.-ROC Mutual Defense Treaty—two conditions that had nothing to do with Japan's normalization arrangement with the PRC, as Japan had no troops on Taiwan and no defense treaty with the island. Yet the phrase "the Japan formula" or "the Japan model" served as a usefully vague symbol by which the Chinese attempted to draw out the United States over several years of discussion without limiting PRC room for maneuver on the issue.

Thus, the Chinese use vague but suggestive symbols to draw out their negotiating interlocutors, maneuvering them so that the foreign government is burdened with the task of making concrete proposals or taking specific actions, while preserving for the Chinese side the initiative in responding to proffered "concrete arrangements."

FACILITATING MANEUVERS

The negotiating record of the past fifteen years reveals a range of actions that can best characterized as "facilitating maneuvers"—ploys designed to draw the counterpart government and officials into a constructive relationship, to minimize confrontations (especially with senior leaders), and preserve a positive working atmosphere in the context of problems which, if not handled with skill, cou disrupt the relationship. We already have explored how the Chinese seek to manipulate the ambience of negotiation to draw their foreign counterparts into a positive relationship; here, we describe othe approaches they use to facilitate negotiating exchanges.

Intermediaries

Like other Oriental cultures, the Chinese prefer to establish relationships by indirection, through the intercession of trusted intermediaries who can test out an unfamiliar or sensitive situation and convey intelligence on how to establish direct contact and how to minimize the chances of a confrontation that would jeopardize the development of a relationship.

The intermediation of Pakistani President Yahya Kahn played a particularly important role in establishing direct contact between Chinese and American leaders in 1970-1971, as the Chinese tested out the intentions of the Nixon administration. In a mid-November 1970 meeting, Zhou Enlai told the Pakistani President that he placed particular weight on his conveyance of a statement by President Nixon to Yahya (in a September meeting in Washington) in which Nixon had said he was prepared to send a personal envoy to Beijing for meetings with Chinese leaders and that the United States would not form a condominium with the Soviet Union against China. Said Zhou to Yahya: "The United States knows that Pakistan is a great friend of China, and therefore we attach importance to the [Nixon] message."[57] And when Nixon finally met Mao Zedong in Beijing, the Chairman told the President how important Yahya's intermediation had been in vouching for the sincerity of his indirect expressions of intent to normalize U.S.-PRC relations.

Some of the most sensitive messages were passed through the Pakistani channel as the basis for establishing direct contacts between Washington and Beijing: Early on, the Chinese expressed concern that the United States would characterize China's interest in normalization as reflecting weakness or fear of U.S.-Soviet collusion against the PRC; and despite the continuing war in Vietnam, they expressed confidence that there was little possibility of a U.S.-PRC military conflict.[59] On the U.S. side, the Nixon administration emphasized via the Pakistanis that it would not collude with the Soviets against China; that strict secrecy was absolutely necessary for the establishment of direct communications; and that President Nixon hoped the PRC would refrain from inviting other American political figures to China until after a presidential visit.[60] As noted above, the two sides also bargained over an agenda for their direct talks via the Pakistani link.

The Chinese took great care in choosing intermediaries whom they felt they could rely upon. The Pakistanis were the most trusted of the governments they (and the United States) turned to for reliable and secure communications in the 1970-1971 period.[61] They used with considerably more reserve the Rumanian leaders who were entrusted by the Nixon administration to pass to PRC leaders expressions of interest in normalization. In the first year of the Nixon administration, the United States asked Rumania to convey a letter to Zhou Enlai from American journalist Theodore White expressing his desire to visit China at a time when the U.S. government, to which he said he had access at the highest level, was rethinking its Asia policy. The Chinese never responded to this approach, preferring instead to use their "old friend" Edgar Snow to convey their views on normalization in the fall of 1970 via a series of high-level interviews--and the symbolic touch of a highly visible reception of Snow by Chairman Mao atop Tian An Men on China's national day (October 1).

While there is a certain measure of randomness in PRC selection of intermediaries--depending on who is "available" at a time when the PRC wishes to send an indirect communication--it appears that the trust of guanxi, high-level access in Washington, and shared political views and interests are the primary qualifications of intermediary status.

The Chinese used intermediaries not only for reestablishing direct U.S.-PRC communication in the early 1970s, but also in subsequent periods when they wanted to convey to the U.S. government particularly sensitive messages in a deniable manner, or when their relations with a particular administration were not very good--when guanxi was lacking. In the summer and fall of 1975, when anxious to complete normalization before the 1976 U.S. presidential elections, the Chinese again turned to the Pakistanis to convey a sense of their growing impatience at the lack of progress on the issue. In the same period, the hospitalized Zhou Enlai received a Chinese-American doctor who had been a schoolmate of Chairman Mao's to convey the message to the Ford administration that Beijing would be prepared to make a statement for domestic consumption about its intention to use only peaceful means in dealing with Taiwan if the United States would normalize relations according to "the Japan formula."[61]

In the 1981-1982 period, the Chinese felt they had very limited access to senior political figures in the Reagan administration. Therefore, they turned to the

Indirect Communications

A variation on the Chinese use of intermediaries is the use of various forms of indirect communication as a way of avoiding confrontations with senior authorities, to facilitate the exchange of ideas in a negotiating situation without formal commitment, or to probe or influence the attitudes of counterpart officials.

The Chinese have a very strong impulse to avoid direct confrontations between senior leaders, especially when a relationship is judged worthy of protection and cultivation. The clearest example of this in the recent negotiating record is the meeting between President Reagan and Premier Zhao Ziyang : Cancun, Mexico, in the context of tensions between the two countries over the issue of U.S. arms sales : Taiwan. Lower-level PRC officials had "primed" the administration for the encounter by telling bo Secretary of State Alexander Haig and National Security Adviser Richard Allen that Zhao would "touch on the issue of American arms sales to Taiwan, that Foreign Minister Huang Hua would make importa contributions to the discussion, and that Huang would subsequently come to Washington to work out complete solution to the issue.[63] During the Cancun meeting, Zhao touched only briefly on the arms sale issue in his discussion with the President, devoting his attention instead to a presentation on the PRC' recently published nine-point program for peaceful reunification with Taiwan and his government' peaceful intentions toward the island. At the end of his remarks, however, Zhao said that because he ha run out of time, Foreign Minister Huang Hua would later convey to him via Secretary of State Haig tw important points on the arms sales issue.[64] Two days later, Huang Hua, emphasizing that he was speakin on behalf of Zhao, pressed Haig on the arms sales issue.

This highly orchestrated episode illustrates the elaborate manner in which the Chinese will seek tc facilitate the communication of a hard set of bargaining demands to a leadership with which they do not have intimate relations in a manner that minimizes direct confrontation between senior officials (their Premier and the President), and their use as a channel of communication of an official they considered to be "friendly" (Haig).

In similar fashion, the Chinese sought to minimize tensions with President Carter in 1978, during the negotiations on the normalization agreement, by directing their protests on arms sales to the State Department at the Assistant Secretary level, rather than to the White House--a pattern the Carter administration characterized as the "complaint channel."

The Chinese also use indirect, lower-level communications when they want to trade ideas in a non-commital manner (and shape the thinking of the other side) prior to the issue being joined by senior negotiators "on the record." At the beginning of the negotiations on the arms sales issue, Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin invited his counterpart, Ambassador Arthur Hummel, to meet with him periodically over informal jiaozi luncheons to exchange ideas relating to the negotiation informally and "without commitment."[67] This pattern of mealtime communication persisted throughout the negotiation, with participation eventually shifting to the deputies of the principal negotiators, via whom the Chinese communicated delicate messages that they did not wish to have in the record.[68]

PRC officials also use lower-level contacts to probe and test the state of play of a negotiation or to put forward negotiating positions in a deniable or low-key manner so as to maintain flexibility and minimize the sense that they are anxious to attain a particular result. In 1974, PRC leaders had lower-level operatives nudge their U.S. Liaison Office counterparts on the normalization issue--but not in a manner that would make them appear anxious for consummation of the process. In June of that year was approached by a Foreign Ministry official who voiced concern about Secretary of State Kissinger's preoccupation with issues other than China policy; and in the fall, on the eve of Kissinger's seventh visit to Beijing, Nancy Tang rhetorically inquired of Liaison Office Chief George Bush whether Kissinger's stated normalization strategy of "gaining time" to build political support in the United States for the China relationship hadn't become an end in itself (i.e., just a delaying tactic).[69] Similarly, the ever-present Foreign Ministry official Lian Zhengbao, while assigned to the PRC Liaison Office in Washington, approached an NSC official in November 1978--when the normalization negotiation was at a "now-or-never" phase--and said that in response to an inquiry from the U.S. side, Chinese leaders would be available in December for a meeting with American leaders. (In fact, no such inquiry had been made from the U.S. side!)

After the completion of normalization, Chinese officials became more active and open in their communications with U.S. counterparts

We have already described how Foreign Ministry officials "primed" their State Department counterparts on what to anticipate from the Zhao-Reagan meeting at Cancun, Mexico, in the fall of 1981 (see p. 44). In similar fashion, as the negotiations over a joint communique on the arms sales issue proceeded, the Chinese provided interpretive guidance on the state of play of the exchanges. Ji Chaozhu, at an informal U.S. embassy dinner in March 1981, "interpreted" for his American counterparts a New China News Agency "Commentary" which

It should be observed that this pattern of off-the-record, informal exchanges is not unique to the Chinese. The use of the same pattern in U.S.-Soviet arms control negotiations is described in Strobe Talbott, Deadly Gambits, New York: Knopf, 1984, especially Ch. 6.

Ambiguous but Loaded Language

Another Chinese approach to communicating sensitive political messages is the use of ambiguous but loaded forms of expression—often in informal contexts such as mealtime banter or sightseeing excursions. We have already noted how Mao Zedong and Zhou Enlai obliquely hinted to Henry Kissinger indications of political conflict within the top leadership (see pp. 24-26). Zhou (who became so ill with cancer in 1974 that he had to withdraw from active political life) seems to have hinted to President Nixon in 1972 that he had serious health problems—in part as a way of urging Nixon to follow through expeditiously on his stated intention to complete the normalization process in his second term:

> Zhou (in the context of a discussion of India): . . . At the time I hadn't read [Nehru's book The Discovery of India], but my late colleague Chen Yi had, and called it to my attention. . . .
> Nixon: When did Chen Yi die?
> Zhou: Just recently. Chairman Mao attended the funeral. He [Chen] had cancer of the stomach. Do you have a way of curing cancer?
> Nixon: It is a serious problem. One of the programs we want to undertake this year is a massive research program on cancer. . . .
> Zhou: We can cooperate in that field. . . .
> Zhou: . . . In your dining room upstairs we also have a poem by Chairman Mao in his own calligraphy about Lushan Mountain, the last sentence of which reads, "The beauty lies at the top of the mountain." You have also risked something to come to China. There is another Chinese poem which reads: "On perilous peaks dwells beauty in its infinite variety."
> Nixon: We are at the top of the mountain now [Chinese laugh].
> Zhou: That's one poem. Another one which I would have liked to put up, but I couldn't find an appropriate place, is "Ode to a Plum Blossom." I had an original plan to take you to see the plum blossoms in Hangchow, but I have heard that their time has already passed. They are ahead of season this year.
> Kissinger: They have passed already?
> Zhou: I don't know why. In other years they have not shed so early. In that poem, the Chairman meant that one who makes an initiative may not always be the one who stretches out his or her hand. By the time the blossoms are full blown, that is the time they are about to disappear. . . .
> Nixon: That's very beautiful.
> Zhou: Therefore, we believe we are in accord with the idea you just expressed. You are the one who made the initiative. You may not be there to see its success, but of course we would welcome your return. . . . I was only trying to illustrate the Chinese way of thinking. It does not matter anyhow. Regardless of who is the next President, the spirit of '76 still exists and will > prevail. From the standpoint of policies I hope that our [American] counterparts will be the same so we can continue our efforts. We also hope not only that the President [Nixon] continues in office but that your adviser [Kissinger] and assistants continue in office. For example, if I should suddenly die of a fatal heart attack, you would also have to find another counterpart. Therefore, we try to bring more people to meet you. At least the interpreters have the hope of living longer than the Prime Minister.[72]

Zhou also communicated sensitive policy messages in this oblique form. In 1972 he and Kissinger had months of exchanges on the issue of how to deal with the Cambodian conflict, with Zhou urging Kissinger to deal with Prince Sihanouk and his RGNU coalition (which was dominated by the communist Khmer Rouge forces). As the military situation deteriorated in favor of the insurgents, and when Congress withdrew support for American involvement in the conflict by mandating an end to the U.S. bombing campaign against the communist forces, Kissinger at last indicated a willingness to deal with Sihanouk--while also communicating to the PRC Premier his expectation that the Chinese side would work with the United States to construct a Sihanouk-led coalition government that would not be dominated by the communist forces. When Congress voted to cut off the U.S. bombing campaign, the American side of this complex equation lost its capacity to influence events; and Zhou Enlai obliquely communicated to Kissinger his powerlessness by inviting him to Beijing for talks on August 16--the first day of the Congressionally imposed bombing halt. Thus, by proposing one specific date, the Premier signaled that the U.S. side had undercut its ability to influence the Cambodian situation and that Kissinger's trip to Beijing would be of no avail.[73]

In 1978, when the Chinese wished to accelerate the normalization negotiations, they did so in a way that would minimize the impression that they were anxious for a settlement. Among the oblique signals they invoked was Foreign Minister Huang Hua's remark to Secretary of State Vance in response to Vance's statement that Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock would shortly begin formal discussions in Beijing on a normalization agreement:

> In a dinner hosted by Vice Premier Deng in Bei Hai Park, they [Deng and Brzezinski] conducted a very interesting conversation [on the normalization issue]. Vice Premier Deng said that in another three years he may declare his retirement as he is getting advanced in age. With regard to the invitation extended by Dr. Brzezinski for the Vice Premier to make a visit to the United States, the Vice Premier said: "In that case we must work harder, since I am getting old."[74]

Deng Xiaoping himself has been a master of the oblique-yet-pointed form of communication. There is a classical Chinese expression, "Pointing at the mulberry to revile the locust (zhi-sang ma-huai)," which means making oblique accusations. This was the initial form of public disputation between the Chinese and the Soviets in the early 1960s, when to minimize the impact of their developing feud they attacked surrogate figures--the Soviets criticizing the Albanians by name, with the Chinese attacking the Yugoslavs--rather than criticizing each other directly.

The Chinese used a similar form of criticism to minimize the corrosive effect on the U.S.-PRC relationship of their public attacks on American foreign policies. The clearest example of this tactic is Deng's criticism of detente with the Soviet Union in 1975-1980. Rather than directly accusing the Nixon, Ford, and Carter administrations of appeasing the Soviets, Deng and other senior PRC officials publicly and privately attacked the "Munich mentality" which they said was still prevalent in "the West" (not further specified).[75]

Another example of the oblique approach to presenting a sensitive message is Defense Minister Geng Biao's recitation of the history of Sino-Soviet relations for Secretary of State Muskie and other officials during his visit to Washington in the spring of 1980. Geng wished to communicate to the Carter administration—with which the Chinese hoped to develop a defense relationship—the object lesson of how (according to the Chinese) the Soviets had mismanaged their security assistance program with the PRC (one of the major causes of the Sino-Soviet feud). It was also an oblique way of saying to the Americans that the break with Moscow was irreparable (and therefore the United States could trust China as a reliable security partner who would not double-cross it by turning back to the Soviets).[76]

The usually subtle and sophisticated Chinese are not above the occasional personal dig at a foreign leader; yet even such lapses of political discipline are usually expressed obliquely:

> Deng Xiaoping (to Secretary of State Haig): How is Dr. Kissinger?
> Haig: He is well. I spoke to him just before I left [Washington]. He had just come back from Europe.
> Deng: I am very familiar with Dr. Kissinger. And we have great admiration for Mr. Nixon.[77]

Self-Deprecation

Another form of discourse used by the Chinese to signal their interest in cultivating a relationship is self-criticism and self-deprecation—all the more notable in view of their underlying pride and self-confidence. Richard Nixon was impressed by the obsession of his hosts in 1972 with self-criticism, and their apparent lack of conceit and arrogance, in contrast to the Soviets who, Nixon noted, always insist that their achievements are the biggest and the best.[78] Mao Zedong responded to Nixon's flattering observation about the impact of his writings and political sloganeering with self-deprecation, characterizing their impact as little more than "firing empty cannons":

> Nixon: The Chairman's writings moved a nation and have changed the world.
> Mao: I haven't been able to change it. I've only been able to change a few places in the vicinity of Peking.[79]

And like the self-critical Zhou Enlai, who sought to defuse an American reporter's criticism of some sightseeing arrangements during the Nixon presidential visit with an admission of error (see p. 30 above), Deng Xiaoping also sought to preempt complaint with self-criticism. The following exchange took place between Deng and Kissinger (whom he was about to attack on policy issues) and Liaison Office Chief George Bush in October 1975:

Bush: That is very gracious of you. It was a small matter. . . .

Deng: We should apologize.[80]

Humor

A number of the American officials interviewed for this study remarked on the easy rapport they developed with their Chinese counterparts, and the humor which could characterize exchanges across the negotiating table when the overall relationship was in a positive mood. Kissinger noted in his memoirs the "easy comradery not untinged with affection" that he had developed with Zhou Enlai after five visits to the PRC; and he drew from the record of his exchanges with the Chinese Premier an example of the relaxed humor that seems to easily develop between Americans and Chinese:

Kissinger: I think that the Prime Minister notices that I am especially inhibited in his presence right now.

Zhou: Why?

Kissinger: Because I read his remarks to the press that I am the only man who can talk to him for a half hour without saying anything.

Zhou: I think I said one hour and a half.[81]

In contrast to the heavy and often violence-tinged humor invoked by Soviet officials, the Chinese tend to display subtle and intellectually deft humor in circumstances where they wish to express a positive mood or to twit their American counterparts--a style which makes the contrasting episodes of calculated insult when they wish to bring pressure on their interlocutors all the more effective. For example, Vice Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua, Kissinger's counterpart in negotiating the Shanghai Communique, good-naturedly needled Kissinger in late 1972 for his tendency to forget or block Qiao's name--as evidenced by his periodic references to Qiao by the awkwardly formal title "Mr. Vice Foreign Minister." As Qiao toasted Kissinger at a dinner in New York:

> In the past two years, in the improvement of relations between China and the United States all people will remember one person without a name who is here tonight--"Mr. Doctor"--who has made outstanding contributions. And we hope that in the relations between our two countries we will continue to overcome various obstacles and difficulties and head toward accelerated normalization. At this time I would like to express congratulations on the reelection of President Nixon. I agree with the views of our many friends, and our friend whose name I forgot. Therefore, I propose a toast to the man whose name I forgot, to Mr. Governor [Rockefeller], and to all our friends and the great people of our two countries, and to our great friendship.[82]

Playing Dumb (Calculated Misunderstanding)

The Chinese are clearly an intelligent and highly calculating people—especially in their political relations. Indeed, Henry Kissinger frequently played to their pride and humor with the self-deprecating observation that by Chinese standards he was of only average intelligence.[83] The high level of intelligence they bring to the negotiating process thus makes episodes in which they "play dumb"—in order to slide by issues that they do not wish to see joined—all the more evident as a facilitating tactic. Two examples in the normalization negotiating record are particularly worthy of note.

Provocation

The Chinese clearly understand the uses of relatively passive stratagems for facilitating a negotiation, and they also have shown an awareness of how provocations can create an environment in which negotiations can be moved forward. A provocation can be an effective way of building pressure on a counterpart--as we will explore below, in the section on pressure tactics--but in a political environment of multiple actors such as the "triangular" relations among China, the Soviet Union, and the United States, a provocation toward one can help move the other into a more favorable position in terms of Chinese interests.

This was the dynamic of great-power relations in the late 1960s, when Sino-Soviet relations had deteriorated to a point of military confrontation, with the Soviets pressing a buildup of forces on China's northern frontier. After Moscow's invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968, the Chinese feared that Soviet leaders had few inhibitions left about taking military action against the PRC, which they would justify in terms of Brezhnev's doctrine of the "limited sovereignty" of socialist states.

In this context, the problem for the virulently anti-Soviet Mao Zedong was how to cope with the growing Soviet military threat: either by the self-imposed isolation of the Cultural Revolution (during which China had withdrawn all but one of its ambassadors from abroad, and had as virtually its sole ally little Albania); or through an as-yet unformed coalition of states similarly threatened by Moscow's "new Tsars." Mao and Zhou Enlai also had the tactical problem of how to respond to Moscow's inclination to use displays of military force to try to intimidate their adversaries. To show fear would only play into Soviet hands; yet China was not strong enough militarily to cope with a direct Soviet attack, either nuclear or conventional, except through a costly and protracted "people's war."

The history of the years 1969-1971 suggests that Mao decided on a strategy of provocation--to force the Soviets to face up to the reality of a Sino-Soviet war, to signal his unwillingness to be intimidated, and to highlight to other states similarly threatened by the Soviets their common cause in dealing with the aggressive leadership in the Kremlin. His vehicle for provoking the Soviets was a controlled application of force on a desolate and frozen border island where Chinese and Russian forces patrolled contested territory, Manchuria's Zhen Bao Island. The initial firefight of March 2, 1969, seems to have been at China's initiative,[86] with the Soviets responding to the provocation on March 15 with a massive use of force on a local scale.

The political effect of this overt, if limited, warfare between the two giants of the communist world was to give Mao a vehicle for mobilizing his population for a possibly expanded conflict with the Soviets, and an issue with which to appeal for common cause with the East Europeans, who only recently had felt (again) the blade of Soviet military intervention, in Czechoslovakia.

If one assumes that Mao also had in mind the objective of building a broader international coalition against the Soviet Union--one that would even include the United States--President Nixon had been signaling his interest in a new relationship with China since his 1967 Foreign Affairs article)--then Mao's provocation was successful, at least to the extent that it gained Washington's attention.[87] As Henry Kissinger recalled in his memoirs, "The Sino-Soviet border clashes of 1969 had first alerted us to the desirability of restoring contact with Peking."[88]

Mao continued to reveal his instinct for provocative stratagems as a way of influencing the play of the strategic triangle when the U.S.-PRC dialogue began. One of the first issues raised by Zhou Enlai during Kissinger's secret visit to Beijing in July 1971 was whether President Nixon, apart from his willingness to come to China, was planning a summit meeting with Soviet leaders. Zhou clearly expressed his preference that Nixon visit the Soviet Union first, as "we would not want to deliberately create tensions."[89] On the last day of Kissinger's visit, however, Zhou reversed his position, saying that Chairman Mao personally had decided "that it might be convenient to your needs if maybe the President's visit was earlier and not necessarily in the spring [of 1972]" And as the Premier correctly noted, "Once the announcement [of the Nixon trip] is made it will shake the world, which won't be able to sleep."[90] Mao apparently had decided, upon reflection, that the risks of provoking the Soviets to take action against China because of the opening of the Sino-American dialogue were not as great as the possible benefits to be gained by stirring up distrust and tensions between Moscow and Washington by way of the Nixon trip and thus preventing Soviet-American collusion against the PRC.

Throughout the remaining few years of his life, Mao continued to display a penchant for using provocative maneuvers to influence U.S. policy, even to the point of playing on presumed interpersonal rivalries within the U.S. government. In November 1974, the recently rehabilitated Deng Xiaoping, undoubtedly acting on the Chairman's instructions, shocked Kissinger by inviting his presumed rival, Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, to China:

> Deng: We have another consideration about the relations between our two countries. That is, as I have said before, some people have been saying the relations between our two countries have been cooling down. The Chinese government is therefore extending an invitation to you. That is to say, the Chinese government wishes to extend a formal invitation to the Secretary of Defense of the United States, Mr. Schlesinger, to visit China. We think this would be a good answer to all these opinions which are going on in the world.
> Kissinger: It will produce a Politburo meeting in the Kremlin.
> Deng: We don't mind. Well, actually it is our wish that they have a Politburo meeting there. But we really extend this invitation with all seriousness.[91]

A year later, Mao was still using the Schlesinger invitation to needle Kissinger--expressing his unhappiness with the U.S. policy of detente and Washington's favorable occupation of the "swing" position in the strategic triangle:

> Mao: Please send my regards to your Secretary of Defense.
> Kissinger: I will do that.

---

87 As Zhou Enlai said to Kissinger in 1973 in a critique of detente, "the strategic principle should be to expose that [the Soviets] are for general expansion and for false relaxation. For the past years we have never ceased in exposing the Soviet Union's expansionism and their false relaxation. We have done this since the Chen Pao incident in 1969." Mao: I am dissatisfied that he went to Japan without coming to Peking. We want to invite him here for the Soviets to see, but you are too miserly. The U.S. is so rich, but on this you are too miserly.

Kissinger: We can discuss it when the President [Ford] is here.

Mao: Bring him [Schlesinger] along. You can bring a civilian and a military member with your President, both a civilian and a military man.

Kissinger: Me as the civilian and Schlesinger as the military?

Mao: Yes. But I won't interfere in your internal affairs. It is up to your side to decide whom you will send.

Kissinger: Well, he will not come with the President. Maybe later.[92]

That the Chairman's invitation to Schlesinger was for political effect, both on the Soviets and within the U.S. administration, was made clear by his rejection, in the same conversation, of any functional discussion of U.S.-PRC military cooperation:

Kissinger: We have tried to suggest to you that we are prepared to advise or help in some of these [defense] problems.

Mao: As for military aspects, we should not discuss that now. Such matters should wait until the war breaks out before we consider them.[93]

Stalling

The Chinese are extremely sensitive to the time rhythms of the negotiating process, and to the ways in which domestic and international factors play on a political relationship. They have shown great skill at pacing a negotiation so that issues are not joined when circumstances are unfavorable to their objectives—just as they try to accelerate discussions when they feel time and conditions are ripe for reaching a favorable solution. A stalling strategy was used by the Chinese during the 1950s and 1960s regarding their dispute with the United States on the Taiwan issue. As an internal military document of 1961 explicitly stated:

> It is better to maintain a frozen relationship between China and the United States, with a continued impasse for many years. If this problem [of Taiwan] is to be settled, we want to do so all at once. . . . Up to the present time we can see no expression of relaxation concerning Sino-American relations or any sign of sincerity. This is why we say that the unbending attitude is found on the side of the United States, and not on the side of China. Of course, the far-reaching view of the relationship between the two countries is optimistic and some day this problem will arrive at a satisfactory solution.[94]

[94] "Secret Instructions to the Chinese Army" (April 25, 1961), in Peking's Approach to Negotiation, p. 78.

In the normalization negotiations of the 1970s we find two instances in which the Chinese seem t have purposefully stalled serious discussion of issues to prevent their coming to a head at an unfavorabl time for the PRC. In the summer of 1977, Secretary of State Vance traveled to Beijing to initiate discussic of the normalization issue on behalf of President Carter. His strategy, in part, was to raise issues such as th need for a U.S. post-normalization presence on Taiwan, in order to get certain positions on the record : much as to gain immediate agreement (although he did have a draft normalization communique in h pocket). However, Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping had only recently been resurrected from his third purgir (which had occurred in the spring of 1976, sixteen months earlier), and he shared leadership responsibiliti uneasily with Mao Zedong's chosen successor as Party Chairman and Premier, Hua Guofeng. In the circumstances, Deng and other leaders listened to Vance's presentation on the normalization issue and the attacked it as a "step backward" from the position expressed by President Ford and Secretary of Sta Kissinger during their visit to China in December 1975. They put off further discussion of the issue b urging the United States to take its time in seriously thinking through the PRC's position c normalization.[95] As Deng said to Vance at the end of his visit:

The Chinese continued to stall on normalization throughout 1977, despite continuing probes on the subje by U.S. officials. Foreign Minister Huang Hua said to Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock at the e: of one session in November: "We hope we can take time and discuss these questions at an appropriate tim But we don't ask the U.S. side to give us an immediate reply. If at present you are unable to give us a nc formula we can wait and continue our discussions later."[97]

From the PRC's perspective, this stalling posture not only avoided discussion of the issue in unfavorable political context, it also put the United States under further pressure by rejecting the Van presentation and forcing the American side to come up with additional--and presumably more favorable proposals. It was only in the summer of 1978, when Deng Xiaoping had further consolidated his domes political position and in the context of an approaching confrontation with Vietnam and the Soviet Uni over Cambodia, that the Chinese began to press for action on normalization (see pp. 98-99).

The Chinese similarly stalled the negotiation on a communique regarding U.S. arms sales to Taiw for a period in the spring of 1982, apparently because of conflicts within the leadership on how to deal w the issue. The Chinese held rigidly to their position in a series of emotional and uncompromisi presentations in March of that year;[98] yet prior and subsequent asides by several Foreign Ministry offici to their U.S. counterparts about the state of play of their leadership and observations about circumstanc being favorable to a solution of the issue conveyed to American negotiators the impression that the rigid of their Chinese interlocutors reflected a purposeful effort by the Foreign Ministry to stall the talks in context of internal political disarray.

Reserving Position

A rather distinctive Chinese stratagem for facilitating a negotiation is to assert their "principled position" on problems that cannot be readily resolved and then proceed to reach a partial agreement on soluble issues. In this way they gain partial objectives and draw the counterpart government into a more positive relationship, yet maintain their position on the intractable problems for resolution at some future time in a more favorable context.

a5

The tactic of reserving position seems to find particular use during the agreement-making phase of a negotiation, when the Chinese have tested the position of their adversary and have concluded that resolution of certain aspects of an issue, while holding off on other aspects, will serve their purposes. We will come back to this tactic in discussing the end game phase of the negotiating process (see p. 99 below).

Backing Off (Redefining Demands)

Much of the record of U.S.-PRC negotiations on normalization shows each side seeking to define in concrete terms the basis for establishing a positive relationship within the bounds of certain general national objectives or "principles." The Chinese, despite the purposefulness and skill of their negotiators, do not seem to have had a highly specified game plan for these negotiations; rather, they seem to have felt their way through protracted discussions at a general level, using suggestive statements of purpose and "principle" to draw out the U.S. side and then, in the concluding phase of the negotiations, defining an agreement in the specific terms of a joint public document.

While there are numerous examples of Chinese officials backing off their initial demands in commercial negotiations to save an agreement, PRC leaders go to considerable lengths to maintain their credibility in political negotiations by not putting themselves in a position of having to back away from their initially stated demands. Unlike the Soviets, who seem to have few compunctions about bluffing and then backing off, the Chinese lay great stress on the credibility of their word and their negotiators.

Leave a Way Out

One of the military stratagems of Sun-tzu is to leave your adversary a "way out" (chu-lu) in battle, so that he will not be forced to fight to the death. Likewise, in Chinese negotiating behavior, PRC officials will attempt to present the appearance of being absolutely unyielding on an issue, yet they use wording that leaves open the possibility of reaching a compromise agreement.

PRESSURE TACTICS

The Chinese use an even more diverse set of approaches to build pressure on a counterpart government in order to move a negotiation in a direction favorable to PRC interests. Pressure tactics used in the past 15 years can be broadly categorized into the style of argumentation invoked by PRC officials, and structural aspects of the negotiating process that Chinese officials seek to manipulate. The latter category includes various forms of political pressure which they seek to bring into play.

[101] Holbrooke-Han, September 11, 1978; see also the Vance-Huang Hua session of October 3, 1978.

Playing Adversaries Against Each Other

The recent U.S.-PRC negotiating record shows a recurring Chinese impulse to build pressure on their opposite numbers by playing their adversaries against them. This was evident in the first encounters of the normalization process in 1971, when PRC leaders let the Nixon administration know that if progress was not made they could turn to numerous political figures in the Democratic Party who were pressing to visit China. As Zhou Enlai told Kissinger on his first, secret trip to Beijing:

> Zhou: You can see [there are] a lot of politicians we have not invited to come here. I have a great pile of letters from them on my desk asking for invitations, which I have not answered.
> Kissinger: What you have done is greatly appreciated by President Nixon.
> Zhou: This is done under the instruction and wisdom of Chairman Mao.[102]

The Premier, by his understated remark, sought to gain credit for restraint in not responding to these requests, while keeping alive the possibility of a change in Chairman Mao's "wise" policy regarding dealing with the opposition. Indeed, as Mao said to Nixon himself in February 1972, "As for the Democratic Party, if they come into office again, we cannot avoid contacting them."[103] But as Zhou had already told Kissinger, he and Mao believed that Nixon's shift in China policy would in fact contribute to the President's reelection—and thus, they (the Chinese), by dealing with Nixon alone, would put the President in their debt.[104]

b1, a5

PRC leaders have been less reserved about playing political rivals of the same party against each other. Most notable is Deng Xiaoping's invitation to Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger in November 1974 to visit the PRC (see pp. 52-53 above), which was used to twit Kissinger throughout his tenure as Secretary of State. The following biplay took place between Kissinger and Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen in the summer of 1976:

> Kissinger: You have had many visitors. I think you will have many visitors in September, won't you?
> Huang Zhen: To whom are you referring?
> Kissinger: I think Senator Mansfield is going; and I understand that my former colleague Schlesinger will be inspecting your fortifications during September.

Huang Zhen: He will not be making an inspection; rather he has asked to get around the country, and we are trying to accommodate him. Moreover, Senator Mansfield will go to even more places.

Kissinger: I don't object.

Huang Zhen: You remember that we invited him [Schlesinger] in 1974. Don't be jealous. You have been to China nine times I believe. You even said yourself you wanted to go to Inner Mongolia.

Kissinger: But I didn't get there. I wanted to see the musk ox of Mongolia.[106]

In similar fashion the Chinese used invitations to former President Nixon and members of his famil in the fall of 1975 to pressure President Ford on normalization as he prepared for his own trip to the PRC And they encouraged President Carter's National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski against his rume x rival Secretary of State Vance as they urged the Carter administration to adopt a harder line against th Soviet Union and to make progress in the normalization negotiations of 1978.

Chinese leaders have also been highly sensitive to the play of Soviet-American relations and their own strained dealings with the USSR as they affect the PRC's position within the "strategic triangle." During the 1970s, they tried to play the United States against the Soviet Union both to reduce Moscow's military pressures against them and to caution Washington that it should not take China's fear of the Soviet Union for granted as a basis for foot-dragging on the normalization issue. PRC attacks on U.S. detente policy throughout the 1970s were designed to encourage Washington to confront the Soviets more forcefully--a policy which would make it more difficult for Moscow to direct its attention to China and would limit the possibilities for any coordinated U.S.-Soviet action against the PRC.

At the same time, Chinese leaders occasionally have hinted at the prospect of some improvement in Sino-Soviet relations--both to worry Washington and to deflate Moscow's pressures against China. In October 1974, for example, on the eve of the Ford-Brezhnev summit meeting at Vladivostok, the Chinese leadership sent a telegram of congratulations to the Soviet Union on the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution proposing in the communication a non-aggression pact. Coming as it did amid tensions in the Sino-American relationship, the cable sparked off press speculation about possible amelioration of the Beijing-Moscow feud. Deng Xiaoping then proceeded to deflate the speculation in his meeting with Kissinger, who had just arrived in Beijing from Vladivostok, with a strong affirmation that in the Chinese view the Brezhnev policy of "hegemony" was unlikely to change.[107] A year later, speculation about an improvement in Sino-Soviet relations was again generated when the Chinese released the crew of a Soviet helicopter that had strayed into PRC territory, with the announcement that an investigation had shown the intrusions to have been accidental--this after months of PRC attacks on the Soviets for having used the intrusion as a purposeful provocation.[108]

The more recent period of marked improvement in Sino-Soviet relations after Mao Zedong's death, in 1981-1982, coincides with a sharp deterioration in both U.S.-Soviet and U.S.-PRC relations.

makes it clear that PRC leaders decided to seek to reduce the level of Sino-Soviet hostility in order to deflate Soviet pressures against them and also to avoid being caught in the middle of the deteriorating Soviet-American relationship. This shift in policy was also intended to build additional pressure on the United States to end its arms sales to Taiwan. The Chinese had become painfully aware that the high level of Sino-Soviet hostility of the Mao era was not only subjecting them to growing political and military pressures from Moscow, but also limiting their negotiating room for maneuver with the United States--which, they assumed, would take China for granted because of its presumed fear of the Soviets. For this, and other reasons, Beijing has in recent years attempted to reduce Sino-Soviet political tensions, even as Moscow's military buildup in Asia continues unabated.

To gain maximum negotiating advantage from this shift in policy toward the Soviet Union, PRC leaders have gratuitously noted for U.S. officials the presumed concern of the American people about signs of an improvement in Sino-Soviet relations--combined with assurances that the PRC will continue to struggle against Soviet "hegemony."[109] And when President Reagan visited Beijing in the spring of 1984, PRC leaders gratuitously called his attention to the imminent arrival of Soviet First Deputy Premier Ivan Arkipov, putting the United States on notice that the PRC was not without alternatives if the U.S.-PRC relationship did not continue to improve.[110]

As noted earlier, this compulsion to play on domestic or international political rivalries as part of the political (and commercial) negotiating process seems rooted in the highly factionalized quality of Chinese politics.

Beat Up on One's Friends

Another notable Chinese negotiating tactic is that of focusing pressures on "old friends." Inasmuch as the Chinese devote such effort in the early phases of a negotiation to identifying sympathetic interlocutors and working to establish guanxi with them, it is logical enough that in the later, formal phases they will seek to pressure those who have demonstrated interest in or commitment to the relationship.

This pattern was first evident in the pressures they applied to Henry Kissinger in the fall of 1975 to move him to complete the normalization process (see pp. 31, 34-35). Because Kissinger had established his political reputation both nationally and internationally on his role in building the U.S.-PRC relationship, Chinese leaders assumed that for reasons of "face" as well as his desire to have a positive relationship with China as a major component of his policy for dealing with the Soviets, Kissinger was vulnerable to threats of a "bad" Presidential visit in late 1975. Thus, they created the expectation of a substanceless visit by President Ford if significant progress were not made toward establishing U.S.-PRC diplomatic relations (thus fulfilling President Nixon's expressed intention of completing the normalization process in his second term). In the last eighteen months of Kissinger's tenure as Secretary of State, PRC dealings with him bordered at times on the contemptuous, as he was in their view a "friend" who had failed to fulfill a commitment.[111]

A second example of pressuring "old friends" is the treatment given Vice Presidential candidate George Bush in August 1980 when he was dispatched by Presidential candidate Reagan to Beijing to explain the Reagan position on China policy. Deng Xiaoping and other senior officials warned Bush that if the Republican Party platform and Reagan's campaign statements about the intention to restore official [109] See, for example, Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian's use of this ploy with Secretary of State Shultz on February 3, 1983.

[110] They also sought to contrast the problem areas in the U.S.-PRC relationship with the close ties between China and Japan, which, it was asserted, would endure into the twenty-first century. See Zhao-Reagan, April 27, 1984; Li Xiannian-Reagan, April 27, 1984; and Hu Yaobang-Reagan, April 27, 1984.

[111] This is evident in Deng Xiaoping's challenging of Kissinger's motives and the veracity of various of his statements to the Chinese. See, for example, his comments to a Congressional delegation on September 5, 1974 (p. 88 below), his inquiry to Senator Mansfield on December 10, 1974, about whether Kissinger had "fully briefed PRC leaders after the Vladivostok summit," and the haughty tone of Qiao Guanhua in his exchanges with Kissinger on October 28, 1975, and October 8, 1976.

relations with Taiwan were implemented, there would be a "regression" in U.S.-PRC relations.

After Bush departed Beijing, PRC officials conveyed to American journalists in the Chinese captial the opinion that Bush's mission on behalf of candidate Reagan had been a "failure," as it had not resolved PRC concerns about the Republican Party's China policy.

So harsh was Deng's treatment of his "old friend" Bush that when the Vice President was again dispatched to Beijing in May of 1982 to help resolve continuing differences over the arms sales issue, Deng conceded almost apologetically that his "candid" presentation of August 1980 may have offended the Vice President, "but it was necessary for us to frankly state our views."[112] All the same, the Chinese continued to keep pressure on Bush throughout his first term as Vice President by expressing their expectation that he would fulfill his obligations to the relationship as a "friend of China." In a letter to Bush from Premier Zhao Ziyang, just after the inauguration, the Premier expressed hope that "in view of the part you played in promoting the normalization of Sino-U.S. relations and your understanding of China, you will . . . make significant contributions to the further development of our relations."[113] And on the eve of Bush's May 1982 visit to the PRC, Chinese officials warned their counterparts in the U.S. Embassy in Beijing that the Vice President's trip would be a "failure" if he didn't come prepared to resolve the Taiwan arms sales issue.[114]

This Chinese instinct to pressure their "friends" is all the more noticeable in view of their evident lack of skill in lobbying American officials who are either skeptical of or hostile to China and to the U.S.-PRC relationship. The Chinese seem to feel comfortable only in dealing with those who share a basic inclination to establish positive guanxi at the human level. Yet these same "friends" are the ones who receive the brunt of the pressure when there are problems to be resolved, for the Chinese assume—not without reason—that those who see value in the U.S.-PRC relationship are the ones who will work to resolve them when pressured, and thereby sustain their status as "friends of China."

"Your Chinese Friends Are In Trouble"

A negotiating ploy that mirrors their pressuring of "old friends" is the occasional warning to foreign officials that if they do not meet certain Chinese political needs in a negotiation, their "old friends" in the PRC political system will lose their influence—thus cutting off the foreign government from political access, or at least weakening the influence of officials friendly to the foreign government.

This ploy was first evident in the U.S.-PRC relationship in late 1971, when officials of the PRC embassy in London let it be known to American contacts that if President Nixon did not give Premier Zhou Enlai anything on the normalization issue during his trip to Beijing, Zhou would be vulnerable to attacks from his opponents in the leadership. The most blatant use of the tactic was during the negotiations of 1981-1982 on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan, when Deng Xiaoping repeatedly told U.S. officials and former officials, "Should the Chinese government and leadership fail to handle the Taiwan question in a correct manner, they would forfeit the support of the entire Chinese people."[115] "If on this question the leaders go against the will of the people, then at least we should step down from our posts."[116]

Was Deng's warning a hollow threat? It is hard for an outside observer to reach a firm judgment, for foreign officials generally know so little about the balance of forces within the senior PRC leadership that they are unable to estimate the impact of their policies on the Chinese political process. Outside analysts can make commonsense judgments about the significance of certain issues within the PRC political system; but ultimately, foreign governments will set their policies according to considerations of national interest, with the welfare of their "friends" in the Chinese government at best a marginal consideration. Nonetheless, Chinese officials will occasionally invoke the political vulnerabilities of their senior leaders to caution a foreign government, much as American negotiators cite the prospect of Congressional opposition as the rationale for rejecting certain negotiating positions.

Threats ("Killing the Chicken to Warn the Monkey")

Prior to the establishment of U.S.-PRC diplomatic relations in 1979, threats did not constitute a prominent aspect of the normalization dialogue. Upon occasion there would be an oblique hint of some costly outcome of a failure to make progress, as when Chairman Mao, in his first meeting with Richard Nixon, hinted at the awkward consequences for the President of a lack of progress toward normalization on his visit to the PRC.[117] But for the most part, during the years the Chinese were trying to draw the United States into a fully normalized relationship, they avoided the invocation of overt threats. Rather, their tendency was to hold back on active cooperation—to withhold the presumed benefits of an active relationship—rather than cite the dire consequences of some U.S. failure to accommodate their position.

This style of negotiating changed significantly, however, after the completion of normalization in late 1978, as the relationship entered a phase of reaching many concrete agreements. And when PRC leaders decided in 1981 to press the United States to curtail its arms sales to Taiwan, overt threats became a major aspect of the negotiating process.

A particularly interesting characteristic of the Chinese use of threats is the tendency to invoke the prospect of an ominous but vague outcome if some PRC concern is not met--and then let the foreign negotiator infer the worst, while reserving maximum flexibility to interpret exactly how and when the vague threat might be instituted.

b1,a3,a5

117 Said Mao to Nixon: "It is alright to talk well [in your forthcoming discussions with Premier Zhou] and also alright if there are no agreements, because what use is there if we stand in deadlock? Why is it that we must be able to reach results? . . . If we fail the first time, then people will ask why are we not able to succeed the first time? The only reason would be that we have taken the wrong road. What will they say if we succeed the second time?" (Mao-Nixon, February 21, 1972.)

b1, a3, a5

What conclusion can be drawn from this experience? It is evident that in at least several instances the Chinese changed negotiating positions and retreated from their threatened sanctions. At other times, however, they have made good on their threats. They obviously go through a cost-benefit assessment of when realization of a threat, as opposed to a shift in position, will best serve their interests. A U.S. negotiator should thus not assume that threats will invariably be carried out if PRC terms are not met.

At the same time, it would be wrong to assume that all Chinese threats are bluffs. PRC negotiators seem to place special emphasis on the credibility of their word. As Zhou Enlai stressed to Henry Kissinger in their early exchanges, "Our word counts."[121] How do Chinese negotiators seek to assure the credibility of their threats? A number of the American former officials interviewed opined that the Chinese, in contrast to the Soviets, seem to make minimal use of bluffing, in order to sustain the credibility of the threats they do invoke. They also use a technique for making threats credible that--in their own vernacular--could be characterized as "killing the chicken to warn the monkey" (sha-ji jing-hou), or taking some action of limited cost that validates their willingness to carry out the stated threat.

Formal Protests

In the pre-normalization period of U.S.-PRC confrontation, PRC officials established a clear and enduring record of asserting their position on certain issues (and documenting their adversary's wrong-doings) through formal protests. This was most evident in the more than 497 "serious protests" registered with the U.S. government in the 1950s and 1960s through the ambassadorial talks at Warsaw for alleged American violations of PRC territory and airspace--largely associated with U.S. military operations near the PRC-claimed Paracel Islands in the South China Sea during the Vietnam War.

A similar pattern of protests began again in 1980 when the Carter administration resumed sales of military equipment to the island, and continued into the Reagan administration in response to press reports that the U.S. government was considering sales of an advanced fighter aircraft to Taiwan. After issuance of the joint U.S.-PRC communique on the arms sales issue in August 1982, PRC officials continued to register formal protests in response to each new announcement of an American arms transaction with the island.

While PRC officials probably have no expectation that such protests will bring about an immediate change in U.S. behavior, they believe that the constant stating of their position establishes a record that can be invoked at some later date. They probably also assume that the protests will build some pressure on the U.S. government to abide by the "principles" of the relationship and the terms of the August 17 agreement, thus constraining U.S. action while also building a record of the wrongdoings of the United States that can be invoked to assert the righteousness of their own position (see pp. 82-83 below).

Escalation of Demands

Another approach the Chinese have used to build pressure on American negotiators, even as they attempt to draw the United States into a more active relationship, is the escalation of demands—especially regarding the Taiwan issue. We have already documented the initial exchanges with the Nixon administration through the Warsaw talks of 1970 in which PRC leaders enticingly hinted that "it would be necessary to create the conditions" to resolve the Taiwan issue. They subsequently indicated through the Pakistanis in 1971 that they expected the United States to withdraw all its troops from Taiwan. When direct, high-level contacts were established in the summer of 1971, Zhou Enlai pressed the United States to recognize the PRC as the "sole legitimate government" of China and Taiwan's status as an inalienable part of China, as a basis for establishing diplomatic relations.

b1, a5

This tactic puts the adversary government "off balance" by setting an agenda to which it must react while putting itself in a position where any modifications of its own initially stated terms can be characterized as making concessions or showing flexibility.

b1, a5

Provocation

In addition to using provocations to facilitate the development of the U.S.-PRC normalization dialogue and advance China's maneuverability within the "strategic triangle," the Chinese have also used provocations to build pressures on American negotiators, to get them to reassess their policy positions relative to the PRC, and to force them to take a stand on issues considered important by the Chinese.

The clearest recent example of this tactic occurred in the spring of 1975, when the "Gang of Four" was increasingly assertive within the PRC leadership and the influence of the hospitalized Zhou Enlai and the aging Mao Zedong was weakening. In late March, the Chinese informed the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations, which manages cultural exchanges with the PRC, that a performing arts group scheduled to tour the United States in April had in its repertoire a song entitled, "People of Taiwan, Our Brothers." The song contained the line, "We are determined to liberate Taiwan and let the light of the sun shine on the island," which was viewed in Washington as highly provocative in the U.S. domestic political context.

A series of exchanges between the State Department and the PRC Liaison Office led to a U.S. demand that the offensive song be deleted from the repertoire; otherwise, the group's tour would be "postponed." In reply, the Chinese asserted that U.S. objections to the song demonstrated that the Ford administration was not sincere in its commitment to the principles of the Shanghai Communique (which held that Taiwan's future was a domestic issue for the Chinese to resolve themselves), and that since this was an issue of principle, the Chinese government could never yield to foreign pressure on the matter.[125] Despite U.S. efforts to suggest a way out of the impasse, the Chinese held firm and the cultural group's tour was finally canceled.

What was Beijing's purpose in pressing the United States to accept such a provocative cultural performance? One interpretation at the time was that the Chinese wanted to sensitize the Ford administration to the seriousness of their concern with the Taiwan issue, and to do so well in advance of the President's fall trip to Beijing. A second interpretation (which in hindsight seems more credible to this analyst) is that "leftists" in the PRC leadership wanted to embarrass the Zhou-Deng moderates for their America policy, and they used the provocation to demonstrate either that the United States would resist action on the Taiwan issue, or, if the administration acceded to the touring group's song, that political repercussions in Taipei and Washington would induce added strains in the U.S.-Taiwan relationship.

Whichever interpretation is correct, this incident is but one example of the use of political provocations to apply pressure on an adversary government in order to induce policy changes. It also seems a clear case in which internal political factionalism in Beijing induced a provocative foreign-policy initiative.

Loss of Control

We noted at the outset of this analysis that Chinese officials will go to great lengths to conduct negotiations on their own territory, to maximize their ability to control the ambience and to establish the guanxi which is at the core of their efforts to influence a foreign government's negotiating position. But such control can also be used to raise pressures on a foreign negotiating team. Having first impressed visiting foreign officials with their capacity for seemingly effortless and unerring control over the protocol of a visit, subsequent delays of meetings or apparent uncertainty in the management of a visit become all the more unnerving, for the visitors assume that even an inadvertent lapse is purposeful and designed to convey some subtle political message.

Henry Kissinger summarized this sense of unease in describing his reaction to the unexplained cancellation of a communique-drafting session during the last day of his visit to Beijing in July 1971:

> [Zhou Enlai] designated Huang Hua as his representative for drafting the announcement, and then left. But Huang Hua did not show up right away. The inexplicable waiting was all the more ominous because we were talking not about an elaborate communique but about a statement of a paragraph or two announcing a Presidential visit to Peking. We never found out whether it was a deliberate tactic to unsettle us, whether there was a Politburo meeting, whether Mao insisted on reviewing the talks, or whether, as was most likely, we faced a combination of all of these. Finally, Huang Hua showed up without a word of explanation, urbane, affable, imperturbable.[126]

Less ambiguous examples of purposeful PRC management of negotiations to create a sense of disorientation and loss of control are the previously noted occasions when Presidents Nixon and Ford were kept in the dark about the scheduling of sessions with Mao Zedong, only to be surprised with awkwardly timed encounters, and the purposeful stalling in October 1975 designed to undercut Kissinger's effort to negotiate a draft communique in advance of the Ford visit. A clear example of how Zhou Enlai used the timing of meals to control the mood of substantive exchanges, and even to cut off a Kissinger rebuttal of his own critique of U.S. policy, is evident in this episode from the July 1971 secret visit to Beijing:

> The mood [in the second session] was very different from that of the previous evening. With very few preliminaries Chou launched into a forceful presentation of the Chinese point of view. With little rhetorical flourish Chou put forward much of what I came later to know as Chinese Communist liturgy—that there was "much turmoil under the heavens"; that Taiwan was part of China; that China supported the "just struggle" of the North Vietnamese; that the big powers were colluding against China . . . I then launched into a deliberately brusk point-by-point rebuttal of Chou's presentation. Chou stopped me after the first point, saying the duck would get cold if we did not eat first. At lunch over Peking duck the mood changed and Chou's geniality returned."[127]

[127] Kissinger, White House Years, p. 750.

On his subsequent visit to Beijing in October 1971, when negotiation of the first drafts of t Shanghai Communique began, Kissinger was exposed for the first time to Chinese use of fatigue to put foreign negotiator under physical as well as psychological pressure:

> After stuffing us with roast duck, Chou submitted his [communique draft] in the evening. It was unprecedented in design. It stated the Chinese position on a whole host of issues in extremely uncompromising terms. It left blank pages for our position, which was assumed to be contrary.
> After a brief break I told Chou that I would accept his basic approach. The communique could contain an extended statement of differences; we would supply the American position for those areas later. However, the language of the disagreements had to be compatible with the occasion [of a Presidential visit] . . . there would have to be some common positions, or else the whole [Nixon] journey would be seen as an exercise in futility. I promised to submit a counterdraft the next morning.
> It [the drafting] turned into a contest of physical endurance. Lord redrafted the communique while I got three hours of sleep. Then he went to bed and I reworked his draft for the remainder of the night . . .
> Our counterdraft of October 25 ushered in a session that lasted the whole day, interrupted for several hours while the Chinese translated our text, studied it, and, no doubt, cleared their position with Mao.[128]

These recollections illustrate the PRC use of unpredictability in scheduling negotiating sessions inconvenient timing of exchanges--late at night after heavy meals--and the general dislocation of having to negotiate in an unfamiliar environment (and usually while jet-lagged) to induce in the visiting official a sense of disorientation, fatigue, and loss of control.

"Bad Guy-Good Guy"

A universal negotiating ploy that is also evident in PRC diplomatic practice is the alternation of pressures and accommodating exchanges, often by varying "hard" and "soft" officials in the formal meetings. This tactic was evident to diplomats who dealt with Qing dynasty officials in the 19th Century,[129] and it is a pattern that recurs in the normalization exchanges. Zhou Enlai, for the most part, made his presentations in understated and urbane fashion, but periodically he would launch into sharp attacks on the American position, evidently under instruction from Mao Zedong, who remained a largely unseen but contentious orchestrator of the negotiations from "behind the curtains" (mu-hou).

This "bad guy-good guy" pattern is most evident in the contrasting styles of former Foreign Minister Huang Hua and Deng Xiaoping, who in the 1978-1982 period functioned as a team in the normalization negotiations and the exchanges on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. Huang's presentational style was self-righteously acerbic, unyielding, and demanding, and he would tend to drag out exchanges until the positions of the two sides deadlocked. Deng Xiaoping, in contrast, would present himself (usually at the conclusion of a series of exchanges) as low-key, rational, and concerned with finding a common basis for agreement.

There is no doubt a strong element of role-playing as well as responsiveness to internal political guidance in this pattern, for Deng at times could also be quite acerbic and taunting in his presentations; in contrast, Huang Hua—who was at his most vicious in the exchanges at Panmunjom in 1953, when the Chinese were determined to force a break in the negotiations with the United States[130]—so impressed Henry Kissinger with his "wise, practical," and accommodating negotiating style that he was characterized by Kissinger after their first year of encounters as "my new friend."[131]

Split the Politician from His Advisers

One tactic frequently noted in commercial negotiations with the Chinese is that of dividing a senior negotiator from his staff of specialized advisers when decisions are to be made. Chinese escorts will arrange sightseeing trips for businessmen and then unexpectedly convene a decisionmaking discussion in a limousine when the chief of the negotiating team is alone with his PRC counterpart and a Chinese interpreter. PRC commercial negotiators also privately debunk the expertise of foreign advisory personnel in discussions with senior negotiators in an effort to undermine the confidence in which they are held.

Similarly, in political negotiations, expert staff accompanying an official are often separated, for example, at banquets (ostensibly for reasons of protocol); the senior official is then given information or urged to state opinions beyond the earshot of staff who could either record the exchanges for later reference or caution him in his responses.

The most blatant PRC use of this tactic in dealings with the United States occurred in 1977-1978 following Secretary of State Vance's August visit to Beijing (in which Vance had presented the Carter administration's initial approach to completing the normalization process). The Chinese must have concluded that Vance's lawyerly approach to the issue and his perceived reluctance to take a strong stand against the Soviet Union made him an unpromising negotiating counterpart, for not long thereafter senior PRC officials began sending the message to President Carter that "Sino-American relations are not a diplomatic question but a political question [and] it is necessary to consider this question [of normalization] from the viewpoint of long-term strategic interests."[132] This was an oblique way of saying that they hoped the President would manage the normalization issue from the White House rather than allowing it to be handled by Secretary Vance and his colleagues in the State Department. A few months later, their preferences were partially accommodated when Carter's National Security Adviser Brzezinski presented himself to the Chinese as an interlocutor on strategic issues.

"You are Hurting the Feelings of a Billion Chinese" (The Pressure of Mass Opinion)

Chinese decisionmakers have impressed most official American interlocutors as being coldly calculating in their approach to negotiations; emotional public reaction to their efforts—given the elitist, Marxist-Leninist structure of the PRC political system and China's long tradition of authoritarian government—have not been a significant theme in their presentations to U.S. counterparts. Moreover, it is not clear to outside analysts exactly how the PRC leadership assesses public support for their policies or how the opinions of "the masses" play on the leadership, although as politicians they cannot be unmindful of matters of public support.

In the post-Mao years of negotiating contact with the PRC, American officials began to hear Chinese leaders invoke the issue of public reaction to their policies as a way of pressing the United States to accommodate to their views.

Was Deng's invocation of public opinion and the purported resentments of his billion countrymen on matters related to Taiwan merely a rhetorical device for demanding American acquiescence to his position? Probably not. Unlike Mao Zedong's imperial style of leadership, Deng's restructuring of China's political and economic system has given at least a limited and constrained voice to "public opinion"--as at Democracy Wall, or in the reconstitution of the National People's Congress. Thus, even though U.S. decisionmakers must quite properly formulate China policy on the basis of American national interests and not considerations of China's domestic politics, Deng no doubt gives consideration in some incalculable way to "the feelings of a billion Chinese" in his policy calculations.

PRESS PLAY

The Chinese Communists discovered early in their history that the press could be a potent weapon in their struggle against their Nationalist (Kuomintang) enemies. Not only was the mass media, in the Bolshevik tradition, seen as a basic tool of "agitprop"--of mobilizing a mass base of support--but it was also an essential element of a negotiating context in which the party had to compete with the Nationalist government both on the battlefield and in the fight for domestic and international support. As Mao Zedong commented in his 1945 article "On the Chungking Negotiations," a major reason the Communist Party had entered into "peace" talks with Chiang Kai-shek was to "explode the rumor spread by the Kuomintang that the Communist Party did not want peace and unity." He went on to describe how negotiating positions were formulated as much for their impact on public opinion as out of any expectation of reaching agreement with the Nationalists:

> All the means of propaganda in China, except the Hsinhua New Agency, are now controlled by the Kuomintang. They are all rumor factories. Concerning the current negotiations, they have spread the rumor that the Communist Party just wants territory and will make no concessions.

133 Deng-Mondale, August 27, 1979.

134 See, for example, the Deng-Bush conversation of May 8, 1982.

> . . . Subject to the principle of not damaging the fundamental interests of the people, it is permissible to make certain concessions. . . . by conceding areas in the south, we have completely exploded the Kuomintang's rumors before the people of all China and the whole world.[135]

Unlike U.S. dealings with the PRC during the 1950s and 1960s, when Beijing used the international press to justify positions that could not be negotiated behind closed doors,[136] in the normalization negotiations the Chinese used the mass media to help build public support for a U.S.-PRC relationship--and to pressure the United States to accede to negotiating positions favorable to PRC interests.

From Kissinger's first encounter with PRC leaders, Zhou Enlai used the press as a counterpoint to the private negotiations. While Kissinger was secretly flying to Beijing from Pakistan in July 1971, New York Times correspondent James Reston was journeying to the Chinese capital by train as a public guest of the Premier.[137] Zhou's lengthy interview with Reston, published on August 10 (less than a month after the public announcement of Kissinger's secret trip and the Nixon presidential visit), enabled the PRC leadership to get its positions on the full range of bilateral and international issues covered in the private official talks into public view--and provided a public channel which could be played against the Nixon administration if the official discussions proved unpromising.

It soon became clear that Zhou's experience with mass media was still limited to the world of newspapers and books, that he did not yet fully appreciate the potential of the "new" medium of television. In his first discussion with Kissinger about the mechanics of the Nixon visit, Zhou estimated that the President would want to bring along a press entourage of not more than ten! The final number, including TV commentators and technicians, was over 250. Zhou was well aware, however, that unlike the Americans, he did not have to defend his policies before an inquisitive press. As he remarked to Kissinger in the context of a critique of the U.S. government's position on Chinese representation in the United Nations:

> There is also the question of world public opinion [in reacting to U.S. government policy]. It's easier for us here, because we don't have to hold a press conference every week and can wait maybe half a year before giving our answer. Although perhaps now the situation may change.[138]

The Premier's closing premonition that "now the situation may change" may not have been more than his private anticipation of the imminent arrival in Beijing of New York Times correspondent Reston; but Zhou and other PRC leaders were quick to grasp the possibilities of television. They responded to Kissinger's descriptions of how the Nixon administration intended to use the print and electronic media to give outreach to its China initiative by not only agreeing to an enormous Presidential press entourage, but by rapidly constructing two earth stations for receiving and transmitting satellite television transmissions so that the Presidential visit--the official banquets, the tours of historic sites, and the issuance of the Shanghai Communique--could project China and its new foreign policy to a global audience.

How have PRC officials used the mass media as a component of their approach to negotiations--and especially as a way of bringing pressures to bear on their U.S. counterparts? The record suggests the following tactical uses of the media as an adjunct of the negotiating process.

"Pump Priming" (Setting a Discussion Agenda)

The Chinese have shown skill at using the press in advance of official negotiating encounters to publicly set a discussion agenda. Mao Zedong's interview with Edgar Snow in late 1970 (published in Life magazine in April of the following year, just after "ping-pong diplomacy" had raised public expectations about a possible thaw in the U.S.-PRC confrontation) and Zhou Enlai's interview with James Reston helped to set the stage at the onset of the official exchanges between the Chinese leaders and the Nixon administration. Other interesting examples of this technique are Deng Xiaoping's interview with a Congressional delegation headed by Senator Sam Nunn of Georgia three weeks in advance of his official visit to Washington. In the interview, Deng made public the contents of the Third Plenum decisions regarding peaceful reunification with Taiwan, defusing pressures on the Taiwan issue that would likely come from his forthcoming meetings with other Congressional leaders in Washington. Deng also gave an interview to Time magazine just before his trip to Washington, publicly setting out his perspectives on a wide range of issues to which the American side had to react. As President Carter said to Deng in their first formal discussion, "I have read your statement [on world issues] that was published in Time magazine, a. 4 I thought you might be interested in hearing about our policies."[139]

A similar approach was used in the fall of 1981, just before the Chinese pressed the Reagan administration to negotiate on the issue of U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. On September 30, PRC media carried Marshal Ye Jianying's nine-point program for peaceful reunification with Taiwan. Two days later, Ambassador Chai Zemin called on National Security Adviser Richard Allen to ask if he had read the Ye program.

The Trap of Public Visibility

Chinese leaders became quite conscious during the early 1970s of the way in which the intense media attention to Henry Kissinger's periodic visits to Beijing tended to trap the Nixon and Ford administrations in the high expectations raised by the normalization dialogue. Given the limited "hard" information which was made available to the press about the substantive content of the talks and the degree to which even the mood of the discussions affected the China factor in Kissinger's approach to dealing with the Soviet Union, Chinese leaders felt that their ability to shape press perceptions of the state of the U.S.-PRC relationship gave them significant leverage on the United States. In late 1974, for example, PRC officials began to "background" the resident American press in Beijing about various "problems" in the relationship, stimulating stories about a "cooling" in the relationship. Deng Xiaoping, in his initial meeting with Kissinger in November 1974, debunked rumors about a chilling of the relationship[141] but at the first formal negotiating session, with the large traveling press contingent in the room for a photo opportunity, Deng needled Kissinger on the state of the relationship--to the delight of the newsmen:

139 Carter-Deng, January 29, 1979.
140 Reagan-Zhao, October 21, 1981; Haig-Huang Hua, October 30, 1981.
141 Deng-Kissinger, November 25, 1974.

Deng: It probably would be good if one day we would be able to exchange views in Washington.

Kissinger: I hope we can do that very soon, [but] your Foreign Minister always refuses my invitations.

Deng: It is difficult for him to come now. What will he do if he meets the Chiang Kai-shek Ambassador to Washington?

[The press contingent is escorted from the room.]

Kissinger: . . . we are prepared on this visit to discuss the whole question of normalization.

Deng: That is good.[142]

Deng seemed to take particular delight in priming the press in such opening "mood setting" exchanges—usually to put Kissinger on the defensive. But he could also use this technique to deflate pressures on the visiting American delegation, as when he congratulated President Ford, during Ford's December 1975 visit to Beijing, for his "successful" discussion with Chairman Mao, and by noting that the two sides had "set a new style" in the relationship by not being compelled to issue a formal communique.[143] (In thus giving the President some "face" during his visit, and by defusing the issue of the lack of a formal communique, Deng was of course trying to put the President in his debt as well as maintaining a public atmosphere conducive to PRC interest in sustaining the U.S.-PRC relationship.)

PRC awareness of the value of the trap of public visibility to their negotiating encounters was revealed in the fall of 1981 when Foreign Minister Huang Hua, having pressed a series of demands on the Reagan administration (see pp. 64-65 above), concluded his meetings in Washington with an effort to get into the public record the fact that the administration had agreed to hold "discussions" on the arms sales issue. Secretary of State Haig sought to diffuse the impression that negotiations on the arms sales issue were under way; but in a meeting with the press after their final session, Huang Hua made it clear in his statement that the issue was under discussion, a fact that PRC media were quick to play up.[144]

Public Attack

In general, PRC officials have been loath to attack publicly and by name U.S. officials; such overt criticism, in their political culture, is reserved for adversaries. In the normalization period, their objective has been to move the U.S. government to take positions favorable to PRC interests, not to destroy the relationship. Thus, their public criticism of American officials has been muted and often by indirection rather than by direct attack. This was the case in 1974 when they wanted to put pressure on Henry Kissinger for his detente approach to dealing with the Soviet Union. Rather than criticize Kissinger by name, they took advantage of public disclosure of a purported speech by one of Kissinger's close associates, Helmut Sonnenfeldt, on U.S./European policy to publicly attack the "Sonnenfeldt Doctrine," which, said

144 See Haig-Huang Hua, October 30, 1981; also the Xinhua dispatch from Washington of the same date reporting Huang Hua's comment that "the two sides had discussed the question of U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. The date, venue, and level of further talks between the two sides would be decided by the two sides through consultations." Haig had merely told the press—as had been privately agreed—"the two sides had discussed current major international problems and bilateral relations including the Taiwan question."

PRC media, demonstrated that the United States was accommodating Soviet hegemony over Europe.[145] The press criticism was but a thinly veiled attack on Kissinger.

PRC officials occasionally use direct public attack to establish a limit on an adversary's negotiating position. Through public criticism they try to establish as a "fact" their opposition to a given policy, creating a situation in which their negotiating counterpart will assume that since the PRC has "gone public" with a position it will be most reluctant to "lose face" by changing policy. Such was the case in the fall of 1977, following Secretary of State Vance's visit to Beijing. Unauthorized rumors in the American press--which the Chinese probably assumed had official inspiration--hinted that Deng Xiaoping had shown "flexibility" on normalization issues in his private discussions with the Secretary. Deng, anxious to protect himself against domestic critics as well as to undercut any impression that he would accommodate Vance's concern for an official American presence on Taiwan after normalization, publicly criticized the Secretary's negotiating position in a meeting with a group of American newspaper editors, characterizing his discussions with Vance as a "step backward" in the normalization dialogue.[146]

Raising Expectations

Given the demonstrated impact of the mass media in generating public pressures on the U.S. government, the Chinese have tried--with varying degrees of success--to control the level of visibility of issues when they believed public expectations would work to their advantage in the negotiating process. During the second half of 1978, when the final phase of normalization exchanges was under way (and when at U.S. request the fact of the negotiations was to be kept confidential), PRC officials could barely constrain their impulse to let it be known that the normalization process was in a "final" phase. In late July, the U.S. Liaison Office in Beijing protested to the Foreign Ministry a Chinese indiscretion to the French about the first Woodcock-Huang Hua sessions on the normalization issue.[147] And on November 18, Deng Xiaoping, in a meeting with a Japanese Komeito party delegation, opined in public that he thought it would take only "two seconds" to complete the normalization of U.S.-PRC relations. Deng also expressed his personal interest in visiting the United States.

While the Chinese did abide by the Carter administration's request that the existence of the talks remain confidential--a request made by the U.S. side precisely in order to minimize the kind of public pressures that had constrained Henry Kissinger--their instinct was to raise public expectations about the negotiation and thus subject the U.S. government to the pressures of domestic and international opinion.

A similar example occurred in 1977 when PRC officials told David Rockefeller that it would be easy to resolve the languishing private claims/blocked assets issue, thus stimulating considerable private sector and press commentary. When governmental exchanges on the topic were resumed, however, it became clear at an official level that the Chinese were not prepared to soften their negotiating position or to accommodate U.S. legal requirements in order to consummate an agreement. The issue continued to drift until the spring of 1979, when the Chinese, in the first major effort to implement Deng Xiaoping's economic modernization program, finally compromised on the issue sufficiently to reach agreement with the Carter administration.

Provocation

The Chinese use of political provocations to influence a negotiation has its counterpart in their use of the press. It is likely that Beijing anticipated in the mid-1970s that occasional moderating gestures toward the Soviet Union would elicit lively press speculation in the United States about the possibility of a Sino-Soviet reconciliation; and even if they didn't hold such expectations, the evident reactions that did occur clearly demonstrated to them a capacity to evoke a public response that would work to their advantage.

PRC media upon occasion have attacked U.S. policies in a way that suggests they anticipate that public criticism may provoke a change in an objectionable position or move the U.S. government to take some desired action. For example, in the spring of 1975, not long after the collapse of the Thieu government in South Vietnam, PRC media carried an article characterizing the United States as "strategically passive"--a theme which the Chinese knew, from official exchanges, was likely to elicit a sharp reaction from Secretary of State Kissinger. The Secretary was concerned that the Soviets, North Koreans, or other adversaries of the United States would take advantage of the mood of the time to press their own interests much more aggressively. Kissinger did, in fact, protest the characterization of "strategic passivity" in a discussion with Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen on May 9; and the Chinese criticism was probably one of the factors that moved the United States to take military action a few days later against the new Cambodian communist government in the Mayaguez affair.

Public attacks by the PRC on alleged Western "appeasement" of the Soviet Union in the latter half of the 1970s parallel private Chinese demarches on the same subject to officials of the Ford and Carter administrations.[148] It may be assumed that such criticism was intended to provoke a more confrontational U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union--thus diverting Soviet pressures away from the PRC.[149]

Limit-Setting

Chinese press commentary paralleling a negotiation often seems intended to establish a perception in the minds of the foreign negotiators of the limits to PRC flexibility on the issue under discussion. By making a position public, the Chinese may assume that they are "loading" the thinking of their counterpart government officials with their preferred position, as well as convincing them that having gone public with a "firm" statement, they are unlikely--for reasons of credibility or "face"--to show flexibility at the bargaining table. Thus, after 1974, PRC media stressed that normalization could be realized only on the basis of the "Japan formula"; and in early 1982, a People's Daily commentary asserted that there had to be a time limit on U.S. arms sales to Taiwan.

The Chinese are highly conscious of the differing levels of authoritativeness of their various media. In internal documents, they clearly distinguish between the PRC-controlled Hong Kong press (the Da Gong Bao and Xin Wan Bao), the "unofficial" mainland media such as the Wen Hui Bao and the Guang Ming Ri Bao, the governmental news outlet Xinhua She, and authoritative political media, especially Ren Min Ri Bao (People's Daily). They will often present positions on topics under negotiation in a much "harder" tone in "unofficial" media in order to influence the expectations of their foreign counterparts about the limits of their flexibility, while retaining the option of modifying a position not made in an "official" publication.

148 See, for example, Kissinger-Qiao Guanhua, September 28, 1975; Huang Hua-Vance, August 24, 1977; Huang Hua-Brzezinski, May 20, 1978.

149 Chinese pressures on the United States to be more aggressive in dealing with the Soviets are a mirror image of PRC efforts in the late 1950s and early 1960s to get Moscow to abandon detente with Washington and adopt a more "revolutionary" foreign policy. These Chinese pressures, which were seen by the Khrushchev leadership as provocative and adventurist, were no doubt intended to minimize the possibility of a detente in U.S.-Soviet relations--which would have isolated the PRC and created the threat of Moscow-Washington "collusion" against Chinese interests. The Chinese, thus, have attempted to provoke both the United States and Soviets to confront each other, to the presumed benefit of PRC security.

Enticement

During the arms sales negotiation of 1982, the Chinese first floated a hint of compromise on the iss of a time limit on U.S. sales in a Xinhua commentary. Indeed, on March 2, as a new round of negotiatic was beginning, a Foreign Ministry official explicitly--and privately--called the attention of U.S. Embas personnel to what he characterized as flexibility on the time limit issue in the just-published pr commentary.[150]

What was the purpose of floating a hint of compromise in a public medium? It may be that t Chinese, in characteristic "projective test" fashion (see pp. 40-42 above), were hoping to stimulate t United States to respond with a new negotiating position that would be more forthcoming in meeting th objectives. The vague wording of the Xinhua commentary did not formally commit the PRC to a mo flexible position, yet it might entice the United States to come forth with a specific reaction to which t Chinese would have the flexibility of responding to at their own initiative.

It is worth noting in this assessment of the role of the mass media in the negotiating process th Chinese officials, since the onset of the normalization dialogue, have revealed a timely access to virtually a American mass media; and, especially in recent years, they have shown considerable sensitivity to th manner in which press statements by administration officials and Congressmen, and even totally privat press commentary, affect PRC management of the negotiating process. (This Chinese sensitivity to the U.S press and the rapid dissemination of American media within the PRC political elite have implications fo U.S. negotiating counterstrategies, as discussed on pp. 120-121 below.)

During the Nixon presidential visit in 1972, Zhou Enlai disclosed to Secretary of State Rogers tha Mao Zedong had first seen signs of change in U.S. China policy in Richard Nixon's 1967 Foreign Affair article "Asia After Vietnam," which (even during the height of the Cultural Revolution!) had been translate and circulated in the internal publication Reference Materials (Cankao Ziliao). When Kissinger arrived i Beijing in July 1971, as part of a round-the-world trip, Zhou Enlai quoted to him from a speech Richar Nixon had delivered in Kansas City a few days before. Kissinger was nonplussed because he had not see the speech himself (or known of its existence); nor had he received a copy from U.S. embassies along hi route. Yet the PRC Premier had this latest Presidential statement--which he loaned to Kissinger overnight for his reference.[151] Premier Zhao Ziyang once noted to President Reagan, as presumed proof of Sovie designs on Taiwan, that Moscow television had recently carried a film clip of Taiwan President Chiang Ching-kuo officiating at a National Day (October 10) celebration in Taipei.[152] And during the arms sales negotiation in early 1982, Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin began a session with Assistant Secretary John Holdridge by complaining that "last night's ABC news broadcast" had carried a report that President Reagan had decided to sell F-5E aircraft to Taiwan.[153]

The point of these examples is that the Chinese have long had timely access to the full range of foreign news media, which are rapidly translated and circulated within the political elite in the "internal" (nei-bu) publications Reference News and Reference Materials and other vehicles of which we may be unaware. The PRC embassies clearly have a press-reporting function, which includes timely assessment of U.S. Congressional debates. Zhang Wenjin, for example, protested to the U.S. Embassy in Beijing U.S.

consideration of sales of the F-X fighter aircraft to Taiwan based on statements made by Senator Glenn and Congressman Zabloki on August 21 and 31, 1981.[154]

Several observations should be made about the impact of this rapid access to foreign news media on PRC negotiating behavior as revealed in the official record of U.S.-PRC exchanges. First, foreign press materials are not only intended to keep the leadership and lower-level party cadre informed of world events, they also are used to inform them--in an oblique and "deniable" fashion--of policy changes within the PRC government itself. Middle-level government officials have told this author that they first anticipated a major change in China's America policy when they read a translation of Mao Zedong's Life magazine interview with Edgar Snow, which had been circulated in Reference Materials. The Zhou Enlai interview with James Reston in August 1971 was similarly given wide circulation within China--thus "feeding back" to the cadre changes in policy of which they may not have been aware from domestic sources.

Second, while we do not know the editorial procedures by which foreign media reports are selected for inclusion in the limited-circulation internal publications, it is rather clear that the top leadership does not edit out reports which could be harmful to its promotion of certain policies. Relevant examples are legion: Deng Xiaoping complained to Secretary of State Haig in June 1981 about reports that President Reagan's daughter was visiting Taiwan, noting that this was a very sensitive issue in China.[155] And he complained to former Vice President Mondale a few months later that public statements by U.S. officials on the F-X issue were complicating his handling of the Taiwan arms sales question within the PRC.[156] Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin, in an exchange with Assistant Secretary Holdridge on the arms sales issue, expressed frustration and resentment about the way the American press discussed Taiwan and the PRC:

> You have . . . expressed hope that China will reduce criticism of U.S. arms sales to Taiwan in the press, but this matter concerns China's sovereignty and independence. In the United States, both the press and officials frequently disclose news on this situation. You have told us not to pay attention to this, but afterwards the news turns out to be true. In the U.S. press, there are many articles tantamount to malicious attacks on China. These violate the agreement on the establishment of diplomatic relations. In many newspaper commentaries, Taiwan is looked on as a country, an ally, and China is maliciously attacked. The Chinese people are very sensitive about such criticism and have exercised great restraint. We cannot stop the expression of the Chinese people's feelings in the press. It is simply impossible for the Chinese press not to write about it. There are letters from readers which have expressed much stronger opposition, but we don't want them published. I would like to give some advice. I hope the U.S. press will adopt a more prudent and restrained attitude and stop malicious attacks on China. I don't want to give specific examples. You know [what they are]. But so long as the U.S. press continues to attack China in this way, there will be a limit to China's restraint.[157]

No doubt there was a certain amount of playacting in Zhang's protest, for Zhang understands full well that the U.S. government cannot control private press writings about China; yet private statements made by Foreign Ministry officials at the conclusion of the arms sales negotiation indicate that U.S. press materials distributed through Cankao Xiaoxi--especially when a party plenum or Congress or a National People's Congress meeting is in session--can stir up political pressures that the leadership finds difficult to control.

The extent to which the PRC political process has become sensitized to U.S. press reporting is perhaps best summed up in a 1983 incident in which a mild Foreign Ministry protest to the U.S. government about an arms sales decision for Taiwan was characterized in the U.S. press as pro forma in character. This story was circulated in China, and a few days later the PRC registered a second, much sharper protest--apparently because of pressures generated within the PRC by the first account.[160]

POWER OF WORDS

A distinguishing characteristic of the Chinese political process noted by a number of foreign analysts is the unusual power attributed to the use of words in asserting political authority.[161] Mastery of calligraphy and the esoteric classical language and memorization of the writings of Confucius were the primary skills of the traditional political elite, the scholar-officials of imperial times. Even during the Communist era, Mao Zedong asserted his authority through study of his writings (as in the Party rectification movements begun in Yanan) and through mass incantations from the "little red book" of his quotations during the Cultural Revolution.

China's ideographic written language, with its mystical origins in bone divination, also seems to sensitize the Chinese to symbolic forms of communication. Chinese leaders are aware of the way their ancient language, for all its cultural richness and its role in unifying the country, has hindered China's modernization. As Zhou Enlai commented to Henry Kissinger in their first encounter: "With respect to China's long history, there's one good point, the written language, which contains a heritage of 4,000 years based on historical relics. This is beneficial to the unification and development of our nation. But there's also a weak point. Our symbolic language of ideograms restricted our development. You might think that these are all idle words, but they are not. They show that we know our objective world and we can coolly appraise it."[162] In politics, the Chinese are masters of the symbolic act and of the communicating power of a well-turned phrase. At the beginning of the normalization phase of the U.S.-PRC relationship, most American observers missed the significance of Mao Zedong's reception of his American "old friend" Edgar

162 Zhou-Kissinger, July 9, 1971.

Snow atop Tian An Men on National Day, 1970[163]--yet this was the first overt sign of the Chairman's intention to initiate a dialogue with U.S. officials. More familiar to American observers in the evolution of the relationship are the symbols of "ping-pong diplomacy" in the spring of 1971, China's use of its panda bears to build a mood of friendship, and the development of such verbal symbols as "the Shanghai Communique," "firing empty cannons," "hegemony" and "the Polar Bear," the "Japanese Model" of normalization, the "nine points" for peaceful reunification with Taiwan, and "the dark cloud" [of Taiwan arms sales] hanging over the relationship.

This distinctive use of language in the political process is expressed in a number of ways in Chinese negotiating behavior. The Chinese are meticulous record keepers, and the words spoken across the green baize table in negotiating exchanges acquire the weight of a formal commitment. Zhou Enlai's repeated assertion to Henry Kissinger than "our word counts" expresses a sense that integrity is judged by one's willingness to honor the given word.[164] Chinese negotiators are quick to cite the past record of exchanges to assert that their commitment to a "principled position" is unchanged--as in Deng Xiaoping's 1974 invocation of Chairman Mao's words to justify his rejection of Kissinger's approach to completing normalization at that time,[165] or in Huang Hua's rebuff of Haig's complaint in 1981 that the PRC was escalating its demands for an end to U.S. arms sales to Taiwan by citing Deng Xiaoping's words at the time of normalization that the arms sales issue would have to be discussed in the future.[166]

Chinese negotiators readily cite a counterpart's own words to hold him to a position he might want to change.

b1,a3, a5

And they invoke the words of a counterpart's predecessors to reject a change in policy.

After reading from the Deng-Ford exchanges of 1975, Deng asserted that Vance's presentation on normalization was a "retreat" from the stated position of his predecessors.[168]

163 One problem in U.S.-PRC relations has been the tendency of the two sides to misinterpret communications, especially those of a symbolic nature. Each side probably tends to overinterpret "signals" of the other, or to assume a purposeful calculation behind some word or act when none was intended. For example, Mao himself once indicated to Kissinger his overreading of the intention behind President Nixon's reception of a PRC acrobatic troupe at the White House. Said Mao: "From the atmosphere with which your President received our acrobatic troupe, I thought that the Vietnamese issue was going to be settled." [Mao- Kissinger, February 17-18, 1973.]

164 In contrast to the negotiating behavior of the Russians, the Chinese, for the most part, are meticulous in translating statements negotiated in English into Chinese. This was Kissinger's experience in constructing the Shanghai Communique (see White House Years, pp. 1084-1085).

The Chinese are skillful in using vague formulations to draw out a negotiating counterpart so that his position is "on the record"[169]; and when they are in an intransigent mood, they will reiterate their policy with great tenacity and--to assert the authority of their own position--will insist on having the last word in an exchange.[170]

WORD GAMES (STYLE OF ARGUMENTATION)

Chinese officials, like all negotiators, observe certain stylized conventions in official exchanges. Some verbal conventions are virtually universal in communicating intentions or in imparting second and third order meanings to words spoken. Table I summarizes some of the verbal conventions found in the normalization record that are familiar to any diplomat with substantial international experience. But there are certain forms of argumentation characteristic of Chinese negotiating practice that are, if not unique, at least highly distinctive.

"You're Violating the Principles of the Relationship!"

Having worked assiduously in the early phase of a negotiation to gain a counterpart government's commitment to certain general principles, the PRC negotiator will use that commitment to constrain his interlocutor's actions as the relationship evolves. In the U.S.-PRC relationship, this pressure tactic has been most evident with regard to the issue of U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. In 1978, as the normalization negotiations entered their final phase, PRC officials protested each Carter administration sale to the island as a violation of the principles embodied in the Shanghai Communique:

b1, a3, a5

This same plaint of violation of principle was Beijing's primary form of verbal pressure during the arms sales communique negotiation in 1982:

Table 1

PRESSURING PHRASES IN CHINESE NEGOTIATING PARLANCE

Phrase	Meaning
"Speaking personally . . ." "It is my personal view that . . ."	Signifies an "unofficial" but on-the-record comment, usually of a critical nature, that the negotiator wants considered by his counterpart, but one that he should not be held accountable for as a formal governmental position or have quoted back to him in future negotiating sessions.
"To be frank . . ." "Speaking very candidly . . ."	Signifies a serious, usually critical statement, often with an implicit threat of some unfavorable development if the critical comment is not taken seriously.
"I have been instructed to tell you that . . ." "I have been authorized [directed] by the Premier to inform you that . . ."	Communicates a policy position, usually of a demanding or threatening nature, that carries the weight of a formal or collective decision by the leadership.
"It is our principled position that . . ."	Signifies an inflexible negotiating position from which the PRC will not compromise (at a particular stage of a negotiation). (When no mention is made of "principle," the negotiator is usually prepared to be flexible in working out "concrete arrangements.")
"Having taken your views into account, it is our position that . . ."	Signifies that the PRC has made some adjustment of its position to reflect the views of its negotiating counterpart, but does not intend to compromise further.
"It is up to the doer to undo the knot."	The counterpart government is responsible for a certain situation, and China will do nothing to resolve the problem.
"If you do X, your side will bear all the consequences." "If you do Y, it will have a very bad effect on our relationship."	A direct, but unspecified threat to take retaliatory action in response to a specific action on the part of the counterpart government.
"If you do X, China will not stand idly by."	The ultimate threat of action, usually of a military nature, in response to the specified behavior on the part of the counterpart government.

And while the joint communique of August 1982 on arms sales, as well as the tacit understandings on the issue that were part of the normalization dialogue, constitute a framework and set of expectations for handling the issue, the Chinese are likely to exert future pressures on the United States on this question by asserting that the United States is violating the principles of the relationship. As Premier Zhao Ziyang declared in a major policy statement of 1983:

> The United States has formulated the so-called "Taiwan Relations Act" and continues to sell arms to Taiwan in serious violation of the public commitments it undertook in all the Sino-U.S. communiques and the principles governing the establishment of Sino-U.S. diplomatic relations that both parties agreed to.[173]

"We Don't Need You; You Need Us!"

PRC negotiating rhetoric also reflects the relationship game which, for the Chinese, is the psychological core of the political process. As the U.S.-PRC relationship has deepened, the Chinese have sought to ease their anxieties about once again becoming dependent on a more powerful, yet distrusted, foreign power, by asserting with great conviction--if not convincing logic--that they are part of the "Third World," or that they pursue an "independent" foreign policy. And at times when PRC leaders have felt the United States was not carrying its weight in the relationship, or when they feared becoming too dependent on the United States, they have asserted with even greater vehemence that it was the United States that needed the relationship with China and not vice versa (and thus the United States should fulfill its part of the relationship).

"You're Guilty, at Fault; You Owe China a Debt!"

A pressure tactic that is hardly unique to the Chinese, yet nonetheless is characteristic of their negotiating rhetoric, is their tendency to lay blame or find fault as a basis for pressing their interlocutors for some action that will accommodate their interests. In the normalization dialogue, this tactic has been particularly evident in discussions on the Taiwan issue. As Zhou Enlai said to Kissinger at the outset of their first encounter, "the question of Taiwan becomes one regarding which we cannot but blame your government."[175] Deng Xiaoping picked up this theme in the mid-1970s, not so much because of alleged past U.S. sins on the Taiwan issue, but to pressure Kissinger to follow through on President Nixon's unrealized intention to complete the normalization process in his second term.

In October 1975, Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua sought to put the Secretary on the defensive on normalization by commenting that China was prepared to complete the process but the United States was at fault for lack of progress because of its political difficulties with the issue. Said Qiao: "It would be good if we can achieve [some progress toward normalization]. We understand you have problems. We have no problems."[177]

The Chinese have similarly attempted to play guilt games with the United States on the issue of technology transfers in order to move the government to adopt a more forthcoming policy toward the PRC.

And in late 1981, Deng complained to Secretary of the Treasury Donald Regan that "America has not given China a single item of advanced technology." Citing the failure to follow through on its decision of 1979 to provide the PRC with a census computer, Deng observed,

> Perhaps the problem is one of how the U.S. treats China. I wonder whether the United States is still not treating China as a hostile country?! . . . We have been waiting. Frankly, we have been very patient. I first raised this matter [of the census computer] eight years ago with Kissinger.[179]

It is evident that the Chinese keep lists of grievances which they recite to an interlocutor when they want to put him on the defensive;[180] and they are quick to blame others for problems they cannot resolve-

"You Are Weak; You Are Fearful!"

In the past, some of the most biting Chinese attacks on U.S. policy have been those that assert that the United States is fearful of the Soviet Union and is displaying weakness by appeasing Moscow through policies of detente--a form of provocation. It is as if the Chinese believed that the best way to move the United States to adopt a more forceful policy against the Soviets was to provoke officials with a challenge to their political manhood.

In late 1971, after President Nixon had decided to assist China if it came under Soviet pressures in the context of a confrontation between India and Pakistan,[182] Huang Hua criticized U.S. policy toward Indian military actions against Pakistan as "a weak one" and asserted that "one must not show the slightest sign of weakness" in dealing with the Indians and their Soviet backers.[183]

Throughout the Nixon and Ford administrations, the Chinese adopted an ever more critical posture toward U.S. dealings with the Soviet Union, focusing their attacks on the various treaties and agreements that embodied the policy of detente. These verbal attacks--presumably designed to encourage the United States to adopt a posture of unalloyed confrontation toward the Russians--came to a head in 1975-1976 as the Chinese attacked the attitude of "appeasement" which, they said, was increasingly prevalent in "the West." This line of attack reached its most extreme point in the following exchange between Kissinger and Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua in the fall of 1976:

> Kissinger: You said in your speech [to the U.N. General Assembly] that when the U.S. negotiates with the Soviets it is engaging in appeasement and pushing the Soviets toward China. But when the U.S. resists the Soviets, it is engaging in a rivalry of the superpowers against which all mankind should unite. Under those conditions we are playing under rules where we cannot possibly win . . . .
> Qiao: Your comments are too general. We are never against negotiations with the Soviet Union. We are negotiating with them now. We are not opposed to negotiations. The problem is the basic position from which one negotiates. You will recall that Chairman Mao discussed with you the problem of the Helsinki Conference. After Helsinki the Soviets went on a large scale offensive in Angola, and we believe this was caused by the weak attitude you adopted at Helsinki toward the Soviets. . . . Our view is that the Soviets, through Helskinki, see your weakness.
> Kissinger: Really, Mr. Foreign Minister, I don't want to be impolite, but I don't agree. We are not weak, rather, we are temporarily weak until after our elections. . . . But that will end on November 2.
> Qiao: I don't want to be impolite. The Soviets, through Helsinki, have come to feel that the West is anxious to reach agreement. . . . We have mentioned our concerns because in our view we cannot adopt a weak attitude toward the Soviet Union.[184]

This line of verbal attack continued during the Carter administration, as in Huang Hua's assertion to National Security Advisor Brzezinski that the United States was fearful of the Soviet Union:

182 Kissinger, White House Years, pp. 905-910.
183 Kissinger-Huang Hua, December 10, 1971.
184 Kissinger-Qiao, October 8, 1976.

Huang Hua: Between the Soviet Union and the United States, who is more afraid of whom? The United States is more afraid of the Soviet Union. In Africa, the Soviet Union is making infiltration and expansion and making an open challenge to the United States. This, I think, has something to do with the weak response on the part of the United States. And I think the policy of appeasement can only inflate the ambitions of the Soviet Union for hegemony.

Such attacks usually have been coupled with verbal bravado that China, in contrast, is in no way fearful of the Soviets:

Huang Hua: Your excellency has mentioned that one of the strategic goals of the Soviet Union is to encircle China. As a matter of fact, China has never feared encirclement. The Communist Party of China developed and grew strong while encircled. It is impossible to encircle such a big country as China. . . . There is an advantage in having been encircled. That is, it has compelled us to rely on our own efforts to develop our economy.[185]

"Your Policy Is Illogical" ("Lifting a Rock Only to Drop It on One's Own Foot")

PRC negotiators, with their dialectical sense of logic, are quick to point out instances where U.S. policy or actions--in the Chinese view--actually work to increase the influence and strength of America's adversaries, or where U.S. policies are internally inconsistent. Such criticisms, of course, are intended to induce changes in U.S. policy favorable to Chinese objectives.

Zhou Enlai attacked the U.S. bombing campaign against North Vietnam in 1971 with the argument that the bombing was helping the Soviets to increase their influence in Hanoi.[186] Deng Xiaoping criticized U.S. grain sales and technology exports to the Soviets as inconsistent with the stated U.S. objective of resisting Soviet hegemony.[187] Defense Minister Geng Biao criticized U.S. pressures on OPEC as helping the Soviets to increase their influence in the Middle East.[188]

"We Don't Care About . . ." (Devaluation)

When PRC negotiators wish to convey the impression that they are impervious to pressures or unwilling to compromise on some issue, they will assert--often not very convincingly--that they don't particularly care about a given situation or about attaining a certain objective.

In a discussion with Henry Kissinger of the Nixon administration policy on China's representation in the United Nations--which would obviously affect the timing if not the manner in which the PRC gained entry to the U.N.--Zhou Enlai asserted lack of urgent interest in the matter:

You must know we do not consider the matter of regaining our seat in the U.N. an urgent matter. We have gone through this for 21 years and we have lived through it. Even if war should break > out, we should be able to live through it. Therefore, we do not attach any importance to the U.N. question, and I didn't [even] mention it yesterday.[190]

In 1975, as the Chinese sought to bring maximum pressure on the Ford administration to complete the normalization process (by withholding the prospect of a "successful" Presidential visit), they asserted that they feared neither Soviet pressures, which might increase with an evident deterioration in the relationship, nor a delay in normalization:

> The Chinese side would like to state the following in all frankness: As is known to all, it is the self-interest of the United States which guides its international actions. The Chinese side has long made clear that it entertains no illusions about the policy of the U.S. The basis of China's policy has always been independence and self-reliance. China neither fears intimidation nor seeks protection. As for the normalization of relations between China and the U.S., this is the common aspiration of the people of China and the U.S. And it is the U.S. that owes a debt to China.
> In the past 26 years, in the absence of diplomatic relations with the U.S., the Chinese people have led a life much better than in any other period in China's history. It can be said with certainty that further delay in the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and the U.S. will not cause the sky to fall, and the 800 million Chinese people will continue to enjoy their happy life. . . . Frankly, the Chinese side does not care about speculations in other quarters about [the state of] Sino-U.S. relations.[191]

And in 1978, as the Chinese sensed the Carter administration moving to a "final" negotiating round on normalization and as the PRC faced the prospect of growing tensions with the Soviet Union and Vietnam over Indochina, Deng Xiaoping had to deal with the problem of how to accelerate the normalization negotiations without appearing anxious—which, in the Chinese view, would undercut their bargaining position.

Sharpening Differences (Differentiation)

> Mao Zedong: We also say . . . that each side has its own means and [has] acted out of its own necessity. That [has resulted] in the two countries acting hand-in-hand [to deal with the Soviet challenge].
> Kissinger: Yes, we both face the same danger. We may have to use different methods sometimes but for the same objectives.
> Mao: That would be good. So long as the objectives are the same, we would not harm you nor would you harm us. And we can work together to commonly deal with a bastard [the Soviets] (laughter). Actually, it would be that sometimes we want to criticize you for a while and you want to criticize us for a while. That, your President said, is the ideological influence. You say, "Away with you communists." We say, "Away with you imperialists." Sometimes we say things like that. It would not do not to do that.
> Kissinger: I think both of us must be true to our principles. And in fact it would confuse the situation if we spoke the same language. I have told the Prime Minister that in Europe you, because of your principles, can speak more firmly than we can, strangely enough.[193]

One of the more intriguing aspects of the U.S.-PRC political association that has developed over the past fifteen years is the "dialectical" quality of cooperation and criticism; the sense of shared interests yet an equally sharp sense of the cultural, institutional, and political differences that make the two countries unique. The relationship, in many ways, is truly a matter of "the unity of opposites."

This paradoxical quality has been most evident in the negotiating process in the three periods since 1971 when the Chinese have purposefully decided to sharpen these differences: at the time of the drafting of the Shanghai Communique in the fall of 1971; in 1974-1976, during the ascendancy of the "Gang of Four" and the succession crisis to Mao Zedong's leadership; and in 1981-1982 during the negotiations over U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. The political dynamics of these instances of heightened tension are not the same in each instance and are not fully known; they reflect in some measure the play of PRC internal politics, especially during the mid-1970s. Yet they also are episodes in which the Chinese sought to exert pressure on the United States by drawing a sharp distinction between the positions of the two sides on a range of issues—while not pushing differences to the point of rupturing what remains a fragile association based on a sense of shared external threat more than common institutions, political values, or developmental objectives.

In October 1971, on Kissinger's second visit to Beijing, during which he initiated exchanges on the joint statement that came to be known as the Shanghai Communique, Kissinger brought with him a draft document that "followed the conventional style, highlighting fuzzy areas of agreement and obscuring differences with platitudinous generalizations."[194] The next day Zhou Enlai responded to the draft:

> Quite uncharacteristically, he made a scorching one-hour speech—at the express direction of Mao, he said. He declared that our approach was unacceptable. The communique had to set forth fundamental differences; otherwise, the wording would have an "untruthful appearance."[195]

193 Mao-Kissinger, February 17-18, 1973.
194 Kissinger, White House Years, p. 781.
195 Ibid.

While initially nonplussed at Zhou's sharp attack and his unfamiliar formula for drafting a communique, Kissinger recalled, "As I reflected further I began to see that the very novelty of the approach might resolve our perplexities. A statement of differences would reassure allies and friends that their interests had been defended; if we could develop some common positions, these would then stand out as the authentic convictions of principled leaders."[196]

The second instance occurred in the fall of 1975, during preparations for the Ford presidential visit to the PRC. As noted earlier, the Chinese side at once sustained their invitation to the American president even as they refused to construct a visit communique that would highlight common positions of the two sides. Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua told Liaison Office Chief George Bush in the midst of the preparations:

> We welcome the U.S. side's proposal for a visit to China by President Ford and [we] are prepared to receive him with courtesy. It will be all right whether or not our minds meet. The U.S. side should be clearly aware of this and not harbor any illusions."[197]

Qiao then related this perspective to the drafting of a joint U.S.-PRC communique to mark the conclusion of the Presidential visit:

> The present (U.S.) draft still attempts to cover up differences in principle between China and the U.S. on major international issues and creates a false impression. This will serve neither of our interests. . . . It is unjustifiable to tone down or eliminate language alleged by the U.S. side to be offensive.

b1, a3, a5

As a negotiating tactic, this approach produces a complex set of effects for both sides: It enables both parties to assert visibly and sharply their "principled positions"--which, as Kissinger noted, enables them to reassure allies and domestic constituencies that their interests have been pressed in the negotiations; it also puts the relationship under considerable strain and forces both sides to define very precisely the value to each of the association. There was a clear limit in each of the above-mentioned instances beyond which Chinese pressures would have strained the relationship to a breaking point; but in each instance partial compromises on both sides preserved a core of agreement amid unresolved differences. As Mao Zedong--a master of this tactic--liked to assert, big quarrels can produce even greater unity.[199]

Debunking (Rejection)

PRC negotiators can upon occasion be quite sharp in debunking the policies of their counterparts in order to bring pressure on them to change their positions. A few examples from the record will convey the flavor of their often-ridiculing approach to rejecting the opposite side's views.

In 1974, Deng Xiaoping--speaking to a U.S. Congressional delegation--debunked Henry Kissinger's assertions that Soviet pressures against China would reach a high point in the mid-1970s:

> Often we read in the American press or have heard from American visitors that the Soviets will launch an all-out attack at such and such a time. Last autumn we heard that the attack would come before the rivers froze. Our view was that this was very unlikely. The winter passed. Next we heard that the Soviets would attack us when the ice melted in March. Well, the thaw came, but not the attack. And now once again from very good sources we hear that the Soviets will attack us before the freeze in October. This once again seems to us very unlikely. But, as it is in the future, we can only wait and see.[200]

In the fall of 1975, Mao ridiculed Kissinger's assertion that the United States "attaches very great significance" to its relationship with the PRC with the counter that his words were "not reliable."[201] The Chairman, being anxious to see normalization accomplished before he died, sought to pressure Kissinger by saying in effect that he wanted action on normalization, not just words.

In 1977, Deng Xiaoping sought to move the Carter administration to adopt a policy of more vigorous opposition to the Soviet Union.

b1, b3, 25

The Chinese continued to challenge Vance on his views of the Soviet Union by criticizing what they claimed to be an attitude of "appeasement" in the United States, and with near ridicule of his approach to dealing with the Russians:

> Vance (to Huang Hua): I understand you are going to Kinshasa on the way home, Mr. Minister.
> Huang: . . . You should go also . . . but I doubt you will--you may be apprehensive of offending the Soviet Union.[203]

In an effort to put off movement on the normalization issue in the summer of 1977--and to position China more favorably for eventual discussion of the subject--Deng Xiaoping debunked Secretary Vance's presentation on the subject as "a retreat, not a step forward" from the position put forward by the Ford administration.[204]

Personal Abuse (Challenging Motives, Sincerity)

In the normalization negotiation, American officials—with a few exceptions--have been spared the personal abuse and invective that characterized U.S.-PRC negotiations during the adversarial days of the 1950s and 1960s.[205] In their recent efforts to build a relationship with the United States, the Chinese capacity for cultured graciousness has been the rule, not the exception. At times when they have wanted to build pressure on the United States, however, their negotiators have shown flashes of the capacity for personal abuse which so dominated the atmosphere of the talks at Panmunjom and Warsaw. Indeed, the contrast between their usual politesse and their occasional resort to abusive language and the challenging of motives makes the latter instances even more powerful in effect.

The first sharp example of challenging motives in the normalization record is Zhou Enlai's assertion to Henry Kissinger in February 1973 that the United States "wants to reach out to the Soviet Union by standing on Chinese shoulders," an accusation to which Mao Zedong (the author of the image) added, "I suspect the whole of the West has such an idea, that is to push Russia eastward, mainly against us and also Japan."[206]

During the time of the "Gang of Four," PRC diplomats adopted an increasingly acerbic tone in exchanges with U.S. counterparts, no doubt a reflection of internal tensions associated with the political polarization of the time. In the spring of 1974, the Chinese sharply rejected a U.S. warning about the possible attachment of a PRC special mission aircraft scheduled to fly from Beijing to New York for a special session of the United Nations General Assembly because of the unresolved private claims/blocked assets issue.[207] A formal note charged that the United States was engaging in "blackmail" on the issue. In the summer of 1976, Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen formally attacked Senator Hugh Scott in a discussion with Secretary of State Kissinger, asserting that the Senator had created a "premeditated pretext" to issue a "flagrant threat" to Vice Premier Zhang Chunqiao when he told the Vice Premier, in a discussion in Beijing the previous month, that a PRC resort to force to solve the Taiwan issue would harm the development of U.S.-PRC relations.[208]

Distorting the Record

While the Chinese do not hesitate to hold their negotiating counterparts accountable for the words they have spoken into the official record, and despite Zhou Enlai's self-righteous assertions that "our word counts," there have been a number of instances in recent years where PRC officials have significantly distorted the record of official exchanges with the United States to influence important aspects of the 205 Ambassador Kenneth Young has summarized the style of PRC negotiators in this era in the following way: "Glorifying martial virtues and military tactics, the Sinocentric, Maoist and revolutionary diplomat considers negotiation, at least with Americans, a eventual death struggle for the adversary and not a joint benefit for both parties. He has no feeling for his American adversary nor an interest in his case. He indulges in the language of invective and exhausts the vocabulary of the extreme." relationship in a direction favorable to their objectives. Thus, U.S. negotiators must be as meticulous as the Chinese in maintaining and drawing upon the formal record of past exchanges in negotiating encounters.

In drafting the Shanghai Communique, one of the U.S. formulations that most impressed the Chinese was the indirect manner in which the issue of the unity of China and Taiwan's relationship to the PRC was expressed: "The United States acknowledges (renshidao) that all Chinese on either side of the Taiwan Strait maintain there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of China. The United States does not challenge that position." It is clear from subsequent comments made by Chinese officials that this wording was seen in Beijing as being quite clever, for it avoided a direct U.S. affirmation of the unity of China; indeed, one may speculate that the phrasing elicited criticism within the Chinese political system, for subsequently Chinese officials attempted to assert that the United States had directly acknowledged or recognized (chengrenle) that Taiwan was a part of China or the PRC.

When Secretary of State Kissinger introduced PRC Liaison Office Chief Huang Zhen to his successor Cyrus Vance in early 1977, the following exchange occurred:

> Kissinger: We negotiated the Shanghai Communique, Cy, usually in the evenings after banquets; and after a few maotais I did most of the negotiating in Chinese (laughter).
> Huang Zhen: Some of the wordings in the Shanghai Communique were created by you [Kissinger].
> Kissinger: What impressed the Chinese most about what I have done was the formula we discussed about how to express the idea of one China. We came up with the formula that the Chinese on both sides of the Taiwan Strait maintain that there is only one China, and the U.S. is not disposed to challenge that position.
> Huang Zhen: In the Shanghai Communique, as you mentioned, the U.S. recognized that there was only one China and that Taiwan is only a part of China.[210]

This misstatement of the record, unchallenged even by its author, was notably pronounced during the final months of the normalization negotiations of 1978, when the Chinese attempted to rectify what they found to be the objectionable indirect formulation of the Shanghai Communique. In a review of the evolution of U.S.-PRC relations with U.S. Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock on August 11, 1978, Foreign Minister Huang Hua asserted that in the Shanghai Communique the United States "recognized one China and that Taiwan is an integral part of Chinese territory, that is, an integral part of the People's Republic of China."[211] And on December 5, Acting Foreign Minister Han Nianlong told Woodcock that the PRC was prepared to normalize U.S.-PRC relations at an early date inasmuch as the United States, he asserted, "had pledged to support the principle of one China and that Taiwan Province is a part of the People's Republic of China."[212]

In the final version of the joint U.S.-PRC communique on the establishment of diplomatic relations the United States slightly modified its indirect formulation of the Shanghai Communique to the phrase, "The United States of America acknowledges the Chinese position that there is but one China and Taiwan is part of China." But the Chinese, in translating the English language working text of the communique, used the word chengren to translate "acknowledge" rather than the phrase renshidao which had been used to translate the same word in the Shanghai Communique. The modified translation carried a stronger sense of

The issue of timing for Taiwan's reunification has not been raised directly with the United States in recent years, although Deng Xiaoping, in a speech to party cadre in January 1980, identified "reunification" as one of the three major tasks for the PRC in the 1980s.[220]

b1, a5

A third, and in some ways still puzzling, distortion of the official record was the Chinese public assertion made in the fall of 1980 that the United States had promised to end all arms sales to Taiwan within a period of a few years. This issue first surfaced after the 1980 presidential election, when Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin, in a highly unusual action for a PRC official, told the Washington Post in an on-the-record interview that "any [American] arms deliveries at all [to Taiwan] violated the normalization agreement."[223] Zhang added, in the words of the Post reporter, that "the United States had told Peking that the problem of arms deliveries to Taiwan would disappear with the passage of time."

These assertions subsequenuy tueled a number of American press stories on the subject, ultimately provoking former President Jimmy Carter to state publicly while on a tour of China in August 1981, that he had never told the Chinese that American arms sales to Taiwan would end within a period of a few years.[225]

What was involved in this provocative distortion of the official record of U.S.-PRC understanding regarding arms sales to Taiwan? The underlying motivation seems to have been a PRC effort to block the realization of their worst fears—that a newly elected Reagan administration would upgrade relations with Taiwan and vigorously implement those provisions of the Taiwan Relations Act that called for enabling the island to maintain its defenses. As noted earlier, the Chinese reacted strongly in the pre-election period to statements by candidate Reagan that he intended to reestablish official U.S. relations with Taiwan and make the Taiwan Relations Act the basis of his China policy; and Vice Presidential candidate Bush's efforts in August 1980 to put Chinese fears to rest, in Deng Xiaoping's words, had not eased their concerns.

If this assessment is correct, it is still unclear what the Chinese thought they could accomplish by injecting the timing issue into America's public debate in the transition period between the defeat of the Carter reelection campaign and the inauguration of the Reagan presidency. In any event, once the issue had been raised publicly by Zhang Wenjin in the Washington Post interview and in the statements to Congressmen, partisan politics in the United States may have played some part in the subsequent American press campaign in which the Carter administration was attacked for having sold out Taiwan's security interests.

A final example of distortion of the official record by PRC officials occurred during the 1981-1982 negotiations on ground rules for handling U.S. arms sales to Taiwan.

Time Pressures (Deadlines)

A final pressure tactic which is as pronounced in Chinese negotiating behavior as is the tendency to play adversaries against each other is the effort to control the pace of a negotiation so that the counterpart government must make its final decisions under the pressure of a time deadline.

We noted earlier the sensitivity of PRC officials to the rhythms of the political process--to that of their negotiating counterparts as well as their own. The Chinese try to position themselves in a negotiation so that they can control the pace of the exchanges and thus maximize their ability to press their counterpart against a deadline, or at least avoid being time-pressured themselves. For example, at the beginning of the final round of normalization discussions, Liaison Office Chief Leonard Woodcock proposed to his counterpart Foreign Minister Huang Hua that they meet regularly every two weeks to lay out their respective positions. Huang rejected this regular schedule in favor of an arrangement whereby meeting dates would be set as the negotiations proceeded--an arrangement designed, no doubt, to enable Beijing to control the pace of the exchanges.[231]

Chinese officials negotiate with the latent assumption that to be anxious to conclude a deal is to be put at a significant psychological disadvantage. In their political tradition, moreover, those in positions of leadership are supposed to display their authority by a posture of slow-moving reserve;[232] and as Henry Kissinger observed of China's most famous Communist mandarin and archetypal negotiator, Zhou Enlai, the Premier projected a dignified and relaxed quality of "inner serenity."[233] Thus, the Chinese will attempt to create the impression that they are in no hurry to conclude an agreement, even when in fact they are under considerable time pressure. For instance, in the first formal and direct communication between Zhou Enlai and the Nixon administration, the Premier asserted:

> The Chinese government reaffirms its willingness to receive publicly in Peking a special envoy of the President of the U.S. (for instance, Mr. Kissinger) or the U.S. Secretary of State or even the President of the U.S. himself for direct meeting and discussions. Of course, if the U.S. President considers that the time is not yet right the matter may be deferred to a later date.[234]

And at the first formal negotiating session on the normalization issue in 1978, Huang Hua began the discussion with an apology for the delay in scheduling the meeting by noting that he had been preoccupied with the visit of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Trade of Papua-New Guinea--an aside designed to create the impression that China was in no great hurry to get the negotiations with the United States under way.[235]

This compulsion to appear unhurried can produce some almost comical formulations when the Chinese are, in fact, anxious to accelerate the pace of a negotiation. The classical expression of such ambivalence is Deng Xiaoping's observation to Henry Kissinger in the fall of 1974:

> We can sum up our views [on normalization] in two sentences: According to our wishes we would like this matter to come more quickly; but secondly we are not so much in a hurry. . . . If we are able to reach a point acceptable to both sides in a relatively quicker period of time we would welcome this. But Chairman Mao has also said in his talk with the Doctor that we pay special attention to international issues[236]

Establishing a deadline for agreement is a process unique to each particular negotiation, but as we shall stress in the following examples, U.S. officials--with their typically American instinct to resolve issues expeditiously and get on to new challenges--have repeatedly trapped themselves in time deadlines.

In negotiating the Shanghai Communique, while most of the text had been agreed upon during Kissinger's October 1971 visit to Beijing, resolution of the critical formulation dealing with Taiwan was delayed until the Nixon Presidential visit. The Chinese rejected a formulation on the issue brought by Kissinger's deputy, Alexander Haig, during the January 1972 advance trip, and the Chinese held out on this highly sensitive issue until the Presidential party's last day in Beijing. Kissinger later recalled of his twenty hours of negotiation with Vice Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua during the Nixon visit, "each side pushed the other against the time limit [of the President's scheduled departure from the Chinese capital] to test whose resiliency was greater. Determination was masked by extreme affability. The best means of pressure available to each side was to pretend that there was no deadline."[237] And at one point he and Qiao even discussed the possibility of no communique--just to feign willingness to have the visit conclude without a formal agreement.[238] Qiao compromised on the Taiwan formulation with less than twelve hours remaining before the scheduled departure time.

In the normalization negotiations of 1978, the United States established a time deadline when President Carter and then Secretary of State Vance indicated to PRC officials that they were prepared to establish diplomatic relations by the end of the year.[239] The Chinese then paced the Huang Hua-Woodcock exchanges in Beijing over a six-month period so that by early December there had been a full airing of views; yet uncertainty remained about when a final deal might be struck. Vice Foreign Minister Han Nianlong told Leonard Woodcock in their meeting on December 5 that Vice Premier Deng was prepared to meet with him "at an early date," yet a week later no meeting had been scheduled, leading National Security Adviser Brzezinski in Washington to call in Liaison Office Chief Chai Zemin on December 12 to indicate that time was running out to meet the January 1, 1979, deadline.[240] The Chinese then proceeded to schedule the Deng-Woodcock session within 24 hours.

A similar situation, although with a different outcome, marked the playing out of the arms sales negotiation of 1981-1982. The United States established a time deadline for agreement by proposing on January 11, 1982, that the two sides negotiate on the issue with the objective of issuing a joint communique on the tenth anniversary of the Shanghai Communique, February 28. The Chinese thus thought they had a time deadline against which to press the United States; and they stalled the negotiations throughout the first half of February in order to build pressure on the United States.[241] The Reagan administration then decided to let the deadline pass rather than reach an undesirable agreement, ultimately trapping the Chinese in a time deadline.[242]

An interesting example of Chinese management of a negotiation to establish a time deadline where none really existed is the PRC-British negotiation of 1982-1984 on the future of Hong Kong. The nearest thing to a "natural" deadline was the 99-year expiration date of the 1898 Sino-British treaty on Hong Kong--in 1997; but this distant date put no pressure on the British, and indeed put the Chinese in a position where they faced an almost open-ended negotiating situation, something that gave the British the time leverage. In order to reverse this situation and put the British under time pressure, the Chinese asserted publicly on November 9, 1983, that unless there was a negotiated agreement by September 1984 they would proceed to issue a unilateral PRC policy on the future of the colony.[243]

END GAME

> Let us go straight to the point. Following the discussion between the Premier and Dr. Kissinger, and in the spirit of that discussion, and after making a study after that discussion, and before the Premier meets with the President, we have decided to accept your proposal.[244]

The lengthy period of assessment can end rather abruptly when the Chinese feel they have fully tested the flexibility in their counterpart's position and have concluded that formal agreement serves their purposes. Much in the style of a Chinese painter, who stares at his blank paper at length and then executes his conception with rapid strokes of the brush, the negotiator will quickly conclude an agreement after a protracted assessment of his counterpart's position. The end game phase of a negotiation is usually brief, businesslike, and conducted at a high level of authority as the negotiators give concrete expression in some formal document to the "principles" and objectives that have been discussed at length in the assessment phase.

The Chinese, like all negotiators, face a "threefold choice":[245] to strike a formal agreement on the terms their counterpart is prepared to settle, to abort the negotiation, or to continue to bargain. In the U.S.-PRC negotiations of the 1970s, there is at least one instance in which Chinese aborted a negotiation, that on the private claims/blocked assets issue, in which a combination of bureaucratic resistance to concluding an agreement and internal political pressures associated with the rise in influence of the "Gang of Four" led Beijing to repudiate a solution to the issue worked out in November 1973 by the ailing Zhou Enlai.[246] The more familiar experience in the normalization years, however, was that of the Chinese reaching partial agreements while "reserving position" on certain aspects of a situation in order to draw the United States into a more active relationship, from which they might improve their bargaining position on the unresolved issues for future rounds of talks.

The negotiating record indicates that PRC negotiators signal very clearly their intent to conclude an agreement--to shift from assessment to end game. In the normalization negotiation of 1978, PRC officials switched from their stalling tactics of the previous year (see p. 54 above), a posture of rhetorically asking, "How can it possibly be the case that we are not impatient on such a matter?"[247] by signaling that Deng

Xiaoping was interested in visiting the United States,[248] through outright expressions of impatience,[249] and by indicating in the negotiating sessions an urgent interest in substantive and concrete descriptions of how the positions of the two sides might be reconciled. As Huang Hua said to Leonard Woodcock in their third meeting in the summer of 1978:

> In order to solve the problem of normalization one should not evade questions of substance, such as what it is that has detracted from the normalizations of relations, and the question of how and when the U.S. government will take concrete measures to fulfill the three conditions put forward by the Chinese government.[250]

Such signals of impatience and a desire to go beyond general principles to discuss concrete implementation indicate that Chinese leaders have concluded that an agreement is desirable and within reach. This does not preclude additional hard bargaining over the detailed language of a formal agreement, as the Chinese test to the limit their counterpart's firmness of purpose, and PRC negotiators may even create an apparent deadlock at the eleventh hour. But as Kissinger observed of the final day of negotiations on the Shanghai Communique: "In every negotiation a point is reached where both sides have gone too far to pull back. Accumulated mutual concessions create their own momentum; at some stage retreat puts into question the judgment of the negotiators."[252]

The most reliable sign that agreement is at hand is the intervention of a senior leadership figure in the negotiation—a political figure would not put his "face" into a negotiation that was about to collapse. On the night of July 10-11, 1971, just hours before his departure from Beijing, Kissinger had a long and frank discussion with Huang Hua of their differences in drafting a public announcement of Kissinger's secret visit to the Chinese capital and Zhou Enlai's invitation to President Nixon to visit the PRC. After a midnight break of several hours, Huang reconvened the discussion, while Zhou Enlai waited nearby, and tabled a joint statement that required only one word change--after which Zhou entered the room for a final exchange of views.[253]

In drafting the Shanghai Communique, the same pattern was repeated on the last day of the negotiations in Beijing. As Kissinger recalled: "Chou joined the negotiation for half an hour that afternoon, a clear indication of his confidence [that an agreement was attainable] . . . and that he would take responsibility for the requisite compromise."[254] In December 1978, the Chinese signaled to Leonard Woodcock the approaching finale of the normalization negotiations when his counterpart in the December 4 session, acting Foreign Minister Han Nianlong, concluded the discussion by saying that Deng Xiaoping wanted to meet with him shortly. In the arms sales negotiation of 1978, an apparent deadlock at the negotiating table on August 14 was paralleled by a statement by Vice Premier Wan Li to a visiting U.S. cabinet official that an agreement would be reached "in the near future."[255] The next day, the Chinese accepted the position of the U.S. negotiator. In negotiations of early 1984 on a nuclear cooperation agreement, the imminence of a Chinese compromise was likewise signaled to the American negotiator, Ambassador Richard Kennedy, when his Chinese counterpart indicated that Premier Zhao Ziyang would receive him before his imminent departure from Beijing.

248 As Foreign Minister Huang Hua said to Secretary of State Vance in the summer of 1978, "With regard to the invitation extended by Dr. Brzezinski for the Vice Premier to make a visit to the United States, the Vice Premier said, 'In that case we must work harder, since I am getting old.'" (Vance-Huang Hua, June 2, 1978.)

While the substantive details of a formal agreement will, of course, vary from negotiation to negotiation, there is a high level of consistency to the pattern of the end game phase of a negotiation with the Chinese: It occurs after a protracted period of exchanges. It almost invariably comes at the eleventh hour of some deadline that is part of the structure of the negotiating context. And it usually involves the intervention of a senior Chinese political figure who will either "cut the knot" of an apparent deadlock reached by the negotiators or bless an agreement they have constructed (with his behind-the-scenes direction). And this phase is brief and businesslike.[256]

Two other characteristics of the end game are worth noting. The Chinese will use the occasion of reaching formal agreement to "tag" for the future their position on the issues where they have "reserved position." In the Shanghai Communique this "tagging" was accomplished in their unilateral paragraphs on the issues of Taiwan and various international problems. In the normalization agreement, Deng Xiaoping's final session with Leonard Woodcock concluded with Deng's assertion that the arm sales issue should be discussed in the future (see the Deng-Woodcock exchange of December 15, 1978). And the unilateral public statement by Premier Hua Guofeng reaffirmed PRC opposition to U.S. arms sales to Taiwan and the position that the manner of reunifying Taiwan with "the motherland" was an internal Chinese matter.

It should also be noted that the Chinese have a preference for political agreements cast in the form of relatively vague expressions of principle and intent, and made public in the form of joint press statements, communiques, or "joint declarations," as opposed to formal treaties or highly specific, "contractual" arrangements. This seems to reflect not only a preference for the flexibility that relatively vague language affords them in future negotiating rounds or in subsequent efforts to press the counterpart government to implement the "spirit" of an agreement, but also their distrust of legalistic approaches to politics and the underlying assumption of the relationship game that good guanxi and a strong sense of shared interest are the most reliable guarantors of a political agreement.

IMPLEMENTATION

The implementation of a negotiated agreement is not usually thought of as part of the negotiating process; yet the Chinese press their counterpart to an agreement for "strict implementation" (just as the United States has made verification a major element of arms control negotiations with the Soviets).

The United States began to experience PRC pressures regarding the implementation dimension of the U.S.-PRC relationship in the summer of 1973, when Zhou Enlai commented to Liaison Office Chief David Bruce that the relationship would develop most effectively if "one keeps one's promises" regarding 256 Several former officials interviewed for this project commented that there was almost an anticlimactic quality to the final period of constructing a formal agreement with the Chinese—coming as it tends to do after months of exchanges or an intense period of days or weeks of negotiation. Kissinger's observation about how easy the final drafting of the communique for his July 1971 visit was is echoed in Leonard Woodcock's characterization of his negotiation with Deng Xiaoping of the text of the normalization agreement of December 13, 1978.

257 Deng-Hummel, August 17, 1982.

normalization and opposition to the Soviet Union. More direct pressure on the normalization issue was raised in 1974, first in Qiao Guanhua's low-key comment to Bruce that the recent appointment of a new U.S. ambassador to Taipei and the opening of two new R.O.C. consulates in the United States represented "minor problems" in the relationship.[258] The most intense pressures for implementation of the 1972 Nixon expression of intent to complete normalization in the second term came (as detailed on pp. 31, 34-35 above) in the fall of 1975. Yet the Chinese pressed Kissinger obliquely, with the threat of an unsuccessful Ford Presidential visit, rather than by complaining directly about the U.S. failure to meet the Nixon time schedule.

The Chinese were delicate in pressing the Carter administration to follow through on the normalization time commitment of its predecessor,[259] although, as noted earlier, they did hold Secretary Vance and National Security Adviser Brzezinski to the terms agreed to by President Ford.[260] Once normalization was accomplished, the Chinese began to press on certain implementive aspects of the new relationship.

While the Chinese thus posture themselves as self-righteous sticklers in overseeing the implementation of agreements, they in fact have a less-than-perfect record in following through on agreements. They reneged on the agreement worked out between Zhou Enlai and Kissinger in 1973 to resolve the private claims/blocked assets issue;[263] and having agreed with Secretary of State Haig in the summer of 1981 to send General Liu Huaqing to the United States for talks on arms transfer issues, they withdrew the arrangement with complaints about U.S. arms sales to Taiwan. And in the spring of 1984, Premier Zhao Ziyang, in a discussion with President Reagan, laid the basis for eventual non-fulfillment of the U.S.-PRC grain trade agreement by noting that lack of extension of a shipping agreement would affect

Consequently, President Ford was not reelected, and of course the new administration has a right to reconsider this question." [Deng-Brzezinski, May 21, 1978.]

U.S. businessmen, in particular, complain frequently about Chinese failures to implement contractual agreements. With their penchant for pressing their friends to "understand" (forgive) their own difficulties, as well as their inclination to seek substantial modifications of contracts once signed, the Chinese have not maintained a record for meticulously implementing agreements that they sign with their political and economic partners.

PERSONALITIES

We have thus far described evident patterns in the way PRC officials attempt to manage negotiations as if the process were independent of the personalities involved. While this is true in some measure, inasmuch as culture and institutions tend to dilute the influence of individual actions, personalities can and do significantly shape both the style and the substantive content of negotiating encounters.

In the case of U.S. dealings with the PRC, two factors have tended to magnify the impact of individual personalities: the highly personalized quality of the Chinese political process, and the remarkable continuity of senior personnel in the PRC leadership that--until the deaths of Mao Zedong and Zhou Enlai in 1976--has given a few individuals enormous influence over China's foreign relations.

The formal negotiating record assessed for this analysis and the personal memoirs of the American officials who conducted negotiations with PRC counterparts reveal interesting variations in style among the Chinese leaders who managed the America relationship during the 1970s and early 1980s. They also disclose interesting hints about the interrelationships among the various leaders, as well as insights into the state of elite politics in the Chinese capital.

Our objective in this brief section is not to present an elaborate assessment of the personalities of PRC leaders such as Mao Zedong, Zhou Enlai, Deng Xiaoping, and the few other senior officials who have been the primary managers of the U.S.-PRC relationship, but rather to highlight two points: first, that the personalities of individual PRC leaders do influence the style in which the negotiating process is managed; and second, that given the inevitably personalized quality of face-to-face negotiating (which the Chinese enhance via the games of guanxi), American negotiators can be better prepared for their encounters with senior PRC officials if they have informed assessments of the personalities and negotiating styles of their counterparts.

Mao Zedong comes across in the official record, as well as in the Nixon and Kissinger memoirs,[265] as the near-imperial authority which he was in China for so many years. His presentational style was highly symbolic, occasionally Delphic, and now and then revealing of a peasant crudity that bespoke his social origins.[266] He was the most unconstrained of all the PRC leaders in discussing internal as well as international politics; and he would occasionally take personal digs at his colleagues (terming Qiao Guanhua "Lord Qiao" and characterizing Guo Moro as "a man who worships Confucius"). His presentations set the tone and the political themes for each of the Kissinger and Presidential visits; his brief but purposeful comments on all topics of concern provided the authority for the presentations of all lower-level officials. And when Zhou Enlai receded from a direct role in the negotiations in late 1973 because of physical illness and political attack, Mao carried the detail of discussions on international events and the Taiwan issue.

266 Mao asked Kissinger in the fall of 1973 why the American people were always "breaking wind" over the Watergate affair. [Mao-Kissinger, November 12, 1973.]

While it can only be inferred from the negotiating record, it is evident that Mao directed the tactics as well as the grand strategy of the relationship with the United States. It was at his direction, said Zhou Enlai, that he (Zhou) discussed with Kissinger the meaning of the Cultural Revolution; and Mao the provocateur directed Zhou to attack Kissinger's initial conciliatory approach to drafting the Shanghai Communique in October 1971. The aggressive quality of Mao's personality was evident during the tense year of 1975, as when he told Liaison Office Chief George Bush, "You don't know my temperament. I like people to curse me.... If you don't curse me, I won't see you...."[267] The Chairman's feisty mood clearly suffused the entire Chinese political process in his final year of life.

Zhou Enlai is revealed in the official negotiating record not only as the cultured conciliator for which he was known worldwide, but also as a figure exceptionally deferential to Mao.[268] His presentations were laced with references to "Chairman Mao's wise policy" or "Chairman Mao's instructions." His prodigious grasp of history gave him considerable debating ammunition, and he would seek to put his interlocutors on the defensive with facts and critiques of the logic of their policies rather than with bluster or pompous argumentation. Zhou could use self-criticism to great effect. And despite his seniority in the Chinese Communist political order, he showed great discipline and reserve in his presentations on all issues--clearly hewing to Mao's "party line."

Zhou operated in tandem with Chairman Mao; and one of the unresolved mysteries of the last four years of his (and Mao's) life is whether in the final succession crisis Mao withdrew his decades-long support for Zhou to back "the Gang of Four," or whether the infirm Chairman himself began to lose his grip over the party radicals.[269]

Qiao Guanhua is projected in the negotiating record as an intellectual clone of Zhou Enlai, but without Zhou's political stature. His presentational style was, like Zhou's, highly intellectualized; and his barely concealed arrogance is clearly the source of the epithet "Lord Qiao." The feisty Deng Xiaoping, even when still vulnerable from recent political rehabilitation, called Qiao to his face a "foreign bumpkin" (yang baozi). When he was expected to apply pressure on his interlocutor, Qiao's presentational style would turn acid and overwhelmingly arrogant--especially in the sessions of October 1975 and his last encounter with Kissinger on October 8, 1976, only a few days before his purge as one who had pandered to the "Gang of Four." The six Qiao-Kissinger encounters at the United Nations in New York City, beginning in the fall of 1972, are not only a rich elaboration of the key strategic issues underlying the U.S.-PRC relationship, but also a clear sequential record of the political mood of the relationship over a five-year period.

Huang Hua is most evident in the negotiating record as Deng Xiaoping's Zhou Enlai--his "front man." Yet the differences between the urbane and cultured Zhou and the acid-tongued Huang are profound. Huang comes across in the 1978-1982 period as the political "heavy," the bad guy, in contrast to Deng the conciliator. Huang displayed no political or intellectual flexibility in this period, and his presentations were self-righteously nationalistic, pompous, and unyielding. It was Huang who created a sense of deadlock in the arms sales talks of 1982 that the political rationalizer Deng Xiaoping stepped in to resolve.

These brief sketches of the major personalities who have confronted U.S. officials across the green baize table in recent years can only give a taste of what can be drawn from the negotiating record in assessing the negotiating styles of individual PRC officials. There is good evidence that the Chinese make detailed assessments of the attitudes and political roles of their negotiating counterparts. The issue for the U.S. government is whether it can better prepare its negotiators for dealings with the Chinese by providing them with more detailed assessments of the negotiating styles of PRC officials than it now makes.

IV. COUNTERSTRATEGIES AND COUNTERTACTICS[1]

Intellectual understanding of a political counterpart's approach to managing the negotiating process is of limited practical value unless that understanding can be translated into an effective counterstrategy and countertactics. The issue explored in this chapter is whether or not the conception of PRC negotiating behavior detailed above provides useful insights into ways of more effectively dealing with the Chinese across the negotiating table--and in the broader range of political relationships that contribute to the negotiating process.

While the Chinese have shown considerable skill in controlling the negotiating process and in enmeshing their American counterparts in the manipulations of the relationship game, it is possible to conceive of a general orientation for managing the U.S.-PRC relationship and developing tactical negotiating ploys that will enable American officials to maintain sufficient control of the process to successfully attain U.S. policy objectives. This requires, however, not only an understanding of how the Chinese attempt to manage negotiations and an awareness of effective countering techniques, but also a clear definition of U.S. negotiating objectives and sufficient bureaucratic discipline to implement an appropriate counterstrategy.

THE FRUSTRATIONS OF NEGOTIATING WITH THE CHINESE

The American negotiators interviewed for this project, and the memoirs of U.S. officials who have conducted dealings with PRC counterparts over the past three decades and more, describe a combination of both elation and frustration in their dealings with PRC officials. On the one hand, initial American encounters with the Chinese--especially in the early 1970s, as the normalization process began--impressed most U.S. officials with the cultured dignity, discipline, and purposefulness of the Chinese. And virtually all Americans who have dealt with the PRC have found their Chinese counterparts to be personally attractive and highly competent individuals to whom it is easy to relate at a human level. In short, Americans are susceptible to the blandishments of official "friendships" as the Chinese develop them; they are responsive in varying degrees to the games of guanxi.

On the other hand, these same officials describe with considerable frustration the negative aspects of their negotiating experiences. To paraphrase their reactions: The Chinese are always lecturing us, presuming that their policies are without doubt correct, while ours are deficient. They assume they have the right to tell us how to run our affairs. They show no hesitation in criticizing the United States and its policies, yet they are self-righteously defensive about any criticism of their own positions. Indeed, for some reason, Americans find it hard to criticize them in the same manner that they criticize us. The Chinese are always getting us to come to them, to negotiate on their home territory and on their terms; they do not send their leaders and negotiating teams to the United States on a reciprocal basis. The Chinese are remarkably effective in setting a negotiating agenda that serves their purposes and in controlling the timing of the process. They are never satisfied with an agreement, and they never show gratitude for our concessions to their positions; and once an agreement is reached, they invariably press us with additional demands.

These are familiar complaints that reveal the degree to which PRC officials have been able to control the ambience of the relationship and the negotiating process. And while this is not to say that the United States has been unable to attain its own objectives through negotiations with PRC counterparts, the Chinese have been effective in creating at least the impression of a no-win quality in certain aspects of the relationship—as Henry Kissinger expressed in considerable frustration to his counterpart Foreign Minister Qiao Guanhua in the fall of 1976 (see p. 82 above).

[1] Dr. Steven R. Ratner, a former Deputy Assistant Secretary of State (1976-1979), is due special recognition for his role in conceptualizing this chapter. He is a practicing psychiatrist with extensive negotiating experience in the government and the private sector.

Put in other terms, the Chinese try to control the negotiating process by sustaining an air of tension or uncertainty about the relationship. They try to develop an awareness that the United States "needs" the PRC, yet a sense that the United States has not been a good "friend of China," that it has not done enough for the relationship, that its policies or actions are either in error or deficient, and that it must do more—on PRC terms—to sustain Chinese good will and cooperation.

THE OBJECTIVE OF A NEGOTIATING COUNTERSTRATEGY AND TACTICS: CONTROLLING THE PROCESS IN THE SERVICE OF U.S. POLICY OBJECTIVES

The instinctive American reaction to Chinese manipulations of the relationship is to try to resolve in one way or another the tension and frustrations of the games of guanxi: to either be a good friend or walk away in anger or disgust at the frustrations of the "friendship" manipulations. The American negotiator, as the representative of a technologically oriented, problem-solving culture, wants to eliminate issues, to resolve problems, and get on with new challenges. The Chinese negotiator, in contrast, comes from a less activist cultural background, one which sees management of human relationships as the essence of politics. He assumes that tension and conflicts of interest are enduring aspects of social life requiring skillful and unrelenting management.

It is this difference in political orientation—explored in more detail in the last section of this chapter—which is the basis for the conflict in the approaches of the two cultures to the negotiating process. If the United States is to be more effective in dealings with the Chinese, it must key in on this contrast in orientation. The objective of a negotiating counterstrategy must be not just to reach agreements consonant with American interests, but to gain control of the dynamics, the rhythm, and stratagems of the friendship game as they are expressed in the negotiating process. Our management of the relationship must convey to the Chinese a sense of competence in controlling the mechanics of negotiating encounters, an ability to deflect or set limits on their stratagems in the service of reconciling conflicting interests and attaining shared policy objectives.

An effective strategy and competent negotiating tactics may make only a marginal difference in the outcome of a bargaining encounter—nations do not generally make agreements that appear not to serve their interests. And a purposeful strategy, if overplayed, can induce distrust or the sense of a game being played for the sake of manipulation. Conversely, the absence of an adequate counterstrategy is likely to elicit an attitude of disparagement or scorn for a feckless negotiating counterpart. But an effectively managed strategy, even one that thwarts Chinese manipulations, can develop a sense of respect for a competent counterpart. This is the objective that underlies the following exploration of negotiating counterstrategies and tactics.

STRATEGIES OF INTERDEPENDENCE, OR AUTONOMY?

In Western practice, nations approach each other as autonomous, equal, and sovereign political entities; but in fact, differences in power—in resources, geographical position, and national pretensions—lead them to establish hierarchical patterns of policy influence, if not formal alliances, in which one member is in a predominant position. Coalitions of equals, while not unheard of, are more the exception than the rule. Present-day France and West Germany, perhaps, can be viewed as relatively equal partners within the larger NATO coalition, with the strongly independence-minded French struggling to maintain their autonomy while seeking to benefit from the security and economic benefits of the alliance and the Economic Community.

Beijing's approach to international relations is rooted, as noted at the outset of this study, in the tradition of the imperial tribute system, in which China, as the dominant culture and political power in East Asia, exercised preeminent influence over smaller tributary kingdoms such as Korea and Indochina. This experience reflects, of course, the dependency/domination pattern fundamental to China's political culture, as we have explored it in terms of the relationship game and its influence on PRC negotiating behavior. Even in China's twentieth century foreign relations, the pattern of subordination and predominance is evident. This pattern in the PRC's relations with its major international partners in the post-Liberation period (the Soviet Union, Albania, and the United States) is shown in Table 2.

PATTERNS OF ASSOCIATION WITH THE PRC

Policy Influence	National Resources: Subordinate	National Resources: Predominant
Subordinate	Albania (1960s)	United States (1970s)?
Predominant	North Korea North Vietnam (1960s—1975)	Soviet Union (1950s)

What does the experience of PRC foreign relations tell us about appropriate American strategies for dealing with China? The key issue is whether we should allow ourselves (however consciously) to be drawn into the relationship game as the Chinese practice it, to establish a measure of interdependence with the PRC, or to develop a more autonomous pattern that is consonant with American political institutions and practices

ASYMMETRIES IN THE AMERICAN AND CHINESE POLITICAL CULTURES

This study is an assessment of Chinese negotiating behavior, not U.S. negotiating behavior; yet the record of American dealings with the Chinese over the past 15 years says as much about the American political style as it does about the Chinese. Negotiating, after all, is a "binary" process involving the interacting styles and policy concerns of the two sides. Without going into an extended assessment of how U.S. officials have managed relations with the PRC, it is important to highlight some of the stylistic differences between the two sides which seem to have had a significant impact on the negotiating process. (See Table 4.)

ASYMMETRIES IN THE CHINESE AND AMERICAN POLITICAL CULTURES

Category	China	United States	Significance
World outlook	Defensive, in-drawing	Expansive, outgoing	Scope of issues
Time perspective	Long term, historical, passive	Short-term, future-oriented, active	Degree of policy continuity
Interpersonal relations	Group-oriented, empathetic	Individualistic; sympathetic	Enticement tactics
Approach to conflict	Controlling, factional	Managing, coalitional	Pressure tactics
Political/ bureaucratic structure	Centralized, hierarchical, disciplined	Decentralized, collegial, weakly disciplined	Pace of decision-making, continuity, degree of discipline
Information management	Take in — don't give out, symbolic	Take in — give out, informative	Style of argumentation
Decisionmaking	Individual or bureaucratic convergence, "principled" flexibility	Consensual, compromising, functional	Style of agreement

Effective negotiating behavior requires, among other skills, self-awareness of how one's own style and the institutions of one's government are "read" by the counterpart. And it can be argued that some of the major constraints on effective American negotiating performance in dealing with the Chinese are personality quirks and institutional patterns unique to the American system, not Chinese skill in managing the negotiating process. It should be emphasized that the following interpretation is intended to be suggestive only, to heighten the self-awareness of U.S. negotiating officials. It is not based on any systematic assessment of the American negotiating performance and political style.[21]

World Outlook

Americans and Chinese both approach international issues with the perspective of a great power. Developments in virtually all regions of the world are seen as relevant to their security interests, political concerns, and economic development. Elites in both countries assume that history and the weight of their influence destine them for a leadership role in world affairs. For the Chinese, this great-power leadership impulse has been expressed since the founding of the PRC, first in assertiveness within the International Communist Movement during the 1950s, which the Soviets found so galling, then in assertions during the 1960s that Mao Zedong's policies were appropriate to revolutions throughout the world, and most recently in Beijing's efforts to speak as a leader of the oppressed and economically backward nations of the "Third World."

There are significant differences, however, in Chinese and American orientations to dealings with the outside world. U.S. officials approach foreign relations with the expansive and relatively optimistic perspective that has been fundamental to the American national experience. While the world presents threats and challenges, the United States—by virtue of its power and the self-confidence of its multi-national population—has been able for the most part to cope successfully with and benefit from its dealings with the world. (Exceptions are its experiences in Korea and Vietnam.) The Chinese, in contrast, approach foreign affairs from the perspective of a peasant society with a distinctive and homogeneous culture that has flourished over five millenia of continuous history as a self-contained civilization. Moreover, China's "recent" contact with the outside world--i.e., since the early 1800s--has been an experience of unsuccessful efforts to fend off unwanted foreign military and cultural intrusions, and frustrating efforts in the 20th century to adapt its ancient culture, political order, and economy to Western practices.

What is the significance of these differences in world outlook for the negotiating process? Both Chinese and American elites assume that virtually all international political, security, and economic issues are relevant to their foreign policies, and to their bilateral dialogue. Yet the PRC lacks the power and global reach to be an active factor in most international issues, which imparts an edge of pretentiousness to discussions by PRC leaders on various global problems, a tendency to lecture and give sage advice unburdened by the responsibilities that come with a capacity to actually influence events. Nonetheless, Chinese officials assume that their country's moral and political influence has global reach; and they see the PRC as a major factor in the strategic balance because of their geographical position abutting the Soviet Union on the Eurasian landmass. Even though China's contemporary power is limited, they say, its weight is critical to the balance of forces between the two superpowers. And in time, they assume, the PRC will rightfully regain China's historic greatness.

At present, however, Chinese officials present a defensive and distrusting attitude to the outside world, an attitude that is a legacy of the exploitation and aggression they feel they were subjected to in decades past. This imparts a self-righteous quality to their dealings with foreign governments, particularly those that are large and influential. PRC officials assume the worst about a foreign government's motives. They interpret its interests as self-serving and illegitimate; and they feel most comfortable in posturing themselves as the "natural allies" of smaller "oppressed" peoples and countries—not of the superpowers, with whom they are forced to align on a temporary basis because of the ineluctable demands of security and economic development.

Time Perspective

Chinese and Americans bring very different time perspectives to the political process. With their 5,000 years of history and the serene and unhurried role model assumed by those in authority, PRC leaders tend to view events with a long-term, historical perspective. Mao's policy of 1973 on the Taiwan issue—"I say that we can do without Taiwan for the time being, and let it come after one hundred years. Do not take matters on this world so rapidly. Why is there need to be in such great haste?"--was formulated in a time perspective designed, in part, to be acceptable to the Chinese. In contrast, Americans have little sensitivity to the lengthy rhythms of history; they are future-oriented and driven by a sense of urgency derived from notions of efficiency and progress, as well as political institutions that create the rhythm of four-year cycles of authority and policy initiative.

These differences in time orientation create some of the most delicate operational tensions in the negotiating process. PRC officials tend to assume that their U.S. counterparts are anxious to reach agreement, that they are unable to sustain continuity of policy or negotiating effort across the boundaries of different administrations, and that they are inclined to ignore the commitments of their predecessors. While the Chinese negotiator may feel he has some advantage over his American counterpart in that he can "wait out" a more anxious and time-driven interlocutor, he also bears the frustration of dealing with administrations that do not provide a sense of predictability and continuity of policy and personnel.

Interpersonal Relations

There are fundamental differences between American and Chinese conceptions of social relations--a situation which makes the demonstrated personal affinity of the two peoples all the more remarkable. American individualism, emotional expressiveness, and casual affability contrast sharply with the Chinese collectivist social orientation, emotional reserve, and a concept of friendship loaded with a sense of enduring obligation. These differences notwithstanding, Americans and Chinese seem to readily establish interpersonal relations characterized by warmth, good humor, and mutual respect.

The influence of these conceptions on the negotiating process is subtle and of secondary import when compared to the weight of state interests and the disciplines of official life. Yet their influence is worth noting, for it shapes the receptivity of both sides to blandishments and pressures. Americans, with their strong affiliative needs, seem particularly vulnerable to Chinese appeals to "old friends." Yet as noted earlier, PRC officials are remarkably effective in maintaining official discipline in such relationships. They will obliquely appeal to the personal political interests of their American interlocutors, while submerging their own interests in the imperatives of the political collective. Where American officials try to be sympathetic to the concerns of their interlocutors and seek to reach a middle ground of accommodation,[22] the Chinese are empathetic--skillful in reading the motives and emotions of their counterparts, yet able to keep their own perspectives firmly grounded on the policy demands and personal loyalties of their own system. U.S. negotiators should be sensitized to Chinese skill in using the "old friends" theme, in which they try to personalize the negotiating process to ensnare the foreigner in the games of guanxi.

Approaches to Conflict

Negotiation is, of course, one approach to conflict resolution; and Chinese and Americans have very different views about the management of political conflict. Despite Mao Zedong's efforts to institutionalize "struggle" in the PRC political process,[23] Chinese still view with alarm overt political conflict, especially among their leaders. Conflict is to be suppressed, as are political factions, even though everyone recognizes that these phenomena exist "behind the curtains." For Americans, conflict is accepted as a normal aspect of the political process. It is institutionalized as competition bounded by the moral and legal norms of the democratic order. Parties and coalitions are accepted as nondestructive components of the political process.

[22] Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson observed of his approach to the U.S.-PRC exchanges at Geneva and Warsaw, "To negotiate effectively with Wang (Bingnan) I had to try to step into his shoes and see the world his way." Johnson also notes his effort to establish informal social contacts with Wang "to probe his intentions and establish closer relations in a friendly atmosphere." (See U. Alexis Johnson, The Right Hand of Power, p. 1239.) The instinctive American assumption is that personal goodwill and expressions of affability will facilitate agreement among nations. (See also Fred C. Ikle, How Nations Negotiate, pp. 159-161.)

These differing attitudes toward conflict shape Chinese approaches to pressuring their negotiating counterparts and their style of reaching agreement (see below). As we elaborated in the preceding chapter, the Chinese seek to play adversaries against one another to bring pressure to bear on a negotiator or to influence political debate in an adversary's political system—a reflection of their approach to dealing with domestic political factions. They will provoke, or confront, or raise the threat of the wrath of a billion countrymen.

Most of these tactics for bringing pressure to bear on a negotiating counterpart are, of course, well known to U.S. officials; yet they are not part of the normal set of political routines or stratagems readily implemented through the institutions of U.S. foreign relations. (For example, it would be rather difficult to play adversaries in the PRC against each other, given the combination of policy and institutional inhibitions on the U.S. side and PRC defenses against such interference in their internal political processes—defenses lacking in the American political system.) The American approach to bringing pressure to bear on a negotiating counterpart has more to do with the substantive terms of the negotiation than with manipulation of the structure of the negotiating process.

Political/Bureaucratic Structures

The authoritarian character of the Chinese political culture is institutionalized in highly centralized and hierarchical political and bureaucratic structures. And despite Mao Zedong's efforts during the Cultural Revolution to decentralize the political process and weaken the power of the governmental bureaucracies, the political process remains highly constrained and disciplined within Marxist-Leninist party and state organizations. In contrast, the American political system is decentralized, collegial rather than authoritarian, and relatively weakly disciplined.

These contrasting structural characteristics of the two systems influence in a variety of ways the processes of political decisionmaking and negotiation. In the initial phase of the normalization process, decisions were reached by the Chinese quite rapidly, as the high-level dialogue was controlled by two men, Mao Zedong and Zhou Enlai. While the Politburo was probably used to ratify Chairman Mao's approach to dealing with the United States and to approve of key documents such as the Shanghai Communique, the mechanics of the relationship were quite simple. It was managed expeditiously by Zhou and his closest colleagues in the Foreign Ministry.

In more recent times, as Deng Xiaoping has rebuilt the institutions of government that were shattered during Mao's Cultural Revolution, the policymaking process and the mechanics of the U.S.-PRC relationship have become increasingly bureaucratic and sluggish.

In contrast, the U.S. system of Executive Branch-Congressional decisionmaking and the free-wheeling American press must appear to the Chinese as complicated, unpredictable, undisciplined, and weak in policy continuity. The precise impact of these institutional differences on the negotiating process is difficult to specify, but it seems likely that the Chinese feel they are confronting a system that is changeable, difficult to influence, and unreliable—in the sense that understandings reached with one administration may either be subverted by the bureaucracy or Congressional politics, or reconsidered by successive administrations. The Chinese probably are also cautious about overtly stating in private policy positions that they anticipate will appear in the press or in the memoirs of retired, senior officials.

Ironically, this free-wheeling quality of the American political process creates the very qualities of unpredictability and loss of control that the more disciplined Chinese seek to purposefully induce into the negotiating process to disorient or unnerve their foreign counterparts. It probably also makes them cautious about the degree of intimacy and stability they can expect in establishing a relationship with the United States. Given the extent to which they base their official dealings on the cultivation of good interpersonal relations, it must be frustrating for them to have to cope with the constant turnover of American officials. Good guanxi is quickly dissipated as "friends" in the Foreign Service are given new assignments or political officials are replaced as a result of electoral changes.

Information Management

There are evident and striking differences in the way Chinese and Americans convey and use information in the negotiating process. The Chinese, as noted earlier, are highly symbolic in their communications, whereas the style of American information usage is very functional. This makes the Chinese inclined to resort to the loaded political gesture, to non-verbal forms of communication, and to understated or oblique phrasing that can be interpreted at several levels. They are highly reserved in giving out information, yet they are extremely skillful in drawing out their foreign counterparts--particularly outspoken Americans. They have demonstrated their effectiveness in deceiving negotiating counterparts about the state of their internal politics and their foreign policy concerns. Their pattern of communication is "take in, don't give out," in contrast to the "take in and give out" American style.

In some measure, these contrasting communication styles are complementary--Chinese reserve meshing with American outspokenness--yet the Chinese probably also tend to overinterpret U.S. actions that are random or intended to be taken at face value,[24] while U.S. negotiators may be insufficiently sensitive to the implicit meanings imbued in Chinese words and actions. The Chinese style of argumentation in a negotiation is also more complex than the American, and is intended to influence a range of personal and political factors more than is the relatively functional U.S. approach, which is oriented largely toward the substantive issues under discussion.

Decisionmaking

The decisionmaking styles of the two sides and the manner in which agreements are expressed also provide evident points of contrast. The Chinese seem to have a bureaucratically less cumbersome mechanism for reaching political decisions than the Americans, with their complex institutional pattern of Executive Branch-Congressional-mass media checks and balances. The U.S. pattern is consensual and compromising, while the Chinese seem to base decisions either on the initiative of the senior political leadership or through a convergence of bureaucratic interests. The Chinese demonstrate flexibility in reaching agreements if their position can be justified in terms of relevant "principles" as well as political self-interest; the American pattern is tied less to abstract principles and more to functional and legal requirements. Reflecting these differences, the Chinese prefer political understandings expressed in formal public documents which identify common principles (while also asserting differences in political outlook); the American preference is for legalistic documents such as treaties or highly specific "contractual" agreements of a technical nature (as on textiles, grain trade, and civil aviation).

V. LESSONS LEARNED

What are the implications of this study for U.S. government efforts to manage negotiating encounters with the PRC in the service of attaining American policy objectives?

SCRUTABLE CHINA

Of the many lessons that can be drawn from the record of our dealings with the Chinese over the past fifteen years, perhaps the most fundamental conclusion is that Chinese negotiating behavior is not mysterious or inscrutable. Just as Zhou Enlai asserted to Henry Kissinger during their first encounter, in response to Kissinger's characterization of the PRC as "a land of mystery," renewed Sino-American contact has indeed demystified to a significant degree the country and its political process.

The record of a decade-and-a-half of official exchanges since the first Kissinger-Zhou meeting reveals that the Chinese seek to manage negotiations in a highly organized and regular manner, one that is readily comprehensible by foreign observers. Moreover, the tactics they employ are quite apparent, if not universal, and often can be anticipated. There is nothing unique in their negotiating behavior, although they pursue their objectives with a distinctive style, with discipline, and with determination.

The official American negotiator should thus approach his task with the realization that his Chinese counterpart will deal with him in a manner that is comprehensible and even predictable. An intellectual understanding of the Chinese approach to managing negotiations gives U.S. officials a major advantage in preventing the Chinese from gaining such control of the process that the U.S. side becomes trapped in pressures that force an outcome detrimental to American interests.

MAXIMIZING U.S. CONTROL OVER THE NEGOTIATING PROCESS

Whether or not a U.S. negotiator seeks to develop countertactics as suggested in this study, there are important aspects of the negotiating process that are under his influence, and if managed effectively, these aspects will maximize his control over negotiating encounters. Many of the following guidelines sound straightforward, if not simple-minded, but they are fundamental to effective dealings with the Chinese (as well as with other governments). Of greater concern, they are ground rules that have been frequently violated in recent years in dealings with the Chinese. Thus, a major challenge to a U.S. negotiator is to overcome the internal bureaucratic impediments and other institutional and cultural factors that constrain his ability to organize and conduct a negotiation in "optimal" fashion.

Know the substantive issues cold. PRC negotiators are well-prepared and briefed as they enter into a negotiation. They are supported by competent staff who display bureaucratic discipline and meticulous attention to detail.

b1, a5, b5

Master the past negotiating record. PRC officials conducting negotiations will have full understanding and recall of the prior negotiating record, and they will not hesitate to use this to pressure a foreign counterpart.

b1, a5, b5

Control of the record is a particular problem for U.S. officials, because of their relatively brief tenure in particular offices relative to their PRC counterparts. Moreover, the dissipation of the record of official U.S. negotiating exchanges with the PRC among different government agencies, presidential libraries, and other official depositories makes it particularly difficult to assemble and analyze what is now a voluminous record of tens of thousands of pages of memcons and reporting cables. The U.S. government would be well served in its dealings with the PRC by the establishment of a central repository of the record of Sino-American negotiating exchanges, preferably one that is "readable" by electronic means to facilitate searches and analysis.

Present your position in a broad framework. The Chinese distrust a legalistic approach to negotiations. Their tendency to personalize the process—to judge a counterpart official's "sincerity" on the basis of his general attitude toward China and the U.S.-PRC relationship—and their claim to be a world power lead Chinese officials to an interest in issues that may seem unrelated to the problem at hand, especially in the early phase of a negotiation. They want to be taken seriously in terms of the general relationship as well as on technical issues. Given this orientation, it is often useful to place a specific subject under discussion in a broader framework. The Chinese may find it easier to accommodate to a negotiating counterpart's position on a technical matter if they can rationalize compromise in terms of the broader relationship (as they did in their eventual acceptance of the U.S. position on a solution to the private claims/blocked assets issue).

Know your own bottom line. While the Chinese may in some measure improvise their way through a protracted negotiation, they initiate or enter into the process with a clear sense of what they want as the end result and they have shown a capacity to play out the evolution of a negotiation over an extended period of time (as is evident in the records of the normalization and Taiwan arms sales exchanges).

For this reason, as well as others noted below, it is exceptionally important for a U.S. negotiator to establish a "bottom line" at the outset of a series of exchanges.

Clear understanding of one's own objectives will also help a negotiator resist raising expectations

A clear definition of objectives will also enable a negotiator to assess the pitfalls in the Chinese preference for vaguely worded agreements, as well as their tendency to "reserve position" on issues where they are unable to obtain their objectives.

Be patient, and don't get trapped in time deadlines. PRC negotiators view time as one of their major weapons in a negotiation. They distrust quick deals and prefer extended exploration of issues, because it enables them to draw out their interlocutor before formulating their own response. Thus, anticipate the "our guest always speaks first" routine, and do not expect to hear a full presentation of the PRC position until late in a series of exchanges. Moreover, the Chinese will protract a negotiation to test the resolve of their counterpart and to assess his commitment to the relationship, and they will pace exchanges until the most opportune context for the end game phase.

This Chinese use of time contrasts sharply with the American preference for expeditious problem-solving and efficient use of time. A U.S. official should avoid negotiating under time deadlines that cannot be controlled, as the Chinese will assume that their counterpart is more inclined to compromise when making decisions under time pressure. He should also be aware of the Chinese tendency to wait until the very last minute to conclude an agreement—on the expectation that a counterpart's interest in concluding a deal will lead him to compromise when faced with an imminent deadline. It also helps to know that for all the Chinese posturing about their "patience," the record shows they are vulnerable to time pressures when negotiating under a deadline The best protection against such pressures, of course, is the willingness to walk away from a negotiation when it seems to be going nowhere or when a deal seems unfavorable despite an approaching deadline.

The need for bureaucratic and political discipline. Given the Chinese propensity to look for and exploit political and bureaucratic rivalries in counterpart governments, it is necessary to take measures to ensure a unified policy position and an implementive approach to dealing with the PRC. The friendship game can be turned against the Chinese (as was suggested in the preceding chapter), but to do so the presumed rivals on the U.S. side must be conscious of the Chinese ploy and willing to cooperate in response to it. And in view of the tendency of the Chinese to look for friendly interlocutors in various government agencies, policy toward the PRC must be coordinated on an interagency basis.

Minimize media pressures. The Chinese will try to use media visibility to bring pressures to bear on a counterpart government, so negotiations are best controlled when carried out in confidence. Moreover, the Chinese view a confidential approach to managing a negotiation as a measure of their counterpart's seriousness of purpose.

The Chinese use their own media to try to set a negotiating agenda and to create the impression of inflexibility on certain "principles" and positions. The U.S. negotiator should resist any inclination to accept public communication as Beijing's negotiating framework. Moreover, while the Chinese have not hesitated to criticize U.S. policies in the PRC mass media, it is counterproductive to the relationship to polemicize via the press. Experience has shown that the Chinese can be shamed for press posturing.

Analyze the PRC internal political context and the negotiating style of the official interlocutors. The record of the past fifteen years shows clearly that China's internal politics have had a significant effect on PRC negotiating behavior. Leadership feuds have their impact on foreign relations, and the flexibility of Beijing's negotiators is influenced by the degree of dissension in the leadership and the power of the senior figure. Moreover, the Chinese have attempted to control the timing of negotiations to mesh with the workings of their internal political processes (this was particularly notable in the Taiwan arms sales negotiation).

The problem for the foreign negotiator, of course, is that the ability of outsiders to assess the state of the PRC domestic political scene is at best limited. We usually understand the political forces that have been at play only in retrospect, and such hindsight is of limited value in conducting future negotiations. Perhaps the most useful conclusion that can be drawn, apart from the need to improve our efforts at "Pekinology," is that PRC rigidity or polemicizing across the negotiating table is usually a sign of leadership conflict, and in this situation the political environment is not propitious for reaching agreement if PRC accommodation is required. At such times, an aloof stance is likely to be more effective than one of pressing the Chinese for demonstrations of flexibility they may not be able to give.

It is also important for the foreign official to understand as much as possible about the background, personality, and negotiating style of his PRC counterpart. This is no easy task, for the Chinese try to keep such aspects of their internal circumstances obscure to foreigners. Yet given the degree to which they personalize the negotiating process, it is useful, even as background information, to understand the attitudes and style of the Chinese officials managing a negotiation, their interpersonal relations, and their associations with more senior figures in the leadership.

Develop a negotiating strategy and apply tactics to counter Chinese negotiating ploys. PRC officials are not superhuman in their capacity to manage a negotiation to their country's advantage; yet the combination of bureaucratic centralization, political discipline, and a culturally ingrained sense of the use of stratagems to compensate for vulnerabilities in dealing with more powerful foreigners makes their approach to negotiating highly purposeful, controlled, and "gamed out." They will enter into a negotiation with a clear sense of objectives, an overall strategy, and a willingness to use tactical ploys designed to enmesh a counterpart official in a relationship and a process within which he can be exposed to blandishments and pressures intended to foster the attainment of PRC objectives.

A U.S. negotiator should not assume that his Chinese counterpart is improvising his approach to official encounters, just as he should not assume that PRC officials are uniquely crafty, in total control, or invulnerable to the same enticements and pressures they seek to impose on their adversaries.

The best strategy in negotiating with the Chinese--beyond effective management of the aspects of the process that are under American control--is to enter a series of exchanges with a broad game plan, a clear set of goals, and a willingness to make tactical moves (in part in response to Chinese manipulations) designed to demonstrate competence and control over the negotiating process.

The most effective posture for dealing with the Chinese is neither one of domination nor of supplication (which the Chinese are quite effective in evoking from foreigners), but rather an attitude of restrained openness, of willingness to search for common interests while recognizing the many significant differences between the two countries. At the same time, a U.S. capacity to counter the more egregious Chinese tactical manipulations will communicate to PRC officials a sense of competence and control, and a determination to negotiate in the service of defending and enhancing U.S. interests.

PREL 2 US

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

As you take up your responsibilities as Chief of Mission in Santiago, I want to discuss our objectives in Chile and outline some specific areas for priority attention. You will receive specific issue-related instructions as required. I hope you will find this guidance useful in directing the efforts of all United States government elements in Chile.

Relations with the present government of Chile are correct and should be maintained, while we also seek to advance U.S. interests looking beyond that government. Recognizing that Chile has deviated sharply from its own democratic traditions, and that the U.S. has to remain true to its democratic values, U.S. interests are best served by 1) the orderly restoration of democracy as speedily as possible and 2) limitation of the influence of the Chilean Communist Party. U.S. interests in the long term stability of Chile require working with the present government in such basic areas as supporting the financial package negotiated this year with the World Bank, IMF and commercial banks, encouraging structural adjustment efforts aimed at renewed economic growth, as well as cooperating on regional security to the extent practicable.

It appears likely that President Pinochet will try to remain in office beyond 1989 and will not negotiate willingly with the democratic opposition. Despite the effort of the Catholic Church and the democratic opposition to pursue a peaceful transition to democracy, the government and the communists will both keep resorting to violence, justifying these actions by the actions of the other party. The Chilean economy will recover at best only gradually, thereby offering little immediate hope to much of the populace.

Principal United States objectives in Chile are (1) to seek to convince President Pinochet that the U.S. takes very seriously the need for a prompt return to democracy and therefore expects political dialogue; (2) to convince the democratic opposition of U.S. commitment to the return to democracy while stressing the essentiality of non-violent and responsible behavior on their part; (3) to continue support for Chile's debt relief and economic growth efforts, but be prepared, as in early 1985, to use economic influence to press the political process forward; (4) to promote improved human rights performance, insisting especially upon the cessation of torture; and (5) to revive, within existing legal constraints, U.S. influence with the Chilean Armed Forces, which will have a key role in the transition process. Since the ultimate responsibility for the success of the transition process must be assumed by the Chileans, your role will be to encourage dialogue and consensus-building without becoming engaged in the power struggle.

If the Chilean government significantly improves its human rights performance, you should recommend ways to enhance cooperation with the Armed Forces, including setting forth for our consideration proposals to modify current legal constraints. In this context, you will want to also investigate whether there is any willingness within the Chilean government to even consider cooperation on the Letelier case.

In addition to carrying out specific objectives set forth above, we expect that you will seek to reinforce existing ways of maintaining links to ordinary Chileans and to develop new means of reaching a broader range of Chileans. Your preparation of a long-term plan for the use of Section 416 surplus agricultural commodities with development as well as relief aspects will be important to this effort, as will your study of a U.S. contribution to the alleviation of the serious air pollution problem affecting Santiago, perhaps in conjunction with the MDB's.

Actively encouraging visits to Chile by congressional delegations from a variety of committees will provide valuable opportunities to underline U.S. concerns and reinforce U.S. interests.

There are priority management concerns within the Mission beyond those dictated directly by major policy objectives. The construction of a new Chancery and the transfer of the Mission to the new facility will severely tax the post's administrative resources over the next few years, requiring effective management to maintain the maximum level of productivity during this period. The increased security threat to Americans, official and unofficial, heightens the need to maintain positive post morale. Good security is a management goal which cannot be delegated and steps should be taken to insure that all personnel are security conscious. It will be necessary to review carefully existing mission procedures and internal controls and to implement changes as appropriate before the move to the new facility is completed.

As Ambassador, your authority flows from the President to me, and from me through the Assistant Secretary for Inter-American Affairs to you. I look to the Assistant Secretary to issue instructions in my name and to serve as the primary communications link between us. You should channel all messages dealing with policy proposals, policy implementation, program activities and post operations to or through him, with the understanding that for extraordinary situations there are channels of direct communication with me that are available for use.

I look forward to reviewing the goals and objectives statement for your Mission. I am asking the Assistant Secretary for Inter-American Affairs to work with you on this statement, which will be forwarded to my office through the bureau.

I wish you well on the assumption of your important and challenging assignment. You have my full confidence and best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

George P. Shultz

E.O. 12356: DECL: OADR
TAGS: PHUM, UNGA, UNHRC, CI
SUBJECT: ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER'S MEETING WITH
- FERNANDO VOLIO JIMENEZ, UN HUMAN RIGHTS
- COMMISSION (UNHRC) SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON CHILE

1. C - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: DURING A MEETING IN NEW YORK WITH ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER NOVEMBER 27, UNHRC RAPPORTEUR ON CHILE VOLIO JIMENEZ OUTLINED HIS VIEWS ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THAT COUNTRY AND AGREED THAT A 'CHILEAN DECISION TO ORDER AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE WOULD BE A SUBSTANTIAL ACHIEVEMENT WHICH COULD BE REFLECTED IN HIS FINAL REPORT. VOLIO WILL VISIT CHILE DECEMBER 9 - 19 AND WOULD BE WILLING TO MEET WITH AMBASSADOR BARNES IF IT COULD BE ARRANGED INFORMALLY. VOLIO INTENDS TO CONTINUE AS RAPPORTEUR, BUT FEARS HIS CRITICS MAY ATTEMPT TO IMPOSE UNACCEPTABLE RESTRAINTS ON HIS MANDATE. HE ALSO INDICATED THAT THE WEIGHT OF HIS RESPONSIBILITIES IS TAKING A PHYSICAL TOLL. END SUMMARY.

3. ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER MET NOVEMBER 27 WITH
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

UNHRC SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR CHILE FERNANDO VOLIO JIMENEZ IN NEW YORK IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING VOLIO'S PRESENTATION OF HIS INTERIM REPORT TO THE THIRD COMMITTEE OF THE UNGA. VOLIO SAID HE WAS NOW PREPARING FOR HIS VISIT TO CHILE DECEMBER 9 - 19 WHICH WILL PROVIDE MATERIAL FOR HIS FINAL REPORT TO THE COMMISSION IN FEBRUARY. THE CHILEANS HAVE NOT PLACED PRECONDITIONS ON HIS VISIT AND HAVE ASSURED VOLIO OF COMPLETE FREEDOM OF ACTION AND ACCESS TO ALL AREAS OF THE COUNTRY HE WANTS TO VISIT.

4. AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER SAID CHILE FACED FOUR MAJOR HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS: RESTORATION OF DEMOCRACY, RETURN OF EXILES, TERMINATION OF INTERNAL EXILE, AND ABOLITION OF TORTURE. OF THESE SCHIFTER SAID THE ABOLITION OF TORTURE WAS MOST EASILY ATTAINABLE. HE SAID HE HAD TOLD THE CHILEANS ORDERS SHOULD BE ISSUED FROM THE HIGHEST LEVEL FOR IT TO STOP. IF THIS OCCURS, SCHIFTER SAID IT COULD BE NOTED IN VOLIO'S REPORT AS A CONCRETE STEP FORWARD AND A SIGNIFICANT ACHIEVEMENT FOR THE RAPPORTEUR. SCHIFTER SAID THE CHILEANS WOULD NOT HAVE TO ADMIT THE EXISTENCE OF TORTURE, BUT SIMPLY MAKE CLEAR TO VOLIO THAT IT WOULD NOT OCCUR IN FUTURE. HE SAID EMBASSY SANTIAGO WOULD SOON APPROACH THE CHILEANS ON THIS ISSUE.

5. IN RESPONSE VOLIO SAID HE HAD NOT STRESSED TORTURE IN HIS REPORT BUT HE HAS LISTED SUBSTANTIATED CASES IN THE APPENDIX. HOWEVER, HE HAD EMPHASIZED TORTURE IN HIS STATEMENT TO THE THIRD COMMITTEE AND INTENDED TO TRY TO IDENTIFY ADDITIONAL CASES DURING HIS VISIT.

6. IN REVIEWING THE SITUATION IN CHILE, VOLIO SAID HE WAS DISTURBED BY THE GOVERNMENT'S UNWILLINGNESS TO TALK WITH THE ELEVEN-MEMBER OPPOSITION GROUP AND ITS EQUAL

UNWILLINGNESS TO APPROACH THE GOVERNMENT. HE SAID THE GOVERNMENT WAS TAKING TOO LONG TO COMPLETE WORK ON LAWS GOVERNING THE ELECTORAL SYSTEM AND THE POLITICAL PROCESS SINCE WITHOUT THEM IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO HAVE A CLEAR IDEA OF THE COUNTRY'S POLITICAL FUTURE. HE SAID THE ROLE OF THE JUDICIARY HAD TO BE IMPROVED BECAUSE NOW THE FACT THAT CASES WERE CONTINUALLY PENDING BEFORE THE COURTS

PROVIDED THE GOVERNMENT WITH AN EXCUSE FOR INACTION. VOLIO SAID HE INTENDED TO MAKE THESE POINTS DURING HIS VISIT AND HOPED FOR SUPPORT FROM THE U.S. EMBASSY IN THIS EFFORT. HE SAID HE WOULD BE WILLING TO MEET WITH AMBASSADOR BARNES, IF IT COULD BE ARRANGED INFORMALLY DURING A RECEPTION GIVEN BY THE EMBASSY OF COSTA RICA.

7. TURNING TO THE FUTURE, VOLIO SAID HE INTENDS TO REMAIN AS RAPPORTEUR UNLESS THE UNGA RESOLUTION ON CHILE PLACES UNDUE RESTRICTIONS UPON HIS MANDATE. HE THOUGHT FRANCE AND MEXICO MIGHT BE BEHIND SUCH AN EFFORT AND IF IT OCCURRED HE WOULD RESIGN. VOLIO SAID THERE HAD BEEN SIGNIFICANT CRITICISM OF HIS REPORT AND HE BELIEVED SOME OF IT, ESPECIALLY THAT BY AMERICAS WATCH, WAS UNFAIR. HE ALSO SAID HE HAD SUFFERED FROM STRESS-RELATED ILLNESS SINCE COMING TO NEW YORK AND WOULD RETURN TO COSTA RICA FOR A COMPLETE PHYSICAL BEFORE GOING TO SANTIAGO.

8. AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER URGED VOLIO NOT TO SUGGEST TO ANYONE THAT THERE ARE CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH COULD CAUSE HIM TO RESIGN AND NOT TO WORRY ABOUT CRITICISM OF HIS REPORT.

9. THIS MESSAGE HAS BEEN SEEN BY AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER.

THE TEXT (PARA 2) IS A SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT OVER THE FIRST MEXICAN DRAFT (DATAFAXED TO DEPT), REFLECTING SOME CHANGES TO MEET CONCERNS OF WESTERN EUROPEAN COSPONSORS WHO REGARDED THE FIRST DRAFT AS BEING OVERLY CRITICAL OF UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FERNANDO VOLIO. THE MEXICANS STILL REFUSE TO INCLUDE ANY REFERENCE TO VOLIO'S PRELIMINARY REPORT IN THE OPERATIVE PART OF THE RESOLUTION, EVEN THOUGH THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TRADITIONALLY EITHER "COMMENDS" OR "TAKES NOTE OF" THE REPORTS OF SPECIAL RAPPORTEURS IN THE FIRST OPERATIVE PARAGRAPH OF HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTIONS.

THUS, THE TEXT OF THE PROPOSED OAS RESOLUTION TRANSMITTED REF A WAS NEVER A REALISTIC ALTERNATIVE TO THE MORE TRADITIONAL MEXICAN DRAFT UNGA RESOLUTION.

RECALLING THE RESOLUTIONS OF THE COMMISSION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ON THE SITUATION IN CHILE, IN PARTICULAR RESOLUTION 1985/47 OF 14 MARCH 1985, IN WHICH THE COMMISSION, IN VIEW OF THE GROWING AND SERIOUS DETERIORATION OF THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, DECIDED, INTER ALIA, TO EXTEND FOR A YEAR THE MANDATE OF THE SPEICAL RAPPORTEUR TO INVESTIGATE THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE,

TAKING NOTE OF THE PROVISIONAL REPORT PREPARED BY THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, PRESENTED ACCORDING TO RESOLUTION 1985/47 OF THE COMMISSION OF HUMAN RIGHTS, CONSIDERING THAT THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR INTENDS TO SUBMIT TO THE COMMISSION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN ITS 42ND SESSION A FINAL REPORT ON THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL LIBERTIES IN CHILE,

CONSIDERING ALSO THE MANIFEST AND EVIDENT NATURE OF MANY FACTS THAT CONSTITUTE GRAVE AND SYSTEMATIC VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS IN CHILE,

GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS TO RE-ESTABLISH HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS HAVE BEEN IGNORED BY THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES,

CONSIDERING ALSO, INTER ALIA, THE RECENT REPORTS, RESOLUTIONS, AND CONCLUSIONS OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE, THE SUB-COMMITTEE ON PREVENTION OF DISCRIMINATION AND PROTECTION OF MINORITIES, THE INTERNATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION, AS WELL AS THE CHILEAN COMMISSION FOR HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH OF CHILE,

RECOGNIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF THE FACT THAT THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES HAVE ANNOUNCED THEIR INTENTION TO PERMIT THE ENTRY TO CHILE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, IN FULFILLMENT OF HIS MANDATE TO INVESTIGATE THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN THAT COUNTRY,

--1. ONCE AGAIN EXPRESSES ITS DISMAY AT THE SUPPRESSION IN CHILE OF THE TRADITIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEGAL ORDER AND

ITS INSTITUTIONS AND THEIR REPLACEMENT BY A CONSTITUTION WHICH DOES NOT REFLECT THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE FREELY EXPRESSED AND WHOSE PROVISIONS CONSIDERABLY REDUCE THE

ENJOYMENT AND EXERCISE OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS THROUGH THE INSTITUTIONALIZATION AND CONSOLIDATION OF STATES OF EMERGENCY AND THE EXTENSION OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE MILITARY TRIBUNALS, ALL OF WHICH AMOUNTS TO AN INTEGRATED SYSTEM NEGATING CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS AND FREEDOMS;

--2. EXPRESSES ITS INDIGNATION AT THE PERSISTENCE OF GRAVE AND SYSTEMATIC VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, IN PARTICULAR AT THE REPRESSION OF ACTS OF SOCIAL PROTEST WHICH HAVE CAUSED A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF WOUNDED AND DEAD AND INDIVIDUAL AND MASSIVE DETENTIONS, AT THE INTIMIDATION OF NATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS, AS WELL AS AT FREQUENT DENUNCIATIONS OF TORTURE AND ILL-TREATMENT, AND HEINOUS CRIMES IN WHICH THE POLICE FORCES ARE JUDICIALLY INCRIMINATED;

--3. REITERATES ITS DISMAY AT THE IMPUNITY GENERALLY ENJOYED BY STATE ORGANS OF POLICE AND SECURITY WITH RESPECT TO THEIR ABUSIVE AND ARBITRARY ACTIONS;

--4. REITERATES ITS CONCERN ABOUT THE INEFFECTIVENESS OF THE REMEDIES OF HABEAS CORPUS OR AMPARO AND OF PROTECTION, OWING TO THE FACT THAT THE JUDICIARY --NOTWITHSTANDING THE RESULTS ACHIEVED BY SOME JUDGES-- DOES NOT ALWAYS EXERCISE ITS POWER OF INVESTIGATION, MONITORING, AND SUPERVISION IN THIS RESPECT, AND ABIDES BY SEVERE RESTRICTIONS WHICH PREJUDICE ITS INDEPENDENCE,

--5. INSISTS IN ITS DEMAND THAT THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES

RESTORE AND RESPECT HUMAN RIGHTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE OBLIGATIONS THEY HAVE ASSUMED UNDER VARIOUS INTERNATIONAL INSTRUMENTS, AND RE-ESTABLISH THE PRINCIPLE OF LEGALITY, DEMOCRATIC INSTITUTIONS AND THE EFFECTIVE ENJOYMENT AND EXERCISE OF CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS, AND IN PARTICULAR:

-A) PUT AN END NOT ONLY TO THE STATE OF SIEGE, AS OCCURRED IN JUNE 1985, BUT ALSO TO THE REGIME OF EXCEPTION AND ESPECIALLY THE PRACTICE OF DECLARING STATES

OF EMERGENCY, UNDER WHICH SERIOUS AND CONTINUING VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS ARE COMMITTED;

-B) INVESTIGATE AND CLARIFY WITHOUT DELAY THE FATE OF PERSONS WHO WERE ARRESTED FOR POLITICAL REASONS AND LATER DISAPPEARED, TO ASSIST AND INFORM THEIR FAMILIES OF THE RESULTS OF SUCH INVESTIGATION AND TO BRING TO TRIAL AND PUNISH THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR DISAPPEARANCES;

-C) RESPECT THE RIGHT TO LIFE AND TO PHYSICAL AND MORAL INTEGRITY, HALTING THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE AND OTHER FORMS OF CRUEL, INHUMAN AND DEGRADING TREATMENT, AND TO PUT AN IMMEDIATE END TO INTIMIDATION AND PERSECUTION, AS WELL AS TO ARBITRARY AND UNLAWFUL ARRESTS AND IMPRISONMENT IN SECRET PLACES;

-D) RESPECT THE RIGHT OF CHILEAN NATIONALS TO LIVE IN AND FREELY ENTER AND LEAVE THEIR COUNTRY, WITHOUT ARBITRARY RESTRICTIONS OR CONDITIONS AND TO CEASE THE PRACTICES OF RELEGACION (ASSIGNMENT TO FORCED RESIDENCE)

2. IT IS OBVIOUS FROM REFTEL THAT WE NOW HAVE THE GOC'S ATTENTION ON THE ISSUE OF TORTURE. WE NEED TO KEEP IT UNTIL THE ISSUE IS RESOLVED. WE SHOULD EMPHASIZE THAT THE MATTER OF ENDING THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE CAN AND SHOULD BE DEALT WITH SEPARATELY FROM BROADER POLITICAL REFORMS. CONCERNING QUESTION POSED IN REFTEL, PARA 8, ATTENTION SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO THE FACT THAT FROM REPORTS WE HAVE OF INCIDENTS OF TORTURE WE CONCLUDE THAT WE ARE DEALING WITH MORE THAN ISOLATED CASES OF BRUTALITY BY INDIVIDUAL POLICEMEN. WE URGE THAT THE GOC CONSIDER THIS PROBLEM AT THE HIGHEST APPROPRIATE LEVEL. IT IS OUR HOPE THAT INSTRUCTIONS BE GIVEN TO END THE PRACTICE, TO PUNISH OFFENDERS AND TO

3. CLEAR EVIDENCE THAT THE GOC HAS ELIMINATED THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE WOULD SUBSTANTIALLY ENHANCE ITS IMAGE.

4. ARA AND I BOTH BELIEVE IT WOULD BE MOST USEFUL TO FOLLOW-UP IN SANTIAGO ON THE GENERAL DISCUSSION OF HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS AT CARTAGENA WITH A SPECIFIC APPROACH BY YOU TO THE FOREIGN MINISTER ON TORTURE, AS YOU RECOMMENDED. WE LEAVE IT TO YOUR JUDGMENT AS TO TIMING OF FURTHER PRESENTATION AND SELECTION OF CASES. WE SHOULD RECOMMEND, HOWEVER, THAT EVIDENCE OF ANY NEW POLICY SHOULD SURFACE IN TIME TO BE TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT DURING DEBATE ON CHILE AT NEXT SESSION OF UNITED NATIONS HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, SCHEDULED TO COMMENCE ON FEBRUARY 3, 1986. SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO'S FORTHCOMING VISIT TO CHILE AND HIS SUBSEQUENT REPORT ON THE VISIT WOULD PROVIDE AN IDEAL OCCASION FOR THE GOC TO TAKE APPROPRIATE STEPS INFORMALLY, YET HAVING THESE STEPS RECOGNIZED IN A DOCUMENT WHICH WILL RECEIVE WORLDWIDE ATTENTION.

5. IN PURSUING THE ISSUE OF TORTURE WITH THE GOC, IT COULD BE USEFUL FOR YOU TO CITE THE WEIGHT GIVEN TO HUMAN RIGHTS FACTORS IN THE INGERAGENCY REVIEW OF HOW THE U.S. VOTES ON MULTILATERAL DEVELOPMENT BANK LENDING PROGRAMS FOR CHILE. (S) ALTHOUGH THE GOG HAS NOT RESPONDED FAVORABLY TO TWO EMBASSY DEMARCHES [redacted] BY RESCINDING HER DEPORTATION ORDER, IT MAY SIMPLY HAVE DECIDED NOT TO SERVE THE ORDER. TO SPECULATE FURTHER, THIS MAY BE A WAY FOR THE GOG TO MAINTAIN THE INITIATIVE WHILE QUIETLY DEFERRING TO THE EMBASSY'S REQUEST THAT THE AMERICAN NOT BE DEPORTED; IT MAY SIGNAL THAT THE GOG BELIEVES THE FRENCH AND CANADIAN MEMBERS OF PBI WERE MORE INVOLVED IN INAPPROPRIATELY "ADVISING" GAM THAN THE AMERICAN MEMBERS. BOTH FRENCHMEN HAVE BEEN IN GUATEMALA LONGER THAN ANY OTHER PBI MEMBERS. ONE OF THEM, [redacted] WAS IN GUATEMALA WHEN ROSARIO CUEVAS DE GODOY, HER BROTHER AND HER SON WERE FOUND DEAD IN HER CAR IN A SUSPICIOUS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT. SUBJECT: AUXILIARY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ' HOMILY,
" DECEMBER 1, 1985.

1. SUMMARY

IN HIS HOMILY OF DECEMBER 1, 1985, AUXILIARY BISHOP GREGORIO ROSA CHAVEZ RECALLED THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ASSASSINATION OF FOUR AMERICAN CHURCHWOMEN IN EL SALVADOR; HE EXPRESSED HIS PLEASURE AT THE SUCCESS OF THE ANNUAL TELETHON FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN WHICH TOOK PLACE OVER THE WEEKEND, AND TOUCHED BRIEFLY ON THE WEEK'S VIOLENCE STATISTICS. BISHOP ROSA PRAISED THE ARMED FORCES' IMPROVED OBSERVANCE OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN EL SALVADOR, BUT WARNED THAT THIS IMPROVEMENT MAY BE MARRED BY THE INCREASING NUMBER OF COMPLAINTS OF MISTREATMENT DURING INTERROGATION. THE AUXILIARY BISHOP MARKED THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION AND THE FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE SECOND ROUND OF DIALOGUE AT AYAGUALO. HE ALSO COMMENTED ON THE LABOR SITUATION. END SUMMARY.

2. THE NUNS' ANNIVERSARY

BISHOP ROSA NOTED THAT DECEMBER 2 WAS THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ASSASSINATION OF THE THREE AMERICAN NUNS AND ONE LAY WORKER ON THE ROAD BETWEEN THE AIRPORT AND THE CAPITAL.

3. CRIPPLED CHILDREN

SAN SA 15616 00 OF 02 040244Z 8476 ARA7969

ROSA CHAVEZ EXPRESSED HIS PLEASURE WITH THE ANNUAL TELETHON FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN, WHICH TOOK PLACE NOVEMBER 29 AND 30 AND RAISED OVER TWO MILLION COLONES. HE DEPLORED THE VIOLENCE OF THE WAR THAT HAS DISABLED MANY CHILDREN AND URGED THAT RECONCILIATION AND PEACE BE PURSUED WITH THE SAME ENTHUSIASM THAT CHARACTERIZED THE TELETHON.

4. VIOLENCE STATISTICS AND OTHER HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS

ROSA SAID THAT DURING THE PAST WEEK, ACCORDING TO THE DATA RECEIVED BY THE ARCHBISHOPRIC, 35 SALVADORANS LOST THEIR LIVES DUE TO POLITICAL VIOLENCE; "26 OF THEM DIED UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES THAT ARE STILL UNCLEAR," SAID THE BISHOP. HE WENT ON TO LAMENT "A PRACTICE WHICH SEEMS TO BE ON THE INCREASE DURING THE LAST FEW WEEKS: THE INTERROGATIONS AND INHUMANE TREATMENT OF SOME PRISONERS ACCUSED OF POLITICAL CRIMES. THESE INTERROGATIONS GENERALLY CULMINATE IN CONFESSIONS THAT ARE SOMETIMES VERY FAR FROM THE TRUTH. THE PRISONER IS THEN FORCED TO SIGN THESE DECLARATIONS. SOME CASES ARE EVEN MORE SERIOUS BECAUSE THE PERSON IS NOT ALLOWED TO READ WHAT HE IS ABOUT TO SIGN. IF THIS ANOMALY IS NOT CORRECTED, A SHADOW WILL BE CAST ON THE UNDENIABLE EFFORTS MADE BY THE ARMED FORCES TO IMPROVE THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN OUR COUNTRY." ROSA CONTINUED THAT HE WAS DRAWING ATTENTION TO THE IMPROVEMENTS IN THE ARMED FORCES BECAUSE "ALMOST ALWAYS ONE SPEAKS OF THE MILITARY IN ORDER TO POINT OUT ITS ERRORS. IT IS UNDERSTANDABLE THAT PEOPLE DO THIS WHO ARE SYSTEMATICALLY OPPOSED TO THE GOVERNMENT, ALTHOUGH IT IS NOT CORRECT. BUT THIS IS NOT THE MANNER OF THE CHURCH, WHICH MUST ENCOURAGE THE SMALLEST EFFORT OF GOOD WILL TOWARDS THE WELL-BEING OF THE INDIVIDUAL."

5. THE PDC'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

ROSA CHAVEZ COMMENTED ON HIS NOVEMBER 25 HOMILY TO MEMBERS OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC) IN OBSERVANCE OF THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PARTY'S FOUNDING. HE REMINDED THE PDC MEMBERS THAT THE VOTERS HAD GIVEN THE PDC A MANDATE TO CREATE A SOCIETY IN WHICH THE DIGNITY OF ALL MEN WOULD BE RESPECTED, AND IN WHICH THE POOR WOULD HAVE ACCESS TO BETTER LIVING CONDITIONS. "ABOVE ALL, I INSISTED ON THEIR TREMENDOUS RESPONSIBILITY IN THE SEARCH FOR PEACE," HE SAID. HE APPROVED OF PRESIDENT DUARTE'S EXHORTATION TO PDC MEMBERS "TO BE HONEST IN THEIR CONDUCT AND TO FIGHT CORRUPTION AMONG THEMSELVES BECAUSE MUCH CRITICISM IS BEING HEARD IN THIS RESPECT."

6. THE LABOR SITUATION

COMMENTING ON THE RESOLUTION OF FOUR STRIKES DURING THE PAST WEEK, ROSA NOTED THAT "SOME STRIKES ARE NOT MOTIVATED BY LEGITIMATE LABOR DEMANDS, BUT FOR POLITICAL REASONS. NEVERTHELESS, DECLARING STRIKES ILLEGAL MUST BE RESORTED TO ONLY WITH THE STRICTEST OBJECTIVITY. ONE UNION LEADER TOLD ME THAT ONE COULD COUNT ON THE FINGERS OF ONE HAND THE STRIKES WHICH HAVE BEEN DECLARED LEGAL. IT HAS ALREADY BEEN REPEATED MANY TIMES THAT OUR LEGAL SYSTEM LEAVES MUCH TO BE DESIRED."

THIS PAST WEEK MARKED THE FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE SECOND ROUND OF DIALOGUE BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE FMLN, WHICH OCCURRED AT AYAGUALO. THE BISHOP SAID THAT PEOPLE ARE TIMIDLY ASKING IF THERE WOULD BE CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S TRUCES THIS YEAR. ROSA BEMOANED WHAT HE REFERRED TO AS "THE AYAGUALO SYNDROME -- SYMPTOMS INDICATING A HARDENING OF POSITIONS OF THOSE INVOLVED IN THE CONFLICT. THEY ARE THE SYMPTOMS OF AN ILLNESS CALLED INTRANSIGENCE AND A WAR-MINDEDNESS. ...BUT THE SOLUTION DOES NOT LIE IN SCREAMING IN FAVOR OF DIALOGUE WITHOUT GETTING TO THE SOURCE OF OUR PROBLEM. NOR DOES IT LIE IN PUTTING ALL THE BLAME FOR THE IMPASSE IN THE DIALOGUE ON ONE PARTY ALONE. A CONCRETE SOLUTION WILL ONLY BEGIN TO EMERGE WHEN WE RECOGNIZE THE POSITIVE FACTORS ON BOTH SIDES AND WHEN WE ARE EQUALLY CRITICAL OF THE ERRORS OF BOTH. THIS IS WHY I AM CONCERNED WHEN THE GROUPS WHO HAVE RAISED THE BANNER OF DIALOGUE ARE SO HARD ON THE GOVERNMENT AND SO INDULGENT WITH THE GUERRILLAS. THIS IS NOT THE WAY TO CREATE THE PEACE THAT ALL OF US WISH: A PEACE BASED ON TRUTH, JUSTICE, FREEDOM AND LOVE."

1. (C) SUMMARY: A FIVE-MAN STAFFDEL VISITED CHILE UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE GOC DURING THE WEEK OF NOVEMBER 25-29. THEY MET WITH SEVERAL GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS AS WELL AS MODERATE TO CONSERVATIVE BUSINESS LEADERS AND A FEW MODERATE OPPOSITION POLITICIANS. IN TALKS WITH THE AMBASSADOR AT THE CONCLUSION OF THEIR VISIT, THEY INDICATED THAT THEY WERE IMPRESSED BY CHILEAN ECONOMIC MANAGEMENT AND FOUND THAT POLITICAL REPRESSION WAS MUCH LESS PERVASIVE THAN THEY HAD BELIEVED. EMBOFFS EXPLAINED THE COMPLEX AND OFTEN INVISIBLE NATURE OF LIMITATIONS ON FREEDOM OF PRESS, ASSEMBLY, AND POLITICAL ACTIVITY. END SUMMARY.

2. (U) A GROUP OF CONGRESSIONAL STAFFERS VISITED CHILE DURING THE WEEK OF NOV. 25-29 AS GUESTS OF THE INSTITUTE OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHILE. THE GROUP INCLUDED ROBERT

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

COLEMAN AND JAMES VAN DE GRAAF FROM THE OFFICE OF REP. PHILIP CRANE; WILLIAM QUINN, LEGISLATIVE ASSISTANT TO REP. BILL NICHOLS; RANDY BROBERG, AIDE TO REP. BILL LOWERY; AND VINCENT RANDAZZO, AIDE TO REP. DAVID DREIER. FYI JAMES VAN DE GRAAF RESIDED IN CHILE FROM 1979-81 AS A MORMON MISSIONARY. END FYI. THE EMBASSY PROVIDED A BRIEFING THE MORNING AFTER THEIR SUNDAY ARRIVAL.

3. (U) THE GOC SPONSORED THE TRIP AND PROVIDED A FULL SCHEDULE FOR THEIR GUESTS. THERE WERE NINE MEETINGS WITH GOC OFFICIALS, TWO OUT-OF-TOWN EXCURSIONS, AND NUMEROUS OFFICIAL LUNCHES AND DINNERS. INCLUDED AMONG THE GOC OFFICIALS WITH WHOM THEY HAD MEETINGS WERE THE FOREIGN MINISTER, THE FINANCE MINISTER, THE HEAD OF THE GOC'S LEGISLATIVE ADVISORY BODY, THE SUBSECRETARY OF SOCIAL WELFARE, AND THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE CENTRAL BANK. THEY ALSO MET WITH PRIVATE BUSINESSMEN WHO ARE GENERALLY PRO-GOVERNMENT. AMBASSADOR BARNES AND EMBOFFS MET WITH THE STAFFERS AT THE BEGINNING AND AT THE END OF THEIR VISIT.

4. (C) AT THEIR MEETING OF NOV. 29 WITH AMBASSADOR, THE STAFFERS GAVE THEIR IMPRESSIONS OF CHILE. THEY WERE IMPRESSED BY WHAT THEY CONSIDERED TO BE RESPONSIBLE GOC ECONOMIC POLICIES. THEY NOTED THAT CHILEAN BUSINESSMEN APPEARED TO BE CAUTIOUSLY OPTIMISTIC. ALTHOUGH THE BUSINESSMEN HAVE A GNAWING DOUBT ABOUT WHAT WILL HAPPEN POLITICALLY IN 1989, THEY INTUITIVELY THINK THINGS WILL WORK OUT AND THAT CHILE WILL REMAIN STABLE AND NOT CHANGE ECONOMIC POLICIES DRASTICALLY.
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

5. (C) AS FOR THE POLITICAL SITUATION, THEY FOUND CHILE TO BE LESS REPRESSIVE AND MORE OPEN THAN THEY HAD BEEN LED TO EXPECT. THE STAFFERS REALIZED THAT THEY WERE MEETING WITH MOSTLY PRO-GOVERNMENT PEOPLE THROUGHOUT THEIR VISIT AND THAT THERE WAS A LARGE SEGMENT OF CHILEAN OPINION THAT WAS HARDLY HEARD FROM. HOWEVER, THEY WERE EXPOSED TO CONSERVATIVE OPPOSITION REPRESENTATIVES OF THE NATIONAL UNION (ANDRES ALLAMAND, SERGIO DIEZ, LUIS V. FERRADA) AND NATIONAL PARTY (TOMAS PUIG AND ADOLFO BALLAS) WHO ENGAGED IN A LIVELY DEBATE WITH PRO-GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVES GUSTAVO CUEVAS AND WILLY THAYER. THE STAFFDEL WAS SURPRISED TO HEAR FROM MODERATE-CONSERVATIVE GROUPS THE OPINION THAT PINOCHET SHOULD NOT SEEK THE PRESIDENCY IN 1989 AND THAT THE CONSTITUTION SHOULD BE DRASTICALLY AMENDED. TO THEIR QUESTIONS ASKED OF PRO-GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVES CONCERNING HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE NATIONAL ACCORD, THE TYPICAL RESPONSES WERE "YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND CHILE" OR "IT MAY BE BAD NOW BUT IT WAS WORSE UNDER ALLENDE." EMBASSY OFFICERS WERE ABLE TO PROVIDE A BROAD BRUSH BRIEFING ON ASPECTS OF CHILE, PARTICULARLY HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS AND THE PROBLEM OF THE GOC'S LACK OF CREDIBILITY REGARDING THE TRANSITION.

6. (C) COMMENT: THE GOC MAY HAVE BEEN DISAPPOINTED BY THE TURNOUT. THEY HAD HOPED THAT AT LEAST TEN STAFFERS WOULD COME INSTEAD OF THE FIVE THAT EVENTUALLY ARRIVED. IT WAS EXPECTED THAT THE

FOR AMBASSADOR HARRY BARNES FROM THE SECRETARY

E.O. 12356: DECL: OADR

SUBJECT: GOALS AND OBJECTIVES (S/S: 8535520)

1. (S - ENTIRE TEXT)

2. THE FOLLOWING LETTER TO AMBASSADOR BARNES FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE PROVIDES DETAILED GUIDANCE ON U.S. OBJECTIVES IN CHILE. SIGNED ORIGINAL TO FOLLOW.

3. BEGIN TEXT:

THE HONORABLE
HARRY G. BARNES, JR.,
AMERICAN AMBASSADOR,
SANTIAGO, CHILE.

DEAR MR. AMBASSADOR:
[redacted]

AS YOU TAKE UP YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES AS CHIEF OF MISSION IN SANTIAGO, I WANT TO DISCUSS OUR OBJECTIVES IN CHILE AND OUTLINE SOME SPECIFIC AREAS FOR PRIORITY ATTENTION. YOU WILL RECEIVE SPECIFIC ISSUE-RELATED INSTRUCTIONS AS REQUIRED. I HOPE YOU WILL FIND THIS GUIDANCE USEFUL IN DIRECTING THE EFFORTS OF ALL UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT ELEMENTS IN CHILE.

RELATIONS WITH THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT OF CHILE ARE CORRECT AND SHOULD BE MAINTAINED, WHILE WE ALSO SEEK TO ADVANCE U.S. INTERESTS LOOKING BEYOND THAT GOVERNMENT. RECOGNIZING THAT CHILE HAS DEVIATED SHARPLY FROM ITS OWN DEMOCRATIC TRADITIONS, AND THAT THE U.S. HAS TO REMAIN TRUE TO ITS DEMOCRATIC VALUES, U.S. INTERESTS ARE BEST SERVED BY 1) THE ORDERLY RESTORATION OF DEMOCRACY AS SPEEDILY AS POSSIBLE AND 2) LIMITATION OF THE INFLUENCE OF THE CHILEAN COMMUNIST PARTY. U.S. INTERESTS IN THE LONG TERM STABILITY OF CHILE REQUIRE WORKING WITH THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT IN SUCH BASIC AREAS AS SUPPORTING THE FINANCIAL PACKAGE NEGOTIATED THIS YEAR WITH THE WORLD BANK, IMF AND COMMERCIAL BANKS, ENCOURAGING STRUCTURAL ADJUSTMENT EFFORTS AIMED AT RENEWED ECONOMIC GROWTH, AS WELL AS COOPERATING ON REGIONAL SECURITY TO THE EXTENT PRACTICABLE.

IT APPEARS LIKELY THAT PRESIDENT PINOCHET WILL TRY TO REMAIN IN OFFICE BEYOND 1989 AND WILL NOT NEGOTIATE WILLINGLY WITH THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION. DESPITE THE EFFORT OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION TO PURSUE A PEACEFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, THE GOVERNMENT AND THE COMMUNISTS WILL BOTH KEEP

[redacted]

RESORTING TO VIOLENCE, JUSTIFYING THESE ACTIONS BY THE ACTIONS OF THE OTHER PARTY. THE CHILEAN ECONOMY WILL RECOVER AT BEST ONLY GRADUALLY, THEREBY OFFERING LITTLE IMMEDIATE HOPE TO MUCH OF THE POPULACE.

PRINCIPAL UNITED STATES OBJECTIVES IN CHILE ARE (1) TO SEEK TO CONVINCE PRESIDENT PINOCHET THAT THE U.S. TAKES

VERY SERIOUSLY THE NEED FOR A PROMPT RETURN TO DEMOCRACY AND THEREFORE EXPECTS POLITICAL DIALOGUE; (2) TO CONVINCE THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION OF U.S. COMMITMENT TO THE RETURN TO DEMOCRACY WHILE STRESSING THE ESSENTIALITY OF NON-VIOLENT AND RESPONSIBLE BEHAVIOR ON THEIR PART; (3) TO CONTINUE SUPPORT FOR CHILE'S DEBT RELIEF AND ECONOMIC GROWTH EFFORTS, BUT BE PREPARED, AS IN EARLY 1985, TO USE ECONOMIC INFLUENCE TO PRESS THE POLITICAL PROCESS FORWARD; (4) TO PROMOTE IMPROVED HUMAN RIGHTS PERFORMANCE, INSISTING ESPECIALLY UPON THE CESSATION OF TORTURE; AND (5) TO REVIVE, WITHIN EXISTING LEGAL CONSTRAINTS, U.S. INFLUENCE WITH THE CHILEAN ARMED FORCES, WHICH WILL HAVE A KEY ROLE IN THE TRANSITION PROCESS. SINCE THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE SUCCESS OF THE TRANSITION PROCESS MUST BE ASSUMED BY THE

CHILEANS, YOUR ROLE WILL BE TO ENCOURAGE DIALOGUE AND CONSENSUS-BUILDING WITHOUT BECOMING ENGAGED IN THE POWER STRUGGLE.

IF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT SIGNIFICANTLY IMPROVES ITS HUMAN RIGHTS PERFORMANCE, YOU SHOULD RECOMMEND WAYS TO ENHANCE COOPERATION WITH THE ARMED FORCES, INCLUDING SETTING FORTH FOR OUR CONSIDERATION PROPOSALS TO MODIFY CURRENT LEGAL CONSTRAINTS. IN THIS CONTEXT, YOU WILL WANT TO ALSO INVESTIGATE WHETHER THERE IS ANY WILLINGNESS WITHIN THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO EVEN CONSIDER COOPERATION ON THE LETELIER CASE.

[redacted]

IN ADDITION TO CARRYING OUT SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES SET FORTH ABOVE, WE EXPECT THAT YOU WILL SEEK TO REINFORCE EXISTING WAYS OF MAINTAINING LINKS TO ORDINARY CHILEANS AND TO DEVELOP NEW MEANS OF REACHING A BROADER RANGE OF CHILEANS. YOUR PREPARATION OF A LONG-TERM PLAN FOR THE USE OF SECTION 416 SURPLUS AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES WITH DEVELOPMENT AS WELL AS RELIEF ASPECTS WILL BE IMPORTANT TO THIS EFFORT, AS WILL YOUR STUDY OF A U.S. CONTRIBUTION TO THE ALLEVIATION OF THE SERIOUS AIR POLLUTION PROBLEM AFFECTING SANTIAGO, PERHAPS IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE MDB'S.

ACTIVELY ENCOURAGING VISITS TO CHILE BY CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATIONS FROM A VARIETY OF COMMITTEES WILL PROVIDE VALUABLE OPPORTUNITIES TO UNDERLINE U.S. CONCERNS AND REINFORCE U.S. INTERESTS.

THERE ARE PRIORITY MANAGEMENT CONCERNS WITHIN THE MISSION BEYOND THOSE DICTATED DIRECTLY BY MAJOR POLICY OBJECTIVES. THE CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW CHANCERY AND THE TRANSFER OF THE MISSION TO THE NEW FACILITY WILL SEVERELY TAX THE POST'S ADMINISTRATIVE RESOURCES OVER THE NEXT FEW YEARS, REQUIRING EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT TO MAINTAIN THE MAXIMUM LEVEL OF PRODUCTIVITY DURING THIS PERIOD. THE INCREASED SECURITY THREAT TO AMERICANS, OFFICIAL AND UNOFFICIAL, HEIGHTENS THE NEED TO MAINTAIN POSITIVE POST MORALE. GOOD SECURITY IS A MANAGEMENT GOAL WHICH CANNOT BE DELEGATED AND STEPS SHOULD BE TAKEN TO INSURE THAT ALL PERSONNEL ARE SECURITY CONSCIOUS. IT WILL BE NECESSARY TO REVIEW CAREFULLY EXISTING MISSION PROCEDURES AND INTERNAL CONTROLS AND TO IMPLEMENT CHANGES AS APPROPRIATE BEFORE THE MOVE TO THE NEW FACILITY IS COMPLETED.

AS AMBASSADOR, YOUR AUTHORITY FLOWS FROM THE PRESIDENT TO

ME, AND FROM ME THROUGH THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR INTER-AMERICAN AFFAIRS TO YOU. I LOOK TO THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY TO ISSUE INSTRUCTIONS IN MY NAME AND TO SERVE

AS THE PRIMARY COMMUNICATIONS LINK BETWEEN US. YOU SHOULD CHANNEL ALL MESSAGES DEALING WITH POLICY PROPOSALS, POLICY IMPLEMENTATION, PROGRAM ACTIVITIES AND POST OPERATIONS TO OR THROUGH HIM, WITH THE UNDERSTANDING THAT FOR EXTRAORDINARY SITUATIONS THERE ARE CHANNELS OF DIRECT COMMUNICATION WITH ME THAT ARE AVAILABLE FOR USE.

I LOOK FORWARD TO REVIEWING THE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES STATEMENT FOR YOUR MISSION. I AM ASKING THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR INTER-AMERICAN AFFAIRS TO WORK WITH YOU ON THIS STATEMENT, WHICH WILL BE FORWARDED TO MY OFFICE THROUGH THE BUREAU.

I WISH YOU WELL ON THE ASSUMPTION OF YOUR IMPORTANT AND CHALLENGING ASSIGNMENT. YOU HAVE MY FULL CONFIDENCE AND BEST WISHES.

SINCERELY YOURS,

GEORGE P. SHULTZ

SUBJ: APPEAL COURT REOPENS CASE AGAINST JESUIT MAGAZINE

1. (U) ON DECEMBER 3, THE FIRST COURT OF APPEALS IN SANTIAGO, BY A TWO TO ONE VOTE, REVERSED THE SEPTEMBER 30 DECISION OF JUDGE MARCOS LIBEDINSKY TO CLOSE THE LEGAL PROCEEDINGS AGAINST THE DIRECTOR OF THE MAGAZINE "MENSAJE," JESUIT PRIEST RENATO HEVIA. ACTING ON AN APPEAL BY THE MINISTRY OF INTERIOR, THE APPEAL COURT DECIDED THAT THE CASE SHOULD NOT BE CLOSED AND THAT FATHER HEVIA SHOULD BE CHARGED AS A DEFENDENT, AND, THEREFORE, ISSUED AN ORDER FOR HIS APPREHENSION. THE CHARGES AGAINST HEVIA RELATE TO EDITORIALS IN THE FIRST THREE EDITIONS OF "MENSAJE" IN 1985, WHICH, THE GOVERNMENT CLAIMS, CALLED FOR CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE, ATTEMPTED TO DESTABILIZE THE PEACE, AND DEFAMED GOVERNMENT AUTHORITIES. THE CASE AGAINST HEVIA WAS FIRST FILED BY THE GOVERNMENT ON MAY 14, AND WAS EVENTUALLY DISMISSED BY JUDGE LIBEDINSKY. THE APPEAL COURT, HOWEVER, FOUND THAT SUFFICIENT JUSTIFICATION EXISTS THAT THE LAW RELATING TO THE SECURITY OF THE STATE HAD BEEN VIOLATED, AND ORDERED THE CASE TO BE CONTINUED.

3. (U) THE DIRECTORS OF MENSAJE HAVE DEPLORED THE COURT'S DECISION, NOTING THAT IT CONTRIBUTES IN NO WAY TO NATIONAL RECONCILIATION NOR TO PEACE IN THE COUNTRY. THEY STATE THAT THE EDITORIALS UNDER QUESTION BY THE COURT DID NOT OFFEND ANYONE, AND ONLY DENOUNCED UNACCEPTABLE VIOLATIONS OF PEOPLE AND THE COMMUNITY WHILE CALLING FOR JUSTICE, LIBERTY, AND SOLIDARITY. PURSUING THE CHARGES AGAINST THE MAGAZINE EDITOR WILL ONLY POLARIZE THE SITUATION FURTHER IN THE COUNTRY, AT A TIME WHEN RECONCILIATION SHOULD BE SOUGHT WHILE THE NATION PREPARES FOR THE VISIT OF THE POPE.

4. (C) COMMENT: THIS DECISION, JUST A FEW DAYS BEFORE THE ARRIVAL OF THE UNHRC'S SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT TO CHILE IN SIX YEARS, WILL CALL INTO QUESTION THE GOVERNMENT'S CLAIM THAT FREEDOM OF THE PRESS WAS RESTORED WHEN THE STATE OF SIEGE WAS LIFTED IN JUNE. IN ITS DEFENSE,

HOWEVER, THE GOC CAN CLAIM THAT THIS WAS A JUDICIAL MATTER BEING HANDLED BY THE COURTS BEFORE THE STATE OF SIEGE WAS ENDED, AND THAT THE LEGAL PROCEDURES SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO CONTINUE WITHOUT EXECUTIVE INTERFERENCE. THE GOC DECISION TO CONTINUE WITH THE PROSECUTION OF THIS CASE ADDS ANOTHER IRRITANT TO THE ALREADY STRAINED RELATIONS BETWEEN THE

12. (C) MEXICAN DRAFT RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE HAS BEEN REVISED AND FORMALLY SUBMITTED. WE UNDERSTAND THAT SOME OF THE WESTERN EUROPEAN COSPONSORS, INCLUDING FRANCE, PUSHED VERY HARD TO GET MEXICO TO ACCEPT SOME MODERATING ELEMENTS IN THE RESOLUTION. CHILE: STATUS OF LETELIER/MOFFITT CASE

Q. Has there been any cooperation in the Letelier/Moffitt case? Has the Chilean Government agreed to extradite those requested by our government in order to stand trial for this crime? What are the implications of the second military court's November 13 decision to issue a definitive stay of proceedings in the court case pending against General Contreras?

A. -- The Chilean Government returned to U.S. custody American citizen Michael Townley and absolved Townley of his oath of secrecy, thereby permitting him to turn state's evidence and cooperate with the federal investigation of this crime.

-- On October 1, 1978, the Chilean Supreme Court rejected the U.S. request for the extradition of Manuel Contreras, Pedro Espinoza and Armando Fernandez, who were indicted by a U.S. grand jury for the Letelier/Moffitt assassinations. In doing so, the Court ruled that most of the U.S. presented evidence was inadmissable on various grounds, including state's evidence (from Townley) that was not admissable under the Chilean system of jurisprudence. The Court stated that only new evidence can be used in prosecuting the three officers in the military court in Santiago.

-- On September 17, 1981, a review panel made up of two civilian and two military judges ruled 3-1 to uphold an earlier decision by the military court (where the case had been referred by the Supreme Court) that there were not adequate grounds to try the accused officers in Chile and to close the investigation. The Government, however, did not accept the panel's recommendation to close the case and, instead, left it pending submission of new evidence.

-- On November 13, 1985, the second military court in Santiago issued a definitive stay of proceedings in favor of General Contreras, concerning his involvement in the forgery of passports for those involved in the death of former Foreign Minister Letelier. The court held that a temporary stay of proceedings dating back several years could be made permanent because no new evidence had been presented.

-- The Letelier family has appealed the second military court's decision to issue the definitive stay. The military court of appeals must now make a ruling. In the event that this court should uphold the decision of the second military court, the decision of the appeals court can be appealed to the civilian appeals court.

THIRD COMMITTEE: CHILE HUMAN RIGHTS DRAFT RES (USUN 3629)

8. (C) MEXICAN DELEGATE TO THIRD COMMITTEE PRESENTED USDEL WITH DRAFT RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE DECEMBER 2. THE TEXT IS A SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT OVER THE FIRST MEXICAN DRAFT, REFLECTING SOME CHANGES TO MEET CONCERNS OF WESTERN EUROPEAN COSPONSORS WHO REGARDED THE FIRST DRAFT AS BEING OVERLY CRITICAL OF THE UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR. TEXT IS TO BE TABLED NO LATER THAN DECEMBER 4 AND BROUGHT TO A VOTE ON DECEMBER 6. USUN WOULD APPRECIATE SUGGESTIONS ASAP FOR ANY IMPROVEMENTS IN THE TEXT WHICH WE SHOULD SEEK.

11. (C) DURING A MEETING IN NEW YORK WITH ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER NOVEMBER 27, UNHRC RAPPORTEUR ON CHILE VOLIO JIMENEZ OUTLINED HIS VIEWS ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS

SITUATION IN THAT COUNTRY AND AGREED THAT A CHILEAN DECISION TO ORDER AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE WOULD BE A SUBSTANTIAL ACHIEVEMENT WHICH COULD BE REFLECTED IN HIS FINAL REPORT. VOLIO WILL VISIT CHILE DEC 9-19 AND WOULD BE WILLING TO MEET WITH AMBASSADOR BARNES IF IT COULD BE ARRANGED INFORMALLY. VOLIO INTENDS TO CONTINUE AS RAPPORTEUR, BUT FEARS HIS CRITICS MAY ATTEMPT TO IMPOSE UNACCEPTABLE RESTRAINTS ON HIS MANDATE. HE ALSO INDICATED THAT THE WEIGHT OF HIS RESPONSIBILITIES IS TAKING A PHYSICAL TOLL.

2. DEPT HAS REVIEWED THE MEXICAN DRAFT RESOLUTION PROVIDED REFTEL A AND FINDS NO BASIS IN THIS TEXT FOR REVISING THE U.S. NEGATIVE VOTE OF LAST YEAR. ALTHOUGH THIS REVISED MEXICAN VERSION AVOIDS IMPLICIT CRITICISM OF SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO CONTAINED IN AN EARLIER DRAFT, THE RESOLUTION FAILS TO MAKE ANY HEADWAY IN ADDRESSING OUR CONCERNS ON THE DOUBLE STANDARD ISSUE. ON THE CONTRARY, THE RESOLUTION REVIVES THE POLEMICS USED IN ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

3. AFTER SHARING THIS REACTION WITH THE MEXICAN DELEGATION, PLEASE ADVISE US WHETHER THE MEXICANS APPEAR

TO BE GENUINELY INTERESTED IN MAKING MAJOR REVISIONS IN THE EXISTING TEXT IN ORDER TO MEET OUR CONCERNS, IN WHICH CASE WE WILL PROVIDE YOU WITH SPECIFIC SUGGESTIONS FOR POSSIBLE CHANGES.

4. YOU SHOULD ALSO ADVISE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (CHRC) REPRESENTATIVES IN NEW YORK OF OUR REACTION TO MEXICAN RESOLUTION EXPRESSED ABOVE AND NOTE IN PARTICULAR THAT THIS TEXT DEPARTS SIGNIFICANTLY IN CONTENT AND TONE FROM THE TEXT OF THE MODEL RESOLUTION PROVIDED TO ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER IN LATE NOVEMBER BY CHILEAN EXILE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE. 1. (LOU) MEXICAN DRAFT RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE HAS BEEN REVISED FROM THE TEXT TRANSMITTED REFTEL AND HAS BEEN FORMALLY SUBMITTED AS UN DOCUMENT A/C.3/40/L.81. THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGE FROM THE TEXT IN REFTEL IS TO MAKE PREAMBULAR PARA 5, "TAKING NOTE OF THE PROVISIONAL REPORT..." INTO OPERATIVE PARA 1, WHICH

READS:

"--1. TAKES NOTE OF THE PRELIMINARY REPORT PREPARED BY THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, PRESENTED ACCORDING TO RESOLUTION 1985/47 OF THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS."

(ALL FOLLOWING OPERATIVE PARAS WILL BE RENUMBERED.)

THE OTHER CHANGES RELATE TO THE FORMULATIONS SURROUNDED BY BRACKETS IN REFTEL:

--OPERATIVE PARA 4 (NOW OPERATIVE 5): THE BRACKETED LANGUAGE HAS BEEN REPLACED BY "NOTWITHSTANDING SOME POSITIVE STEPS IN THIS FIELD"

--OPERATIVE PARA 5A (NOW 6A): THE BRACKETED LANGUAGE IS RETAINED;

--OPERATIVE PARA 8 (NOW 9): THE BRACKETED LANGUAGE IS REPLACED BY "STRENGTHEN THEIR COOPERATION OFFERED TO" AND THE WORD "WITH" HAS BEEN DELETED.

2. (C) COMMENT AND ACTION REQUESTED: WE UNDERSTAND THAT SOME OF THE WESTERN EUROPEAN COSPONSORS, INCLUDING FRANCE, PUSHED VERY HARD TO GET MEXICO TO ACCEPT SOME MODERATING ELEMENTS IN THE RESOLUTION. MEXICO RESISTED ALL CHANGES, KNOWING THAT THE EUROPEANS WOULD EVENTUALLY COSPONSOR THE TEXT FOR DOMESTIC POLITICAL REASONS, BUT THEY ACCEPTED GRUDGING REFERENCES TO THE LIFTING OF THE STATE OF SIEGE, THE ROLE OF THE JUDICIARY, AND THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT'S COOPERATION WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR. BECAUSE OF THE CHILEAN OPPOSITION'S NEGATIVE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

REACTION TO THE PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE NEW SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, FERNANDO VOLIO, THE MOST DIFFICULT POINT WAS APPARENTLY GETTING MEXICO'S AGREEMENT TO INCLUDE A REFERENCE TO THE REPORT IN OPERATIVE PARAGRAPH ONE OF THE RESOLUTION. 1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. THE SLIGHT MODIFICATIONS MADE TO THE TEXT OF THE MEXICAN RESOLUTION ON CHILE (REF A) HAVE NOT ALLEVIATED THE CONCERNS OUTLINED IN REF B. WHILE WE WELCOME THE SUCCESSFUL EFFORTS OF WESTERN EUROPEANS TO PERSUADE THE MEXICANS TO ACCEPT SOME CHANGES, AND RECOGNIZE THAT THE WORST OF THE IMPLICIT CRITICISM DIRECTED AGAINST SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO IN EARLIER DRAFTS HAS BEEN ELIMINATED, THE THRUST OF THE FIRST DRAFT REMAINS INTACT. ESSENTIALLY THE RESOLUTION IN TONE AND CONTENT DOES NOT DIFFER SUBSTANTIALLY FROM LAST YEAR'S CHILE RESOLUTION ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ALTHOUGH IN CHILE THERE ARE SIGNIFICANT DIFFERENCES IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION, INCLUDING SOME POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS. THE GRUDGING REFERENCES IN THE TEXT TO THE LIFTING OF THE STATE OF SIEGE, CHILEAN GOVERNMENT COOPERATION WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, AND THE MORE EFFECTIVE ROLE OF THE JUDICIARY ARE MUCH TOO QUALIFIED TO OFFSET OUR NEGATIVE REACTION TO THE REMAINDER OF THE RESOLUTION, WHICH CONTAINS BLATANTLY POLITICAL COMMENTARY ON THE 1980 CONSTITUTION.

3. FOR THESE REASONS WE HAVE DECIDED THAT THE CHANGES MADE, ALTHOUGH POSITIVE, ARE INSUFFICIENT TO WARRANT OUR CHANGING THE POSITION TAKEN LAST YEAR. USUN IS INSTRUCTED TO CAST A NEGATIVE VOTE ON THE RESOLUTION AND AT THE SAME TIME MAKE AN EXPLANATION OF THE VOTE, DRAWING ON TALKING POINTS IN PARAGRAPH FIVE BELOW.

4. IN REACHING THIS DECISION, WE HAVE ALSO TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT HOW WE CAN BEST SUPPORT THE EFFORTS OF SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO TO OBTAIN THE CONTINUED COOPERATION OF CHILEAN GOVERNMENT AUTHORITIES, BOTH DURING HIS UPCOMING MISSION TO CHILE AND IN CARRYING THROUGH ON THE GOVERNMENT'S EXPRESSED WILLINGNESS TO IMPLEMENT THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN VOLIO'S PRELIMINARY REPORT.

5. FOR USUN: IN CASTING THE NEGATIVE VOTE, US REPRESENTATIVE SHOULD MAKE A STATEMENT EXPLAINING THE VOTE USING THESE TALKING POINTS:

- I HAVE BEEN INSTRUCTED TO MAKE THIS EXPLANATION AT THE SAME TIME WE VOTE AGAINST THE RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

- MY GOVERNMENT HAD HOPED TO FIND IT POSSIBLE TO CHANGE OUR VOTE ON THIS YEAR'S RESOLUTION ON CHILE.

- IN ANTICIPATION OF THIS VOTE ON CHILE, WE BEGAN CONSULTING WITH INTERESTED PARTIES WEEKS AGO IN THE HOPE THAT A MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION WOULD BE SUBMITTED REFLECTING THE REAL SITUATION IN CHILE AND TAKING ACCOUNT

OF ALL THE SERIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS THAT EXIST, BUT WITHOUT THE RHETORIC, HYPERBOLE AND POLITICAL COMMENTARY WHICH HAD CHARACTERIZED PREVIOUS RESOLUTIONS.

- IT IS WITH DISAPPOINTMENT THEN THAT WE CAST THIS NEGATIVE VOTE, FOR THE UNITED STATES IS COMMITTED TO FOSTERING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE OBSERVANCE OF BASIC HUMAN RIGHTS AND IS DEEPLY CONCERNED ABOUT THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE. WE HAD HOPED THAT THE RESOLUTION ON CHILE WOULD OPENLY COMMEND THE CONSTRUCTIVE PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR AND RECOGNIZE IN MUCH MORE CERTAIN TERMS THOSE POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS THAT HAVE OCCURRED IN CHILE SINCE THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ASSUMED

HIS DUTIES LAST WINTER, WHEN A STATE OF SIEGE WAS STILL IN EFFECT.

- MY GOVERNMENT BELIEVES THAT THE DECISION OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO COOPERATE THIS YEAR FOR THE FIRST TIME WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR IS SO IMPORTANT PRECISELY BECAUSE THIS MISSION PROVIDES AN OPPORTUNITY TO BRING ABOUT GENUINE IMPROVEMENTS ON OUR CONCERNS OVER HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE. CHILEAN GOVERNMENT AUTHORITIES HAVE PROVIDED ASSURANCES THAT THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR WILL BE FREE TO CONDUCT HIS UPCOMING VISIT TO CHILE AS HE WISHES. IN ADDITION, WE UNDERSTAND THAT THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT IS PREPARED TO CONSIDER THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN HIS PRELIMINARY REPORT. THESE RECOMMENDATIONS ADDRESS IN A SERIOUS AND CONSTRUCTIVE MANNER HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS IN CONFIDENTIAL

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CHILE. ALL PRESENT MUST BE AWARE THAT IN HIS REPORT THE RAPPORTEUR:

--RECOMMENDED BROADENING THE PARTICIPATION IN DISCUSSIONS ON THE BASIS FOR A RESTORATION OF DEMOCRACY IN CHILE.

--CALLED UPON THE GOC TO ACT ON ALLEGATIONS OF TORTURE AND AGAINST THOSE WHO VIOLATE HUMAN RIGHTS, AND RECOMMENDED AN IN-DEPTH REORGANIZATION OF THE POLICE.

--ASKED FOR A RESOLUTION OF THE EXILE PROBLEM,

REINVIGORATION OF THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM AND COMBATTING OF TERRORISM THROUGH REASONABLE ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING LEGISLATION.

--CALLED FOR AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF ISSUING JUDGMENTS OF INTERNAL EXILE BY ADMINISTRATIVE DECREE AND ASKED THAT THE GOVERNMENT LET THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM REVIEW SUCH CASES.

AND,

--CALLED ON THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO ENSURE SECURITY FOR ALL THOSE INVOLVED IN CHILE IN CHURCH AND HUMAN RIGHTS WORK, WHO HAVE RECENTLY BEEN SUBJECTED TO A SERIES OF UNSOLVED ASSAULTS.

- THE FACT THAT THESE RECOMMENDATIONS ARE NEEDED ILLUSTRATES THE SERIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS THAT EXIST TODAY IN CHILE. IT IS THE HOPE OF MY GOVERNMENT THAT THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE ADOPTS ALL OF THESE RECOMMENDATIONS AND SEES TO THEIR PROMPT AND FULL IMPLEMENTATION.

- CHILEAN AUTHORITIES COULD BEST SIGNAL THEIR INTENTION TO DO SO BY TAKING EFFECTIVE AND PROMPT ACTIONS TO PUT AN END TO TORTURE BY SECURITY FORCES IN CHILE. TORTURE IS PERHAPS THE MOST EGREGIOUS ABUSE OF HUMAN RIGHTS THAT OCCURS IN CHILE AND MUST BE ENDED.

- IT WAS OUR HOPE THAT THE VISIT TO CHILE BY THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR AND THE WILLINGNESS OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO CONSIDER HIS RECOMMENDATIONS WOULD PROVIDE A WELCOME OPPORTUNITY FOR THIS BODY TO ENCOURAGE SUCH PROGRESS ON HUMAN RIGHTS. WE REGRET THAT, INSTEAD, THE PRESENT RESOLUTION WILL PLAY INTO THE HANDS OF THOSE IN CHILE WHO ARGUE THAT INTERNATIONAL CONSIDERATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE IS DISCRIMINATORY AND WHO ASSERT THAT THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GAINED BY COOPERATING ON SUCH MATTERS, A REACTION THAT ONLY WORKS AGAINST THE PURPOSE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S VISIT.

- WHILE WE OPPOSE THIS PARTICULAR RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, ABSENT A MAJOR CHANGE IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THAT COUNTRY, MY GOVERNMENT FAVORS THE RENEWAL OF THE MANDATE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR BY THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION AT ITS NEXT MEETING AND COMMENDING MR. VOLIO FOR HIS VERY EFFECTIVE WORK TO DATE. SHULTZ

Dear Mr. Abrams:

Thank you for your testimony before the Subcommittee on International Development Institutions and Finance on December 5th. I mentioned at the close of the hearing that I had some additional questions.

Could you please provide answers to the following questions:

1. Would you answer for me the question asked by Mr. Levin earlier in the hearing--In your judgment, a) has there been, and b) does there continue to be, a pattern of gross human rights violations in Chile? A "yes" or "no" answer to those two questions would be appropriate, although you should feel free, in addition, to explain your precise answers.

2. Was there an agreement made with the Pinochet government that in exchange for the lifting of the State of Siege, the U.S. would vote in favor of World Bank loans to Chile? Were there any discussions between the two governments about such an agreement prior to the June action of the Pinochet regime to lift the State of Siege?

3. How do you explain the fact that this subcommittee received notification that there would be a change in voting policy toward Chile only one day after Pinochet lifted the State of Siege?

4. Who in the State Department discussed with Treasury the decision to vote in favor of loans to Chile after June 16th? Which Treasury officials were in those discussions? When did those discussions take place?

5. Was there any written document which laid out the State Department position on the implications of the lifting of the State of Siege? Was that or any other document used to justify the change in voting policy? If so, please identify the documents relied on and describe their contents.

Q. Would you answer for me the question asked by Mr. Levin earlier in the hearing -- In your judgment, a) has there been, and b) does there continue to be, a pattern of gross human rights violations in Chile? A "yes" or "no" answer to those two questions would be appropriate, although you should feel free, in addition, to explain your precise answers.

A. We continue to have very serious concerns with respect to human rights violatons in Chile, and we voice these publicly with some frequency. As I noted in the hearing, there has never been a determination of a pattern of gross violations for Chile (or any other country) under either this or previous administrations. Loan votes are decided on a case-by-case basis, taking into account human rights, economic and statutory criteria. Votes should be used not to express frustration but to encourage progress on human rights and democracy.

DECLASSIFIED

Q. How do you explain the fact that this subcommittee received notification that there would be a change in voting policy toward Chile only one day after Pinochet lifted the State of Siege?

A. Lifting the State of Siege was announced two days before a previously scheduled vote on an IFC loan. In deciding to cast our vote in favor of this loan we looked at several factors, including the lifting of the State of Siege.

UNCLASSIFIED

Q. Was there any written document which laid out the State Department position on the implications of the lifting of the State of Siege? Was that or any other document used to justify the change in voting policy? If so, please identify the documents relied on and describe their contents.

A. The Department of State is constantly reviewing and updating the information on which we base our voting decisions in international financial institutions. Though, in general, we do not believe it is appropriate to disclose the contents of documents containing material relating to the State Department decision-making process, we can provide a copy of an unclassified June 18, 1985 State Department memorandum on Chile explaining our views, at that time, concerning the lifting of the State of Siege.

UNCLASSIFIED

Q. The reports which I have seen, especially the August 28 report by the Chilean Commission on Human Rights, document human rights violations in Chile since June. Since the June shift in voting policy, has there been further evaluation within the State Department of the human rights situation in Chile? If so, please state the conclusions of any such evaluation. If not, does the State Department have any plan to reevaluate the human rights situation in Chile and the consequences of the June policy shift?

A. Human rights developments in Chile are reviewed on an on-going basis. The current situation remains much the same as I described it in my December 5 testimony, with some positive elements visible but also with serious problems remaining. (The 1985 Human Rights Report, to be transmitted to Congress at the end of January, addresses this situation in great detail.) We keep in touch with responsible human rights organizations active in Chile, including the Chilean Commission on Human Rights and the Catholic Church's Vicariate of Solidarity organization, in our effort to stay abreast of developments.

DEL VALLE OBJECTED TO THE USE OF "PRESSURE" BY USG TO URGE A TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY AND EXPRESSED SERIOUS CONCERN ABOUT AMBASSADOR BARNES' EARLY CONTACTS WITH THE OPPOSITION. ABRAMS REITERATED OUR SUPPORT FOR CIVILIAN RULE AND PARTICULARLY FOR AMBASSADOR BARNES. END SUMMARY

GOC ACTS OF COOPERATION WITH THE USG. HE MENTIONED THE QUICK ACCEPTANCE OF AMBASSADOR BARNES' CREDENTIALS BEFORE THE VISIT OF GENERAL WICKHAM, AND THE CONCLUSION OF THE NASA AGREEMENT ON EASTER ISLAND. MR. ABRAMS ADDED THAT THE USG WAS LOOKING FOR OTHER WAYS TO COOPERATE WITH THE GOC AND WANTED A GOOD RELATIONSHIP. DEL VALLE SAID THAT THE GOC WAS GLAD TO HELP. HE NOTED THAT IN THE MATTERS OF AMBASSADOR BARNES AND NASA THE GOC AND USG WERE BOTH ATTACKED BY THE OPPOSITION; INDEED ON THE NASA AGREEMENT, BY THE SAME OPPOSITION LEADERS WHO HAD GONE TO THE STATE DEPARTMENT IN WASHINGTON AND SPOKEN ILL OF CHILE. DEL VALLE THEN EXPRESSED THE HOPE THAT THE USG WOULD TAKE A MORE UNDERSTANDING VIEW OF CHILEAN PROBLEMS. HE SAID THAT THE MESSAGE WHICH HE RECEIVED FROM THE USG, IN THE FORM OF PRESIDENT REAGAN'S LETTER AND THE WORDS OF AMBASSADOR BARNES, WAS THAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD GIVE CHILE ITS FRIENDSHIP AS LONG AS STEPS TOWARDS DEMOCRATIZATION CONTINUED. THIS WAS, IN A WAY, A THREAT.

5. CHILEAN POLITICS: MINISTER DEL VALLE SAID THAT CHILE WANTS TO PROCEED TOWARDS DEMOCRACY AS THIS IS THE PERSONAL WISH OF PRESIDENT PINOCHET. DEL VALLE SAID HE WAS PERSONALLY COMMITTED TO DEMOCRACY AND WOULD QUIT IF THE GOC DEVIATED FROM THIS PATH. DEL VALLE LISTED THREE FUNDAMENTALS OF THE DEMOCRATIZATION PROCESS: FIRST, THE GOAL OF A RETURN TO FULL DEMOCRACY; SECOND, A PROMISED DATE FOR ELECTIONS AND THIRD, A QUICK PACE. HE NOTED THAT THERE WAS WORK TO BE DONE ON NINE COMPLEMENTARY LAWS INCLUDING LAWS CONCERNING ELECTIONS, PARTIES AND CONGRESS. HOWEVER, IF TERRORISM OR SUBVERSION SO REQUIRED, DEL VALLE CONTINUED, THE GOC WOULD NOT

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

HESITATE TO IMPOSE A STATE OF SIEGE OR CHANGE THE DATE OF ELECTIONS EVEN AT THE RISK OF MAKING THE UNITED STATES OR THE EUROPEANS UNHAPPY. DEL VALLE SAID THAT HE COULD NOT UNDERSTAND WHY THE USG IS SO CONCERNED WITH VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, BUT NOT IN MEXICO; MEXICO HAS WORSE VIOLATIONS THAN CHILE AND IN ADDITION THE SITUATION IN CHILE

IS CHANGING, HE SAID, BUT THAT IN MEXICO IT NEVER CHANGES. USG PRESSURE ON CHILE'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS WAS WORTHLESS, DEL VALLE INSISTED, AND WOULD DESTROY THE WORK OF MANY MEN OF GOOD WILL. IT WAS COUNTER-PRODUCTIVE AND PINOCHET WOULD REACT BY HARDENING HIS POSITION. HE SAID THAT A PART OF PRESIDENT REAGAN'S LETTER WHICH SEEMED TO IMPOSE PRE-CONDITIONS TO CONTINUING FRIENDSHIP WAS NOT FITTING, AND HE WAS "SURE" THE PRESIDENT HAD NOT APPROVED THIS PARAGRAPH. THE U.S. HAD TOPPLED A NUMBER OF PRO-U.S. GOVERNMENTS IN THE LAST YEARS; IN EVERY SINGLE CASE, THE SUCCESSOR REGIME WAS WORSE, AND WE SHOULD LEARN FROM THIS.

6. AMBASSADOR BARNES: DEL VALLE SAID THAT AMBASSADOR BARNES HAD ACTED IMPROPERLY WHEN ONLY SIX DAYS AFTER HE ARRIVED, AT A TIME WHEN HE HAD NOT YET MET WITH ALL GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, HE VISITED THE BAR ASSOCIATION, A CENTER OF OPPOSITION WHICH HAD CONSISTENTLY MAGNIFIED PROBLEMS. MR. DEL VALLE ALSO CRITICIZED BARNES' PUBLIC CONTACT WITH GABRIEL VALDES INCLUDING ACTUALLY VISITING VALDES' OFFICE. WHILE HE ACCEPTED AMBASSADOR BARNES' RIGHT TO SPEAK TO WHOM HE PLEASED, A CERTAIN DECORUM IS EXPECTED OF ONE IN HIS POSITION. MINISTER DEL VALLE SAID THAT PRESIDENT PINOCHET WAS A COMPLETE ANTI-COMMUNIST AND THAT UNDER PRESIDENT PINOCHET CHILE HAD ACHIEVED MANY THINGS: IT HAD SIGNED A PEACE TREATY WITH

ARGENTINA, AND RESOLVED BOUNDARY PROBLEMS WITH PERU. ACCORDINGLY, HE SHOULD BE BELIEVED WHEN HE SAID THAT HE WILL RESTORE DEMOCRACY. HE REITERATED THE USELESSNESS OF PRESSURE AGAINST CHILE AND STATED THAT AMBASSADOR BARNES CANNOT BE BOTH AN AMBASSADOR AND "AN INSPECTOR GENERAL OF CHILEAN CONDUCT." HE SAID PRESIDENT PINOCHET WAS PERSONALLY DISPLEASED, AND ATTRIBUTED THE INSPECTOR GENERAL COMMENT TO PINOCHET.

7. ABRAMS' REPLY: MR. ABRAMS RESPONDED TO THIS LONG EMOTIONAL, FINGER-POINTING MONOLOGUE BY NOTING THAT HE WAS ABOUT TO TESTIFY BEFORE CONGRESS ON DECEMBER 5 WHERE IRONICALLY HE WOULD BE ATTACKED FOR BEING TOO SUPPORTIVE OF CHILE AT THE WORLD BANK. THE CRITICISM WOULD BE THAT WHEN IT COUNTED, ESPECIALLY IN MILITARY AND ECONOMIC RELATIONS, THE USG BACKED PINOCHET. HE SAID THAT AMBASSADOR

BARNES' INSTRUCTIONS WERE TO SUPPORT THE TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AND TO SPEAK TO ALL ELEMENTS IN CHILEAN SOCIETY IN ORDER TO UNDERSTAND THE COUNTRY

AND EXPLAIN THE SITUATION TO WASHINGTON. HE STATED THAT AFTER AMBASSADOR BARNES COMPLETES HIS TOUR IN CHILE, THE CHILEANS WILL REALIZE JUST HOW USEFUL IT WAS TO HAVE HIM THERE. BARNES WAS A COMPLETE PROFESSIONAL OF THE HIGHEST COMPETENCE AND INTELLIGENCE, AND WAS PARTICULARLY WELL REGARDED BY THE SECRETARY, WHO HAD EXPRESSED HIS TOTAL CONFIDENCE IN BARNES ONLY THE PREVIOUS DAY IN HIS PRESS CONFERENCE. MR. ABRAMS SAID THAT HE PERSONALLY WAS NO SYMPATHIZER WITH THE TYPICAL ATTACKS AGAINST CHILE. PRESIDENT PINOCHET HAD BROKEN THE BREZHNEV DOCTRINE AND WOULD BE ATTACKED BY THE COMMUNISTS UNTIL THE LAST DAY OF HIS LIFE. WE WANT ONLY A TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AND ARE NOT OPPONENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

8. DELAYS IN TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY TROUBLING: MR. ABRAMS NOTED THAT WHILE A NUMBER OF GOVERNMENTS IN THE WORLD HAD NOT ACHIEVED DEMOCRACY, AS DEL VALLE HAD SAID, THE CLOSER CASES WERE ENCOURAGING: URUGUAY, ARGENTINA, AND BRAZIL. THERE, MILITARY GOVERNMENTS HAD MADE A SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. HE SAID THAT HE WAS DISTURBED BY THE IMPLICATIONS FOR CHILE OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN EXAMPLE, WHERE A GOVERNMENT WHICH PERHAPS WANTS TO DO WHAT IS RIGHT, HAS WAITED TOO LONG. MR. ABRAMS ADDED THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS NO SCHEDULE OR PLAN FOR THE CHILEAN TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AS WE HAD TOLD THE OPPOSITION. HE SAID THAT THIS MUST COME FROM THE CHILEANS BUT THAT HE WAS WORRIED BY SOME PAST DECISIONS, ALTHOUGH THE GOC HAD EVERY RIGHT

TO MAKE THEM. THE UNITED STATES HOPED THE CHILEAN MILITARY REGIME COULD FULFILL A HISTORIC ROLE OF HAVING SAVED CHILE FROM COMMUNISM AND NOW MAKING IT A DEMOCRACY. HE SAID THAT HE UNDERSTOOD CHILEAN CONCERNS WITH SUBVERSION AND TERRORISM, BUT THAT DELAYS ON THE TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY WORKED TO THE ADVANTAGE OF THESE ELEMENTS, AND THAT COOPERATION BETWEEN THE MILITARY AND THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION WAS NEEDED. THE USG WAS NOT INTERVENING INTERNALLY AGAINST THE CURRENT REGIME, MR. ABRAMS DECLARED:

INDEED THERE WAS MUCH CRITICISM IN CONGRESS OF ALLEGED SUPPORT FOR THE CURRENT REGIME ON DEFENSE AND ECONOMIC MATTERS. WE WILL CONTINUE TO COOPERATE FULLY ON THESE MATTERS REGARDLESS OF CRITICISM. THE USG IS AWARE THAT THE GOC HAD TO STRUGGLE AGAINST ELEMENTS WHO DO NOT WANT THE TRANSITION TO GO FORWARD AND BELIEVE THAT A DEMOCRACY CANNOT FIGHT COMMUNISM.

9. ENDING ON POSITIVE NOTE: MINISTER DEL VALLE CONCLUDED THAT THERE WAS MUCH THAT WAS POSITIVE IN MR. ABRAMS' WORDS AND INVITED HIM TO COME TO CHILE. U.S. POLICY LACKED SUBTLETY, HE CHARGED; WHILE THERE HAD BEEN A TRADITION OF CORDIALITY BETWEEN PARTIES AT TIMES OF GOVERNMENTAL SUCCESSION, IT WAS VERY DIFFICULT TO TRUST THE MARXISTS, AND WHILE THERE COULD BE DIALOGUE IN CHILE IT COULD NOT OCCUR UNDER FOREIGN PRESSURE. HE ASKED THAT HIS CRITICISM OF AMBASSADOR BARNES NOT BE TAKEN PERSONALLY, AND THAT HE WAS EAGER FOR THE AMBASSADOR'S SUCCESS, ALTHOUGH HE NEEDED TO BEHAVE MORE LIKE A GUEST IN CHILE. GILLESPIE

1. CONFIDENTIAL - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: AT HIS BILATERAL MEETING, DECEMBER 3, ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS AND CHILEAN FOREIGN MINISTER DEL VALLE EXCHANGED VIEWS ON CHILE'S PROGRESS TOWARDS DEMOCRACY. DEL VALLE OBJECTED TO THE USE OF "PRESSURE" BY USG TO URGE A TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY AND EXPRESSED SERIOUS CONCERN ABOUT AMBASSADOR BARNES' EARLY CONTACTS WITH THE OPPOSITION. ABRAMS REITERATED OUR SUPPORT FOR CIVILIAN RULE AND PARTICULARLY FOR AMBASSADOR BARNES. END SUMMARY

3. ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS AND CHILEAN FORMIN DEL VALLE MET IN CARTAGENA, DECEMBER 3. ALSO PRESENT ON THE U.S. SIDE WERE ARA DAS GELBARD, EMBOFF R. SANDERS (NOTETAKER). ACCOMPANYING DEL VALLE WERE RAUL SCHMITT JUAN LARRAIN AND AN ADDITIONAL FOREIGN MINISTRY OFFICIAL.

4. U.S./CHILEAN RELATIONS: MR. ABRAMS BEGAN THE MEETING BY EXPRESSING APPRECIATION FOR RECENT GOC ACTS OF COOPERATION WITH THE USG. HE MENTIONED THE QUICK ACCEPTANCE OF AMBASSADOR BARNES' CREDENTIALS BEFORE THE VISIT OF GENERAL WICKHAM, AND THE CONCLUSION OF THE NASA AGREEMENT ON EASTER ISLAND. MR. ABRAMS ADDED THAT THE USG WAS LOOKING FOR OTHER WAYS TO COOPERATE WITH THE GOC AND WANTED A GOOD RELATIONSHIP. DEL VALLE SAID THAT THE GOC WAS GLAD TO HELP. HE NOTED THAT IN THE MATTERS OF AMBASSADOR BARNES AND NASA THE GOC AND USG WERE BOTH ATTACKED BY THE OPPOSITION; INDEED ON THE NASA AGREEMENT, BY THE SAME OPPOSITION LEADERS WHO HAD GONE TO THE STATE DEPARTMENT IN WASHINGTON AND SPOKEN ILL OF CHILE. DEL VALLE THEN EXPRESSED THE HOPE THAT THE USG WOULD TAKE A MORE UNDERSTANDING VIEW OF CHILEAN PROBLEMS. HE SAID THAT THE MESSAGE WHICH HE RECEIVED FROM THE USG, IN THE FORM OF PRESIDENT REAGAN'S LETTER AND THE WORDS OF AMBASSADOR BARNES, WAS THAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD GIVE CHILE ITS FRIENDSHIP AS LONG AS STEPS TOWARDS DEMOCRATIZATION CONTINUED. THIS WAS, IN A WAY, A THREAT.

5. CHILEAN POLITICS: MINISTER DEL VALLE SAID THAT CHILE WANTS TO PROCEED TOWARDS DEMOCRACY AS THIS IS THE PERSONAL WISH OF PRESIDENT PINOCHET. DEL VALLE SAID HE WAS PERSONALLY COMMITTED TO DEMOCRACY AND WOULD QUIT IF THE GOC DEVIATED FROM THIS PATH. DEL VALLE LISTED THREE FUNDAMENTALS OF THE DEMOCRATIZATION PROCESS: FIRST, THE GOAL OF A RETURN TO FULL DEMOCRACY; SECOND, A PROMISED DATE FOR ELECTIONS AND THIRD, A QUICK PACE. HE NOTED THAT THERE WAS WORK TO BE DONE ON NINE COMPLEMENTARY LAWS INCLUDING LAWS CONCERNING ELECTIONS, PARTIES AND CONGRESS. HOWEVER, IF TERRORISM OR SUBVERSION SO REQUIRED, DEL VALLE CONTINUED, THE GOC WOULD NOT HESITATE TO IMPOSE A STATE OF SIEGE OR CHANGE THE DATE OF ELECTIONS EVEN AT THE RISK OF MAKING THE UNITED STATES OR THE EUROPEANS UNHAPPY. DEL VALLE SAID THAT HE COULD NOT UNDERSTAND WHY THE USG IS SO CONCERNED WITH VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, BUT NOT IN MEXICO; MEXICO HAS WORSE VIOLATIONS THAN CHILE AND IN ADDITION THE SITUATION IN CHILE IS CHANGING, HE SAID, BUT THAT IN MEXICO IT NEVER CHANGES. USG PRESSURE ON CHILE'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS WAS WORTHLESS, DEL VALLE INSISTED, AND WOULD DESTROY THE WORK OF MANY MEN OF GOOD WILL. IT WAS COUNTER-PRODUCTIVE AND PINOCHET WOULD REACT BY HARDENING HIS POSITION. HE SAID THAT A PART OF PRESIDENT REAGAN'S LETTER WHICH SEEMED TO IMPOSE PRE-CONDITIONS TO CONTINUING FRIENDSHIP WAS NOT FITTING, AND HE WAS SURE THE PRESIDENT HAD NOT APPROVED THIS PARAGRAPH. THE U.S. HAD TOPPLED A NUMBER OF PRO-U.S. GOVERNMENTS IN THE LAST YEARS; IN EVERY SINGLE CASE, THE SUCCESSOR REGIME WAS WORSE, AND WE SHOULD LEARN FROM THIS.

6. AMBASSADOR BARNES: DEL VALLE SAID THAT AMBASSADOR BARNES HAD ACTED IMPROPERLY WHEN ONLY SIX DAYS AFTER HE ARRIVED, AT A TIME WHEN HE HAD NOT YET MET WITH ALL GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, HE VISITED THE BAR ASSOCIATION, A CENTER OF OPPOSITION WHICH HAD CONSISTENTLY MAGNIFIED PROBLEMS. MR. DEL VALLE ALSO CRITICIZED BARNES' PUBLIC CONTACT WITH GABRIEL VALDES INCLUDING ACTUALLY VISITING VALDES' OFFICE. WHILE HE ACCEPTED AMBASSADOR BARNES' RIGHT TO SPEAK TO WHOM HE PLEASED, A CERTAIN DECORUM IS EXPECTED OF ONE IN HIS POSITION. MINISTER DEL VALLE SAID THAT PRESIDENT PINOCHET WAS A COMPLETE ANTI-COMMUNIST AND THAT UNDER PRESIDENT PINOCHET CHILE HAD ACHIEVED MANY THINGS: IT HAD SIGNED A PEACE TREATY WITH ARGENTINA, AND RESOLVED BOUNDARY PROBLEMS WITH PERU. ACCORDINGLY, HE SHOULD BE BELIEVED WHEN HE SAID THAT HE WILL RESTORE DEMOCRACY. HE REITERATED THE USELESSNESS OF PRESSURE AGAINST CHILE AND STATED THAT AMBASSADOR BARNES CANNOT BE BOTH AN AMBASSADOR AND "AN INSPECTOR GENERAL OF CHILEAN CONDUCT." HE SAID PRESIDENT PINOCHET WAS PERSONALLY DISPLEASED, AND ATTRIBUTED THE INSPECTOR GENERAL COMMENT TO PINOCHET.

7. ABRAMS' REPLY: MR. ABRAMS RESPONDED TO THIS LONG EMOTIONAL, FINGER-POINTING MONOLOGUE BY NOTING THAT HE WAS ABOUT TO TESTIFY BEFORE CONGRESS ON DECEMBER 5 WHERE IRONICALLY HE WOULD BE ATTACKED FOR BEING TOO SUPPORTIVE OF CHILE AT THE WORLD BANK. THE CRITICISM WOULD BE THAT WHEN IT COUNTED, ESPECIALLY IN MILITARY AND ECONOMIC RELATIONS, THE USG BACKED PINOCHET. HE SAID THAT AMBASSADOR BARNES' INSTRUCTIONS WERE TO SUPPORT THE TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AND TO SPEAK TO ALL ELEMENTS IN CHILEAN SOCIETY IN ORDER TO UNDERSTAND THE COUNTRY AND EXPLAIN THE SITUATION TO WASHINGTON. HE STATED THAT AFTER AMBASSADOR BARNES COMPLETES HIS TOUR IN CHILE, THE CHILEANS WILL REALIZE JUST HOW USEFUL IT WAS TO HAVE HIM THERE. BARNES WAS A COMPLETE PROFESSIONAL OF THE HIGHEST COMPETENCE AND INTELLIGENCE, AND WAS PARTICULARLY WELL REGARDED BY THE SECRETARY, WHO HAD EXPRESSED HIS TOTAL CONFIDENCE IN BARNES ONLY THE PREVIOUS DAY IN HIS PRESS CONFERENCE. MR. ABRAMS SAID THAT HE PERSONALLY WAS NO SYMPATHIZER WITH THE TYPICAL ATTACKS AGAINST CHILE. PRESIDENT PINOCHET HAD BROKEN THE BREZHNEV DOCTRINE AND WOULD BE ATTACKED BY THE COMMUNISTS UNTIL THE LAST DAY OF HIS LIFE. WE WANT ONLY A TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AND ARE NOT OPPONENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

MR. ABRAMS NOTED THAT WHILE A NUMBER OF GOVERNMENTS IN THE WORLD HAD NOT ACHIEVED DEMOCRACY, AS DEL VALLE HAD SAID, THE CLOSER CASES WERE ENCOURAGING: URUGUAY, ARGENTINA, AND BRAZIL. THERE, MILITARY GOVERNMENTS HAD MADE A SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. HE SAID THAT HE WAS DISTURBED BY THE IMPLICATIONS FOR CHILE OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN EXAMPLE, WHERE A GOVERNMENT WHICH PERHAPS WANTS TO DO WHAT IS RIGHT, HAS WAITED TOO LONG. MR. ABRAMS ADDED THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS NO SCHEDULE OR PLAN FOR THE CHILEAN TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AS WE HAD TOLD THE OPPOSITION. HE SAID THAT THIS MUST COME FROM THE CHILEANS BUT THAT HE WAS WORRIED BY SOME PAST DECISIONS, ALTHOUGH THE GOC HAD EVERY RIGHT TO MAKE THEM. THE UNITED STATES HOPED THE CHILEAN MILITARY REGIME COULD FULFILL A HISTORIC ROLE OF HAVING SAVED CHILE FROM COMMUNISM AND NOW MAKING IT A DEMOCRACY. HE SAID THAT HE UNDERSTOOD CHILEAN CONCERNS WITH SUBVERSION AND TERRORISM, BUT THAT DELAYS ON THE TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY WORKED TO THE ADVANTAGE OF THESE ELEMENTS, AND THAT COOPERATION BETWEEN THE MILITARY AND THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION WAS NEEDED. THE USG WAS NOT INTERVENING INTERNALLY AGAINST THE CURRENT REGIME, MR. ABRAMS DECLARED: INDEED THERE WAS MUCH CRITICISM IN CONGRESS OF ALLEGED SUPPORT FOR THE CURRENT REGIME ON DEFENSE AND ECONOMIC MATTERS. WE WILL CONTINUE TO COOPERATE FULLY ON THESE MATTERS REGARDLESS OF CRITICISM. THE USG IS AWARE THAT THE GOC HAD TO STRUGGLE AGAINST ELEMENTS WHO DO NOT WANT THE TRANSITION TO GO FORWARD AND BELIEVE THAT A DEMOCRACY CANNOT FIGHT COMMUNISM.

9. ENDING ON POSITIVE NOTE: MINISTER DEL VALLE CONCLUDED THAT THERE WAS MUCH THAT WAS POSITIVE IN MR. ABRAMS' WORDS AND INVITED HIM TO COME TO CHILE. U.S. POLICY LACKED SUBTLETY, HE CHARGED; WHILE THERE HAD BEEN A TRADITION OF CORDIALITY BETWEEN PARTIES AT TIMES OF GOVERNMENTAL SUCCESSION, IT WAS VERY DIFFICULT TO TRUST THE MARXISTS, AND WHILE THERE COULD BE DIALOGUE IN CHILE IT COULD NOT OCCUR UNDER FOREIGN PRESSURE. HE ASKED THAT HIS CRITICISM OF AMBASSADOR BARNES NOT BE TAKEN PERSONALLY, AND THAT HE WAS EAGER FOR THE AMBASSADOR'S SUCCESS, ALTHOUGH HE NEEDED TO BEHAVE MORE LIKE A GUEST IN CHILE. GILLESPIE

SUBJECT: ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS' NOV. 27 MEETING WITH GABRIEL VALDES

1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: IN A 45-MINUTE MEETING NOV. 27 WITH ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS, CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC) PRESIDENT GABRIEL VALDES EXPRESSED APPRECIATION FOR RECENT EXPRESSIONS OF US SUPPORT FOR CHILE'S RETURN TO DEMOCRACY, STRESSING THE SIGNIFICANCE THE US ATTITUDE HAS FOR THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION. WHILE ASSURING ABRAMS THAT HE REMAINED OPTIMISTIC, VALDES PAINTED A BLEAK PICTURE OF CHILE'S PROSPECTS FOR SUCCESSFULLY TRANSITING

THE PERIOD AHEAD, NOTING THAT PINOCHET'S CONTINUED INTRANSIGENCE HAS LENT CREDENCE TO THE COMMUNIST THESIS. REFERRING TO CRITICISM BY RIGHTIST PARTIES IN THE ACCORD OF THE NOV. 21 PROTEST MEETING, VALDES DECLARED THAT THE PDC COULD NOT ABANDON THE STREETS TO ANYONE. ABRAMS URGED VALDES TO ENSURE THAT THE POLITICAL PARTIES IN THE ACCORD MAINTAIN A CLEAR POSITION IN FAVOR OF DIALOGUE. ABRAMS EXPLAINED US EFFORTS ON BEHALF OF RESCHEDULING CHILE'S DEBT WERE INTENDED TO REVIVE THE CHILEAN ECONOMY IN ORDER TO HELP THE CHILEAN PEOPLE, NOT PROP UP THE GOVERNMENT. PDC BOARD MEMBER ALEJANDRO FOXLEY, WHO ACCOMPANIED VALDES, COMMENTED THAT US SIGNALS OF SUPPORT FOR DEMOCRACY, ALTHOUGH POSITIVE, HAD NOT GOTTEN THROUGH TO THE MILITARY. END SUMMARY.

3. ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS MET WITH VALDES AND FOXLEY FOR ABOUT 45 MINUTES ON NOVEMBER 27. MUCH OF THE MEETING WAS DEVOTED TO A LENGTHY DESCRIPTION BY VALDES OF THE CURRENT SITUATION IN CHILE. VALDES WARNED THAT IN THE PRESENT CLIMATE, CHILE "WOULD NOT LAST" UNTIL THE PROMISED TRANSITION IN 1989. AS HE DESCRIBED THE SITUATION:

--PINOCHET WAS MORE INTRANSIGENT THAN EVER. WITH THE ACCORD, HE HAD BECOME MORE ISOLATED AND HAD DEVELOPED A "BUNKER MENTALITY".

--TENSION AND VIOLENCE HAD INCREASED. TERRORISM WAS ON THE RISE. PERHAPS SEVERAL THOUSAND PEOPLE WERE INVOLVED NOW IN TERRORIST ACTIONS. BECAUSE OF UNCERTAINTY ABOUT THE FUTURE, NEW INVESTMENT WAS NOT TAKING PLACE. THE PROBLEM OF POVERTY WAS TERRIBLE, WITH 20-30 UNEMPLOYED,
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

MANY OF THEM YOUNG PEOPLE.

--THE NATIONAL ACCORD WAS SIGNED TO PROMOTE DIALOGUE, NOT CONFRONTATION, BUT THE GOVERNMENT HAD NOT ACCEPTED THIS GREAT POSSIBILITY. BECAUSE OF THEIR PARTICIPATION IN THE ACCORD, THE GOVERNMENT PRIVATELY HAD PUT A GREAT DEAL OF PRESSURE ON THE NATIONAL PARTY AND THE MUN, INCLUDING

ECONOMIC PRESSURE. GOVERNMENT ATTACKS AGAINST THE PDC TOOK PLACE OUT IN THE OPEN, AS THE GOC PUBLICLY HAD ATTACKED THE PARTY AND ITS HISTORY.

--PINOCHET'S UNWILLINGNESS TO TALK TO THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION GAVE MORE CREDENCE TO THE COMMUNIST THESIS. THERE WERE PRESSURES FOR MOBILIZATION COMING FROM THE RANK AND FILE. THE PDC COULD NOT CONCEDE THE STREETS TO OTHERS. THEY HAD DECIDED TO SPONSOR THE PROTEST RALLY IN ORDER TO PREEMPT THE LEFT, WHICH HAD PLANNED A BIG DEMONSTRATION FOR LATE NOVEMBER. TO MOVE AHEAD THE OPPOSITION HAD TO PLAY VARIOUS CARDS, INCLUDING BOTH MOBILIZATION AND DIALOGUE.

--RECENT US SIGNALS OF SUPPORT FOR A RETURN TO DEMOCRACY WERE VERY POSITIVE. THE RAPID REACTION TO WHAT GENERAL SCHWEITZER HAD SAID CORRECTED THE DAMAGE DONE. AMBASSADOR BARNES AND HIS DCM HAD MADE A VERY POSITIVE IMPRESSION. THE AMBASSADOR'S STATEMENT DURING HIS PRESENTATION OF CREDENTIALS WAS EXCELLENT.

4. VALDES COMMENTED THAT IN ADDITION TO DETERMINING HOW TO DEAL WITH PINOCHET, CHILEAN DEMOCRACY FACED ANOTHER LONG TERM PROBLEM WITH THE QUESTION OF THE FUTURE ROLE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY. VALDES SAID THAT THE PDC BELIEVES THAT THE COMMUNIST PARTY MUST HAVE A LEGAL LIFE AT SOME FUTURE DATE. THE PARTY IS STRONG IN THE UNIVERSITIES, SECOND ONLY TO THE PDC, AND HAS DEVELOPED A NEW GENERATION OF EFFECTIVE LEADERS. VALDES NOTED THAT THE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

MILITARY HAD REFUSED TO AGREE TO A FUTURE ROLE FOR THE COMMUNISTS SO THE COMMUNISTS HAD ADOPTED A PROLONGED WAR STRATEGY. TO CARRY THIS OUT, ACTIVISTS WERE ARRIVING FROM ABROAD TO CHILE, FROM PLACES LIKE NICARAGUA AND EAST BERLIN. VALDES SPECULATED THAT PERHAPS ONE TACTIC WOULD BE FOR THE PARTY TO RECONSTITUTE ITSELF UNDER A DIFFERENT NAME.

5. FOXLEY OBSERVED THAT THE CURRENT PSYCHOLOGICAL CLIMATE COULD LEAD TO A SELF-FULFILLING PROPHECY: CONTINUED INTRANSIGENCE ON THE PART OF THE GOVERNMENT

WOULD ALMOST CERTAINLY PRODUCE AN ENVIRONMENT IN WHICH CONSENSUS WOULD PROVE IMPOSSIBLE TO ACHIEVE. WITH THE ACCORD, PINOCHET HAS LOST FACE AND HAS DEVELOPED A BUNKER MENTALITY, WHICH COULD PRODUCE IRRATIONAL ACTION ON HIS PART.

6. ASKED BY FOXLEY HOW THE US VIEWED DEVELOPMENTS IN CHILE, ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS COMMENTED THAT THE ACCORD HAD CHANGED THE SITUATION CONSIDERABLY; PINOCHET'S POSITION WAS NOW MORE DIFFICULT. LOGICALLY, THE DAY WOULD COME WHEN THE CHILEAN ARMED FORCES REACHED THE CONCLUSION THAT THEIR INSTITUTIONAL INTERESTS DID NOT COINCIDE WITH THOSE OF PINOCHET. HE CAUTIONED, HOWEVER, THAT THE US KNEW VERY LITTLE ABOUT MILITARY ATTITUDES.

7. ABRAMS ADDED THAT THE PARTIES IN THE ACCORD HAD DONE VERY WELL TO ADOPT A FORWARD POSITION ON DIALOGUE, AND URGED THAT THEY MAINTAIN THAT POSITION TO MAKE CLEAR THAT THE OBSTACLE WAS THE GOVERNMENT. IN GENERAL, THE SITUATION APPEARED TO BE IMPROVING IN CHILE.

8. ABRAMS ALSO OBSERVED THAT THE US HAD PERCEIVED THE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

NEED TO CLARIFY ITS POSITION OF SUPPORT FOR A TRANSITION AND HAD DONE SO. BUT THE US HAD SUPPORTED THE RENOGOTIATION OF CHILE'S DEBT BECAUSE WE DID NOT WANT TO ATTACK THE CHILEAN ECONOMY IN ORDER TO PRESS FOR A TRANSITION. US EFFORTS TO HELP REVIVE CHILE'S ECONOMY WERE DESIGNED TO HELP THE CHILEAN PEOPLE, NOT SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT.

9. AS THE MEETING DREW TO A CLOSE, FOXLEY OBSERVED THAT THE HIERARCHICAL STRUCTURE OF THE MILITARY AND THE LACK OF SOPHISTICATION OF MANY OFFICERS MADE IT DIFFICULT TO SEND SUBTLE MESSAGES TO THE MILITARY. HE ADDED THAT PINOCHET HAD BEEN QUITE SUCCESSFUL IN EXPLAINING REPEATED US STATEMENTS IN FAVOR OF DEMOCRACY TO THE OFFICER CORPS AS MERE LIPSERVICE TO THIS IDEAL. THE ARGUMENT WENT THAT REAL US POLICY WAS DICTATED BY REALPOLITIK, AND THEREFORE THE ARMED FORCES SHOULD LOOK AT HOW THE US UNDERSTANDS ITS ECONOMIC AND MILITARY INTERESTS TO DETERMINE REAL US

POLICY. FOXLEY SAID THAT A CENTRAL QUESTION FOR THE US TO CONSIDER WAS HOW BEST TO COMMUNICATE SIGNALS TO PEOPLE "WHO HAVE THE SKIN OF ELEPHANTS." HE CONCLUDED THAT THE SIGNALS SENT SO FAR, ALTHOUGH POSITIVE, HAVE NOT GOTTEN THROUGH. ABRAMS PROMISED TO CONSIDER ADDITIONAL MEANS OF MAKING OUR CONCERNS KNOWN TO THE CHILEAN ARMED FORCES. SHULTZ

ASSEMBLY ADOPTED RESOLUTIONS ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN AFGHANISTAN, IRAN, EL SALVADOR, GUATEMALA, AND CHILE. THE RESOLUTIONS ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN AFGHANISTAN AND IRAN WERE UNPRECEDENTED, AND THEIR ADOPTION REPRESENTS A SIGNIFICANT BREAK FROM THE UNGA'S PRACTICE OF SELECTIVELY CONSIDERING HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATIONS IN A FEW LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES. END SUMMARY.

2. IN A MARATHON MEETING ENDING EARLY MORNING DECEMBER 7, THIRD COMMITTEE TOOK ACTION ON FIVE COUNTRY-SPECIFIC RESOLUTIONS BASED ON REPORTS OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEURS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION. BEFORE THE VOTING, SYRIA MADE A PROCEDURAL MOTION TO PREVENT ACTION ON THE RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING BOTH AFGHANISTAN AND IRAN. THE COMMITTEE DECIDED BY VOTE OF 60(U.S.)-37-16 THAT THE SYRIAN MOTION WAS NOT RECEIVABLE.

3. RESULTS OF THE VOTING ON THE RESOLUTIONS WERE AS FOLLOWS:

HUMAN RIGHTS IN AFGHANISTAN: 75(U.S.)-23(AFGHANISTAN, ANGOLA, BENIN, BULGARIA, BYELORUSSIA, CUBA, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, DEMOCRATIC YEMEN, ETHIOPIA, GDR, HUNGARY, INDIA, LAOS, LIBYA, MONGOLIA, NICARAGUA, POLAND, ROMANIA, SYRIA, UKRAINE, USSR, TANZANIA, VIETNAM)-33.

HUMAN RIGHTS IN IRAN: 53(U.S.)-22-41.

HUMAN RIGHTS IN EL SALVADOR: AFTER HUNGARIAN CHAIRMAN UNEXPECTEDLY PUT THE RESOLUTION TO A VOTE, U.S. DEL NOTED THAT WE HAD BEEN PREPARED TO JOIN CONSENSUS AND ASKED WHICH DELEGATION HAD REQUESTED THE VOTE. CHAIRMAN SAID HE HAD BEEN UNDER THE IMPRESSION A VOTE HAD BEEN

REQUESTED BUT WAS UNABLE TO NAME THE DELEGATION WHICH MADE THE REQUEST. A U.S. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OF THE RESOLUTION WAS THEN CARRIED BY VOTE OF 59(U.S.)-22(SOVIET BLOC)-17. SOVIET DELEGATION THEN FORMALLY REQUESTED A VOTE ON THE RESOLUTION, AND IT WAS ADOPTED BY VOTE OF 92-3(CHILE, GUATEMALA, INDONESIA)-38(U.S.). EL SALVADOR DID NOT PARTICIPATE IN THE VOTE.

HUMAN RIGHTS IN GUATEMALA: 85-6(CHILE, EL SALVADOR, GUATEMALA, MOROCCO, INDONESIA, PAKISTAN)-40(U.S.).

HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE: 82-9(CHILE, EL SALVADOR, GUATEMALA, INDONESIA, MOROCCO, PAKISTAN, PARAGUAY, THAILAND, U.S.)-38.

4. DETAILED BREAKDOWN OF ALL VOTES, USUN ANALYSIS, AND TEXT OF U.S. EXPLANATIONS OF VOTE ON EL SALVADOR, CHILE, AND GUATEMALA WILL FOLLOW BY SEPTELS.

SUBJECT: ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS' DEC. 5 TESTIMONY ON CHILE BEFORE HOUSE BANKING SUBCOMMITTEE

REF: STATE 36902 (NOTAL)

1. SUMMARY: ARA ASSISTANT SECRETARY ELLIOTT ABRAMS TESTIFIED DEC. 5 BEFORE THE HOUSE BANKING SUBCOMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTIONS AND FINANCE ON US POLICY TOWARD CHILE, FOCUSING ON HUMAN RIGHTS AND US VOTING POLICY ON LOANS TO CHILE IN THE INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS (IFIS). ABRAMS WAS JOINED BY

TREASURY DEPT. DEPUTY ASSISTANT SECRETARY JAMES CONROW AND HA/HR DIRECTOR JAMES THYDEN, WHO WERE PRESENT TO RESPOND TO MEMBERS' QUESTIONS. THIS MESSAGE PROVIDES HIGHLIGHTS OF MR. ABRAMS' ORAL TESTIMONY. END SUMMARY.

2. SUBCOMM1TTEE CHAIRMAN STAN LUNDINE HAD CALLED THE HEARING IN ORDER TO EXAMINE THE APPLICATION IN THE CASE OF CHILE OF SECTION 701 OF THE INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS ACT STATING THAT THE US EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS ARE TO BE INSTRUCTED TO OPPOSE LOANS TO COUNTRIES IN WHICH THERE IS DETERMINED TO BE "A PATTERN OF GROSS VIOLATIONS OF INTERNATIONALLY RECOGNIZED HUMAN RIGHTS." THE ONLY OTHER WITNESS WAS SENATOR TOM HARKIN, WHO HAD AUTHORED THE LEGISLATION. MEMBERS PRESENT THROUGHOUT ALL OR A PORTION OF THE HEARING WERE CHAIRMAN LUNDINE, RANKING MINORITY MEMBER BEREUTER, AND REPRESENTATIVES KOLBE, MCMILLAN, LEVIN, TORRES, MCCANDLESS, AND MORRISON.

3. IN HIS TESTIMONY, SENATOR HARKIN DISCUSSED CONGRESSIONAL INTENT IN SECTION 701 AND DESCRIBED HIS VIEW OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE. HE SAID THAT CONGRESS HAD NOT MEANT TO GIVE THE EXECUTIVE BLANKET AUTHORITY FOR APPLYING SECTION 701, BUT HAD IN MIND A SET OF COMMON SENSE GUIDELINES THAT SHOULD BE USED IN DETERMINING A PATTERN OF GROSS VIOLATIONS. BY GROSS VIOLATIONS, HARKIN SAID CONGRESS HAD MEANT VIOLATIONS AGAINST THE PHYSICAL INTEGRITY OF INDIVIDUALS THAT WERE SIGNIFICANT IN IMPACT. BY PATTERN, HARKIN SAID IT WAS MEANT THAT VIOLATIONS BE SIGNIFICANT IN NUMBER AND RECURRING. HARKIN ADDED THAT CONGRESS HAD NOT INTENDED THAT IMPROVEMENTS IN A BAD HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION BE USED

TO MAKE A DETERMINATION THAT A PATTERN DOES NOT EXIST. AT THE SAME TIME, HARKIN CITED STATISTICS SOURCED TO THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATION TO ARGUE THAT THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE HAD NOT IMPROVED SINCE THE STATE OF SIEGE WAS LIFTED THIS JUNE. HARKIN DECLARED THAT ENFORCEMENT OF SECTION 701 SHOULD BE ACHIEVED THROUGH EXERCISING COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT OF THE EXECUTIVE. HE DESCRIBED THE NATIONAL ACCORD AGREEMENT AMONG OPPOSITION POLITICAL PARTIES IN CHILE AS DRAMATIC MOVEMENT AND URGED THAT THE ADMINISTRATION ASSIST THE FORCES OF DEMOCRACY BY BACKING ITS VOICE WITH ITS VOTES IN THE MULTILATERAL DEVELOPMENT BANKS.

4. BEFORE ABRAMS DELIVERED HIS TESTIMONY, LUNDINE, BEREUTER AND TORRES MADE BRIEF REMARKS. LUNDINE LIMITED HIMSELF TO INTRODUCTORY COMMENTS. BEREUTER QUESTIONED WHETHER SECTION 701 PROVIDED ADEQUATE BASIS FOR MEASURING IMPROVEMENT IN HUMAN RIGHTS. HE COMMENTED THAT THE CONGRESS COULD DO A BETTER JOB OF WRITING THIS LAW DECLARING THAT IT WAS TIME TO LOOK AT CHANGING 701. TORRES CLOSED HIS COMMENTS BY ASSERTING THAT THE US WAS NOT PERCEIVED AS BEING ON THE SIDE OF DEMOCRACY IN CHILE.

5. ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS THEN FOLLOWED. AFTER HIS PREPARED STATEMENT WAS INSERTED IN THE RECORD, ABRAMS MADE A BRIEF ORAL STATEMENT, STRESSING THESE POINTS:

--THE US WAS USING ITS INFLUENCE TO PROMOTE DEMOCRACY AND HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE. BOTH THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT AND DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION UNDERSTOOD THIS. AT A MEETING THIS WEEK IN COLOMBIA DURING THE OAS GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ITS FOREIGN MINISTER HAD COMPLAINED ABOUT US INTERFERENCE IN CHILE'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS. AT A MEETING A WEEK AGO DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE PRESIDENT GABRIEL VALDES MADE IT CLEAR THAT THE OPPOSITION KNOWS WHERE THE US STANDS, AND THAT US HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY TOWARDS CHILE WAS GENERALLY
~~LIMITED OFFICIAL USE~~

~~LIMITED OFFICIAL USE~~

APPRECIATED BY THE OPPOSITION.

--NOT ONLY WAS US POLICY INCREASINGLY CLEAR TO ALL CONCERNED, BUT IT WAS BEGINNING TO WORK. GENERALLY THE FEELING WAS THAT AFTER A LONG FREEZE THE ICE IS CRACKING IN CHILE. THE UNITY OF THE OPPOSITION APPARENT IN THE NATIONAL ACCORD WAS A MAJOR POSITIVE DEVELOPMENT, SOMETHING THE US HAD WORKED TO ENCOURAGE.

--CONGRESSMAN BEREUTER WAS RIGHT THAT SECTION 701 AS WRITTEN WAS NOT A GOOD PIECE OF LEGISLATION. IT WAS NOT APPROPRIATE TO MAKE ECONOMIC WAR ON CHILE. IMPOVERISHING THE COUNTRY WAS NOT THE MEANS TO MAKE ADVANCES IN HUMAN RIGHTS AND BRING ABOUT A TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY.

6. DURING THE QUESTION AND ANSWER PERIOD, REPRESENTATIVE LEVIN GRILLED ABRAMS ON WHETHER THE US VOTING RECORD IN THE IFIS ON CHILE WAS CONSISTENT WITH THE STATUTE. ABRAMS NOTED THAT NO ADMINISTRATION HAD EVER DETERMINED THAT A COUNTRY HAD A PATTERN OF GROSS VIOLATIONS ACCORDING TO SECTION 701. HE OBSERVED THAT THIS DETERMINATION WAS A JUDGMENT CALL AND IN THAT SENSE THE ADMINISTRATION HAD CERTAIN FLEXIBILITY IN APPLYING THE LAW. ABRAMS NOTED THAT AT THE SAME TIME THE ADMINISTRATION TOOK INTO ACCOUNT STATUTORY CRITERIA IN DETERMINING ITS VOTES, IT ALSO CONSIDERED OTHER ELEMENTS OF POLICY, SUCH AS OVERALL HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY.

7. ASKED BY LEVIN WHAT OUTRAGED HIM REGARDING THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE, ABRAMS NOTED THAT THE EXECUTIVE DID NOT HAVE THE LUXURY TO EXPRESS OUTRAGE REGARDING HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES BUT INSTEAD SOUGHT TO ACHIEVE CHANGES IN THE REAL WORLD. PRESSED TO GIVE AN

EXAMPLE OF THE MOST EGREGIOUS ABUSE, ABRAMS REFERRED TO THE PERSISTENCE OF TORTURE BY SOME MEMBERS OF THE SECURITY FORCES, WHICH HE SAID COULD BE STOPPED BY THE GOVERNMENT. ABRAMS ADDED THAT WITH THIS EXCEPTION, ALL OTHER HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS TOOK SECOND PLACE TO ACHIEVING A SUCCESSFUL PEACEFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. THE GOAL OF US POLICY WAS TO SEE A SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION TO CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT.

8. IN RESPONSE TO A QUESTION BY TORRES, IN WHICH THE CONGRESSMAN RECALLED HIS MEETING LAST YEAR IN CHILE WITH PRESIDENT PINOCHET, ABRAMS STATED THAT US POLICY WAS CRYSTAL CLEAR: BOTH THE GOVERNMENT AND THE OPPOSITION UNDERSTOOD US PRESSURE FOR A RETURN TO DEMOCRACY. US POLICY WAS NOT TO CARRY OUT ECONOMIC WARFARE, OR APPLY PRESSURE INFLEXIBLY. HAVING MET PINOCHET, ABRAMS COMMENTED, TORRES SHOULD UNDERTAND THE IMPORTANCE OF EFFECTIVE TACTICS. ABRAMS QUESTIONED HOW THE CHARGE

COULD BE MADE THAT THE ADMINISTRATION HAD NO POLICY OF PROMOTING DEMOCRACY WHEN THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION HAD SUPPORTED SUCCESSFUL DEMOCRATIC TRANSITIONS IN URUGUAY, BRAZIL, ARGENTINA AND ELSEWHERE IN THE HEMISPHERE.

SUBJECT: HUMAN RIGHTS INQUIRY BY STAFF MEMBER FOR REPRESENTATIVE BARNES

REFS: A) SWIGERT-KEANE TELCON OF 12/6, B) SANTIAGO 8329

1. DEPT WAS CONTACTED LAST WEEK BY NANCY AGRIS, A MEMBER OF THE STAFF OF CONGRESSMAN MICHAEL BARNES, REGARDING THE ARRESTS OF TWO CHILEAN STUDENTS: JUAN CARLOS HERNANDES CORNEA (WHOSE FATHER WORKS AT FLACSO) AND FRANCISCO JAVIER GARRIDO CRINO. BOTH ARE STUDENTS AT THE ESCUELA SUPERIOR DE ARTES Y CLENCIAS SOCIALES AND WERE ARRESTED LAST WEEK. AGRIS SAID THAT EFFORTS BY PARENTS OF THE STUDENTS TO FILE HABEAS CORPUS (AMPARO) THROUGH THE COURTS HAD PRODUCED NO INFORMATION REGARDING THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE TWO, NOR ANY REASON FOR THEIR DETENTION. AGRIS ASKED THAT THE EMBASSY EXPRESS INTEREST REGARDING THE SITUATION OF THE TWO STUDENTS TO THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES.

2. DURING THE SAME PHONE CALL AGRIS REQUESTED ADDITIONAL INFORMATION REGARDING GOC LAND POLICIES AFFECTING THE

MAPUCHE INDIANS (REFS B AND C). IN PARTICULAR, AGRIS WANTED TO LEARN 1) WHAT GOC LAND OWNERSHIP POLICIES ARE IN EFFECT IN AREAS WITH LARGE MAPUCHE POPULATIONS AND THE PURPOSE OF SUCH POLICIES, I.E. REGIONAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT OR GREATER INTEGRATION OF MAPUCHE MINORITY?; 2) WHAT LEGAL MECHANISMS EXIST, IF ANY, TO APPEAL GOC ADMINISTRATIVE DECISIONS ON LAND TENURE DISPUTED BY MAPUCHE INDIANS; 3) EMBASSY JUDGMENT ON WHETHER THESE POLICIES NEGATIVELY AFFECT MAPUCHE INDIANS' ABILITY TO MAINTAIN TRADITIONS AND CUSTOMS.

3. ACTION REQUESTED: PLEASE RESPOND DIRECTLY TO AGRIS VIA H-PASS TELEGRAM. IN ADDRESSING MAPUCHE INDIAN QUESTION, IT MAY BE USEFUL TO PROVIDE HISTORICAL COMPARISON WITH POLICIES OF PREVIOUS CHILEAN GOVERNMENTS AFFECTING THE MAPUCHES, PARTICULARLY POLICIES ON LAND TENURE. SHULTZ

SUBJECT: 40TH UNGA: THIRD COMMITTEE RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE

REF: (A) USUN 3629 (B) STATE 371973

1. ENTIRE TEXT CONFIDENTIAL.

2. BEGIN SUMMARY.
- EMBASSY KEPT CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION PRESIDENT JAIME CASTILLO CLOSELY INFORMED OF DEVELOPMENTS ON UNGA RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, BOTH AS A COURTESY AND IN HOPES THAT HE MIGHT STIMULATE SOME MOVEMENT TOWARD A MORE MODERATE RESOLUTION. CASTILLO ADMITTED HIS EFFORTS HAD BEEN INEFFECTUAL AND EXPRESSED HOPE THAT HE AND WE COULD BE MORE SUCCESSFUL IN MARCH. END SUMMARY.
3. DCM CALLED JAIME CASTILLO DECEMBER 4 AND ASKED IF HE HAD SEEN THE TEXT OF MEXICAN DRAFT. HE HAD NOT AND SENT

OVER A MESSENGER TO PICK UP TEXT TAKEN FROM REF. A. DCM TOLD HIM WE HAD HOPED WE COULD CHANGE OUR VOTE THIS YEAR, BUT MEXICAN DRAFT LOOKED MUCH LIKE LAST YEAR'S AND, AMONG OTHER DEFECTS, CONTINUED TO BE OUT OF STEP WITH UNGA RESOLUTIONS ON OTHER COUNTRIES. CASTILLO SAID HE WOULD SEE WHAT HE COULD DO.

4. CASTILLO ASKED TO SEE DCM DECEMBER 7. DCM GAVE HIM COPY OF U.S. STATEMENT FROM REF. B AND TOLD HIM MEXICANS HAD SHOWN NO WILLINGNESS TO MAKE MORE THAN SUPERFICIAL CHANGES. THEREFORE WE HAD NO CHOICE BUT TO VOTE NO. HOWEVER, WE REMAIN CONVINCED THAT A CHANGE IN U.S. VOTE WOULD SEND A USEFUL SIGNAL TO THE GOC, AND WE HOPED THAT SPONSORS OF FUTURE RESOLUTIONS WOULD TAKE THAT INTO ACCOUNT. CASTILLO SAID HE STRONGLY AGREED ABOUT THE EFFECT OF A CHANGE IN U.S. POSITION AND AFTER DCM'S PHONE CALL HAD GOTTEN IN TOUCH WITH HIS PEOPLE IN NEW YORK. ASKED WHO THESE WERE, HE SAID THERE WERE TWO GROUPS, THE AMERICAN FRIENDS OF THE CHRC (GROUP HEADED BY CYRUS VANCE) AND CHILEANS LIVING IN NEW YORK, MOSTLY INVOLUNTARY EXILES. HE CLAIMED SOME ONE HAD APPROACHED A USUN OFFICER, WHOSE NAME UNFORTUNATELY HE DID NOT HAVE, WHO SAID HE HAD NO AUTHORITY TO DISCUSS CHANGES IN THE MEXICAN RESOLUTION. DCM POINTED OUT THAT AS NO OTHER COUNTRY HAD PRESENTED A DRAFT, MEXICANS WERE IN DRIVER'S SEAT AND WOULD HAVE HAD TO AGREE TO ANY CHANGES MADE. WE WOULD HAVE PREFERRED THAT CHRC'S FRIENDS DEAL WITH MEXICANS, NOT WITH US.

5. CASTILLO AGREED THAT ANOTHER EFFORT SHOULD BE MADE IN MARCH, WHEN UNHRC VOTES ON VOLIO'S FINAL REPORT, TO WORK OUT A RESOLUTION THAT WOULD PERMIT A CHANGE IN THE U.S. VOTE. HE DID NOT, HOWEVER, SPELL OUT WHAT HE WAS PREPARED TO DO TO BRING THIS ABOUT.

REPLY TO ATTN OF: ARSO - Robert R. Brand

SUBJECT: Reported Sighting of Missing Journalist

TO: DCM - Mr. Gamble

THRU: RSO - Mr. Wilson
CONS - Mr. Kerr

REF: [redacted] B1

Referenced subject came to the Embassy on Friday, December 6, at 10:15 a.m. and provided the following information.

He recently visited San Rafael petzal, Huehuetenango, and local peasants of the area advised him that approximately one month ago either Blake or Davis had been seen in the cities of Comitan and Trinitaria, Mexico, by those local peasants. It has been reported that this "reporter" has been travelling with Guatemalan guerillas in Mexico along the Guatemalan border. This area is controlled by EGP. [redacted] mentioned that the reporter, a gringo, was identified due to the leaflets that were dropped in this region previously. The gringo was described as tall and having a camera in his possession. He was also described as healthy looking, but this is the only physical description [redacted] could or would provide. B1 B1

[redacted] is from the Department of Huehuetenango and spends a great deal of time in Huehuetenango. I have no doubt that he has many contacts in this region, and he has a reputation as a reputable businessman. [redacted] has provided me with security information before, but upon investigation the information was only of a general nature. B1 B1

Upon completion of our conversation, [redacted] wanted to know if we could help with the release of a Guatemalan national from prison in El Paso, Texas, due to a violation of immigration law. Subject also advised that he would travel to Huehuetenango with an Embassy official, and he would cooperate in any other manner with the Embassy. B1

1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: SALVADOR ALLENDE'S WIDOW, HORTENSIA ALLENDE, HER DAUGHTER ISABEL, AND AN ESCORT FROM THE INSTITUTE FOR POLICY STUDIES (IPS) VISITED THE DEPARTMENT DECEMBER 10 AND MET WITH THE CHILE DESK OFFICER AND AN OFFICER FROM THE BUREAU OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND HUMANITARIAN AFFAIRS. MRS. ALLENDE REQUESTED THAT THE DEPARTMENT USE ITS INFLUENCE WITH THE GOC TO PRESS FOR THE RETURN OF ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CHILEAN EXILES, AND TO BRING ABOUT AN END TO THE DETENTIONS OF CHILEAN LABOR LEADERS AND JESUIT PRIEST RENATO HEVIA. SHE EXPRESSED SUPPORT FOR THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION'S NATIONAL ACCORD AND SAID SHE OPPOSED VIOLENCE AND TERRORISM. DEPTOFFS EXPLAINED US SUPPORT FOR CHILE'S TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY AND FOR IMPROVEMENT IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION, AND URGED MRS. ALLENDE TO MAKE HER OPPOSITION TO VIOLENCE WELL KNOWN. ALTHOUGH MRS. ALLENDE EXPRESSED UNHAPPINESS WITH US OPPOSITION TO THE CHILE HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTION THIS YEAR IN THE UN, SHE SEEMED TO ACKNOWLEDGE THAT THE US HAS IN FACT ADOPTED A CLEAR PUBLIC STAND IN SUPPORT OF CHILE'S RETURN TO DEMOCRACY. END SUMMARY.

2. IPS HAD REQUESTED AN APPOINTMENT FOR MRS. ALLENDE WITH ARA ASSISTANT SECRETARY ELLIOTT ABRAMS, BUT AGREED TO A MEETING INSTEAD WITH CHILE DESK OFFICER JIM SWIGERT. GEORGE LISTER OF HA ALSO PARTICIPATED. MRS. ALLENDE WAS ACCOMPANIED BY HER DAUGHTER ISABEL AND BY AN IPS STAFF MEMBER. SHE INDICATED THAT THIS WAS HER FIRST VISIT TO THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE. FYI: IPS AND THE "WORKING GROUP FOR DEMOCRACY IN CHILE" HAVE ORGANIZED A RECEPTION IN HONOR OF MRS. ALLENDE, WHICH HAS SENATOR HARKIN, AND REPRESENTATIVES BILL ALEXANDER, JOHN CONYERS, RONALD DELLUMS, DON EDWARDS, ROBERT KASTENMEIER, STAN LUNDINE, GEORGE MILLER, PATRICIA SCHROEDER, FORTNEY STARK, TED WEISS, AND GUS YATRON AS CO-SPONSORS. END FYI

3. AFTER EXPRESSING APPRECIATION FOR THE WILLINGNESS TO RECEIVE HER AT THE STATE DEPARTMENT, "EVEN AT THIS LEVEL," MRS. ALLENDE PROCEEDED TO RAISE SEVERAL HUMAN RIGHTS ISSUES. FIRST ON HER LIST WAS THE PROBLEM OF THE CHILEAN EXILES. SHE URGED THE US TO PRESSURE THE CHILEAN.

GOVERNMENT TO ALLOW ALL THOSE EXILED TO RETURN HOME. THE GOC COULD NOT OBJECT, SHE REASONED, SINCE THE EXILES DID NOT POSE A THREAT TO ANYONE. MRS. ALLENDE ALSO RAISED THE RECENT DETENTION OF JESUIT PRIEST RENATO HEVIA, THE EDITOR OF MENSAJE MAGAZINE, WHICH SHE CHARACTERIZED AS AN ARBITRARY DECISION. SHE ASKED THAT THE US INTERVENE WITH THE GOC TO SECURE HIS EARLY RELEASE. IN ADDITION, MRS.

ALLENDE REQUESTED THAT THE US USE ITS INFLUENCE ON BEHALF OF THE LABOR LEADERS ARRESTED FOLLOWING ANTI-GOVERNMENT PROTESTS THIS SEPTEMBER, SEVERAL OF WHOM REMAIN IN JAIL.

4. MRS. ALLENDE SAID THAT THE NATIONAL ACCORD WAS AN EVENT OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE. SHE HAD NOT SIGNED THE ACCORD, "SINCE SHE WAS NOT IN CHILE," BUT SHE SUPPORTED THE INITIATIVE. ALTHOUGH IT "WAS NOT PERFECT," THE ACCORD WAS AN IMPORTANT STEP FORWARD AND REPRESENTED AN ALTERNATIVE TO MORE DEATH AND VIOLENCE, WHICH SHE DID NOT WANT FOR HER COUNTRY. MRS. ALLENDE SAID THAT SHE STRONGLY OPPOSED VIOLENCE AND OPPOSED TERRORISM. SHE EXPRESSED APPRECIATION FOR STATE DEPARTMENT AND CONGRESSIONAL SUPPORT FOR THE ACCORD. SHE OBSERVED THAT THE NEW US AMBASSADOR IN CHILE HAD MADE A FAVORABLE IMPRESSION ON CHILE'S DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION, NOTING IN PARTICULAR THE STATEMENT HE HAD MADE DURING HIS PRESENTATION OF CREDENTIALS TO THE EFFECT THAT THE ILLS OF DEMOCRACY ARE CURED BY MORE DEMOCRACY. MRS. ALLENDE OBSERVED THAT THE MAJORITY OF CHILEANS WANT DEMOCRACY AND POINTED TO THE "PEACEFUL, ORDERLY" DEMONSTRATION ON NOVEMBER 21 AS PROOF OF THIS. THIS MEETING ATTRACTED THE LARGEST PARTICIPATION OF ANY DEMONSTRATION SINCE THE 1973 COUP. ACCORDING TO MRS. ALLENDE, AT LEAST 500,000 PARTICIPANTS TURNED OUT.

5. SWIGERT RESPONDED BY NOTING THAT THE US STRONGLY SUPPORTED CHILE'S TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY, AND HAD ATTEMPTED TO MAKE THIS POLICY CLEAR OVER RECENT MONTHS.
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

HE ADDED THAT THE US WAS CONCERNED ABOUT THE PERSISTENCE OF HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN CHILE, INCLUDING THE EXILE PROBLEM, AND WAS CLOSELY FOLLOWING THE CASES AGAINST THE LABOR LEADERS AND FATHER HEVIA. SWIGERT OBSERVED THAT US EFFORTS TO ASSIST IN SUCH MATTERS WERE NOT ALWAYS VISIBLE PUBLICLY, BECAUSE PUBLICITY COULD BE COUNTERPRODUCTIVE. HE ALSO NOTED THAT THE US ALSO CONSIDERED THE NATIONAL ACCORD A POSITIVE STEP.

6. ISABEL ALLENDE COMMENTED THAT THE ACCORD OFFERED HOPE THAT CHILE COULD AVOID POLARIZATION, BUT ADDED THAT TIME

WAS RUNNING OUT. IT WAS NECESSARY TO CAPTITALIZE QUICKLY ON THE POLITICAL SPACE THE ACCORD HAD WON. SHE NOTED THAT THERE WERE DIVISIONS AMONG THE PARTIES SUPPORTING THE ACCORD AND SAID THIS SHOULD BE EXPECTED FROM SUCH A DIVERSE GROUP. SOME PARTIES STRESSED SOCIAL MOBILIZATION AS THE WAY TO ADVANCE THE ACCORD; OTHERS PUT THE EMPHASIS ON DIALOGUE. RETURNING TO THE DANGER OF POLARIZATION, SHE COMMENTED THAT POVERTY HAD REACHED TERRIBLE PROPORTIONS IN CHILE AND THAT IF THE ACCORD DID NOT SUCCEED SOON IN BRINGING ABOUT NATIONAL RECONCILIATION, PROSPECTS FOR PEACEFUL RESOLUTION OF CHILE'S DIVISIONS WOULD DIMINISH DRASTICALLY. MRS. ALLENDE NODDED AGREEMENT AND THEN ASKED WHY THE US HAD NOT SUPPORTED HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTIONS ON CHILE IN THE UN AND OAS.

7. SWIGERT NOTED THAT THE USG WAS ALSO CONCERNED ABOUT THE DANGERS OF POLARIZATION AND THE STATE OF THE CHILEAN ECONOMY, AND FOR THAT REASON HAD SUPPORTED CHILE'S DEBT RESTRUCTURING IN THE INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS.

8. SWIGERT WENT OVER THE SAME POINTS MADE BY AMBASSADOR BYRNE IN HER EXPLANATION OF THE US VOTE IN THE UN,
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

STRESSING THE OPPORTUNITY PROVIDED BY THE VOLIO VISIT TO CHILE TO OBTAIN IMPROVEMENTS IN THE AREA OF HUMAN RIGHTS. HE COMMENTED THAT THOSE WHO BELIEVE THE US VOTE IS IMPORTANT COULD HELP THE US TO MODIFY ITS OPPOSITION BY ENCOURAGING A MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE. MRS. ALLENDE DID NOT REPLY DIRECTLY, BUT INSTEAD PREDICTED THAT THE VOTE IN FAVOR OF THE CHILE RESOLUTION WOULD INCREASE WHEN THE RESOLUTION IS VOTED ON IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. SHE MADE NO COMMENT ON SWIGERT'S EXPLANATION THAT US ABSTENTION ON THE CHILE-RELATED PARAGRAPH IN THE OAS OMNIBUS HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTION WAS DUE TO THE DEPARTURE FROM RECENT PRECEDENT THAT SUCH COUNTRY-SPECIFIC CRITICISM REPRESENTED.

9. LISTER OBSERVED THAT SUCH EXCHANGES OF VIEWS WERE USEFUL. REFERRING TO MRS. ALLENDE'S EARLIER COMMENTS OPPOSING VIOLENCE, LISTER ASKED IF THESE VIEWS WERE WELL KNOWN IN CHILE AND URGED THAT SHE STATE HER OPPOSITION

PUBLICLY. ISABEL ALLENDE REPLIED FOR HER MOTHER, INDICATING THAT MRS. ALLENDE HAD SPOKEN OUT ON THIS ISSUE PUBLICLY AND PROMISED TO FORWARD DESK OFFICER NEWSPAPER REPORTS OF SUCH STATEMENTS. AS MEETING CLOSED, DEPTOFFS REITERATED THE IMPORTANCE OF MAKING THIS OPPOSITION TO VIOLENCE WELL KNOWN.

10. COMMENT. THIS MEETING WAS MOST NOTEWORTHY FOR WHAT MRS. ALLENDE DID NOT SAY. ALTHOUGH SHE WAS CRITICAL OF US VOTES ON CHILE HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTIONS THIS YEAR, SHE DID NOT FAULT THE US FOR FAILURE TO ENCOURAGE CHILE'S RETURN TO DEMOCRACY AND SEEMED TO ACKNOWLEDGE THAT THE US HAS ADOPTED A CLEAR PUBLIC STAND IN FAVOR OF A DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION. SUBJECT: DECEMBER 8, 1985, HOMILY BY BISHOP ROSA CHAVEZ

1. SUMMARY

IN HIS HOMILY OF DECEMBER 8, 1985, AUXILIARY BISHOP GREGORIO ROSA CHAVEZ DECRIED SANDINISTA OPPRESSION OF THE NICARAGUA CHURCH AND THE CENSORING IN NICARAGUA OF THE POPE'S LETTER TO THE NICARAGUAN BISHOPS. ROSA CALLED ON THE FMLN GUERRILLAS TO RELEASE THE SALVADORAN MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS THEY ARE STILL HOLDING AND EXPRESSED HIS CONCERN THAT THEY MIGHT HAVE BEEN EXECUTED. HE SPOKE OF A POSITIVE MEETING HE HELD WITH SALVADORAN POLICE OFFICIALS REGARDING HUMAN RIGHTS MATTERS. IN ADDITION, BISHOP ROSA REPORTED ON THE WEEK'S VIOLENCE STATISTICS, AND SPOKE APPROVINGLY OF THE NATIONAL UNIVERSITY'S "DIALOGUE AND PEACE" FORUM BEING HELD DECEMBER 9-13. END SUMMARY.

2. THE NICARAGUAN CHURCH

ROSA CHAVEZ STATED THAT ARCHBISHOP RIVERA'S CONCERN OVER THE SITUATION OF THE CHURCH IN NICARAGUA IS SHARED BY THE REST OF THE CENTRAL AMERICAN BISHOPS. "HE EXPRESSED THIS CONCERN AT THE HIGHEST LEVEL DURING THE SYNOD PRESENTLY TAKING PLACE IN ROME," CONTINUED ROSA. "POPE JOHN PAUL II HAS PUBLICIZED AN OPEN LETTER ADDRESSED TO THE NICARAGUAN BISHOPS. IN IT THE HOLY FATHER REFERS TO THE INTIMIDATION AND TAUNTS THAT THE NICARAGUAN CHURCH HAS HAD TO ENDURE DUE TO THE DIFFERENT OBSTACLES THE SANDINISTA REGIME HAS PLACED IN THE WAY OF ITS PASTORAL MISSION. THE CATHOLICS OF THIS SUFFERING COUNTRY HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO READ THE LETTER BECAUSE THE GOVERNMENT HAS FORBIDDEN ITS PUBLICATION IN THE NEWSPAPER 'LA PRENSA' THIS WEEKEND. HOW DO YOU LIKE THAT? EVEN THE POPE IS SUBJECT TO CENSORSHIP."

1. THIRD COMMITTEE ADOPTED DRAFT RESOLUTION A/C.3/40/L.81 ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE EARLY AM DECEMBER 7 BY VOTE OF 82-9(U.S.)-38. AS INDICATED REFTELS, U.S. ONCE AGAIN VOTED AGAINST THE CHILE RESOLUTION BECAUSE IT DID NOT REFLECT SIGNIFICANT IMPROVEMENTS OVER THE 1984 RESOLUTION ON THIS SUBJECT. DESPITE OUR CLOSE CONTACTS WITH CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS AND EARLY CONSULTATIONS WITH POTENTIAL SOURCES OF MODERATION, COSPONSORS (LED BY MEXICO) WERE UNWILLING TO MAKE MAJOR CHANGES IN THE TEXT WHICH WOULD HAVE PROVIDED SUPPORT FOR SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FERNANDO VOLIO AND ALLOWED U.S. TO CHANGE OUR NEGATIVE VOTE TO AT LEAST AN ABSTENTION. TEXT OF U.S. EXPLANATION OF VOTE IS IN PARA 2, VOTING RESULT IS IN PARA 3, AND FINAL TEXT IS IN PARA 4.

2. TEXT OF EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON DRAFT RESOLUTION A/C.3/40/L.81 DELIVERED BY AMBASSADOR PATRICIA M. BYRNE IN THIRD COMMITTEE, DECEMBER 7, 1985:

MR. CHAIRMAN, I HAVE BEEN INSTRUCTED TO MAKE THIS EXPLANATION AT THE SAME TIME WE VOTE AGAINST THE RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE.

MY GOVERNMENT HAD HOPED TO FIND IT POSSIBLE TO CHANGE OUR VOTE ON THIS YEAR'S RESOLUTION ON CHILE.

UNCLASSIFIED

IN ANTICIPATION OF THIS VOTE, WE BEGAN CONSULTING WITH INTERESTED PARTIES WEEKS AGO IN THE HOPE THAT A MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION WOULD BE SUBMITTED REFLECTING THE REAL SITUATION IN CHILE, AND TAKING ACCOUNT OF ALL THE SERIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS THAT EXIST, BUT WITHOUT THE RHETORIC, HYPERBOLE AND POLITICAL COMMENTARY WHICH HAD CHARACTERIZED PREVIOUS RESOLUTIONS.

IT IS WITH DISAPPOINTMENT, THEN, THAT WE CAST THIS NEGATIVE VOTE, FOR THE UNITED STATES IS COMMITTED TO FOSTERING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE OBSERVANCE OF BASIC HUMAN RIGHTS AND IS DEEPLY CONCERNED ABOUT THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE. WE HAD HOPED THAT THE RESOLUTION ON CHILE WOULD OPENLY COMMEND THE CONSTRUCTIVE PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR AND RECOGNIZE IN MUCH MORE CERTAIN TERMS THOSE POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS THAT HAVE OCCURRED IN CHILE SINCE THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ASSUMED HIS DUTIES LAST WINTER, WHEN A STATE OF SIEGE WAS STILL IN EFFECT. MY GOVERNMENT BELIEVES THAT THE DECISION OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO COOPERATE THIS YEAR FOR THE FIRST TIME WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR IS SO IMPORTANT PRECISELY BECAUSE THIS MISSION PROVIDES AN OPPORTUNITY TO BRING ABOUT GENUINE IMPROVEMENTS ON OUR CONCERNS OVER HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE. CHILEAN GOVERNMENT AUTHORITIES HAVE PROVIDED ASSURANCES THAT THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR WILL BE FREE TO CONDUCT HIS UPCOMING VISIT TO CHILE AS HE WISHES. IN ADDITION, WE UNDERSTAND THAT THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT IS PREPARED TO CONSIDER THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN HIS PRELIMINARY REPORT. THESE RECOMMENDATIONS ADDRESS IN A SERIOUS AND CONSTRUCTIVE MANNER HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS IN CHILE. ALL PRESENT MUST BE AWARE THAT IN HIS REPORT THE RAPPORTEUR:

-- CALLED UPON THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE TO ACT ON ALLEGATIONS OF TORTURE AND AGAINST THOSE WHO VIOLATE HUMAN RIGHTS, AND RECOMMENDED AN IN-DEPTH REORGANIZATION OF THE POLICE;

-- ASKED FOR A RESOLUTION OF THE EXILE PROBLEM, REINVIGORATION OF THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM AND COMBATTING OF TERRORISM THROUGH REASONABLE ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING LEGISLATION;

-- CALLED FOR AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF ISSUING JUDGMENTS OF INTERNAL EXILE BY ADMINISTRATIVE DECREE AND ASKED THAT THE GOVERNMENT LET THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM REVIEW SUCH CASES; AND

-- CALLED ON THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO ENSURE SECURITY FOR ALL THOSE INVOLVED IN CHILE IN CHURCH AND HUMAN RIGHTS WORK, WHO HAVE RECENTLY BEEN SUBJECTED TO A SERIES OF UNSOLVED ASSAULTS.

THE FACT THAT THESE RECOMMENDATIONS ARE NEEDED ILLUSTRATES THE SERIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS THAT EXIST TODAY IN CHILE. IT IS THE HOPE OF MY GOVERNMENT THAT THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE ADOPTS ALL OF THESE RECOMMENDATIONS AND SEES TO THEIR PROMPT AND FULL IMPLEMENTATION.

CHILEAN AUTHORITIES COULD BEST SIGNAL THEIR INTENTION

TO DO SO BY TAKING EFFECTIVE AND PROMPT ACTIONS TO PUT AN END TO TORTURE BY SECURITY FORCES IN CHILE. TORTURE IS PERHAPS THE MOST EGREGIOUS ABUSE OF HUMAN RIGHTS THAT OCCURS IN CHILE AND MUST BE ENDED.

IT WAS OUR HOPE THAT THE VISIT TO CHILE BY THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR AND THE WILLINGNESS OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO CONSIDER HIS RECOMMENDATIONS WOULD PROVIDE A WELCOME OPPORTUNITY FOR THIS BODY TO ENCOURAGE SUCH PROGRESS ON HUMAN RIGHTS. WE REGRET THAT, INSTEAD, THE PRESENT RESOLUTION WILL PLAY INTO THE HANDS OF THOSE IN CHILE WHO ARGUE THAT INTERNATIONAL CONSIDERATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE IS DISCRIMINATORY AND WHO ASSERT THAT THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GAINED BY COOPERATING ON SUCH MATTERS, A REACTION THAT ONLY WORKS AGAINST THE PURPOSE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S VISIT.

WHILE WE OPPOSE THIS PARTICULAR RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, ABSENT A MAJOR CHANGE IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THAT COUNTRY, MY GOVERNMENT FAVORS THE RENEWAL OF THE MANDATE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR BY THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION AT ITS NEXT MEETING AND COMMENDS MR. VOLIO FOR HIS VERY EFFECTIVE WORK TO DATE. THANK YOU, MR. CHAIRMAN.

VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS WHEREVER THEY OCCUR,

NOTING THE OBLIGATION OF THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES TO RESPECT AND PROTECT HUMAN RIGHTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE INTERNATIONAL INSTRUMENTS TO WHICH CHILE IS A PARTY,

HAVING IN MIND THAT THE CONCERN OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY AT THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE WAS EXPRESSED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN ITS RESOLUTIONS 3219 (XXIX) OF 6 NOVEMBER 1974, 3448 (XXX) OF 9 DECEMBER 1975, 31/124 OF 16 DECEMBER 1976, 32/118 OF 16 DECEMBER 1977, 33/175 OF 20 DECEMBER 1978,

SYSTEMATIC VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS IN CHILE,

DEPLORING ONCE AGAIN THE FACT THAT THE REPEATED APPEALS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS AND OTHER INTERNATIONAL ORGANS TO RE-ESTABLISH HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS HAVE BEEN IGNORED BY THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES,

CONSIDERING FURTHER, INTER ALIA, THE RECENT REPORTS, RESOLUTIONS AND CONCLUSIONS OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE, THE SUB-COMMISSION ON PREVENTION OF DISCRIMINATION AND PROTECTION OF MINORITIES AND THE INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANISATION, AS WELL AS THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE AND THE VICARIA DE LA SOLIDARIDAD OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH IN CHILE,

RECOGNIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF THE FACT THAT THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES HAVE ANNOUNCED THEIR INTENTION TO PERMIT THE ENTRY INTO CHILE OF THE SPECIAL RAPPPORTEUR IN THE EXERCISE OF HIS MANDATE TO INVESTIGATE THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN THAT COUNTRY,

- 1. TAKES NOTE OF THE PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON THE SITUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, SUBMITTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH RESOLUTION 1985/47 OF THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS;

- 2. ONCE AGAIN EXPRESSES ITS DISMAY AT THE SUPPRESSION IN CHILE OF THE TRADITIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEGAL ORDER AND ITS INSTITUTIONS AND THEIR REPLACEMENT BY A CONSTITUTION WHICH DOES NOT REFLECT THE WILL OF

- 3. EXPRESSES ITS INDIGNATION AT THE PERSISTENCE OF SERIOUS AND SYSTEMATIC VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, IN PARTICULAR THE SUPPRESSION OF ACTS OF SOCIAL PROTEST WHICH HAS CAUSED A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF DEATHS AND INJURIES AND MASS AND INDIVIDUAL ARRESTS, AT THE INTIMIDATION OF NATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS, AT THE FREQUENT REPORTS OF TORTURE AND ILL-TREATMENT, AND AT THE TREACHEROUS CRIMES IN WHICH THE POLICE FORCES ARE JUDICIALLY IMPLICATED;

- 4. REITERATES ITS ALARM AT THE FACT THAT, IN GENERAL, THE ARBITRARY OR IMPROPER ACTIONS OF THE STATE POLICE AND SECURITY AGENCIES CONTINUE TO GO UNPUNISHED;

- 5. REITERATES ITS CONCERN AT THE INEFFECTIVENESS OF THE REMEDIES OF HABEAS CORPUS OR OF AMPARO AND OF PROTECTION, OWING TO THE FACT THAT THE JUDICIARY, NOTWITHSTANDING SOME POSITIVE ACTIONS IN THIS FIELD, DOES NOT ALWAYS EXERCISE ITS POWERS OF INVESTIGATION, MONITORING AND SUPERVISION IN THIS RESPECT, AND PERFORMS ITS FUNCTIONS UNDER SEVERE RESTRICTIONS WHICH UNDERMINE ITS INDEPENDENCE;

- 6. ONCE AGAIN CALLS URGENTLY ON THE CHILEAN AUTHORITIES TO RESTORE AND RESPECT HUMAN RIGHTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE OBLIGATIONS THEY HAVE ASSUMED

REGIME OF EXCEPTION AND ESPECIALLY THE PRACTICE OF DECLARING "CONSTITUTIONAL STATES OF EMERGENCY" UNDER WHICH SERIOUS AND CONTINUING VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS ARE COMMITTED;

- (B) TO INVESTIGATE AND CLARIFY WITHOUT DELAY THE FATE OF PERSONS WHO WERE ARRESTED FOR POLITICAL REASONS AND LATER DISAPPEARED, TO ASSIST AND INFORM THEIR FAMILIES OF THE RESULTS OF SUCH INVESTIGATION AND TO BRING TO TRIAL AND PUNISH THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR DISAPPEARANCE;

- (C) TO RESPECT THE RIGHT TO LIFE AND THE RIGHT TO PHYSICAL AND MORAL INTEGRITY BY PUTTING AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF TORTURE AND OTHER CRUEL, INHUMAN OR DEGRADING TREATMENT OR PUNISHMENT AND TO PUT AN IMMEDIATE END TO INTIMIDATION AND PERSECUTION AS WELL AS TO KIDNAPPINGS, ARBITRARY OR ABUSIVE DETENTION AND IMPRISONMENT IN SECRET PLACES;

- (D) TO RESPECT THE RIGHT OF NATIONALS TO LIVE IN AND FREELY ENTER AND LEAVE THEIR COUNTRY, WITHOUT ARBITRARY RESTRICTIONS OR CONDITIONS, AND TO CEASE THE PRACTICES OF RELEGACION (ASSIGNMENT TO FORCED RESIDENCE) AND FORCED EXILE;

"I, JEAN ABBOT, WITH NORTH AMERICAN PASSPORT NUMBER B 2119479 AND A MEMBER OF THE PEACE BRIGADES INTERNATIONAL HAVE BEEN ACCUSED BY THE DIRECTOR OF IMMIGRATION OF PUBLICLY ACTING CONTRARY TO THE LAWS OF THIS COUNTRY BY PARTICIPATING IN INTERNAL AFFAIRS, SPECIFICALLY IN THE ACTIVITIES OF THE MUTUAL SUPPORT GROUP (GAM).

"ALONG WITH ME, HE HAS ACCUSED SIX COMPANIONS OF PBI, REQUESTING THAT WE ABANDON THE COUNTRY FOR SOME TIME.

"FOR THIS REASON, AND BEFORE I ABANDON THIS COUNTRY, I WANT TO RESPOND TO THE ACCUSATIONS: I CAME TO GUATEMALA IN JULY 1985 (A NON-PARTISAN NON-POLITICAL GROUP WHOSE ASPIRATION IS TO PROMOTE NON-VIOLENCE AS A STRATEGY TO ACHIEVE JUSTICE). MY SPECIFIC ROLE WAS TO ACT AS COORDINATOR FOR THE INTERNATIONALISTS WHO CAME TO GUATEMALA TO BE OBSERVERS OF GAM IN THE SEARCH FOR THEIR MISSING RELATIVES. THESE OBSERVERS HOPED THAT AN INTERNATIONAL PRESENCE WOULD GIVE THE GAM MORE SECURITY WHILE REALIZING THEIR LABOR OF SEARCHING FOR THE DISAPPEARED, WHICH IS A BRAVE EFFORT ON BEHALF OF HUMAN LIFE.

"I WANT TO MAKE CLEAR THAT NEITHER I NOR ANY OF THE PBI MEMBERS EXPELLED FROM THE COUNTRY HAVE PARTICIPATED IN ACTIONS CONTRARY TO THE LAWS OF THIS COUNTRY, NOR CONTRARY TO OUR INTERNATIONAL ENTITY. Guatemala, Guatemala

December 13, 1985

TO: DCM: Mr. Roger Gamble

THRU: ARSO: Robert Brand
CG: Dora Trujillo

FROM: Laurence Kerr

SUBJECT: Possible Sighting of Nick Blake

Bob Brand and I met with Guatemalan businessman [redacted] B6
[redacted] on December 13 to discuss the possible sighting of Nick Blake.

[redacted] said that he had been in San Sebastian, Huehuetenango, several weeks ago with [redacted] B6 B6
He talked to several indigena from the hill country nearby. They told him that they had seen Nick Blake in Comitán, Chiapas, in October. They said that they recognized him from flyers distributed in the area. He was wearing a camera around his neck. "Como estaba?" they were asked. "Gordo," they replied.

I believe that [redacted] is a reasonably dependable person, but he has no names for his San Sebastian contacts, so we cannot follow that line further at this point. He considers it probable that these men are on the south coast for the harvest. [redacted] suggestion on how we might find them was [redacted] in San Sebastian once again and hope the right parties will appear. B6 B6

We will coordinate with Embassy Mexico to determine the best way to proceed.

OF HIS VISIT NEXT WEEK. SHOULD IT APPEAR THAT VOLIO'S MISSION WILL NOT LEAD TO HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS, EMBASSY IS REQUESTED TO CONSULT AND WORK WITH OTHER APPROPRIATE WESTERN AND LATIN EMBASSIES WITH A VIEW TOWARD SEPARATE APPROACHES TO THE MFA SUPPORTING VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATION. AT THE SAME TIME, EMBASSY SHOULD BEGIN TO WORK CLOSELY WITH CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (HRC) VICE PRESIDENT MAXIMO PACHECO ON PRODUCING A CHILE RESOLUTION AT THE NEXT MEETING OF UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (UNHRC) IN GENEVA THAT WILL BE COMPATIBLE WITH US SUPPORT. END SUMMARY.

3. DEPT AGREES WITH EMBASSY RECOMMENDATION REFTEL THAT WE SHOULD GET AN EARLY START IN TRYING TO INTEREST SOME COUNTRY OTHER THAN MEXICO TO SPONSOR THE CHILE RESOLUTION AT THE NEXT MEETING OF THE UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (UNHRC) IN GENEVA, AND TRY TO DEVELOP AGREEMENT WELL IN ADVANCE ON THE TEXT OF A BALANCED RESOLUTION THAT WE COULD SUPPORT. HOWEVER, WHETHER WE ARE ABLE TO DO SO DEPENDS A GREAT DEAL ON WHAT UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO IS OR IS NOT ABLE TO ACCOMPLISH DURING HIS VISIT TO CHILE.

4. DURING THE BUILD-UP TO THE RECENT THIRD COMMITTEE VOTE AT THE UN THE GOC APPEARED TO UNDERSTAND THE IMPORTANCE OF COOPERATING WITH VOLIO. WE WANT TO BE CERTAIN THAT THEY FOLLOW THROUGH, PARTICULARLY ON THE INTENTION TO ADOPT THE PRELIMINARY REPORT'S RECOMMENDATIONS. ALTHOUGH CHILEAN PUBLIC STATEMENTS HAVE BEEN MORE CIRCUMSPECT, DURING THE COURSE OF SEPARATE MEETINGS OF AMBASSADORS WALTERS AND DAZA AT THE UN AND AMBASSADORS SCHIFTER AND CALDERON AT THE DEPARTMENT, BOTH THESE CHILEAN REPRESENTATIVES INDICATED THAT IT WAS THE GOC'S INTENTION TO ADOPT VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

5. YOU SHOULD BE IN TOUCH WITH VOLIO AS HE NEARS THE CONCLUSION OF HIS VISIT TO DETERMINE HOW MUCH THE GOC HAS DELIVERED ON THEIR OFFER TO ADOPT HIS PRELIMINARY RECOMMENDATIONS. SHOULD VOLIO APPEAR DISSATISFIED, EMBASSY SHOULD DISCUSS WITH HIM WHICH PRIORITY ISSUES TO PURSUE WITH THE GOC. IT IS DEPARTMENT'S VIEW THAT IT WOULD PROBABLY BE USEFUL FOR EMBASSY TO CONSULT AND WORK WITH OTHER APPROPRIATE WESTERN AND LATIN COUNTRIES WHICH MIGHT BE AS OR MORE EFFECTIVE THAN THE US IN INFLUENCING THE GOC. BASED ON EMBASSY'S JUDGMENT, WE WOULD THEN RECOMMEND CONSIDERATION OF SEPARATE DEMARCHES BY OTHER WESTERN NATIONS IN ADDITION TO THE US TO THE MFA URGING SUPPORT FOR VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS. THIS SHOULD TAKE PLACE BEFORE VOLIO'S DEPARTURE, EMPHASIZING ONCE AGAIN THE IMPORTANCE WE PLACE ON HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS AND THE OPPORTUNITY THAT VOLIO'S WORK OFFERS AS A MEANS TO IMPROVE CHILE'S IMAGE ABROAD.

6. IN ADDITION TO ENCOURAGING THE SUCCESS OF VOLIO'S MISSION WITH THE GOC, WE WANT TO BRING ABOUT A BETTER OUTCOME DURING THE NEXT UN CONSIDERATION OF THE CHILE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN GENEVA. EMBASSY RESPONSE TO CHRC CHARGE (REFTEL) THAT THEIR REPRESENTATIVE HAD OFFERED TO NEGOTIATE BUT THERE WERE NO TAKERS WAS ON THE MARK: THOSE IN CONTROL WERE NOT THE CHRC BUT THE MEXICANS AND OTHER RESOLUTION CO-SPONSORS SUCH AS CUBA. WE WANT TO START NOW TO AVOID A SIMILAR OUTCOME IN

GENEVA. IN HIS DISCUSSIONS WITH ARA ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS AND OTHER DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS DEC. 11-13, CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION VICE PRESIDENT MAXIMO PACHECO OFFERED TO HELP DEVELOP THE TEXT OF A RESOLUTION WE COULD SUPPORT IN GENEVA AND MAKE THE NECESSARY CONTACTS WITH SPAIN AND THE CHILEAN LEFT TO ENSURE THAT SUCH A PROCESS WOULD SUCCEED. EMBASSY SHOULD PURSUE THIS INITIATIVE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

2. CHILE: PINOCHET'S MILITARY SUPPORT ERODING

The military is reportedly looking at changes in the 1980 constitution which would allow an open presidential election in 1989. Key military officers view positively the democratic opposition's National Accord for transition to democracy and have told Pinochet--who has strongly criticized the proposal--they will not support him in the 1989 presidential plebiscite.

C told B-1 Ambassador Barnes November 25 that the military junta members had informed Pinochet they would not support him as the government's candidate for president in the 1989 plebiscite. Since the 1973 coup, the military has been Pinochet's principal source of power. He has carefully cultivated its support by remaining sensitive to the views of senior officers. He has controlled isolated dissent within the junta by removing the concerned individual, for example, Air Force chief Leigh. It now appears that the junta has united against his continuing in office beyond 1989.

The junta's evolving disenchantment with Pinochet is further evidence that the 11-party National Accord signed last August is strengthening political forces favoring a peaceful transition to democracy, while isolating the radical left and Pinochet. Senior military officers sense that the future of the military is at stake in the political changes which are scheduled to occur between now and 1989. They want to ensure that a stable non-Communist government emerges.

The National Accord and the broad popular support it has gained have presented the armed forces with the prospect of progress toward a moderate civilian government. They have decided that supporting Pinochet to succeed himself would not be in the military's best interests. Pinochet's popularity is so low that he might well lose the single-candidate plebiscite now prescribed by the constitution. The junta also resents the way he has run the government without consulting them.

Although the military does not want Pinochet after 1989, there is no indication that they want to remove him earlier. He is considered Chile's shrewdest politician and may be able to orchestrate political conditions more to his liking by then.

Failure of the National Accord would diminish Pinochet's political problems. At present, the accord seems to be viable, but the political parties which signed it are not accustomed to working together and profound ideological differences among them could still torpedo the agreement.

2. SUMMARY: RELATIONS BETWEEN DEMOCRATIC PARTIES AND THE COMMUNIST LEFT ARE EXTENSIVE, VARIED, AND IN A STATE OF FLUX. THESE RELATIONSHIPS, THE DEBATES AND DIVISIONS THEY PROVOKE ARE AN AXIS OF OPPOSITION POLITICS THAT HAS PRESENTED SIGNIFICANT OBSTACLES TO A DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION IN CHILE. THE NATIONAL ACCORD, AN AGREED UPON SET OF GROUND RULES FOR A FUTURE DEMOCRACY WHICH WOULD EXCLUDE TOTALITARIAN GROUPS, REPRESENTS A CRUCIAL STEP TOWARD MODERATION BY THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION WHICH HAS TENDED TO ISOLATE THE EXTREME LEFT. THIS CONSENSUS WAS PUT TOA TEST IN THE RECENT WAVE OF STUDENT ELECTIONS AND IN THE NOVEMBER 21 RALLY OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE (AD), WITH MIXED RESULTS. THE ISSUE OF RELATIONSHIPS WITH THE COMMUNIST-DOMINATED POPULAR DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT (MDP) CONTINUES TO GENERATE CONTROVERSY AND A HIGH DEGREE OF AMBIGUITY, PARTICULARLY WITHIN THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY(PDC) AND THE COMMUNISTS (PCCH). END SUMMARY.

3. INTRODUCTION:
THE REVOLUTIONARY LEFT IN CHILE IS LOOSELY COALESCED WITHIN THE MDP, A COMMUNIST FRONT ORGANIZATION. IN ORDER OF SIZE IT CONSISTS OF THE PCCH, THE ALMEYDA WING OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY (PSCH/A), AND THE LEFTIST REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT (MIR). WHILE THERE ARE SIGNIFICANT POLITICAL DIFFERENCES AMONG THESE GROUPS, THEY ARE ALL COMMITTED TO MARXIST-LENINIST IDEOLOGY AND TO REVOLUTIONARY VIOLENCE AND TERROR AS A LEGITIMATE MEANS OF OVERTHROWING THE PINOCHET REGIME. ALTHOUGH NONE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTIES HAVE OFFICIAL TIES WITH THE MDP OR ITS CONSTITUENTS, UNOFFICIAL RELATIONS ARE EXTENSIVE AND FLUID, PARTICULARLY WITH THE PCCH.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

4. INFORMAL RELATIONS:
THE POLITICAL COMMUNITY IN CHILE IS RESTRICTED TO A RELATIVELY SMALL ELITE OF PEOPLE WHO HAVE THE EDUCATION, TIME AND RESOURCES TO IMMERSE THEMSELVES IN POLICY ISSUES. WITHIN THIS LIMITED SOCIETY, THERE IS A GOOD DEAL OF CONTACT AND EXCHANGE OF OPINIONS BETWEEN

PEOPLE WITH WIDELY DIVERGING VIEWPOINTS. MOST PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS (GREMIOS), HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS, AND THINK TANKS ARE PLURALISTIC, AND ADMIT COMMUNISTS ALTHOUGH NOT KNOWN TERRORISTS TO THEIR INNER CIRCLES. EVEN CONSERVATIVES WHOSE PARTIES REMAIN OUTSIDE THE AD INTERACT WITH PCCH MEMBERS THROUGH STUDENT CIRCLES AND GREMIOS. THE STRENGTH OF THE EXTENDED FAMILY AND "OLD BOY" SCHOOL NETWORKS PROVIDES OTHER CHANNELS FOR FRIENDLY CONTACTS. IN THE PROVINCES, WHERE POLITICAL AND PROFESSIONAL NETWORKS ARE EVEN MORE INBRED, THE INTERACTION IS CONSIDERABLE BUT SOMEWHAT MORE GUARDED AND SUSPICIOUS BECAUSE OF THE HIGHER VISIBILITY.

5. FORMAL RELATIONS:
EVEN SOME RIGHT-OF-CENTER PARTIES SUCH AS THE REPUBLICANS AND THE NATIONALS, WHO SENT REPRESENTATIVES TO FIDEL CASTRO'S CONFERENCE ON THE FOREIGN DEBT IN HAVANA, HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO MAINTAIN POINTS OF CONTACT WITH THE PCCH AT A LOWER LEVEL. (IN AN INTERVIEW WITH SANTIAGO DAILY ULTIMAS NOTICIAS ON DECEMBER 1, REPUBLICAN PARTY PRESIDENT ARMANDO JARAMILLO, WHO IS ROTATING PRESIDENT OF THE AD FOR SIX MONTHS, ACKNOWLEDGED THESE RELATIONS SAYING THAT "WHETHER WE LIKE IT OR NOT, WE HAVE TO RESPECT AND RECOGNIZE THE

6. OPPOSITION PARTIES IN THE AD MEET INDIVIDUALLY WITH THE PCCH ON A FAIRLY REGULAR BASIS ON SPECIFIC

POLITICAL ISSUES OR TO COORDINATE UNOFFICIALLY JOINT ACTIVITIES SUCH AS PROTEST ACTIVITIES. FOR THE ALLIANCE, MDP SUPPORT IS SEEN AS CRUCIAL FOR PROTEST ACTIVITIES ON UNIVERSITY CAMPUSES AND IN THE POOR SETTLEMENTS (POBLACIONES). MANY REGARD THE PCCH AS "PART OF THE FAMILY" BECAUSE HISTORICALLY, UNDER DEMOCRATIC REGIMES, IT BEHAVED AS A PARLIAMENTARY PARTY, AND IS CAREFUL TO USE MORE MODERATE EX-DEPUTIES AND SENATORS AS REPRESENTATIVES FOR MEETINGS WITH THE DEMOCRATIC PARTIES. OTHER PARTIES ON THE DEMOCRATIC LEFT KEEP DOORS OPEN AS A KIND OF INSURANCE POLICY FOR FUTURE ELECTIONS, SINCE THE COMMUNISTS ARE SEEN AS A MAJOR VOTING BLOC. THESE RELATIONS CAUSE FRICTION BOTH WITHIN THE ALLIANCE AND THE DEMOCRATIC LEFT PARTIES, AS THE MORE MODERATE ELEMENTS SEE THEM AS MANIPULATIVE AND HARMFUL. HOWEVER, THEY SERVE THE INTERESTS OF THE MDP, WHICH USES ITS ACCESS AS A SOURCE OF LEGITIMATION AND AS LEVERAGE TO PREVENT THE AD FROM COMING TO TERMS WITH THE DEMOCRATIC RIGHT OR NEGOTIATING AN ORDERLY TRANSITION WITH THE GOVERNMENT. UNDER THE BANNER OF "OPPOSITION UNITY," THE MDP HOPES TO CREATE A BROAD AND INTRANSIGENT FRONT TO DO BATTLE WITH THE PINOCHET REGIME.

7. RELATIONS WITH OTHER MDP PARTIES: FAR FEWER OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTIES HAVE ON-GOING RELATIONS WITH THE PSCH/A. THE EXCEPTION TO THIS HAS BEEN THE BRIONES SOCIALISTS (PSCH/B), WHO USED TO MEET WITH THE ALMEYDISTAS PARTLY TO KEEP UP OLD TIES AND ~~CONFIDENTIA~~L

~~CONFIDENTI~~AL

PARTLY OUT OF HOPES OF REUNIFYING THE PARTY. HOWEVER, NOW THE DEMOCRATIC SOCIALISTS HAVE FEW ILLUSIONS ABOUT EVER MERGING WITH THE PSCH/A, WHICH CARLOS BRIONES DISMISSES AS "PRACTICALLY INDISTINGUISHABLE FROM THE COMMUNISTS." AS FOR THE MIR, IT IS AN ANATHEMA TO MOST OF THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION, EVEN THOUGH THERE IS MINIMAL CONTACT THROUGH STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND GROUPS IN THE POBLACIONES.

8. NATIONAL ACCORD:
THE SIGNING OF THE "NATIONAL ACCORD FOR A TRANSITION TO FULL DEMOCRACY" BY 11 PARTIES ON AUGUST 25 BROUGHT OUT IN THE OPEN A HEIGHTENED CONTROVERSY OVER THE LEGITIMACY OF THE TOTALITARIAN LEFT. THE ACCORD, WHICH SETS OUT THE MINIMUM GROUND RULES FOR A FUTURE DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM IN CHILE, HANDLES THE TOUCHY ISSUE OF COMMUNIST PARTICIPATION BY STATING THAT THOSE PARTIES AND MOVEMENTS WHOSE CONDUCT OR OBJECTIVES DO NOT RESPECT DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES (E.G., THE ALTERNATION IN POWER VIA FREE ELECTIONS, HUMAN RIGHTS, NON-VIOLENCE, THE RIGHTS OF MINORITIES) WILL BE PROSCRIBED BY A CONSTITUTIONAL TRIBUNAL. ALTHOUGH THE AGREEMENT WHICH BROUGHT TOGETHER THE CHRISITAN LEFT AND THE BRIONES SOCIALISTS WITH THE NATIONAL UNION AND THE NATIONAL PARTY IS ADMITTEDLY FRAGILE, IT IS AN IMPORTANT STEP TOWARD POLITICAL REALISM AND MODERATION BY THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION. IT HAS ALSO CONTRIBUTED TO ISOLATING THE EXTREMES. BOTH THE MDP AND THE PRO-GOVERNMENT RIGHT OPPOSE THE ACCORD, THE FORMER CALLING IT A U.S.-INSPIRED TOOL TO EXCLUDE THE LEFT FROM ITS RIGHTFUL ROLE AND THE LATTER ATTACKING IT FOR BEING "VAGUE" ON THE COMMUNIST

SINCE THE MID-1970'S. ITS ATTITUDE TOWARD THE PCCH HAS THEREFORE SET THE TONE FOR RELATIONS BETWEEN THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION AND THE EXTREME LEFT. THIS HAS ALSO PROVIDED ONE OF THE MOST DIVISIVE ISSUES WITHIN THE PDC AS MODERATES WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE PARTY DISTANCE ITSELF AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE FROM THE COMMUNISTS. AND THE LEFT CONTINUES TO MAINTAIN THE HOPE THAT BY KEEPING THE CHANNELS OPEN THEY CAN PERSUADE THE PCCH TO SHIFT ITS TACTICS TO NON-VIOLENCE. SOME IN THE PDC MAY ALSO BE HOPING FOR EVENTUAL PCCH SUPPORT IN FUTURE ELECTIONS, IN RETURN FOR VARIOUS FAVORS.

10. THE BASIC WAFFLE:
SO FAR THE PDC HAS KEPT THE TWO WINGS TOGETHER BY CONTINUING TO WAFFLE ON THE ISSUE (REF C). IN A SPEECH ON OCTOBER 13 PDC PRESIDENT GABRIEL VALDES STRESSED THAT, WHILE REJECTING THE "PRIMITIVE ANTI-COMMUNISM" OF THE RIGHT, CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS HAVE "DIAMETRICALLY OPPOSED" VIEWS AND "IRRECONCILABLE DIFFERENCES" WITH THE PCCH. HOWEVER VALDES, WHO IS ASSOCIATED WITH THE PDC LEFT WING, HAS NEVER CALLED FOR A RUPTURE WITH THE COMMUNISTS. THE MDP LOBBIED MEMBER PARTIES OF THE AD, WHICH VALDES HEADED, TO BE INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE NOVEMBER 21 PROTEST RALLY. ALTHOUGH THEIR PARTICIPATION HELPED SWELL THE CROWDS AND MINIMIZE VIOLENCE, THEY REFUSED TO ABIDE BY THE ORGANIZERS' INSISTENCE THAT ALL PARTY BANNERS BE KEPT OUT. THE GOVERNMENT GAVE PROMINENT TELEVISION COVERAGE TO THE HAMMER AND SICKLE SIGNS OF THE MDP AND THE MIR. VALDES' CRITICS ARGUED THAT THE EVENT WAS A PROPAGANDA SUCCESS FOR THE COMMUNISTS, WHO WANT TO UNITE THE OPPOSITION ON THE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

11. THE FECH ELECTIONS:
THIS CONTROVERSY WAS ALSO PUT TO THE TEST IN HIGHLY PUBLICIZED ELECTIONS TO THE STUDENT FEDERATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHILE (FECH). AS IT HAD DONE IN PREVIOUS FECH ELECTIONS AND IN RECENT ELECTIONS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CONCEPCION, THE PDC YOUTH BRANCH FIRST TRIED TO FORM A COMMON SLATE WITH THE MDP. THE ADULT PARTY, SPURRED BY A VIGOROUS INTERVENTION FROM CARDINAL FRESNO, PUT ITS FOOT DOWN. THE PDC FORMED A SLATE WITH THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATS (SD)

AND PREVAILED OVER THE MDP SLATE BY LESS THAN ONE PERCENT IN THE FIRST ROUND OF VOTING ON OCTOBER 31. BUT THE MDP, WHICH DIDN'T WANT A SECOND ROUND, PREVAILED ON THE PDC TO INTEGRATE THE FECH DIRECTORATE WITH ITS TWO TOP VOTE-GETTERS. SOCIAL DEMOCRATS, THE NATIONAL UNION AND THE NATIONAL PARTY COMPLAINED THAT THIS PROCESS FLAUNTED THE WILL OF THE STUDENTS AND SACRIFICED THE PRINCIPLES OF THE NATIONAL ACCORD TO A DUBIOUS POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY (REF B).

12. THE SOCIALISTS' GYRATIONS:
AFTER A MAJOR REALIGNMENT WITHIN THE BRIONES SOCIALIST CAMP IN JULY (REF C), THE PSCH/B JOINED THE NATIONAL ACCORD AND PUBLICLY CRITICIZED THE COMMUNISTS FOR THEIR "IRRESPONSIBLE AND INEFFECTIVE" STRATEGY OF MILITARY STRUGGLE AGAINST THE PINOCHET REGIME. HOWEVER, THE PARTY ALSO BALKED AT TURNING ITS BACK ON THE COMMUNIST LEFT. THESE ISSUES WERE BITTERLY DEBATED AT THE PSCH/B PLENARY MEETING ON THE WEEKEND OF NOVEMBER 30. A MOTION BY RICARDO LAGOS,

HOWEVER, IT FAVORED "CONTINUING AND SUSTAINED DIALOGUE" WITH THE PCCH TO REACH A "PACT TO MAKE A DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM GOVERNABLE." IN AN INTERVIEW IN EL MERCURIO NEWSPAPER WHICH APPEARED ON DECEMBER 1, CARLOS BRIONES SAID THAT ALTHOUGH THE NATIONAL ACCORD DOES NOT EXCLUDE ANY GROUP "A PRIORI", WITH ITS CURRENT METHODS AND PRINCIPLES THE PCCH WOULD BE BANNED FROM LEGAL

EXISTENCE. BRIONES' INTERPRETATION WAS BITTERLY ATTACKED BY MDP PRESIDENT GERMAN CORREA, WHO ACCUSED THE PSCH/B OF FOLLOWING THE LEAD OF THE U.S. IN SEEKING TO SHUT OUT THE MDP FROM FUTURE POLITICAL LIFE.

13. COMMENTS:
THE ISSUE OF RELATIONS WITH THE EXTREME LEFT IS A PLAY OF SHADOWS THAT HAS CONTINUED TO OBSCURE THE POSSIBILITIES FOR A DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION. PINOCHET AND THE ARMED FORCES HAVE CONSISTENTLY REFUSED TO DEAL WITH THE DEMOCRATIC GROUPS UNTIL THEY CLEARLY BREAK WITH THE COMMUNISTS. ON THE OTHER HAND, DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION PARTIES ARE RELUCTANT TO READ OUT THE PCCH SINCE THEY FEEL THEY NEED COMMUNISTS TO KEEP UP PRESSURE ON THE GOVERNMENT AND TO INSURE THE "GOVERNABILITY" OF A FUTURE DEMOCRATIC REGIME. THE NATIONAL ACCORD, WHICH SOUGHT TO BREAK THIS DEADLOCK, IS NOW SERIOUSLY THREATENED AS THE RIGHT ATTACKS THE POLICY OF ALLIANCES WITH COMMUNISTS, THE MODERATE LEFT VACILLATES, AND THE GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO DISCREDIT THE AGREEMENT AS MISLEADING (REF A). MEANWHILE, THE MDP, WHICH AIMS TO DISRUPT A PEACEFUL TRANSITION, KNOWS EXACTLY WHERE IT IS GOING. UNTIL THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION GETS ITS PRIORITIES IN ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

This report was produced by a staff member of the Bureau of Intelligence and Research. It is the analyst's initial assessment and has not been reviewed at the bureau level.

ANALYST'S BRIEF

INR Office of Analysis for the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe

LATIN AMERICA: HIGHLIGHTS OF SOVIET ACTIVITIES, NOVEMBER 1985

Moscow's broadcasts to Chile de-emphasized but did not renounce violent resistance to Pinochet as the local communist party and associated guerrilla movement scrambled for support from the dominant centrist opposition coalition which opposes violence.

USSR/Chile: Playing It Both Ways

The Chilean Communist Party (PCCh), its affiliated armed wing, the Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front (FPMR), and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left (MIR) cannot topple Pinochet without aligning with the country's center coalition, which has renounced the use of violence, nor can the communists renounce violence without alienating their more radical followers and losing their status and effectiveness as the leading opposition force. Recent Soviet media programs and commentary have sought to straddle the issue in order to galvanize as broad a spectrum of popular resistance to the Chilean leader as possible without alienating either those who advocate or concemn a recourse to violence.

New Times has now claimed that the "National Accord" (NA), a coalition of moderate and rightwing opposition parties, serves Washington's goal of perserving Pinochet by creating a "captive opposition" that would isolate the PCCh and the other "more resolute anti-dictatorship forces." The article claimed that US strategy was predicated on the belief that the moderate Chilean opposition by itself would be unable to withstand leftwing forces coming to power after the junta's collapse.

New Times faulted the NA for its vagueness and lack of a timetable, arguing that Pinochet would not abdicate voluntarily but also would not be able continue even with US support if all the opposition forces were united. It claimed the far left's resistance had in fact precipitated the regime's current crisis and noted that the PCCh had called on all opposition forces for "joint militant action with the use of all suitable forms of struggle". The journal concluded that those forces striving for a quick end of the dictatorship -- by implication, willing to engage in "militant action" -- would prevail over those seeking illusory dialogues.

The article also pointed out the army's role in propping up Pinochet was both crucial and potentially vulnerable. It noted that many soldiers and noncommissioned officers opposed the regime but fear of retribution and a "vertical" sense of discipline kept them in line. Moscow's transmissions have for some time sought to wean at least the lower echelons of the army and carabineri away from Pinochet, albeit without great success. In this context, FMPR press reports that a group of retired and active military men and Christian Democrats had joined forces with it was given big play in Spanish-language broadcasts to Chile from Moscow.

Another such broadcast in Spanish featured a Swedish interview with FPMR leaders, who portrayed the FPMR as a patriotic group rekindling the same national values that had allowed Chile to throw off the Spanish colonial yoke. It did not seek power itself, but favored a broad, progressive alliance. Nor was the FPMR the "armed branch of the communist party," but allegedly a popular movement enjoying a "broad-based" following. The spokesmen contended that popular violence was merely an inevitable response to the violence of the regime, that FPMR-led violent actions were designed to minimize innocent casualties, and that the overall FPMR strategy was not aimed at creating a prolonged popular struggle, but at sparking mass participation in a national rebellion.

Yet even the FPMR took care not stray too far from the mainstream of Chilean opposition. It announced a forty-eight hour, "unilateral" truce in order to participate in a large, peaceful, antiregime demonstration organized by the moderate Democratic Alliance on behalf of the NA on November 21. TO: ARA - Mr. Abrams

FROM: ARA/SC - Michael L. Durkee

SUBJECT: Your Lunch Dec. 17 with Apostolic Pro Nuncio Pio Laghi: Chile - Related Topics

The Vatican's perspective on Chile is very similar to ours and you will want to use this meeting to reinforce this commonality of views. You may wish to highlight for Pio Laghi our strong support for Cardinal Fresno's national reconciliation efforts, and our efforts to bring about improvements in the human rights situation through Special Rapporteur Volio's mission.

At the same time, it would be useful to ask about Vatican efforts in anticipation of the Pope's 1987 visit. We are particularly interested in seeing progress on torture and the exile problem. Recent Embassy Santiago reporting suggests that the Vatican has pressed the GOC on exiles, but we do not know whether they have raised the specific case of Aniceto Rodriquez, the exiled Chilean Socialist Bob Gelbard met in Caracas earlier this fall. (We had proposed raising his case directly with the Vatican, but Ambassador Wilson alerted Chile's Ambassador to the Holy See to our interest in advance. If you raise the Rodriguez case, you should ask Pio Laghi to get back directly to you or Bob.)

Points to Make:

-- We benefited greatly from recent exchanges of views with Fresno here and in Santiago. We share his concern over the future of the National Accord. We intend to maintain support for the Church's reconciliation efforts, regardless of Pinochet's displeasure. The Church will play a key role in keeping Accord signers united on the non-violent path of dialogue. The military is showing some signs of interest which could over time produce talks. We intend to maintain efforts with the GOC and the democratic opposition to encourage dialogue.

-- We have tried to help the mission of UN Special Rapporteur Volio to bring about real improvements in human rights situation.

-- We are concerned by the arrest of Mensaje editor Father Renato Hevia for articles published last February, and have raised his case with the Chilean government. We are also pressing hard on torture.

-- Two other key problems identified by the democratic opposition are exiles and legalizing political party status. We will push on question of parties, hope you could help on exile problem in anticipation of 1987 papal visit.

-- Of the many deserving cases of exiles, that of Chilean Socialist Aniceto Rodriguez has been brought to our attention. I would appreciate your letting me know directly whether the Vatican has taken up his case with the GOC, and whether there would be willingness on your part to consider intervening on behalf of other deserving cases. If so, I will instruct our Embassy to consult with your nuncio in Santiago on this question.

SUBJECT: PRESS GUIDANCE: AID EMPLOYEE ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF WORKING FOR FMLN

REF: (A) SAN SALVADOR 12707
(B) LONDON USINFO 161523Z DEC 85

1. POSE IS USING THE FOLLOWING GUIDANCE CONCERNING THE CASE OF GRACIELA MENENDEZ DE IGLESIAS:

2. Q: PRESS REPORTS ALLEGE THAT GRACIELA DEL CARMEN MENENDEZ DE IGLESIAS, A FORMER SALVADORAN EMPLOYEE OF THE U.S. EMBASSY, WAS ABUSED VERBALLY, PHYSICALLY AND SEXUALLY WHILE DETAINED ON CHARGES OF COLLABORATION WITH THE FMLN. ANY RESPONSE?

3. A: MRS. IGLESIAS, IN A SWORN STATEMENT TO A SALVADORAN JUDGE, SAID SHE WAS AN FPL COLLABORATOR OPERATING UNDER THE PSEUDONYM OF [redacted] HER ADMISSIONS DID NOT CONSTITUTE EVIDENCE OF A SPECIFIC CRIME UNDER SALVADORAN LAW, SHE WAS RELEASED.

4. HEREWITH, BACKGROUND ON HER CASE.

5. ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, THREE DAYS AFTER THE KIDNAPPING OF PRESIDENT DUARTE'S DAUGHTER, SALVADORAN TREASURY POLICE RAIDED TWELVE FPL SAFEHOUSES IN SAN SALVADOR. INFORMATION OBTAINED AS A RESULT OF THESE RAIDS INDICATED THAT MRS. IGLESIAS WAS REPORTING TO THE FMLN ON THE IDENTITIES AND MOVEMENTS OF U.S. EMBASSY PERSONNEL. THE TREASURY POLICE ADVISED THE EMBASSY OF THE INFORMATION THEY HAD DISCOVERED, AND OFFERED THE EMBASSY THE OPPORTUNITY TO SPEAK TO MRS. IGLESIAS BEFORE HER ARREST.

6. ON SEPTEMBER 16 OFFICERS FROM THE EMBASSY'S SECURITY SECTION ESCORTED MRS. IGLESIAS FROM HER OFFICE TO THE SECURITY OFFICE WHERE SHE WAS QUESTIONED FOR ABOUT TWO HOURS. AS IS COMMON DURING SUCH INTERROGATIONS, MRS. IGLESIAS WAS ADVISED THAT THE EMBASSY WOULD ATTEMPT TO SECURE LENIENT TREATMENT FOR HER IF SHE WOULD COME CLEAN AND TELL US ALL SHE KNEW ABOUT HER CONTACTS WITH THE FMLN AND OTHER FMLN ATTEMPTS TO PENETRATE THE EMBASSY. HOWEVER, DURING THIS INTERVIEW SHE STEADFASTLY DENIED ALL INVOLVEMENT WITH THE FMLN.

7. FOLLOWING HER QUESTIONING BY EMBASSY OFFICIALS, SHE WAS ARRESTED BY THE TREASURY POLICE IN ACCORDANCE WITH SALVADORAN LAW. BECAUSE OF THE NATURE OF THE OFFENSE OF WHICH SHE WAS SUSPECTED, THE TREASURY POLICE ASKED THE EMBASSY FOR RECORDS AND INFORMATION CONCERNING HER EMPLOYMENT WITH THE EMBASSY AND WE PROVIDED THAT INFORMATION. WHILE SHE WAS DETAINED U.S. OFFICIALS QUESTIONED HER ON TWO OR THREE OCCASIONS.

8. ON OCTOBER 8 MRS. IGLESIAS WAS RELEASED FROM ILOPANGO WOMEN'S PRISON AFTER A MILITARY JUDGE RULED THAT THE EVIDENCE AGAINST WAS NOT LEGALLY SUFFICIENT TO WARRANT FURTHER DETENTION. WE UNDERSTAND THAT SHE CURRENTLY RESIDES IN MEXICO, BUT IS SEEKING RESIDENCE IN CANADA AND PERHAPS OTHER COUNTRIES.

9. Q: WHAT ABOUT THE CHARGES THAT SHE WAS VERBALLY ABUSED AND THREATENED BY AMERICAN OFFICIALS AND REPEATEDLY RAPED BY THE TREASURY POLICE?

10. A: WE CATEGORICALLY DENY ANY FORM OF ABUSE BY ANYONE ASSOCIATED WITH THE AMERICAN EMBASSY.

SUBJECT: PRESS GUIDANCE: AID EMPLOYEE ARRESTED ON

11. DURING HER INCARCERATION MRS. IGLESIAS WAS VISITED BY THE GOVERNMENTAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION AND, ON SEPTEMBER 26, BY REPRESENTATIVES OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE RED CROSS. ICRC INTERVIEWS ARE CONFIDENTIAL AND WE HAVE NO KNOWLEDGE OF WHAT SHE TOLD THEM. IN HER CONVERSATION WITH THE CDH, HER ONLY COMPLAINT WAS THAT SHE HAD RUN OUT OF A MEDICATION SHE WAS TAKING FOR A PREXISTING CONDITION.

12. THE CHARGES OF RAPE ARE NOT NEW. WE KNOW THAT SHE TOLD A PHYSICIAN THAT SHE HAD BEEN RAPED BUT SHE REFUSED A MEDICAL EXAMINATION [illegible]

13. Q: BUT DOES THE EMBASSY BELIEVE SHE WAS RAPED?

14. A: ASIDE FROM HER OWN STATEMENTS, WE HAVE NO KNOWLEDGE OF ANY ABUSIVE TREATMENT BY ANYONE.

15. Q: GIVEN THE JUDGE'S RULING, DO YOU BELIEVE THAT THE ORIGINAL DETENTION WAS MISTAKEN AND THAT MRS. IGLESIAS IS INNOCENT?

16. A: GIVEN THE INFORMATION DISCOVERED AS A PART OF THE SAFEHOUSE RAIDS, WE ABSOLUTELY BELIEVE THAT THERE WAS PROBABLE CAUSE TO DETAIN AND QUESTION MRS. IGLESIAS. THE QUESTION OF GUILT OR INNOCENCE WAS SOMETHING WHICH HAD TO BE DETERMINED BY SALVADORAN LAW, WHICH REQUIRES A HIGH DEGREE OF CORROBORATION. THE JUDGE RULED THAT THE EVIDENCE AVAILABLE WAS LEGALLY INSUFFICIENT.

17. Q: WAS IT APPROPRIATE FOR THE EMBASSY TO TURN OVER AN EMPLOYEE TO THE TREASURY POLICE?

18. A: IT WAS NOT ONLY APPROPRIATE, BUT REQUIRED. AS A SALVADORAN NATIONAL, MRS. IGLESIAS WAS NOT SUBJECT TO DIPLOMATIC PROTECTIONS AND WE HAD NO OPTION IN THE MATTER. WE COULD NOT HAVE PREVENTED THE ARREST AND IT WAS ONLY THROUGH THE COURTESY OF THE TREASURY POLICE THAT WE WERE ABLE TO SPEAK TO HER BEFORE HER DETENTION.

19. Q: WHAT, PRECISELY, WAS MRS. IGLESIAS SUSPECTED OF DOING?

20. A: SHE WAS SUSPECTED OF ATTEMPTING TO IDENTIFY EMBASSY EMPLOYEES FOR THE FMLN, AN ORGANIZATION WHICH HAS ALREADY CLAIMED RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE ASSASSINATION OF FIVE AMERICAN MEMBERS OF THE MISSION. THE INFORMATION AVAILABLE TO US INDICATES THAT SHE HAD INSTRUCTIONS TO TRY TO IDENTIFY AND GET CLOSE TO MILITARY PERSONNEL (INCLUDING MARINE SECURITY GUARDS) WITHIN THE EMBASSY. WE ALSO BELIEVE THAT SHE PROVIDED THE FMLN WITH INTERNAL DOCUMENTS SUCH AS PHONE LISTS AND NEWSLETTERS WHICH, WHILE NOT CLASSIFIED, WOULD PROVE USEFUL FOR ANYONE PLANNING ASSASSINATIONS OR KIDNAPPINGS; AND THAT, WHILE AT EMBASSY SOCIAL FUNCTIONS, SHE TOOK PICTURES OF MISSION PERSONNEL WITH THE INTENTION OF PASSING THE PICTURES TO THE FMLN.

21. IN SUM, SHE WAS SUSPECTED OF ASSISTING TERRORISTS IN TARGETING U.S. EMBASSY PERSONNEL FOR ASSASSINATION.

22. Q: DO YOU BELIEVE THAT MRS. IGLESIAS WAS IN ANY WAY RESPONSIBILE FOR THE ASSASSINATIONS OF LT. COMMANDER SCHAUFELBERGER OR THE FOUR MARINES?

23. A: WE ARE NOT AWARE OF ANY DIRECT

INVOLVEMENT IN THOSE SPECIFIC CASES.

24. Q: THE EMBASSY CLAIMS TO HAVE A GREAT DEAL OF INFORMATION INDICATING THE GUILT OF MRS. IGLESIAS. PRESUMABLY THE TREASURY POLICE HAVE ACCESS TO THE SAME INFORMATION. THAT BEING THE CASE, WHY WAS SHE RELEASED?

25. A: IN EL SALVADOR, AS IN THE UNITED STATES AND ELSEWHERE, KNOWING SOMETHING AND BEING ABLE TO CONVERT THAT KNOWLEDGE INTO EVIDENCE SUFFICIENT TO CONVICT IN COURT OF LAW ARE NOT THE SAME THING. 27. A: ABOUT 5 YEARS.

28. Q: DID HER HUSBAND WORK FOR THE EMBASSY?

29. A: NO.

30. Q: WAS HER SISTER A GUERRILLA?

31. A: WE HAVE HEARD REPORTS TO THAT EFFECT, BUT CANNOT CONFIRM THEM.

32. Q: DID AMERICAN OFFICIALS TELL MRS. IGLESIAS THAT HER HUSBAND WAS THINKING OF DIVORCING HER BECAUSE OF HER FREQUENT SEXUAL INFIDELITIES? DID AMERICAN OFFICIALS TELL HER HUSBAND THAT SHE WAS UNFAITHFUL?

33. A: I HAVE TOLD YOU THAT WE OFFERED TO ATTEMPT TO SECURE LENIENCY IF SHE MADE A FULL CONFESSION IN HER INITIAL INTERVIEW WITH U.S. OFFICIALS AND THAT SHE DENIED ANY INVOLVEMENT WITH THE FPL. I DO NOT CHOOSE TO FURTHER DISCUSS OUR CONVERSATIONS WITH HER.

34. Q: WAS SHE GIVEN A LIE DETECTOR TEST?

35. A: NO COMMENT.

36. FOLLOWING QUESTIONS STRICTLY IF ASKED, DO NOT VOLUNTEER.

37. Q: IS THERE ANY INDICATION OF OTHER ATTEMPTS BY THE FMLN TO SPY ON THE EMBASSY?

38. A: YES, THE SAME SERIES OF SAFEHOUSE RAIDS INDICATED A DRIVER HIRED PRIVATELY BY ONE EMBASSY FAMILY REPORTED TO THE FMLN ON THE IDENTITIES AND MOVEMENTS OF AMERICAN PERSONNEL AND THEIR FAMILY MEMBERS.

39. Q: CAN YOU GIVE US MORE INFORMATION ON THESE CASES?

40. A: BEYOND SAYING THAT THE INDIVIDUALS WERE DETAINED AND TREATED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SALVADORAN LAW, I HAVE NOTHING FOR YOU.

41. Q: WHO ARE THE U.S. OFFICIALS WHO QUESTIONED MRS. IGLESIAS?

42. A: THE QUESTIONING OF MRS IGLESIAS WAS DONE BY U.S. OFFICIALS ASSIGNED TO THE EMBASSY IN SAN SALVADOR.

43. Q: YES, BUT WHAT PART OF THE EMBASSY DID THEY WORK IN? WERE THEY MILITARY OFFICERS?

2. SUMMARY: UN RAPPORTEUR SAYS HIS CHILEAN VISIT HAS RECEIVED EVERY FACILITY FROM THE GOC, BUT HE HAS NO INDICATION THEY ARE CONSIDERING ANY CONCRETE IMPROVEMENTS IN RESPONSE TO HIS PRELIMINARY RECOMMENDATIONS. HIS FINAL REPORT. ACTION RECOMMENDED: THAT WE AND OTHER DEMOCRACIES DELAY DEMARCHES TO GOC UNTIL AFTER WE HAVE DISCUSSED IMPACT OF HIS VISIT WITH CHILEAN HRC, WITH GOC, AND (IN SAN JOSE) WITH VOLIO HIMSELF. WE ALSO RECOMMEND DELAY IN UNHRC CONSIDERATION OF CHILE UNTIL LATE MARCH, AS VOLIO REQUESTS. END SUMMARY.

3. AMBASSADOR AND DCM LUNCHED WITH UN RAPPORTEUR FERNANDO VOLIO AND COSTA RICAN AMBASSADOR FAVIO CRUZ DECEMBER 16. VOLIO SAID HE HAD HAD ACTIVE AND ARDUOUS SCHEDULE OF INTERVIEWS AND MEETINGS, INCLUDING NOT ONLY HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS, GOC, AND INDIVIDUALS WHO SOUGHT APPOINTMENTS, BUT OPPOSITION LEADERS SUCH AS GABRIEL VALDES. HE HAD ALSO MADE ONE TRIP BY CHARTERED PLANE, TO CONCEPCION AND TEMUCO. GOVERNMENT HAD GIVEN HIM EVERY FACILITY AND POSED NO OBSTACLE TO ANY MEETING. ONLY DIPLOMATIC CONTACT HE WILL MAKE OTHER THAN U.S. WILL BE DUTCH AMBASSADOR RUTGERS (REASON UNSPECIFIED).

4. VOLIO IMMEDIATELY AGREED WITH OUR EXPRESSION OF CONCERN THAT GOC MAY HAVE FOCUSED ONLY ON HIS VISIT, VIEWING IT IN ITSELF AS A GREAT CONCESSION, AND MAY HAVE NO PLANS - CERTAINLY NOT AT THE PRESIDENTIAL LEVEL - FOR RESPONDING TO THE VISIT AND HIS RECOMMENDATIONS IN SUCH A WAY AS TO IMPROVE HUMAN RIGHTS PERFORMANCE AND FACILITATE MORE MODERATE RESOLUTIONS IN UN. HE SAID HE HAD TRIED OUT SOME IDEAS ON FOREIGN MINISTER DEL VALLE IN HIS INITIAL CALL AND WAS DISAPPOINTED THAT DEL VALLE HAD RESPONDED ONLY WITH A LENGTHY EXPOSITION OF CHILEAN SITUATION AS HE VIEWED IT. AMBASSADOR SAID THAT SEEMED TO BE A DEL VALLE TENDENCY. VOLIO SAID HE HAD GOTTEN IMPRESSION DEL VALLE WAS MORE OF A HARDLINER THAN HE HAD BEEN LED TO BELIEVE. HE WONDERED WHETHER GOC UNDERSTOOD MEANING OF MEXICO'S DEFEAT AT THE OAS, OR WHETHER THEY SIMPLY INTERPRETED THE NON-INCLUSION OF A SPECIFIC

CHILEAN ITEM IN THE OMNIBUS RESOLUTION AS A TRIUMPH FOR CHILEAN DIPLOMACY, AS THEY WERE SAYING PUBLICLY.

5. AS ANTICIPATED, VOLIO PUT EQUAL STRESS ON IMMEDIATE MEASURES TO IMPROVE HUMAN RIGHTS AND ON PROGRESS TOWARD DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION AS THE ONLY ENDURING GUARANTEE OF HUMAN RIGHTS. HE MENTIONED PROGRESS IN PROMULGATING

ELECTORAL LAWS AND BEGINNING OF DIALOGUE BETWEEN GOVERNMENT AND THE SIGNERS OF THE NATIONAL ACCORD AS KEY STEPS IN ADVANCING THE TRANSITION. WITHOUT PROGRESS ON THESE LINES, COMMUNIST STRENGTH AND INFLUENCE IN CHILE WILL ONLY INCREASE, HE SAID. HE WAS ENCOURAGED BY ANNOUNCEMENT THAT GARCIA WOULD RECEIVE THE THREE ACCORD ADVISERS, ALTHOUGH WE CAUTIONED HIM THERE WAS NO CLEAR INDICATION AS YET WHETHER THAT WOULD LEAD TO CONTINUING DIALOGUE. HE HIMSELF PLANS TO USE HIS MEETING WITH THE INTERIOR MINISTER TO "ADVANCE SOME IDEAS" OF WHAT THE GOC MIGHT DO, TO SEE IF HE GETS ANY FURTHER THAN HE DID WITH DEL VALLE.

6. IN LISTING STEPS HE THOUGHT GOC SHOULD TAKE, VOLIO ESSENTIALLY LISTED THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN HIS NOVEMBER REPORT TO THE UNGA WITHOUT GIVING ANY INDICATION OF PRIORITY. ASKED WHETHER HE PLANNED TO MAKE ANY SUBSTANTIVE PUBLIC STATEMENT BEFORE LEAVING CHILE, HE SAID NO, BUT THEN ADDED THAT HE WOULD SUGGEST GENERAL LINES OF RECOMMENDATIONS HE WOULD MAKE SO THAT "THERE WILL BE NO SURPRISES."

7. VOLIO SAID HE WOULD SPEND CHRISTMAS IN RIO, WHERE HIS WIFE WILL JOIN HIM, BEFORE RETURNING TO COSTA RICA. WHILE IN RIO HE WILL DRAFT FIRST OUTLINE OF HIS NEXT REPORT, GIVEN THE UNHCR SCHEDULE WHICH REQUIRES SUBMISSION IN DRAFT BY THIRD WEEK OF JANUARY IN ORDER TO PERMIT EDITING AND TRANSLATION BEFORE DISCUSSION IN

HE WOULD NOT ONLY FIND IT EASIER PERSONALLY, BUT THINKS IT WOULD LEAD TO A BETTER REPORT, IF UNHCR COULD TAKE UP OTHER COUNTRIES FIRST AND DELAY CHILE UNTIL LAST OF MARCH OR FIRST WEEK OF APRIL, MOVING HIS DRAFTING DEADLINE TO LATTER PART OF FEBRUARY. LARGELY CONFIRMED THE POINTS MADE IN HIS PRELIMINARY REPORT, AND EXPECTS HIS CONCLUSIONS TO BE MORE SPECIFICALLY WORDED IN HIS NEXT REPORT.

8. AMBASSADOR STRESSED OUR INTEREST IN SUPPORTING VOLIO'S MISSION AND ASKED THAT HE LET US KNOW, BEFORE HIS DEPARTURE OR AFTER, IF THERE IS ANY WAY WE CAN HELP. AMBASSADOR SAID HE WOULD BE IN DEPARTMENT ON CONSULTATIONS JANUARY 2 AND 3 AND WONDERED IF THERE WOULD BE AN OPPORTUNITY TO SEE VOLIO THERE OR IN MIAMI ON HIS WAY BACK TO COSTA RICA. VOLIO COUNTERED WITH SUGGESTION AMBASSADOR BARNES STOP OFF IN SAN JOSE ON HIS WAY BACK TO CHILE, ALTHOUGH HE NOTED THAT HE WOULD BE ACTIVELY CAMPAIGNING FOR ELECTION TO LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY AT THAT TIME.

- HE SAID HE COULD NOT SEE US AGAIN BEFORE LEAVING, THOUGH HE INDICATED IF THERE WAS ANYTHING STARTLING HE WOULD TRY TO CONVEY IT TO US THROUGH AMBASSADOR CRUZ.
9. COMMENT: WE CONCLUDE THAT IT WOULD BE PREMATURE FOR US OR OTHERS TO ATTEMPT DEMARCHES TO GOC BEFORE VOLIO'S DEPARTURE (DECEMBER 19, IF HE STICKS TO ORIGINAL SCHEDULE), EVEN ASSUMING OTHER EMBASSIES COULD BE MOBILIZED IN TIME. DEL VALLE IS IN MONTEVIDEO BUT RETURNS MID-WEEK AND AMBASSADOR IS SCHEDULED TO HAVE LUNCH WITH HIM DECEMBER 20. AMBASSADOR IS ALSO SEEING GARCIA DECEMBER 19. HE CAN AT THAT TIME EXPLORE GOC'S REACTIONS AND INTENTIONS, AS WE WILL ALSO DO WITH HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS. IT WOULD BE ESSENTIAL TO KNOW THESE REACTIONS, AND TO GET AN IDEA OF VOLIO'S REFLECTIONS AND INTENDED RECOMMENDATIONS, BEFORE MAKING FORMAL APPROACH TO GOC.
10. WE ALSO THINK IT WOULD BE IN EVERYONE'S INTEREST TO GIVE VOLIO A LITTLE MORE TIME TO DRAFT SUCH AN

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

1.I AM RESPONDING TO YOUR LETTER OF DECEMBER 3 ADDRESSED TO THE FORMER CONSUL GENERAL DON E. BEAN CONCERNING THE PLANNED VISIT TO SANTIAGO OF THE MOST REVEREND MATTHEW H. CLARK, BISHOP OF THE DIOCESE OF ROCHESTER. IN YOUR LETTER YOU STATED THAT BISHOP CLARK WOULD BE VISITING THE EMBASSY IN AN EFFORT TO HELP THE CAUSE OF ESTABAN MONTABONE URBANO.

2. UNFORTUNATELY, WE HAVE NO INFORMATION REGARDING ESTABAN MONTABONE URBANO. IF YOU COULD SUPPLY INFORMATION CONCERNING THE NATURE OF THE MONTABONE CASE, WE WOULD BE PLEASED TO HELP IN ANY WE CAN. IN ADDITION, I WOULD APPRECIATE THE DATES OF BISHOP CLARK'S PLANNED VISIT TO SANTIAGO.

3. I LOOK FORWARD TO HEARING FROM YOU AND AM PLEASED TO BE OF ANY ASSISTANCE.

SUBJECT: VISIT OF CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (CHRC) VICE PRESIDENT MAXIMO PACHECO

REF: STATE 381562

1. (C - ENTIRE TEXT)

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

2. SUMMARY: DURING HIS DEC. 11-13 VISIT TO WASHINGTON, CHRC VICE PRESIDENT PACHECO, A PROMINENT CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY LEADER AND LEADING MODERATE WITHIN THE CHRC, MET A NUMBER OF DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS, INCLUDING ARA ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS, DEPUTY ASSISTANT SECRETARY ROBERT GELBARD, AND ACTING HA ASSISTANT SECRETARY LEO MOSER. PRINCIPAL SUBJECTS COVERED WITH PACHECO WERE THE CURRENT HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION, PROPECTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC TRANS1TION AND US POLICY TOWARD CHILE. HIGHLIGHTS ARE REPORTED BELOW. ACTION REQUESTED IN PARAGRAPH 7. END SUMMARY.

3. CURRENT HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION:

DURING HIS DISCUSSIONS PACHECO ACKNOWLEDGED THAT IN GENERAL THE ATMOSPHERE HAS IMPROVED IN CHILE, CERTAINLY SINCE THE NATIONAL ACCORD WAS ANNOUNCED. AT THE SAME TIME HE STRESSED THAT SEVERE HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS HAVE CONTINUED, IN A MORE SELECTIVE FORM THAN BEFORE, WITH TARGETS GENERALLY CHURCH OR HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVISTS. ASKED TO IDENTIFY PR1ORITY HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEM AREAS WHERE THE US COULD TRY TO ASSIST, PACHECO NAMED THREE: TORTURE, EXILES AND LEGALIZATION OF POLITICAL PARTIES. PACHECO ALSO REFERRED ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS TO THE RECENT DETENT1ON BY COURT ORDER OF MENSAJE EDITOR FATHER RENATO HEVIA AND RAISED THIS SPECIFIC ISSUE DURING HIS MEETING WITH ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS. POINTING OUT THAT FATHER HEVIA REQUIRED SPECIAL MEDICAL TREATMENT BECAUSE OF EYE INJURIES FROM A CAR ACCIDENT, PACHECO ASKED THAT THE US INTERVENE ON BEHALF OF THE JESUIT PRIEST. DEPT OFFICIALS TOLD PACHECO THAT AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER HAD ALREADY RAISED FATHER HEVIA'S DETENTION WITH CHILEAN AMBASSADOR ERRAZURIZ AND THAT EMBASSY SANTIAGO HAD BEEN

CONFIDENTIAL

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ASKED TO FOLLOW UP ON THIS APPROACH.

4. PERSISTENCE OF TORTURE AND 1NTERNAL BANISHMENTS:

IN HIS MEETING WITH HA ACTING ASSISTANT SECRETARY MOSER, PACHECO EMPHASIZED THE PROBLEMS OF TORTURE AND INTERNL BANISHMENTS (RELEGATION). PACHECO CHARGED THAT CHILEAN

SECURITY FORCES HAD BECOME MORE EXPERT IN TORTURE AND CLAIMED THAT CHILEAN POLICE HAVE RECEIVED ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE IN THIS AREA FROM SOUTH AFRICA. ACCORDING TO PACHECO, TECHNIQUES OF TORTURE ALLEGEDLY EMPLOYED IN CHILE USE PSYCHOLOG1CAL MEANS, ELECTRIC1TY, WATER AND RAPE BY ANIMALS. HE SAID THAT TORTURE VICTIMS ARE IN SUCH A STATE OF FEAR AND SHOCK THAT THEY ARE GENERALLY AFRAID TO FILE COURT CHARGES. HE SAID THAT ALLEGATIONS OF TORTURE HAVE BEEN DIFFICULT TO PROVE SINCE FREQUENTLY THERE ARE NO VISIBLE SIGNS OF MISTREATMENT. PACHECO ALSO RAISED THE 1SSUE OF RELEGATIONS WITH MOSER, AND ALLEGED THAT NEW BANISHMENT SITES HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED AT EXTREMELY ISOLATED CARABINERO POSTS. PACHECO SAID THAT THOSE RELEGATED NOW MUST REPORT TO LOCAL POLICE THREE TIMES DAILY, RATHER THAN ONCE. THE CHRC VICE PRES1DENT ARGUED THAT SINCE THE NEW BANISHMENT SITES ARE NOT IN INHABITED AREAS, THOSE RELEGATED ARE EFFECTIVELY IMPRISONED.

5. TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY:

PACHECO INDICATED THAT THE NATIONAL ACCORD HAD IMPROVED THE POSITION OF THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION IN CHILE, BUT

EXPRESSED GREAT FRUSTRATION OVER PINOCHET'S REFUSAL TO AGREE TO A DIALOGUE. PACHECO NOTED THAT THERE WERL PERSISTENT RUMORS THAT ELEMENTS WITHIN THE ARMED FORCES HAVE PRESSED PINOCHET TO AGREE TO HOLDING FREE ELECTIONS IN 1989 RATHER THAN THE SINGLE-CANDIDATE PLEBISCITE AS ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

PROVIDED FOR IN THE 1980 CONSTITUTION. ASKED BY ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS WHETHER CHILE'S DEMOCRAT1C OPPOSITION WOULD BE SATISFIED WITH SUCH AN OUTCOME, OR WOULD THEN DEMAND PINOCHET'S IMMEDIATE REMOVAL, PACHECO REPLIED THAT PUBLICLY HIS POSITION WOULD REFLECT THE LATTER POS1T1ON, BUT IN PRIVATE, AS A REALIST, HE WOULD READILY SETTLE FOR "GENUINE, FREE ELECTIONS" IN 1989, IN WHICH THE PARTICIPANTS HAD A FAIR CHANCE TO COMPETE.

6. US POLICY TOWARDS CHILE:

PACHECO ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE US HAS SPOKEN OUT PUBLICLY IN SUPPORT OF THE NATIONAL ACCORD AND IN FAVOR OF CHILE'S TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. HE CAUTIONED THAT THE US SHOULD NOT BE DECEIVED BY PINOCHET, "WHO LIES VERY WELL," AND URGED THAT THE US MAINTAIN PUBLIC PRESSURE FOR A RETURN TO DEMOCRACY. PACHECO ALSO TOOK ISSUE WITH US POLICY TOWARDS CHILE ON TWO FRONTS:

--UN AND OAS HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTIONS.

WHILE EXPRESSYNG DISAPPOINTMENT OVER THE RECENT US VOTES, PARTICULARLY US ABSTENTION ON A CHILE-SPECIFIC PARAGRAPH IN THL OAS HUMAN RIGHTS RESOLUTION, PACHECO SAID HE DID NOT WISH TO PROLONG THE DEBATE. INSTEAD, PACHECO URGED THAT WE WORK TOGETHER, BEGINNING NOW, TO DEVELOP A MUTUALLY ACCEPTABLE RESOLUTION ON CHILE TO BE CONSIDERED AT THE NEXT UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION MEETING THIS SPRING IN GENEVA. ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS AGREED IN PRINCIPLE TO SUCH AN APPROACH. PACHECO AGREED TO CONSULT CLOSELY WITH EMBASSY SANTIAGO ON DEVELOPING A TEXT (REFTEL). HE SAID HE WOULD ALSO ENSURE THAT THE CHILEAN LEFT AGREED TO A SET OF ALTERNATIVE SPONSORS TO THE
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

MEXICO, CUBA, ALGERIA, AND YUGOSLAVIA GROUP WHICH TRADITIONALLY MANAGED THE RESOLUTIONS. HE PROMISED THAT THE CHRC WOULD COOPERATE CLOSELY WITH UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO, AS URGED BY DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS.

--SUPPORT FOR CHILEAN ECONOMY IN INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

PACHECO COMMENTED THAT HE DISAGREED WITH US SUPPORT FOR LOANS TO CHILE IN THE INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, NOT BECAUSE HE FAVORED AN ECONOMIC WAR

AGAINST CHILE, BUT BECAUSE HE BELIEVED THAT SUCH SUPPORT SHOULD BE CONDITIONED ON ACHIEVING TANGIBLE PROGRESS ON HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEMS. DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS TOLD PACHECO THAT THE US ALSO SOUGHT TO BRING ABOUT PROGRESS ON HUMA. RIGHTS ISSUES BUT THAT US SUPPORT FOR THE CHILEAN ECONOMY WAS NECESSARY TO HELP THE CHILEAN PEOPLE, AND TO AVOID

GREATER ECONOMIC DISTRESS THAT COULD LEAD TO POLARIZATION AND JEOPARDIZE A SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY. ASSISTANT SECRETARY ABRAMS NOTED THAT WHILE CHILEAN CARDINAL FRESNO HAD NOT SPECIFICALLY SUPPORTED US POLICY IN THIS RESPECT IN RECENT CONVERSATIONS HERE, WE BELIEVED THAT OUR SUPPORT FOR THE CHILEAN ECONOMY WAS CLOSELY IN LINE WITH CHURCH VIEWS ON THE ISSUE. ABRAMS ALSO NOTED IN PASSING THAT FRESNO HELPED, INDIRECTLY AT LEAST, TO BRING ABOUT RESOLUTION OF THE PROBLEMS REGARDING ITALIAN BANK PARTICIPATION IN CHILE'S COMMERCIAL BANK MONEY FACILITY, WHICH HAD THREATENED TO BRING GREATER ECONOMIC SUFFERING ON THE CHILEAN PEOPLE.

7. ACTION REQUESTED: DEPARTMENT WOULD APPRECIATE EMBASSY ANALYSIS OF PACHECO'S ALLEGATIONS TO MOSER REGARDING TORTURL AND THE DESIGNATION OF NEW, ISOLATED RELEGATION SITES. WHITEHEAD

REF: SANTIAGO 8509

1. THE SIXTH COURT OF APPEALS IN SANTIAGO RULED ON DECEMBER 18 THAT JOSE RUIZ DI GEORGIO, PRESIDENT OF THE PETROLEUM WORKERS FEDERATION, AND MARIO ARANEDA ESPINOZA, OF THE COORDINADORA METROPOLITANA DE POBLADORES, SHOULD BE RELEASED FROM PRISON. DI GIORGIO WAS GIVEN AN UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE FOR LACK OF MERIT TO THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM, AND ARANEDA WAS RELEASED ON BAIL. BOTH HAD COMPLETED 86 DAYS IN JAIL WHILE CHARGES OF THEIR HAVING ORGANIZED, INSTIGATED AND PARTICIPATED IN THE EARLY SEPTEMBER ACTS OF VIOLENCE WERE INVESTIGATED.
2. (U) THE COURT ALSO RULED THAT MANUEL BUSTOS, PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL WORKERS COMMAND (CNT), ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

SHOULD NOT BE RELEASED ON BAIL BECAUSE OF HIS PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS ON SIMILAR CHARGES.

3. (C) LABOR ATTACHE MET WITH BUSTOS MORNING OF DECEMBER 19. BUSTOS, WHO APPEARED SOMEWHAT MORE DEJECTED THAN DURING PREVIOUS VISITS, STATED THAT HE HAD NO CLEAR IDEA AS TO WHY HIS APPEAL FOR BAIL HAD BEEN DENIED. HE NOTED THAT BOTH ARANEDA AND EDUARDO VALENCIA, ANOTHER SHANTYTOWN LEADER WHO HAD BEEN RELEASE ON BAIL ON NOVEMBER 27 (REFTEL), HAD MUCH MORE SERIOUS PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS THAN HAD BUSTOS. BOTH OF THESE INDIVIDUALS, ACCORDING TO BUSTOS, WERE PRESENTLY UNDER SENTENCE BY THE MILITARY COURTS FOR PREVIOUS VIOLATIONS OF THE SECURITY LAWS. HE ADMITTED BEING DESPONDENT OVER THE REFUSAL OF THE COURT TO ACCEPT HIS FIFTH APPEAL FOR BAIL, AND STATED THAT HE WOULD NOW WAIT UNTIL AFTER THE NEW YEAR BEFORE FILING ANOTHER APPEAL. THE VARIOUS COURT JUSTICES CHANGE COURTS IN JANUARY, AND HE IS HOPEFUL THAT A MORE LENIENT JUDGE WILL BE APPOINTED TO THE SIXTH COURT OF APPEALS, WHICH IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS CASE. HE ADDED THAT HE WAS ALSO DISCOURAGED BY THE INABILITY OF THE ICFTU AND OTHER GROUPS TO GET THE GOC TO DROP THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

4. (C) COMMENT: BUSTOS REMAINS AS THE ONLY TRADE UNION OR SHANTYTOWN LEADER IN JAIL ON CHARGES STEMMING FROM THE SEPTEMBER VIOLENCE. IT IS NOT CLEAR AS TO WHY HE HAS BEEN SINGLED OUT FOR WHAT APPEARS TO BE SPECIAL TREATMENT, BUT HIS HIGH PUBLIC PROFILE IN OPPOSITION TO

9. COMMENT: THE POSSIBILITY REMAINS THAT THE MIR COULD CARRY OUT A KIDNAPPING AT ANY TIME IN THE NEAR FUTURE. SHOULD THE MIR FINALLY CONCLUDE THAT SUCH AN ACT IS BEYOND THEIR CAPABILITIES, THEY COULD WELL CONSIDER A LESS COMPLICATED LOWER RISK ATTACK AGAINST A USG TARGET SUCH AS AN ASSASSINATION OR BOMBING. THIS IS PARTICULARLY LIKELY GIVEN THE DECISION BY LIBYA TO CONDITION ITS FUNDING OF MIR ON SUCCESSFUL COMPLETION OF TERRORIST ACT AGAINST USG TARGET. FOR THIS REASON THE EMBASSY HAS DECIDED TO CONTINUE ITS PURSUIT OF ENHANCED SECURITY MEASURES DESCRIBE IN PREVIOUS TELEGRAMS AND NOT TO STAND DOWN IN ANY MANNER. EMBASSY JUDGMENT IS THAT WE ARE LIKELY TO REMAIN AT NEW AND HIGHER LEVEL OF THREAT FOR INDEFINITE FUTURE. BARNES

SUBJECT: EFFECTS OF RECENT EXCHANGE RATE MOVEMENTS ON THE -- FOREIGN INDEBTEDNESS OF PRIVATE SECTOR COMPANIES
-- IN MEXICO.

1. SUMMARY: IN 1985, MEXICAN COMPANIES' EXTERNAL DEBTS HAVE BEEN ADVERSELY AFFECTED BY RAPID EXCHANGE RATE MOVEMENTS. AS A GROUP, THEIR DOLLAR DENOMINATED DEBTS ARE NOW ALMOST 100 PERCENT HIGHER IN PESO TERMS THAN THEY WERE AT THE END OF 1984. THIS HAS HURT THEIR FINANCIAL POSITION AND CONTRIBUTED TO INFLATIONARY PRESSURES IN THE

Date Printed: 03/17/1997 DOC_NUMBER: 85MEXICO27234 CHANNEL: n/a COUNTRY. END SUMMARY.

2. THE MEXICAN PRIVATE SECTOR OWES ABOUT $18 BILLION TO FOREIGN CREDITORS. OF THIS, $11.5 BILLION IS REGISTERED IN FICORCA AND $6.5 BILLION IS OUTSIDE OF FICORCA. BASED ON A SURVEY OF THE 86 LARGEST COMPANIES (WHICH TOGETHER ACCOUNT FOR 72 PERCENT OF PRIVATE SECTOR FOREIGN DEBT) LISTED ON THE MEXICAN STOCK EXCHANGE, THE PESO EQUIVALENT OF PRIVATE SECTOR EXTERNAL DEBT IS ALMOST 100 PERCENT HIGHER IN DECEMBER 1985 THAN IT WAS AT THE END OF 1984. THIS COMPARES WITH AN ESTIMATED INFLATION RATE IN 1985 OF 62 PERCENT.

4. DURING 1984, THE PESO WAS DEVALUED AT A CONSTANT RATE, FIRST AT 13 CENTAVOS PER DAY UNTIL DECEMBER WHEN IT WAS INCREASED TO 18 CENTAVOS A DAY. THIS MADE PLANNING
UNCLASSIFIED

ACTIVITIES BY PRIVATE COMPANIES MUCH EASIER. FURTHERMORE, THE TOTAL DEVALUATION OF THE CONTROLLED EXCHANGE RATE WAS ONLY 30 PERCENT COMPARED TO AN INFLATION RATE OF 59 PERCENT. THUS MOST COMPANIES' EXTERNAL DEBT PROFILE IMPROVED CONSIDERABLY.

5. HOWEVER, DURING 1985 THE DAILY RATE OF DEVALUATION OF

THE CONTROLLED RATE PESO INCREASED MARKEDLY AND IN ADDITION THERE WAS A MAXI-DEVALUATION IN JULY. BY MID DECEMBER THE CONTROLLED RATE HAD FALLEN BY 83 PERCENT (I.E. THESE COMPANIES' EXTERNAL OBLIGATION HAD INCREASED BY 83 PERCENT), COMPARED TO AN ESTIMATED INFLATION RATE OF ABOUT 62 PERCENT. THE CASE OF ALFA, WHICH IS ONE OF MEXICO'S LARGEST INDUSTRIAL CONGLOMERATES, ILLUSTRATES THE PROBLEM. AT THE END OF JUNE 1985, ITS FICORCA DEBT WAS 255 BILLION PESOS. BY MID DECEMBER THE FIGURE HAS RISEN TO 394 BILLION PESOS, AN INCREASE OF 55 PERCENT IN LESS THAN SIX MONTHS.

6. COMPANIES WITH EXTERNAL DEBTS NOT REGISTERED IN FICORCA HAVE FARED EVEN WORSE. SO FAR THIS YEAR THEIR EXTERNAL OBLIGATIONS DENOMINATED IN PESOS HAVE RISEN BY 124 PERCENT. THE NET EFFECT OF THIS DEVELOPMENT IS THAT MANY COMPANIES' BALANCE SHEETS HAVE DETERIORATED IN 1985 (I.E. THE RATIO OF LIABILITIES TO ASSETS HAS RISEN). ALSO, THEY HAVE HAD TO FACTOR RISING FINANCING COSTS INTO THE PRICES OF THEIR PRODUCTS AND THIS HAS HAD AN IMPORTANT INFLATIONARY EFFECT ON THE ECONOMY.

7. IT IS DIFFICULT TO DETERMINE HOW PRIVATE SECTOR COMPANIES WILL FARE IN 1986 WITH REGARD TO PESO DEBT BURDENS. IF THE AUTHORITIES ARE ABLE TO ADJUST THE EXCHANGE RATES IN LINE WITH THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL INFLATION, THE BALANCE SHEETS OF THE COMPANIES SHOULD IMPROVE SOMEWHAT. HOWEVER, IF

SUBJECT: HEVIA FREE ON BAIL

REF: (A) KNIGHT/SWIGERT TELCON 12-19-85 (B) STATE 376457

1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ ENTIRE TEXT.

2. RAPID AND OFTEN CONTRADICTORY DEVELOPMENTS IN THE HEVIA/MENSAJE CASE HAVE MADE REPORTING ON THIS CASE DIFFICULT. THE LATEST DECISION, ON DECEMBER 18, BY JUDGE MARCOS LIBEDINSKY WAS THAT THERE SHOULD BE A TEMPORARY STAY OF PROCEEDINGS IN THE CASE AGAINST HEVIA, AND THAT HE SHOULD BE FREED ON BAIL OF TWO THOUSAND PESOS (APPROX. $10). PRELIMINARY PRESS REPORTS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON ERRONEOUSLY STATED THAT HEVIA HAD BEEN RELEASED FROM PRISON, BUT LATER REPORTS
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CLARIFIED THAT HE HAD NOT PAID THE BAIL AND WAS STILL IN PRISON. HEVIA TOLD EMBOFFS, WHO VISITED HIM IN PRISON ON THE MORNING OF DECEMBER 19, THAT AFTER CONSULTING WITH HIS LAWYER HE WAS PAYING THE BAIL AND EXPECTS TO BE OUT OF PRISON SOMETIME DURING THE AFTERNOON OF DECEMBER 19.

3. AS IT STANDS NOW, THE GOVERNMENT IS APPEALING THE LATEST LIBEDINSKY DECISION, AS IS HEVIA'S OWN LAWYER. HEVIA'S APPEAL IS THAT THE STAY OF PROCEEDINGS SHOULD BE PERMANENT AND NOT TEMPORARY, AS THERE HAS BEEN NO EVIDENCE OF A VIOLATION HAVING BEEN COMMITTED. A TEMPORARY STAY INDICATES THAT THERE IS INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO HOLD THE DEFENDENT, BUT THAT THE CASE SHOULD REMAIN OPEN FOR FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS.

4. MONSIGNOR PRECHT INFORMED US A WEEK AGO THAT HEVIA HAD NOT REQUESTED RELEASE ON BAIL EARLIER BECAUSE HE WANTED TO KEEP POLITICAL PRESSURE ON THE REGIME, AND PRECHT TOLD US ON THE MORNING OF DECEMBER 18 THAT HEVIA WOULD NOT POST BAIL UNTIL AFTER JANUARY 1 FOR THE SAME REASON. WE DO NOT KNOW WHY HEVIA APPEARS NOW TO HAVE CHANGED HIS MIND.

5. FOR BACKGROUND, ON DECEMBER 17 THE FISCAL (PROSECUTOR) OF THE COURT OF APPEALS DECIDED THAT THERE SHOULD BE A TEMPORARY STAY OF PROCEEDINGS IN THE CASE. THE DECISION OF THE FISCAL BASICALLY SUPPORTED THE DECISION OF JUDGE LIBEDINSKY ON SEPTEMBER 30 TO CLOSE THE CASE AGAINST HEVIA AND TO CLEAR HIM OF

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

THE CHARGES. HEVIA HAS BEEN HELD IN THE CAPUCHINO ANNEX OF THE PUBLIC PRISON (THE "EXECUTIVE'S" PRISON) SINCE DECEMBER 5, FOLLOWING THE DECEMBER 3 DECISTLCKEVENTH COURT OF APPEALS. THIS COURT RULED ON DECEMBER 16 THAT JUDGE LIBEDINSKY'S DECISION WAS CORRECT, WHICH REINFORCED THE PREVIOUS DECISION TO PUT THE CASE BEFORE THE FISCAL OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

6. THE PRESS ATTACHE AND THE LABOR ATTACHE VISITED HEVIA IN PRISON TO OBTAIN HIS VIEWS ON THE PRESENT SITUATION. HEVIA STATED THAT THE GOC'S PERSISTENCE IN PROSECUTING THE CASE AGAINST "MENSAJE" IS PART OF ITS EFFORTS TO FORCE THE CATHOLIC CHURCH INTO A MORE NEUTRAL ROLE. THE GOC VIEWS THE PRESENT CHURCH HIERARCHY AS UNFRIENDLY, ESPECIALLY IN THE AREA OF HUMAN RIGHTS, AND WOULD LIKE TO SOMEHOW CHANGE THE CHURCH'S ATTITUDE, OR AT LEAST NEUTRALIZE THE CHURCH'S IMPACT AMONG THE POOR. HE EXPRESSED HIS APPRECIATION FOR THE INTEREST IN HIS CASE, SHOWN BY THE DEPARTMENT, SENATOR KENNEDY, AND THE CATHOLIC CHURCH'S CARDINALS IN NEW YORK AND WASHINGTON, D.C. BARNES

RE: Memorandum to the Secretary on Soviet Links with Chilean Terrorists

The memorandum states that "Soviet-controlled propaganda boradcasts beamed to South America by Chilean exiles openly call for violence against the Pinochet regime." This is true, but the appeals are more subtly phrased than the statement indicates.

The following excerpts, which I consider typical of such broadcasts, are from an interview between Luis Corvalan, Secretary General of the PCCh, and the Mexican daily Excelsior, published June 14 1985. Read by an announcer, it was broadcast by Moscow to Chile in Spanish a few days later.

-- (Corvalan:) "Pinochet is a fascist dictator. He is overbearing, and has an unlimited desire to stay in power. He will not leave power of his own will. He will have to be removed by force."

-- (Corvalan:) "We feel that it is legitimate for the people to defend themselves through all means, even through violent means, against the fascist violence and state terrorism. We also feel that the only way to put an end to dictatorship is by fighting and acheiving the unity of the people, creating a situation of popular rebellion, and of a climate in which governing becomes impossible for Pinochet, in the midst of a general uprising of the people."

The PCCh calls for a unified opposition, but will not give up its option of armed resistance. When asked if he would abandon violence for the sake of unity, Corvalan replied that he would discuss anything, but that the best way to eliminate violence was to eliminate the inherently violent fascist regime.

Thus the statement is correct, though it eliminates the subtlety of Corvalan's appeal -- that the arbitary exercise of violence by authority generally begats violence. One would think that Pinochet was Mary Tyler Moore from reading the memorandum.

MAXIMO PACHECO CAME TO SEE AMBASSADOR DECEMBER 19 TO TALK ABOUT HIS TRIP TO THE US. WHAT PACHECO HAD TO SAY JIBED VERY WELL WITH REFTELS, SAVE IN ONE PARTICULAR. DISCUSSED BY EMBASSY WITH PACHECO, WHO, ONCE TEXT WAS AGREED, WOULD UNDERTAKE TO SELL IT TO MODERATE SPONSORS AND TO PERSUADE MEXICANS TO STEP OUT OF THEIR SPONSORING ROLE OF PREVIOUS YEARS. WHEN THE AMBASSADOR PRESSED PACHECO ON WHETHER THE MEXICANS WOULD SO RESPOND, HE SAID HE HAD BEEN ASSURED BY CHILEAN EXILES IN NEW YORK WHO HAD VERY CLOSE TIES WITH MEXICANS THAT THEY WOULD BE ABLE TO DO SO. PACHECO SAID HE WOULD FOCUS HIS EFFORTS ON GETTING SPAIN TO TAKE THE LEAD. DURING HIS STOPOVER IN PARIS, SPAIN HAD BEEN SUGGESTED BY A GROUP OF FRENCH QUAI AND ELYSEE OFFICIALS WHOM MME. MITTERAND HAD GATHERED TO MEET WITH HIM. THEY ALSO SUGGESTED A LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRY, PERHAPS VENEZUELA. HIS OWN PREFERENCE, HE SAID, WOULD BE URUGUAY BECAUSE THE CURRENT FOREIGN MINISTER LIVED HERE FOR SOME YEARS AND THE SYMBOLISM OF URUGUAY AS A SOUTHERN CONE COUNTRY WHICH HAD RECENTLY RETURNED TO DEMOCRATIC WAYS WOULD BE GOOD. PACHECO ALSO SAID THAT HIS FRENCH INTERLOCUTORS TOLD HIM THEY WERE WILLING TO BE AS HELPFUL AS THEY COULD IN DEVELOPING A TEXT THAT WOULD WIN US SUPPORT.
2. WOULD APPRECIATE CLARIFICATION OF WHO DOES THE INITIAL DRAFTS. AS SEEN FROM HERE, WE SEE AN ADVANTAGE IN THE FIRST WORK BEING DONE IN WASHINGTON IN ORDER TO INVOLVE ALL THE INTERESTED AREAS THERE.

DEC. 18. THE FOLLOWING IS A SUMMARY OF HIS SCHEDULE.

3. (U) DEC 8 (SUNDAY) ARRIVAL

5. (U) DEC 10 (TUESDAY) FOLLOWING A MORNING MEETING WITH THE COUNCIL OF STATE, VOLIO PROCEEDED TO THE OFFICES OF THE VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY. A DEMONSTRATION TOOK PLACE AS HE ARRIVED. ACCORDING TO THE POLICE, THERE WERE APPROX. 100 DEMONSTRATORS, INCLUDING SEVERAL KNOWN MDP ACTIVISTS. THE DEMONSTRATION WAS BROKEN UP BY THE USE OF TEAR GAS AND WATER CANNONS. AT THE VICARIATE, VOLIO MET WITH MONSIGNOR SANTIAGO TAPIA AND OTHER OFFICIALS OF THE VICARIATE'S LEGAL DEPARTMENT. FROM 1700 TO 1900 HE MET WITH MINISTER OF JUSTICE HUGO ROSENDE. THAT EVENING VOLIO WORKED AT CEPAL UNTIL 2300, LISTENING TO TESTIMONIES IN 5 HUMAN RIGHTS CASES.

6. (U) DEC 11 (WEDNESDAY) AFTER A MORNING MEETING AT THE COMPTROLLER GENERAL, VOLIO SPENT SEVERAL HOURS

AT CEPAL LISTENING TO MORE DEPOSITIONS. IN THE AFTERNOON, HE MET WITH THE ARCHBISHOP OF CONCEPCION AND WITH THE COMMITTEE FOR THE STUDY OF ORGANIC CONSTITUTIONAL LAWS (FERNANDEZ COMMISSION). AT 1800 HE WENT TO THE OFFICES OF THE CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION WHERE HE MET WITH JAIME CASTILLO AND CHRC OFFICIALS, AND LISTENED TO MORE

8. (U) DEC 13 (FRIDAY) VOLIO HAD A BRIEF DISCUSSION WITH GABRIEL VALDES OF THE PDC BEFORE GOING TO THE CHILEAN SUPREME COURT FOR A 2-HOUR MEETING. IN THE AFTERNOON, HE VISITED THE WORKERS' DISTRICT OF LA VICTORIA, WHERE A FRENCH PRIEST WAS SHOT AND KILLED DURING DEMONSTRATIONS IN 1984. THERE, VOLIO TALKED WITH CATHOLIC PRIEST PIERRE DUBOIS AND TO LOCAL CITIZENS. AFTERWARDS, VOLIO HAD A 90-MINUTE MEETING WITH FOREIGN MINISTER JAIME DEL VALLE.

9. (U) DEC 14 (SATURDAY) VOLIO TRAVELED TO VALPARAISO IN A CHARTER AIRCRAFT FOR A MORNING MEETING WITH THE LOCAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION. BEFORE FLYING OFF TO CONCEPCION AT 1700, HE VISITED VALPARAISO JAIL TO TALK WITH PRISONERS BEING HELD FOR VIOLATIONS OF STATE SECURITY LAWS. IN CONCEPCION HE MET WITH VARIOUS HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS INCLUDING THE FAMILIES OF THE EXILED AND DETAINED.

10. (U) DEC 15 (SUNDAY) HE VISITED THE CONCEPCION PRISON TO TALK TO POLITICAL PRISONERS. THAT AFTERNOON

WITH 3 INVESTIGATIONS MAGISTRATES (JOSE CANOVAS, ALBERTO ECHAVARRIA, AND CARLOS CERDA) WHO ARE INVESTIGATING CASES OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES. THAT AFTERNOON VOLIO TRAVELLED TO SEVERAL JAILS IN THE SANTIAGO AREA. HE MET WITH FATHER RENATO HEVIA (EDITOR OF "LA MENSAJE") AND WITH NINE HUNGER STRIKERS. SOON AFTERWARDS, THE HUNGER STRIKE WAS CALLED OFF. THAT EVENING HE CONTINUED MEETING WITH HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS.

14. (U) DEC 19 (THURSDAY) FOLLOWING MORNING MEETINGS WITH CARLOS CERDA AND ANDRES ALLAMAND (UN), VOLIO DEPARTED CHILE.

15. (C) PRELIMINARY REACTIONS BY GOC OFFICIALS AND HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS HAVE DIFFERED TOWARDS THE RECENTLY CONCLUDED VISIT TO CHILE BY UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON HUMAN RIGHTS, FERNANDO VOLIO. AMBASSADOR WAS TOLD BY INTERIOR MINISTER GARCIA DECEMBER 19 THAT VOLIO, IN HIS FAREWELL CALL, HAD BEEN EFFUSIVE (AS HE WAS IN HIS PRESS COMMENTS) ABOUT CHILEAN GOVERNMENT WILLINGNESS TO FACILITATE HIS INSPECTION. GARCIA SAID HE HAD TOLD VOLIO AT THE BEGINNING THAT VOLIO SHOULD COME TO HIM IF HE FOUND HE WAS NOT GETTING TO SEE WHOMEVER HE WISHED, BUT, GARCIA ADDED, VOLIO NEVER HAD TO ASK FOR HELP.

16. (C) GARCIA ALSO MENTIONED THAT VOLIO HAD GIVEN HIM A GENERAL SENSE OF HIS THINKING. WHEN AMBASSADOR ASKED WHETHER GARCIA THOUGHT THE GOC WOULD BE WILLING TO CARRY OUT THE SORT OF IDEAS VOLIO HAD RECOMMENDED IN HIS PRELIMINARY REPORT, GARCIA SAID HE FELT VOLIO'S GENERAL APPROACH WAS SOMETHING HE COULD AND WOULD SUPPORT, THOUGH, HE ADDED, THESE DECISIONS WERE NOT HIS ALONE TO MAKE. BY WAY OF EXAMPLE, HE SAID SOME OF VOLIO'S POINTS LIKE SEPARATE FACILITIES FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS WERE EASIER BECAUSE THEY WERE RELATIVELY SPECIFIC (THOUGH NOT NECESSARILY THAT EASY BECAUSE OF THE RESOURCE COSTS). HE ALSO THOUGHT SOME HEADWAY COULD BE MADE ON THE QUESTION OF REORGANIZING THE POLICE. WHEN IT CAME TO SPEEDING UP THE JUDICIAL PROCESS, HE RECALLED FROM HIS OWN DAYS AS A TRIAL LAWYER THAT THE COURTS HAD ALWAYS MOVED VERY SLOWLY. WITH REGARD TO EXILES, HE SAID THE LIST WAS BEING STEADILY WHITTLED DOWN AND THAT, IN ANY CASE, WHEN THE PRESENT CONSTITUTION GOES INTO FULL FORCE IN 1989, THE EXILE LIST WOULD BE ABOLISHED. IN RESPONSE TO THE AMBASSADOR'S QUESTION WHY NOT GET RID OF IT SOONER, GARCIA SAID HE FELT PRETTY MUCH THAT WAY HIMSELF, BUT THAT THE SECURITY SERVICES WERE VERY CAUTIOUS.

17. (C) REFERRING TO VOLIO'S FINAL REPORT EXPECTED A FEW MONTHS HENCE, THE AMBASSADOR ASKED IF GARCIA FELT THE GOC WOULD BE PREPARED IN PRINCIPLE TO SUPPORT HIS RECOMMENDATIONS OR WHETHER THERE WAS NOT THAT MUCH INTEREST IN THE GOVERNMENT ABOUT OUTSIDE ATTITUDES TOWARD CHILE. GARCIA COUNTERED

BY SAYING, IF THAT WERE THE CASE, THE GOC WOULD NEVER HAVE INVITED VOLIO. FOR HIS PART, HE FELT VOLIO HAD AN OBLIGATION--LIKE A FRIEND COMING TO VISIT ONE'S HOUSE TO SEE WHAT'S WRONG--TO SAY JUST WHAT WERE THE PROBLEMS HE HAD FOUND AND THEN TO WORK TOGETHER TO OVERCOME THEM. GARCIA WAS QUITE PREPARED TO ADMIT THAT THERE COULD WELL BE ABUSES OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE - FOR THAT MATTER THERE WAS PROBABLY NO COUNTRY WHERE THERE WEREN'T SOME - BUT HE MAINTAINED THAT THERE WAS NOT A SYSTEMATIC POLICY OF ABUSES. THE AMBASSADOR ARGUED THAT IN THE CASE OF TORTURE, THERE WERE ENOUGH

CASES TO RAISE QUESTIONS ABOUT GARCIA'S ASSUMPTIONS AND CITED THE RECENT VISIT OF SOME REPRESENTATIVES OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATIONS OF PSYCHOLOGISTS AND PSYCHIATRISTS WHO FELT THAT THEY HAD SEEN CONVINCING EVIDENCE OF SUCH PRACTICES. HE SAID HE HAD NOT NOTICED SINCE HIS ARRIVAL ANY STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT DISOWNING TORTURE EVEN, OR PLEDGING TO TAKE THE NECESSARY MEASURES TO PUNISH THOSE CHARGED AND CONVICTED. THIS MEETING WAS THE FIRST THE AMBASSADOR HAD HAD WITH GARCIA AS A RESULT OF GARCIA'S EXPRESSED WILLINGNESS TO GET TOGETHER INFORMALLY FROM TIME TO TIME. THEY WILL MEET AGAIN IN JANUARY.

18. (C) REACTIONS TO VOLIO VISIT

ALEJANDRO GONZALEZ OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH'S VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY TOLD US ON DEC 19 THAT HE WAS PLEASED THAT VOLIO COULD COME TO CHILE TO SEE FIRST HAND THE CONDITIONS RELATING TO HUMAN RIGHTS, AND PLEASED THAT VOLIO WAS ABLE TO SPEND CONSIDERABLE AMOUNTS OF TIME WITH THE VICARIATE. HE REPEATED HIS POSITION THAT VOLIO, AS UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, SHOULD CONFINE HIS ACTIVITIES TO REPORTING THE FACTS OF THE SITUATION, AND NOT ATTEMPT TO BECOME INVOLVED IN INTERNAL MATTERS BY TRYING TO ACT AS A MEDIATOR OR INTERMEDIATE IN THE POLITICAL AFFAIRS OF CHILE. GONZALEZ STATED THAT HE PREFERS TO WAIT AND SEE WHAT TYPE OF REPORT VOLIO PREPARES BEFORE MAKING ANY FINAL JUDGEMENT ON THE USEFULLNESS OF HIS VISIT. THE PRELIMINARY REPORT WAS VERY FAULTY, AND GAVE CONSIDERABLY MORE TIME AND ATTENTION TO ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

VOLIO'S ATTEMPTS TO SEE, AND DISCUSSIONS WITH GOC LEADERS, THAN TO THE INFORMATION PROVIDED TO HIM BY SUCH GROUPS AS THE VICARIATE. GONZALEZ WAS PARTICULARLY UPSET THAT HIS TRIP TO SAN JOSE IN MAY 1985, DURING WHICH HE HAD SEVERAL LONG SESSIONS WITH VOLIO AND PRESENTED HIM WITH 8 KILOS OF DOCUMENTS ON SPECIFIC HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN CHILE, HAD ONLY RECEIVED ONE SMALL PARAGRAPH IN THE VOLIO REPORT (PARA 23 ON PAGE 8 OF THE ENGLISH VERSION OF THE VOLIO REPORT). ON THE OTHER HAND, VOLIO WAS PROFUSE IN HIS COMMENTS ABOUT HIS VISITS WITH SUCH GOC OFFICIALS AS SPECIAL AMBASSADOR MARIO CALDERON, AND ONE HAD THE IMPRESSION THAT THE

GOC OFFICIALS WERE THE ONLY ONES OF ANY IMPORTANCE TO VOLIO. GONZALEZ EXPRESSED HIS HOPE THAT THE FINAL VERSION OF THE VOLIO REPORT WILL BE MORE OBJECTIVE, AND MORE IN LINE WITH PREVIOUS REPORTS BY THE UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEURS.

EXPRESSED SATISFACTION THAT VOLIO'S FINAL REPORT WILL GIVE AMPLE AND PROPER COVERAGE TO THE PLIGHT OF THE POLITICAL PRISONERS, AND MAY ASSIST IN GETTING THE GOC TO RECTIFY SOME OF THESE PROBLEMS.

20. (C) COMMENT: THROUGHOUT HIS STAY, VOLIO RECEIVED PROMINENT PRESS COVERAGE. THERE WAS CONSTANT REFERENCE TO HIS GRATITUDE TO THE GOC FOR ALLOWING HIM TO COME TO CHILE. ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS, HE MENTIONED THAT NO OBSTACLES HAD BEEN PLACED IN HIS WAY AND THAT HE WAS PERFECTLY FREE TO CARRY OUT HIS INVESTIGATIONS. ON DEC 10 THE PRESS

QUOTED MARIO CALDERON AS SAYING THAT THE VOLIO MISSION HAD BEEN PERSONALLY APPROVED BY PRESIDENT PINOCHET, WITH THE UNDERSTANDING THAT VOLIO WOULD LISTEN TO BOTH SIDES. IT SHOULD BE NOTED THAT VOLIO MET WITH HUGO ROSENDE ON THE SECOND DAY OF HIS MISSION AS RECOMMENDED (SEE REFTEL B) AND ALSO MET WITH THE AMBASSADOR ON DEC 16 AT A LUNCHEON AT THE COSTA RICAN EMBASSY (REFTEL A). OVERALL, THE GOC WELCOMED THE VISIT AND WENT TO GREAT PAINS

TO FACILITATE VOLIO'S WORK. WHAT REMAINS TO SEEN IS WHETHER GOC WILL NOW MOVE TO MEET SOME OF VILIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS, AS IT HAS PROMISED PRIVATELY, OR WHETHER IT WILL FEEL THAT IT HAS DONE ALL THAT WAS NECESSARY SIMPLY PERMITTING THE VISIT. END COMMENT. BARNES

1. LABATT DISCUSSED SITUATION OF POLITICAL PRISONERS WITH THREE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE AGRUPACION DE FAMILIARES DE PRESOS POLITICOS ON DECEMBER 20. AMONG OTHER ITEMS, THEY CONFIRMED THAT THE INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS, WHICH HAS AN OFFICE IN SANTIAGO, PAYS REGULAR VISITS TO POLITICAL PRISONERS. UNDER NORMAL CONDITIONS, THESE VISITS TAKE PLACE MONTHLY, BUT FOLLOWING THE PRISON ESCAPE ATTEMPT OF OCTOBER 18, IN WHICH ONE POLITICAL PRISONER WAS KILLED AND SEVERAL WOUNDED, THE VISITS WERE ON A MORE FREQUENT BASIS. DURING THE LAST TWO WEEKS, WHEN SEVERAL POLITICAL PRISONERS STAGED A COMPLETE HUNGER STRIKE, THE VISITS WERE ON A DAILY BASIS. THE ONLY COMPLAINT LODGED BY THE REPRESENTATIVES WAS THAT THE RED CROSS IS LIMITED IN THE TYPES OF ASSISTANCE IT CAN PROVIDE TO THE POLITICAL PRISONERS. BARNES

1. HERIBERTO JARA WAS ONE OF TEN PEOPLE ARRESTED ON DECEMBER 12 IN SANTIAGO WHILE ATTEMPTING TO MARCH TO THE PRESIDENTIAL PALACE TO PRESENT A LETTER TO PRESIDENT PINOCHET CONCERNING THE STRIKE BY PORT WORKERS IN SEVERAL CHILEAN PORTS. JARA IS THE PRESIDENT OF A DOCKWORKERS UNION IN VALPARAISO, AND THE OTHERS ARRESTED ARE ALSO LEADERS OF VARIOUS UNIONS REPRESENTING DOCK WORKERS IN THESE PORTS. INCLUDED IN THE GROUP OF TEN WERE TWO WOMEN IDENTIFIED ONLY AS FAMILY MEMBERS.

2. THE GROUP WAS DETAINED FOR AGGRESSION AGAINST THE PUBLIC AUTHORITIES, AND/OR FAILING TO OBEY THE ORDERS OF CARABINEROS WHO ATTEMPTED TO HALT THE UNAUTHORIZED MARCH. THEY WERE TAKEN BEFORE THE SECOND MILITARY COURT IN SANTIAGO AND ORDERED HELD FOR INVESTIGATION. ON DECEMBER 17 THEY WERE RELEASED UNCONDITIONALLY, WHEN THE MINISTER OF INTERIOR

WITHDREW THE CHARGES IN A STATED EFFORT TOWARDS RECONCILIATION. THE GROUP RETURNED TO THEIR HOME TOWNS THAT SAME DAY.

3. FYI: JARA AND SEVERAL OF THE OTHERS ARRESTED ON DECEMBER 12 WERE ARRESTED ON SIMILAR CHARGES ON NOVEMBER 29. AT THAT TIME THEY WERE RELEASED ON BAIL, BUT REFUSED TO PAY THE BAIL. EDUARDO RIOS, WHO IS THE PRESIDENT OF THE CENTRAL OF DEMOCRATIC WORKERS (CDT) AS WELL AS BEING THE PRESIDENT OF THE LARGEST FEDERATION OF UNIONS COVERING DOCK AND PORT WORKERS, INTERVENED ON THEIR BEHALF, AND GOT THE MINISTER OF LABOR TO PERSONALLY PAY THE BAIL FOR THESE LEADERS. SUBJECT: AMBASSADOR'S 12/20/85 LUNCH WITH FOREIGN
- MINISTER DEL VALLE

REFS: (A) STATE 380128, (B) STATE 382825,
- (C) SANTIAGO 8892

1. I TOOK ADVANTAGE OF MY LUNCH WITH DEL VALLE DECEMBER 20 TO SEE IF HE HAD RECEIVED A REPORT YET OF AMBASSADOR ERRAZURIZ' TALK WITH DAS GELBARD (REFTELS). HE SAID HE HAD AND HE WANTED TO ASSURE ME THAT HE HAD NOT MEANT TO CONVEY THE THE IDEA THAT THE GOC WAS UNAPPRECIATIVE OF US SUPPORT FOR CHILE IN A VARIETY OF FORUMS, THOUGH THERE WERE OTHER AREAS WHERE CHILE MIGHT HAVE HOPED FOR MORE UNDERSTANDING. WHEN IT BECAME CLEAR THAT HE HAD NOT GOTTEN OR UNDERSTOOD THE FULL IMPORT OF THE GELBARD-ERRAZURIZ CONVERSATION, I THEN TOLD HIM HE HAD SOMEHOW SUCCEEDED IN CONVEYING HIS THOUGHTS IN A HOSTILE TONE, AS IF HE WERE GIVING A LECTURE, AND I CITED THE COMMENTS HE HAD MADE ABOUT THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER TO PRESIDENT PINOCHET, AS A CASE IN POINT.
2. DEL VALLE REACTED BY ACKNOWLEDGING THAT AS A LONG

TIME UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR HE MIGHT HAVE CONVEYED MORE OF A LECTURING TONE, AND THAT IN DEFENDING HIS COUNTRY'S POSITION HE COULD HAVE BEEN VEHEMENT. BUT HE WENT ON TO STRESS THAT HE IN NO WAY HAD INTENDED TO GIVE OFFENSE WITH RESPECT TO THE PRESIDENT NOR HAD HE TRIED TO CONVEY ANY HOSTILITY, BECAUSE HE SIMPLY DID NOT FEEL THAT TOWARD THE UNITED STATES. HE REGRETTED THAT ABRAMS HAD NOT SAID SOMETHING RIGHT ON THE SPOT ABOUT HIS REACTION.

3. WITH RESPECT TO THE SUBSTANCE OF THE PARAGRAPH IN THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER HE SAID THAT THE GOC HAD INDEED TAKEN THAT PART AS BEING VERY "TOUGH" AND FELT IT COULD BE INTERPRETED AS SETTING DOWN A PRECISE TIMETABLE OR LIST OF SPECIFIC MEASURES THAT CHILE HAD TO TAKE. I TOLD HIM THAT WHAT THE LETTER WAS SAYING WAS THAT THE U.S. WAS CONCERNED ABOUT THE PROGRESS BACK TO DEMOCRACY IN CHILE AND ABOUT THE CONTINUATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES. WE WERE NOT HOWEVER SETTING DOWN SPECIFIC MARKERS OR STEPS THAT CHILE HAD TO TAKE, BUT WE FELT WE HAD TO MAKE IT CLEAR THAT CHILE'S SUCCESS IN RETURNING TO DEMOCRACY AND IN IMPROVING THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION CLEARLY WOULD HAVE A POSITIVE EFFECT ON THE RELATIONSHIP WHICH CURRENTLY LEFT A GOOD DEAL TO BE DESIRED. IT WAS A QUESTION OF OUR BEING VERY CLEAR ABOUT THE OBJECTIVE CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH AFFECTED THE RELATIONSHIP.

4. DEL VALLE SAID THAT MY CLARIFICATION WAS HELPFUL. HE WENT ON TO ADD THAT HE WAS PLEASED TO SEE I WAS HAVING THE CHANCE TO MEET SO MANY OF THE SENIOR PEOPLE IN THE GOVERNMENT AND HE HAD IN FACT YESTERDAY ASKED CUADRA TO TELL PINOCHET THAT IT WAS A GOOD THING I WAS

HAVING A CHANCE TO SEE SO MANY PEOPLE AND THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD NOT WORRY ABOUT THE RANGE OF MY CONTACTS.

5. AS HE WAS LEAVING DEL VALLE ASKED ME TO BE SURE TO CONVEY TO ELLIOTT ABRAMS HIS REGRET THAT HE HAD CONVEYED SOMEHOW A TONE HE HAD NOT MEANT TO, AND THAT HE WAS LOOKINGFORWARD TO THE CHANCE FOR ANOTHER DISCUSSION WITH HIM.

6. COMMENT: I CAN'T PRETEND YET TO KNOW DEL VALLE THAT WELL. BUT IRONICALLY HE HAD STARTED OFF DURING OUR LUNCH TOGETHER TELLING ME ABOUT THE SUCCESS HE HAD BEEN HAVING WITH CHILE'S RELATIONS WITH PERU, AND IN THE PROCESS GAVE HIMSELF A FAIR AMOUNT OF THE CREDIT THANKS TO WHAT HE CALLED HIS FRANK, OPEN STYLE OF WORKING WITH OTHERS. MY SENSE IS THAT MY MESSAGE HIT HOME, BUT HOW MUCH HE WILL HAVE LEARNED BY THE TIME OF THE NEXT ENCOUNTER WITH A SENIOR US OFFICIAL I'M LESS SURE GIVEN THE HABITS OF SEVERAL DECADES. I SUSPECT THOUGH HE'LL TRY TO MODIFY HIS BEHAVIOR.
7. I HAD DRAFTED THIS MESSAGE AS REPRODUCED ABOVE. WHILE IT WAS BEING TYPED DEL VALLE CALLED ME TO SAY HE HAD TALKED TO TWO OF THE PERSONS PRESENT AT THE ABRAMS MEETING. BOTH AGREED THAT HE COULD HAVE COME ACROSS AS "A LITTLE HARSH" BUT BOTH ALSO SAID THEY GOT NO SENSE THAT THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY HAD BEEN DISSATISFIED WITH THE FRANKNESS OF THE CONVERSATION. DEL VALLE AGAIN EXPRESSED REGRET THAT NOTHING HAD BEEN SAID TO HIM AT THE TIME. HE ALSO WONDERED WHETHER THERE MIGHT HAVE BEEN SOME POSSIBLE SHADES OF MEANING THAT WEREN'T SECRETARIAT CONTROLS THE PREPARATION OF THE REPORT AND WILL ALLOW VOLIO ALL THE TIME HE NEEDS FOR ITS COMPLETION. PACE THEN READ THROUGH AN OUTLINE FOR THE REPORT WHICH VOLIO HAD APPROVED. AS PRESENTLY CONTEMPLATED THE REPORT WILL INCLUDE (A) A DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF VOLIO'S CONTACTS IN CHILE; (B) EXTENSIVE DESCRIPTIONS OF ALLEGATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES BY SOURCE; (C) A DESCRIPTION OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM IN WHICH VOLIO WILL ARGUE THAT THE SYSTEM OF TEMPORARY PROVISIONS CONSTITUTES A SECOND CONSTITUTION AND THAT THE EXTREME POWER OF THE PRESIDENT UNBALANCES THE SYSTEM; (D) A DESCRIPTION OF THE JUDICIARY WHICH VOLIO BELIEVES IS INDEPENDENT BUT POWERLESS; (E) A DISCUSSION OF THE UNIVERSITIES; AND (F) A CALL FOR THE COMMISSION TO ADOPT A MORE SOBER APPROACH TO THE PROBLEMS OF CHILE.

3. PACE DESCRIBED VOLIO'S VISIT TO CHILE AS "AN EXEMPLARY EXPERIENCE". HE SAID VOLIO HAD COMPLETE FREEDOM OF ACCESS AND MOVEMENT AND FULL COOPERATION OF THE GOVERNMENT. IN ALL, VOLIO SAW SOME 200-300 PEOPLE REPRESENTING ALL POLITICAL FACTIONS, ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL GROUPS AND THE RELEVANT GOVERNMENT FIGURES. IN RESPONSE TO A SUGGESTION FROM AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER (USUN 3627), VOLIO MADE TORTURE HIS FIRST CONCERN AND OBTAINED A PLEDGE FROM THE INTERIOR MINISTER DURING A FINAL PRIVATE MEETING THAT IT WOULD STOP. VOLIO SAID THE MINISTER EXPRESSED ANGER THAT HIS EARLIER ORDER TO END TORTURE HAD NOT BEEN OBEYED. PACE SAID THIS PLEDGE WOULD BE REFLECTED IN THE REPORT.

4. TURNING TO THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, PACE SAID THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT REMAINS DISTURBED BY THE FACT THAT CHILE IS STILL CONSIDERED UNDER A SEPARATE ITEM ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ON THE COMMISSION AGENDA (ITEM 5). VOLIO HAS MADE CLEAR TO THE CHILEANS HE CAN DO NOTHING ABOUT THIS, BUT, PACE SAID, IN FACT IT IS UNFAIR. HE SUGGESTED THIS SITUATION SHOULD BE CORRECTED BY INCLUDING A CHANGE IN AGENDA ITEM IN THE RESOLUTION ON CHILE ADOPTED BY THE COMMISSION. PACE WARNED THAT GIVEN THE ATTITUDE OF THE MEXICANS THIS WILL NOT BE EASY, BUT IT WAS IMPORTANT. PACE SAID VOLIO VIEWS HIS TASK AS ONE OF ASSISTING CHILE IN ITS RETURN TO DEMOCRACY. HE WOULD LIKE TO CONTINUE AS RAPPORTEUR, BUT IS TROUBLED BY COMPETING DEMANDS OF HIS POLITICAL CAREER IN COSTA RICA, HIS HEALTH, AND POSSIBLE RESTRAINTS ON HIS MANDATE. Dear Mr. Abrams:

We have taken the liberty to send this letter to you because we hope it will be helpful in the clarification of events which, in the last weeks, have produce a climate of scepticism and doubts regarding the policy of the Department of State towards the Chilean Military Government. We strongly believe that a firm, steady and consistent U.S. policy in favor of the re-establishment of democracy in Chile, can be an important factor of encouragement for the people of Chile. At the same time, the appearance of support for a harsh dictator who is subjugating the citizenry may have a serious effect on the sentiments of the Chileans towards the U.S. Government.

It is evident that, until a few months ago, the Department of State maintained an attitude of quiet and careful support of General Pinochet's regime. Cautious and sporadic criticisms issued for human rights' violations are not enough to modify this conclusion. Pinochet himself appears to have been aware of this policy and liked to boast of the friendship existing between both governments, "the best in the history of Chile and the United S tates", as he said in an interview with an American journalist. With a cruel sense of timing, Pinochet c hose to re-establish the state of siege the day following President Reagan's re-election. In doing so he unleashed a brutal wave of repression and took the violations of human rights back to their lowest level. You may remember the facts. Pinochet had hinted of this measure some weeks in advance, as we personally told you two weeks before President Reagan's re-election. Pinochet gambled on a very mild reaction from the Department of State, and he was right.

Surely, the culminating point of this policy was Assistant Secretary Motley's visit to Chile, when he referred to alleged philosophical and id eological coincidences between the American and the Chilean governments. Pinochet never received so warm a signal of support from a Western democratic government.

During the last few months, we observed a clear change in the policy of the Department of State regarding the Chilean dictatorship. Because of new circumstances we do not wish to evaluate, the Department of State changed its policy and moved towards a clear support of and sympathy with a prompt transition to democracy in Chile. Particularly indicative of this new posture were: the vigorous public statement supporting the "National Accord for the Transition to Full Democracy", signed by eleven democratic parties of the opposition to Pinochet and sponsored by the Catholic Church; the public statement to declare that General Schweitzer's opinions did not represent the American Government's when this General, Chairman of the Inter-American Military Board, paid a warm homage to Pinochet's policies; the official speech made by Ambassador Barnes when he presented his credentials to Pinochet; and the permanent activity of this A mbassador during November and December of 1985. As part of this same orientation we want to remember Ambassador Schifter's initiative to seek for changes in the drafting of the annual resolution to be presented to the General Assembly of the United Nations condemning Pinochet's regime for its violations of human rights in such a way that they allowed the United States to vote it favorably. The same at the Organization of American States.

Up to this point, everything confirmed the adoption of a new policity towards the Chilean Military dictatorship, committed to helping a rapid transition to democracy. But something seems to have happened, and the Department of States appears headed back to the old contradictory policy. What is the reason? Believe us that we feel unable to understand the change, among other motives because now you are in charge of the relationships with the Latin American countries, and your record as former Assistant Secretary State for Humanitarian Affairs and Human Rights, was one of great concern with human rights and democracy in Chile.

When the negotiations aimed at the implementation of Ambassador Schifter initiative started, we found a very helpful reception both among the governments Mr. Schifter recommended we should get in touch with as well as among the Chileans who come to New York to lobby for the resolution on human rights in Chile. Unfortunately, the U.S. representatives to the United Nations played a very passive role at the beginning of the conversations, role that became negative a few days later. Most of the amendments Ambassador Schifter wanted were accepted, but the wording continued to be considered inappropriate. The U.S. Delegation eluded mention of concrete changes to make the draft adequate. The U.S. representatives limited their participation to insisting that the draft needed more changes, but never sought with real interest a satisfactory final version. In the end, despite the new text and to the surprise of representatives from different friendly delegations, the U.S. voted once more against the resolution condemning Pinochet's Governments for its violations of human rights. The countries that agreed to amend the preliminary resolution approved a few months ago in Geneva by the Human Rights Commission, solely to satisfy U.S. suggestions have been forced to observe a sad spectacle: the U.S. joining again a few dictatorships such as Chile (that votes even when there is an ethic impediment), Haiti and Paraguay, while all its friend and allies in Europe voted for the condemnatic

In Cartagena, Colombia, at the General Assembly of the O.A.S. the U.S. managed to give another signal of support of Pinochet's Government. The majority of the member states approved the Report prepared by the Inter American Commission on Human Rights, but the U.S. Delegation decided to abstain. This decision promoted other abstentions, and at the end the Report missed being approve by only one vote. Only Chile and Haiti v oted against.

Finally and most unfortunately,your own public statements have been interpreted as endorsing the present course of events in Chile. You said during a press conference that Chile's Government was moving in the "correct direction" towards democracy and praised the alleged progress made in the direction of democratic transition.

The effects of these American attitudes have been very important The Chilean dictatorship has understood them as a change of the U.S. Government in its favor. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has officially declared recent sign of American support mean "the opening of the road towards the truth". That is, "Quiet diplomacy" does not seem be persuading Pinochet to move towards democracy and respect for human rights. Rather Pinochet contends now that he has finally convinced the United States of "his truth" on human rights violations and on the transition to democracy.

Chile's Government has been acting in this belief. Immediately after the votes in the United Nations and in the Organization of American States, the M inister of Internal Affairs dismissed the National Accord and refused to discuss it (the same Accord the Department of State applauded and supported). Furthermore, Pinochet treated the Cardinal (who had pioneered the Accord) in a harsh manner and told him that "his" itinerary would be maintained without changes. In other words, th e recent actions of the Department of States have allowed Pinochet display intransigence and ignore the National Accord in a way he never dared to before.

We are very aware that the final destiny of the military dictatorship in Chile will depend on the efforts of the Chilean citizenry and not on the policies of the Department of States. Further more, we reject any foreign intervention in the Chilean political problems. But we believe in the existence of some juridical and moral principles which are part of the Western civilization and cannot be denied by governments. Hence, opinions expressed about those problems and votes in international organizations on those matters, by democratic states are perfectly licit and necessary. It/in this realm that the policies and opinions of the Department of States have great influence on de facto military governments of the developing countries. What has just happened in Chile is the best evidence.

Therefore, it is not an exageration to say that recent actions by the Department of States have strengthened the military dictatorship in Chile and weakened the possibility of a negotiated return to democracy. Strange paradox: the first democracy in the world appears as supporting a dictator who brutally subjects the Chilean people and has committed terrorism in the very capital of the United States.

Should yo be interested in further discussing this matter with us, we would be delighted to meet you.

Very sincerely,

Eugenio Velasco

BY ONE OF [redacted] CONTACTS. THE ATTEMPT WAS CODE-NAMED [redacted] ALTHOUGH [redacted] INDICATES THAT THIS ATTEMPT HAS BEEN POSTPONED, DUE TO MIR CONCERNS THAT THE ORGANIZATION MAY HAVE BEEN PENETRATED, THE MIR TEAM IS REPORTEDLY STILL IN THE COUNTRY AND THE EMBASSY, ITS PERSONNEL AND SPECIFICALLY [redacted] ARE STILL AT CONSIDERABLE RISK. CERTAINLY, NOTHING HAS HAPPENED TO CHANGE EITHER THE MIR DETERMINATION TO PUNISH THE US FOR OUR SUPPORT FOR A RETURN TO DEMOCRACY IN CHILE, OR TO MODIFY THE MIR LOGIC WHICH ORIGINALLY LED TO TARGETTING [redacted] FOR KIDNAPPING. IF ANYTHING, THE ANTI-KIDNAPPING PRECAUTIONS WE HAVE TAKEN HEIGHTEN THE CHANCE THAT THE MIR MAY IN FACT BE DRIVEN TO TAKE ACTIONS WHICH ARE MORE VIOLENT, BUT SIMPLER TO IMPLEMENT, THAN A KIDNAPPING (A BOMBING OR ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT).

SUBJECT: 42ND UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION:
- CONSIDERATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE

REF: (A) GENEVA 11729, (B) SANTIAGO 8976,
- (C) STATE 386814, (D) SANTIAGO 8882
- (ALL REFS NOTAL)

1. C - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: USUN EXPECTS THAT CONSIDERATION OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE WILL TAKE PLACE DURING THE LAST TWO WEEKS OF THE UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION SESSION. WE CONTINUE TO OPPOSE THE CONSIDERATION OF CHILE UNDER A SEPARATE ITEM ON THE UNHRC'S AGENDA, BUT ANY EFFORT TO ELIMINATE THE SEPARATE ITEM WOULD BE OPPOSED BY FRANCE AND SPAIN AS WELL AS THE SOVIET BLOC AND MEXICO. WE ARE EXTREMELY SKEPTICAL ABOUT THE PROSPECT OF MEXICO STEPPING ASIDE VOLUNTARILY TO ALLOW OTHERS TO PRESENT A MORE MODERATE RESOLUTION. END SUMMARY.

3. IN RESPONSE TO REFTELS C AND D, WE (AND OUR CONTACTS WITHIN THE WESTERN GROUP) ASSUME THAT CONSIDERATION OF CHILE WILL BE CONTINUED IN ITS TRADITIONAL PLACE DURING THE LAST TWO WEEKS OF THE UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION SESSION. A TENTATIVE SCHEDULE FOR ORGANIZING THE WORK OF THE COMMISSION WILL BE PREPARED BY THE UN SECRETARIAT IN GENEVA (WHICH WILL BE WELL AWARE OF THE STATUS OF UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO'S REPORT). AFTER APPROVAL BY THE "BUREAU" (THE COMMISSION OFFICERS), THE TENTATIVE SCHEDULE WILL BE ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

PRESENTED FOR ADOPTION BY THE COMMISSION ITSELF.

4. AS NOTED IN REFTEL A, A RELATED QUESTION IS THE PLACEMENT OF THE CHILE ITEM ON THE AGENDA OF THE COMMISSION: AS MANDATED BY LAST YEAR'S RESOLUTION ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, A SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM (5) APPEARS ON THE PROVISIONAL AGENDA (E/CN.4/1986/1)

WHICH IS TO BE PRESENTED FOR ADOPTION ON THE OPENING DAY OF THE UNHRC SESSION (FEBRUARY 3). U.S. HAS LONG ARGUED THAT THE SEPARATE ITEM IS AN HISTORICAL ANOMALY AND THAT THE CHILEAN SITUATION SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ALONG WITH OTHER CASES (SUCH AS EL SALVADOR, GUATEMALA, AFGHANISTAN, AND IRAN) UNDER AGENDA ITEM 12, VIOLATIONS OF HUMAN RIGHTS ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD.

5. FROM OUR DISCUSSIONS IN NEW YORK, WE UNDERSTAND THAT A MOVE TO STRIKE THE SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM WOULD BE SUPPORTED BY MOST WESTERN MEMBERS OF THE UNHRC AS A MATTER OF FUNDAMENTAL FAIRNESS. IT WOULD BE OPPOSED, HOWEVER, BY FRANCE AND SPAIN AS WELL AS THE SOVIET BLOC AND MEXICO. SUCH A PROPOSAL WOULD THEREFORE LEAD TO AN EARLY AND ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE ON CHILE UNLIKELY TO PROMOTE COOPERATION TOWARD A MORE BALANCED AND POSITIVE RESULT (I.E., A RESOLUTION THAT THE U.S. COULD SUPPORT) AT THE END OF THE SESSION. UNLESS BROAD SUPPORT COULD BE MOBILIZED WITHIN THE NEXT SIX WEEKS, WE WOULD NOT RECOMMEND SUCH A MOVE.

6. AN INTERMEDIATE STEP AT THE 1986 UNHRC MIGHT BE TO RETAIN THE SEPARATE ITEM ON THE AGENDA BUT TO CONSIDER IT CONCURRENTLY WITH ITEM 12 -- AS OTHER ITEMS ON RELATED TOPICS ARE CLUSTERED TOGETHER TO AVOID HAVING SEPARATE, TIME-CONSUMING DEBATES. USUN MISSOFF ASKED FRENCH HUMAN RIGHTS OFFICER WHETHER FRANCE WOULD ALSO BE OPPOSED TO SUCH A MOVE; FRENCH REP PROMISED TO LOOK

INTO THIS "VERY INTERESTING QUESTION." WE BELIEVE THAT IT MIGHT BE WORTH EXPLORING THIS IDEA FURTHER WITHIN THE WESTERN GROUP PRIOR TO THE UNHRC SESSION, AND WE SUGGEST THAT MISSION GENEVA MIGHT WISH TO DISCUSS THIS IDEA INFORMALLY WITH UNHRC SECRETARY PACE.

7. WE HAVE EMPHASIZED TO WESTERN DELEGATIONS THAT THE U.S. IS INTERESTED IN WORKING TOWARD A RESOLUTION ON CHILE WHICH WE CAN SUPPORT AT THE 1986 UNHRC. UNLESS INSTRUCTED OTHERWISE, WE WILL CONTINUE TO EMPHASIZE THAT A DECISION TO END THE DISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT OF CHILE -- THAT IS, TO PLACE CHILE UNDER ITEM 12 FOR FUTURE UNHRC SESSIONS (1987 AND BEYOND) -- SHOULD BE AN ELEMENT OF ANY UNHRC RESOLUTION WHICH THE U.S. IS EXPECTED TO SUPPORT.

8. FINALLY, IN RESPONSE TO REF B, USUN IS EXTREMELY SKEPTICAL ABOUT THE PROSPECT OF MEXICO VOLUNTARILY STEPPING ASIDE TO ALLOW OTHER SPONSORS TO PRESENT A MORE MODERATE RESOLUTION ON CHILE. WHILE WE AGREE WITH EMBASSY SANTIAGO'S OBSERVATIONS ABOUT THE SYMBOLIC VALUE OF A RESOLUTION SPONSORED BY URUGUAY, WE NOTE THAT URUGUAY IS NOT A MEMBER OF THE UNHRC. IN ORDER FOR OUR EFFORTS TO BE SUCCESSFUL, IT WILL BE ESSENTIAL TO GAIN THE SUPPORT OF KEY LATIN MEMBERS OF THE UNHRC -- SUCH AS VENEZUELA, COSTA RICA, AND, IF POSSIBLE, ARGENTINA. WE SHOULD ALSO ATTEMPT TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE EXPRESSED WILLINGNESS OF FRANCE AND SPAIN TO PLAY A POSITIVE ROLE IN WORKING TOWARD A

REF: GENEVA 11729

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

CONFIDENTIAL

1. (CONFIDENTIAL - ENTIRE TEXT.)

2. IN A DECEMBER 27 MEETING WITH HA ASSISTANT SECRETARY RICHARD SCHIFTER CHILEAN AMBASSADOR ERRAZURIZ REPORTED TWO INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS RELATED TO CHILE'S HUMAN RIGHTS PERFORMANCE. ACCORDING TO ERRAZURIZ, THE GOC HAS APPROVED THE RETURN OF FIFTY MORE EXILES TO CHILE TO BE ANNOUNCED IN THE NEAR FUTURE. ERRAZURIZ ALSO TOLD SCHIFT5R THAT TH5 GOC HAD UNDERTAKEN MEASURES TO PREVENT TORTURE AND ABUSE OF PRISONERS, AND PROVIDED A COPY (IN ENGLISH) OF AN "INSTRUCTION PROHIBITING ILLEGAL CONSTRAINTS" DATED JULY 30, 1985 AND SIGNED BY THE MINISTERS OF DEFENSE AND INTERIOR.

3. THIS ORDER WAS APPARENTLY DIRECTED TO NATIONAL POLICE (CARABINEROS), THE INVESTIGATIVE POLICE (INVESTIGACIONES)

AND THE NATIONAL INFORMATION CENTER (CNI). THE INSTRUCTION REFERS TO THE "ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION" OF "ILLEGAL CONSTRAINTS" ON DETAINEES, AND INDICATES THE "NATIONAL GOVERNMENT SHALL BE INFLEXIBLE IN THE APPLICATION OF SANCTIONS TO THOSE PERSONNEL PROVEN TO HAVE CARRIED OUT OR APPLIED ILLEGAL CONSTRAINTS OR UNNECESSARY VIOLENCE." (FULL TEXT IN PARA 6.)

4. ERRAZURIZ WAS UNCLEAR AS TO WHEN THIS ORDER AGAINST TORTURE WAS INITIALLY ISSUED. HE REPORTED THAT THE INSTRUCTION WAS CIRCULATED TO THE CHILEAN SECURITY OFFICES, INCLUDING MILITARY AND DEFENSE UNITS, "OVER THE LAST FEW WEEKS." COMMENTING THAT ISSUANCE OF SUCH AN INSTRUCTION WAS A POSITIVE STEP, ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER STRESSED TO ERRAZURIZ THE IMPORTANCE OF ENSURING ADEQUATE FOLLOW UP IN ORDER TO GUARANTEE COMPLIANCE.
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ERRAZURIZ AGREED. THE CHILEAN AMBASSADOR COMMENTED THAT THE GOC DID NOT INTEND TO PUBLICIZE THIS ACTION, BUT HAD NO OBJECTION IF THE US WISHED TO MAKE REFERENCE TO IT IN ANY PUBLIC FORUM.

5. ACTION REQUESTED: THIS IS THE FIRST INDICATION WE HAVE HAD THAT THE GOC HAD ISSUED SUCH A FORMAL DIRECTIVE,

WHICH COULD PROVIDE A USEFUL BASELINE FROM WHICH TO MEASURE ANY IMPROVEMENTS IN THIS CRITICAL AREA OF HUMAN RIGHTS PERFORMANCE. GIVEN ERRAZURIZ' UNCERTAINTY ABOUT THE TIMING OF THE ORDER, WE WOULD APPRECIATE EMBASSY SANTIAGO'S ASSESSMENT AS TO WHEN THE ORDER WAS FIRST ISSUED AND WHAT EFFECT, IF ANY, IT MAY HAVE HAD SO FAR ON CURBING SECURITY FORCE ABUSES. THIS MAY BE THE ORDER TO END TORTURE THAT INTERIOR MINISTER GARCIA MENTIONED TO UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO (REFTEL). NOW THAT GARCIA'S INSTRUCTION HAS APPARENTLY BEEN REISSUED, EMBASSY SHOULD USE ANY OPPORTUNITIES THAT MAY ARISE TO REITERATE TO GARCIA AND OTHER APPROPRIATE OFFICIALS SCHIFTER'S MESSAGE TO ERRAZURIZ THAT CAREFUL FOLLOW-UP TO THE ORDER IS ESSENTIAL. YOU MAY ALSO INDICATE THAT WE INTEND TO TAKE NOTE OF THE INSTRUCTION IN THE 1985 HUMAN RIGHTS REPORT ON CHILE.

2. SUMMARY: RATHER THAN SIT BACK AND WATCH AS THE UPCOMING UNHRC MEETING IN GENEVA CHURNS OUT ANOTHER UNBALANCED, POLEMICAL RESOLUTION ON CHILE, WE HAVE ~~CONFIDENTIA~~AL

DECIDED TO SPONSOR OUR OWN RESOLUTION TEXT THIS YEAR. IN ARRIVING AT THIS DECISION, WE HAVE TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT HOW BEST TO PRODUCE AN OUTCOME AT GENEVA CONDUCIVE TO

ACHIEVING CONCRETE PROGRESS ON HUMAN RIGHTS CONCERNS IN CHILE. WE WANT TO USE THE MEETING TO ENCOURAGE THE GOVERNMENT OF CHILE'S CONTINUED COOPERATION WITH UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO TO ACHIEVE CONCRETE HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS. BY SPONSORING AND PERHAPS TABLING OUR OWN RESOLUTION, WE ALSO INTEND TO MAKE CLEAR EXACTLY WHERE WE STAND ON CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS ISSUES. ACTION ADDRESSEES IN UNHRC MEMBER COUNTRIES FOR THIS SESSION SHOULD

APPROACH HOST GOVERNMENTS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO 1. TE COMMENTS ON OUR TEXT (PARA 11) AND REQUEST SUPPORT AND CO-SPONSORSHIP. INFO ADDRESSEES ARE ALSO ENCOURAGED TO APPROACH HOST GOVERNMENTS IF THEY BELIEVE SUPPORT FOR US POSITION IS LIKELY. (FYI UNHRC RULES ALLOW NON-MEMBERS TO CO-SPONSOR RESOLUTIONS AT THIS SESSION. END FYI.) INSTRUCTIONS FOR EMBASSY SANTIAGO (PARA 9) OUTLINE OUR STRATEGY FOR USING U.S. SUPPORT FOR DROPPING CONSIDERATION OF CHILE UNDER A SPECIAL AGENDA ITEM AS AN INCENTIVE TO PROMOTE TANGIBLE STEPS BY THE GOC TO BRING ABOUT HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS. WEOG AND OTHER LATIN EMBASSIES SHOULD BE CAREFUL TO REFRAIN FROM INDICATING TO OTHER GOVERNMENTS THAT SUCH DISCUSSIONS ARE UNDERWAY UNTIL WE CAN GUAGE DEGREE OF SUPPORT. END SUMMARY.

3. AS INDICATED REFTEL, PAST RESOLUTIONS ON CHILE TABLED AT THE UNGA AND UNHRC HAVE BEEN COUCHED IN SUCH EXTREME LANGUAGE AS TO CAUSE THE US TO CAST A NEGATIVE VOTE, DESPITE OUR SERIOUS CONCERNS OVER THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THAT COUNTRY. WHILE THESE RESOLUTIONS HAVE CONFIDENTIAL

CONDEMNED CHILE RESOUNDINGLY, THEY HAVE ACCOMPLISHED LITTLE OR NOTHING IN TERMS OF FOSTERING REAL HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS IN CHILE.

4. THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT LAST YEAR PERMITTED THE UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR THE FIRST TIME TO V1SIT CHILE, AND PLACED NO OBSTACLES IN THE WAY OF HIS INVESTIGATION OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION. IN VIEW OF THE GOC'S APPARENT WILLINGNESS TO GIVE FAVORABLE CONSIDERATION TO IMPLEMENTATION OF VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS FOR HUMAN RIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS, WE SEE OPPORTUNITIES AT GENEVA TO ENCOURAGE MORE MODERATE SECTORS WITHIN THE GOC TO WORK TOWARD GENUINE IMPROVEMENTS IN HUMAN RIGHTS PROBLEM AREAS. IN PARTICULAR, WE HOPE TO USE THE GOC'S INTEREST IN ELIMINATING UN CONSIDERATION OF THE CHILEAN CASE UNDER A SPECIAL AGENDA ITEM AS AN INCENTIVE TO SPUR THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT TO TAKE CONCRETE MEASURES TOWARD IMPLEMENTING VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS. FYI: AS A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE, WE ALSO OPPOSE A SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM FOR CHILE. AN OPERATIVE PARAGRAPH ELIMINATING THIS PRACTICE FOR NEXT YEAR IS INCLUDED IN OUR RESOLUTION TEXT. WE MAY, HOWEVER, WARN THE GOC THAT WE ARE PREPARED TO CONSIDER FAVORABLY AN AMENDMENT ELIMINATING THIS OPERATIVE PARAGRAPH IF WE ARE NOT SATISFIED THAT THE GOC HAS MADE SUFFICIENT MOVES TOWARD IMPLEMENTING THE VOLIO RECOMMENDATIONS. SEE PARAGRAPH 9. END FYI.

5. BY PROPOSING A DRAFT CHILE RESOLUTION WE WILL A SO PUT ON THE RECORD OUR VIEWS ON THE PROBLEMATIC HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE. CLARIFYING OUR POSITION WILL BE IMPORTANT SHOULD ULTIMATELY WE PROVE UNABLE TO MODERATE THE UNHRC RESOLUTION ON CHILE AND ONCE AGAIN BE OBLIGED TO CAST A NEGATIVE VOTE OR TO ABSTAIN. ALTHOUGH SOME DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION MEMBERS IN CHILE HAVE INDICATED INTEREST IN A COMPROMISE, THEY MAY HAVE LITTLE INFLUENCE OVER UNHRC DELIBERATIONS IN GENEVA. IN THE CONFIDENTIAL

PAST, THE PRINCIPAL SPONSOR, MEXICO,HAS TURNED FOR ADVICE ON CHILE TO THE EXILE COMMUNITY RESIDENT IN EUROPE, IN WHICH THE CHILEAN COMMUNIST PARTY WIELDS CONSIDERABLE INFLUENCE. MEXICO HAS IN THIS REGARD OFTEN APPEARED TO ACT AS A STAND-IN FOR CUBAN INTERESTS.

6. WE HOPE THAT LATIN DEMOCRACIES SYMPATHETIC TO MORE CONSTRUCTIVE APPROACH ON HUMAN RIGHTS ISSUES WILL ACTIVELY SUPPORT OUR EFFORTS TO ACHIEVE A BETTER OUTCOME AT GENEVA. SPAIN WILL HAVE THE ROLE OF COORDINATOR FOR THE WEOG (WESTERN EUROPEAN AND OTHERS GROUP) ON THE CHILE ITEM AT THE COMING UNHRC SESSION, WHICH WE HOPE WILL PROVIDE USEFUL COUNTERWEIGHT TO MEXICAN INFLUENCE. WHILE WE ARE PREPARED TO TABLE A TEXT, THE TACTICAL DECISION ON WHETHER TO DO SO OURSELVES, OR TO WITHDRAW IN FAVOR OF ITS INTRODUCTION BY ANOTHER COMMISSION MEMBER, WILL BE MADE BY THE U.S. DELEGATION AT GENEVA. FYI: WE HAVE HERETOFORE EMPHASIZED THAT THE WEOG COORDINATOR'S ROLE IS

TO STAY IN TOUCH WITH THE GROUP'S MEMBERS, TO KEEP THEM INFORMED AS TO THE STATUS OF AN ITEM, AND TO NEGOTIATE ONLY AS EXPRESSLY AUTHORIZED. WE HAVE EMPHASIZED THAT A MEMBER WITH STRONG VIEWS ON THE TOPIC AND INTERESTED IN ADVANCING THESE VIEWS SHOULD NOT TAKE ON THE ROLE OF COORDINATOR UNLESS IT IS REASONABLY CERTAIN THAT THESE VIEWS REPRESENT A WEOG CONSENSUS. WE HAD A PROBLEM WITH SPAIN ON THAT SCORE AT THE 1984 UNHRC SESSION, BUT WORKED TOGETHER WELL IN 1985. HA ASST. SECRETARY SCHIFTER, WHO WILL HEAD THE US DELEGATION AT GENEVA, HAS A GOOD PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP WITH AMB. LACLETA, LEADER OF THE SPANISH DELEGATION, AND EXPECTS TO DISCUSS THE MATTER CANDIDLY AT THE BEGINNING OF THE SESSION.

SANTIAGO SHOULD APPROACH HOST GOVERNMENTS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO INVITE COMMENTS ON THE RESOLUTION TEXT WHIC' FOLLOWS AND REQUEST THEIR SUPPORT AS CO-SPONSORS. SINCE THE UNHRC IS SCHEDULED TO CONVENE IN GENEVA ON FEB. 3, TIMELY ACTION IS IMPORTANT. EMBASSIES SHOULD REPORT REACTIONS BY IMMEDIATE TELEGRAM. IN MAKING THIS APPROACH YOU MAY USE THESE TALKING POINTS:

--U.S. NEGATIVE VOTES ON PAST UNHRC AND UNGA RESOLUTIONS ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN CHILE HAVE REFLECTED THE UNBALANCED, DISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT GIVEN CHILE, NOT ANY LACK OF CONCERN REGARDING HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN CHILE. WE ARE DEEPLY CONCERNED BY PERSISTENCE OF SEVERE VIOLATIONS, INCLUDING TORTURE, AND ARE ACTIVELY WORKING FOR IMPROVEMENTS THROUGH VARIOUS MEANS, INCLUDING REPRESENTATIONS TO THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT.

--CHILE'S NEW COOPERATION WITH THE UNITED NATIONS SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE IS ENCOURAGING. THE GOC ALLOWED UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO TO VISIT CHILE IN DECEMBER AND SAID IT WILL CONSIDER ADOPTING HIS RECOMMENDATIONS.

--THE BREAKTHROUGH REPRESENTED BY VOLIO'S CHILE VISIT MUST NOT BE LOST; A MODERATE AND BALANCED RESOLUTION AT THE UNHRC IN GENEVA COULD STRENGTHEN THOSE WITHIN THE GOC WHO WANT TO END TORTURE AND REDUCE OTHER HUMAN RIGHTS

PROBLEMS BY ENCOURAGING THE GOC TO ACCEPT VOLIO'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

--WE HAVE PREPARED THE TEXT OF SUCH A RESOLUTION WHICH WE WILL PROPOSE AT THE UNHRC MEETING IN GENEVA WHICH CONVENES FEBRUARY 3. WE INVITE YOUR COMMENTS ON THIS TEXT, AND HOPE THAT YOU WILL SUPPORT THIS TEXT AND CONSIDER JOINING US AS A CO-SPONSOR.

8. FOR SAN JOSE: IN ADDITION TO MAKING APPROACH TO MFA, YOU SHOULD BRIEF SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO ON OUR EFFORTS AND PROVIDE HIM A COPY OF RESOLUTION TEXT, WITH REQUEST THAT HE REVIEW IN PARTICULAR THE OPERATIVE PART TO MAKE SURE IT REFLECTS HIS UPCOMING RECOMMENDATIONS.

9. FOR SANTIAGO: AMBASSADOR IS AUTHORIZED TO APPROACH GOC AS SOON AS POSSIBLE AT WHATEVER LEVEL HE CONSIDERS APPROPRIATE TO INFORM GOC OF OUR INTENTION TO PROPOSE A DRAFT RESOLUTION ON CHILE IN GENEVA. AMBASSADOR SHOULD PROVIDE A COPY OF THE RESOLUTION TEXT TO GOC, AND CALL ATTENTION TO OPERATIVE PARAGRAPH 11 PROPOSING ELIMINATION OF SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM ON CHILE. 1N DOING SO, AMBASSADOR MAY WISH TO MAKE FOLLOWING POINTS, WHICH HA ASSISTANT SECRETARY SCHIFTER ALSO INTENDS TO RAISE WITH CHILEAN AMBASSADOR CALDERON IN GENEVA ON FEBRUARY 3:

--US OPPOSED TO SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM ON CHILE AS MATTER OF PRINCIPLE, UNDERSTANDS GOC'S STRONG INTEREST IN SEEING THIS DISCRIMINATORY PRACTICE ENDED, AS WELL AS PASSAGE OF MORE BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE.

--US ATTEMPTING TO DEVELOP SUPPORT AT GENEVA FOR A MODERATE RESOLUTION ON CHILE, AND WILL PROPOSE A DRAFT TEXT THAT ACCURATELY REFLECTS THE WORK OF SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR VOLIO, TAKES NOTE OF POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS AND PROBLEMS AREAS, AND URGES IMPLEMENTATION OF SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S RECOMMENDATIONS. SUBJECT: BARNES DISCUSSION WITH CHILE HUMAN RIGHTS
- RAPPORTEUR VOLIO

1. CONFIDENTIAL - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: DURING VOLIO/BARNES JANUARY 7 DISCUSSION OF NEXT STEPS IN HIS REPORT ON CHILE, HE STATED IT WOULD BE LESS FAVORABLE THAN HIS PRELIMINARY ONE. HE THEREFORE URGED WAYS BE FOUND TO MOVE CHILE ITEM FROM ITS SEPARATE POSITION ON THE HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION AGENDA AND MERGE IT WITH OTHER REPORTS AS BEST WAY OF CONTAINING ADVERSE CHILEAN REACTION. HE IS CONVINCED ONLY WAY TO MAKE PROGRESS IN CHILEAN SITUATION IS TO KEEP UP PRESSURE ON BOTH GOVERNMENT AND OPPOSITION TO FIND A WAY TO TALK ABOUT HOW TO RETURN TO DEMOCRACY. PART OF THAT PRESSURE CAN COME THROUGH HIS REPORT AND HE GAVE INTERIOR MINISTER GARCIA A PREVIEW BEFORE HE LEFT CHILE, STRESSING TORTURE AND THE STATE OF INSECURITY CREATED BY GANGS THAT ARE ALLOWED TO OPERATE WITH CONFIDENTIAL

IMPUNITY AGAINST HUMAN RIGHTS WORKERS. HE WILL AMPLIFY THIS MESSAGE JANUARY 21 TO CHILEAN AMBASSADOR CALDERON AND HE WILL STAY IN TOUCH WITH THE US IN THE PERIOD UP TO THE GENEVA MEETING SO OUR APPROACHES CAN CONTINUE TO COMPLEMENT EACH OTHER.

3. THERE FOLLOW THE HIGHLIGHTS OF MY SEVERAL HOURS OF CONVERSATION WITH UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FOR CHILE FERNANDO VOLIO JANUARY 7.

4. AS A FRAMEWORK VOLIO RECALLED THE PRIVATE DISCUSSION HE HAD WITH INTERIOR MINISTER GARCIA JUST BEFORE HE LEFT CHILE IN MID DECEMBER, WHERE HE SOUGHT TO GIVE GARCIA A FLAVOR OF WHAT HIS FINAL REPORT WOULD CONTAIN IN THE HOPE THAT GARCIA WOULD BE STIMULATED TO CONSIDER TAKING SOME POSITIVE ACTIONS. HE TOLD GARCIA THAT HE WAS CONVINCED THAT THE INTELLIGENCE SERVICE (THE CNI) AND TO A LESSER EXTENT THE POLICE (CARABINEROS) WERE USING TORTURE AND GROSS HARASSMENT AS PART OF THEIR STANDARD WAYS OF OPERATING. BY WAY OF EXAMPLE, HE CITED HIS OWN EXPERIENCE DURING A VISIT TO THE CITY OF CONCEPCION WHEN FOUR INDIVIDUALS WERE DETAINED BY THE CNI AFTER THEY AND THEIR FAMILIES HAD BEEN TERRORIZED BY MIDNIGHT RAIDS. HE DESCRIBED TO GARCIA THE CNI'S UNWILLINGNESS TO TELL THE FAMILIES WHAT HAD HAPPENED TO THOSE DETAINED AND HOW ONCE THEIR LAWYERS HAD APPEALED TO HIM, HE HAD INSISTED WITH THE LOCAL CNI HEAD THAT HE SEE EACH OF THE FOUR AND SEE THEM WITH NO ONE ELSE PRESENT. VOLIO ADDED THAT EACH TOLD HIM THEY HAD NOT BEEN TORTURED, BUT CONFIDENTIAL

DESCRIBED THE FRIGHTENING PERIOD TO WHICH THEY AND THEIR FAMILIES HAD BEEN SUBJECTED. VOLIO ASKED GARCIA WHY DOES THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT, WITH ALL THE POWERS AT ITS COMMAND, REALLY NEED TO ACT THIS WAY. GARCIA DID NOT TRY TO DENY VOLIO'S BASIC CHARGES ABOUT TORTURE BEING USED, BUT EXPRESSED SOME SURPRISE BECAUSE HE SAID THAT INSTRUCTIONS HAD BEEN ISSUED REINFORCING THE BAN ON SUCH PRACTICES. (AT THIS POINT I SHOWED VOLIO A COPY OF THE CIRCULAR AMBASSADOR ERRAZURIZ HAD GIVEN AMBASSADOR SCHIFTER. VOLIO THINKS IT MAY BE THE SAME DOCUMENT.)

5. SECONDLY, VOLIO TOLD GARCIO THERE WAS NO EXCUSE FOR "UNKNOWN" GROUPS OF THUGS TO BE ABLE TO KIDNAP, TORTURE OR HARASS HUMAN RIGHTS WORKERS AS THEY SEEMED TO BE ABLE TO DO WITH IMPUNITY, AS A RESULT OF WHICH THERE WAS A GENERALIZED ATMOSPHERE OF FEAR REGARDING A PERSON'S PHYSICAL SAFETY. AGAIN GARCIA DID NOT ARGUE.

6. A THIRD POINT VOLIO DID NOT MAKE TO GARCIA BECAUSE OF TIME CONSTRAINTS HAD TO DO WITH HIS CONCERN THAT AFTER THE FIRST FLURRY OF GREATER JUDICIAL INDENDENCE EARLIER IN THE YEAR, HE SENSED THAT THE POLICE, THE INTELLIGENCE SERVICES AND SOME IN THE GOVERNMENT WERE NOW WORKING TO BLOCK SUCCESSFUL COMPLETION OF JUDICIAL INVESTIGATIONS INTO HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES. HE WAS PARTICULARLY CONCERNED THAT THE KEY INVESTIGATION OF JUDGE CANOVAS WOULD BE BADLY HAMPERED.

E.O. 12356: DECL:OADR
TAGS: UNHRC, PHUM, PREL, US, UR
SUBJECT: UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION: PROPOSALS FOR US
- STRATEGY FOR THE 42ND SESSION, FEBRUARY 3
- TO MARCH 14, 1986.

REF: 85 USUN 3970

1. CONFIDENTIAL - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: THE 42ND SESSION OF THE UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION WILL CONVENE IN GENEVA, FEBRUARY 3 TO MARCH 14. OF SPECIAL IMMORTANCE TO THE US WILL BE SELECTION OF THIS YEAR'S CHAIRMAN, THE ANNUAL RESOLUTIONS ON THE FIVE COUNTRIES FOR WHICH THE COMMISSION HAS APPOINTED SPECIAL RAPPORTEURS, A NEW INITIATIVE FOR A RAPPORTEUR ON RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE AND OUR INTERACTION WITH THE SOVIETS. GIVEN THE FACT THAT MANY WESTERN DELEGATIONS WILL HAVE EITHER NEW LEADERSHIP OR EXPERIENCED HANDS CONFIDENTIAL

ENSURE THAT (A) NO GROUND IS LOST IN THE COMMISSION'S CONSIDERATION OF IRAN, (B) THAT WE TAKE MAXIMUM ADVANTAGE OF THE INSTALLATION OF AN ELECTED GOVERNNENT IN GUATEMALA, AND (C) THAT FULL ATTENTION IS FOCUSED ON THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S REPORT ON AFGHANISTAN. WE WILL ALSO WANT TO GIVE SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE CONTINUED SOVIET CONTROL OF THE COMMISSION'S "1503 PROCEDURES" AND A NUMBER OF PROPOSALS PUT FORWARD BY THE SUB-COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS. THE FOLLOWING IS A REVIEW OF KEY ITEMS ON THE COMMISSION'S AGENDA. WE HAVE NOT TRIED TO BE COMPREHENSIVE, BUT HAVE SOUGHT TO HIGHLIGHT THOSE ISSUES WHERE THE US HAS SPECIAL INTERESTS. END SUMMARY.

3. CHAIRMANSHIP: THE RIGHT TO NOMINATE THIS SEAR'S CHAIRMAN RESTS WITH THE LATIN AMERICAN GROUP AND THERE ARE THREE CANDIDATES: AMBASSADORS CHARRY (COLOMBIA), SUCRE (VENEZUELA), AND RAVENNA (ARGENTINA). WE HAVE PRIVATELY GIVEN OUR SUPPORT TO AMBASSADOR CHARRY, AND SHOULD NOW ENCOURAGE HIM TO INVOKE HIS GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT WITH SUCRE AND OBTAIN VENEZUELA'S PUBLIC SUPPORT. WE SHOULD ALSO IMPRESS UPON SUCRE THAT UNLESS IT IS CLEAR EARLY THAT CHARRY HAS MAJORITY SUPPORT, WE RISK A REPEAT OF THE SUB-COMMISSION EXPERIENCE WHERE THE MINORITY WEOG CANDIDATE, MADAME DAES, WAS ELECTED AFTER THREATENING TO CALL FOR A VOTE IN PLENARY WHERE SHE HAD STRONG SOVIET SUPPORT. RAVENNA'S CHALLENGE COULD BEST BE DEALT WITH EARLY IN CONSULTATIONS AMONG THE LATIN AMERICAN GROUP BEFORE THE COMMISSION. RAVENNA, WHO WILL HAVE THE SUPPORT OF MEXICO, NICARAGUA, THE EAST BLOC, AND THE MORE RADICAL NON-ALIGNED COULD BE ELECTED

IF THERE IS DIVISION OR UNCERTAINTY AMONG HIS OPPONENTS. IT MUST BE REMEMBERED THAT THE MAJORITY WEOG CANDIDATE IN THE SUB-COMMISSION, BOSSUYT, SUFFERED A FAILURE OF NERVE AND WITHDREW PRIOR TO THE VOTE BECAUSE HE DID NOT LIKE THE TENOR OF THE DEBATE AND FEARED HE MIGHT LOSE THE ELECTION. CHARRY, WITH SUCRE'S SUPPORT, COULD SECURE A UNANIMOUS NOMINATION BEFORE THE COMMISSION OPENED.

4. IN OUR CONVERSATIONS WITH CHARRY AND SUCRE, WE SHOULD POINT OUT THIS YEAR'S CHAIRMAN WILL BE CALLED UPON TO MAKE APPOINTMENTS WHICH WILL HAVE A LONG-TERM IMPACT ON THE WORK OF THE COMMISSION. ANDRES AGUILAR, THE RAPPORTEUR FOR IRAN, WILL RESIGN. VOLIO, THE RAPPORTEUR FOR CHILE, IS UNDECIDED ABOUT WHETHER HE WILL CONTINUE. THERE MAY ALSO BE A NEW RAPPORTEUR ON RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE. IN A RECENT MEETING, ASSISTANT SECRETARY GENERAL HERNDL (PROTECT) STRESSED THE IMPORTANT ROLE WHICH THE NEXT COMMISSION CHAIRMAN WILL PLAY IN MAKING THESE APPOINTMENTS AND ENCOURAGED THE US TO ENSURE THAT "THE RIGHT PERSON" IS ELECTED. HERNDL, IT IS CLEAR FROM PREVIOUS CONVERSATIONS, WOULD PREFER WORKING WITH CHARRY, WHO IS GENEVA-BASSED, HIGHLY EXPERIENCED AND FLUENT IN ENGLISH AND FRENCH, AS WELL AS SPANISH. JUST THE FACT THAT RAVENNA SPEAKS ONLY SPANISH WOULD PRESENT THE SECRETARIAT AND MOST DELEGATES WITH DIFFICULTIES IN COMMUNICATION SHOULD HE BECOME CHAIRMAN.

THE NEGATIVE ATTITUDES OF MEXICO, FRANCE AND SPAIN REPORTED IN USUN 3966, IT IS HIGHLY DOUBTFUL WE CAN OBTAIN AN ACCEPTABLE RESOLUTION ON CHILE UNLESS WE ARE WILLING TO INTRODUCE OUR OWN TEXT AND CAMPAIGN FOR CO-SPONSORS. TO DO THIS WE WOULD NEED ACTIVE SUPPORT AT THE COMMISSION FROM CHILE'S DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION AND AN UNDERSTANDING WITH THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT. ALTERNATIVELY WE COULD WORK TO ENSURE THAT IN EXCHANGE FOR A US ABSTENTION, THE RESOLUTION PREPARED BY THE TRADITIONAL CO-SPONSORS CONTAIN TWO ELEMENTS WHICH ARE ESSENTIAL TO CONTINUED COOPERATION BETWEEN CHILE AND THE COMMISSION. THE FIRST IS RESPECTFUL TREATMENT FOR THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR FERNANDO VOLIO JIMENEZ AND HIS REPORT WITH NO ATTEMPT TO MANIPULATE HIS MANDATE. CHILE'S OPENING TO THE COMMISSION IS BASED LARGELY ON VOLIO'S ACCEPTABILITY TO THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT. VOLIO HAS CONSIDERED RESIGNING AND HAS TOLD THE UN SECRETARIAT HE WILL SEE HOW HE IS TREATED BY THE COMMISSION BEFORE MAKING A DECISION. VOLIO'S DEPARTURE WOULD BE A MAJOR SETBACK TO THE COMMISSION'S EFFORT TO ESTABLISH A WORKING RELATIONSHIP WITH CHILE AND A VICTORY FOR THOSE WHO WISH TO SEE A FURTHER POLARIZATION OF POLITICAL FORCES IN THAT COUNTRY.

19. THE SECOND IS AN END TO THE PRACTICE OF CONSIDERING CHILE UNDER A SEPARATE ITEM OF THE COMMISSION'S AGENDA. THIS COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED BY MOVING CHILE TO AGENDA ITEM 12, OR BY MOVING COUNTRIES WHICH COOPERATE WITH THE COMMISSION (CHILE, EL SALVADOR AND GUATEMALA) TO A NEW ITEM AND SEPARATING THEM FROM THOSE THAT DO NOT (IRAN AND AFGHANISTAN). SINCE THE SEPARATE ITEM IS BASICALLY AN HISTORICAL ANOMALY, WE BELIEVE IT COULD BE SUCCESSFULLY ARGUED THAT CONFIDENTIAL

CHILE SHOULD NOT BE TREATED MORE SEVERELY THAN COUNTRIES WHICH REFUSE TO RECEIVE THE COMMISSION'S RAPPORTEURS. TERMINATION OF THE SEPARATE ITEM WOULD SATISFY A MAJOR DEMAND OF THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT AND BE A TANGIBLE RESULT OF ITS COOPERATION WITH VOLIO. LAST YEAR CHILE (ITEM 5) WAS TAKEN UP IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING CONCLUSION OF DEBATE ON ITEM 12. MISSION WILL CONTACT THE SECRETARIAT AND OTHER WEOGS TO SUPPORT THE IDEA THAT THIS YEAR IT BE DEALT WITH CONCURRENTLY.

E.O. 12356: DECL:OADR

SUBJ: PRELIMINARY REACTION TO CODEL KENNEDY

REF:85 SANTIAGO 9029

1. (C) SUMMARY: THE FOREIGN MINISTER ANNOUNCED THAT NO CHILEAN GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL WILL RECEIVE SENATOR KENNEDY DURING HIS VISIT TO CHILE. A NUMBER OF CONSERVATIVE POLITICAL LEADERS HAVE SPOKEN OUT STRONGLY AGAINST KENNEDY, MOST NOTABLY THE HIGHLY RESPECTED FORMER SENATOR FRANCISCO BULNES, WHO DECLARED THAT KENNEDY IS THE "SWORN ENEMY OF CHILE" BECAUSE THE ARMS EMBARGO ALLEGEDLY IMPERILED CHILE'S SECURITY WHEN IT WAS FACING IMMINENT CONFLICT WITH ARGENTINA. NEVERTHELESS, THE CONSERVATIVE NATIONAL PARTY HAS AGREED TO SEE THE SENATOR AFTER CONSIDERABLE SOUL SEARCHING. END SUMMARY.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

2. (U) CHILEAN FOREIGN MINISTER JAIME DEL VALLE SPOKE

UNCLASSIFIED CONFIDENTIAL

ABOUT THE PROPOSED VISIT OF SENATOR EDWARD KENNEDY TO CHILE AT A JANUARY 7 PRESS CONFERENCE. HE ANNOUNCED THAT THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC, GENERAL AUGUSTO PINOCHET, HAD PERSONALLY AUTHORITZED THE ISSUANCE OF A VISA TO THE SENATOR. DEL VALLE SAID THAT THE ISSUANCE OF THE VISA WAS A NORMAL COURTESY EXTENDED TO A MEMBER OF THE U.S. SENATE. FURTHERMORE, HE SAID IT WAS ADDITIONAL PROOF OF THE "OPENING" THAT EXISTED IN CHILE WHEREBY ANYONE COULD ENTER THE COUNTRY IN ORDER TO SEE FOR THEMSELVES THE CHILEAN "REALITY." (FYI: THIS WAS AN APPARENT REFERENCE TO THE RECENT DECISION TO PERMIT FERNANDO VOLIO, THE UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, TO VISIT CHILE. END FYI.) HOWEVER, DEL VALLE ADDED THAT NO CHILEAN GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS WOULD MEET WITH SENATOR KENNEDY DURING HIS VISIT. IN DEFENDING THIS DECISION, DEL VALLE STATED THAT THE SENATOR HAD LONG HELD FEELINGS OF ANIMOSITY TOWARD THE GOC AND THAT THESE FEELINGS WERE APPARENTLY NOT OPEN TO CHANGE. FURTHERMORE, THE SENATOR'S ANIMOSITY HAD RESULTED IN LEGISLATION THAT HAD IMPERILED THE NATION. THEREFORE, IT WOULD NOT BE PROPER FOR ANY GOC OFFICIALS TO MEET WITH HIM.

3. (C) POLOFF TALKED TO A FOREIGN MINISTRY OFFICIAL TO CONFIRM THE ACCURACY OF THE COMMENTS ATTRIBUTED TO DEL VALLE. ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIAL, THERE WAS NOTHING IN WRITING THAT CONFIRMED THE DECISION TO "BOYCOTT" THE SENATOR'S VISIT. HOWEVER, THE STATEMENT WAS CONFIRMED AS THE POSITION OF THE GOVERNMENT. THIS OFFICIAL DEFENDED THE DECISION DUE TO THE PERCEIVED UNWILLINGNESS OF SENATOR KENNEDY TO HAVE AN OPEN MIND CONCERNING CHILE. (ACCORDING TO HIM, THE GOC HAD TRIED ON MANY PREVIOUS OCCASIONS TO OPEN TALKS WITH THE SENATOR BUT THEY HAD BEEN REBUFFED.) HOWEVER, HE EXPRESSED HIS HOPE THAT ALL WOULD GO WELL AND EMPHASIZED GOC WILLINGNESS TO LEND ANY ASSISTANCE THAT WOULD BE NECESSARY, ESPECIALLY IN THE AREA OF SECURITY.

4. (U) RECENT ARTICLES IN THE CONSERVATIVE SANTIAGO

PRESS HAVE REPEATED CHARGES THAT SENATOR KENNEDY IS BIASED AGAINST CHILE. AS PREDICTED (REFTEL) THE BASIC THEME OF THESE ARTICLES IS THAT THE SENATOR HAD PLACED THE NATION IN GRAVE PERIL BY CAUSING THE CUTOFF OF US ARMS SALES TO CHILE. ACCORDING TO THIS VIEW, THE 1976 ARMS EMBARGO HAD PLACED CHILE AT THE MERCY OF ARGENTINA IN THEIR TERRITORIAL DISPUTES OF THE LATE 1970'S. AS A RESULT, CHILE HAD BEEN FORCED TO TURN TO OTHER MORE EXPENSIVE MARKETS FOR WEAPONS IN ORDER TO DEFEND THE NATION. THIS CAUSED THE DIVERSION OF FUNDS FROM SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT TO DEFENSE SPENDING. THUS, ACCORDING THIS THESIS, THE 1976 ARMS EMBARGO HAD ACTUALLY RETARDED THE CAUSE OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE.

5. (C) THE PLANNED VISIT HAS ALSO EXACERBATED DISSENSION WITHIN THE NATIONAL ACCORD. THE INTENTION OF THE SENATOR'S STAFF MEMBERS WAS TO ARRANGE A MEETING OF KENNEDY WITH LEADERS OF

THE VICE PRESIDENT OF THE PARTY, FERNANDO MATURANA, ISSUED A CHARACTERISTICALLY VEHEMENT PERSONAL STATEMENT ON JANUARY 7, INDICATING THAT THE UN CONSIDERS KENNEDY, "PERSONA NON GRATA." FRANCISCO BULNES, ONE OF THE ACCORD SIGNERS AND CONSIDERED A MODERATE, SAID THAT THE VISIT OF KENNEDY FILLS HIM WITH REPUGNANCE. KENNEDY "SHOULD FIND ALL DOORS CLOSED TO HIM IN CHILE, AS BEFITS AN ENEMY OF THE COUNTRY....I CONSIDER HIM THE SWORN ENEMY OF CHILE."

6. (C) THE CONSERVATIVE NATIONAL PARTY (PN) HAS INFORMED US THAT IT IS WILLING TO MEET WITH THE SENATOR. HOWEVER, IN A STATEMENT ISSUED ON THE MORNING OF JANUARY 8, THE PN STATES THAT IT ADVISED MARK SCHNEIDER, A KENNEDY STAFFER, THAT THE PN WILL A) PROPOSE TO THE SENATOR REPEAL OF THE KENNEDY AMENDMENT (SIC), B) STATE THEIR OPPOSITION TO THE SENATOR'S ATTEMPTS TO USE ECONOMIC PRESSURE AGAINST CHILE, AND C) RAISE A SERIES OF OTHER GENERAL ISSUES (PROTECTIONISM, FOREIGN DEBT BURDEN, IMF STRICTURES AND SO FORTH). SEVERAL MEMBERS OF THE PN CALLED POLITICAL COUNSELOR TO EXPLAIN THEIR VIEWS. MRS. SAENZ WAS INITIALLY OPPOSED TO MEETING WITH THE SENATOR BUT SHE WAS OUTVOTED IN THE PARTY'S POLITICAL COMMISSION. NEVERTHELESS, THREE PARTY LEADERS (SAENZ, CORREA, PUIG) TOLD US THAT RECEIVING THE SENATOR IS VERY COSTLY TO THEM NOT ONLY BECAUSE OF THE ARMS EMBARGO ISSUE BUT ALSO BECAUSE OF PERCEIVED KENNEDY AND LIBERAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY SUPPORT FOR THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATS AND THE ASSOCIATION THAT CHILEAN CONSERVATIVES MAKE BETWEEN THE KENNEDY FAMILY AND LAND EXPROPRIATIONS IN CHILE THAT WERE CARRIED OUT WITH THE SUPPORT OF THE ALLIANCE FOR PROGRESS AND THE

THE GOVERNMENT IS TRYING TO EXPLOIT IT TO LEVERAGE THE RIGHT THAT HAS JOINED THE ACCORD, AND WILL TRY TO DEFAME THOSE IT CANNOT INTIMIDATE. THE EXTREME LEFT HAS YET TO GIVE HINTS OF ITS INTENTIONS, PERHAPS WAITING TO SEE WHAT THE SENATOR PLANS. BARNES

1. (C) SUMMARY: THE SANTIAGO PRESS CONTINUES TO DEVOTE EXTENSIVE SPACE TO THE PROPOSED VISIT OF SENATOR EDWARD KENNEDY. GIVEN THE DAILIES' CONSERVATISM AND THEIR USUAL DESIRE TO AVOID ANNOYING THE GOC, MUCH OF THE COVERAGE HAS BEEN UNFAVORABLE, AS REPORTED IN REF A. THE TONE OF SOME RECENT COVERAGE IS A BIT DIFFERENT. SEVERAL REPRESENTATIVES HAVE SPOKEN OUT EITHER AGAINST THE NATIONAL UNION'S DECISION TO BOYCOTT THE SENATOR OR IN FAVOR OF KENNEDY'S VISIT BECAUSE OF HIS SUPPORT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS. END SUMMARY.

2. (U) JAVIER DIAZ OF THE CENTER-RIGHT REPUBLICAN PARTY (PR) SAID THAT THE UN HAD OFFENDED AN IMPORTANT POLITICAL FIGURE, A MAN WHO HAD BEEN INVITED TO LATIN AMERICA BY A NUMBER OF LATIN AMERICAN PRESIDENTS. DIAZ POINTED OUT THAT THE SENATOR HAD BEEN INSTRUMENTAL IN LEGISLATION THAT HAD CUT OFF U.S. ARMS SHIPMENTS TO ARGENTINA IN 1977. THUS, THE CHARGE THAT THE SENATOR HAD PLACED CHILE AT THE MERCY OF ARGENTINES IN THEIR DISPUTE OF THE LATE 1970'S DEMONSTRATED AN IGNORANCE OF THE FACTS. HE SAID HE WELCOMES THE SENATOR BECAUSE OF HIS STAND ON HUMAN RIGHTS. ARMANDO JARAMILLO, PRESIDENT OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE (AD) AND PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY SAID THAT THE UN, WITH ITS BOMBASTIC APPROACH, COULD NOT CONTINUE TO "BLACKMAIL" THE SIGNATORIES OF THE NATIONAL ACCORD.

3. (U) THE CONSERVATIVE NATIONAL PARTY (PN) HAS AGREED TO MEET WITH THE SENATOR. PEDRO CORREA, A DIRECTOR OF THE PN PUBLICLY DISAGREED WITH THE STATEMENT OF THE MUN. "IF WE ARE DEMANDING THAT THE GOVERNMENT TALK WITH US", SAID CORREA, "THEN WE CANNOT CLOSE THE DOOR TO DIALOGUE WITH OTHERS."

4. (U) SEVERAL OTHER POLITICAL GROUPS OR POLITICIANS HAVE ALSO BEEN QUOTED IN SUPPORT OF THE VISIT. FOR EXAMPLE, GABRIEL VALDES, THE PRESIDENT OF THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY (PDC), WELCOMES THE VISIT BUT HE HAS EMPHASIZED THAT THE PDC WOULD NOT MEET SEPARATELY WITH THE SENATOR. A COMMUNIST FORMER SENATOR, ALEJANDRO TORO, CHARACTERIZED THE VISIT AS "GOOD NEWS TO INAUGURATE 1986." ON THE NEGATIVE SIDE, THE EXTREME RIGHT WING FRONT OF AUTONOMOUS ORGANIZATIONS (FRENAO)

JOINED THE MUN IN DECLARING THE SENATOR "PERSONA NON GRATA". FRENAO HAD PREVIOUSLY DECLARED THE U.S. AMBASSADOR "PERSONA NON GRATA" FOR HIS ALLEGED MEDDLING IN CHILEAN AFFAIRS.

5. (C) PRIVATELY, REPRESENTATIVES OF THE DEMOCRATIC ALLIANCE AND HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS HAVE EXPRESSED STRONG SUPPORT FOR THE VISIT. WE BELIEVE THAT SOME HAVE BEEN RELUCTANT TO SPEAK OUT PUBLICLY BECAUSE OF THE INTIMIDATING GOC CAMPAIGN TO DEPICT KENNEDY AS INTERFERING IN CHILEAN INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

6. (C) CARDINAL JUAN FRANCISCO FRENSO, THE ARCHBISHOP OF SANTIAGO, HAS EXPRESSED CONCERN OVER THE IMPRESSION GIVEN BY THE PRESS, APPARENTLY DUE TO SOME REMARKS BY VICARIATE OFFICIALS, THAT THE VICARIATE IS SPONSORING THE VISIT (REF B). IN A PRESS ENCOUNTER THE ARCHBISHOP STATED THAT THE VICARIATE WOULD NOT BE A SUITABLE PLACE FOR MEETINGS WITH THE SENATOR BUT THAT IF THE SENATOR WISHED TO MAKE A COURTESY CALL ON THE VICARIATE, HE WOULD BE WELCOME. TO: The Deputy Secretary

FROM: ARA - Elliott Abrams

SUBJECT: Unhelpful Treasury Handling of Chilean Loan Issue

ISSUE FOR DECISION

Whether to call Deputy Secretary Darman at Treasury to express concern that Treasury handling of Chile MDB loans issue is undermining policy toward Chile and to urge greater coordination with State.

ESSENTIAL FACTORS

As you know, we have been taking some heat from Congress over our current policy toward MDB loans to Chile. We had abstained on these loans last year during the State of Siege, primarily on human rights grounds. Since Pinochet lifted the State of Siege last June, largely because of our pressure, we have resumed our earlier policy of voting for the loans. Our current policy on MDB loans is designed to help the transition to democracy. When I met with Cardinal Fresno late last year he specifically urged me not to punish Chile economically. In December, I appeared before the Lundine subcommittee with Mulford's deputy, Conrow, to defend our policy.

Treasury, however, has been buckling under the pressure. Early last month Mulford sent a memo to me and Dick Schifter (Tab 1) asking for an interagency review of our loan policy, in view of what Mulford called "recent reports of unfavorable developments." I frankly don't know what developments he is talking about. There has been no deterioration since my December appearance before the Lundine subcommittee. Nevertheless, we asked Embassy Santiago for a new assessment, and so informed Treasury.

Treasury then went ahead and gave Lundine a copy of the Mulford memo which is not only covering their

SUBJECT: Treasury Actions Continue to Undermine Chile Policy

ISSUE FOR DECISION

Whether to call Richard Darman again at Treasury and Admiral Poindexter at the NSC to express concern over continued Treasury actions undermining our Chile policy.

ESSENTIAL FACTORS

You called Darman last month to express concern that Treasury's handling of the Chile MDB loan issue with Congress had undermined policy. Triggering your call was the leak to Rep. Lundine of a memo Mulford sent opposing Chile loans (Tab A). Now, Treasury has provided Lundine (Lundine staff confirmed this) with our confidential reply to Mulford's memo (Tab B), which Mary McGrory cited in her March 16 (Tab C) swipe at our Chile policy.

Blanket opposition to MDB loans to Chile makes sense neither on domestic political nor on foreign policy grounds. But Treasury sees this issue only in terms of buying Congressional support for replenishment and ignores the fact that its actions are limiting our maneuvering room. Kowtowing to critics and leaking confidential information can only keep this issue burning and create expectations for a vote change. Foreign policy objectives should determine our decisions, not Mulford's personal sense of Congressional relations.

As you heard from Agustin Edwards on March 17, our human rights initiative in Geneva definitely has caught the attention of the Pinochet government. We need to calculate next steps carefully so that we can continue to push for rights improvements and a genuine transition to democracy without providing Pinochet any excuse to dig in further. Chilean Cardinal Fresno supports our approach on MDB loans and has agreed to be cited publicly as opposing efforts to wage economic warfare against Chile.

UNCLASSIFIED

Treasury is not the only economic agency whose actions have complicated our efforts to carry out the President's policy of carefully calibrated steps to encourage a democratic transition in Chile. In conducting the legislatively-mandated GSP review of workers rights in Chile, STR staff have behaved as if USG handling of political restrictions on unions could somehow be taken out of the overall political and policy context. For the time being we have channelled the review into a maneagable process, but we may face a serious dispute later over whether Chile should be denied GSP benefits, as may be urged by the AFL-CIO.

RECOMMENDATION

That you call Darman again to complain about the latest leak and call Admiral Poindexter to enlist NSC support in bringing Treasury into line.

1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ - ENTIRE TEXT
2. CONGRESSMAN JOHN MCCAIN, PRIOR TO HIS DEPARTURE FROM CHILE ON JANUARY 2, BRIEFED LABATT ON THE RESULTS OF HIS DECEMBER 30 MEETINGS WITH PRESIDENT PINOCHET AND JUNTA MEMBER ADMIRAL MERINO. MOST OF HIS 30-MINUTE MEETING WITH THE PRESIDENT, AT WHICH FOREIGN MINISTER DEL VALLE AND A MINISTRY STAFF MEMBER WERE PRESENT, WAS SPENT IN DISCUSSING THE DANGERS OF COMMUNISM, A SUBJECT ABOUT WHICH THE PRESIDENT SEEMS OBSESSED. THE PRESIDENT DESCRIBED CHILE'S RECENT HISTORY IN THE FIGHT AGAINST COMMUNISM, AND DISPLAYED CONSIDERABLE PRIDE IN THE FACT THAT THE COMMUNIST MENACE HAD BEEN DEFEATED IN CHILE. THE PRESIDENT STRESSED THAT CHILE HAD STOOD ALONE IN THIS BATTLE, AND COMPLAINED THAT UNITED STATES FOREIGN POLICY HAD LEFT THEM STRANDED. THE CONGRESSMAN ADDED THAT TALKING TO PINOCHET WAS SOMEWHAT SIMILAR TO TALKING WITH THE HEAD OF THE JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY. PINOCHET ALSO TOLD THE CONGRESSMAN THAT HE WAS PERSONALLY UPSET WITH THE ACTIVITIES OF THE AMBASSADOR ADDING THAT HE DID NOT MIND THE AMBASSADOR'S CALLS

RESENT THE PUBLICITY GIVEN TO THESE CALLS. HE THOUGHT THAT SUCH CALLS SHOULD BE DONE QUIETLY. ANOTHER SUBJECT TOUCHED ON BY THE PRESIDENT WAS THE NEED FOR CHILE TO HAVE ACCESS TO AMERICAN TECHNOLOGY, A SUBJECT HE ALSO EMPHASIZED IN HIS NEW YEAR'S SPEECH TO THE NATION. CONGRESSMAN MCCAIN DESCRIBED THE MEETING AS FRIENDLY AND AT TIMES WARM, BUT NOTED THAT PINOCHET DOES SEEM OBSESSED WITH THE THREAT OF COMMUNISM.

3. DURING THE MEETING DEL VALLE WAS QUIET EXCEPT WHEN THE SUBJECT OF U.S. FOREIGN POLICY WAS TOUCHED UPON, AT WHICH POINT HE MADE RATHER HEATED REMARKS ABOUT THE INABILITY OF THE USG TO UNDERSTAND THE CHILEAN SITUATION, AND OUR FAILURE TO SUPPORT CHILE IN THE FIGHT AGAINST COMMUNIST EXPANSION.

4. THE CONGRESSMAN DESCRIBED HIS HOUR-LONG MEETING WITH ADMIRAL MERINO AS WARM AND VERY FRIENDLY. IT COVERED MOSTLY THE ADMIRAL'S WELL-KNOWN VIEWS ON THE IMPORTANCE OF CHILE IN THE BATTLE TO KEEP THE SEA LANES OPEN, AND THE ATTEMPTS BY THE RUSSIANS TO GAIN A FOOT HOLD IN THE AREA. THE MOST INTERESTING PART OF THE CONVERSATION, ACCORDING TO THE CONGRESSMAN, WAS MERINO'S STATEMENT THAT HE AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE JUNTA HAD RECENTLY TOLD PINOCHET THAT HE SHOULD NOT EXPECT ANY SUPPORT FROM THE JUNTA IF HE SHOULD DECIDE TO BE A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT IN 1989. MERINO ADDED THAT THE 1989 ELECTIONS WOULD NOT BE AS ENVISAGED IN THE 1980 CONSTITUTION, BUT WOULD BE A FREE AND OPEN

CHOICE BETWEEN VARIOUS CANDIDATES. HE DESCRIBED THE PORTION OF THE CONSTITUTION CALLING FOR A SINGLE CANDIDATE PLEBISCITE AS BEING RIDICULOUS AND UNSUPPORTABLE. THE CLEAR IMPLICATION WAS THAT THIS PART OF THE CONSTITUTION WOULD BE CHANGED WELL BEFORE 1989. IN RESPONSE TO THE CONGRESSMAN'S QUESTION IF PINOCHET MIGHT BE ONE OF THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES IN 1989, MERINO STATED THAT THIS WOULD NOT BE THE CASE. MERINO ALSO MADE THE SAME TYPE OF REMARKS ABOUT

THE AMBASSADOR'S ACTIVITIES, BUT MORE IN THE SENSE THAT THIS NEW STYLE OF DIPLOMACY WAS SURPRISING AND THEREFORE UPSETTING.

5. CONGRESSMAN MCCAIN ALSO NOTED THAT HE HAD SPENT CONSIDERABLE TIME WITH FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER HERNAN CUBILLOS, WHO HAD TOLD HIM THAT HE IS BEING CONSIDERED AS A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE FOR 1989. CUBILLOS TOLD THE CONGRESSMAN THAT HE VIEWS HIMSELF AS A BRIDGE BETWEEN THE PRESENT MILITARY GOVERNMENT AND THE CIVILIAN POLITICIANS, AND COULD THEREFORE EXPECT SUPPORT FROM BOTH SIDES IN 1989. HE HAS NO INTENTION OF ANNOUNCING ANY TIME SOON HIS AVAILABILITY FOR THE PRESIDENCY, NOTING THAT THE TIMING OF THIS IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE, AS A PREMATURE ANNOUNCEMENT WOULD ONLY UPSET THE GOVERNMENT AND PREWARN THE OPPOSITION. CUBILLOS ALSO MADE NOTE OF THE WAVES BEING CREATED WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT BY THE AMBASSADOR'S NEW STYLE OF DIPLOMACY, ADDING THAT IT WOULD NOT DO TO HAVE THE

TALKING POINTS FOR CALL TO TREASURY DEP. SEC. DARMAN

- Regret that despite the concerns I expressed last month, your people have continued to undermine our policy on Chile with unhelpful actions on the Hill.
- We made a serious effort to address Mulford's concerns, and even provided classified information in the memo Elliott Abrams and HA's Jim Montgomery sent.
- Now we learn that someone at Treasury has passed our confidential reply to the Lundine Subcomittee.
- Naturally this leaked further, and was picked up by Mary McGrory in a partisan swipe March 16 at our Chile policy.
- These uncoordinated and unilateral decisions on congressional relations must stop, for they undercut the clear policy direction on Chile laid down by the President.
- Leaks like this encourage partisan critics who want to make Chile the next on a foreign policy "hit list" in the wake of Haiti and the Phillipines.
- I have told John Poindexter of my concern that we cannot carry out the President's foreign policy of promoting a peaceful transition through a carefully orchestrated campaign if Treasury continues to provide our critics with private interagency exchanges and classified information.

Bill:

SUBJECT: White House Decision to Reduce Mission Staffing in Chile

Here are some suggested talking points for your use with DAS Kramer in DOD/ISA. I suggest you also re-read George Landau's EXDIS cable, Santiago 69, recommending the termination of the military assistance agreement and the MILGP. (The draft cable -- cleared throughout the Department -- listing our proposed staffing reductions is attached.)

1. The White House has directed that American staffing in Santiago be reduced to demonstrate our displeasure over the failure of the Chilean Government to carry out a serious investigation and prosecution of three of its ex-security officers regarding their involvement in the Letelier/Moffit assassination case. One part of this decision directed that the MILGP be reduced to two positions coincident with termination of the FMS pipeline on December 31, and that the Department should then make a recommendation to the NSC regarding the complete elimination of the MILGP.

2. We are proposing across-the-board cuts of American positions in all agencies (except the Peace Corps). This would include 6 State positions, 3 out of 4 AID positions, 4 or 5 out of the 11 ICA positions, and 1 of 3 DEA positions. As to military positions we propose these cuts:

-- 3 of the 4 IAGS positions (with the remaining officer to be a civilian cartographic specialist rather than the much more visible army major currently directing the program);

-- DIA positions: the US Navy exchange officer in Valparaiso, a vacant DAO position and one of the DAO non-commissioned officers. (As the Secretary has recommended, the three military attaches would remain. They would continue to have two NCO's for support.)

-- MILGP. We recommend the prompt reduction and departure of the two remaining MILGP officers.

3. The few residual MILGP functions can be handled, we believe, either by DAO personnel presently assigned in Santiago or by occasional TDY personnel from SOUTHCOM or DOD/ISA (or a combination of the two). Performance of such functions by defense attaches will require Presidential determination report to Congress under section 51 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

4. Withdrawal of the MILGP is viewed, both in Washington and in Santiago, as the major symbolic and substantive USG measure in response to the failure of the Chilean Government to act with respect to the Letelier case. We cannot, therefore, afford to have a truncated MILGP in place, or even to have an identifiable MILGP function remain - now that the FMS pipeline has been terminated.

2. (U) SANTIAGO'S DAILIES OF THE AFTERNOON OF JANUARY 10 AND MORNING OF JANUARY 11 CARRIED A STATEMENT BY CARDINAL FRESNO OF THE MORNING OF JANUARY 10 THAT HE WILL NOT MEET WITH SENATOR KENNEDY. IN RESPONSE TO A QUESTION REGARDING KENNEDY'S ALLEGED INTENTION TO USE THE VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY AS A CENTER FOR HIS MEETINGS WITH POLITICAL PARTIES AND OTHER GROUPS, CARDINAL FRESNO REPLIED "THE NEWS YESTERDAY (THURSDAY) SURPRISED ME...I DO NOT THINK THE VICARIATE IS THE PROPER PLACE TO HOLD MEETINGS OF THE MOST DIVERSE TYPE...PERHAPS THEY CDULD FIND AN APPROPRIATE PLACE SUCH AS THE CARRERA HOTEL OR THE CONSULATE OF THE EMBASSY....IT IS ALRIGHT IF HE WANTS TO MAKE A COURTESY VISIT (TO THE VICARIATE), BUT BY NO MEANS FOR POLITICAL REASONS; FOR WELFARE REASONS ONLY, TO SEE HOW TO HELP DEVELOP HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE." ASKED WHETHER HE WOULD SEE THE SENATOR, THE CARDINAL SAID "NO. HE IS COMING, ACCORDING TO THOSE WHO ARE ARRANGING HIS VISIT, WITH POLITICAL OBJECTIVES, AND HE WILL WANT TO TALK ABOUT POLITICIS. I AM NOT A POLITICIAN AND I HAVE NO REASON TO TALK ABOUT POLITICS. THEREFORE, I SEE NO REASON WHY HE SHOULD USE PART OF HIS SCARCE TIME (TO SEE ME), SINCE I WOULD NOT DISCUSS ANY ISSUE RELATED TO POLITICS." HE ADDED, "IN ANY CASE, I WILL BE OUT OF SANTIAGO ON WEDNESDAY THE 15TH, BECAUSE THAT DAY I WILL TRAVEL TO SAN ANTONIO." THE CARDINAL IS INAUGURATING A CHURCH-FUNDED HOUSING DEVELOPMENT IN SAN ANTONIO AND WE HAD EARLIER BEEN INFORMED OF THIS PENDING COMMITMENT, WHICH WOULD HAVE MADE IT NECESSARY FOR HIM TO MEET THE SENATOR EARLY ON DECEMBER 15TH.

3. (C) AS AGREED DURING THE CRAIG/BARNES PHONE CONVERSATION, WE ATTEMPTED TO LEARN WHAT WERE THE CHANCES OF THE CARDINAL'S RECONSIDERING THE EARLIER PRIVATELY COMMUNICATED RELUCTANCE

TO SEE THE SENATOR (REF B). (WE DID NOT KNOW AT THE TIME OF THE PHONE CONVERSATION ABOUT THE CARDINAL'S COMMENTS TO THE PRESS.) GIVEN THE CARDINAL'S SENSITIVITIES TO THE POLITICAL ENVIRONMENT SURROUNDING THE VISIT, WE DECIDED TO CALL ON HIS CLOSE VISOR, FATHER RENATO POBLETE, WHO HAD ON THURSDAY COMMUNICATED TO US ABOUT THE CARDINAL'S RELUCTANCE. POBLETE IS ALSO THE PERSON WHOM, AT THE BEGINNING OF THE WEEK, THE CARDINAL HAD INITIALLY DESIGNATED TO ARRANGE A MEETING WITH THE SENATOR. (FYI: POBLETE HIMSELF WANTS THE CARDINAL TO RECEIVE THE SENATOR. END FYI) POBLETE SAID HE TOLD THE CARDINAL ON THE AFTERNOON OF JANUARY 10 THAT HE, THE CARDINAL, WAS WRONG ABOUT SENATOR KENNEDY'S PURPOSE BEING POLITICAL AND THAT HE FELT THAT THE CARDINAL HAD GONE TOO FAR IN SOME OF HIS COMMENTS. THE CARDINAL REPLIED THAT HE WAS CAUGHT OFF GUARD BY THE PRESS AND THAT HE WAS TOO HARSH IN HIS STATEMENTS, ALTHOUGH HE DID NOT INDICATE THAT HE WOULD CHANGE HIS MIND ABOUT MEETING WITH THE SENATOR. POBLETE SAID, HOWEVER, THAT IT WAS HIS OWN FEELING AT THAT TIME THAT THERE WAS STILL A LITTLE ROOM TO PUT THE MEETING BACK ON TRACK. HOWEVER,

SUBJ: CARDINAL FRESNO UNLIKELY TO MEET SENATOR KENNEDY

AT A DINNER ON THE EVENING OF JANUARY 10, WHICH WAS ATTENDED BY BOTH THE CARDINAL AND POBLETE, SEVERAL PROMINENT CHILEAN CONSERVATIVES STRONGLY CRITICIZED THE SENATOR FOR ALLEGED POLITICAL MEDDLING IN WAYS THAT REINFORCED THE CARDINAL'S EXISTING RELUCTANCE. IT NOW APPEARS THERE IS NO CHANCE FOR A MEETING, SAID POBLETE.

4. (C) ON THE OTHER HAND, POBLETE SAID THAT FRESNO'S DECISION WILL NOT AFFECT THE DECISION OF CARDINAL SILVA TO RECEIVE THE SENATOR.

5. (C) REFLECTING ON CARDINAL FRESNO'S COMMENT ABOUT THE POLITICAL IMAGE OF THE VISIT, POLCOUNSELOR MENTIONED THAT WE WERE PLANNING ON REQUESTING A MEETING WITH PROMINENT CHILEAN BUSINESSMEN SOMETIME DURING THE DAY, AS POBLETE HAD SUGGESTED EARLIER, AND A VISIT TO THE PRIVATE CHILDREN'S REHABILITATION CENTER. THE CHILDREN'S CENTER WOULD BE THE FIRST ACTIVITY OF THE SENATOR AS

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

HE COMES IN FROM THE AIRPORT, A VISIT THAT WOULD HOPEFULLY MAKE THE JANUARY 15 AFTERNOON DAILY. A MEETING HAD ALSO BEEN REQUESTED WITH THE GOVERNMENT,

ALTHOUGH WE WERE NOT OPTIMISTIC ON THAT SCORE. POBLETE SAID HE FELT THE BUSINESSMEN'S MEETING AND THE VISIT TO THE CHILDREN'S CENTER WOULD BE VERY POSITIVE, AND HE RECOMMENDED THE NAMES OF SOME INTERESTING BUSINESSMEN WHO ARE NOT DEEPLY IN DEBT TO THE GOVERNMENT AND THEREFORE FREE TO DO AS THEY CHOOSE. THE BUSINESSMEN WOULD BE INTERESTED IN EXCHANGING VIEWS ABOUT THE FOREIGN DEBT ISSUE AND OTHER ECONOMIC AND COMMERCIAL THEMES. ASKED WHETHER HE THOUGHT THAT THE CHANGE IN IMAGE OF THE VISIT MIGHT AFFECT THE CARDINAL'S WILLINGNESS TO SEE THE SENATOR, POBLETE INDICATED AGAIN THAT SUCH A MEETING NOW APPEARED IMPOSSIBLE. IN PASSING, REFERRING BACK TO THE PRESS REPORTS ABOUT KENNEDY MEETING WITH SEVERAL GROUPS AT THE VICARIATE, POBLETE COMMENTED THAT IT APPEARED SOME VICARIATE PEOPLE TRIED TO EXPLOIT THE KENNEDY VISIT POLITICALLY BY MAKING FALSE CLAIMS TO THE PRESS. IN THAT VEIN, POLCOUNSELOR ASKED POBLETE TO ENSURE THAT THE VICARIATE DELIVERS ENTRANCE TICKETS FOR THE FUNCTION AT THE CIRCULO ESPANOL TO ONLY RESPONSIBLE PEOPLE. IT WOULD BE UNFORTUNATE IF LEFTISTS ATTEMPTED TO EXPLOIT THE SENATOR'S SPEECH AS WELL. POBLETE AGREED.

6. (C) COMMENT: BASED ON TWO RECENT CONVERSATIONS, THAT WITH POBLETE AND ANOTHER WITH ACCORD COORDINATOR, SERGIO MOLINA, WE BELIEVE THAT THE CARDINAL'S REASON FOR NOT WANTING TO RECEIVE THE CONFIDENTIAL

SENATOR IS HIS MOOD OF EXTREME POLITICAL CAUTION IN THE WAKE OF SEVERAL RECENT SETBACKS, THE MOST IMPORTANT BEING A DISAPPOINTING MEETING WITH PRESIDENT PINOCHET JUST BEFORE CHRISTMAS. THE PRESIDENT TREATED FRESNO SHABBILY IN THAT MEETING AND REJECTED OUT OF HAND EVERY SIGNIFICANT COMMENT OR SUGGESTION THE CARDINAL MADE. MOLINA TOLD POLCOUNSELOR ON JANUARY 10 THAT HE HAS NOT SPOKEN TO THE CARDINAL IN MANY DAYS, BUT HE UNDERSTOOD THAT THE CARDINAL IS DEPRESSED AND

EXERCISING EXTREME CARE TO AVOID ANY GREATER PERSONAL TENSIONS WITH THE GOVERNMENT. (ON THE OTHER HAND, MARTHA MUSE OF THE TINKER FOUNDATION WAS AT THE SAME DINNER AS THE CARDINAL ON JANUARY 10 AND THE CARDINAL EXPRESSED GENERAL OPTIMISM ABOUT THE FUTURE OF CHILE.) IN ANY EVENT, AT NO POINT DID POBLETE INDICATE THAT THE CARDINAL NOW OPPOSES KENNEDY'S VISIT. MOREOVER, IN HIS STATEMENTS TO THE PRESS, THE CARDINAL HAS NOT COME OUT OPPOSING THE VISIT, NOTING THAT THE SENATOR WOULD BE WELCOMED AT THE VICARIATE FOR A VISIT THAT WAS STRICTLY RELATED TO HUMAN RIGHTS. SUBJECT: 42ND UN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (UNHRC):
-- CONSIDERATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE

REF: STATE 2779

1. C - ENTIRE EEXT.

2. SUMMARY. AFTER SAMPLING OPINION IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS CENTER SECRETARIAT AND AMONG MEMBERS OF THE WESTERN GROUP, MISSION BELIEVES IT WOULD BE PRUDENT NOT TO ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION FOR CHILE WITH OTHER COUNTRIES FOR WHICH THE COMMISSION HAS APPOINTED SPECIAL RAPPORTEURS. INSTEAD WE BELIEVE IT BEST TO WAIT UNTIL CHILE'S NEW ATTITUDE OF COOPERATING WITH THE COMMISSION HAS BEEN DEMONSTRATED DURING THE SESSION AND THEN TO MOVE TO TERMINATE THE SEPARATE ITEM DURING CONSIDERATION OF THE PROVISIONAL AGENDA FOR NEXT YEAR. END SUMMARY.

3. DURING CALL ON ASSISTANT SECRETARY GENERAL FOR HUMAN RIGHTS KURT HERNDL JANUARY 10, DCM RAISED ISSUE OF CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION OF UNHRC AGENDA ITEM ON CHILE WITH AGENDA ITEM UNDER WHICH ALL OTHER COUNTRIES FOR WHICH THE COMMISSION HAS APPOINTED RAPPORTEURS ARE CONSIDERED. HERNDL POINTED OUT THIS DECISION WOULD HAVE TO BE TAKEN BY THE BUREAU IN ITS FIRST MEETING WHEN IT DECIDED THE WORK PROGRAM FOR THE SESSION. HE CAUTIONED THAT RAISING THIS CONTENTIOUS ISSUE AT THE START COULD PREJUDICE CONSIDERATION OF CHILE LATER IN THE SESSION. SPEAKING "PERSONALLY", HERNDL SUGGESTED IT WOULD BE BETTER TO WAIT AND ELIMINATE THE "SEPARATE ITEM" WHEN THE COMMISSION CONSIDERS THE PROVISIONAL AGENDA FOR ITS NEXT SESSION. BY THAT TIME, HERNDL SAID, THE COMMISSION WOULD HAVE HEARD THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR'S REPORT ON HIS VISIT AND, IT WAS LIKELY, CHILE WOULD HAVE APPEARED BEFORE THE COMMISSION. THUS CHILE WOULD HAVE DEMONSTRATED THAT IT WAS "COOPERATING WITH THE COMMISSION" AND CREATED A STRONG JUSTIFICATION FOR TERMINATION OF THE SEPARATE ITEM.

UNCLASSIFIED

4. DURING CALL BY IO/UNP DEPUTY DIRECTOR KULICK ON UNHRC SECRETARY JOHN PACE JANUARY 13, MISSOFF RAISED POSSIBILITY OF CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION AND RECEIVED A POSITIVE RESPONSE. PACE NOTED THAT THIS DECISION RESTED WITH THE BUREAU, BUT INDICATED IT WAS WORTH A TRY. REVIEWING THE HISTORY OF CHILE'S RELATIONS WITH THE COMMISSION, PACE SAID CHILE INITIALLY COOPERATED WITH THE COMMISSION AND THUS BECAME AN "ITEM" ON THE AGENDA. SUBSEQUENTLY, CHILE "SLAMMED THE DOOR HARD", BUT HAD BEGUN TO CONSIDER OPENING IT AGAIN EVEN BEFORE THE APPOINTMENT OF VOLIO AS RAPPORTEUR. HE INDICATED THE SEPARATE ITEM WAS NOW AN HISTORICAL ANOMALY FOR WHICH THERE WAS NO PRESENT JUSTIFICATION.

5. FINALLY DURING INFORMAL MEETING OF REPRESENTATIVES FROM EIGHT WESTERN MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION JANUARY 13, IRELAND SUPPORTED BY AUSTRALIA TOOK HARD LINE OPPOSING ANY CHANGE IN THE SEPARATE ITEM FOR CHILE UNTIL THERE WERE IMPROVEMENTS IN THE HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION. BOTH WERE "UNDECIDED" ABOUT CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION. FRG SUPPORTED BY FRANCE TOOK A MORE POSITIVE APPROACH NOTING THAT THE PREVIOUS JUSTIFICATION FOR SEPARATE CONSIDERATION (IE. NON-COOPERATION

TIME TO TERMINATE THIS PRACTICE. HOWEVER, FRG REP CAUTIONED THAT THE LEAD ON THIS SHOULD BE TAKEN BY A LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRY WITH WESTERN SUPPORT. LOOKING AT THE SITUATION TACTICALLY, FRG REP WARNED THAT RAISING THE ISSUE OF CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION AT THE OPENING OF THE COMMISSION RISKED CREATING AN ARGUMENT WHICH COULD CREATE DIFFICULTIES WITH THE RESOLUTION ON CHILE AND ATTEMPTS TO END THE SEPARATE ITEM LATER IN THE SESSION, AND WAS PROBABLY NOT WORTH THE RISK. UK, BELGIUM AND NORWAY REPS ARE NEW AND DID NOT HAVE AN OPINION.

6. COMMENT: PREVIOUSLY ITEM 5 (CHILE) HAS BEEN CONSIDERED CONSECUTIVELY WITH ITEM 12 (OTHER COUNTRIES) AND THERE IS NO REASON TO ASSUME THIS WOULD NOT BE THE CASE THIS SESSION. TO RAISE THE ISSUE OF CONCURRENT CONSIDERATION AT THE OPENING MEETING OF THE BUREAU RISKS ALERTING OUR OPPONENTS AND TOUCHING OFF AN ARGUMENT WHICH COULD PREJUDICE CONSIDERATION OF CHILE LATER ON. IN VIEW OF THE DIVIDED OPINION EVEN WITHIN THE WESTERN GROUP, IT WOULD APPEAR PRUDENT TO WAIT UNTIL CHILE'S NEW ATTITUDE OF COOPERATION WITH THE COMMISSION HAS BEEN DEMONSTRATED AND THEN MOVE TO TERMINATE ITEM 5 AND MOVE CHILE UNDER ITEM 12 AT THE END OF THE SESSION DURING CONSIDERATION OF THE PROVISIONAL AGENDA FOR NEXT YEAR. THE COMMENTATOR ALSO TAKES KENNEDY TO TASK FOR SELECTIVE CRITICISM ABOUT "THE EXILED AND 'DISAPPEARED'... IN COUNTRIES SITUATED ON THIS SIDE OF THE IRON CURTAIN." AFTER STATING THAT ROBERT KENNEDY WAS PREVENTED FROM SPEAKING AND "VERBALLY AND PHYSICALLY ABUSED" AT THE UNIV. OF CONCEPCION IN 1965 BY SOCIALISTS, COMMUNISTS AND MIRISTS, VALDIVIESO STATES "IN LARGE MEASURE IT WILL BE WITH THESE SAME PEOPLE THAT SEN. T. KENNEDY WILL NOW DISCUSS RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS." VALDIVIESO ENDS BY STATING, "THE WORD 'CONCHO' IS A CHILEANISM USED TO DESIGNATE THE YOUNGEST SON IN A FAMILY AND THE GROUNDS OR SEDIMENT LEFT FROM DRINKS IN CUPS OR GLASSES AS WELL AS THE RESIDUE OR LEFTOVERS OF ANYTHING. THE CURRENT SEN. KENNEDY IS THE 'BENJAMIN' OF HIS CLAN, BUT, EVEN SO, TO ANY CHILEAN WITHOUT POLITICAL LIVERY, HE IS A SIMPLE 'CONCHO'."

3. ON PAGE 7 CHILEAN FOMIN DEL VALLE REPLIED TO REPORTERS QUESTIONS ON KENNEDY VISIT. WHEN ASKED HIS OPINION ON FACT THAT KENNEDY WILL MEET WITH CHIEF OF STATE OF OTHER COUNTRIES ON THIS TRIP AND NOT WITH CHILE'S AND WHETHER OR NOT IT WOULD HURT CHILEAN RELATIONS, DEL VALLE REPLIED, "NO, BECAUSE SEN. KENNEDY HAS NOT OFFENDED, INSULTED, NOR ATTACKED ANY OF THE OTHER GOVERNMENTS, WHILE HE HAS OURS AND FOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS." TO REPORTER'S STATEMENT THAT KENNEDY SPONSORED AN AMENDMENT ON ARGENTINA AS WELL AS CHILE, THE FOMIN REPLIED, "NO. IT WAS DIFFERENT. OUR AMENDMENT LASTED FOR A LONGER PERIOD. 1. (U) THE NATIONAL INFORMATION CENTER (CNI) CHARGED ON JANUARY 10 THAT LIBYA AND CUBA SUPPORT TERRORIST MOVEMENTS OPERATING IN CHILE. THE CNI CLAIMED THAT LIBYA PROVIDES WEAPONS AND TRAINING TO CHILEAN TERRORIST GROUPS INCLUDING THE MANUEL RODRIGUEZ PATRIOTIC FRONT, THE MOVEMENT OF THE REVOLUTIONARY CONFIDENTIAL

"SHE".

2. (U) THE CNI ANNOUNCEMENT CITED AS EVIDENCE OF LIBYAN AND CUBAN INVOLVEMENT STATEMENTS BY SEVERAL CHILEAN TERRORISTS AND AN INVENTORY OF THE ARMS CAPTURED. ACCORDING TO THE CNI, INTELLIGENCE SERVICES FROM OTHER COUNTRIES REPORTEDLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE INVESTIGATIONS WHICH INDICATE THE CAPTURED ARMS CAME FROM LIBYA AND CUBA.

3. (U) THE CNI ANNOUNCEMENT ALSO ACCUSES LIBYA, CUBA AND BULGARIA OF TRAINING CHILEAN TERRORISTS. AGAIN, THE REPORT CITES TERRORISTS' CONFESSIONS THAT THEY WERE TRAINED ABROAD. THE CUBANS REPORTEDLY SPECIALIZE IN TRAINING IN SABOTAGE AND CONSPIRACY PLANNING, WHILE THE LIBYANS SPECIALIZE IN URBAN AND RURAL GUERRILLA WARFARE, ARMS AND EXPLOSIVES. THE BULGARIANS, THE REPORT SAYS, ARE SPECIALISTS IN POLITICAL INDOCTRINATION.

4. (C) THIS ANNOUNCEMENT APPEARS TO BE TIMED TO COINCIDE WITH USG EFFORTS DIRECTED AT LIBYA. WHILE EVIDENCE OF CUBAN INVOLVEMENT IN SUPPLYING TRAINING AND ARMS TO CHILE'S TERRORISTS IS KNOWN, THIS IS THE FIRST TIME WE HAVE SEEN LIBYA ACCUSED OF ACTUALLY SUPPLYING ARMS TO CHILEAN TERRORISTS.BARNES

TO: The Secretary

FROM: ARA - James H. Michel, Acting

SUBJECT: Delay in Letelier Case

Last week's secret talks with Letelier defendant Fernandez concluded without an agreement, but prospects for a deal emerging soon still look good. Follow-up meetings with Fernandez are planned this week in Brazil, where security is easily managed. Fernandez presently plans to leave Chile Jan. 24 without any USG assistance.

We discussed this new opening in the Letelier case January 16 with senior officials at the Justice Department, including Deputy Attorney General Steve Trott. We stressed to Trott our interest in working out a fair deal with Fernandez, which would take into account both law enforcement and foreign policy value of the information he has provided. All were in agreement on the need to move quickly, because of security concerns.

In view of doubts about Fernandez' veracity on the extent of his own culpability (there are apparent discrepancies between his testimony and that of Michael Townley, the US citizen Chilean agent whose plea-bargained testimony was the basis for our indictments in the case) it was agreed to offer him two options: either plea guilty to a maximum 15-year sentence for murder, to be reduced to as little as a five-year exposure for obstructing justice should all his statements prove reliable under further scrutiny; or, without any USG assurances, continue talks in Brazil, where he would be subject to polygraph tests and more intense interrogation.

Fernandez' acceptance of option two--he said he will be in Rio on Jan. 24 or will be dead by then--shows his interest in pursuing a deal and full awareness of the danger he faces as a result of his approach to us. Once he leaves Chile, we judge it unlikely he will ever return.

We are continuing to work closely with DOJ and the US Attorney's office on this. Mike Kozak will participate in the Brazil talks, which could last several days or more. We will keep you informed of major developments.

1. (U) CODEL KENNEDY ARRIVED SANTIAGO AIRPORT AT ABOUT 0945 WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15 AND WAS MET BY AMBASSADOR. IN ADDITION, A SMALL GROUP OF CHILEAN OPPOSITION LEADERS, LED BY GABRIEL VALDES, PRESIDENT OF CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY, AND JAIME CASTILLO AND MAXIMO PACHECO OF CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION, WERE ON HAND TO WELCOME THE SENATOR. SENATOR READ ARRIVAL STATEMENT (TEXT SENT SEPTEL) TO LARGE GROUP OF CHILEAN AND FOREIGN PRESS. POLITICAL LEADERS GOT INTO THEIR CARS AND LEFT TERMINAL EN ROUTE BACK TO CITY. SHORT DISTANCE FROM TERMINAL THEY FOUND ROAD BLOCKED BY DEMONSTRATORS (ABOUT 200 ACCORDING TO ONE OBSERVER). UNIFORMED POLICE WERE PRESENT BUT TOOK NO APPARENT ACTION TO CLEAR THE ROAD OR PREVENT

AND ROCKS WERE THROWN, AND AT LEAST ONE CAR, CARRYING CASTILLO AND PACHECO, WAS BADLY DAMAGED, AND CASTILLO RECEIVED A SEVERE CUT ON THE NECK FROM FLYING GLASS. THE POLITICIANS TURNED BACK TO THE AIRPORT, AND IN VIEW OF THEIR EXPERIENCE NO ATTEMPT WAS MADE BY CODEL AND AMBASSADOR'S PARTY TO LEAVE AIRPORT BY CAR. POLICE OFFERED TWO HELICOPTERS TO FLY THE GROUP TO PRIVATE CHILDREN'S PHYSICAL REHABILITATION CENTER WHICH WAS SENATOR'S FIRST SCHEDULED APPOINTMENT. AFTER OBTAINING WORD FROM EMBASSY PERSONNEL THAT AREA AROUND CENTER APPEARED CLEAR, GROUP LEFT IN HELICOPTERS ABOUT 11:40. EMBASSY VEHICLES AND POLITICAL LEADERS WERE EVENTUALLY ABLE TO LEAVE AIRPORT BY ROAD.

2. (C) IN MEANTIME, CARDINAL SILVA SENT WORD TO EMBASSY THAT HIS PHONE HAD BEEN CUT, THERE WERE DEMONSTRATORS AROUND HIS HOUSE, AND HE WOULD PREFER SENATOR AND AMBASSADOR NOT COME TO HIS HOME AS SCHEDULED. CARDINAL WAS INVITED TO COME TO CIRCULO ESPANOL, DOWNTOWN CLUB WHERE SEVERAL OTHER APPOINTMENTS WERE SCHEDULED.

3. (U) EN ROUTE FROM REHABILITATION CENTER TO CIRCULO TO MEET CARDINAL, AMBASSADOR'S CAR IN WHICH AMBASSADOR AND SENATOR WERE RIDING WAS HIT BY NUMEROUS EGGS AND AT LEAST ONE ROCK WHICH GRAZED BUT DID NOT BREAK SHATTERPROOF GLASS OF REAR WINDOW. DEMONSTRATORS WERE ALSO PRESENT AT CIRCULO BUT POLICE SO FAR ARE KEEPING THEM UNDER CONTROL AND ON OPPOSITE SIDE OF STREET. SENATOR WAS ABLE TO CARRY OUT ALL OF HIS SCHEDULED MEETINGS AT CIRCULO WITHOUT INCIDENT, INCLUDING WORKING LUNCH WITH CHILEAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION AND VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY WHICH WAS MOVED TO THE CIRCULO BECAUSE OF LARGE NUMBER OF

COMMANDER OF THE NATIONAL POLICE AND MEMBER OF THE JUNTA, TO PROTEST. STANGE SAID MORNING'S EVENTS WERE "LAMENTABLE" AND THAT SECURITY MEASURES WOULD BE REDOUBLED. HE CALLED AMBASSADOR BACK TO CONFIRM THAT STEPS HAD BEEN TAKEN, INCLUDING PROTECTION FOR PACHECO AND OTHERS IN MOVING FROM CHRC OFFICES TO THE CIRCULO. AMBASSADOR REQUESTED AND STANGE AGREED TO, ADDITIONAL MEN ALONG ROUTE BETWEEN CIRCULO AND AMBASSADOR'S RESIDENCE.

5. (C) AFTER SEVERAL CALLS, DCM REACHED ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER COVARRUBIAS (DEL VALLE IS ON VACATION) AND EXPRESSED EMBASSY'S "ASTONISHMENT AND REGRET" AT INABILITY OF POLICE TO CONTROL DEMONSTRATORS, DESPITE FOREIGN MINISTER'S ASSURANCES TO THE AMBASSADOR. COVARRUBIAS RESPONDED AGGRESSIVELY THAT NO PHYSICAL HARM HAD COME TO THE SENATOR, POLICE HAD PREVENTED DEMONSTRATORS FROM ENTERING TERMINAL; THEREFORE GOC HAD KEPT ITS PROMISES. COVARRUBIAS DID FINALLY SAY THAT "WE LAMENT VERY MUCH THAT THERE HAVE BEEN THESE INCIDENTS." IN SECOND CONVERSATION, IN WHICH DCM REPORTED THE DAMAGE TO OFFICIAL

AND BEING ABLE TO CARRY OUT HIS PROGRAM.

6. (U) BY MID-AFTERNOON WEDNESDAY THE SMALL CROWD
OUTSIDE OF THE CIRCULO ESPANOL HAD BEEN REDUCED
CONSIDERABLY. SENATOR WALKED OUT OF THE BUILDING FOLLOWING HIS MEETING WITH THE HUMAN RIGHTS GROUPS AND CROSSED THE STREET TO MINGLE WITH SOME OF THE STANDERS-BY. WHILE THERE WERE SOME CAT-CALLS FROM PART OF THE CROWD, THERE WERE NO INCIDENTS AND SENATOR RETURNED TO THE MEETING SITE
WITH NO PROBLEMS. BY LATE AFTERNOON, THE HEAT HAD REDUCED
THE CROWD TO ONLY A HANDFUL.

FOR THE MEETINGS WITH THE VARIOUS GROUPS SCHEDULED TO MEET THE CODEL. MANY OF THE PARTICIPATING CHILEANS EXPRESSED ASTONISHMENT OVER THE GOC'S WILLINGNESS TO ALLOW THIS TYPE OF BEHAVIOUR TO TAKE PLACE AND ALL OF THE GROUPS APOLOGIZED TO THE CODEL FOR THE RUDE WELCOME. TODAY'S EVENTS AGAIN MAKE CLEAR THAT THE PINOCHET GOVERNMENT CARES VERY LITTLE ABOUT ITS INTERNATIONAL IMAGE, AND IS WILLING TO IGNORE THIS IMAGE WHEN IT COMES TO STRIKING BACK AT ITS PRECEIVED ENEMIES.

8. (C) AT 1730 HOURS DEPUTY COMMANDER OF POLICE TOLD AMBASSADOR THAT CIRCULO - RESIDENCE ROUTE HAD BEEN REINFORCED AND WAS "GUARANTEED." HE EMPHASIZED AGAIN THEIR DESIRE TO ASSURE THE SAFETY OF CODEL. BARNES

SUBJECT: LEAK ABOUT U.S. DEMARCHE ON TORTURE

REF: 85 SANTIAGO 9110

1. ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ - ENTIRE TEXT.

2. SUMMARY: AMBASSADOR RAUL SCHMIDT, DIRECTOR OF FOREIGN POLICY AT THE FOREIGN MINISTRY, CALLED IN POL COUNSELOR ON JANUARY 8 TO COMPLAIN THAT THE FOREIGN PRESS CORPS IN CHILE HAS LEARNED ABOUT A U.S. PRESENTATION OF INFORMATION ON SPECIFIC CASES OF TORTURE (REFTEL). SCHMIDT EXPRESSED DISMAY AT THIS DEVELOPMENT, BUT HE NOTED THAT THE MINISTRY OF INTERIOR HAS PROMISED TO PROVIDE INFORMATION TO THE MINISTRY OF FOREIGN RELATIONS ON THE 18 CASES BY JANUARY 14. SCHMIDT SAID HE WANTED TO RESPOND TO THE U.S. DEMARCHE BEFORE THE U.S. HUMAN RIGHTS REPORT IS SUBMITTED TO CONGRESS AT THE END OF JANUARY. END SUMMARY.

3. SCHMIDT CALLED IN POLCOUNSELOR ON AN URGENT BASIS. SCHMIDT SAID HE HAD RECENTLY MET WITH SOMEONE WHO HAD BEEN INTERVIEWED BY A REPORTER

REPORTER, ONLY IN SANTIAGO FOR A FEW DAYS, TOLD THE CHILEAN CONTACT OF SCHMIDT THAT HE, THE REPORTER, HAD BEEN INFORMED BY SEVERAL MEMBERS OF THE FOREIGN PRESS CORPS IN CHILE THAT THE U.S. EMBASSY HAD PROVIDED THE GOC INFORMATION ON 18 CASES OF TORTURE APPROXIMATELY "THREE WEEKS AGO" (I.E. AROUND DECEMBER 23), ASKING FOR AN EXPLANATION OF WHAT WAS DONE TO INVESTIGATE AND PUNISH THE PERPETRATORS. THE REPORTERS TOLD THE "DIE WELT" JOURNALIST THAT THE EMBASSY IS DISPLEASED THAT THE GOC HAS NOT REPLIED AFTER THREE WEEKS.

4. SCHMIDT NOTED THAT THE STORY WAS INACCURATE IN SOME DETAILS (E.G., THE DEMARCHE WAS ON DECEMBER 27) BUT NONE THE LESS DISTURBING TO THE GOC THAT WHAT WAS PRESUMED TO BE A VERY PRIVATE APPROACH WOULD BECOME KNOWN TO THE PRESS. POL COUNSELOR REPLIED THAT IT WAS EQUALLY SURPRISING AND DISTURBING TO US THAT THIS INFORMATION HAD LEAKED, AND THAT WE DID NOT WHO THE SOURCE OF THE INFORMATION MIGHT BE.

5. SCHMIDT ADDED THAT, HE PERSONALLY FELT THAT THERE IS MUCH LESS TO THE ACCUSATIONS OF TORTURE THAN MEETS THE EYE BECAUSE SUCH ACCUSATIONS ARE SELF-SERVING TO THE OPPOSITION. HE ALSO OFFERED THE VIEW THAT CHILE HAS SOME INSTANCES OF POLICE BRUTALITY OR EVEN TORTURE, BUT THE NUMBER AND GRAVITY OF SUCH INSTANCES IN CHILE IS FAR LESS THAN IN MANY OTHER COUNTRIES WHOSE VIOLATIONS ARE VIRTUALLY IGNORED BY OUTSIDE OBSERVERS.
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

6. POL COUNSELOR TOLD SCHMIDT THAT THE U.S. AND OTHER COUNTRIES WOULD NOT BE SATISFIED UNTIL ALL TORTURE STOPS. THE GOC HAS TO REALIZE THAT CHILE'S HUMAN RIGHTS RECORD WOULD BE INDEFENSIBLE AS LONG AS THERE IS ANY TORTURE OR UNPUNISHED POLICE BRUTALITY AT ALL, REGARDLESS OF WHAT GOES ON IN OTHER COUNTRIES. POL COUNSELOR REITERATED DCM'S POINT THAT WE ARE AWARE OF MANY

CHARGES OF TORTURE EVEN THOUGH WE HAD ONLY SUBMITTED 18 CASES. WE HOPED THE GOC WOULD PROVIDE SATISFACTORY RESPONSES ON THE 18 CASES, AND WOULD TAKE IT FROM THERE. WHAT IS NECESSARY IS THOROUGH INVESTIGATIONS. WE SINCERELY HOPED CHILE'S RECORD ON THIS SCORE COULD BE CLEARED, BUT THE APPARENT EVIDENCE OF MANY CASES OF TORTURE SEEMS TO BE STRONG.

7. SCHMIDT SAID HE WANTS TO RESPOND AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. HE IS CERTAIN THAT THE GOC WILL BE ABLE TO PROVIDE SATISFACTORY ANSWERS ON THE 18 CASES AND HE WANTS US TO HAVE THE GOC RESPONSE IN TIME FOR THE HUMAN RIGHTS REPORT TO THE CONGRESS. SCHMIDT SAID THE MINISTRY OF INTERIOR HAS PROMISED TO PROVIDE INFORMATION ON THE 18 CASES BY JANUARY 14.

8. WE SUSPECT THE VICARIATE OF SOLIDARITY IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE LEAK ABOUT OUR DEMARCHE, SINCE WE RECEIVED INFORMATION ON THE 18 CASES FROM THE VICARIATE ON DECEMBER 20. THE VICARIATE WAS TOLD

2. RECOMMEND THAT YOU CALL IN THE CHILEAN AMBASSADOR TO EXPRESS OUR SURPRISE AND DISPLEASURE AT THE INABILITY OF THE CHILEAN POLICE TO MAINTAIN ORDER DURING SENATOR KENNEDY'S ARRIVAL, DESPITE THE PRESENCE OF A LARGE NUMBER OF POLICE, WARNINGS FROM THE EMBASSY THAT DEMONSTRATIONS WERE BEING PREPARED, AND ASSURANCES FROM THE FOREIGN MINISTER THAT VIOLENT DEMONSTRATIONS WOULD NOT BE PERMITTED. SOON.
3. YOU SHOULD BE AWARE THAT KENNEDY WAS OUTRAGED, NOT ONLY BY THE DEMONSTRATION AGAINST HIM, BUT BY THE FACT THAT IT VERY LIKELY RECEIVED ENCOURAGEMENT AND MATERIAL SUPPORT FROM THE GOC. HE HAD BEEN SHOWN IN BUENOS AIRES [redacted] REPORTS THAT SUCH ENCOURAGEMENT WAS BEING GIVEN. FROM EYEWITNESS REPORTS WE HAVE HAD, THE SAME THOUGHT CLEARLY CROSSED THE MIND OF THE OFFICER COMMANDING THE POLICE DETACHMENT AT THE AIRPORT AND ACCOUNTS FOR HIS HESITATION IN CLEARING OUT THE MOB. KENNEDY TOLD ME HE WAS CONSIDERING CALLING THE SECRETARY ON HIS RETURN TO WASHINGTON AND ASKING HIM TO MAKE CLEAR TO THE CHILEANS HOW SERIOUSLY WE TAKE THIS KIND OF THING.

4. I HAD TOLD FOREIGN MINISTER DEL VALLE THAT WE HAD RELIABLE INFORMATION THAT AN ORGANIZATION CLOSELY LINKED TO THE GOC WAS PLANNING DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST THE SENATOR, AND THAT WE WERE CONCERNED THAT THESE COULD GET OUT OF HAND, AND RECEIVED EXPLICIT ASSURANCES IN TWO SEPARATE CONVERSATIONS ON JANUARY 13, THAT ALL NECESSARY SECURITY MEASURES WOULD BE TAKEN TO PREVENT VIOLENCE DURING THE SENATOR'S VISIT [redacted] SAME ASSURANCE WAS GIVEN ME THREE WEEKS EARLIER (REF B), AND ERRASURIZ MADE SIMILAR PROMISES TO KENNEDY IN WASHINGTON. DEL VALLE TOLD ME INSTRUCTIONS TO PREVENT VIOLENCE HAD EMANATED FROM THE PRESIDENT, AND HE REPEATED THAT PUBLICLY YESTERDAY.

5. CONVERSATION WITH ERRASURIZ SHOULD ALSO RECOGNI THAT THE POLICE DID FINALLY MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE SENATOR AND ME TO LEAVE THE AIRPORT BY MAKING TWO HELICOPTERS AVAILABLE AND THAT THEY RESPONDED VERY COOPERATIVELY TO OUR REQUEST THAT THEY BE MADE AVAILABLE AGAIN FOR THE SENATOR'S DEPARTURE. (AIR FORCE TOLD US THEY HAD ONLY ONE HELICOPTER IN SANTIAGO AND IT WAS DOWN

FOR LACK OF U.S. PARTS.) POLICE SEEMED TO GET THEIR ACT TOGETHER AS THE DAY PROGRESSED, POSSIBLY AS A RESULT OF MY CALL TO GENERAL STANGE, AND THERE WAS NO JANUARY 16, TO EXPRESS THE SENATOR'S AND MY THANKS THAT AFTER THE DEPLORABLE BEGINNING, THINGS DID GET PULLED INTO SHAPE

6. I KNOW THIS IS VERY SHORT NOTICE AND THAT IT MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR YOU TO TAKE THIS ON GIVEN YOUR OTHER CONCERNS. HOWEVER, IN LIGHT OF YOUR TWO CONVERSATIONS WITH DEL VALLE, THE LIKELIHOOD OF GOVERNMENT CONNIVANCE IN THE DEMONSTRATIONS, AND THE SENATOR'S CONCERNS, I THINK

IT MAKES SENSE FOR YOU TO DO IT. BARNES

SUBJECT: M/M: RESPONSE TO CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY

REFERENCE: STATE 014381

1. (U) REFTEL RELAYS A CONGRESSIONAL REQUEST FOR A WRITTEN REPORT ON THE INVESTIGATION INTO THE DISAPPEARANCE OF AMERICAN CITIZENS NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS. THIS CABLE PROVIDES A NARRATIVE SUMMARY OF THE INVESTIGATION TO DATE, AND ADDRESSES SEVERAL SPECIFIC QUESTIONS POSED IN THE REQUEST.

INVESTIGATION OVERVIEW

2. (U) AMERICAN CITIZEN LORI LEGATOR CALLED THE EMBASSY'S CONSULAR SECTION ON APRIL 8, 1985, TO REPORT THAT A FRIEND, AMERICAN CITIZEN GRIFFITH DAVIS, WAS OVERDUE FROM A WALKING TRIP IN GUATEMALA'S WESTERN HIGHLANDS. ACCORDING TO MS. LEGATOR, DAVIS WAS TO MEET FRIENDS IN NEBAJ, A MARKET TOWN IN THE DEPARTMENT OF QUICHE, ON MARCH 29. SHE THOUGHT IT UNLIKELY THAT HE WAS PURPOSELY OVERDUE AS HE HAD PLANNED TO ATTEND HIS SISTER'S WEDDING IN THE UNITED STATES DURING THE SECOND WEEK IN APRIL. DAVIS WAS TRAVELING WITH AN ACQUAINTANCE NAMED NICK BLAKE, SHE SAID, WHO SHE THOUGHT WAS AN AMERICAN LIVING IN ANTIGUA, NEAR GUATEMALA CITY.

3. (U) LATER ON APRIL 8, EMBASSY OFFICERS CONFIRMED THE AMERICAN NATIONALITY OF BOTH OF THE MISSING MEN THROUGH IMMIGRATION RECORDS. A TELEPHONE CHECK OF REGISTRATION RECORDS AT THE HOTEL CENTRAL IN HUEHUETENANGO CONFIRMED THE REPORT THAT BOTH MEN HAD SPENT THE NIGHT OF MARCH 25 AT THE HOTEL, BEFORE BEGINNING THEIR JOURNEY. CONSULAR OFFICERS CALLED NATIONAL POLICE AND TREASURY POLICE HEADQUARTERS AND ASKED THAT UNITS IN THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS BE ALERTED. CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT MISSIONARY GROUPS WITH PEOPLE WORKING IN THE REGION WERE ALSO ALERTED. THAT EVENING, A CONSULAR OFFICER WAS ABLE TO SPEAK WITH BRITISH CITIZEN MICHAEL SHAWCROSS BY TELEPHONE. SHAWCROSS, A FRIEND OF NICK BLAKE, CONFIRMED THE BASICS OF THE STORY GIVEN BY MS. LEGATOR AND SAID THAT HE TOO WAS CONCERNED FOR THE MEN'S SAFETY.

4. (U) ON APRIL 9, SHAWCROSS, LEGATOR AND GERMAN CITIZEN MIKKI LINDEN MET WITH AN EMBASSY OFFICER IN THE CHANCERY. SHAWCROSS SAID THAT BLAKE WAS A WORKING JOURNALIST WITH AN INTEREST IN THE INSURGENCY IN THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS. BLAKE MIGHT TAKE AN OPPORTUNITY TO SPEND TIME WITH THE GUERRILLAS, SAID SHAWCROSS. DAVIS WAS DESCRIBED AS A LONG-TERM GUATEMALAN RESIDENT AND AN EXPERIENCED HIKER WHO HAD NO POLITICAL INTERESTS, BUT HAD LONG WANTED TO WALK THE AREA IN QUESTION. BLAKE AND DAVIS, ACCORDING TO THEIR FRIENDS, HAD MET ONLY RECENTLY. SHAWCROSS WAS ABLE TO GIVE A GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE PLANNED ROUTE. THE MEN HAD PLANNED TO TAKE A BUS FROM HUEHUETENANGO TO SAN JUAN IXCHOY WHERE THEY WERE TO BEGIN THEIR WALK EAST TO NEBAJ.

5. (U) EMBASSY OFFICERS CALLED THE MILITARY ZONE HEADQUARTERS IN HUEHUETENANGO AND QUICHE LATER THAT MORNING, REQUESTING THE COMMANDERS' ASSISTANCE IN THE SEARCH FOR THE MISSING AMERICANS. POST THEN MADE A TELEGRAPHIC REPORT TO THE DEPARTMENT (85 GUATEMALA 03353) OUTLINING THE SITUATION. (COMMENT: AT THIS POINT, THIRTY HOURS AFTER INITIAL NOTIFICATION, GUATEMALAN AUTHORITIES AND THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE HAD BEEN NOTIFIED, AND A SEARCH WAS UNDER WAY. END COMMENT.)

6. (U) ON APRIL 10, THE EMBASSY DEFENSE ATTACHE FOLLOWED AN EARLIER TELEPHONE CALL WITH A LETTER TO THE GUATEMALAN CHIEF OF MILITARY INTELLIGENCE REQUESTING ASSISTANCE IN FINDING THE LOST AMERICANS.

7. (U) DURING THE FOLLOWING WEEK, EMBASSY OFFICERS TRIED TO TRACK RUMORS THAT MESSAGES HAD BEEN RECEIVED FROM NICK BLAKE BY A FRIEND, AMERICAN CITIZEN JIM ADRIANCE, AND BY THE OWNER OF THE SMALL ANTIGUA PENSION WHERE NICK BLAKE HEADQUARTERED IN GUATEMALA. THE AMERICAN EMBASSY IN SAN JOSE REPORTED (SEE SAN JOSE 03268) THAT ADRIANCE TOLD AN EMBASSY OFFICER THERE THAT HE HAD RECEIVED A NOTE AT BLAKE'S ANTIGUA PENSION ON MARCH 31. THAT NOTE, ACCORDING TO ADRIANCE, SAID THAT BLAKE WOULD BE IN NEBAJ BETWEN

BT

DECONTROLLED/UNCLASSIFIED

APRIL 1 AND 3. WHEN BLAKE DID NOT ARRIVE IN NEBAJ, ADRIANCE RETURNED TO ANTIGUA, WHERE THE OWNER OF THE PENSION SAID THAT A PERSON, NAME UNKNOWN, HAD LEFT A MESSAGE THAT BLAKE WOULD BE UNABLE TO MEET ADRIANCE. OFFICERS HERE WERE ABLE TO QUESTION ADRIANCE REGARDING THIS SEQUENCE OF EVENTS LATER. HE SAID THAT HE HAD BEEN MISUNDERSTOOD WHEN INTERVIEWED BY OUR OFFICER IN COSTA RICA, THAT HE HAD RECEIVED NO MESSAGE. THE PENSION OWNER HAD A SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT STORY TO TELL. HE RECEIVED TWO WRITTEN MESSAGES IN EARLY APRIL, PURPORTEDLY FROM NICK BLAKE, SAYING THAT HIS RETURN WOULD BE DELAYED AND TO SAY NOTHING TO THE AUTHORITIES. (COMMENT: THE PENSION OWNER NOWS SAYS THAT HE DESTROYED THE NOTES. IN THE OPINION OF THE OFFICER WHO INTERVIEWED HIM IN APRIL AND MAY, AND RE-INTERVIEWED HIM IN DECEMBER, THE NOTES APPEAR TO HAVE BEEN PART OF A WHOLE-CLOTH LIE FABRICATED FOR REASONS UNKNOWN TO US. WE ARE UNABLE, HOWEVER, TO MAKE ANY FINAL DETERMINATION ON THESE REPORTED MESSAGES. END COMMENT.)

8. (U) ON APRIL 18, TWO EMBASSY OFFICERS IN A CHARTERED HELICOPTER FLEW TO THE DEPARTMENTS OF HUEHUETENANGO AND QUICHE TO INVESTIGATE THE DISAPPEARANCE. ACCOMPANYING THE OFFICERS WAS THE CONSULAR SECTION FRAUD INVESTIGATOR (A VETERAN OF THE GUATEMALAN NATIONAL POLICE) AND AN EMBASSY SECURITY AGENT WHO SPEAKS THE AREA'S PREDOMINATE DIALECT. THE USE OF A HELICOPTER WAS REQUIRED BECAUSE THE ROUTE PLANNED BY BLAKE AND DAVIS BETWEEN SAN JUAN IXCOY AND NEBAJ IS SERVICED BY HIKING TRAILS ONLY AND INCLUDES SOME OF THE ROUGHEST HIGH COUNTRY IN CENTRAL AMERICA. IN SAN JUAN IXCOY, WHERE BLAKE AND DAVIS LEFT THE BUS AND BEGAN THEIR TREK, EMBASSY OFFICERS MET TWO GUATEMALAN ARMY INTELLIGENCE SPECIALISTS WHO WERE CONDUCTING THEIR OWN SEARCH FOR THE MISSING AMERICANS. THE EMBASSY TEAM WAS ABLE TO TRACE THE ROUTE FOLLOWED BY BLAKE AND DAVIS FROM SAN JUAN IXCOY ON MARCH 26 THROUGH SAN FRANCISCO LAS FLORES AND MIXLAJ TO THE VILLAGE OF LLANO, ALONG THE BORDER BETWEEN QUICHE AND HUEHUETENANGO, SEVERAL DAYS LATER. IT APPEARS THAT ON THE MORNING OF MARCH 29 OR 30, BLAKE AND DAVIS LEFT LLANO, SAYING THEY WERE HEADING TO SALQUIL, A LARGE MODEL VILLAGE WHICH CAN BE REACHED BY ROAD FROM NEBAJ. THE COMMANDER OF THE ARMY DETACHMENT AT LAS MAJADAS, THE MILITARY OUTPOST CLOSEST TO LLANO, SAID THAT HE WAS TOLD BY LLANO VILLAGERS ON MARCH 29 THAT TWO AMERICANS WERE REQUESTING PERMISSION TO GO TO SUMAL, A STRONGHOLD OF THE EGP (GUERRILLA ARMY OF THE POOR). THE LIEUTENANT SAID HE INSTEAD GAVE THE AMERICANS PERMISSION TO TRAVEL TO SALQUIL. VILLAGERS AT MIXLAJ, WHERE BLAKE AND DAVIS HAD SPENT A NIGHT DURING THEIR TRIP, ALSO SAID THAT THE AMERICANS HAD EXPRESSED AN INTEREST IN GOING TO SUMAL. THE VILLAGERS SAID THEY TOLD BLAKE AND DAVIS NOT TO GO TO SUMAL BECAUSE THE AREA WAS DANGEROUS.

9. (U) THE DATE OF THEIR DEPARTURE FROM LLANO IS MARCH 29 ACCORDING TO THE LLANO VILLAGERS, AND MARCH 30, ACCORDING TO THE LIEUTENANT AT LAS MAJADAS, WHO NEVER MET BLAKE AND DAVIS. (COMMENT: OFFICERS HERE FIND NO SIGNIFICANCE IN THE DIFFERENCE IN DATES. IT IS VERY LIKELY THAT THE VILLAGERS ERRED, AS NO WRITTEN RECORD WAS KEPT, AND OFTEN LITTLE IMPORTANCE IS ATTACHED TO DATES IN SUCH PLACES. END COMMENT.) NO TRACE OF THE WHEREABOUTS OF BLAKE AND DAVIS WAS FOUND FROM THE TIME THEY LEFT LLANO. EMBASSY OFFICERS ALSO FLEW INTO SALQUIL, WHERE THE ARMY DETACHMENT MISTOOK THEIR HELICOPTER AS ONE BRINGING IN REINFORCEMENTS FOR A FIREFIGHT THEN IN PROGRESS ABOUT FIVE MILES FROM THE VILLAGE. ACCORDING TO THE LIEUTENANT IN CHARGE OF THE SALQUIL GARRISON, BLAKE AND DAVIS DID NOT ARRIVE AT SALQUIL. EMBASSY OFFICERS THEN BACKTRACKED TO QUILEN NOVILLO, THE ONLY OCCUPIED VILLAGE BETWEEN EL LLANO AND SALQUIL. VILLAGERS AT QUILEN NOVILLO SAID THAT THE MISSING AMERICANS HAD NOT PASSED THROUGH THE VILLAGE. AT NEBAJ, INTERVIEWS WITH TOWNSPEOPLE AND MILITARY OFFICIALS TURNED UP NO SIGHTING OF BLAKE AND DAVIS. HOWEVER, IT WAS APPARENT THAT TOWNSPEOPLE IN NEBAJ WERE WELL AWARE OF THE SEARCH FOR BLAKE AND DAVIS. NONE OF THE VILLAGES ALONG THE PLANNED ROUTE ARE GARRISONED BY THE GUATEMALAN ARMY. THERE IS NO

INDICATION THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS HAD ANY CONTACT WITH REGULAR GOVERNMENT FORCES. THROUGHOUT THE TRIP, EMBASSY OFFICERS DISTRIBUTED FLYERS WHICH INCLUDED PHOTOS AND DESCRIPTIONS OF BLAKE AND DAVIS, AS WELL AS NUMBERS AND ADDRESSES TO CONTACT IN CASE SOMEONE HAD INFORMATION TO REPORT. (SEE GUATEMALA 03833.) (COMMENT: THIS TRIP INCLUDED A FAIR DEGREE OF PHYSICAL RISK ON THE PART OF THE EMBASSY TEAM. MIXLAJ, FOR EXAMPLE, IS CONSIDERED A DANGEROUS PLACE FOR OFFICIAL AMERICANS. END COMMENT.)

10. (U) ON APRIL 19, AMERICAN CITIZEN MARK CLARK, A FRIEND OF NICHOLAS BLAKE, TOLD EMBASSY OFFICERS IN SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, THAT HE HAD TALKED WITH BLAKE AND DAVIS IN HUEHUETENANGO THE NIGHT BEFORE THEY BEGAN THEIR TRIP. ACCORDING TO CLARK, BLAKE SAID THAT HE AND DAVIS WERE GOING TO "BACK DOOR" INTO THE GUERRILLA ZONE, AVOIDING THE ARMY PATROLS HE BELIEVED WERE BLOCKING THE AREA. BLAKE FULLY EXPECTED TO BE "CAUGHT" (BLAKE'S WORD) BY THE ARMY OR THE GUERRILLAS, ACCORDING TO CLARK. (SEE 85 SAN JOSE 03311.)

11. (U) LIEUTENANT COLONEL JOSE SOLIS, DEPUTY COMMANDER OF MILITARY ZONE 20 (QUICHE) CAME TO THE CHANCERY ON APRIL 23 TO BRIEF THE DEFENSE ATTACHE AND CONSULAR OFFICERS ON A PLANNED ARMY SWEEP THROUGH THE AREA IN WHICH BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE BELIEVED TO HAVE DISAPPEARED. THE SWEEP, INVOLVING SOME 450 INFANTRYMEN, BEGAN THE FOLLOWING DAY. UNITS WERE BROKEN INTO REINFORCED SQUADS AND EMPLOYED IN FORCE PATROLS. THIS TACTIC INVOLVED GREATER RISK IN THAT LARGER UNITS ARE NORMALLY EMPLOYED IN SUCH AREAS, BUT THE SMALLER PATROLS OFFERED MORE THOROUGH COVERAGE. GUATEMALAN SOURCES REPORTED TWO OFFICERS AND TEN ENLISTED MEN KILLED IN THE SWEEP. NO SIGN OF THE MISSING AMERICANS WAS REPORTED.

12. (U) ON APRIL 25, AN EMBASSY OFFICER IN A CHARTERED LIGHT AIRCRAFT, DROPPED LEAFLETS OVER THE SUMAL AREA. THE LEAFLETS, PRINTED IN SPANISH AND THE PREVALENT INDIAN DIALECT, IXCHIL, HAD PHOTOS OF BOTH MEN. LEAFLETS WERE ALSO PROVIDED TO THE ZONE HEADQUARTERS FOR DISTRIBUTION TO ARMY PATROL LEADERS AND CIVIL GUARD UNITS. (SEE GUATEMALA 04205.)

13. (U) MRS. MARY BLAKE, NICHOLAS BLAKE'S MOTHER, CAME TO GUATEMALA ON 25 APRIL, ACCOMPANIED BY HER SON, RANDY BLAKE, FAMILY FRIEND LUCIEN YOKANA AND ATTORNEY EDWARD GOFF. MRS. BLAKE'S PARTY MET WITH AMBASSADOR PIEDRA, THEN RECEIVED AN EXHAUSTIVE BRIEFING ON THE INVESTIGATION TO THAT POINT. (SEE GUATEMALA 04082.) EMBASSY OFFICERS ACCOMPANIED THE PARTY TO MILITARY ZONE 20 HEADQUARTERS IN SANTA CRUZ DEL QUICHE ON APRIL 27 WHERE THE ZONE COMMANDER BRIEFED THEM ON THE ACTIONS HE HAD TAKEN TO LOCATE NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS. (SEE GUATEMALA 04168.)

14. (U) ATTORNEY EDWARD GOFF, REPRESENTING THE BLAKE FAMILY, CAME TO GUATEMALA AGAIN ON MAY 23 AFTER SPENDING SEVERAL WEEKS IN CHIAPAS, MEXICO NEAR THE BORDER WITH GUATEMALA. HE WAS ACCOMPANIED BY A PRIVATE SECURITY CONSULTANT; BOTH WERE BRIEFED ON THE THE STATUS OF THE INVESTIGATION.

15. (U) SAM AND RANDY BLAKE, ACCOMPANIED BY FRIENDS, VISITED GUATEMALA DURING THE FIRST WEEK OF NOVEMBER AND AGAIN ONE MONTH LATER. ON BOTH OCCASIONS THEY MET WITH AMBASSADOR PIEDRA, THE DEPUTY CHIEF OF MISSION, AND OTHER EMBASSY OFFICERS. DURING THE NOVEMBER VISIT, SAM AND RANDY BLAKE DIVULGED TWO POTENTIAL LEADS IN THE CASE. 1) THE BLAKE BROTHERS HAD HEARD THAT TWO PERSONS FITTING THE DESCRIPTIONS OF THEIR BROTHER AND GRIFFITH DAVIS HAD LANDED IN A HELICOPTER IN NEBAJ AT THE END OF THE FIRST WEEK OF APRIL. ACCORDING TO THIS STORY, THE PASSENGERS WERE FORCIBLY REMOVED FROM THE HELICOPTER BY GUATEMALAN ARMY TROOPS AND TAKEN TO THE GARRISON HEADQUARTERS. 2) A SECOND LINE OF INQUIRY WAS OPENED BY THEIR DESCRIPTION OF CONTACTS BETWEEN A GUATEMALAN ARMY PROCUREMENT OFFICER AND A CLOSE BUSINESS CONTACT OF THE BLAKE FAMILY. EMBASSY OFFICERS IMMEDIATELY BEGAN TO CHECK BOTH STORIES. (SEE GUATEMALA 11567.) (COMMENT: BOTH OF THESE INQUIRIES ARE DISCUSSED LATER

16. (U) ON DECEMBER 13, MR. RICHARD BLAKE, NICK'S FATHER, ARRIVED IN GUATEMALA CITY, ACCOMPANIED BY HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW, MR. GEORGE STRAWMUELLER, AND ATTORNEY EDWARD GOFF. CONSULAR AND POLITICAL OFFICERS BRIEFED THE VISITORS ON THE EVENING OF THE 13TH. THE PARTY THEN MET WITH THE AMBASSADOR, DEPUTY CHIEF OF MISSION AND DEFENSE ATTACHE THE FOLLOWING MORNING AT THE RESIDENCE.

17. (U) ON DECEMBER 17, EMBASSY OFFICERS FLEW TO NEBAJ WHERE THEY INTERVIEWED SIX FORMER MEMBERS OF THE EGP (GUERILLA ARMY OF THE POOR), A MARXIST GUERRILLA ORGANIZATION OPERATING IN NORTHERN HUEHUETENANGO AND QUICHE. ALL SIX HAD BEEN OPERATING IN THE GENERAL AREA OF SUMAL UNTIL THEY VOLUNTARILY AND INDIVIDUALLY RETURNED TO GOVERNMENT CONTROL IN 1985. (COMMENT: SUMAL ITSELF IS A SMALL CLUSTER OF BUILDINGS AT THE END OF A HIGH MOUNTAIN RIDGE SURROUNDED ON THREE SIDES BY SHEER WALLS OF BARE STONE. IT IS NOT A POPULATION CENTER OF ANY IMPORTANCE, RATHER IT IS THE GEOGRAPHICAL CENTER OF A ZONE OF CONFLICT. END COMMENT.) NONE OF THE SIX HAD KNOWLEDGE OF STRANGERS RECENTLY IN THE AREA. THREE MENTIONED CUBAN ADVISORS SEEN IN THE AREA IN 1981 AS THE LAST STRANGERS OF WHOM THEY HAD HEARD. TWO OTHER FORMER COMBATANTS SAID THAT TWO "NEGROS" OF UNKNOWN NATIONALITY WERE RUMORED TO BE TRAVELING WITH AN EGP UNIT. ALL SIX SAID THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO BELIEVE THAT INDIVIDUAL EGP MEMBERS HAPPENING UPON THE TWO AMERICANS WOULD HAVE HARMED THEM. ALL SIX INSISTED THAT ANY STRANGERS ENCOUNTERED WOULD BE TAKEN TO THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OR A GUERILLA OFFICER. AFTER THESE INTERVIEWS, EMBASSY OFFICERS WENT TO LAS VIOLETAS, A REFUGEE CAMP ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF NEBAJ, TO INTERVIEW CIVILIANS WHO HAD FLED THE SUMAL AREA IN RECENT WEEKS. THE REFUGEES INDICATED THAT THEY KNEW NOTHING OF THE AMERICANS. (SEE GUATEMALA 13130.)

18. (U) EMBASSY OFFICERS REGULARLY TRAVEL TO THE HIGHLANDS, INCLUDING AREAS ON THE NORTHERN FACE OF THE CUCHUMATANES MOUNTAIN CHAIN AND ALONG THE MEXICAN BORDER. THESE OFFICERS ROUTINELY MAKE INQUIRIES REGARDING BLAKE, DAVIS AND ANY "STRANGERS" WHO MIGHT BE RUMORED TO BE, OR HAVE BEEN, IN THE AREA. THESE INQUIRIES HAVE PRODUCED NO LEADS.

19. (U) COMMENT: THIS OVERVIEW IS BY NO MEANS AN EXHAUSTIVE SUMMARY OF ACTIONS TAKEN BY EMBASSY GUATEMALA IN THE SEARCH FOR NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS. THE AMBASSADOR AND OTHER EMBASSY OFFICERS HAVE MADE AN ONGOING SERIES OF REQUESTS FOR ASSISTANCE AND INFORMATION FROM GUATEMALAN AUTHORITIES AT ALL LEVELS, INCLUDING THE CHIEF OF STATE. WE HAVE, AS WELL, TRACKED DOWN A NUMBER OF RUMORS WHICH PROVED TO BE TOTALLY WITHOUT BASIS IN FACT. END COMMENT.

NEBAJ HELICOPTER REPORT

20. (U) IN A NOVEMBER 1 MEETING WITH AMBASSADOR PIEDRA, SAM AND RANDY BLAKE SAID THAT THEY HAD RECEIVED A REPORT FROM "UNIMPEACHABLE SOURCES" THAT TWO AMERICANS WERE SEEN BEING TAKEN FROM A HELICOPTER AT THE MILITARY AIRFIELD IN NEBAJ DURING THE FIRST WEEK IN APRIL. ACCORDING TO THIS REPORT, THE TWO AMERICANS WERE PULLED FORCIBLY FROM THE AIRCRAFT, PHYSICALLY ABUSED, THEN TAKEN TO THE GARRISON HEADQUARTERS. SAM AND RANDY BLAKE WERE UNWILLING TO DISCLOSE THE NAMES OF THEIR INFORMANTS, SAYING THAT TO RELEASE THE NAMES TO THE EMBASSY WOULD MEAN THE IMMEDIATE DEATHS OF THEIR CONTACTS. BASED ON THAT REPORT, THE EMBASSY CONDUCTED AN INVESTIGATION USING ABSOLUTELY EVERY RESOURCE AVAILABLE TO THE MISSION. NO INFORMATION WAS FOUND WHICH APPEARED TO VERIFY THE REPORTED SIGHTING OR PROVIDE FURTHER LEADS. THE HELIPAD IS A SMALL ONE-TIME PASTURE INSIDE THE VILLAGE. IT IS IN CLEAR VIEW OF MUCH OF THE SURROUNDING COMMUNITY. THE STREET FROM THE HELIPAD TO THE HEADQUARTERS PASSES BY THE TOWN MARKET. OFFICERS FAMILIAR WITH THE SITE CONSIDER IT IMPOSSIBLE TO BRING A STRANGER INTO NEBAJ SECRETLY USING A HELICOPTER.

21. (U) WE HAVE COME TO NO CONCLUSION REGARDING THE REPORTED SIGHTING AT NEBAJ. WITHOUT THE NAMES OF THOSE MAKING THE REPORT, OR SOME FURTHER INFORMATION REGARDING THE SIGHTING, HOWEVER, WE ARE UNABLE TO CONTINUE ALONG THIS LINE. OFFICERS HERE HAVE REPEATEDLY ASKED SAM AND RANDY BLAKE TO BE MORE FORTHCOMING ON THE STORY, TO THIS POINT WITHOUT SUCCESS. SHOULD WE BE GIVEN THE NAMES OF THE INFORMANTS, WE WOULD, OF COURSE, TAKE EVERY PRECAUTION TO GUARD THEIR CONFIDENTIALITY.

22. (LOU) WHILE NO FINAL ANALYSIS IS POSSIBLE, SEVERAL FACTORS SHOULD BE DISCUSSED. MILITARY ZONE 20, THE LOCATION OF THE ALLEGED SIGHTING, IS FREQUENTLY VISITED BY EMBASSY OFFICERS. OUR CONTACTS THERE ARE EXCELLENT. IN THE CONSIDERED JUDGEMENT OF AMERICAN MILITARY AND CIVILIAN OFFICERS FAMILIAR WITH THE ZONE AND THE KEY PERSONALITIES, SUCH AN ABDUCTION IS EXTREMELY UNLIKELY, SO UNLIKELY, IN FACT, AS TO BE INCREDIBLE. GUATEMALAN LT. COL. MARIN, COMMANDER OF THE NEBAJ GARRISON AT THE TIME IN QUESTION, HAS SINCE BEEN MOVED TO A SENSITIVE POSITION IN THE NEW CIVILIAN GOVERNMENT OF CHRISTIAN DEMOCRAT VINICIO CEREZO. OFFICERS HERE CONSIDER HIM ONE OF GUATEMALA'S BEST SOLDIERS. DEPUTY ZONE COMMANDER SOLIS IS A SOPHISTICATED OFFICER WHO UNDERSTANDS THE POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE SUCH AN ABDUCTION WOULD HAVE. THE ZONE COMMANDER, COL. BYRON LIMA, IS CONSIDERED TO BE AN HONEST, STRAIGHTFORWARD SOLDIER. (COMMENT: THIS KIND OF ASSESSMENT CAN CERTAINLY BE SEEN AS A DEFENSE OF THE GUATEMALAN MILITARY. IT IS NOT MEANT TO BE, HOWEVER. THE GUATEMALAN ARMY HAS TRADITIONALLY SENT ITS BEST OFFICERS TO THE "CONFLICTIVE ZONES" OF THE HIGHLANDS; THE EMBASSY'S REPORTING AND ANALYSIS ROLES REQUIRE THAT WE PAY CLOSE ATTENTION TO THIS CRITICAL AREA AND THE PERSONALITIES INVOLVED. ANY ANALYSIS THAT DOES NOT CONSIDER THAT KNOWLEDGE IS, NECESSARILY, FLAWED. END COMMENT.) BASED ON THE ABOVE, AND WITHOUT NEW INFORMATION, THE EMBASSY BELIEVES THAT IT IS UNLIKELY THAT NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS HAVE BEEN DETAINED BY THE GUATEMALAN ARMY IN THE MANNER PROPOSED, OR IN ANY OTHER MANNER.

23. (U) OFFICERS HERE CONSIDER IT VERY LIKELY THAT GUATEMALAN AND SALVADORAN INTELLIGENCE SERVICES SOMETIMES SHARE INFORMATION OF MUTUAL INTEREST. THE CRUX OF THE QUESTION INVOLVED, HOWEVER, IS MOTIVATION. NICK BLAKE IS NEITHER A WELL-KNOWN NOR A CONTROVERSIAL JOURNALIST. IN A COUNTRY WHERE HIGH-VISIBILITY JOURNALISTS CONTINUE TO TRAVEL FREELY AFTER WRITING ARTICLES FIERCELY CRITICAL OF THE GUATEMALAN GOVERNMENT, IT IS UNCLEAR WHY INTELLIGENCE SERVICES WOULD MONITOR THE ACTIVITIES OF A FREELANCER WHO WAS UNPUBLISHED, TO THE BEST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE, ON GUATEMALA. HAD THE GOVERNMENT OF GUATEMALA DETERMINED THAT NICK BLAKE WAS A DANGER, HIS ENTRY INTO THE COUNTRY COULD EASILY HAVE BEEN BLOCKED. MORE DIRECTLY, IT IS UNLIKELY THAT THE ARMY WOULD HAVE GIVEN HIM A TRAVEL PERMIT FOR THE CONFLICT ZONE

IN HUEHUETENANGO, AS THEY DID IN LATE 1984, IF HE WAS CONSIDERED A THREAT. GRIFFITH DAVIS APPEARS TO HAVE NO EXPRESSED INTEREST IN GUATEMALAN POLITICS. HIS STATUS AS A CASUAL RESIDENT WOULD HAVE PROVIDED GUATEMALAN AUTHORITIES WITH AMPLE OPPORTUNITY TO EXPEL HIM FROM THE COUNTRY WERE THAT CONSIDERED DESIRABLE. THERE APPEARS TO BE NO WAY THAT THE ACTIVITIES OF THE TWO AMERICANS COULD HAVE BEEN CLOSELY MONITORED WHILE IN THE HIGHLANDS. MANY OF THE CIVIL DEFENSE GROUPS IN THE SMALL VILLAGES IN THE AREA NORTH OF NEBAJ HAVE NO RADIO OR TELEPHONE SERVICE, AND DEPEND ON HAND CARRIED MESSAGES FOR COMMUNICATION WITH THE OUTSIDE. THE FREQUENCY OF ARMED ENCOUNTERS BETWEEN ARMY TROOPS AND INSURGENTS IN THE AREA IN QUESTION WOULD ARGUE AGAINST ANY PLAN TO SET A PATROL OR INDIVIDUAL AGENT IN PURSUIT OF THE TWO AMERICANS. BASED ON THE ABOVE, AND ALL POSSIBLE INQUIRIES ALONG THIS LINE, THE EMBASSY CONCLUDES THAT IT IS UNLIKELY THAT EITHER OF THE TWO AMERICANS WAS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO GUATEMALAN INTELLIGENCE AUTHORITIES. AT END, WE CONCLUDE THAT IT IS VERY UNLIKELY THAT THE INTELLIGENCE ORGANIZATIONS IN QUESTION WOULD ATTEMPT TO MONITOR THE TWO MEN'S ACTIVITIES IN THE HIGHLANDS.

THEIR BELIEF THAT THEY HAD BEEN PURPOSELY MISLED IN THEIR SEARCH FOR NICK BLAKE BY AN APPROACH MADE TO FAMILY THROUGH A BUSINESS ASSOCIATE. THEY SAID THAT FAMILY FRIEND AND BUSINESS ASSOCIATE REME DIAZ, A CUBAN-AMERICAN LIVING IN MIAMI, HAD BEEN APPROACHED BY AN OFFICER OF THE GUATEMALAN ARMY WHO WORKED IN THE ARMY'S PROCUREMENT SECTION. THIS OFFICER, ACCORDING TO THE STORY, TOLD MS. DIAZ THAT HIS BROTHER, A GUATEMALAN INTELLIGENCE OFFICER, HAD PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE THAT BLAKE AND DAVIS WERE BEING HELD BY GUERRILLAS. FOR A SUM, IT WAS SAID, AN ARMY EXPEDITION COULD BE ORGANIZED TO RESCUE THEM. ON HEARING THE STORY, THE AMBASSADOR ASKED SAM AND RANDY BLAKE TO HAVE MS. DIAZ CALL OR WRITE THE EMBASSY. EMBASSY OFFICERS LATER TRIED TO IDENTIFY A PROCUREMENT-INTELLIGENCE BROTHER TANDEM IN THE GUATEMALAN ARMY. NONE WAS SO IDENTIFIED. DURING THE DECEMBER 14 MEETING WITH MR. RICHARD BAKE AND MR. GEORGE STRAWMUELLER, THE AMBASSADOR RAISED THE QUESTION OF THE DIAZ CONTACT. MR. STRAWMUELLER SAID THAT HE WAS THE ONLY MEMEBER OF THE FAMILY WHO HAD SPOKEN WITH MS. DIAZ. SHE HAD BEEN CONTACTED BY SOMEONE (IDENTITY UNKNOWN TO OFFICERS HERE) THAT OFFERED TO USE HIS INFLUENCE AND KNOWLEDGE TO HAVE A SEARCH MADE FOR THE MISSING MEN. (COMMENT: BASED ON THE INFORMATION HE RECEIVED FROM MS. DIAZ, MR. STRAWMUELLER DID NOT PURSUE THE OFFER. END COMMENT.) ACCORDING TO MR. STRAWMUELLER, THE STORY OF A GUATEMALAN PROCUREMENT OFFICER AND HIS INTELLIGENCE OFFICER BROTHER WAS INVENTED BY SAM AND RANDY BLAKE TO FILL IN DETAILS REGARDING THE CONTACT, DETAILS THAT MR. STRAWMUELLER AND MS. DIAZ WERE UNWILLING TO SHARE. AMBASSADOR PIEDRA ATTEMPTED TO SPEAK WITH MS. DIAZ DURING HIS DECEMBER CONSULTATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES, BUT WAS UNABLE TO REACH HER. GIVEN THE SITUATION DESCRIBED ABOVE, THE EMBASSY IS UNABLE TO REACH ANY CONCLUSION REGARDING THE STORY GIVEN BY SAM AND RANDY BLAKE. (COMMENT: IT SHOULD BE NOTED THAT NO PRIVACY ACT WAIVER HAS BEEN GIVEN BY ANYONE CONNECTED WITH THIS CASE. END COMMENT.)

CURRENT SITUATION

25. (U) THE DISAPPEARANCE OF NICHOLAS BLAKE AND GRIFFITH DAVIS ENGENDERS FRUSTRATION AND CONCERN BOTH FOR THE FAMILIES OF THE MISSING MEN AND FOR THE AMERICANS AND GUATEMALANS CHARGED WITH FINDING THEM. AS IN ANY EXTENDED SEARCH, THE RECORD IS FULL OF FALSE TRAILS AND FAILED IDEAS. AT THE SAME TIME, EVERY NEW IDEA, EVERY NEW RUMOR IS, POTENTIALLY, THE KEY TO THE WHEREABOUTS OF NICK AND GRIFF.

26. (U) THE BELIEF HAS BEEN VOICED, IN THE PRESS AND IN PRIVATE CONVERSATIONS, THAT THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES KNOWS WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THESE MEN, BUT IS HIDING THE TRUTH TO SHIELD MORE IMPORTANT INTERESTS. THERE IS NO DEFENSE AGAINST SUCH STATEMENT, FORSAKING INDIGNANT PROTEST, EXCEPT A RIGOROUS, CONTINUING EFFORT TO RESOLVE THE DISAPPEARANCE. WE ARE COMMITTED TO THAT EFFORT.

RELEASED

Dear Mr. McKernan:

Thank you for your letter of December 20 about the missing Americans Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis who vanished in the Guatemalan highlands in late March or early April 1985. In response to your inquiries our Embassy in Guatemala and officers in the Department of State have reviewed their actions on behalf of the men and double checked, to the best of their ability, the most recent information presented by Sam and Randy Blake. This letter responds to your request for a written report on our efforts, provides you with the results of our review, and gives a reaction to some of the theories put forward about the missing men.

The case first came to the Embassy's attention when an American citizen called the consular section on April 8, 1985, to report that a friend, American citizen Griffith Davis, was overdue from a walking trip in Guatemala's western highlands. According to the caller, Davis was to meet friends in Nebaj, a market town in the Department of Quiche, on March 29. She thought it unlikely that he was purposely overdue as he had planned to attend his sister's wedding in the United States during the second week in April. Davis was traveling with an acquaintance named Nick Blake, she said, who she thought was an American living in Antigua, near Guatemala City.

On April 8, Embassy officers confirmed the American nationality of both of the missing men through immigration records. A telephone check of registration records at the Hotel Central in Huehuetenango confirmed the report that the men met and spent the night of March 25 at the hotel before beginning their journey. Consular officers called National Police and Treasury Police headquarters and asked that units in the western highlands be alerted. Catholic and Protestant missionary groups with people working in the region were also alerted. That evening, a consular officer was able to speak by telephone with a British citizen friend of Nick Blake, Michael Shawcross. Shawcross confirmed the basics of the story given by the original caller and said that he too was concerned for the men's safety.

John McKernan,

On April 9, Shawcross, German citizen Mikki-Linden, and the U.S. citizen who first brought the case to our attention met with an Embassy officer in the Chancery. Shawcross said that Blake was a working journalist with an interest in the insurgency in the western highlands. Blake might take an opportunity to spend time with the guerrillas, said Shawcross. Davis was described as a long-term Guatemalan resident and an experienced hiker who had no political interests, but had long wanted to hike through the area in question. Blake and Davis, according to their friends, had met only recently. Shawcross was able to give a general description of the planned route. The men had planned to take a bus from Huehuetenango to San Juan Ixchoy where they were to begin their walk east to Nebaj.

Embassy officers called the military zone headquarters in Huehuetenango and Quiche later that morning, requesting the commanders' assistance in the search for the missing Americans. The Embassy then made a telegraphic report to the Department outlining the situation. The Department began a search of passport records in order to locate and contact the families in the United States.

On April 10, the Embassy Defense Attache followed an earlier telephone call with a letter to the Guatemalan Chief of Military Intelligence requesting assistance in finding the lost Americans.

During the following week, Embassy officers tried to track rumors that messages had been received from Nick Blake by another American friend, and by the owner of the small Antigua pension where Nick Blake generally stayed in Guatemala. The American Embassy in San Jose reported that the friend told Embassy officers he had received a note at Blake's Antigua pension on March 31. That note supposedly said Blake would be in Nebaj between April 1 and 3. When Blake did not arrive in Nebaj, the friend returned to Antigua, where the owner of the pension said that another person, name unknown, had left a message that Blake would be unable to meet the friend. Embassy officers in Guatemala were able to question him regarding this sequence of events later. He said that he had been misunderstood when interviewed by our officers in Costa Rica, that he had received no message. The pension owner had a somewhat different story to tell. He said he had received two written messages in early April, purportedly from Nick Blake, saying that his return would be delayed and to say nothing to the authorities. The pension owner now says that he destroyed the notes. The Embassy believes there were never any notes. The Department contacted the mothers of the missing men April 13th. They had not heard from their sons and agreed that there was real reason for concern. Within a week, the Blakes had drawn on many of their own contacts with connections in Central America to help locate their son. Officials at the highest level of the Administration and several Congressmen were contacted by the family for assistance.

On April 18, two Embassy officers in a chartered helicopter flew to the Department of Huehuetenango and Quiche to investigate the disappearance. Accompanying the officers were the consular section fraud investigator (a veteran of the Guatemalan national police) and an Embassy security agent who speaks the area's predominate dialect. The use of a helicopter was required because the route planned by Blake and Davis between San Juan Ixcoy and Nebaj is serviced only by hiking trails and includes some of the roughest high country in Central America. In San Juan Ixcoy, where Blake and Davis left the bus and began their trek, Embassy officers met two Guatemalan army intelligence specialists who were conducting their own search for the missing Americans. The Embassy team was able to trace the route followed by Blake and Davis from San Juan Ixcoy on March 26 through San Francisco Las Flores and Mixlaj to the village of Llano, along the border between Quiche and Huehuetenango, several days later. It appears that on the morning of March 29 or 30, Blake and Davis left Llano, saying they were heading to Salquil, a large model village which can be reached by road from Nebaj. The commander of the army detachment at Las Majadas, the military outpost closest to Llano, said that he was told by Llano villagers on March 29 that two Americans were requesting permission to go to Sumal, a stronghold of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor). The Lieutenant said he instead gave the Americans permission to travel to Salquil. Villagers at Mixlaj, where Blake and Davis had spent a night during their trip, also said that the Americans had expressed an interest in going to Sumal. The villagers said they told Blake and Davis not to go to Sumal because the area was dangerous.

The date of their departure from Llano was March 29 according to the Llano villagers, and March 30, according to the Lieutenant at Las Majadas, who never met Blake and Davis. Embassy officers in Guatemala find no significance in the difference in dates. They believe it is very likely that the villagers erred, as no written record was kept. No trace of the whereabouts of Blake and Davis was found from the time they left Llano. At one point the Blake family heard their son may have been involved in a battle, but their confusion stemmed from the account of our Embassy officers flight into Salquil, where the army detachment mistook their helicopter as one bringing in reinforcements for a firefight then in progress about five miles from the village. According to the Lieutenant in charge of the Salquil garrison, Blake and Davis never arrived at Salquil. Embassy officers then backtracked to Quilen Novillo, the only occupied village between El Llano and Salquil. Villagers at Quilen Novillo said that the missing Americans had not passed through the village. At Nebaj, interviews with townspeople and military officials turned up no sighting of Blake and Davis. However, it was apparent that townspeople in Nebaj were well aware of the search for the Americans. None of the villages along the planned route are garrisoned by the Guatemalan army. There are no indications that Blake and Davis had any contact with regular government forces. Throughout the search, Embassy officers distributed flyers which included photos and descriptions of Blake and Davis, as well as numbers and addresses to contact in case someone had information to report. It should be added that this trip included a certain degree of physical risk on the part of the Embassy team. The village of Mixlaj, for example, is considered a dangerous place for official Americans.

Another American citizen friend of Nicholas Blake told Embassy officers in San Jose, Costa Rica, he had talked with Blake and Davis in Huehuetenango the night before they began their trip and Blake had said that he and Davis were going to "back door" into the guerrilla zone, avoiding the army patrols he believed were blocking the area. Blake fully expected to be "caught" (Blake's words) by the army or the guerrillas, according to this friend.

Lieutenant Colonel Jose Solis, Deputy Commander of Miltary Zone 20 (Quiche) came to the Embassy on April 30 to brief the Defense Attache and consular officers on a planned army sweep through the area in which Blake and Davis were believed to have disappeared. The sweep, involving some 450 infantrymen, began the following day. Units were broken into reinforced squads and employed in small "force patrols". This tactic involved greater risk as larger units are normally employed in such areas, but the smaller patrols offered more thorough coverage. Guatemalan sources reported two officers and ten enlisted men killed in the sweep. No sign of the missing Americans was reported.

On April 25, an Embassy officer in a chartered light aircraft, dropped leaflets over the Sumal area. The leaflets, printed in Spanish and the prevalent Indian dialect, Ixchil, had photos of both men. Leaflets were also provided to the zone headquarters for distribution to army patrol leaders and civil guard units.

Mrs. Mary Blake, Nicholas Blake's mother, came to Guatemala on April 25 accompanied by her son Randy Blake, family friend Lucien Yokana, and Attorney Edward Goff. Mrs. Blake's party met with Ambassador Piedra and received a thorough briefing on the investigation to that point.

Embassy officers accompanied the party to Military Zone 20 headquarters in Santa Cruz del Quiche on April 27 where the zone commander briefed them on the actions he had taken to locate Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The family hired a private investigator in Guatemala at about this time.

Attorney Edward Goff, representing the Blake family, came to Guatemala again on May 23 after spending several weeks in Chiapas, Mexico near the border with Guatemala. He was accompanied by the private investigator. Both were briefed on the status of the investigation.

Sam and Randy Blake, accompanied by friends, visited Guatemala during the first week of November and again one month later. On both occasions they met with Ambassador Piedra, the Deputy Chief of Mission, and other Embassy officers. During the November visit, Sam and Randy Blake divulged two potential leads in the case. 1) The Blake brothers had heard that two persons fitting the description of their brother and Griffith Davis had landed in a helicopter in Nebaj at the end of the first week of April. According to this story, the passengers were forcibly removed from the helicopter by Guatemalan army troops and taken to the garrison headquarters, 2) a second line of inquiry was opened by their description of contacts between a Guatemalan army procurement officer and a close business contact of the Blake family. Embassy officers immediately began to check both stories.

The helicopter story was made very difficult to check since the source was unknown to the officers who worked on it. The brothers could not divulge any information that could lead back to the date or time of the event or the name of anyone who may have witnessed it. The Guatemalan military officer responsible showed the U.S. Defense Attache his log indicating there were no helicopter flights in the area described during the time frame mentioned. We have not been able to establish any information to contradict this log.

According to Sam and Randy Blake, Mrs. Remidios Diaz, a family friend and business associate living in Miami, had been approached by a Guatemalan army officer who worked in the army's procurement section. This officer, according to the story, told Mrs. Diaz that his brother, a Guatemalan intelligence officer, had personal knowledge that Blake and Davis were being held by guerrillas. For a sum, it was said, an army expedition could be organized to rescue them. On hearing the story, the Ambassador asked Sam and Randy Blake to have Mrs. Diaz call or write the Embassy. Embassy officers later tried to identify a procurement officer and an intelligence officer who are brothers in the Guatemalan army. No such persons could be identified. During a visit to Guatemala December 13th and 14th, a meeting took place between key officers of the Embassy, Mr. Richard Blake, Nicholas Blake's father, Mr. George Strawmueller, the missing man's uncle, and the family attorney, Mr. Edward Goff. At that time the Ambassador raised the question of the Diaz contact. Mr. Strawmueller said that he was the only member of the family who had spoken with Mrs. Diaz. He said she had been contacted by someone who offered to use his influence and knowledge to have a search made for the missing men. Based on the information he received from Mrs. Diaz, Mr. Strawmueller did not pursue the offer. Mr. Strawmueller indicated that the story of a Guatemalan procurement officer and his intelligence officer brother was invented by Sam and Randy Blake to fill in details regarding the contact, details that Mr. Strawmueller and Mrs. Diaz were unwilling to share. At the request of Sam and Randy Blake, Ambassador Piedra attempted to verify this with Mrs. Diaz during his December consultations in the United States but was unable to reach her because she was abroad. In January she told the Department that she had asked all her Guatemalan contacts to assist the family but had no leads. There are notes in the Department of calls she made here with offers of assistance and support for the case, also. She denied any direct contacts with Guatemalan military.

On December 17, Embassy officers flew to Nebaj where they interviewed six former members of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor), a Marxist guerrilla organization operating in northern Huehuetenango and Quiche. All six had been operating in the general area of Sumal until they returned to government control in 1985.

Sumal itself is a small cluster of buildings at the end of a high mountain ridge surrounded on three sides by sheer walls of bare stone. It is not a population center of any importance, but rather is the geographical center of a zone of conflict.

None of the six ex-guerrillas had knowledge of any strangers recently observed in the area. One mentioned Cuban advisors seen in the area in 1981 as the last strangers of whom he had heard. Two other former combatants said that two "Negroes" of unknown nationality were rumored to be traveling with an EGP unit. Each of the six said that is was impossible to believe that individual EGP members happening upon the two Americans would have harmed them. All insisted that any strangers encountered would be taken to the central committee or a guerrilla officer. After these interviews, Embassy officers went to Las Violetas, a refugee camp on the outskirts of Nebaj, to interview civilians who had fled the Sumal area in recent weeks. The refugees indicated that they knew nothing of the Americans.

Regarding theories that the Guatemalans may have been alerted by Salvadoran government officials to Nick Blake's presence in the area, American officers in Washington and Guatemala consider it very likely that Guatemalan and Salvadoran intelligence services sometimes share information of mutual interest. There is no reason to believe, however, that authorities of either government have any particular interest in Nick Blake who is neither a well-known nor controversial journalist. In a country where high-visibility journalists continue to travel freely after writing articles critical of the Guatemalan government, it is not credible that intelligence services would monitor the activities of a freelance writer who was evidently unpublished on Guatemalan affairs. Had the Government of Guatemala determined that Nick Blake was a security risk, his entry into the country could easily have been blocked. Further, it is unlikely that the army would have given him a travel permit for the conflict zone in Huehuetenango, as they did in late 1984, if he was considered a threat. Griffith Davis appears to have shown no particular interest in Guatemalan politics. His status as a casual resident would have provided Guatemalan authorities with ample opportunity to expel him from the country had they wished to do so. It would have been very difficult for the activities of the two Americans to have been closely monitored while in the highlands. Many of the civil defense groups in the small villages north of Nebaj have no radio or telephone service, and depend on hand carried messages for communication with the outside. The frequency of armed encounters between army troops and insurgents in this area would argue against any plan to send a patrol or individual agent in pursuit of the two Americans. Based on the above, and all possible inquiries along this line, the Embassy concludes that is is unlikely that either of the two Americans was of special interest to Guatemalan intelligence authorities.

Concerning the supposition that an abduction took place, it should be understood that Military Zone 20, the location of the alleged sighting, is frequently visited by Embassy officers. Our contacts there are excellent. In the considered judgement of American military and civilian officers familiar with the zone and the key personalities who operate there, an abduction of American citizens is extremely unlikely. Guatemalan Lt. Col. Marin, Commander of the Nebaj garrison at the time in question, has since been moved to a sensitive position in the new civilian government of Christian Democrat Vinicio Cerezo. Embassy officers consider him one of Guatemala's best soldiers. Deputy Zone Commander Solis is a sophisticated officer who understands the political significance such an abduction would have. The zone commander, Col. Byron Lima, is considered to be an honest, straightforward soldier. This assessment is not meant to be seen as a defense of the Guatemalan military. However, the Guatemalan army has traditionally sent its best officers to the "conflictive zones" of the highlands, and the Embassy pays close attention to this critical area and the people who are assigned there.

This overview is by no means a complete summary of all actions taken by Embassy Guatemala in the search for Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The Ambassador and other Embassy officers have made an ongoing series of requests for assistance and information from Guatemalan authorities at all levels, including the Chief of State. The Embassy and the Department have, as well, looked into a number of rumors which have proved to be totally groundless.

The case will remain open and active until we have solid evidence of the welfare and whereabouts of Mr. Blake and Mr. Davis. Embassy officers regularly travel to the highlands, including areas on the northern face of the Cuchumatanes Mountain chain and along the Mexican border, and always make inquiries regarding Blake, Davis and any "strangers" who might be rumored to be, or have been in the area. In the Department, all country desk officers are aware of the case should any information about the men come from another country in the Caribbean or Central American region. All U.S. Embassies in Central America have been provided details about the missing men.

As you can well understand, the disappearance of Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis engenders frustration and concern both for the families of the missing men and for the Americans and Guatemalans charged with finding them. A solution to this case remains a very high priority in the Department of State.

Ms. Renny Smith in the Citizens Emergency Center is following the case closely, and is in frequent contact with the family and government officials on behalf of the missing men. Please encourage anyone who may be interested in this case to call her at (202) 647-5225. If your office would like to be kept informed of developments, please call and she will contact you whenever there is significant activity on the case.

RELEASE

Dear Senator Cohen:

Thank you for your letter of December 14 about the missing Americans Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis who vanished in the Guatemalan highlands in late March or early April 1985. In response to your inquiries our Embassy in Guatemala and officers in the Department of State have reviewed their actions on behalf of the men and double checked, to the best of their ability, the most recent information presented by Sam and Randy Blake. This letter responds to your request for a written report on our efforts, provides you with the results of our review, and gives a reaction to some of the theories put forward about the missing men.

The case first came to the Embassy's attention when an American citizen called the consular section on April 8, 1985, to report that a friend, American citizen Griffith Davis, was overdue from a walking trip in Guatemala's western highlands. According to the caller, Davis was to meet friends in Nebaj, a market town in the Department of Quiche, on March 29. She thought it unlikely that he was purposely overdue as he had planned to attend his sister's wedding in the United States during the second week in April. Davis was traveling with an acquaintance named Nick Blake, she said, who she thought was an American living in Antigua, near Guatemala City.

Later on April 8, Embassy officers confirmed the American nationality of both of the missing men through immigration records. A telephone check of registration records at the Hotel Central in Huehuetenango confirmed the report that both met and spent the night of March 25 at the hotel before beginning their journey. Consular officers called National Police and Treasury Police headquarters and asked that units in the western highlands be alerted. Catholic and Protestant missionary groups with people working in the region were also alerted. That evening, a consular officer was able to speak by telephone with a British citizen friend of Nick Blake, Michael Shawcross. Shawcross confirmed the basics of the story given by the original caller and said that he too was concerned for the men's safety.

On April 9, Shawcross, German citizen Mikki-Linden, and the U.S. citizen who first brought the case to our attention met with an Embassy officer in the Chancery.

Shawcross said that Blake was a working journalist with an interest in the insurgency in the western highlands. Blake might take an opportunity to spend time with the guerrillas, said Shawcross. Davis was described as a long-term Guatemalan resident and an experienced hiker who had no political interests, but had long wanted to hike through the area in question. Blake and Davis, according to their friends, had met only recently. Shawcross was able to give a general description of the planned route. The men had planned to take a bus from Huehuetenango to San Juan Ixchoy where they were to begin their walk east to Nebaj.

Embassy officers called the military zone headquarters in Huehuetenango and Quiche later that morning, requesting the commanders' assistance in the search for the missing Americans. The Embassy then made a telegraphic report to the Department outlining the situation. The Department began a search of passport records in order to locate and contact the families in the United States.

On April 10, the Embassy Defense Attache followed an earlier telephone call with a letter to the Guatemalan Chief of Military Intelligence requesting assistance in finding the lost Americans.

During the following week, Embassy officers tried to track rumors that messages had been received from Nick Blake by another American friend, and by the owner of the small Antigua pension where Nick Blake generally stayed in Guatemala. The American Embassy in San Jose reported that the friend told Embassy officers he had received a note at Blake's Antigua pension on March 31. That note supposedly said Blake would be in Nebaj between April 1 and 3. When Blake did not arrive in Nebaj, the friend returned to Antigua, where the owner of the pension said that another person, name unknown, had left a message that Blake would be unable to meet the friend. Embassy officers in Guatemala were able to question him regarding this sequence of events later. He said that he had been misunderstood when interviewed by our officers in Costa Rica, that he had received no message. The pension owner had a somewhat different story to tell. He said he had received two written messages in early April, purportedly from Nick Blake, saying that his return would be delayed and to say nothing to the authorities. The pension owner now says that he destroyed the notes. The Embassy believes there were never any notes. The Department contacted the mothers of the missing men April 13th. They had not heard from their sons and agreed that there was real reason for concern. Within a week, the Blakes had drawn on many of their own contacts with connections in Central America to help locate their son. Officials at the highest level of the Administration and several Congressmen, yourselves included, were contacted by the family for assistance.

On April 18, two Embassy officers in a chartered helicopter flew to the Department of Huehuetenango and Quiche to investigate the disappearance. Accompanying the officers were the consular section fraud investigator (a veteran of the Guatemalan national police) and an Embassy security agent who speaks the area's predominate dialect. The use of a helicopter was required because the route planned by Blake and Davis between San Juan Ixcoy and Nebaj is serviced only by hiking trails and includes some of the roughest high country in Central America. In San Juan Ixcoy, where Blake and Davis left the bus and began their trek, Embassy officers met two Guatemalan army intelligence specialists who were conducting their own search for the missing Americans. The Embassy team was able to trace the route followed by Blake and Davis from San Juan Ixcoy on March 26 through San Francisco Las Flores and Mixlaj to the village of Llano, along the border between Quiche and Huehuetenango, several days later. It appears that on the morning of March 29 or 30, Blake and Davis left Llano, saying they were heading to Salquil, a large model village which can be reached by road from Nebaj. The commander of the army detachment at Las Majadas, the military outpost closest to Llano, said that he was told by Llano villagers on March 29 that two Americans were requesting permission to go to Sumal, a stronghold of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor). The Lieutenant said he instead gave the Americans permission to travel to Salquil. Villagers at Mixlaj, where Blake and Davis had spent a night during their trip, also said that the Americans had expressed an interest in going to Sumal. The villagers said they told Blake and Davis not to go to Sumal because the area was dangerous.

The date of their departure from Llano was March 29 according to the Llano villagers, and March 30, according to the Lieutenant at Las Majadas, who never met Blake and Davis. Embassy officers in Guatemala find no significance in the difference in dates. They believe it is very likely that the villagers erred, as no written record was kept, and often little importance is attached to dates in the villages. No trace of the whereabouts of Blake and Davis was found from the time they left Llano. At one point the families heard their sons may have been involved in a battle, but it was established that their confusion stemmed from the account of our Embassy officers flight into Salquil, where the army detachment mistook their helicopter as one bringing in reinforcements for a firefight then in progress about five miles from the village. According to the Lieutenant in charge of the Salquil garrison, Blake and Davis never arrived at Salquil. Embassy officers then backtracked to Quilen Novillo, the only occupied village between El Llano and Salquil. Villagers at Quilen Novillo said that the missing Americans had not passed through the village. At Nebaj, interviews with townspeople and military officials turned up no sighting of Blake and Davis. However, it was apparent that townspeople in Nebaj were well aware of the search for the Americans. None of the villages along the planned route are garrisoned by the Guatemalan army. There are no indications that Blake and Davis had any contact with regular government forces. Throughout the search, Embassy officers distributed flyers which included photos and descriptions of Blake and Davis, as well as numbers and addresses to contact in case someone had information to report. It should be added that this trip included a certain degree of physical risk on the part of the Embassy team. The village of Mixlaj, for example, is considered a dangerous place for official Americans.

Another American citizen friend of Nicholas Blake told Embassy officers in San Jose, Costa Rica, he had talked with Blake and Davis in Huehuetenango the night before they began their trip and Blake had said that he and Davis were going to "back door" into the guerrilla zone, avoiding the army patrols he believed were blocking the area. Blake fully expected to be "caught" (Blake's words) by the army or the guerrillas, according to this friend.

Lieutenant Colonel Jose Solis, Deputy Commander of Miltary Zone 20 (Quiche) came to the Embassy on April 30 to brief the Defense Attache and consular officers on a planned army sweep through the area in which Blake and Davis were believed to have disappeared. The sweep, involving some 450 infantrymen, began the following day. Units were broken into reinforced squads and employed in "force patrols". This tactic involved greater risk in that larger units are normally employed in such areas, but the smaller patrols offered more thorough coverage. Guatemalan sources reported two officers and ten enlisted men killed in the sweep. No sign of the missing Americans was reported.

On April 25, an Embassy officer in a chartered light aircraft, dropped leaflets over the Sumal area. The leaflets, printed in Spanish and the prevalent Indian dialect, Ixchil, had photos of both men. Leaflets were also provided to the zone headquarters for distribution to army patrol leaders and civil guard units.

Mrs. Mary Blake, Nicholas Blake's mother, came to Guatemala on April 25 accompanied by her son Randy Blake, family friend Lucien Yokana, and Attorney Edward Goff. Mrs. Blake's party met with Ambassador Piedra and received a thorough briefing on the investigation to that point.

Embassy officers accompanied the party to Military Zone 20 headquarters in Santa Cruz del Quiche on April 27 where the zone commander briefed them on the actions he had taken to locate Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The family hired a private investigator in Guatemala at about this time.

Attorney Edward Goff, representing the Blake family, came to Guatemala again on May 23 after spending several weeks in Chiapas, Mexico near the border with Guatemala. He was accompanied by the private investigator. Both were briefed on the status of the investigation.

Sam and Randy Blake, accompanied by friends, visited Guatemala during the first week of November and again one month later. On both occasions they met with Ambassador Piedra, the Deputy Chief of Mission, and other Embassy officers. During the November visit, Sam and Randy Blake divulged two potential leads in the case. 1) The Blake brothers had heard that two persons fitting the description of their brother and Griffith Davis had landed in a helicopter in Nebaj at the end of the first week of April. According to this story, the passengers were forcibly removed from the helicopter by Guatemalan army troops and taken to the garrison headquarters, 2) a second line of inquiry was opened by their description of contacts between a Guatemalan army procurement officer and a close business contact of the Blake family. Embassy officers immediately began to check both stories.

According to Sam and Randy Blake, Mrs. Remidios Diaz, a family friend and business associate living in Miami, had been approached by a Guatemalan army officer who worked in the army's procurement section. This officer, according to the story, told Ms. Diaz that his brother, a Guatemalan intelligence officer, had personal knowledge that Blake and Davis were being held by guerrillas. For a sum, it was said, an army expedition could be organized to rescue them. On hearing the story, the Ambassador asked Sam and Randy Blake to have Ms. Diaz call or wrote the Embassy. Embassy officers later tried to identify a procurement officer and an intelligence officer who are brothers in the Guatemalan army. No such persons could be identified. During a visit to Guatemala December 13th and 14th, a meeting took place between key officers of the Embassy, Mr. Richard Blake, Nicholas Blake's father, Mr. George Strawmueller, the missing man's uncle, and the family attorney, Mr. Edward Goff. At that time the Ambassador raised the question of the Diaz contact. Mr. Strawmueller said that he was the only member of the family who had spoken with Mrs.Diaz. He said she had been contacted by some one who offered to use his influence and knowledge to have a search made for the missing men. Based on the information he received from Ms. Diaz, Mr. Strawmueller did not pursue the offer. Mr. Strawmueller indicated that the story of a Guatemalan procurement officer and his intelligence officer brother was invented by Sam and Randy Blake to fill in details regarding the contact, details that Mr. Strawmueller and Ms. Diaz were unwilling to share. At the request of Sam and Randy Blake, Ambassador Piedra attempted to verify this with Ms. Diaz during his December consultations in the United States but was unable to reach her because she was abroad. In January she told the Department that she had asked all her Guatemalan contacts to assist the family but has no leads. There are notes in the Department of calls she made here with offers of assistance and support for the case, also. She denied any direct contacts with Guatemalan military.

The helicopter story was made very difficult to check since it could not be sourced. The brothers could not divulge any information that could lead back to the date or time of the event or the name of anyone who may have witnessed it. The Guatemalan military officer responsible showed the U.S. Defense Attache his log indicating there were no helicopter flights in the area described during the time frame mentioned. We have not been able to establish any information to contradict this log.

On December 17, Embassy officers flew to Nebaj where they interviewed six former members of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor), a Marxist guerrilla organization operating in northern Huehuetenango and Quiche. All six had been operating in the general area of Sumal until they returned to government control in 1985.

Sumal itself is a small cluster of buildings at the end of a high mountain ridge surrounded on three sides by sheer walls of bare stone. It is not a population center of any importance, but instead it is the geographical center of a zone of conflict.

None of the six ex-guerrillas had knowledge of any strangers recently observed in the area. One mentioned Cuban advisors seen in the area in 1981 as the last strangers of whom he had heard. Two other former combattents said that two "Negroes" of unknown nationality were rumored to be traveling with an EGP unit. Each of the six said that is was impossible to believe that individual EGP members happening upon the two Americans would have harmed them. All insisted that any strangers encountered would be taken to the central committee or a guerrilla officer. After these interviews, Embassy officers went to Las Violetas, a refugee camp on the outskirts of Nebaj, to interview civilians who had fled the Sumal area in recent weeks. The refugees indicated that they knew nothing of the Americans.

Regarding theories that the Guatemalans may have been alerted by Salvadoran government officials to Nick Blake's presence in the area, American officers in Washington and Guatemala consider it very likely that Guatemalan and Salvadoran intelligence services sometimes share information of mutual interest. There is no reason to believe, however, that authorities of either government have any particular interest in Nick Blake who is neither a well-known nor controversial journalist. EL SALVADOR

With the March 31, 1985 election of legislative deputies and town mayors, the people of El Salvador completed the structure of popularly elected government which was initiated with the election of a Constitutional Assembly in 1982 and continued with the writing of a new Constitution in 1983 and presidential elections in 1984. Nine political parties contested the March elections, which were pronounced open and honest by international observers who witnessed the voting. The military safeguarded the electoral process and remained neutral throughout the campaign.

For six years El Salvador has faced a Communist-backed insurgency which has ties to, and obtains material support from Cuba and the Soviet Union through Nicaragua. In addition it suffers from a weak economy, a history of violence, and weakness in public administration and in the administration of justice. Two rounds of discussions between the Government and the insurgent forces were held in late 1984 to seek a negotiated solution to the conflict, but the guerrillas' intransigence prevented a third round in 1985. In a pastoral letter issued by El Salvador's bishops on August 8, the Church called for a negotiated resolution of the war and stressed the legitimacy which the Government had gained through the electoral process. Despite the country's ongoing conflict and the state of emergency, political and economic life continue, unions organize and strike, demonstrations by students and others opposed to policies of the Government are unhindered, and views critical of the Government are openly and freely published and broadcast over radio and television.

El Salvador's economy is mixed. Banking and marketing of major crops are nationalized and the price of food grains is subsidized. The land reform program begun in 1980 continues. There are few regulations on other economic activities, and individuals are free to open and conduct business both within the country and in trade with other nations. The declining value of the national currency against the dollar has raised the price of imports and contributed to inflation, an additional burden on an economy strained by war and sabotage by the guerrilla forces.

Some five to seven thousand armed guerrillas of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) are attempting to overthrow the elected Government by force of arms. The guerrillas, having suffered reverses on the battlefield, have increasingly resorted to terrorist tactics, including economic sabotage, traffic stoppages, use of land mines, assassination, and kidnapping. The most spectacular cases of guerrilla kidnaping were the seizures of 27 elected mayors and President Duarte's daughter.

Respect for human rights by the Government of El Salvador during 1985 continued to be strongly influenced by the nation's civil conflict. The establishment of a stable public order able to protect individual rights continues to be disrupted by military operations of both guerrilla and Government forces, acts of revenge, fear, and a prevailing uncertainty caused by violence. Civil liberties have been restricted by a state of emergency legal regime. The civil conflict contributes to the ineffectiveness of the judicial system; efforts are underway to strengthen the judicial system.

In line with President Duarte's policy, the Armed Forces have endeavored to conduct their operations in a more humane manner. However, loss of civilian life as a result of military action by Government forces continues and there are still credible reports of prisoners being subjected to abuse by Government officials. The policy of the Government is clearly opposed to such acts. Complaints of human rights abuses by the Security Forces have been reduced by unifying command of the three police services, National Police, Treasury Police, and National Guard, under a single Vice Minister for Public Security, by issuance of standard operating procedures for arrest and detention to safeguard arrestees, and by human rights instruction for police agents and Armed Forces personnel.

The Armed Forces continue to be accused of human rights violations, but the number of such allegations is lower, civilian deaths during military operations are fewer, and there were no allegations of massacres by the Armed Forces. During 1985 the army evacuated groups of civilians from zones of military operations and turned them over to the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC).

Accusations of indiscriminate bombing continue, but no convincing evidence to substantiate them has been offered. Many of the accusations come from the guerrilla radio stations or from guerrilla supporters. The bombing restrictions ordered by President Duarte in August 1984 remain in force and appear to be generally observed. The Special Representative of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, Professor Pastor Ridruejo, concluded in his November 1985 report on human rights conditions in El Salvador that "the Salvadoran Army is endeavoring to conduct the war in a more humanitarian manner than in the past and is therefore not pursuing a policy of indiscriminate bombing, although in a few cases air and mortar attacks are causing civilian casualties."

The brutal phenomenon known as "death squad" assassination has declined dramatically, along with the general level of civil violence. In contrast to previous years when right-wing vigilante groups were active, no rightist group has claimed responsibility for any murder during the entire year. Some unexplained deaths may still be the work of extreme rightist killers but the number directly attributable to them has declined sharply. Assassinations for which the perpetrators advertise their responsibility are now usually the work of the leftist groups. Guerrillas have claimed responsibility for many murders during 1985.

RESPECT FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

Section 1 Respect for the Integrity of the Person, Including Freedom from:

a. Political Killing

The number of politically-motivated killings continues to decline from the levels of previous years. In 1983, according to reports in the San Salvador press, there was an average of 140 politically motivated deaths a month; in 1984 the average was 64; from January to November of 1985 it was 29 per month. One legacy of El Salvador's history of political killing is that criminal deaths are often disguised to appear politically motivated in order to avoid correct attribution. Often it is impossible to determine the real motive. While many unexplained deaths are undoubtedly politically motivated, others are the result of criminal or personal motivations.

By some estimates, the FMLN-FDR was responsible for approximately 55 percent of the political killings from January through November. Figures for the 318 political deaths during this period, as taken from the local press and other sources, show 145 deaths (45.6 percent) by guerrillas and another 31 possibly by guerrillas, 12 possibly by the extreme right, three by the civil defense, nine by security forces/army, 77 by unknown assailants, and 41 civilians killed in action.

During 1985, FMLN-affiliated terrorist groups stepped up individual and collective assassinations, especially in urban areas. For example, the Clara Elizabeth Ramirez Front (CERF), a dissident group of the FMLN, publicly claimed responsibility for four murders in the first two weeks of January. On February 28, guerrillas attacked the residence of the President of the Central Elections Council, killing two of his bodyguards, a street vendor, and a passerby. In March, the Popular Revolutionary Army (ERP) of the FMLN claimed responsibility for a rocket attack on National Police Headquarters in San Salvador which killed one civilian and wounded eight others. The CERF assassinated the Armed Forces press spokesman on March 7. On April 8, 20 residents of Santa Cruz Loma, La Paz department were killed by guerrillas. The victims included six members of one family, three of them children, who burned to death when the attackers doused their house with kerosene and set it afire. Thirteen unarmed members of the Civil Defense forces were assassinated during this raid. Leaflets left at the scene claimed responsibility for the massacre on behalf of the Popular Liberation Forces (FPL) of the FMLN.

In May, the FMLN killed the Mayor of San Jorge, San Miguel, while attempting to kidnap him. On May 16, the FMLN also assassinated the military judge handling the cases of those accused of subversion, sabotage, and attempting to overthrow the Government. On June 19, the Revolutionary Workers' Party of Central America (PRTC) of the FMLN opened fire on a crowded sidewalk restaurant in San Salvador, killing 13 and wounding 12. Among those killed were four unarmed U.S. Embassy Marine Security Guards and two visiting American businessmen. In Chinameca, San Miguel, in the early morning of July 19, guerrillas kidnaped and murdered four men. In early September, three members of a family who tried to prevent the kidnaping of a 15 year-old female relative were killed by guerrillas, according to neighbors in Dulce Nombre de Maria, Chalatenango.

Guerrilla-placed mines resulted in the deaths of at least 29 civilians and in injuries to more than 92 others between January and August. Many persons have been killed and wounded by guerrilla machinegun fire during the numerous national traffic stoppages declared by the guerrillas. For example, on October 13 a Salvadoran Red Cross volunteer was seriously wounded in an attack by guerrillas on a clearly marked ambulance.

President Jose Napoleon Duarte has continued his efforts to eliminate human rights abuses committed by the security services. The Vice Minister of Defense for Public Security issued human rights regulations mandating humane treatment of prisoners. These regulations were provided to agents of the security services and are enforced; detentions of members of the Armed Forces for violations of the law or human rights rose from three in 1979 to 271 in 1984.

No previously known right-wing extremist group claimed responsibility for any assassination during 1985. A group calling itself the "Central Anti-Communist Organization" called a San Salvador daily in May, threatening to "punish those who take orders from communists;" nothing further was heard from this group. In December, persons who identified themselves the "Protective Army of Santa Ana" (EPSA) killed three persons they claimed were thieves allegedly because local judges had failed to punish such criminals.

The only time the name of a previously known right-wing extremist group was used during 1985 was in July, when a communique ostensibly issued by the "Secret Anti-Communist Army" (ESA) threatened 11 persons associated with the National University. The Government condemned this action and ran frequent radio advertisements calling for anyone with knowledge of the ESA to notify the National Police. Later information strongly suggested that the communique was planted by a group of leftist students at the university to frighten rival groups. Some of those threatened did leave the country but those who remained have not been harmed.

Tutela Legal, the legal assistance office of the Archbishopric of San Salvador, attributed 82 murders to the extreme right through the end of June 1985. Salvadoran press reports from January to November 1985 listed a total of 12 persons who were killed "possibly by the extreme right" and 77 others by "unknown assailant." Tutela Legal frequently attributes murders to the extreme right which other observers believe to be criminal, not political, in nature, or in which the victim is not identified and for which Tutela Legal gives no reason for its classification.

RELEASED
El Salvador: Human Rights
Special Project (1993)

Untrained and undisciplined local Civil Defense members have been cited for human rights abuses, including the killing of a civilian in May. A Civil Defense commander was arrested in July in San Vicente Department for threatening residents if they did not enlist in the Civil Defense program. The Government is addressing the problem by offering both military and human rights training. There are credible reports that regular Armed Forces troops, in some instances, have meted out harsh treatment to masas, the guerrillas' civilian supporters who provide much of the logistical infrastructure necessary to maintain their operations in the field. A group of 13 priests, as well as the official Human Rights Commission (CDH), meet regularly with military units to lecture about human rights and discuss problems which soldiers may confront in the field.

Charges made by guerrillas that the Salvadoran Air Force practices indiscriminate bombing are not supported by hard evidence. Most of these reports originate in guerrilla-controlled media or in testimony taken from guerrilla masas. These regularly employ fabricated accusations of Government abuses for their political impact. Salvadoran pilots generally follow the strict government bombing regulations designed to prevent civilian casualties. In a few instances, however, civilians have been injured or killed by bombing as the result of error. In San Jose Guayabal, on April 15, three members of a family were killed while hiding in a granary, apparently by a rocket fired from a helicopter in support of National Guardsmen who were under attack by the guerrillas. In August, a woman and two of her children were killed in El Ocotal, when an Air Force plane bombed a marking round that had mistakenly identified the small settlement as the target. The Air Force acknowledged the mistake and paid compensation to the survivors. In neither case were civilians the intended targets.

b. Disappearance

The number of press-reported civilian disappearances through November 1985 was 129, including non-political disappearances such as runaway children and criminal cases. There were also 303 persons abducted by guerrillas. By comparison, Tutela Legal reported 23 cases of disappearance after detention, presumably by government forces, and 24 cases of abduction by the guerrillas, from January-October 1985. Newspaper and eyewitness accounts often describe "heavily armed men in civilian clothing" as perpetrators of the seizures.

Some of the "disappeared" are found to have been held in unacknowledged detention by Armed or Security Forces, only to reappear in the criminal justice system. This problem has declined with the implementation of detention procedures requiring prompt notification of the arrest to the family, the ICRC, Tutela Legal, and the CDH. Disappearances are particularly difficult to track as many cases are not reported to the press. Also, it is impossible to tell how many disappearances are actually desertions of family, emigration, or enlistment into guerrilla ranks.

The Government has recently recognized the problem of trafficking in children, some kidnaped for virtual sale to adoptive parents abroad. Common criminal gangs and guerrillas frequently stage kidnapings for ransom. Because the families of such kidnap victims generally try to avoid publicity in order to negotiate the captives' release, these kidnapings receive little public notice.

The most spectacular cases of kidnapings carried out by the guerrillas in 1985 were the kidnapings of 27 elected town mayors and a number of other town officials and the September 10 kidnaping of President Duarte's daughter. The guerrillas held the President's daughter for 44 days; some of the mayors were captive for as long as six months. The guerrillas finally turned them over to the Government on October 24 in exchange for 25 captured guerrillas in government prisons and the departure from the country of 101 wounded guerrillas. One mayor and eight other town officials were not released in the exchange. On December 30, the FMLN clandestine radio station announced that the mayor and an unspecified number of other officials from Cacaopera had been executed on the day of their abduction in July 1984 for cooperating with the Government and that a town official from Uluazapa had been killed in December 1983. Although the FMLN pledged not to kidnap family members of government and military officials in the future, government officials remain targets. The Civil Aviation Director, an Air Force colonel serving in a civilian post, was abducted in early November.

c. Torture and Cruel, Inhuman, or Degrading Treatment or Punishment

The effort to enforce the code of procedures of the Armed and Security forces has had a positive effect. The timely notification of arrests to family and the ICRC, Tutela Legal, and CDH has decreased the number of abuses. The procedures state that physical abuse or intimidation are prohibited. All prisoners must be examined by a physician immediately upon entrance into a jail to determine whether they have been abused or are in need of medical treatment for any reason. These procedures were strengthened when the Minister of Defense and Public Security, General Vides Casanova, issued a document on March 27 which reemphasized the illegality of inhumane treatment of prisoners and their right to read the confessions they sign. The CDH and the military chaplains under Father F. Delgado now give human rights classes to the Armed Forces and police on a regular basis. A widely disseminated "Handbook on Human Rights," issued in June is another positive effort to educate the military and police on human rights values.

The CDH, ICRC, and Tutela Legal, who work directly with prisoners, say that complaints of torture and other forms of abuse continue, although at a lower level than in past years. Most abuses are reported to occur during the initial hours of capture and range from threats of death to physical torture. The most common complaints are of prolonged and continuous interrogation; being forced to stand for long periods, often while blindfolded; and sleep deprivation. There are reports that forced confessions still occur and that prisoners are sometimes not permitted to read their confessions before signing them.

El Salvador: Human Rights

According to government figures, 215 guerrilla combatants and an additional 453 guerrilla supporters voluntarily turned themselves in between January and October 25. After debriefing, such persons are transported by the CDH to the destination of their choice. Captured guerrillas have, in general, received adequate treatment. For example, foreign doctors were permitted to perform surgery on captured guerrilla leader Nidia Diaz to improve movement in her injured hand.

There were no complaints of torture in the penitentiaries in 1985. The guards are not abusive and prisoners receive family and conjugal visits. Although problems at the larger penal institutions include meager food rations, scarcity of potable water, and overcrowding, there are some opportunities for gainful employment by the prisoners. Inmates charged with subversion are permitted their own internal organization and give political classes which they organize and teach themselves. Punishment cells are primitive, but reportedly are rarely used

The FMLN claims that it respects the "physical and psychological integrity" of its captives. However, there are many credible reports of civilians being kidnaped and later killed by guerrillas and of soldiers being executed after surrendering to the guerrillas. Fifteen members of the Armed Forces and one member of the Civil Defense were kidnaped and killed by guerrillas between January 1 and October 25, 1985. The guerrillas denied medical treatment to Antonio Hernandez, town administrator of San Simon, Morazan, who had been injured in an accident prior to his kidnaping in late April. The guerrillas abandoned him on the bank of the Torola River in Morazan, where soldiers found him on September 26, unconscious and near death.

d. Arbitrary Arrest, Detention, or Exile

The Constitution provides for the suspension of civil guarantees in times of emergency. Special legislation (Decree 50) provides for separate procedures and judicial handling of politically-motivated crimes such as treason, sabotage, rebellion, and participation in organized groups dedicated to the overthrow of the Government by force. Holding political views opposed to the Government, without actively supporting political violence against the Government, is not a basis for arrest.

Under present state of emergency legislation, arrests can be made by the Security Forces without a warrant and can be made upon denunciation by an accuser who remains anonymous. The disposition of arrested persons is determined by an instructional magistrate who, like trial magistrates at various levels of the judicial process, may decide on the release or continued detention of a suspect for additional investigation before charges are brought or trial begins. In practice, it is impossible to say how many arrests are not based on reasonable cause, as even dismissal of charges at the investigative level often reflects ineffective investigation or is a matter of convenience in an overburdened judicial system.

Salvadoran arrest procedures require prisoners to be taken directly to the brigade or police headquarters and registered. For the most part, the police and Armed Forces have complied with this regulation. However, there continue to be some charges of prisoners being taken to unofficial interrogation sites before entering a penal institution. Once registered in a detention center, arrestees can be held for eight days before they can be visited by the ICRC, CDH, and Tutela Legal.

Under Decree 50, arrestees must be released or consigned to a military "investigative" judge within 15 days of arrest. Many prisoners are released during this initial phase, after preliminary interrogation and investigation. If consigned to a judge, arrestees must be informed of the charges against them within 15 days of consignment. Once they are so informed they have a right to legal counsel. The investigative judge must reach a decision within 60 days of receiving the case. If the case has merit, he sends it to the military judge of the First Instance (the actual trial judge). Decree 50 requires the First Instance judge to hand down a decision within 43 days of receiving the case. In practice, few cases are handled so quickly; Decree 50 cases usually stay on schedule until they reach the First Instance court, and remain at that stage for an indefinite period.

Processing of Decree 50 cases was halted in May 1985, when guerrillas assassinated the sole First Instance Judge handling those cases. The judge was replaced in July and adjudication of cases resumed. As of the end of September, about 500 persons held under Decree 50 were awaiting trial, about the same number as a year previously. Between January and November of 1985, 30 persons were convicted under Decree 50 and seven were acquitted. Charges were dismissed in 113 other cases.

In cases of common crime, police may detain a suspect up to 72 hours before presenting him to an investigative judge for release or detention for further investigation. In theory, the investigational phase may not last more than 87 days, subject to extension for investigation. In practice, these time limitations are not always followed; the backlog of cases in the system is the major reason for delay.

There are no legal provisions for exile, or for the revocation of citizenship.

The Government prohibits forced labor. However, leftist guerrillas have subjected kidnaped Salvadoran peasants to forced labor. Victims state that they were forced to travel with the guerrillas and cook, do laundry, and perform other chores.

Special Project (1993)

e Denial of Fair Public Trial

In El Salvador, common crimes are tried publicly; Decree 50 offenses are adjudicated in the judge's office, without spectators. The inadequacy and inefficiency of the judicial system often cause long delays in bringing cases to trial. Incarcerated persons normally wait 6 to 18 months between the formal placement of charges and the adjudication of their cases. Only 10 to 15 percent of the prison population are actually serving sentences; the others are awaiting trial. When finally tried, most can expect to have the charges dismissed or to be acquitted, often due simply to the poor investigative capacity of the police and magistrates. Over the past 10 years, the overall conviction rate has never exceeded 20 percent; in 1984 it was 15.4 percent.

Aside from a lack of resources for carrying out investigations, the courts are hampered by the susceptibility of judges and juries to intimidation or bribery. A Judicial Protection Unit (JPU) was proposed to provide protection to judges, juries, and officers of the courts in sensitive cases in which intimidation might come into play. The JPU was temporarily activated to provide protection in the 1984 trial of the murderers of four U.S. churchwomen, but the prison guards who composed it returned to their regular duties after the trial. The executive decree to establish the JPU permanently has been approved, and the Government is drafting the implementing regulations.

Recognizing substantial problems within the judicial system, the Government has committed itself to a judicial reform program with four primary components: the JPU, described above; the Judicial Revisory Commission; improved judicial administration and training; and the Commission for Investigation. The Revisory Commission will examine the entire legal system in order to suggest modifications to the penal code to make it fully consistent with the 1983 Constitution, and will also review existing legislation governing arrest and detention procedures. The Commission for Investigation will obtain equipment and train personnel for forensic investigation.

The Salvadoran judiciary is independent from the rest of the Government. Supreme Court magistrates and the Attorney General are chosen by the Legislative Assembly after nomination by political parties. In May, the legislature removed the Attorney General from office. His appeal to the Supreme Court of his removal was decided in his favor in December and he was returned to office.

Judicial authority has historically not been applied to the military. Although lower-ranking military and police personnel are regularly discharged from their duties and arrested for criminal offenses, in practice the officers of the Armed Forces are treated differently from other citizens before the law. Magistrates are usually reluctant to bring charges against military officers or members of the Security Forces. Colleagues of the accused often cannot be relied upon to testify or otherwise cooperate in prosecuting crimes against other officers. Also, intimidation of judges and juries by members of the Armed Forces frequently overcomes prosecution efforts made by the Attorney General's Office.

No military officer has been successfully prosecuted for human rights violations in recent years. An ongoing prosecution, however, is that of Captain Eduardo Avila in connection with the murder of a Salvadoran labor leader and two U.S. advisors in January 1981. The Attorney General plans to present additional evidence implicating Avila before the courts to supplement that which was presented in June 1985. A lower court and an appeals court determined that the initial evidence was insufficient to warrant prosecution of Avila.

f. Arbitrary Interference with Privacy, Family, Home, or Correspondence

The Government does not arbitrarily interfere in the personal lives of Salvadoran citizens except in matters it considers related to the armed conflict. Both the Government and the guerrillas use networks of informers. Phone numbers for making accusations to the Armed Forces have been publicized (although little used), and the police rely on informers and anonymous tips about alleged criminal and subversive activities. There is no effort to coerce the public into acting as informants.

Members of the Security Forces use forced entry to carry out arrests and investigations. Government troops have compelled civilians to leave conflictive areas. In April the Army removed over 200 civilian supporters of the guerrillas from around the Guazapa volcano, a guerrilla stronghold.

The constitutional provision protecting the inviolability of correspondence is suspended under the state of emergency. Postal officials have the legal authority to inspect correspondence, but there is no government policy to do so, and it is not believed to occur frequently.

Section 2 Respect for Civil Rights, Including:

a. Freedom of Speech and Press

Freedom of speech and the press is respected by the Government even though these rights are technically suspended under state of emergency decrees. The only instance during 1985 when the Government formally asked the mass media not to publish information was during the negotiations for the release of the President's daughter, kidnaped by the FMLN. Print and broadcast media did not universally honor the request, but the Government imposed no sanctions against media coverage during the negotiations. Self-censorship, sometimes out of fear of violent reprisal from the extremes of the political spectrum, is the primary constraint on free expression in El Salvador. Newspapers have published "communiques" from extremist groups out of fear of reprisal.

The leading daily newspapers in the capital are conservative, and frequently and vigorously criticize the Government. The only response from the Government has been to reduce paid advertising by government agencies in one of the papers. The views of the radical left continue to be expressed in paid advertisements, which appear regularly in at least three of the four Salvadoran dailies and in articles published in the University of Central America's bimonthly journal "Estudios Centroamericanos" (ECA) and its biweekly newspaper "Proceso."

RELEASED
El Salvador: Human Rights
Special Project (1993)

Radio news usually covers a wider variety of stories than the printed media and is more broadly diffused in Salvadoran society than either newspapers or television news. FDR leaders are regularly interviewed on local radio news programs and at least one local station offers air time to those FMLN front organizations which are operating openly in San Salvador. Local radio stations frequently repeat information broadcast by clandestine guerrilla radio stations

The Government owns no newspapers. It owns one radio station and two television stations, one educational and one informational There are four privately owned television stations.

A six-year old decree forbidding publication of anonymous communiques and statements remains in effect and is largely observed by the media. When it has been violated, the Government has taken no action against the reporting media.

Academic freedom is guaranteed by the Constitution and is broadly interpreted. As in many Latin American countries, university authorities routinely assert that local police have no jurisdiction on campus. The main campus of the National University of El Salvador, closed for four years following violent clashes between students and the army, reopened in early 1984. Though students are not immune from arrest, arrests do not appear to be made on the basis of student status or for violations of limits on freedom of speech and press. Two instructors were shot on two university campuses in October 1985; the killings remain unsolved, but political motives are not evident in either case.

b. Freedom of Peaceful Assembly and Association

El Salvador permits any association not formed for criminal purposes. Social, labor, professional, religious, and political associations operate freely, including leftist groups critical of the Government. The groups place paid advertisements in the newspapers and hold marches and demonstrations free of government interference. Even the "Committee of the Political Prisoners of El Salvador" (COPPES), an association of those inmates being held for subversion against the state, is permitted to operate in the prisons of the country and to publish political advertisements. The Information Secretary of the non-governmental Human Rights Commission (CDHES) was arrested in November and charged with membership in a guerrilla organization, the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FARN). The National Police have stated that his employment by CDHES was unrelated to his arrest; Mr. Caceres had worked for CDHES for six years prior to his arrest.

Employees of private businesses or autonomous government institutions have a constitutional right to form professional associations or labor unions to defend employee interests, to bargain collectively, and to strike. Although employees of non-autonomous public institutions are barred by law from joining unions, these employees in fact have legally recognized associations which act as unions, bargain collectively, and strike. The Government is studying a proposal which would extend collective bargaining rights to peasant labor associations. Salvadoran labor groups draw up their own statutes and elect their own officers. Government recognition of these groups is not based on political considerations. There is no government-sponsored labor group. Unions are independent of political parties, though some unions have worked on behalf of parties in political campaigns.

Unions may join national and international federations. The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions (ICFTU) and the World Confederation of Labor (WCL) have Salvadoran affiliates. Some Salvadoran unions have loose links with the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU). The Government and unions maintain ties with the International Labor Organization (ILO).

The Labor Ministry routinely mediates labor disputes at the request of the interested parties. In 1985 there were three instances in which labor and management voluntarily submitted to binding arbitration by the Labor Ministry. Groups across the political spectrum demonstrate openly and freely. In spite of an Armed Forces ban on a June 6 labor demonstration for which its organizers had not obtained a permit, the demonstration took place without incident.

Only one complaint has been made to the ILO since President Duarte's June 1984 inauguration, arising from the illegal occupation by strikers of the central Social Security Institute (ISSS) Hospital in May 1985. During the occupation, many non-striking Salvadoran workers were unable to obtain the social security medical treatment to which they were entitled. Also, the number of hospital patients who died during the strike was greater than normal though the number of patients being treated was smaller than usual. The strike's leaders made no attempt to disavow support they received from guerrilla radio stations, nor to separate themselves from death threats made against the ISSS Director General.

On May 27, a labor judge ruled the ISSS strike illegal because procedures prescribed by the labor code had not been followed by the union prior to calling the strike. The strikers ignored the judge's order to return to work. On June 2, police entered the hospital, arrested two union leaders for directing the illegal occupation of a public building, and then withdrew from the hospital. The police mistakenly shot and killed four policemen during the operation, but there were no deaths or injuries of hospital workers or patients because of the security forces' actions. The two arrested labor leaders were released June 5; they publicly stated they had been treated well while in police custody. Labor and management finally reached agreement and the strike ended June 6.

c. Freedom of Religion

Freedom of religion is guaranteed by the Constitution and is respected in practice. Although the country is historically Roman Catholic, numerous Protestant denominations have gained adherents, often through the efforts of foreign missionaries. These missionaries and members of the non-Catholic denominations operate freely and without harassment. Although church members and workers (of both Catholic and Protestant denominations) have on occasion been arrested, these arrests were unrelated to the individual's religious beliefs or activites.

The Catholic Church continues to be one of the most respected and influential institutions in the country. The Sunday homily from the National Cathedral is broadcast live on the Government's television and radio stations and is a regular news item in the press and radio the following day. Clergy and church publications speak forcefully on human rights and on the need for an end to the war. Church statements have become increasingly critical of the leftist insurgency, but the Church has not hesitated to criticize the Government.

d. Freedom of Movement Within the Country, Foreign Travel, Emigration, and Repatriation

Although the state of emergency decree formally suspends the constitutional right to free movement, this suspension is not enforced in practice. Local military commanders have on occasion denied entry for short periods of time from areas where military operations were underway. The continuing armed conflict has displaced an estimated 525,000 persons within El Salvador, primarily from the northern and eastern departments. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees lists another 35,654 Salvadorans as refugees outside El Salvador in Central America, with 20,000 in Honduras. An estimated 200,000 may be living in Mexico, and as many as 750,000 undocumented Salvadorans are in the United States. The Government, international organizations, and private voluntary organizations assist the internally displaced. The Government has imposed no control on emigration and has assisted amnesty beneficiaries who wish to emigrate after release. It also assists displaced persons and others wishing to return to El Salvador to reintegrate into society.

Movement in the eastern part of the country has been limited by traffic stoppages declared by the guerrillas and enforced with roadblocks, land mines, and the machinegunning and burning of vehicles traveling during the stoppages. The guerrillas declared nine such stoppages in the course of the year.

Section 3 Respect for Political Rights: The Right of Citizens to Change Their Government

El Salvador moved further in its transition to an open, democratic system in 1985 as it held its fourth national election in three years. The president is directly elected and serves for a period of five years. He cannot constitutionally succeed himself. The next presidential elections will take place in 1989. The legislature is unicameral and is made of 60 deputies who serve for three year terms. Like the president, they are directly elected.

Nine political parties, ranging from the moderate left to the conservative right, participated in the March 31, 1985 legislative and municipal council elections. Five political parties gained representation in the legislature. The Christian Democratic Party (PDC) of President Jose Napoleon Duarte won 52 percent of the vote and captured 33 of the 60 seats in the Legislative Assembly. The National Republican Alliance (ARENA) and the National Conciliation Party (PCN) captured 30 percent and 8 percent of the vote, respectively, and earned 13 seats and 12 seats in the assembly, divided according to a coalition agreement between them. The remaining two seats in the assembly were won by two smaller parties. The PDC won in 153 of the 262 municipalities; the ARENA-PCN coalition in all but one of the others. Mayors and municipal councils were also elected directly in the March elections for the first time since 1977.

Though the PDC has a plurality in the Legislative Assembly, debate in the Assembly is vigorous. The Assembly has altered bills submitted by the President before passing them, and the President has vetoed bills passed with the support of his party's deputies.

The Constitution requires the legal recognition of all political parties that do not advocate armed opposition, provided they are able to meet the required minimum membership standards of 3,000 followers. Several small political parties, while not represented in the legislature or municipal councils, do have legal status and freely organize and publish their views. The right to membership in any legally recognized political party is unrestricted. Two opposition parties of the left, the National Revolutionary Movement (MNR) led by Guillermo Ungo and the communist National Democratic Union (UDN), are legally recognized but have chosen not to participate in legitimate political activity. The MNR and UDN, together with the Popular Social Christian Movement (MPSC), make up the Democratic Revolutionary Front (FDR), the political front which, in alliance with the FMLN, is waging the insurgency. The Government and the majority of the constitutional opposition have expressed support for the integration of the armed leftist groups into the system as peaceful, legal political parties.

As in previous years, the guerrillas sought to disrupt the vote during the elections held in 1985. In the weeks prior to the elections, the guerrillas burned more than 25 municipal buildings. They proclaimed a national traffic stoppage three days before the elections in an attempt to prevent citizens from traveling to vote. On election eve, they mined several rural roads in Chalatenango Department, killing or injuring several civilians on their way to the polls. In spite of these efforts, approximately 1.2 million voters went to the polls, representing more than 65 percent of the electorate. Elections were carried out on site in all but 20 of the 262 municipalities in El Salvador. Elections in those 20 municipalities, representing less than six percent of the electorate, were held in neighboring towns. In El Salvador voting is no longer obligatory.

The Government invited representatives of more than 50 nations and international organizations to observe the March 31 elections. Almost universally, the 130 international observers declared the elections to be open, honest, and a valid demonstration of the popular will. A pastoral letter issued by the Salvadoran bishops on August 8 described the Government as "a constitutional government, the fruit of a democratic process, sanctioned by the massive turnout at the polls in four successive elections."

Section 4 Governmental Attitude Regarding International and Nongovernmental Investigation of Alleged Violations of Human Rights:

The Government maintains an open door policy toward human rights delegations. Key members of the Government, including high-ranking members of the military, have demonstrated their willingness to brief human rights groups and to be interviewed by them. Among those groups which have sent delegations to El Salvador are: Americas Watch, the Faculty for Human Rights in El Salvador - Central America (FHRES), the Lawyers' Committee for Human Rights, U.S. congressional delegations, and various church and labor groups. Physicians from "Medical Aid for El Salvador" were given access to guerrilla leader Maria Valladares de Lemus (Nidia Diaz), to evaluate her condition and performed an operation on her injured arm. In March, Americas Watch assigned a representative to El Salvador who does not permanently reside in the country but does make extended visits. The Government has welcomed the frequent visits of the representatives of the ICRC and human rights groups to prisoners at brigade headquarters and penal institutions.

The U.N. General Assembly's Special Rapporteur on Human Rights in El Salvador made his fifth annual visit to the country in September and received from each ministry and autonomous agency of the Govrernent a report on human rights within its area of responsibility. During his visit, the rapporteur interviewed government officials, visited prisoners held by the Government on charges of subversion, and spoke with representatives of official and nonofficial human rights organizations. In his report to the U.N. General Assembly on November 5, 1985, the rapporteur noted that, "As in previous years the cooperation...by the Government of El Salvador was and full and open."

There are several domestic human rights organizations which are active in El Salvador. The official Human Rights Commission (CDH) is an autonomous government agency which investigates complaints of human rights abuse. Tutela Legal is the legal assistance office of the Archdiocese. Other organizations which report on violence include Christian Legal Aid (Socorro Juridico Cristiano), and the non-official Human Rights Commission of El Salvador (CDHES).

The CDH receives complaints of human rights violations by both the government forces and the FMLN. CDH representatives visit jails and prisons to look for persons reported missing, and its staff physicians examine arrestees to determine the validity of complaints of human rights abuse. To make itself more accessible to the public, the CDH has opened field offices in the departmental capitals of San Vicente, Santa Ana, and San Miguel. The CDH has been successful in representing individual interests before military and civilian governmental institutions.

Tutela Legal's small staff carries out some on-site investigations, takes testimony from individuals, and uses the press as a major source. The other organizations rely primarily on newspaper reporting, supplemented by other sources such as announcements by guerrilla groups and personal testimony. Socorro Juridico refuses to name its sources. CDHES and some other groups consistently and vocally criticize the Government and echo allegations of human rights violations broadcast on guerrilla radio. They have also justified the kidnaping of mayors as legitimate military targets and have repeated false guerrilla claims that some of the victims of the PRTC murder of 13 people in June were killed in a "cross-fire." However, no member of such groups has been harmed. One was briefly taken into custody on charges unrelated to her activity in these groups. The Government has arrested and charged two other members of these organizations with membership in and active support for guerrilla groups. Their cases are before the Decree 50 courts.

Amnesty International Report 1985, which covers events during 1984, expressed continued concern about arbitrary arrest and prolonged detention without trial, torture, disappearances, and extrajudicial executions. Freedom House rates El Salvador "partly free."

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL, AND CULTURAL SITUATION

El Salvador had an estimated population of 5 million in mid-1985 with a growth rate of 2.5 percent annually, excluding emigration. The estimated per capita GDP for 1985 is about $650. The GDP grew by 1.5 percent in real terms in 1984, following a cumulative decline of 25 percent between 1979 and 1983. Adjusted for population growth, the decline probably has not yet been arrested. In 1984, agriculture accounted for about 25 percent and industry for 17 percent of GDP. Coffee, cotton, sugar, and shrimp comprise the bulk of El Salvador's exports.

Adding to the adverse economic effects of six years of internal violence, El Salvador's economy has suffered from the world recession, declining prices for the country's main exports, and sharply reduced demand from its trading partners in the Central American Common Market (CACM). The violence prompted large-scale capital flight, precipitous reduction in private investment, and increased unemployment. Although this decline appears to have been largely halted, investment has been slow to resume and the economy remains troubled by a large balance-of-payments deficit, external debt, rising inflation, and an unbalanced budget.

A dramatic shift in the ownership of nearly 25 percent of El Salvador's agricultural land brought about under the agrarian reform program has affected El Salvador's social structure.

Under Phase I of the program, all farms of more than 500 hectares (1,235 acres) were converted into worker cooperatives. Of the 317 cooperatives formed, 37 are in conflictive zones and not operating. The rest are generally able to support their members, but the majority are unable to make payments on their land debt or 1980-1981 emergency credit debts.

The 1983 Constitution clarified Phase II of the reform by establishing a ceiling of 245 hectares (605 acres) that an individual may own and by giving affected owners three years to sell property in excess of that limit to peasants, small farmers, or peasant organizations. The state can expropriate any excess land not disposed of by December 1986. Twelve to 15,000 hectares of land are affected by Phase II and the Ministry of Agriculture is beginning to develop necessary implementing legislation.

Under Phase III of the reform, farms previously rented or sharecropped could be claimed in parcels of up to seven hectares (17.3 acres) by the former renters or sharecroppers, including family members. Under Phase III more than 300,000 Salvadorans have been moving towards ownership of the land they work. Many landowners affected by Phase III resisted strongly, some with violence, and forced eviction of beneficiaries. Many others filed legal protests with the Government; and at one point in 1984 about 20 percent of the legal challenges to Phase III claims were being decided in favor of the original landowner on the basis that the applicant for the land did not qualify under Phase III rules. Currently, there is less legal activity, and peasant organizations report that forced eviction is no longer a significant problem.

In 1984 the infant mortality rate was 67 per 1,000 live births, and life expectancy was 64.5 years. The per capita caloric intake was 92 percent of nutritional requirements. The Government conducted a vaccination campaign in early 1985 to immunize young children against polio and other diseases, and followed it with an oral rehydration therapy education campaign to reduce the number of deaths from diarrhea. Most of the rural population does not have regular access to medical care.

Historically, El Salvador has had a shortage of low income housing because of heavy rural to urban migration, exacerbated in recent years by persons displaced from conflictive areas. The Government has initiated a major program to extend public services into squatter communities surrounding the major urban centers, install drainage works, sidewalks, and paving, and provide self-help housing.

Approximately 62 percent of El Salvador's adult population is literate. Some 15 percent of the primary school age population are not attending school. Since 1978, the country's internal conflict has contributed to the abandonment of over 800 primary schools and the closing of 2,140 more. In April 1985 the Government initiated a $150 million, three-year program to renovate primary school classrooms and purchase textbooks and other school supplies.

EL SALVADOR

The Constitution permits employment of children less than 14 years old only in those cases where their employment is necessary to provide for their subsistence or the subsistence of their families. Children less than 18 years old are prohibited from legally working at night or in dangerous occupations. The reality, however, is that teenage and even younger children work long hours.

The minimum wage for workers in the industrial and service sectors is about US$3.10 per day. In practice, the salaries of most workers in these sectors is above the minimum wage. These workers are paid overtime for working more than 44 hours in a week and are entitled to 15 days of annual paid vacation. The minimum wage for farm workers is about US$1.08 plus about US$.31 worth of food per day. Farm workers are paid more during harvest times. The national commission on minimum salaries has proposed an increase for farm workers over 16 years old and an additional increase for those partially incapacitated or under 16. The proposal has not been acted on. The piece rates paid at harvest times net workers triple or quadruple the minimum wage.

The Government requires that work sites be safe, and that drinking water, toilets, and adequate ventilation be provided workers. Major industrial enterprises generally meet these requirements. Between June 1984 and May 1985, the labor ministry made 467 inspections and studies of working conditions, initiated four campaigns aimed at preventing work related accidents, held four seminars on occupational safety and hygiene, and investigated 319 work-related accidents. The Labor Ministry carries out inspections either at its own initiative or on the basis of a complaint. However, the Labor Ministry complains that budgetary restrictions and guerrilla activities, such as the destruction of Labor Ministry vehicles, impede full enforcement of worker laws.

Under the Constitution women enjoy the same legal rights as men. Three women serve as deputies in the 60-member assembly, and about ten percent of the mayors elected in March 1985 are women. Women hold positions as vice ministers of culture, economics, education, interior, foreign commerce, and justice. Most elementary school teachers, nurses, and secretaries are women, as well as about 50 percent of the teachers on the high school level and between 30 to 40 percent of university professors. Women also play a role in private industry, especially as owners of small enterprises. Several major companies are owned and operated by women. Women serve on the boards of directors of several banks. Women are also well represented in the professions: about 30 percent of the physicians, 50 percent of the dentists and more than 30 percent of the attorneys are women. They are members of the Armed Forces as nurses, in administrative areas, and in intelligence. The National Police is training women as detectives and has a corps of policewomen.

A high proportion of women in the lower economic strata are heads of single parent households, often providing for large families. Seventy percent of the children in El Salvador are born out of wedlock, and most of these are not legally recognized by their fathers even when occupying the same domicile.

3. POST HAS RECEIVED AN UNCONFIRMED AND ADMITTEDLY VAGUE REPORT THAT A PERSON MATCHING THE GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF NICHOLAS BLAKE WAS SEEN NEAR COMITAN, CHIAPAS IN LATE NOVEMBER OR EARLY DECEMBER OF 1985. ALTHOUGH ATTORNEY EDWARD GOFF, A SECURITY CONSULTANT, AND MEMBERS OF THE BLAKE FAMILY HAVE BEEN IN THE COMITAN AREA ON VARIOUS OCCASIONS DURING THE LAST TEN MONTHS, POST BELIEVES THAT A VISIT TO THE AREA BY AN EMBASSY OFFICER IS INDICATED.

4. AN IN-PROGRESS NOVEL BY NICK BLAKE GIVES COMITAN AS THE EXIT FOR THE PROTAGONIST AFTER A LONG PERIOD WITH THE GUERRILLAS, A REASONABLE SCENARIO WHERE ONE IS TRYING TO AVOID GUATEMALAN FORCES. FROM THE BEGINNING, KNOWLEDEABLE OBSERVERS HERE EXPECTED BLAKE AND DAVIS TO EXIT THROUGH MEXICO IF THEY HAD BEEN STAYING WITH EGP IN THE WESTERN HIGHLANDS. GUATEMALAN ARMY OFFICERS REFUSE TO BELIEVE THAT THE PAIR COULD HAVE SIMPLY DISAPPEARED IN THE HIGHLANDS. A MOVE TO ANOTHER PART OF GUATEMALA, OR INTO MEXICO, WOULD PROBABLY TAKE THE PAIR THROUGH COMITAN.

5. THIS IS CLEARLY LONG GRUEL, BUT WE BELIEVE THE DEPARTMENT'S PREVIOUS EFFORTS WOULD BE POORLY SERVED IF THE INVESTIGATION IN COMITAN AND THE SURROUNDING AREA WERE LEFT TO FAMILY MEMBERS AND EMPLOYEES OF UNCERTAIN EXPERIENCE AND LANGUAGE ABILITY.

6. REQUEST EMBASSY MEXICO INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGED SIGHTING OF NICHOLAS BLAKE IN THE COMITAN AREA. SHOULD EMBASSY MEXICO DESIRE, WE WILL GLADLY PROVIDE AN OFFICER FAMILIAR WITH CASE DETAILS TO ASSIST WITH THE INVESTIGATION IN CHIAPAS. PIEDRA

BRIEFING PAPER FOR MEETING WITH CHILEAN AMBASSADOR, 2/5/86

Background

Ambassador Errazuriz has Pinochet's response to President Reagan's letter that Ambassador Barnes delivered when he assumed his duties in November. Errazuriz has just returned from a trip to Chile with one of Chile's few Congressional supporters, Toby Roth, which was completely overshadowed by controversy arising over violent demonstrations which marked the recent Kennedy visit. Over the past year Errazuriz has become increasingly defensive as he has watched Chile's support in Washington dwindle, particularly among Congressional moderates. Key Senate Republicans such as Lugar have grown disillusioned over Pinochet's continued intransigence and the persistence of severe human rights violations.

Errazuriz himself probably understands that US policy towards Chile reflects a broad consensus within the Administration in accord with the sentiments expressed in the President's letter. But Pinochet and his more conservative advisors in Santiago believe that the State Department's approach is more confrontational than desired by senior officials at DOD and the White House. This meeting provides a useful opportunity to demonstrate that Chilean government views receive a fair hearing, and that there are no significant divergences within the administration on Chile policy.

Talking Points

-- As demonstrated by our support for Chile in international financial institutions, and our stand in the UN and OAS against discriminatory treatment of Chile, we are ready to work with your government on a number of areas of benefit to both countries.

-- Let me be clear that there is only one US policy towards Chile, that set by the President and followed by Ambassador Barnes, the State Department, the Defense Department and all the Executive Branch.

-- Ambassador Barnes has the full support of the President. Barnes is a professional and is not interfering but rather trying to listen to all sides. Criticisms of the Ambassador do not contribute to development of closer relations between our two countries.

-- As President Reagan noted in his letter, the extent to which our governments can cooperate on issues of mutual interest will be affected by progress or slippage in the process of restoring democratic rule.

[redacted]
DECL:OADR

UNCLASSIFIED

-- This reflects political reality and does not represent interference in Chilean affairs. With your wide contacts on the Hill you are no doubt aware of the growing impatience in Congress, and its implications for our ability to cooperate on important issues such as multilateral development bank loans.

-- I would be less than frank if I did not point out that your government has contributed to this situation through its own actions. The failure during the Kennedy visit of Chilean police to restrain pro-government demonstrators from attacking members of the opposition will only contribute to the problems on the Hill.

-- Such actions inevitably contribute to the growing disillusionment of moderate Republicans such as Lugar, who increasingly seem convinced that the Pinochet government is either unable or unwilling to implement an effective, orderly transition to democracy.

-- We trust that they will be proven wrong. There is still time to implement the transition but time is running out.

-- We are concerned by the Pinochet government's failure to pick up the offer of dialogue with the democratic opposition in the National Accord. Refusal to dialogue only plays into the hands of the extreme left and of those opposed to cooperation between our two governments.

-- It is important that a process of consensus-building develop promptly, to provide a firm foundation for a successful transition to democracy and to counter negative perceptions which will affect our ability to work with you.

Dear Mr. Schifter:

I am writing to request your assistance to determine the status of a political prisoner in Chile. Her name is Israel Aillapan Quijon. She is in Osorno Prison.

The intransigence of the Pinochet regime warrents our fullest condemnation.

Your assistance is appreciated.

The most striking aspect of our recent trip to Valparaíso/Viña del Mar was the vast differences in outlook for the future of the region among the various sectors (government, industry, labor, agriculture, mining, the Church, universities, military) with whom we met. From the Intendente's vision of a revitalized export center ringed with chemical factories to organized labor's somber view of a dying city, we heard a wide range of opinions on the future. There was a surprising agreement, however, on the underlying sources of the Region's problems. First and foremost is the magnet of Santiago, with its larger markets and economies of scale which attract industry away from the Valparaíso/Viña area. Secondly, the national economic and political climate seems to have exacted a proportionally greater toll on Valparaíso due to its more fragile economy compared to other regions of Chile. Finally, technological change has worked against Valparaíso's preeminence as a port city, both by the growth in containerization (which permits goods to be shipped directly to Santiago with very little handling) and by the advent of rival ports which diluted Valparaíso's importance. I summarize below my interpretation of various points of view on the area's problems:

1. Intendente/Military - Valparaíso and the Fifth Region is an economically growing area, with an active port and expanding agricultural sector which can absorb unemployed urban workers. The high concentration of Naval personnel in the area is a stabilizing factor. Valparaíso/Viña may evolve into a "bedroom" community for Santiago, but will also attract some industry (chemical plants) to diversify the regional economy.

2. Professionals/University - Valparaíso/Viña is suffering serious environmental, social, and economic decay. Despite certain bright spots (tourism, port activity, mining) the vast majority of residents live in hopeless "favelas" in the hills hidden from tourist eyes. The Dean of the Adolfo Ibáñez Business School, Gustavo Fonck, believes that the recession has had a worse effect on Valparaíso than Santiago, and consequently the numerous graduates turned out by the region's universities have to look elsewhere for employment possibilities.

3. The Church - From our brief meeting with the Vicar I sensed that local Church authorities believe that although Valparaíso/Viña has experienced less social conflict than Santiago, the potential for increased tension is high, owing to higher sense of frustration and disappointed expectations.

4. Businessmen - With the exception of the fruit exporters, most businessmen are pessimistic on the future of Valparaíso/Viña. Fruit exports and tourism are bright spots for three months out of the year, but the fundamental decline of the area continues. They believe that the region could be revitalized through closer integration with Argentina and the possible opening up of export traffic through Valparaíso for Argentine goods.

5. Labor - The most pessimistic sector with whom we met was organized labor, on whom the recession hit hard. Labor is in a very weak position, held down by unemployment, collapse of real wages, and lack of political power.

ECON:JCassman:dn

I would add only a few points to Joel's observations about our visit:

1) Human Rights: Perhaps because just that previous day some students (both Chilean and Argentine) had been arrested and people leaving the memorial mass for President Frei had been tear-gassed, the human rights group painted a picture of a tightly controlled city. They did note though that the problems came from the Carabineros and Army handling of people, whereas the Navy very clearly tried to stay out of such things. This last point jibed with what the ranking naval officer told us -- that the Navy was not involved in "politics".

2) Overall impression. I came away with a slightly more pessimistic outlook than Joel's in the sense that the high incidence of unemployment -- around 30 percent some people told us -- coupled with the feeling in the business community as well as others not sympathetic to the government -- that regionalization was not working in terms of providing resources -- all this made for a very bleak future. The Vicar told us for example that the Church had opened fifteen clinics to meet needs which the Government could not; and University people said about 80% of the students at the Catholic University are getting free lunches because they cannot afford to feed themselves.

The Honorable
Harry G. Barnes, Jr.
American Ambassador

Dear Harry:

I regret to learn from George that we are having problems with the pouch again. We are making efforts here to correct the problem. Although obviously we cannot prevent a courier from falling ill, as apparently occurred last week, we will try to impress upon those managing this operation the importance of these communications to us. Because of less control over distribution, I am still skeptical about the idea of substituting official/informal telegrams for these letters, but will reconsider if we are unable to iron out the difficulties this time.

Errazuriz-Poindexter Meeting: Jackie and I attended yesterday's meeting. The tone was cordial but there was no substantive progress. Errazuriz took his cue from Pinochet's letter (the letter and my memo to Elliott reporting on the meeting are attached), and argued essentially that Chile was on the path to democracy; outside interference would only hinder, rather than advance that process. Poindexter listened politely and then reiterated points that Errazuriz has heard many times before, but not from the NSC. John stressed that there was no division of opinion in the Administration and that you were doing just what you are supposed to do. It was a useful meeting in that regard, at least.

On Pinochet's letter, I would appreciate your comments. My initial view, which I conveyed to Elliott, is that this is a hardline response with no sign of willingness to address the concerns raised in the President's letter. We will want to consider the pros and cons of how we might respond, something we can address while you are up here.

More on Loans Issue: Treasury leaked the text of Mulford's memo to Elliott and Schifter to Lundine, and Lundine then used the memo to back up a joint letter with Bereuter sent to Elliott, requesting we revise our vote. Elliott was furious, and commissioned the enclosed action memo (which Elliott rewrote to make more pointed) to Whitehead, asking that Whitehead call Darman to complain. No word yet on Whitehead's response. Enclosed are other memos to the ARA front office with notations by Bob to give you the flavor of the reaction to Treasury's action. Also enclosed is EB's rundown of Chile loan projects anticipated to come up in the MDB's. There appear to be no votes coming up in the first quarter other than the two water and sewage project loans which Treasury already approved. However, several clearly non-BHN loans are likely to arise in the second quarter. EB reports, however, that it is impossible to predict the timing so far in advance.

We are working now on clearing a response to the Mulford memo and to the Lundine/Bereuter letter. We will send copies to you when approved. Elliott's replies to follow-up questions from the Lundine hearing are enclosed.

GSP Consultations: I am enclosing Carolee Heileman's report on the Rosenbaum/GSP visit. She mentions that the delegation promised support against Chile's human rights critics on the labor issue should the GOC take measures to address concerns on trade issues. This is a fine negotiating tactic, but I wonder whether Rosenbaum will be willing (or able) to back this promise up. The first GSP review meeting (chaired by STR) took place yesterday and examined Taiwan, Korea, and the Philippines. Apparently, DOL took a hard line, arguing that progress in all five areas of labor rights (such as freedom of association, etc.) was necessary to meet the definition of the law. Taiwan passed muster only because of a new "progressive" labor law, on which there is not much of a track record. The Philippines was deferred. Korea ended in deadlock. S/IL foresees serious problems "certifying" Chile, but we do not yet have a strategy for dealing with the issue. Apparently, they made some headway, however, convincing DOL that progress on all fields of labor rights need not be demonstrated to meet the labor rights criteria of the law. We should discuss how we want to play the GSP card with Chile during your consultations.

Human Rights Report: You have a cabled copy of the final version. (A copy on bond is enclosed for your use to make copies for handouts, after the report is released. HA will have only the summary/introduction translated into Spanish.) The NSC's only change was to insist that we change the description of the Vicariate as an organization which "provides objective and reliable reports" on human rights problems. Jim persuaded Jackie to accept "has provided reliable reports." Jackie asked that next year's report take notice of the GOC good record on minority issues arising on Easter Island.

More Human Rights: You will be interested in the enclosed report on the Administration's record on human rights issues in 1985 prepared by the Lawyers Committee for Human Rights and the Watch Committee. Chile gets special attention (as do you personally). The report somewhat begrudgingly acknowledges

2. SUMMARY: UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON HUMAN RIGHTS IN CHILE, FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER FERNANDO VOLIO, IS OPTIMISTIC THAT THE UNHRC WILL BE ABLE TO ADOPT A BALANCED RESOLUTION ON CHILE -- BASED ON HIS REPORT -- WHICH WILL HELP THE COUNTRY PROGRESS TOWARD DEMOCRACY. FOR THAT REASON HE RESPONDED POSITIVELY TO POLOFF'S EXPLANATION OF OUR DRAFT RESOLUTION AND PROMISED TO STUDY IT CAREFULLY. VOLIO WILL MEET NEXT WEEK WITH THE VICARATE OF SOLIDARITY OF THE CHILEAN CATHOLIC CHURCH. HE PLANS TO SEND HIS REPORT TO GENEVA BY THE END OF THE WEEK. END SUMMARY.

3. POLOFF MET WITH FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER VOLIO (PROTECT) FEBRUARY 5 TO DISCUSS VOLIO'S VIEWS ON CHILE AND THE UNHRC. POLOFF ALSO DELIVERED THE US DRAFT RESOLUTION ON CHILE (REF A) NOW CIRCULATING IN GENEVA, AND THE REPORT ON THE VIOLENT LEFT SENT BY AMBASSADOR BARNES (REF B).

4. VOLIO WAS ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT THE VISIT OF CHILEAN ROVING AMBASSADOR CALDERON TO SAN JOSE LAST MONTH (PROTECT). HE STATED THAT CALDERON'S COOPERATIVE ATTITUDE SUGGESTED THAT THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT REMAINS DISPOSED TO COOPERATE WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR. CALDERON APPARENTLY REPORTED TO VOLIO THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS REITERATED ITS BAN ON TORTURE AS REPORTED IN REF C), AND HAS MADE EFFORTS TO INDICATE THAT THE ORDER IS MORE THAN MERE PAPER. VOLIO REPORTS THAT HE PRESSED CALDERON ON THIS SUBJECT, EMPHASIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF ENFORCEMENT AS OPPOSED TO MERE ISSUANCE OF THE ORDER. VOLIO STATED THAT HE WOULD APPRECIATE HEARING THE VIEWS OF AMBASSADOR BARNES ON THE DEGREE TO WHICH THE GOVERNMENT HAS MOVED TO ENFORCE THIS ORDER.

6. TO VOLIO, THE CHALLENGE FOR FRIENDS OF CHILE IS TO CONVINCE THE DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION LEADERS TO CONTINUE IN THE ALLIANCE AND MAINTAIN THE ACCORD, WHILE AT THE SAME TIME PRESSURING THE GOVERNMENT TO IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF THE DIALOGUE. VOLIO SAID HE WILL STRESS THIS LATTER POINT IN HIS REPORT. MAKING THESE POINTS TO CALDERON, VOLIO UNDER-SCORED THE IMPORTANCE OF A PROMPT END TO THE GOVERNMENT'S CONNECTION WITH THE "BANDAS" OF THUGS WHICH INTIMIDATE HUMAN RIGHTS WORKERS. CORRECTION OF PAST ABUSES. VOLIO CONSIDERS THIS COMMITMENT, IN TURN, TO BE CRUCIAL TO DEFLECTION OF THE ANTI-CHILE LOBBY OF EXILES WHICH NORMALLY WORKS CLOSELY WITH MEXICO TO PUSH FOR RESOLUTIONS WHICH MERELY CONDEMN CHILE WITHOUT OFFERING ANY AVENUE TOWARD GENUINE IMPROVEMENT IN HUMAN RIGHTS IN THAT COUNTRY. VOLIO BELIEVES THE EXILE COMMUNITY TO BE COMPOSED PRIMARILY OF MARXISTS WITH NO INTEREST IN HUMAN RIGHTS. VOLIO EXPECTS THE ANTI-CHILE LOBBY TO USE THE VISIT OF SENATOR KENNEDY -- WHICH HE DESCRIBED AS POLITICAL RATHER THAN DIPLOMATIC -- FOR ITS OWN PURPOSES. HE SAID HE HOPES THAT KENNEDY'S VISIT DOES NOT AFFECT THE US POSITION ON CHILE. VOLIO FEELS IT IS VERY IMPORTANT THAT FOLLOWING THE CHILEAN GOVERNMENT'S COOPERATION WITH HIM THAT IT NOT BE CONDEMNED BY A RESOLUTION AS HARSH AS THAT RECEIVED BEFORE HIS VISIT.

VOLIO -- WHO MAY HAVE SPOKEN WITH THE SAME "HIGH OFFICIALS' WE HAVE (SEE REF D) -- SAID HE WORKED TO LOWER CALDERON'S EXPECTATIONS ON THE QUESTION OF ENDING THE CONSIDERATION OF CHILE AS A SEPARATE AGENDA ITEM AT THE UNHRC. HE REPORTS THAT HE TOLD CALDERON THAT TERMINATION OF SEPARATE CONSIDERATION WAS SECONDARY TO CONTINUED COLLABORATION WITH THE SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR, WHICH SERVES TO DEFLATE THE ANTI-CHILE LOBBY. 1. (U) CONSERVATIVE DAILY "EL MERCURIO" OF FEBRUARY 5 CONTAINED AN ARTICLE ON POSSIBLE NEW EXTRADITION PROCEEDINGS AGAINST RETIRED GENERAL MANUEL CONTRERAS AND RETIRED COLONEL PEDRO ESPINOZA. THE ARTICLE QUOTES TWO CHILEAN LEGAL AUTHORITIES AS STATING THAT ANY NEW EXTRADITION PROCEEDINGS COULD NOT BE HONORED BY CHILEAN COURTS.

2. (U) ACCORDING TO CURRENT SUPREME COURT JUDGE, AND FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE COURT, JOSE MARIA EYZAGUIRRE, THE CASE HAS ALREADY BEEN JUDGED AND THE REQUEST DENIED. THEREFORE, THE UNITED STATES COULD NOT RE-INITIATE THE PROCEEDINGS. ALSO QUOTED WAS LEGAL EXPERT NURIELDIN HERMOSILLA, WHO OPINED THAT ARTICLE 381 OF THE CODE OF PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW WOULD BE IN FORCE IN THIS PARTICULAR CASE AND THAT THE ARTICLE CLEARLY FORBADE A SECOND EXTRADITION REQUEST FOR THE SAME CRIME, ONCE THE FIRST REQUEST HAD BEEN DENIED. HERMOSILLA CLAIMED THAT THIS INTERPRETATION HAD BEEN TACITLY ACCEPTED IN UNCLASSIFIED

Regarding the two Chileans, Jorge Hernan Muller Silva and Carmen Cecilia Bueno Cifuentes, we have asked our Embassy in Santiago to look into these two cases. According to their report, which you already should have received directly by cable, Muller and Bueno have not been heard of since they were detained in 1975. The Vicariate of Solidarity, the Catholic Church's human rights office in Chile, says these two individuals are among the 663 people who disappeared during the period 1973 - 1978. There have been no new developments on these two specific cases in recent years.

MEMORANDUM

TO: David C. Mulford
Assistant Secretary
International Affairs
Department of the Treasury

M 1/10/86 R

FROM: Elliott Abrams
Assistant Secretary for Inter-American Affairs

James M. Montgomery
Acting Assistant Secretary for Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs

SUBJECT: Human Rights and MDB Loans to Chile

We are responding to your memorandum of January 10 which raises concerns about a possible deterioration in the human rights situation in Chile, and requests our views on whether recent developments should affect our position on upcoming MDB loans to Chile.

As you know, the State Department follows human rights developments around the world carefully, particularly in countries with a record of rights abuses, such as Chile. We have watched the situation in Chile closely, both before and after its State of Siege was removed in June 1985. When Abrams appeared (accompanied by Jim Conrow) before the House Subcommittee on International Development Institutions and Finance on December 5, 1985 to discuss human rights and our voting policy on MDB loans to Chile, he testified that there are grounds for very serious concern regarding the human rights situation there. However, our assessment then did not back with the assertion in your memorandum that the situation has deteriorated since removal of the State of Siege. On the contrary, although the very serious rights problems Abrams ed continue, there are some signs of improvement since June 5.

Upon receiving your Jan. 10 memorandum, although we had ntly reviewed the situation in view of Abrams' December 5 imony, we requested our Embassy in Santiago to provide us an updated analysis of developments in the human rights focussing on the period since June 1985. According to report, which we have enclosed along with a copy of the Human Rights Report on Chile, in certain areas there have notable improvements; in others, little or no progress; in

TALKING POINTS FOR CALL TO ADMIRAL POINDEXTER

- o Efforts to carry out President's policy on Chile have been complicated by unilateral actions by Treasury
- o Opponents of our measured efforts to promote a peaceful transition in Chile are now focusing on MDB loans to Chile and pushing for opposition to Chile loans to oust Pinochet.
- o Congressional critics, almost entirely Democrats, have pressured both us and Treasury, which issues MDB voting instructions.
- o Treasury is buckling under the pressure.
- o After pressing for opposition to Chile loans in a memo from Mulford, Treasury leaked this memo.
- o I complained to Darman last month, but to no effect: someone at Treasury has now given Rep. Lundine our classified reply to Mulford, which Mary McGrory used to take a partisan swipe March 16 filled with misleading statements about our Chile policy.
- o The effect of Treasury's actions is to keep the issue alive and build expectations of a policy change.
- o Blanket opposition to MDB loans to Chile does not make sense on domestic political or foreign policy grounds.
- o No new loans are expected to come up before June, but Treasury needs to be told firmly now to stop their unilateral efforts to manage a foreign policy issue; otherwise, we may find ourselves on the defensive and less able to use our loan votes as carrots rather than sticks.
- o I will be back in touch with you on Chile if these problems continue.

February 19, 1986

Dear Senator Mitchell:

Thank you for your letter of December 4 about the missing Americans Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis who vanished in the Guatemalan highlands in late March or early April 1985. In response to your inquiries our Embassy in Guatemala and officers in the Department of State have reviewed their actions on behalf of the men and double checked, to the best of their ability, the most recent information presented by Sam and Randy Blake. This letter responds to your request for a written report on our efforts, provides you with the results of our review, and gives a reaction to some of the theories put forward about the missing men.

The case first came to the Embassy's attention when an American citizen called the consular section on April 6, 1985, to report that a friend, American citizen Griffith Davis, was overdue from a walking trip in Guatemala's western highlands. According to the caller, Davis was to meet friends in Nebaj, a market town in the Department of Quiche, on March 29. She thought it unlikely that he was purposely overdue as he had planned to attend his sister's wedding in the United States during the second week in April. Davis was traveling with an acquaintance named Nick Blake, she said, who she thought was an American living in Antigua, near Guatemala City.

Later on April 8, Embassy officers confirmed the American nationality of both of the missing men through immigration records. A telephone check of registration records at the Hotel Central in Huehuetenango confirmed [redacted] 25 at the hotel before beginning their journey. Consular officers called National Police and Treasury Police headquarters and asked that units in the western highlands be alerted. Catholic and Protestant missionary groups with people working in the region were also alerted. That evening, a consular officer was able to speak by telephone with a British citizen friend of Nick Blake, Michael Shawcross. Shawcross confirmed the basics of the story given by the original caller and said that he too was concerned for the men's safety.

On April 9, Shawcross, German citizen Nikki-Linden, and the U.S. citizen who first brought the case to our attention met with an Embassy officer in the Chancery. Shawcross said that Blake was a working journalist with an interest in the insurgency in the western highlands. Blake might take an opportunity to spend time with the guerrillas, said Shawcross. Davis was described as a long-term Guatemalan resident and an experienced hiker who had no political interests, but had long wanted to hike through the area in question. Blake and Davis, according to their friends, had met only recently. Shawcross was able to give a general description of the planned route. The men had planned to take a bus from Huehuetenango to San Juan Ixchoy where they were to begin their walk east to Nebaj.

Embassy officers called the military zone headquarters in Huehuetenango and Quiche later that morning, requesting the commanders' assistance in the search for the missing Americans. The Embassy then made a telegraphic report to the Department outlining the situation. The Department began a search of passport records in order to locate and contact the families in the United States.

On April 10, the Embassy Defense Attache followed an earlier telephone call with a letter to the Guatemalan Chief of Military Intelligence requesting assistance in finding the lost Americans.

During the following week, Embassy officers tried to track rumors that messages had been received from Nick Blake by another American friend, and by the owner of the small Antigua pension where Nick Blake generally stayed in Guatemala. The American Embassy in San Jose reported that the friend told Embassy officers he had received a note at Blake's Antigua pension on March 31. That note supposedly said Blake would be in Nebaj between April 1 and 3. When Blake did not arrive in Nebaj, the friend returned to Antigua, where the owner of the pension said that another person, name unknown, had left a message that Blake would be unable to meet the friend. Embassy officers in Guatemala were able to question him regarding this sequence of events later. He said that he had been misunderstood when interviewed by our officers in Costa Rica, that he had received no message. The pension owner had a somewhat different story to tell. He said he had received two written messages in early April, purportedly from Nick Blake, saying that his return would be delayed and to say nothing to the authorities. The pension owner now says that he destroyed the notes. The Embassy believes there were never any notes. The Department contacted the mothers of the missing men April 13th. They had not heard from their sons and agreed that there was real reason for concern. Within a week, the Blakes had drawn on many of their own contacts with connections in Central America to help locate their son. Officials at the highest level of the Administration and several Congressmen, yourself included, were contacted by the family for assistance.

On April 18, two Embassy officers in a chartered helicopter flew to the Department of Huehuetenango and Quiche to investigate the disappearance. Accompanying the officers were the consular section fraud investigator (a veteran of the Guatemalan national police) and an Embassy security agent who speaks the area's predominate dialect. The use of a helicopter was required because the route planned by Blake and Davis between San Juan Ixcoy and Nebaj is serviced only by hiking trails and includes some of the roughest high country in Central America. In San Juan Ixcoy, where Blake and Davis left the bus and began their trek, Embassy officers met two Guatemalan army intelligence specialists who were conducting their own search for the missing Americans. The Embassy team was able to trace the route followed by Blake and Davis from San Juan Ixcoy on March 26 through San Francisco Las Flores and Mixlaj to the village of Llano, along the border between Quiche and Huehuetenango, several days later. It appears that on the morning of March 29 or 30, Blake and Davis left Llano, saying they were heading to Salquil, a large model village which can be reached by road from Nebaj. The commander of the army detachment at Las Majadas, the military outpost closest to Llano, said that he was told by Llano villagers on March 29 that two Americans were requesting permission to go to Sumal, a stronghold of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor). The Lieutenant said he instead gave the Americans permission to travel to Salquil. Villagers at Mixlaj, where Blake and Davis had spent a night during their trip, also said that the Americans had expressed an interest in going to Sumal. The villagers said they told Blake and Davis not to go to Sumal because the area was dangerous.

The date of their departure from Llano was March 29 according to the Llano villagers, and March 30, according to the Lieutenant at Las Majadas, who never met Blake and Davis. Embassy officers in Guatemala find no significance in the difference in dates. They believe it is very likely that the villagers erred, as no written record was kept. No trace of the whereabouts of Blake and Davis was found from the time they left Llano. At one point the Blake family heard their sons may have been involved in a battle, but their confusion stemmed from the account of our Embassy officers flight into Salquil, where the army detachment mistook their helicopter as one bringing in reinforcements for a firefight then in progress about five miles from the village. According to the Lieutenant in charge of the Salquil garrison, Blake and Davis never arrived at Salquil. Embassy officers then backtracked to Quilen Novillo, the only occupied village between El Llano and Salquil. Villagers at Quilen Novillo said that the missing Americans had not passed through the village. At Nebaj, interviews with townspeople and military officials turned up no sighting of Blake and Davis. However, it was apparent that townspeople in Nebaj were well aware of the search for the Americans. None of the villages along the planned route are garrisoned by the Guatemalan army. There are no indications that Blake and Davis had any contact with regular government forces. Throughout the search, Embassy officers distributed flyers which included photos and descriptions of Blake and Davis, as well as numbers and addresses to contact in case someone had information to report. It should be added that this trip included a certain degree of physical risk on the part of the Embassy team. The village of Mixlaj, for example, is considered a dangerous place for official Americans.

Another American citizen friend of Nicholas Blake told Embassy officers in San Jose, Costa Rica, he had talked with Blake and Davis in Huehuetenango the night before they began their trip and Blake had said that he and Davis were going to "back door" into the guerrilla zone, avoiding the army patrols he believed were blocking the area. Blake fully expected to be "caught" (Blake's words) by the army or the guerrillas, according to this friend.

Lieutenant Colonel Jose Solis, Deputy Commander of Military Zone 20 (Quiche) came to the Embassy on April 30 to brief the Defense Attache and consular officers on a planned army sweep through the area in which Blake and Davis were believed to have disappeared. The sweep, involving some 450 infantrymen, began the following day. Units were broken into reinforced squads and employed in small "force patrols". This tactic involved greater risk as larger units are normally employed in such areas, but the smaller patrols offered more thorough coverage. Guatemalan sources reported two officers and ten enlisted men killed in the sweep. No sign of the missing Americans was reported.

On April 25, an Embassy officer in a chartered light aircraft, dropped leaflets over the Sumal area. The leaflets, printed in Spanish and the prevalent Indian dialect, Ixchil, had photos of both men. Leaflets were also provided to the zone headquarters for distribution to army patrol leaders and civil guard units.

Mrs. Mary Blake, Nicholas Blake's mother, came to Guatemala on April 25 accompanied by her son Randy Blake, family friend Lucien Yokana, and Attorney Edward Goff. Mrs. Blake's party met with Ambassador Piedra and received a thorough briefing on the investigation to that point.

Embassy officers accompanied the party to Military Zone 20 headquarters in Santa Cruz del Quiche on April 27 where the zone commander briefed them on the actions he had taken to locate Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The family hired a private investigator in Guatemala at about this time.

Attorney Edward Goff, representing the Blake family, came to Guatemala again on May 23 after spending several weeks in Chiapas, Mexico near the border with Guatemala. He was accompanied by the private investigator. Both were briefed on the status of the investigation.

Sam and Randy Blake, accompanied by friends, visited Guatemala during the first week of November and again one month later. On both occasions they met with Ambassador Piedra, the Deputy Chief of Mission, and other Embassy officers. During the November visit, Sam and Randy Blake divulged two potential leads in the case. 1) The Blake brothers had heard that two persons fitting the description of their brother and Griffith Davis had landed in a helicopter in Nebaj at the end of the first week of April. According to this story, the passengers were forcibly removed from the helicopter by Guatemalan army troops and taken to the garrison headquarters; 2) a second line of inquiry was opened by their description of contacts between a Guatemalan army procurement officer and a close business contact of the Blake family. Embassy officers immediately began to check both stories.

The helicopter story was made very difficult to check since source was unknown to the officers who worked on it. The brothers could not divulge any information that could lead back to the date or time of the event or the name of anyone who may have witnessed it. The Guatemalan military officer responsible showed the U.S. Defense Attache his log indicating there were no helicopter flights in the area described during the time frame mentioned. We have not been able to establish any information to contradict this log.

According to Sam and Randy Blake, Mrs. Remidios Diaz, a family friend and business associate living in Miami, had been approached by a Guatemalan army officer who worked in the army's procurement section. This officer, according to the story, told Ms. Diaz that his brother, a Guatemalan intelligence officer, had personal knowledge that Blake and Davis were being held by guerrillas. For a sum, it was said, an army expedition could be organized to rescue them. On hearing the story, the Ambassador asked Sam and Randy Blake to have Ms. Diaz call or write the Embassy. Embassy officers later tried to identify a procurement officer and an intelligence officer who are brothers in the Guatemalan army. No such persons could be identified. During a visit to Guatemala December 13th and 14th, a meeting took place between key officers of the Embassy, Mr. Richard Blake, Nicholas Blake's father, Mr. George Strawmueller, the missing man's uncle, and the family attorney, Mr. Edward Goff. At that time the Ambassador raised the question of the Diaz contact. Mr. Strawmueller said that he was the only member of the family who had spoken with Mrs. Diaz. He said she had been contacted by someone who offered to use his influence and knowledge to have a search made for the missing men. Based on the information he received from Ms. Diaz, Mr. Strawmueller did not pursue the offer. Mr. Strawmueller indicated that the story of a Guatemalan procurement officer and his intelligence officer brother was invented by Sam and Randy Blake to fill in details regarding the contact, details that Mr. Strawmueller and Ms. Diaz were unwilling to share. At the request of Sam and Randy Blake, Ambassador Piedra attempted to verify this with Ms. Diaz during his December consultations in the United States but was unable to reach her because she was abroad. In January she told the Department that she had asked all her Guatemalan contacts to assist the family but had no leads. There are notes in the Department of calls she made here with offers of assistance and support for the case, also. She denied any direct contacts with Guatemalan military.

On December 17, Embassy officers flew to Nebaj where they interviewed six former members of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor), a Marxist guerrilla organization operating in northern Huehuetenango and Quiche. All six had been operating in the general area of Sumal until they returned to government control in 1985.

Sumal itself is a small cluster of buildings at the end of a high mountain ridge surrounded on three sides by sheer walls of bare stone. It is not a population center of any importance, but rather is the geographical center of a zone of conflict.

None of the six ex-guerrillas had knowledge of any strangers recently observed in the area. One mentioned Cuban advisors seen in the area in 1981 as the last strangers of whom he had heard. Two other former combatants said that two "Negroes" of unknown nationality were rumored to be traveling with an EGP unit. Each of the six said that is was impossible to believe that individual EGP members happening upon the two Americans would have harmed them. All insisted that any strangers encountered would be taken to the central committee or a guerrilla officer. After these interviews, Embassy officers went to Las Violetas, a refugee camp on the outskirts of Nebaj, to interview civilians who had fled the Sumal area in recent weeks. The refugees indicated that they knew nothing of the Americans.

Regarding theories that the Guatemalans may have been alerted by Salvadoran government officials to Nick Blake's presence in the area, American officers in Washington and Guatemala consider it very likely that Guatemalan and Salvadoran intelligence services sometimes share information of mutual interest. There is no reason to believe, however, that authorities of either government have any particular interest in Nick Blake who is neither a well-known nor controversial journalist. In a country where high-visibility journalists continue to travel freely after writing articles critical of the Guatemalan government, it is not credible that intelligence services would monitor the activities of a freelance writer who was evidently unpublished on Guatemalan affairs. Had the Government of Guatemala determined that Nick Blake was a security risk, his entry into the country could easily have been blocked. Further, it is unlikely that the army would have given him a travel permit for the conflict zone in Huehuetenango, as they did in late 1984, if he was considered a threat. Griffith Davis appears to have shown no particular interest in Guatemalan politics. His status as a casual resident would have provided Guatemalan authorities with ample opportunity to expel him from the country had they wished to do so. It would have been very difficult for the activities of the two Americans to have been closely monitored while in the highlands. Many of the civil defense groups in the small villages north of Nebaj have no radio or telephone service, and depend on hand carried messages for communication with the outside. The frequency of armed encounters between army troops and insurgents in this area would argue against any plan to send a patrol or individual agent in pursuit of the two Americans. Based on the above, and all possible inquiries along this line, the Embassy concludes that is is unlikely that either of the two Americans was of special interest to Guatemalan intelligence authorities.

Concerning the supposition that an abduction took place, it should be understood that Military Zone 20, the location of the alleged sighting, is frequently visited by Embassy officers. Our contacts there are excellent. In the considered judgement of American military and civilian officers familiar with the zone and the key personalities who operate there, an abduction of American citizens is extremely unlikely. Guatemalan Lt. Col. Marin, Commander of the Nebaj garrison at the time in question, has since been moved to a sensitive position in the new civilian government of Christian Democrat Vinicio Cerezo. Embassy officers consider him one of Guatemala's best soldiers. Deputy Zone Commander Solis is a sophisticated officer who understands the political significance such an abduction would have. The zone commander, Col. Byron Lima, is considered to be an honest, straightforward soldier. This assessment is not meant to be seen as a defense of the Guatemalan military. However, the Guatemalan army has traditionally sent its best officers to the "conflictive zones" of the highlands, and the Embassy pays close attention to this critical area and the people who are assigned there.

This overview is by no means a complete summary of all actions taken by Embassy Guatemala in the search for Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The Ambassador and other Embassy officers have made an ongoing series of requests for assistance and information from Guatemalan authorities at all levels, including the Chief of State. The Embassy and the Department have, as well, looked into a number of rumors which have proved to be totally groundless.

The case will remain open and active until we have solid evidence of the welfare and whereabouts of Mr. Blake and Mr. Davis. Embassy officers regularly travel to the highlands, including areas on the northern face of the Cuchumatanes Mountain chain and along the Mexican border, and always make inquiries regarding Blake, Davis and any "strangers" who might be rumored to be, or have been in the area. In the Department, all country desk officers are aware of the case should any information about the men come from another country in the Caribbean or Central American region. All U.S. Embassies in Central America have been provided details about the missing men.

As you can well understand, the disappearance of Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis engenders frustration and concern both for the families of the missing men and for the Americans and Guatemalans charged with finding them. A solution to this case remains a very high priority in the Department of State.

Ms. Renny Smith in the Citizens Emergency Center is following the case closely, and is in frequent contact with the family and government officials on behalf of the missing men. Please encourage anyone who may be interested in this case to call her at (202) 647-5225. If your office would like to be kept informed of developments, please call and she will contact you whenever there is significant activity on the case.

Sincerely,

RELEASED

Dear Senator Hart:

Thank you for your letter of December 4 about the missing Americans Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis who vanished in the Guatemalan highlands in late March or early April 1985. In response to your inquiries our Embassy in Guatemala and officers in the Department of State have reviewed their actions on behalf of the men and double checked, to the best of their ability, the most recent information presented by Sam and Randy Blake. This letter responds to your request for a written report on our efforts, provides you with the results of our review, and gives a reaction to some of the theories put forward about the missing men.

The case first came to the Embassy's attention when an American citizen called the consular section on April 8, 1985, to report that a friend, American citizen Griffith Davis, was overdue from a walking trip in Guatemala's western highlands. According to the caller, Davis was to meet friends in Nebaj, a market town in the Department of Quiche, on March 29. She thought it unlikely that he was purposely overdue as he had planned to attend his sister's wedding in the United States during the second week in April. Davis was traveling with an acquaintance named Nick Blake, she said, who she thought was an American living in Antigua, near Guatemala City.

Later on April 8, Embassy officers confirmed the American nationality of both of the missing men through immigration records. A telephone check of registration records at the Hotel Central in Huehuetenango confirmed the report that the men met and spent the night of March 25 at the hotel before beginning their journey. Consular officers called National Police and Treasury Police headquarters and asked that units in the western highlands be alerted. Catholic and Protestant missionary groups with people working in the region were also alerted. That evening, a consular officer was able to speak by telephone with a British citizen friend of Nick Blake, Michael Shawcross. Shawcross confirmed the basics of the story given by the original caller and said that he too was concerned for the men's safety.

On April 9, Shawcross, German citizen Mikki-Linden, and the U.S. citizen who first brought the case to our attention met with an Embassy officer in the Chancery. Shawcross said that Blake was a working journalist with an interest in the insurgency in the western highlands. Blake might take an opportunity to spend time with the guerrillas, said Shawcross. Davis was described as a long-term Guatemalan resident and an experienced hiker who had no political interests, but had long wanted to hike through the area in question. Blake and Davis, according to their friends, had met only recently. Shawcross was able to give a general description of the planned route. The men had planned to take a bus from Huehuetenango to San Juan Ixchoy where they were to begin their walk east to Nebaj.

Embassy officers called the military zone headquarters in Huehuetenango and Quiche later that morning, requesting the commanders' assistance in the search for the missing Americans. The Embassy then made a telegraphic report to the Department outlining the situation. The Department began a search of passport records in order to locate and contact the families in the United States.

On April 10, the Embassy Defense Attache followed an earlier telephone call with a letter to the Guatemalan Chief of Military Intelligence requesting assistance in finding the lost Americans.

During the following week, Embassy officers tried to track rumors that messages had been received from Nick Blake by another American friend, and by the owner of the small Antigua pension where Nick Blake generally stayed in Guatemala. The American Embassy in San Jose reported that the friend told Embassy officers he had received a note at Blake's Antigua pension on March 31. That note supposedly said Blake would be in Nebaj between April 1 and 3. When Blake did not arrive in Nebaj, the friend returned to Antigua, where the owner of the pension said that another person, name unknown, had left a message that Blake would be unable to meet the friend. Embassy officers in Guatemala were able to question him regarding this sequence of events later. He said that he had been misunderstood when interviewed by our officers in Costa Rica, that he had received no message. The pension owner had a somewhat different story to tell. He said he had received two written messages in early April, purportedly from Nick Blake, saying that his return would be delayed and to say nothing to the authorities. The pension owner now says that he destroyed the notes. The Embassy believes there were never any notes. The Department contacted the mothers of the missing men April 13th. They had not heard from their sons and agreed that there was real reason for concern. Within a week, the Blakes had drawn on many of their own contacts with connections in Central America to help locate their son. Officials at the highest level of the Administration and several Congressmen were contacted by the family for assistance.

On April 18, two Embassy officers in a chartered helicopter flew to the Department of Huehuetenango and Quiche to investigate the disappearance. Accompanying the officers were the consular section fraud investigator (a veteran of the Guatemalan national police) and an Embassy security agent who speaks the area's predominate dialect. The use of a helicopter was required because the route planned by Blake and Davis between San Juan Ixcoy and Nebaj is serviced only by hiking trails and includes some of the roughest high country in Central America. In San Juan Ixcoy, where Blake and Davis left the bus and began their trek, Embassy officers met two Guatemalan army intelligence specialists who were conducting their own search for the missing Americans. The Embassy team was able to trace the route followed by Blake and Davis from San Juan Ixcoy on March 26 through San Francisco Las Flores and Pixlaj to the village of Llano, along the border between Quiche and Huehuetenango, several days later. It appears that on the morning of March 29 or 30, Blake and Davis left Llano, saying they were heading to Salquil, a large model village which can be reached by road from Nebaj. The commander of the army detachment at Las Majadas, the military outpost closest to Llano, said that he was told by Llano villagers on March 29 that two Americans were requesting permission to go to Sumal, a stronghold of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor). The Lieutenant said he instead gave the Americans permission to travel to Salquil. Villagers at Pixlaj, where Blake and Davis had spent a night during their trip, also said that the Americans had expressed an interest in going to Sumal. The villagers said they told Blake and Davis not to go to Sumal because the area was dangerous.

The date of their departure from Llano was March 29 according to the Llano villagers, and March 30, according to the Lieutenant at Las Majadas, who never met Blake and Davis. Embassy officers in Guatemala find no significance in the difference in dates. They believe it is very likely that the villagers erred, as no written record was kept. No trace of the whereabouts of Blake and Davis was found from the time they left Llano. At one point the Blake family heard their sons may have been involved in a battle, but their confusion stemmed from the account of our Embassy officers flight into Salquil, where the army detachment mistook their helicopter as one bringing in reinforcements for a firefight then in progress about five miles from the village. According to the Lieutenant in charge of the Salquil garrison, Blake and Davis never arrived at Salquil. Embassy officers then backtracked to Quilen Novillo, the only occupied village between El Llano and Salquil. Villagers at Quilen Novillo said that the missing Americans had not passed through the village. At Nebaj, interviews with townspeople and military officials turned up no sighting of Blake and Davis. However, it was apparent that townspeople in Nebaj were well aware of the search for the Americans. None of the villages along the planned route are garrisoned by the Guatemalan army. There are no indications that Blake and Davis had any contact with regular government forces. Throughout the search, Embassy officers distributed flyers which included photos and descriptions of Blake and Davis, as well as numbers and addresses to contact in case someone had information to report. It should be added that this trip included a certain degree of physical risk on the part of the Embassy team. The village of Nixlaj, for example, is considered a dangerous place for official Americans.

Another American citizen friend of Nicholas Blake told Embassy officers in San Jose, Costa Rica, he had talked with Blake and Davis in Huehuetenango the night before they began their trip and Blake had said that he and Davis were going to "back door" into the guerrilla zone, avoiding the army patrols he believed were blocking the area. Blake fully expected to be "caught" (Blake's words) by the army or the guerrillas, according to this friend.

Lieutenant Colonel Jose Solis, Deputy Commander of Miltary Zone 20 (Quiche) came to the Embassy on April 30 to brief the Defense Attache and consular officers on a planned army sweep through the area in which Blake and Davis were believed to have disappeared. The sweep, involving some 450 infantrymen, began the following day. Units were broken into reinforced squads and employed in small "force patrols". This tactic involved greater risk as larger units are normally employed in such areas, but the smaller patrols offered more thorough coverage. Guatemalan sources reported two officers and ten enlisted men killed in the sweep. No sign of the missing Americans was reported.

On April 25, an Embassy officer in a chartered light aircraft, dropped leaflets over the Sumal area. The leaflets, printed in Spanish and the prevalent Indian dialect, Ixchil, had photos of both men. Leaflets were also provided to the zone headquarters for distribution to army patrol leaders and civil guard units.

Mrs. Mary Blake, Nicholas Blake's mother, came to Guatemala on April 25 accompanied by her son Randy Blake, family friend Lucien Yokana, and Attorney Edward Goff. Mrs. Blake's party met with Ambassador Piedra and received a thorough briefing on the investigation to that point.

Embassy officers accompanied the party to Military Zone 20 headquarters in Santa Cruz del Quiche on April 27 where the zone commander briefed them on the actions he had taken to locate Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The family hired a private investigator in Guatemala at about this time.

Attorney Edward Goff, representing the Blake family, came to Guatemala again on May 23 after spending several weeks in Chiapas, Mexico near the border with Guatemala. He was accompanied by the private investigator. Both were brieted on the status of the investigation.

Sam and Randy Blake, accompanied by friends, visited Guatemala during the first week of November and again one month later. On both occasions they met with Ambassador Piedra, the Deputy Chief of Mission, and other Embassy officers. During the November visit, Sam and Randy Blake divulged two potential leads in the case. 1) The Blake brothers had heard that two persons fitting the description of their brother and Griffith Davis had landed in a helicopter in Nebaj at the end of the first week of April. According to this story, the passengers were forcibly removed from the helicopter by Guatemalan army troops and taken to the garrison headquarters, 2) a second line of inquiry was opened by their description of contacts between a Guatemalan army procurement officer and a close business contact of the Blake family. Embassy officers immediately began to check both stories.

The helicopter story was made very difficult to check since source was unknown to the officers who worked on it. The brothers could not divulge any information that could lead back to the date or time of the event or the name of anyone who may have witnessed it. The Guatemalan military officer responsible showed the U.S. Defense Attache his log indicating there were no helicopter flights in the area described during the time frame mentioned. We have not been able to establish any information to contradict this log.

According to Sam and Randy Blake, Mrs. Reridios Diaz, a family friend and business associate living in Miami, had been approached by a Guatemalan army officer who worked in the army's procurement section. This officer, according to the story, told Ms. Diaz that his brother, a Guatemalan intelligence officer, had personal knowledge that Blake and Davis were being held by guerrillas. For a sum, it was said, an army expedition could be organized to rescue them. On hearing the story, the Ambassador asked Sam and Randy Blake to have Ms. Diaz call or write the Embassy. Embassy officers later tried to identify a procurement officer and an intelligence officer who are brothers in the Guatemalan army. No such persons could be identified. During a visit to Guatemala December 13th and 14th, a meeting took place between key officers of the Embassy, Mr. Richard Blake, Nicholas Blake's father, Mr. George Strawmueller, the missing man's uncle, and the family attorney, Mr. Edward Goff. At that time the Ambassador raised the question of the Diaz contact. Mr. Strawmueller said that he was the only member of the family who had spoken with Mrs. Diaz. He said she had been contacted by someone who offered to use his influence and knowledge to have a search made for the missing men. Based on the information he received from Ms. Diaz, Mr. Strawmueller did not pursue the offer. Mr. Strawmueller indicated that the story of a Guatemalan procurement officer and his intelligence officer brother was invented by Sam and Randy Blake to fill in details regarding the contact, details that Mr. Strawmueller and Ms. Diaz were unwilling to share. At the request of Sam and Randy Blake, Ambassador Piedra attempted to verify this with Ms. Diaz during his December consultations in the United States but was unable to reach her because she was abroad. In January she told the Department that she had asked all her Guatemalan contacts to assist the family but had no leads. There are notes in the Department of calls she made here with offers of assistance and support for the case, also. She denied any direct contacts with Guatemalan military.

On December 17, Embassy officers flew to Nebaj where they interviewed six former members of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor), a Marxist guerrilla organization operating in northern Huehuetenango and Quiche. All six had been operating in the general area of Sumal until they returned to government control in 1985.

Sumal itself is a small cluster of buildings at the end of a high mountain ridge surrounded on three sides by sheer walls of bare stone. It is not a population center of any importance, but rather is the geographical center of a zone of conflict.

None of the six ex-guerrillas had knowledge of any strangers recently observed in the area. One mentioned Cuban advisors seen in the area in 1981 as the last strangers of whom he had heard. Two other former combatants said that two "Negroes" of unknown nationality were rumored to be traveling with an EGP unit. Each of the six said that it was impossible to believe that individual EGP members happening upon the two Americans would have harmed them. All insisted that any strangers encountered would be taken to the central committee or a guerrilla officer. After these interviews, Embassy officers went to Las Violetas, a refugee camp on the outskirts of Nebaj, to interview civilians who had fled the Sumal area in recent weeks. The refugees indicated that they knew nothing of the Americans.

Regarding theories that the Guatemalans may have been alerted by Salvadoran government officials to Nick Blake's presence in the area, American officers in Washington and Guatemala consider it very likely that Guatemalan and Salvadoran intelligence services sometimes share information of mutual interest. There is no reason to believe, however, that authorities of either government have any particular interest in Nick Blake who is neither a well-known nor controversial journalist. In a country where high-visibility journalists continue to travel freely after writing articles critical of the Guatemalan government, it is not credible that intelligence services would monitor the activities of a freelance writer who was evidently unpublished on Guatemalan affairs. Had the Government of Guatemala determined that Nick Blake was a security risk, his entry into the country could easily have been blocked. Further, it is unlikely that the army would have given him a travel permit for the conflict zone in Huehuetenango, as they did in late 1984, if he was considered a threat. Griffith Davis appears to have shown no particular interest in Guatemalan politics. His status as a casual resident would have provided Guatemalan authorities with ample opportunity to expel him from the country had they wished to do so. It would have been very difficult for the activities of the two Americans to have been closely monitored while in the highlands. Many of the civil defense groups in the small villages north of Nebaj have no radio or telephone service, and depend on hand carried messages for communication with the outside. The frequency of armed encounters between army troops and insurgents in this area would argue against any plan to send a patrol or individual agent in pursuit of the two Americans. Based on the above, and all possible inquiries along this line, the Embassy concludes that is is unlikely that either of the two Americans was of special interest to Guatemalan intelligence authorities.

Concerning the supposition that an abduction took place, it should be understood that Military Zone 20, the location of the alleged sighting, is frequently visited by Embassy officers. Our contacts there are excellent. In the considered judgement of American military and civilian officers familiar with the zone and the key personalities who operate there, an abduction of American citizens is extremely unlikely. Guatemalan Lt. Col. Marin, Commander of the Nebaj garrison at the time in question, has since been moved to a sensitive position in the new civilian government of Christian Democrat Vinicio Cerezo. Embassy officers consider him one of Guatemala's best soldiers. Deputy Zone Commander Solis is a sophisticated officer who understands the political significance such an abduction would have. The zone commander, Col. Byron Lima, is considered to be an honest, straightforward soldier. This assessment is not meant to be seen as a defense of the Guatemalan military. However, the Guatemalan army has traditionally sent its best officers to the "conflictive zones" of the highlands, and the Embassy pays close attention to this critical area and the people who are assigned there.

This overview is by no means a complete summary of all actions taken by Embassy Guatemala in the search for Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis. The Ambassador and other Embassy officers have made an ongoing series of requests for assistance and information from Guatemalan authorities at all levels, including the Chief of State. The Embassy and the Department have, as well, looked into a number of rumors which have proved to be totally groundless.

The case will remain open and active until we have solid evidence of the welfare and whereabouts of Mr. Blake and Mr. Davis. Embassy officers regularly travel to the highlands, including areas on the northern face of the Cuchumatanes Mountain chain and along the Mexican border, and always make inquiries regarding Blake, Davis and any "strangers" who might be rumored to be, or have been in the area. In the Department, all country desk officers are aware of the case should any information about the men come from another country in the Caribbean or Central American region. All U.S. Embassies in Central America have been provided details about the missing men.

As you can well understand, the disappearance of Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis engenders frustration and concern both for the families of the missing men and for the Americans and Guatemalans charged with finding them. A solution to this case remains a very high priority in the Department of State.

Ms. Renny Smith in the Citizens Emergency Center is following the case closely, and is in frequent contact with the family and government officials on behalf of the missing men. Please encourage anyone who may be interested in this case to call her at (202) 647-5225. If your office would like to be kept informed of developments, please call and she will contact you whenever there is significant activity on the case.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

February 19, 1986

Dear Senator Cohen:

Thank you for your letter of December 4 about the missing Americans Nicholas Blake and Griffith Davis who vanished in the Guatemalan highlands in late March or early April 1985. In response to your inquiries our Embassy in Guatemala and officers in the Department of State have reviewed their actions on behalf of the men and double checked, to the best of their ability, the most recent information presented by Sam and Randy Blake. This letter responds to your request for a written report on our efforts, provides you with the results of our review, and gives a reaction to some of the theories put forward about the missing men.

The case first came to the Embassy's attention when an American citizen called the consular section on April 8, 1985, to report that a friend, American citizen Griffith Davis, was overdue from a walking trip in Guatemala's western highlands. According to the caller, Davis was to meet friends in Nebaj, a market town in the Department of Quiche, on March 29. She thought it unlikely that he was purposely overdue as he had planned to attend his sister's wedding in the United States during the second week in April. Davis was traveling with an acquaintance named Nick Blake, she said, who she thought was an American living in Antigua, near Guatemala City.

Later on April 8, Embassy officers confirmed the American nationality of both of the missing men through immigration records. A telephone check of registration records at the Hotel Central in Huehuetenango confirmed the report that the men met and spent the night of March 25 at the hotel before beginning their journey. Consular officers called National Police and Treasury Police headquarters and asked that units in the western highlands be alerted. Catholic and Protestant missionary groups with people working in the region were also alerted. That evening, a consular officer was able to speak by telephone with a British citizen friend of Nick Blake, Michael Shawcross. Shawcross confirmed the basics of the story given by the original caller and said that he too was concerned for the men's safety.

On April 9, Shawcross, German citizen Mikki-Linden, and the U.S. citizen who first brought the case to our attention met with an Embassy officer in the Chancery. Shawcross said that Blake was a working journalist with an interest in the insurgency in the western highlands. Blake might take an opportunity to spend time with the guerrillas, said Shawcross. Davis was described as a long-term Guatemalan resident and an experienced hiker who had no political interests, but had long wanted to hike through the area in question. Blake and Davis, according to their friends, had met only recently. Shawcross was able to give a general description of the planned route. The men had planned to take a bus from Huehuetenango to San Juan Ixchoy where they were to begin their walk east to Nebaj.

Embassy officers called the military zone headquarters in Huehuetenango and Quiche later that morning, requesting the commanders' assistance in the search for the missing Americans. The Embassy then made a telegraphic report to the Department outlining the situation. The Department began a search of passport records in order to locate and contact the families in the United States.

On April 10, the Embassy Defense Attache followed an earlier telephone call with a letter to the Guatemalan Chief of Military Intelligence requesting assistance in finding the lost Americans.

During the following week, Embassy officers tried to track rumors that messages had been received from Nick Blake by another American friend, and by the owner of the small Antigua pension where Nick Blake generally stayed in Guatemala. The American Embassy in San Jose reported that the friend told Embassy officers he had received a note at Blake's Antigua pension on March 31. That note supposedly said Blake would be in Nebaj between April 1 and 3. When Blake did not arrive in Nebaj, the friend returned to Antigua, where the owner of the pension said that another person, name unknown, had left a message that Blake would be unable to meet the friend. Embassy officers in Guatemala were able to question him regarding this sequence of events later. He said that he had been misunderstood when interviewed by our officers in Costa Rica, that he had received no message. The pension owner had a somewhat different story to tell. He said he had received two written messages in early April, purportedly from Nick Blake, saying that his return would be delayed and to say nothing to the authorities. The pension owner now says that he destroyed the notes. The Embassy believes there were never any notes. The Department contacted the mothers of the missing men April 13th. They had not heard from their sons and agreed that there was real reason for concern. Within a week, the Blakes had drawn on many of their own contacts with connections in Central America to help locate their son. Officials at the highest level of the Administration and several Congressmen, yourself included, were contacted by the family for assistance.

On April 18, two Embassy officers in a chartered helicopter flew to the Department of Huehuetenango and Quiche to investigate the disappearance. Accompanying the officers were the consular section fraud investigator (a veteran of the Guatemalan national police) and an Embassy security agent who speaks the area's predominate dialect. The use of a helicopter was required because the route planned by Blake and Davis between San Juan Ixcoy and Nebaj is serviced only by hiking trails and includes some of the roughest high country in Central America. In San Juan Ixcoy, where Blake and Davis left the bus and began their trek, Embassy officers met two Guatemalan army intelligence specialists who were conducting their own search for the missing Americans. The Embassy team was able to trace the route followed by Blake and Davis from San Juan Ixcoy on March 26 through San Francisco Las Flores and Nixlaj to the village of Llano, along the border between Quiche and Huehuetenenco, several days later. It appears that on the morning of March 29 or 30, Blake and Davis left Llano, saying they were heading to Salquil, a large model village which can be reached by road from Nebaj. The commander of the army detachment at Las Majacas, the military outpost closest to Llano, said that he was told by Llano villagers on March 29 that two Americans were requesting permission to go to Sumal, a stronghold of the EGP (Guerrilla Army of the Poor). The Lieutenant said he instead gave the Americans permission to travel to Salquil. Villagers at Nixlaj, where Blake and Davis had spent a night during their trip, also said that the Americans had expressed an interest in going to Sumal. The villagers said they told Blake and Davis not to go to Sumal because the area was dangerous.

The date of their departure from Llano was March 29 according to the Llano villagers, and March 30, according to the Lieutenant at Las Majadas, who never met Blake and Davis. Embassy officers in Guatemala find no significance in the difference in dates. They believe it is very likely that the villagers erred, as no written record was kept. No trace of the whereabouts of Blake and Davis was found from the time they left Llano. At one point the Blake family heard their sons may have been involved in a battle, but their confusion stemmed from the account of our Embassy officers flight into Salquil, where the army detachment mistook their helicopter as one bringing in reinforcements for a firefight then in progress about five miles from the village. According to the Lieutenant in charge of the Salquil garrison, Blake and Davis never arrived at Salquil. Embassy officers then backtracked to Quilen Novillo, the only occupied village between El Llano and Salquil. Villagers at Quilen Novillo said that the missing Americans had not passed through the village. At Nebaj, interviews with townspeople and military officials turned up no sighting of Blake and Davis. However, it was apparent that townspeople in Nebaj were well aware of the search for the Americans. None of the villages along the planned route are garrisoned by the Guatemalan army. There are no indications that Blake and Davis had any contact with regular government forces. Throughout the search, Embassy officers distributed flyers which included photos and descriptions of Blake and Davis, as well as numbers and addresses to contact in case someone had information to report. It should be added that this trip included a certain degree of physical risk on the part of the Embassy team. The village of Nixlaj, for example, is considered a dangerous place for official Americans.

Another American citizen friend of Nicholas Blake told Embassy officers in San Jose, Costa Rica, he had talked with Blake and Davis in Huehuetenango the night before they began their trip and Blake had said that he and Davis were going to "back door" into the guerrilla zone, avoiding the army patrols he believed were blocking the area. Blake fully expected to be "caught" (Blake's words) by the army or the guerrillas, according to this friend.

Lieutenant Colonel Jose Solis, Deputy Commander of Miltary Zone 20 (Quiche) came to the Embassy on April 30 to brief the Defense Attache and consular officers on a planned army sweep through the area in which Blake and Davis were believed to have disappeared. The sweep, involving some 450 infantrymen, began the following day. Units were broken into reinforced squads and employed in small "force patrols". This tactic involved greater risk as larger units are normally employed in such areas, but the smaller patrols offered more thorough coverage. Guatemalan sources reported two officers and ten enlisted men killed in the sweep. No sign of the missing Americans was reported.

On April 25, an Embassy officer in a chartered light aircraft, dropped leaflets over the Sumal area. The leaflets, printed in Spanish and the prevalent Indian dialect, Ixchil, had photos of both men. Leaflets were also provided to the zone headquarters for distribution to army patrol leaders and civil guard units.
